DIRECTORS OF BUSINESS MEN'S BODY START PLANS FOR A CELEBRATION OF JULY FOURTH.

COMMITTEES ARE APPOINTED

One Committee Will Wait Upon Council and Ask for an Appropriation to Pay for Fireworks Display--Another Will Plan Program and Make All the Necessary Arrangements--Personnel of the Committees and Other Details.

Escanaba will have a celebration of the Fourth of July.

That much was practically settled Tuesday evening, when at a meeting of the directors of the Escanaba Business Men's association, held in the office of the president, Dr. W. A. Cotton, preliminary steps in that direction were taken after the proposition to have a rousing public celebration of Independence day had been discussed and decided upon in the affirmative.

Now, making arrangements for a public celebration of the Fourth in a city the size of Escanaba is not a simple or easy undertaking. In fact, there is a lot of planning and also a good deal of hard work connected with an enterprise of this sort. Realizing these facts, the directors of the association deemed it best to get busy right away and delegate the task of making the plans and doing the work to committees of hustling business men.

Will See the Council. First there was appointed a committee of four, whose duty it will be to appear before the common council at its meeting next Tuesday evening, set forth the fact that a celebration of the Fourth is to be held and then to kindly request the city fathers to make an appropriation for the purchase of fireworks for a pyrotechnical exhibition with which to wind up the day's doings.

This committee consists of W. R. Smith, Herman Salinsky, J. E. Byrns and T. J. Martin, all good men wherever you put them. That the council will grant the appropriation to be asked for is a foregone conclusion, so the fireworks display may be set down as a sure thing on the program. This committee will also assist wherever it can in the making of arrangements for the celebration.

Large General Committee.

For the planning of the celebration, devising of ways and means and making the arrangements generally a committee of twelve "live wires" was appointed, as follows: T. J. Martin, chairman; John A. Allo, George H. Cobb, Dr. R. E. Hodson, Harry Lohmiller, Victor Blomstrom, William North, Attorney Torval E. Strom, A. G. Crose, Emanuel Olson, County Clerk John A. Semer and George W. McEwen.

This committee will get together at an early date to appoint sub-committees.

REBELS GAIN A LARGE VICTORY

FIND MISSING FOOT OF SLAIN CHILD

(By Associated Press.) Louisville, Ky., June 1.--In continuing the search for evidence in the Alma Kellner case the police today came upon the missing foot of the child in a pile of ashes near the furnace in the basement of the church. This supports the theory that the murderer of the little girl first made an attempt to burn the body of his victim. The little undervest worn by the child was found under the steps leading up to the main entrance of the church. It was stained with blood.

RATE IS TOO HIGH; SERVICE NOT GOOD

Escanaba Business Men's Association to Try to Get Lower Sleeping Car Rate to Chicago and to Have Morning Train Run Through to Ishpeming--Details.

At a meeting of the directors of the Escanaba Business Men's Association Tuesday evening action was taken in endeavor to secure a lower sleeping car rate between Escanaba and Chicago and to have the train on the Chicago & Northwestern railway which arrives here from the south at 8:50 a. m. continue as far as Ishpeming. It appears that the sleeping car rate from here to Chicago is $2.50, while from Powers to Chicago it is but $2. The Escanaba rate is considered too high and a reduction to $2 is desired. To endeavor to secure this reduction a committee of the association members was appointed to wait upon the proper officials and present their request, and arguments if need be, for such reduction.

The same committee will also wait upon the Chicago & Northwestern Railway company's officials and make a plea for running the 8:50 train through to Ishpeming upon the ground that it will be a great accommodation to the traveling public, especially by the people of Escanaba, who have been and are greatly inconvenienced by the recent change made whereby the train going through here from the south at 5:29 a. m. is now sent through at 3:50 a. m.

The members of the committee which will attend to both these matters are: J. E. Byrns, W. R. Smith, J. C. Kirkpatrick, F. M. Shaw, T. M. Judson and R. E. McLean.

The preliminary hearing of E. C. Stult, charged with having kept his saloon open after hours, was begun in Justice Linden's court this afternoon, but was not completed. An adjournment until Saturday was taken after some testimony was taken.

GETTING IN SHAPE TO DO ITS WORK

City Charter Revision Commission Holds Its First Meeting and Effects Organization by Electing John Power President--Committee Named to Block Out Work.

Through the election of Hon. John Power as president and Frank J. Hamacher as president protem and the appointment of a committee to outline and recommend a plan for doing its work, the city charter revision commission at its first meeting in the city hall Tuesday evening organized and prepared itself for the business before it.

The meeting was attended by all of the commissioners except John Richardson, who was out of the city, and was called to order by City Clerk M. J. Lyons, who is also clerk of the commission under the state law relative to such bodies.

Following the roll call, the election of a president was taken up. Mr. Power's name was proposed by Commissioner James Powers and Mr. Hamacher was nominated by Commissioner Charles Ford. On the ballot Mr. Power received five votes and Mr. Hamacher two, the election thus going to Mr. Power. Neither Mr. Power or Mr. Hamacher voted.

Upon taking the chair, President Power expressed his appreciation of the honor conferred upon him and addressed the commission at some length relative to the work and duties which it has been entrusted to perform. He said it was an important task and should be carried out in a faithful and trustworthy manner. He was sure they all realized the importance of the work and said that if they succeeded in doing the work satisfactorily to the citizens of the city, the consciousness of having done so would be quite reward enough.

He warned the commissioners that there are many questions and peculiar features that will present themselves and advised that they should all be approached openly and fairly and treated with the best judgment possible. They should work harmoniously together and sink whatever personal interests they might have. He closed by saying it was up to the commissioners to arrange the details of the work and with an appeal that they all work in harmony, as equals and with an eye single to the welfare of the public.

After a recess and some discussion of the best manner in which the commission should proceed, it was decided to appoint a committee to formulate a plan of procedure and to lay out the work in such a manner as to divide it the most equitably and to accomplish the best results. As members of this committee Commissioner E. F. D. Mead, John Cumminsley and Frank J. Hamacher were appointed. They will present the result of their labors in a report at the next meeting of the commission which is to be held on Thursday evening, June 3.

There was considerable discussion as to the time for holding the meetings of the entire committee. The question was not definitely settled, but in accordance with the suggestion of President Power, such meetings probably will be held in the day time and the fullest publicity given to its proceedings. Most of the work on the charter in detail will be done by the several committees yet to be appointed and this will then be reviewed and acted upon by the committee as a whole. The entire work must be completed within ninety days.

P. L. Utley, superintendent of the Escanaba Traction company, who is spending most of his time now looking after the Nipissing Central Railway at Cobalt, which is also controlled by Escanaba capital and for which he is general manager, is in the city for a few days. Master Mechanic Frank Slater of the Northwestern returned this morning from a short business trip to Chicago.

M. N. SMITH LOSES BROTHER BY DEATH

M. N. Smith left last night for Beaumont, Texas, where he was called by the death of his brother, Frank Smith, whose home was in that city. A telegram was received yesterday afternoon announcing the death and it was a great shock to Mr. Smith.

Frank Smith had been ill with diphtheria for several weeks, but it was supposed that he had recovered and was entirely out of danger. He was a prominent business man of Beaumont and leaves a wife and four children.

HOUSE AND BARN DESTROYED BY FIRE

Through a fire which started shortly before ten o'clock this morning a house and barn owned by Mrs. Ida Peterson were entirely destroyed together with their contents, entailing considerable loss. The scene of the fire was west of Tweedy street, about one-half mile of Butcher's creek and beyond the reach of the fire department.

The firemen after a long run found the house and barn beyond saving, but they were kept busy in preventing buildings owned by August Nehls and M. Hogan from being burned. Sparks were flying about lively and started fires in several places. To extinguish these the firemen were obliged to form a bucket brigade and they made such good use of buckets and the water available that no further damage resulted. It is not known how the fire in Mrs. Peterson's house started, for nobody was there at the time, but it is supposed that it originated in the kitchen or from the chimney.

DR. BREITENBACH AND WIFE LEAVE CITY

Dr. O. C. Breitenbach left last night for Chicago and Mrs. Breitenbach at this morning for Watersmeet, where she will make house-keeping arrangements temporarily until the new home is completed at Bonifas. Dr. Breitenbach has been appointed district surgeon for the Chicago & Northwestern railroad with headquarters at Watersmeet and will take care of all the cases for the company that occur at that end of the line. He expects to have the hospital at Watersmeet under construction in a short time and says that when it is done it will be one of the most complete institutions for its size in the United States. In addition to acting as surgeon for the Chicago & Northwestern Railway company, Dr. Breitenbach will look after the general health conditions of the men in the employ of the Bonifas Lumber company.

ALPHONSE GENDRON DIES OF INJURIES

Resident of Felch Who Was Brought to Escanaba Hospital in a Critical Condition Succumbs to His Hurts--Leaves Widow and Four Children to Mourn Him.

Alphonse Gendron, who was brought from Felch to the Cottage hospital in this city Monday evening in a critical condition, resulting from injuries sustained while working around the sawmill at Felch, died about four o'clock this morning. Gendron met with what proved to be the fatal accident just a week ago today and from the first his recovery was considered almost hopeless. However, as a last resort and in the hope that his life might be saved, he was brought to the hospital, where everything possible was done for him by skilled physicians and trained nurses. All their efforts were in vain however, and the end came at the hour stated.

Mr. Gendron was thirty-eight years old and is survived by a widow and four young children. He had lived at Felch about ten years and was well thought of there as a good and industrious man. His remains were removed from the hospital to J. A. Allo's undertaking rooms, where they will remain until they are taken away tomorrow morning to Shafter, where the funeral will be held Friday morning.

LOCAL ACTORS SCORE HIT AT GLADSTONE

St. Joseph's Dramatic Club Presents "A Tramp's Revenge" Before a Large and Highly Pleased Audience in the Gladstone Opera House--Some Good Specialties.

St. Joseph's Dramatic club of this city scored a hit at the Gladstone opera house Tuesday evening, when it presented "A Tramp's Revenge" as it was produced here some time ago. Notwithstanding the disagreeable weather that prevailed the opera house was filled with a large audience and the efforts of the amateur actors to entertain met with every evidence of appreciation and approval. That the audience was well pleased, there is no manner of doubt, is the report that comes here today.

Besides the presentation of the play a number of special features were introduced and they were all greatly enjoyed. Mrs. William Rameck and Frank Hira sang solos, J. A. Allo rendered some of his inimitable "Barnyard Melodies" and William Wiersert appeared in a clever and amusing Dutch specialty stunt.

The members of St. Joseph's club are highly gratified with their reception in Gladstone and the results of their appearance there. They came home after the performance on the eleven o'clock car, accompanied by about fifteen Escanaba people, who had gone over with them.

COX WORKS FOR SIGNAL TOWER

While on his recent trip to Washington in company with a number of people from this city, J. J. Cox did not forget about his home town in the excitement of meeting the president and dining out with senators and diplomats, but took time to interview Senator William Alden Smith and get his aid in inducing Prof. Willis L. Moore of the weather bureau to arrange for a signal tower here for the display of storm signals.

Since his return to Escanaba, Mr. Cox has made plans of the grounds occupied by the federal building, showing how a tower could be conveniently erected and has forwarded the plans along with a letter recommending that a tower be erected here at once to Senator Smith, who will take the matter up with the proper officials in Washington.

Miss Vida Spaulding will leave tonight for Detroit, where she will spend the greater part of the summer.

OCTAVE LEDUC IS CLEARED OF CHARGE

Octave LeDuc, formerly a resident of this city, but now living on a clearing a few miles from Cornell, had his trial in Justice Linden's court Tuesday afternoon on the charge of maliciously started bush fires which endangered the property of other people and the result was his acquittal. The evidence against LeDuc was extremely weak and even one witness sworn by the state testified in LeDuc's favor.

Testimony in behalf of LeDuc showed that he had started the fires under the instruction of one of the camp foremen of the I. Stephenson company and that he had afterwards done all in his power to prevent the flames from spreading and assuming dangerous proportions. LeDuc's complete exoneration of the charge will be a source of gratification to his friends in this city and elsewhere.

BANNS OF MARRIAGE PUBLISHED SUNDAY

Formal announcement has been made of the approaching marriage of Miss Cecelia Stack, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John K. Stack of this city, and Dr. T. A. Nadeau of Marquette. Publication of the banns was made for the first time last Sunday at St. Joseph's Catholic church in this city and also at St. Joseph's Catholic church in Marquette. The marriage is to be solemnized at St. Joseph's church in this city on June 15.

POLICE MAKE RAID ON NEGRO RESORT

As the result of a police raid last night, George Johnson and Bessie Jackson, colored, were arrested and locked up on a charge of conducting a house of ill repute. At the same time Lou Burns and Maggie Terry were taken into custody and booked on a charge of being inmates of such a resort. Their trials are being held in Justice Linden's court this afternoon. Johnson is also charged with having enticed Frances Jones, a young colored woman, here from Chicago for the purpose of having her become an inmate of the place he is charged with conducting. The Jackson woman has the further charge of selling liquor without a license to answer to.

CARS KNOCKED FROM THE TRACK

This morning train No. 13, due in Escanaba at 3:50 o'clock was late through an accident that occurred in the Marquette yards. At that place the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul road crosses the Northwestern and as No. 13 came in a couple of St. Paul flat cars were upon the crossing. They were easily knocked off the track by the passenger and after some of the wreckage was cleared away the passenger train came along north. No one was hurt and very little damage done.

DON'T GO UP

RAILROADS DO NOT ADVANCE FREIGHT RATES TODAY AS THEY PLANNED DOING.

STOPPED BY JUDGE'S ORDER

On Petition of the Government, Federal Judge Dyer at Hannibal, Mo., Enjoins the Western Roads from Putting into Effect the Proposed General Increase--Railroad Officials are Surprised, But Say Nothing--The Situation.

(By Associated Press.) St. Louis, Mo., June 1.--The restraining order granted last night at Hannibal by Judge Dyer of the United States district court against twenty-five western railroads to prevent them from advancing freight rates was certified to the United States circuit court here today.

Railroad officials here generally refuse to be quoted concerning the suit. While they refuse to express opinions at present, they admit the action of the government was a surprise to them.

The most active forces in opposing the proposed increase in rates are said to be the Missouri Manufacturers' association and the Illinois Manufacturers' association.

It was stated this morning that it was not the purpose of the railroads to increase all rates in this territory today. Only commodity rates were to be advanced, which rates apply almost solely to freight the general public is not directly interested in.

Granting of the Order. Hannibal, Mo., June 1.--United States District Judge Dyer last night granted an order restraining the railroads who are members of the Western Traffic association from putting into effect a general increase in freight rates. The petition which alleges an unlawful combination and a conspiracy, was filed by Frederick N. Judson, special counsel, and Edwin P. Grosvenor, special assistant to Attorney General Wickersham. It charges that the proposed advances were arrived at by the defendants by agreement with each other and without competition and in violation of the Sherman anti-trust act.

WENGER TRIAL GOES OVER FOR TWO WEEKS

Jackson, Mich., June 1.—Because of the absence from the city of John Miner, one of the people's most important witnesses in the case and owing to the fact that Attorney Folgraves for the defense, had been summoned to Milwaukee, Wis., by a telegram announcing his father's serious illness, the trial of Acting Warden John C. Wenger of the Michigan state prison on the charge of perjury, was yesterday adjourned for two weeks.

PINCHOT WILL NOT WAG TONGUE

New York, June 1.—Gifford Pinchot former chief forester of the United States, was ready as ever to discuss forest conservation problems when the liner Arabic, on which he was a passenger, got to her pier from Europe, where Mr. Pinchot met Colonel Roosevelt shortly after the other returned to the European continent from Africa. Mr. Pinchot, however, was uncommunicative when politics was broached and he would not discuss the pending controversy in which he, with Secretary of the Interior Ballinger, plays so prominent a part.

CHAMP CLARK AND THE SPEAKERSHIP

Washington, D. C. June 1.—"I would rather be speaker for two years than United States Senator for eight years," said Representative Champ Clark of Missouri the Democratic leader of the house. "Of course, there is nothing certain but death and taxes, but the democrats will control the next house as sure as you are living, and I think I have a good show for the speakership."

In this way Mr. Clark disposed of the report that he would be a candidate for the senate to succeed Senator Warner, Republican.

CONSPIRATORS SUNK DEWEY DRYDOCK

Manila, June 1.—Examination of the United States drydock Dewey, which is partly submerged at Olongapo in Subig bay, has strengthened the belief of those of the navy who have held that the damage was done deliberately by conspirators against the government. Experts believe that a hole will be found in the bottom of the dock when examination is possible which probably will not be for several weeks.

'OLDEST OFFICE BOY' IN WORLD IS DEAD

Trenton, N. J., June 1.—Samuel Brackett, known as "the oldest office boy in the world," is dead at the age of ninety-one years. He worked seventy-five years with one firm.

When Clark Fisher, founder of the Fisher Anvil Works, was teaching Sunday school in Portland, Me., in 1839, he noticed that one of the pupils was a bright, attractive boy—that was Samuel Brackett. Fisher put Brackett to work in his anvil works as office boy and took the lad with him when the works were moved to Trenton. Though Brackett advanced rapidly and held many positions of trust with the firm, he was always known as "the office boy."

When Brackett was retired several years ago on a pension he was asked to give his idea of how to succeed. He said: "Strict attention to business is the secret of success," and said that was why he did not want any fuss made over his birthday anniversaries, fearing it would take his mind from his office duties.

GREAT LAKES RED BOOK IS PUBLISHED

A book that is always looked for by the marine interests of the lakes is the Great Lakes Red Book, published by the Marine Review of Cleveland. The 1910 edition has just been issued from the press and is up to standard of former publications. It gives a list of over 1,000 vessels on the great lakes with the name of the owner, captain and engineer of each vessel, so adroitly indexed that reference to one vessel gives access to the entire fleet to which it belongs. It would be difficult for the marine trade to get along without this book and nearly everyone connected with the trade to any great extent carries a copy in his pocket.

ROOSEVELT'S NEIGHBORS

The Republican club of the City of New York has chartered the big steamship Albany and will go to quarantine with fully five thousand people aboard. As she is as speedy as the fleet Kaiserin, it is likely that she will proceed to fire island and pick up the liner. The Roosevelt Neighbors' Association of Naussau County, L. I. will take part in the naval demonstration on the steamboat Nassau. The Nassau will go down the bay with flags flying and bands playing, and, it is needless to say, with Colonel Roosevelt's neighbors shouting themselves hoarse. They will wear hats alike, carry the banners that they took to Washington at the time of Roosevelt's inauguration, and wave small American flags.

The Hamilton club of Chicago, 500 enthusiasts from Philadelphia and delegations from Omaha, Washington, Pittsburg, Buffalo and other cities have already engaged boats. The harbor will be policed by cutters in the revenue service and speedy police craft.

SPECTACULAR LAND PARADE

The land parade will be spectacular in the extreme, although the marching will be confined to the mounted police, the police band, the Roosevelt Rough Riders escorting Mr. Roosevelt, and the reception committee in carriages. The demonstration will be remarkable in that instead of marching the

ROOSEVELT WILL BE GREETED BY THE NATION

Home-coming of Former President to Be An Historic Event—Plans For Welcome.

New York, June 1.—As the time approaches for the return of ex-President Roosevelt on Saturday morning, June 18, the plans for his welcome are assuming larger and larger dimensions and that the greeting will be nation wide admits of no doubt. New York will be filled from river to river with citizens and guests, enormous throngs will crowd the line of march during the land parade and other crowds will surround the lower bay during the water demonstration. Distinguished visitors from every state in the Union will be in attendance, delegates from organizations all over the United States will be on hand, and scores of clubs and societies of New York City and vicinity will aid in making the former president's home-coming a historic event.

Chairman R. A. C. Smith of the harbor display committee states that nearly every available sea-going craft has been chartered to meet at quarantine the Kaiserin Auguste Victoria on which Colonel Roosevelt will reach America, and that upwards of 100 boats will join in the procession from quarantine to the city.

Thousands of Notables. The boats, comprising steamships, private yachts and tugs, will be gaily decorated and will all have bands aboard. The 300 members of the citizens reception committee appointed by Mayor Gaynor will go down the bay early in the morning on the revenue cutter Androsoggin and meet the Kaiserin at 9 o'clock as she drops anchor. Immediately Colonel Roosevelt will board the Androsoggin and the procession will start for New York.

Passing the Battery the boats will proceed up the North River, hugging the New Jersey shore, to a stake boat anchored at 59th Street, and then return, reaching the Battery at eleven o'clock. Here, Colonel Roosevelt will set foot on his native soil for the first time in a year and be officially welcomed by Mayor Gaynor, representing the City of New York. This ceremony will take place on a raised stand and the principals will be surrounded by 6,000 distinguished guests, including United States senators and representatives, members of the diplomatic corps at Washington, members of President Taft's cabinet, business men of national reputation, artists, literatures, governors of states, mayors of cities and many other people of note.

Mr. Roosevelt's plans following the reception have not been announced, and it is not known whether he will go to his home at Oyster Bay or remain in the city until the luncheon to be given him Thursday, June 23, by the Roosevelt Rough Riders. Mrs. Roosevelt has been invited by the Daughters of the American Revolution to a luncheon at Sherry's, where if she accepts, she will review the parade from the windows of the famous restaurant.

Proper papers have been served commencing a suit brought by William A. Schaefer of Depere, in circuit court for Winnebago county, Wis., against the Chicago & Northwestern Railway company for damages of $5,500, alleged to have been received at Kaukauna April 16 of this year. Orders for this song are pouring in from all sections of the country. It is going to be the hit of the big Reunion. Already we hear of lodges rehearsing this song and planning to invade Detroit with bands and choruses, prepared to give vent to their enthusiasm and good-fellowship by singing on every occasion this characteristic, tuneful, inspiring song, with its famous chorus—

Anywhere in the U. S. A., is home to me.

Make Batters Hit Bad Ones, Says "Doc" White

White Sox Outlaw Declares Pitching Is Chiefly Study of Batters

By "DOC" WHITE.
(Copyright, 1910, by Joseph B. Bowles.)

Winning games, from the standpoint of a pitcher, consists in making batters hit bad balls, or balls so pitched that it is impossible for the batter to get his full strength behind the swing of his bat.

Perhaps the worst mistake a pitcher makes is in trying to strike out batters, and scores of games are lost each season by this alone. Control, of course, is the vital element in pitching, for no pitcher can hope for much success unless he can pitch the ball close to where he wants it to go. After securing control he is quite as badly off if he does not know where to pitch the ball.

I strive always to keep on equal terms with the batter; that is, to pitch the ball over for strikes often enough to keep "out of the hole," for when a pitcher is compelled to pitch straight balls, and the batter knows he is compelled to put it over, the batter has the pitcher almost at his mercy. Of course a pitcher must study each batter separately, and not only know what the man can do, but what he is likely to do under existing circumstances. Some batters hit well when nothing depends upon it, others are dangerous only when the situation is critical. The pitcher must judge the condition of the batters as to excitement or nervousness. A nervous or excited batter can, when the situation is desperate, be made to hit almost any bad ball that is pitched, and frequently a pitcher can save himself by making such batters hit by balls, provided the pitcher can keep cool and keep thinking all the while.

Young pitchers ought to study pitching to the corners of the plate, for such pitching wins. Modern pitching is, I think, more a psychological study than a physical exercise, and curves and speed, while necessary, are not the chief elements in success. The real science of modern pitching lies in "mixing them up" and never pitching twice alike to the same batter. I have a theory that much of the study of batters is wasted study. Some pitchers put it down as a hard and fast rule that a certain batter cannot hit a certain kind of a ball. Then they pitch that kind steadily. Soon the batter's weakness is cured and he hits hard. Mixing them up and keeping the batter guessing all the time what is coming pays much better. No batter can hit hard and consistently on mixed-up pitching, for he always is off balance when he hits.

I try to get batters to hit balls when they are not prepared, and sometimes it seems to me they are not as successful in hitting balls pitched exactly where they like best to hit them than on other kinds. They are not expecting the ball to be pitched there, and are tempted into hitting late.

Pitching, however, is chiefly the study of batters. No one can tell a young pitcher how he should pitch. He can learn the curves, but the rest he must have naturally, or work out by hard study and practice.

May Get Back to Majors.

Two pitchers who made a failure of their stay with the National last season are very apt to be found in fast company next year. They are Tom Hughes and Jesse Tannehill, both of whom are pitching as well in the American association for Joe Cantillon as they ever did in their careers. Clubs which are weak in pitchers will not hesitate to give these veterans another chance if they show good form all season, for they stand a better chance of coming back than some of the youngsters do of making good in fast company.

COMMON INCIDENT IN A RAILWAY COACH

Not Unusual Method of One Woman, in Trying to Keep Her Children Under Restraint While Making a Tire-some Journey—Incident Has a Moral—The Story

On a combination, freight and passenger train in an upper peninsula county a few days ago rode a woman and two children; one a girl about three, the other a boy of perhaps five. The train was slow and the trip tedious; the passengers were tired and peevish, but none suffered more than the two little ones, who were unused to sitting still. Both were active, as children of that age ought to be, and the mother was having anything but a pleasant time of it.

But listen to the following, as it was seen and heard by the writer, who sat a few seats in the rear:

The boy wiggles out of the seat and starts to walk down the aisle.

"Freddy, you come back here, or the conductor will cut your ears. See, here he comes now."

The writer looked for the man of brass buttons, presumably carrying an immense pair of shears, or a bovine knife or some other terrible instrument, but he was not to be seen.

Freddy, however, comes back, and does his best to sit still for a half minute.

"The nMary starts to climb over the back of the seat.

"Mary, you sit down, or the engine will bump into the cars and knock you clean out of the window."

At the time the engine was on a siding in plain view from the car window.

Freddie starts to investigate the box where the coal for the stove was kept.

"Now, Freddie, you get away from there right off. There's a bogie man in there, and he'll get you quicker than scat. Quick."

Thus it went until the woman and children arrived at their destination, the youngsters being kept in restraint by a marvelous variety of threats of various dire calamities, unless they sat still in their seats. For all this, the children did not appear to be particularly frightened and it could not even be said that they minded well.

There isn't supposed to be any moral to this incident, but the writer could not but ruminate that it was little wonder that children learned to tell falsehoods, when their parents set them such an example.

PINCH THAT MADE A PRESIDENT

Senator Platt's Own Story of Himself and Roosevelt.

SECRETS OF 1900 REVEALED.

Declared in Autobiography That Odd Incident Led to the Presidency—"Instead of Shoving the Governor," He Wrote, "I Pinned Guiltily to Kicking Him Upstairs."

If Frank H. Platt, son of the late United States Senator Thomas C. Platt, had not pinched Theodore Roosevelt on the leg just at the critical moment in a conference of the New York delegation at the Republican national convention in Philadelphia in 1900 Mr. Roosevelt, then governor of New York, would not have been president of the United States, succeeding Mr. McKinley.

"Instead of 'shoving' Roosevelt I must plead guilty to the charge of 'kicking him upstairs.' I believe Roosevelt himself would convict me of this."

So wrote Senator Platt in his autobiography, of which part is published in the June number of McClure's Magazine. The senator, the Republican boss of New York state, dealt with two nominations of Theodore Roosevelt—that for governor of New York state and that for vice president in the Republican national convention of 1900 in Philadelphia. Senator Platt sought to answer the critics who had asserted that in nominating Mr. Roosevelt for vice president Platt sought to send him to the political mortuary chamber in which vice presidents have reposed.

What a Pinch Did.

Senator Platt wrote: "A pinch may be said to have made Roosevelt president, for had he executed the threat of declining (the nomination for vice president) and had it been accepted he would never have reached the White House."

Again: "I may be pardoned if I remind my readers that but for my insistence upon his nomination for the vice presidency Roosevelt certainly would not have succeeded McKinley in 1901, and perhaps he never would have been president of the United States."

As to that "pinch," Senator Platt thus described what happened in Philadelphia before the convention:

Excited at Plan.

"Governor Roosevelt was in his room, protesting to everybody that he would, if nominated for vice president, arise in the convention and unequivocally decline. I heard about this and asked my son Frank to go to him and say that he would be nominated, that he could not stop that, and I wanted his promise that if he were made McKinley's associate he would run. Roosevelt and my son soon came to my rooms. The governor was in a state of rare excitement even for him."

"I shall go to the New York caucus and tell the delegates that I shall, if nominated for vice president, arise in the convention and decline. I can serve you, Senator Platt, far better as governor than as vice president," said Roosevelt pugnaciously.

"But you cannot be renominated for governor, and you are going to be nominated for vice president," was my report.

"I cannot be renominated?" queried Roosevelt.

"No; your successor is in this room," said I, pointing to Chairman Odell. "Now, I want your promise that if you are endorsed by the New York caucus you will not refuse and that if you are nominated by the convention you will run," I added.

"Roosevelt showed his teeth, paced up and down the room and chafed as a horse does under a tight rein and curbed bit.

Gave Word Not to Decline. "Well, Senator Platt," finally returned Roosevelt reluctantly, "I will pledge myself not to decline formally the New York caucus endorsement. But I shall certainly urge the caucus to name another."

"And remember that I shall pinch you if I see any signs of your getting up and declining," put in my son.

"All right; you may pinch me as hard as you like," answered Roosevelt as he and Frank hurried to the caucus of the New York delegation then in progress on the main floor of the Hotel Walton.

"Senator Depew was presiding, and at length Mr. Roosevelt arose and addressed him. He reiterated in most emphatic terms his statement that he was not a candidate for the vice presidency and his associates from New York must respect his wishes and neither work among the delegates to bring about his nomination nor present his name to the convention for that office.

"Just as Dr. Albert Shaw, Frederick W. Hollis, Nicholas Murray Butler and others of Roosevelt's self constituted friends clustered about him and whispered audibly, 'Say you'll decline if nominated, governor,' my son pinched Roosevelt in the leg and said, 'Remember your contract with the senator, governor.'

"Roosevelt kept faith. He ignored the solicitations of Shaw and the others and sat down."

H. W. LONG, Health Officer.

Yes, She Is a Milkmaid, Fair and—

To milk a cow in Denmark must be somewhat of an undertaking, according to all reports. The cows are gentle enough, if one may judge by the picture of the cow's head in this cut, but the milkmaids are not of the "Where are you going my pretty maid?" style known to popular verse in the United States. When a woman goes to milk a cow in Norway she does not take any chance of having skirts spoiled by an overturned bucket, nor does she borrow father's, husband's or brother's clothing. She has an outfit of her own that fits her snugly. And then this Norway milkmaid posed for her picture little thinking that it would come to the United States to be used by suffragists as a practical argument for up to date women's costumes.

UPPER PENINSULA DEATH RATE LESS THAN STATE

And the Number of Deaths in the State in April is 329 Less Than in March.

According to the Michigan Monthly Bulletin of Vital Statistics, there were 3,428 deaths reported to the department of state as having occurred during the month of April. This number corresponds to an annual death rate of 15.2 per 1,000 estimated population. The number noted is exclusive of 192 stillbirths returned on the certificates of death. For the state as a whole the month of April was especially favorable as to the number of deaths, there being 329 deaths less in April than for the month of March.

The rate in the upper peninsula was a fraction under three per cent lower than the estimated rate in the entire state. The percentage of deaths of tuberculosis was larger than that from any other cause. Twenty-one in the upper peninsula were claimed by this disease. Of this number Delta county furnished three. One of the three was from Escanaba.

By ages there were 581 deaths of infants under one year of age; 195 deaths of children aged 1 to 4 years, both inclusive; and 1,003 deaths of elderly persons aged 65 years and over.

Principal Death Causes.

Important causes of death were as follows: Pulmonary Tuberculosis, 208; other forms of tuberculosis, 32; typhoid fever, 27; diphtheria and croup, 27; scarlet fever, 30; measles, 28; whooping cough, 39; pneumonia and bronchopneumonia, 304; diarrhea, enteritis, under two years of age, 43; meningitis, 52; influenza, 91; cancer, 175; violence, 175.

As compared with the month immediately preceding there was a decided decrease in the number of deaths reported from all important causes with the exception of those from measles, whooping cough, cancer and violence.

Smallpox was responsible for twelve deaths in the city of Bay City during the month of April.

Relative to Births.

There were 4,583 certificates of birth returned to the department as having occurred during the month of April. This was exclusive of 163 stillbirths returned as births, but which are no longer included in the total number of births. The number of births returned corresponds to an annual birth rate of 20.4 per 1,000 of estimated population. The number returned for April is 692 less than the number returned for March.

The returns received represent a reporting population of 2,493,562 persons, according to the state census of 1904. This is 98.55 per cent of the total possible reporting population and is a slight decrease as compared with March.

COMMON HOUSEFLY IS NATIONAL PEST

If the eagle is the national bird the common housefly is the national pest. Indeed, it has come to such a national reputation that every board of health has been compelled to take note of it.

A few years ago flies were looked upon as a necessary evil. Now it has been found out. Every scientist, every physician has taken a swat at the fly. If it were not for the fact that they breed and multiply by the million they would have been annihilated long ago. A scientist has computed that a single fly will, in a year, produce 8,154,000,000 other flies. No longer can there be any doubt that the fly carries germs of disease.

Frances and The Coon Kitty.

Frances couldn't help feeling envious as she watched Fluffie playing in the garden among the nasturtiums and the lilies, now romping out over the lawn after grasshoppers and now darting up the pear tree in some wild, unreasonable hope of catching a bird.

"It must be fun to be you, Miss Fluff," mused Frances as she drowsily settled down in a hammock on the wide veranda. "How does one get to be a coon kitten anyway? I suppose it's necessary to be born in Maine, where they say all the coon cats come from."

"Well, it is worth being born in Maine, I think, to have such lovely long fur or duff and a big bushy tail like a plume and six or seven toes on each foot and a cute little coon face with great, innocent eyes, so that nobody who looks in them ever blames you for anything you do. Oh, I just wish I was a coon kitty!"

"Me?" mewed Fluffie as she jumped daintily up on the veranda and purred while she looked up inquiringly at Frances.

And then that little cat did a most surprising thing. She jumped into the hammock and whispered in Frances' ear as plainly as any human ever could:

"Come on and be a cat! It's easy. All you have to do is to think you are a pussy and run on all fours, and then you'll soon be catching mice. Just watch me and then try it."

Here Fluffie jumped down off the veranda and disappeared.

Frances rubbed her eyes and then was astonished to notice for the first time she had five little claws on each hand and they were covered with soft fur.

Come to look, she was furry all over, just like Fluffie, and her body was so light that it seemed as if she could easily fly.

"I guess I'll try a humming bird," she said to herself, with eager delight. So she crouched on all fours and sprang at one that was flitting about the honeysuckle.

She failed to get the humming bird, however, because there was a spray of Crimson Rambler roses in the way, which threw her down and scratched her. Then she lay in wait awhile for a ground mole which was at work digging a subway under the garden walk. But Mr. G. Mole was very shy, and little Frances Pussy grew tired of waiting for him.

Being a cat wasn't so much fun after all, thought Frances, as a big yellow dog leaped over the fence and made for her.

She made a dash for the kitchen door. It was closed. But fortunately Bridget happened along at that moment and chased Frances into the house with a broomstick.

Frances sneaked into the pantry, for she was now desperately hungry and thirsty and felt as weak as a cat.

Nothing in sight to eat or drink! She mewed aloud, but nobody answered.

So she sprang up on a shelf, where a small cream jug looked promising. In her guilty haste she knocked it over.

"Aha, now you've done it!" cried black Sambo, the short haired cat, peering in through the mosquito bar.

"It's bad luck to upset a cream jug. Something terrible is sure to happen to you, so here's where I skiddoo!" And he vanished.

"Fraid cat!" Frances called after him in scorn.

But as she turned her tail brushed a large sheet of sticky fly paper that was artfully spread out on the shelf.

Of course the fluffy tail stuck. SHE KNOCKED IT OVER to the paper. She put out a paw to pull it off, and the paw stuck too. Then she bit and scratched and struggled fruitlessly, and the more she struggled the worse she got tangled up in the horrid mass of gum, glue and paper.

It was a most awful fix to be in! Would it help come? Frances was becoming exhausted, and her cries grew fainter and fainter.

Then she fell out of the hammock and woke up. Fluffie stood staring at her, and mamma came to the door.

"Why, Frances?" she exclaimed. "The idea of your going to sleep and falling out of the hammock!"

But Frances still insisted that she wasn't asleep, but that she was actually changed into a cat for a little while.

Frances will never again wish to be a coon cat or any other kind of cat, but is contented to remain what she is—mamma's pet girl.—New York World.

Forget your prejudice for just one baking

Lay aside your favorite baking powder for just one. Forget for a day that it is "the kind mother used." Dispense with the idea that there is "nothing else just as good." It may have served you admirably for years. But just remember, other things have improved since grandmother's time. So why not baking powder?

Get from your grocer today a can of Calumet Baking Powder. Bake a batch of biscuits, a cake or your favorite pastry. If the baking does not come out just as good, or better, than usual. If it is not as light, sweet and delicious. If it does not prove up to your high standard in every respect, providing of course you have in every other way exercised your usual methods, take the can of Calumet back to the grocer and get your money. This is our first step in making friends for Calumet. The continued good results, the purity, the economy in both cost and use will hold them.

Our Daily Short Story

A KISS

He Was Forgiven Only Because She Was Equally Culpable.

By F. TOWNSEND SMITH.

Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.

The night was dark as Erebus. It rained, the wind blew, and the streets were flooded.

There are two suburban towns—Bloomington and Rosedale—near the city in which I have an office, my residence being in one of these towns. They are five miles apart and were at the time of which I write connected by an execrable road. I live in Rosedale, but on this wild night I was in Bloomington attending a social gathering. I telephoned for a cab, but a reply came over the wire that not a conveyance was to be had.

Turning up my trousers, buttoning my coat and opening my umbrella, I sallied forth, trusting that I might pick up some conveyance to hire.

I found nothing in the way of a vehicle on the streets and, reaching the town limits, left street lamps behind me, pushing on into the darkness. I had walked or waded perhaps half a mile when, seeing something dark ahead of me close by the sidewalk, I approached it curiously. What was my surprise to find a carriage. This I knew rather by feeling than sight. I groped my way to its front, and there were two horses standing, with their heads lowered, patiently enduring the rain. I took my matchbox from my pocket and, drawing forth a match—it was the only one left—struck it. It was extinguished by the wind, but not before I had caught a glimpse of a coachman in waterproofs on the box, leaning back against the body of the carriage fast asleep.

I shouted to him, then shook him. It was some time before I aroused him and then could get nothing out of him as to how he came to be in such a singular position. Indeed, he didn't seem to know. He asked if I was the man who had been beside him awhile ago. I asked him for what point he had been headed when he had dropped off to sleep, and he said Rosedale. "Very well," I replied, "start up your horses and we'll go there."

I thought it better for me to remain beside him till he became fully awakened, fearing he would fall off the box. I stayed by him till he had gone perhaps a mile, when he seemed in better condition, and, since I was getting drenched, I concluded to get inside the carriage. I directed him to pull up and, dismounting from my perch, found the handle of the door and in another moment was sitting on the rear seat.

There was a curious odor inside which I had smelled before, but could not remember what it was. The window was closed, and I opened it. I thought I would smoke, but remembered that I had used my last match. The jolting of the carriage was such that I braced myself in my corner. Dropping my hand beside me, it lighted on some delicate fabric like silk. I was astonished, but had cause for more astonishment when in another moment, the carriage passing over a hollow place in the road, some one was thrown up against my shoulder.

Instinctively I put out my hands for protection and encountered a woman. I was seized with a desire to get out of the carriage despite the storm and without waiting for it to stop. I called to the driver, who drew up, and I asked him if he knew who was in his carriage. He seemed still dazed, at any rate so far as memory goes, and said that he didn't know that there was any one inside. Then he said he had started with a lady, but he didn't know whether she had left him or not.

There was silence for a moment, and I could hear the person beside me breathing. I judged that we were midway between Bloomington and Rosedale. We might as well go on as go back. There were few houses on the way, and the people in them were all abed. I told the driver to drive as fast as the road would admit. There was some one in the carriage who might need medical attention.

He whipped up his horses, and the jolting was terrible. It occurred to me that it would awaken any one with a spark of life. To facilitate matters I let down the other window so as to give plenty of air. Within ten minutes I had evidence that my companion was moving voluntarily; then a gasp.

"Where am I? What is it?" "Don't be frightened," I said. "Has he gone?" "Who?" "The man who got in beside me and held a cloth against my face."

"Oh! That's the explanation, is it?" "My brooch—it is gone!" "Anything else missing?" "I had nothing else with me. But how did you come to be here?"

All this was spoken in a frightened voice, and I knew that she was drawing away from me. I told her what she wished to know. Then she enlightened me still further. She said that while passing out of Bloomington the carriage had stopped, and she heard a man talking with the driver. Then the man got up on the box. She saw the flare of a match, and she smelt tobacco smoke. There was an odor to the smoke that made her feel ill. Presently the carriage stopped.

and the man who sat up beside the driver descended from the box and got into the carriage. Frightened, she ordered him out, but he forced a cloth over her mouth and nose, and that was all she remembered.

It was all planned to me now. A robber had persuaded the coachman to let him ride, had given him a drugged cigar and had then administered ether or chloroform to the lady inside and robbed her. This explained her asking if I was the man who had been beside her.

The lady on coming to herself was in a much better condition than the coachman. The drug used in his case had undoubtedly been different from that used on her.

"I think you must be a gentleman," she said. "Judging from the tone of your voice."

"I return the compliment. Your voice is not only that of a lady, but is very soft and sweet."

"It seems to me that I have heard yours before," she said after a pause. "I was going to say the same of yours."

"We may be acquainted."

"Quite possibly."

"Who are you?"

By this time it struck me that this was quite an adventure. I was not disposed to spoil it by giving up my identity too soon. I gave a fictitious name.

"I'm disappointed," she said. "I was sure I knew you, and I would have felt so relieved if you had turned out to be one of my friends."

"I assure you of my protection. But you have not given me your own name."

"That is not necessary since I have learned that we are not acquainted. I wish I could see you. Have you no way of making a light?"

"I had only one match, and I have used that. I do not need to see you to know that you are young and beautiful."

"I am young, but a fright. I am pitted with smallpox scars. I suppose I needn't ask you if you are handsome?"

"I am considered the homeliest man in my set."

She had so far recovered her equanimity to give a little laugh.

"Do you live hereabouts?" she asked.

"Yes, in Rosedale. I have been to a musicale in Bloomington."

"And I have been to a dance there."

"At the Springers?"

"Yes. Do you know them?"

"I do. I was invited to their dance, but had previously accepted an invitation at the Deerings."

"We know the same people, then."

"And you are reassured?"

"Certainly."

"And don't feel any compunction at riding in pitch darkness with a strange gentleman?"

"None whatever, since I am sure he is a gentleman."

"You can trust me. I have recently become engaged."

"Oh, then I'm safe indeed!"

This was said in a tone that made me take notice. It did not seem to me that the lady cared especially about being so safe. I permitted my hand to fall upon hers. She allowed it to remain there.

"You are not the person you claim to be at all," she said. "I didn't recognize you at first, but I have done so since."

"Indeed?"

"And I question if you are one of the goody-goody kind."

"I don't know that I am."

"Are you really engaged?"

"I certainly am."

She leaned very close against me, and I felt her warm breath on my cheek. I was sure that, knowing me, she was intending to play some prank on me, get me to kiss her and tell my fiancée, or something like that. I steeled myself against her blandishments. I was really more interested in discovering who she was than anything else.

LIFEBOATS MAY BE CARRIED UNLASHED

It is probable that as a result of the sinking of the steamer Goodyear and one loss of life in that disaster, radical measures will be taken so that access of life boats and rafts may be more readily secured on big steamers. Suggestions have been advanced that life boats be unlashered except in very rough weather or that in foggy weather they be made ready for instant use. The difficulty in unlashering life boats is often responsible for the appalling loss of life in marine disasters, for if the boats were ready for instant use, men would often have time to get away before a boat sinks and to get beyond the zone of suction which so often draws them down.

MRS. HOWE'S NEW PORTRAIT.

Painted by Venerable Author's Son-in-law John Elliott. When seen recently at her home in Boston, Julia Ward Howe, on the threshold of her ninety-second year, the "grand old woman," famous as the author of the "Battle Hymn of the Republic" and many books and essays, talked about herself and a portrait of her by her son-in-law, John Elliott. "This likeness is as I want to be known to my many friends, whom I have not been able to see for some time," she said, "and I want it to be considered official." An interesting incident of the venerable author's birthday, the hanging of her picture in the New Art museum in Boston by her daughter, Mrs. Maud Howe Elliott, wife of John Elliott, the artist, brought this comment from Mrs. Elliott, who said: "It is not the picture of Julia Ward Howe, the public woman, but a likeness of my mother. The work was done in the morning, just after we had breakfasted and were in the library."

"Taps." (Tribute to America's civil war veterans.) They are marching with a halting step— A halting step and slow— And many in those blue-clad ranks Have hair as white as snow; Their youth lies on the battlefields Of forty years ago.

The faded, tattered flags they bear, All torn by shot and shell, Are sacred emblems of the dead Who loved their country well. How great their love and sacrifice No human tongue may tell.

Those serried ranks are thinning fast That once with martial tread The knapsack and the musket bore Where Grant and Sherman led. Their sleep is sound and peaceful In the bivouac of the dead.

No more the reveille at dawn Shall rouse them from their sleep; No more shall wives and sisters mourn; No more shall mothers weep. Their names upon the roll of fame Time's hand has graven deep.

And some lie on those hard fought fields Where now the blue and gray Clasp hands across the battle lines Their blood has washed away. Where once the tide of battle flowed Their children's children play.

The passing years speed swiftly, And silence round them wraps, And to their listening ears there comes No sweeter song, perhaps, Than when the battered bugle sounds Again the old call—"Taps!"

NO LACK OF GOOD SHOWS NOT IN THE "TRUST"

Local Manager Gets List of Attractions That Will Play in Independent Theatres.

Manager P. M. Peterson of the opera house in Escanaba which bears his name has just received a letter from Richard Lambert, head of the press department of the "anti-trust" theater owners' association, giving a list of attractions which will be offered independently the coming season. This letter is being sent out to counteract the effect of similar letters recently sent out by Klaw & Erlanger, which were intended to convey the impression that those theaters that had determined upon the "open door" policy were to be left out in the cold.

Mr. Lambert writes that the following will be supplied by such producers as the Messrs. Schubert, William A. Brady, Lieber & Co., Daniel V. Arthur, F. C. Whitney, John P. Stocum, Mort Singer and others. In addition to this list will follow very soon a number of leading stars and plays, which, for certain reasons, cannot now be made public, but which will surely be seen in independent theaters. Mr. Lambert promises the "open door" theaters among which that of Escanaba is now included, "a vastly better line of amusement than they have ever had."

The list of independent attractions for 1910-11 is as follows:

- List of Attractions.
- Marie Dressler—"Thillie's Night-mare."
- Blanche Ring—"The Yankee Girl."
- Mary Manning—"A Man's World."

CLEVELAND TUGMEN OUT ON STRIKE

Cleveland, Ohio, June 1.—Demanding a 12-hour working day and holidays off, members of the Great Lakes Towing company quit work yesterday. As a result lake navigation out of Cleveland harbor is at a standstill and freight steamers are tied up. The wage question does not enter into the controversy. Local tugmen say the walkout will become general along the great lakes.

NEVER ANY MRS. BURTON.

Ohio Senator Puts Himself Out of Marrying Class. Strictly speaking, Senator Theodore E. Burton of Ohio may not be a woman hater, but—

Preceding a recent function in Washington the society editor of a Washington paper determined to describe the town of all the senators' wives present.

"Mr. Senator," she said as she accosted the Ohio statesman, "will you be kind enough to tell me what sort of gown Mrs. Burton will wear?"

Taking his eyeglasses from his pocket and putting them carefully upon his nose, the senator fixed the girl with a glance that nailed her to the mast and frigidly replied: "Madam, there is no Mrs. Burton, and if I have anything to say about it there never will be."

J. W. Folk Boom For Presidency.

At a dinner to be given in St. Louis on June 2 the friends of Joseph W. Folk will launch his campaign for the Democratic nomination for the presidency in 1912. The former governor of Missouri will not ask the Democracy of the country to place him at the head of the party in the national campaign, but his friends in St. Louis and throughout the state will carry on a fight to that end with his consent. This campaign will be carried on irrespective of all efforts that may be made to get Folk into the race for the senatorship.

Fearon repeatedly told the court during his trial that he had not destroyed the papers, but was not able to tell what he had done with them. On this new evidence a move will be made for his release.

Mrs. Henderson was seriously burned in her heroic exploit.

IMPRISONED IN HIS SHOW WINDOW

Fort Wayne, Ind., June 1.—Edward Ofenloch, a shoe merchant was in the show window of his store from six to seven o'clock the other night, gesticulating wildly to passersby. Several women got indignant, thinking the merchant was trying to flirt with them. Men laughed at his antics, believing he was merely trying to advertise his place. When the police arrived it was found that he was locked in his show window and could not get out. Entrance to the store was forced from the rear and the perspiring merchant was released.

She will make her last trip this afternoon and will then be tied up until the Escanaba and Gladstone Transportation company decides what to do with her. NEW YORK SENDS WIRELESS MESSAGE

Tuesday afternoon, while the local wireless operator was making an effort to get Chicago and deliver the message addressed by Mayor Greenboot to Mayor Busse, the big wireless station in New York came in on the line and the manager of that office said to give his regards to the mayor of Escanaba and wish him a prosperous and happy administration.

Many reports were also received last night from the station at Cape Cod. Most of the messages had to do with military and naval work and much was in code. It is expected that within a few days the local company will accept business for Chicago. The rate from Escanaba to Chicago has not been made yet, but will probably be somewhat less than the regular telegraph rate.

lines and many smaller ones, are temporarily restrained from making general advances in freight rates today, the day scheduled in their filing of the tariffs with the interstate commerce commission. Generally speaking, the lines are the only ones for the transportation of freight and passenger traffic for the states of Missouri, Iowa, Minnesota, Michigan, Wisconsin, Illinois, Indiana and Tennessee. They furnish the only means of communication by railroad between the inhabitants of the states.

The filing of last night's bill is the result of the representations of the shippers of the Middle West to the attorney general at Washington. Monday's memorial filed with Mr. Wickensham by the Omaha committee of shippers made a particular impression on the attorney general, and yesterday after conferring with President Taft, he directed that Judge Dyer here be asked to issue a restraining order. The shippers declared the rates unjust.

Had the petition for a restraining order been denied, it was learned last night, the government contemplated action under the general provision of the Sherman law alleging a combination in restraint of trade. The procedure is declared an unusual one, but it is declared that this course was arrived at as the best, as the rates complained of, had not the restraining order been granted, would have gone into effect today.
