CHARTER REVISION COMMISSIONERS DECIDE AGAINST COMMISSION FORM OF GOVERNMENT

ESCANABA NOT READY FOR IT

Nine of the Ten Members Vote in Favor of Resolution Declining to Submit Charter of That Kind to the Citizens of the City—Reasons for Doing So Are Detailed in the Resolution—Other Business Transacted at Meeting

The revised charter that is to be submitted to the citizens of Escanaba for their approval or rejection will not provide for a commission form of municipal government. That question was decisively settled last evening when the charter commission by a unanimous vote of the nine commissioners present when the vote was taken adopted a report and resolution submitted by the commission on public affairs declaring that the commission would decline to adopt and submit for approval the commission form of municipal government.

This action of the commissioners means that the present form of charter will be followed in framing the new charter. At the time the vote on the resolution was taken, Commissioner F. D. Wood was not present. When he came in later the action of the commission on the resolution was explained to him and he stated that he could not go upon record as opposing the municipal form of government.

In order to give the citizens of Escanaba a thorough understanding of the reasons which actuated the commission in taking adverse action upon the proposition to formulate a charter providing for that form of government, the resolution of the committee, which was adopted as noted, is here reproduced entire. It reads as follows:

The Committee's Resolution. Whereas, this commission after careful investigation and conclusion that the commission form of municipal government as now in use in several of the cities of the country, including Galveston, Tex., and New Orleans, La., is not in the judgment of the commissioners adapted to the conditions existing in Escanaba, or to

BAND TO HAVE BUSY DAY ON THE FOURTH

For the strenuous day's work that lies before it on the Fourth of July, Escanaba City band will be strengthened by the addition of six musicians from the outside. The band is to play in the Fourth of July parade in the forenoon and in the afternoon will play at a picnic that is to be held under its auspices at Greenwood. Then in the evening the band will play at a grand Fourth of July ball which is to be held in Peterson's hall. Guess all this will keep the musicians of that organization busy enough for one day.

JUNE A GOOD MONTH FOR WEDDING BELLS

June was a good month for weddings in Escanaba, but not quite so good as June of last year. During the month just closed there were thirty-two marriage licenses issued from the office of County Clerk John A. Thayer, whereas in June of last year there were thirty-four such permits issued. June and September are generally considered the banner months for marriages.

RELATIVES OF DEAD MAN NOT LOCATED

All efforts made by Chief of Police Iverson and his men have failed to reveal the existence in this city of any relatives of David Jordan, who died a few days ago at St. Mary's, Idaho. According to a dispatch received here announcing Jordan's death at St. Mary's, the dead man had a son working in a machine shop in Escanaba, but diligent enquiries have not availed to locate him. It is felt that if the police authorities of St. Mary's were in error in supposing that the dead man belonged to Escanaba or that he had relatives here.

POPULAR EXCURSION IS TO BE REPEATED

Another excursion to Washington Island has been arranged by the management of the steamer Maywood. The outing of last Sunday at that popular resort met with such favor and so many demands for a "repeat" that it has been decided to have a similar excursion next Sunday. The Maywood will leave the Stephenson dock here at 9:30 o'clock in the forenoon and will arrive at the island about two hours later. On the return trip the Maywood will leave the island at 4:30 o'clock and reach here about 6:30.

DECLARES IT WAS NOT A "SQUARE DEAL"

Probate Judge Judd Yelland Has Something to Say Regarding the Resolution Affecting Chase S. Osborn Purporting to Have Been Passed by the Grangers at Fayette.

Editor The Mirror:—I have read with a great deal of interest the article in your Wednesday's issue entitled "OPPOSE OSBORN," containing a resolution purporting to have been passed and adopted by the Grangers of this county. When the facts are known it is simply a myth and has no bearing upon the different candidates for governor and will have no influence whatever in the result on primary day in September next.

This resolution was fathered and pushed through by the editor of The Escanaba Journal for political purposes only. It would make no difference what the different candidates stood for, the resolution would have been adopted by those who signed it just the same. None of the Grangers to speak of, outside of those who signed it, knew about the passing of such a resolution. It was not talked among the Grangers generally and does not represent their sentiments or indicate how they will vote.

I have no criticism to make about any person supporting any candidate he desires to. I am trying to give Mr. Osborn a square deal and I simply make this statement to let people know that the passing of that resolution was not based upon good faith, only so far as it might tend to hurt the candidacy of Mr. Osborn. For three or four men to pass and sign a resolution binding several hundred voters without giving them any voice in the matter is all that is necessary to say about the matter.

I think the people fully understand the situation and that is all that the friends of Mr. Osborn desire. The large majority of the farmers of Delta county are in favor of Mr. Osborn. There is not the least doubt about that. Mr. Osborn would not get his votes in the country; what he gets in this county he will get largely from Escanaba city. Mr. Musselman has no more chance to be nominated for governor next September than some person who is not a candidate.

Public sentiment is becoming crystallized on this issue, and in the southern peninsula it is a contest between Mr. Osborn and Mr. Kelley. The voters who vote for Mr. Musselman will not assist in nominating him but it will simply be assisting Mr. Kelley. The only reason given for opposing Mr. Osborn in the assumed resolution is the tonnage tax. It would take too much space to discuss that question. Such a tax is not based on justice or common sense and there is no danger of such a law ever being enacted in Michigan. If such a law were enacted the courts would declare it unconstitutional, because our constitution does not provide for such a scheme of taxation.

NEVER SO HOT

THAT IS TO SAY THE WEATHER TODAY WAS THE WARMEST EVER OFFICIALLY RECORDED HERE

CLIMBS UP TO HUNDRED DEGREES

Once Before the Temperature Attained a Maximum of Four Degrees Lower Than That—It Does Not Stay at That High Point and Drops Back to 90, Which is Quite Hot Enough to Convince People That Summer is Here.

Just mark it down in your little book that today was the hottest period, for a time at least, in the history of Escanaba, so far as official records show. Once before this date the temperature attained a maximum of 96 degrees—that was in 1890. Today, however, at a little before two o'clock the very highest point (100 degrees) was reached and it is very probable that not again for many years will Escanaba experience a temperature of an even hundred degrees, particularly so early in the summer as the first day of July.

Does Make a Difference. Yesterday some of the citizens of Escanaba, expressed it as their opinion that after the thermometer registered 95 degrees it did not make much difference whether it went up two or three degrees or not, but this afternoon, when 100 degrees were registered officially at the weather bureau, it changed the minds of those who had made the rash statement.

On the streets and where the sun had some show of shining on them thermometers not in so aristocratic a class as the instrument used at the federal weather bureau registered as high as 105.

Takes a Sudden Drop. It did not remain at 100 very long, however, and with a change in the direction of the wind, the mercury dropped rapidly until at two o'clock it was but 90 degrees. A difference of ten degrees was recorded in about twenty minutes.

Yesterday Green Bay had a temperature of 100 degrees and the people living in this city were quite free in saying that it would not get that hot in Escanaba.

LAI D TO REST IN LAKEVIEW CEMETERY

The funeral of the late Mrs. Nels Olson, who passed away at the family home in Ford River township last Tuesday afternoon after a prolonged illness, was held from the home at two o'clock this afternoon and was largely attended by people of the township to whom the deceased was well known and respected. Rev. C. A. Lund, pastor of the Swedish Lutheran church in this city, conducted the services and the remains were brought here and given burial in Lakeview cemetery.

OUTSIDE WEDDING OF LOCAL INTEREST

At Marinette Thursday there was solemnized a wedding in which some Escanaba people have a friendly interest because of personal acquaintance with the principals. The wedding was that of Miss Jessie Eunice Ransom Sampson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Sampson of Marinette, and Albert Carl Seidel, a Menominee newspaper man. It was solemnized at 8:30 o'clock a. m. in Our Lady of Lourdes church.

MANY FLOATS TO BE IN FOURTH PARADE

Nearly Two Score of Escanaba's Business Houses Will Be Represented if Promises Made to Committee are Kept—List of Those to Have Floats in Line.

One of the great features of the big Fourth of July parade in Escanaba will be the number of floats in line. Chairman John A. Allo and the members of the parade committee have received the promises of nearly two score business houses that they will have floats in the parade and if all these agreements are kept the showing will be a brave one indeed. Following is the list of the individuals and firms who have signified their willingness to contribute floats:

- R. Schwartz, Fred Portance, A. E. Atkinson, Otto Loeffler, Escanaba Hardware company, Escanaba Steam Laundry, Grinnell Bros., Frank R. Barkhurst, D. A. Oliver, John E. Jackson, E. C. Wickert, Delta Hardware company, F. H. Atkins & Co., Harwood Cafe, T. J. Martin, H. Salinsky, E. F. Bolger, John J. Sourwine, North Star Clothing company, Escanaba Manufacturing company, J. B. Loeffler, Columbia Music company, Nels Nelson, Escanaba Harness company, John Knutson, Hines' Restaurant, W. D. Mooney, L. O. Kirstine, Armour & Co., Escanaba Bottling company, Lincoln Theater, Swift Packing company, National Pole company, Victor Johnson, J. J. Cleary.

S. J. BAILEY OF MENOMINEE DEAD

Menominee, Wis., July 1.—S. J. Bailey, a civil war veteran, seventy-two years old, resident of Menominee since 1870, died Tuesday night.

Mr. Bailey had filled many positions of local importance and superintended the construction of several of the leading Indian schools in the west.

BRINGS $50,000 SUIT AGAINST PROSECUTOR

(By Associated Press.) Chicago, Ill., July 1.—Charles Spare, one of the jurors in the Browne case, has filed suit against Attorney Wayman for $50,000 for libel. He says that Wayman in an interview accused him of being the juror that was to blame for the "no verdict" decision after a deliberation that lasted for 115 hours.

ROMANIAN QUEEN IS GETTING BETTER

(By Associated Press.) Bucharest, Roumania, July 1.—The condition of Queen Elizabeth (Carmen Sylvia), who was suffering with appendicitis, is reported as improving. The queen is seventy-six years old and was crowned in 1881.

DECORATING FOR THE "GLORIOUS FOURTH"

Some of the Escanaba business men have already begun to decorate their display windows and business places for the Fourth of July. Several very attractive decorative displays are already in place. It is hoped every business house in the city will be appropriately decorated in honor of the great patriotic holiday.

THREE BALL GAMES FOR JULY FOURTH

There will be plenty of baseball played in Escanaba on the Fourth of July. In the morning the Escanaba and Gladstone teams will play and in the afternoon there are two games arranged for. The first game is to be played by the Tip Tops and the South Sides and the second by the Richters and the South Sides. All of the games are to be played on the South Park grounds. The Continentals will not play here, as they are to play at the Soo Saturday, Sunday and Monday. On the afternoon of the Fourth the Escanaba and Gladstone teams will play at Gladstone and on Sunday afternoon they will play here. Some good games are expected among all these.

ELEVEN DEATHS IN CITY LAST MONTH

According to the reports made to City Clerk M. J. Lyons, there were but eleven deaths that occurred in Escanaba during the month of June just closed. This is considered a remarkable light mortality record for that month. During the month of May there were ten deaths, which was 100 per cent less than the record for April. Escanaba appears to be steadily gaining as a healthy municipality.

The number of births occurring in June is estimated at about twenty-five. All of the birth reports are not yet on file, so that the twenty-five is merely an estimate. If anything, the actual number of births for June is likely to exceed that figure.

GOTTON MILLS CLOSE; 100,000 OUT OF WORK

(By Associated Press.) Boston, Mass., July 1.—Many cotton mills were shut down today and will remain closed until July 11. The object is to curtail the production and over 100,000 people will be temporarily without employment.

DOG CASE COMES TO TRIAL TODAY

In Justice Glaser's court this afternoon the case of Peter Dube Jr. vs. Paul Bushong of Gladstone is being tried before a jury. Mr. Dube is suing to recover damages for the death of a valuable dog, which it is alleged was killed by being run over by Mr. Bushong's automobile.

Following the disposition of this case will come the trial of the case before a jury of The People vs. John Posenka Jr., of Ford River Switch, who is charged with abandonment and non-support of his family.

PARTLY GUILTY

JURY CONVICTS BEDDOW ON TWO OUT OF SEVEN COUNTS OF THE INDICTMENT AGAINST HIM

MOTION MADE FOR NEW TRIAL

Finds Him Guilty of Having Made False Entries in the Books of the Defunct First National Bank Ironwood, but Acquits Him of the Charges of Embezzlement and Misapplication of the Bank's Funds—Verdict is a Compromise.

The jury in the case of George H. Beddow, charged with embezzlement, misapplication of funds and the making of false entries while acting as assistant cashier and bookkeeper of the defunct First National bank of Ironwood, yesterday returned a verdict of guilty of making false entries in the books of the bank. The case was tried in the United States court at Marquette. There were seven counts in the indictment against Beddow and the defendant was convicted on the sixth and seventh.

The verdict has been awaited with much interest by the general public of the upper peninsula. The first ballot taken after entering the jury room showed seven jurors in favor of convicting the accused of all the charges—embezzlement, misapplication and making false entries—five favored a complete acquittal. After arguing the question for a long time, the standing changed with almost every ballot, finally the jurors agreed to compromise the matter and accordingly decided on convicting Beddow on the two counts, with a recommendation to the judge of leniency.

Ask for New Trial. The minimum sentence, provided by the federal statutes for the making by a bank official of false entries, is five years imprisonment for each offense and the maximum is twenty years for each offense. It is possible for the court to limit the term of imprisonment for both offenses to five years and it is believed to be not improbable that this is about what Beddow's sentence will be in view of the fact that the jury expressly recommended leniency.

Immediately after the verdict was announced the counsel for the defense asked for a new trial. The court accordingly agreed to hear the arguments in the matter at ten o'clock in the morning of July 11, a week from next Monday. The chief contention of the defense for a new trial is that certain testimony was excluded that should have been received and that other evidence was accepted that ought to have been ruled out.

CASE AKIN TO THAT OF "WHITE SLAVERY" Ralph Hofacker, said to be from Sheboygan, Wis., was sentenced in Justice Glaser's court yesterday afternoon to a term of sixty days in the county jail. The technical charge against Hofacker was that of being a disorderly person, but in reality his offense was more serious than that. It is stated, Hofacker is said to have brought a young woman here from Sheboygan with him and placed her in a disreputable resort for the purpose of enriching himself with a part of the proceeds gained by her in the vile bondage he is claimed to have held her in. His arrest followed when the circumstances of the case came to the knowledge of Chief of Police Iverson. Mrs. Martin Peterson and children have gone to Calumet to spend the Fourth. # CLEVELAND CLIFFS CO. SUFFERING FROM FIRES

Eighteen Hundred Cords of Wood Burned—Fire in Alger County Rages Three Days.

Marquette, Mich., July 1.—The Cleveland-Cliffs Iron company this week had a loss of 1,800 cords of hardwood piled in the woods on a spur of the Munising railway, near Stillman, and the fire was only gotten under control after a stubborn three days' fight, in the course of which over 100 of the company's employees were pressed into service. They fought the flames with water, shovels and axes, their effort being mostly confined to preventing its spread.

The fire was caused by a spark from a locomotive and burned over a stretch of territory extending back about half a mile from the track and about 800 feet in width. The fire was only stayed when it reached the green timber, the work of the men being directed to preventing it from spreading laterally. The loss was somewhere in the neighborhood of $3,000 and it cost several hundred dollars to fight the flames.

Taking Special Precautions. This loss was far the most serious that the Cleveland-Cliffs Iron company has had this year, but it does not compare in extent with the loss in the disastrous coalwood fire of last season. In that fire 26,000 cords of hardwood were destroyed and a few miles out from Wetmore and a large area of country was burned over.

Because of the inflammable condition of the woods, particularly at the scene of their wood cutting operations, where there is, of necessity, much slashings and other dry debris in and about the piled cordwood, the lumbering department of the Cleveland-Cliffs Iron company was taking special precautions to prevent the outbreak of fires and to quench them speedily, wherever they are discovered.

The Optimist's Corner

Daily Helps to Health and Happiness
By GEORGE F. BUTLER, A. M., M. D.

The lungs of an ordinary man hold some ten pints of air; but as they are never entirely emptied in life, they take in about six pints, or one gallon, at a full breath. In the breathing of repose, as in ordinary occupations, about one pint, or 40 cubic inches, is taken in at a breath. A person breathes about 10 times a minute during sleep, or two and a quarter breaths during the eight hours which are usually given to sleep, or 200 cubic feet; that is, in eight hours every particle of nutriment would be abstracted from a room containing that amount of air. To make it more tangible, if a person were put to sleep in a room six feet high, eight feet long, and a little over four feet broad, and no air was allowed to come in from without, all the life of the air would be consumed, and he would die at the expiration of the eighth hour, even if each breath given out could be kept to itself. But this would not be the case, for every breath taints and corrupts the air. Since, therefore, each out-breathing vitiates the whole body of air in a bed-chamber, as a drop of ink will discolor a glass of water, it should have a thorough ventilation. Pure air is as essential to life as water is to fish. Breathing impure air sows the seeds of disease and premature death.

Virginia of the Air Lanes

A ROMANCE OF FLYING

Herbert Quick

Copyright, 1909, by the Bobbs-Merrill Company

HE WENT ABOUT WITH MARVELOUS RAPIDITY.

Reaching up, she gulled herself clear of the floor, her strong little form swaying like a most charming pendulum. The enormous dragon fly, throwing its power into the depressing wing, rode level, with nine stone weight of solid American girl dangling from the tip of one wing—a mechanical paradox. The boat stood in air as level as a ship in a calm.

"Hurrah!" shouted Theodore, swinging his arms. "Never anything like it in the world. Carried you on one wing and kept level. Hurrah for the Virginia!"

He eased her down and stepped to where Virginia waited, hands outstretched, red from the rough rope, hair blown abroad.

"And are you going to name her that?" she cried. "Oh, how perfectly dear of you!"

Theodore held the chafed hands, triumph in his face. He opened the little red palms and kissed them over and over again. Mrs. Stott came in and saw him doing it.

"I hurt my hands," said Virginia, showing them. "And uncle is kissing them well."

"Very kind and self sacrificing, I'm sure," replied Mrs. Stott.

CHAPTER XII.
MR. CRAIGHEAD IN CUSTODY.

THE money for the last touches to the airship was to be the extent of Mr. Waddy's new financial venture, and then came Craighead with his new hatched plan for actually monopolizing the air, and Mr. Waddy, having submitted it to his local lawyer, hesitated and was lost.

"I'll go into it," he said. "We'll make everybody come and settle that wants a trip by airship. Hey?"

"Exactly," replied Craighead.

"Just as if the whole country was our farm," cried Mr. Waddy.

"It will be for circumambient purposes," replied Craighead. "And, as you so well said, a farm's a cinch. And remember, Mr. Waddy, in putting Shayne and his pirates down and out we and our plates are making way for the matchless, unsinkable, double acting, universal speed, direct drive, nonhalation, orthochromatic Carson aeroplane. Don't forget our haughty southern cocooner who will wing his way to Illinois by the time we return. Don't fall down and forget that."

"Well, you'd better have him on hand," said Mr. Waddy, "as he promised, or I'll know why he took my good hard money."

It was on occasions of this sort that Mr. Craighead had sweated telegrams begging to know if Theodore really had any airship.

"But think, my dear sir," protested Mr. Craighead, "of the untold millions in the Broom Idea—aerial monopoly. Even if Theodore should be only four clubs and a spade, we still hold the ace, my dear Mr. Waddy. Do not grind your teeth thus so long as the American Nitrates and Air Products company remains as the Archimedean lever with which to pry up and dump the world. We are ahead whatever happens to the aeroplane end of the deal."

"Well, the aeroplane end," said Mr. Waddy, "had better come to the center or I'll see what law there is for getting money by false pretenses."

The two men were the best of traveling companions. Mr. Waddy insisted on going in the smoker. Mr. Craighead took the stateroom while his money lasted and then borrowed of Mr. Waddy.

Mr. Craighead had advertised for people to organize a rapid business campaign covering the civilized world to meet him in West Twenty-third street at the studio of an acquaintance to whom he had neglected to impart any knowledge of the trust with the specialists. Waddy and Craighead arrived somewhat late on account of the time consumed in adjusting Mr. Craighead's aura and found a crush of people entirely alien to the fine arts, filling the studio and the hall outside. Craighead's sculptor friend, with a lady model, escaped the angry mob into the scaffolding of an equestrian group representing an Indian maiden in a stampede of buffaloes. The model had been posing for something—an Indian maiden perhaps—and had feathers in her hair.

Craighead broke through by impersonating an officer, shouting "Make way for the police!" and uppercutting the crowd with his elbows.

"Hello, De Land!" said he, nodding to the sculptor. "Most beautiful princess of the Apaches, how?"

"That you, Craig?" called down the sculptor. "What, not sober? Go after the police. Turn these people out, please, Craig!"

"Friends of mine," said Craighead. "I advertised for 'em. Hope you haven't been incommoded, old man."

"Not at all!" replied the sculptor earcastically. "But get them out so Miss Brown and I can descend."

Craighead's manner of disposing of the crowd commanded Mr. Waddy's sincere respect. He went about with marvelous rapidity, sending away those whose nonutility was unquestionable and making engagements with others at "our Wall street office," the name of which made everybody more respectful.

The dinner to which Mr. Craighead took Mr. De Land, Miss Brown and Mr. Waddy was the first of a series which reduced Mr. Waddy to sorrow. The old gentleman, in his long frock coat which buttoned to a surtout, his frowzy face and his evident attachment to Mr. Craighead, was remembered in certain ultra bohemian circles for his surreptitious slinking into the dimmest corners of cafes and roof gardens. He had a dark secret, Mr. Craighead said, which, he did not explain, originated in Mr. Waddy's agreement with the lady in gaggles that the whole situation was improper. He felt obliged to keep with Craighead because of a suspicion that the aeroplane was a figment of two Slattey Institute imaginations, and he did not purpose to let any guilty man escape. So he providently engaged a detective to shadow both himself and Mr. Craighead, the unremitting presence of whom in very plain clothes made Mr. Waddy feel and look guilty and fugitive.

His second reason for becoming Mr. Craighead's double was his sense of duty of preventing that pupil of Dr. Witherspoon from breaking the vow of abstinence. So he drank most of the intoxicants served to Craighead, somewhat to the injury of his health, but much to the betterment of his reputation as a roisterer. Altogether it was a relief to get Craighead back home, where he installed him as a lodger and boarder, charging him well for his accommodation and lending him the money on his note to pay for it. On arrival he went to bed and turned Craighead over to Mrs. Graybill, with strict injunctions to telephone the sheriff's office if he was unaccounted for more than an hour.

It was a situation with some unique aspects. Mr. Craighead began whiling away time with a work on the "Morphology of the Crawfish" and dips into De Quincey's "Spanish Nun." Looking from the library window, he saw Mrs. Graybill enter a summer house, leaving a red hat on the railing outside.

The "Morphology" grew uninteresting. Craighead stepped from the window, went into the summer house and started at finding Mrs. Graybill there, her hair tousled about her head, her little nose elevated in that comical resemblance to her father's. "Mr. Waddy informs me that the late Mr. Graybill was a minister of the gospel," he ventured.

"Yes," she replied, "he was."

"And that he has been called," Craighead went on, "to a better life a year or more?"

"Fourteen months," answered Mrs. Graybill.

"I have been reading," said Craighead, "a work on the 'Morphology of the Crawfish.' It holds me enthralled. The person who falls to glean wisdom from the crawfish has never tested his intelligence with a bare toe or studied his morphology."

Mrs. Graybill looked at Craighead sternly.

"Don't pose!" said she. "Don't think that I want a beautiful lesson in everything, if I have been a minister's wife. Tell me of Mr. De Land and—and Sadie Brown and the chop suey and—and that life. Tell me, Mr. Craighead!"

The point here is that there was no danger of Craighead's running off while she listened with such breathless interest to his adventures. He explained his natural transition from the study of artistic anatomy to surgery and then through medical jurisprudence to law, and over all gloomed the shadow of his wonderful, his poetic, his epic dissipation. Mrs. Graybill was shocked, but she asked for all the horrible tale that he might so relieve him that nothing would ever, ever induce him to drink again.

"Only one thing would ever do that," said he, "or maybe two. The pangs of despoiled love—"

"Which you have never experienced?" she asked.

"Never," said he, "as I am now likely to."

"And the other shock that might overturn your self control?"

"The failure of Carson," replied Craighead. "That would put me down and out—down and out!"

The relations of Craighead to Mr. Waddy became more and more strained, for the former could no longer explain satisfactorily the failure of Carson to appear with his airship. Finally as a last resort Mr. Waddy resolved to take Craighead and Mrs. Graybill and go to the south to settle the whole problem. Thus it was that the three were at Palmetto Beach when Captain Harrod with the launch passed through Strong's bayou with Virginia and Mrs. Stott on the way to the cabin where the first Carson aeroplane was preparing for its delayed flight north. Tickets had been bought to Palmetto Beach on Craighead's statement that Carson was here.

"Ah!" said Craighead. "How natural it all looks! I seem never to have left these balmy, it somewhat sandy, shades. Dear old Yupon Hedge inn!"

Mr. Craighead was halted by a liveried attendant.

"Beg pardon, sir," said he. "This is a private clubhouse. The inn's over there!"

"Oh, certainly," replied Craighead. "All cement walks look alike to me."

"The one over at the inn looks like brick," said Mr. Waddy grimly.

Craighead searched in vain after their arrival at the inn for Carson.

If Craighead's easy flow of speech was somewhat impeded by his sense of the uncertainties, not to say dangers, of his position, it was worse when he and Mr. Waddy and the handsome, sympathetic Mrs. Graybill returned from the plantation, having elicited from the reluctant Chloe the information that Mr. Theodore, his machine, his niece and his niece's companion were at Harrod's camp on the beach, which was "off thatterway." They just went down the river, through a canal, across some land, and then they were there. She didn't know about no aeroplane, but Mr. Theodore's a prop-jetkin' around with some flyin' machine. She reckoned the canal at Palmetto Beach was the one, but she didn't know. This information, Mr. Craighead declared, made everything clear, but on returning to the inn Mr. Waddy hired a local officer to guard Mr. Craighead's room and began taking thought of having a warrant issued against him for something—Mr. Waddy was not quite clear for what.

Craighead was trapped, lost, betrayed. He sat in his room chewing a cigar and calculating the distance to the ground. It looked feasible to get down a pillar of the veranda and into the woods. Carson was an impostor, they were guilty of fraud, there was no aeroplane, and the Air Products company would collapse at Mr. Waddy's defection.

"Ting-a-ling-ting-a-ling-a-ling!" His telephone rang. Was his good angel Mrs. Graybill on the wire? She was.

"You know who this is?"

"Know these tones?" he gushed.

"Why, were I in deepest hades through geological depths of burning marl and lignite and other carboniferous deposits I'd know them! What is it, fair one?"

"Oh, nothing! Only I have just learned at the postoffice that Mr. Carson is back a few miles, through a lagoon, and the man will get us a guide with a boat to take us through those narrows in the morning. Is that all right?"

"You are— My God, Caroline, you have saved me from you know not what! I shall love you, love you, love you!"

And the telephone was hung up.

They went through the canal in great style. They skimmed the black waters of Freshwater lake and landed at the shelly hummock. While the boatman searched for the path to the gulf beach they sat on the shell mound, fascinated by the strange landscape. The expanse of black pools and reedy marshes between them and the line of surf, which they could hear roaring beyond the dunes, was dotted with clumps of tall pines and spotted with scrub oak thickets.

"Those pines," said Mrs. Graybill, "are like palms. Why, what's that?"

"Are like palms," said Craighead, "rising from beyond the dunes, as if from the sea, there soared a great something which moved like a bird. It swelled like a magic ship as it neared them, sailing low and dominating the sky like a cloud. It came with the most amazing speed, like an eagle in mid-swoop, so swift, so light, so facile that all impression of weight was abolished, and the huge thing filled the mind with the notion of levity—like a hummingbird."

"Oh, of course," said Craighead, his hands trembling, his face white, "this man Carson is a fraud! Oh, yes, we knew it all the time! But you see that his aeroplane has gone through the empty form of eventuating, all the same. Flying like a frigate bird! Shayne, charge! Roll over, Silberberg, and don't dare move till I say so! Oh, this is rotten—rotten! I've got to kiss some one! Hurrah!"

Mrs. Graybill was running along the path after the guide, Mr. Waddy puffing along behind, hopelessly unplaced.

"Did you see Carson?" said Craighead. "And there was a girl with him."

Emerging from the dunes, they saw the airship skimming off along the line of beach foam. Down the beach stood Mrs. Stott and Captain Harrod, looking after the airship in amazement and delight. Then, turning like a frightened hero, she swept seaward and came down the wind like an arrow, Virginia waving an American flag over the rail and Theodore swinging his bat.

Suddenly as she passed them with a maneuver so astounding for aerial craft that they could scarcely believe their eyes she stopped. The sharp whirl of the beating wing sections told of the sudden reversal of their stroke and of the unprecedented phenomenon of the almost instant arrest of such a machine in midair. It was an unnecessary strain, thought the captain.

He saw the reason, however, a moment later. A black slimy nose—the nose of the Stickleback—poked itself above water right ahead of the Virginia. A boat that looked stove and sinking drew away from her, with a struggling, gesticulating figure in it waving a signal of distress. The slimy nose sank, and the apparent castaway was left as if to perish unless rescued by the Virginia.

Accepting the humane task, lower, lower, lower sank the aeroplane, until its car appeared almost to touch the waves. The man in distress seemed to throw something like a lasso over the nacelle of the airship, and the great bird rose slightly, as if to be safe from the billows. The Stickleback again peeped above the waves, her manhole opened, and the castaway of the stove boat went down into the submarine.

It was absolutely beyond the power of any one looking on to guess what was taking place. Why had the man made the signals for help if the submarine was standing by? If the coming of the submarine to his rescue was

SENATOR DANIEL TAKEN BY DEATH

Lynchburg, Va., July 1.—John W. Daniel, senior United States senator from Virginia, died at a sanitarium here Wednesday night, death being due to paralysis. The immediate cause was cerebral hemorrhage. The senator began sinking late in the afternoon and the relatives were all summoned to his bedside. The funeral will be held today.

The illness began with a slight attack of apoplexy in Philadelphia last October, keeping him from the senate at the opening of congress last December. Only once since had he appeared before an audience; that for an informal talk in January. At no time was there hope of recovery. The senator was born in 1842.

STICK TO OLD

AN APPEAL TO ALL THE PEOPLE OF DELTA COUNTY, SAVE ONE WHO IS SO AWFULLY BUSY ALWAYS.

the community known as the people of Escanaba for the following reasons:

"First. The commission form of government, so far as our investigations have enlightened us, is expensive and more so in our judgment than a small and comparatively poor community like that of Escanaba can afford; that a study of the commission law, under which the city of Des Moines, Ia., is now operating shows that the city council there consists of a mayor and four commissioners; that the city is divided into five departments; that the mayor and each commissioner is assigned to the head of a department; that each department head is made responsible for its operations; that each of the department heads is required to devote all his time and attention to the business of his department; that the mayor and four commissioners constitute the city council for legislative purposes; and that the mayor is compensated at the rate of three thousand five hundred dollars per annum, and each of the commissioners or councilmen at the rate of three thousand dollars per annum.

For two years have I in vain appealed to men of means and influence in order to have them check up the iron ore which has been out in Delta county. One year ago I was promised by a man, without word, that he would make this test long before this and since have I been held out strong hopes to having this done and have been asked to wait many long weeks by an awfully busy man to only be swindled out of valuable time in the end. What is there about money and influence that will crush the man out of some would be men? Why treat with contempt and ridicule men who are men to the core? Why ride rough shod over men who will wrong no man—men who will do their duty by their town and county as they see it—men who possess the courage of their convictions. Where is the wisecracker so brave as to state that he can see one-sixteenth of an inch under the ground? And then have the audacity to say that there is no iron ore in Delta county? The iron ore is here. It has been out. How much of it is there? Is there enough to dot with mines several parts of this county and line with steel mills and furnaces the shores of your bay? Several facts speak for a deposit of such depth as will make for a bigger Escanaba and a more prosperous Delta county. And right here is where we start in dead earnest going after the iron ore that has been out in Delta county. No more appeals will be made to haughty mammon with their overbearing importance.

To the good will and common sense of the people of this town and county will I now appeal in that I ask you to let me go to work for you and to let me give you value for value received in supplying a share of your wants in the meat line. We handle the best and will always please you. Our street number is 419 Ludington street. Our phone number is 256.

Thus would I ask to have your good will with resultant small profit some day work for a bigger Escanaba and a more prosperous Delta county.

Should we fail in this for want of showing up a sufficient depth of ore, we shall know that we failed through no fault of ours and that we dared hand this town and county something more substantial than mere hot air. This town and county has a future with iron ore and its allied industries. Your other raw materials will be a thing of the past in the near future. I have set myself to no small task of helping this town and county into their own with said iron ore mines, furnaces and steel mills, if such be possible.

A sufficient depth of ore will make possible all of the above and to check up by diamond drill said depth of deposit. I shall do my all—my best. Will you do your part?

Respectfully yours,
MIKE GUNTER.

The population of the city of Des Moines is approximately ninety thousand; the assessed valuation of its property is eighty million dollars. While the commission form of government might well prove a success in a community as comparatively numerous, and where the property interests are so large, it may well be doubted whether Escanaba with its population of, say twelve thousand, and an assessed valuation of four and a quarter millions, could successfully adopt and maintain that form of government.

"We believe that the commission form of government while it appears to be regarded as a success by many competent observers in the cities in which it has been, and is being tried, is still in an experimental stage, and we do not feel warranted in submitting a charter based upon the commission form to the voters at this time, therefore:

"It is resolved that the charter commission of the city of Escanaba decline to adopt and submit for approval the commission form of municipal government."

Making Good Headway.

Besides deciding upon the form of charter that shall be formulated the commission last evening made considerable progress upon the preliminary work of revision. Reports of the standing committees were received and ordered referred to the commission as a committee of the whole to be discussed later. More proposals and suggestions were also received from several of the commissioners and these were referred to the committee on public affairs.

The commission will hold its next meeting on Friday evening, July 8.

BOY DIVES FROM HIGH BRIDGE AT BROOKLYN

Otto Eppers Leaps 135 Feet Into East River and Escapes Uninjured—Gets Reward.

New York, July 1.—Otto Eppers, an undersized youth, dived successfully Wednesday afternoon from the center span of Brooklyn bridge to East river, 135 feet below, for $250 in cash, two new suits of clothes and whatever fame the world may hold in store for him.

The late Steve Brodie acquired fame and a Bowery saloon on the strength of it, but many say it was never proved that he really jumped. Several would-be suicides have been fished out of the river unhurt after jumping, but Eppers is the first to jump with unquestioned witnesses and as a part of a prearranged plan.

The seventeen-year-old boy's first words when he was fished out of the river by the crew of a passing tug were: "Gee, but I hit hard," and his next were: "Say, who's got the mak-in's of a cigarette?" He meant to shed his coat and trousers, but the police were too watchful, and he meant to dive in a log, sweeping arc, but ferryboat passengers who saw him said he turned like a pinwheel.

Eppers was found floating on his back, half stunned and paddling feebly. A brush down and two hours of rest in a hospital found Eppers fit to appear in police court, where he was discharged for lack of evidence that he had attempted suicide.

fairly before the people and give each a square deal. Do not base your vote upon vindictiveness, but let it be based rather upon a desire to advance the best interests of the upper peninsula. This method of springing resolutions, secretly and without notice, is a dark lantern proceeding.—JUDD YELAND.

Rev. G. C. EMPSON IS CRITICALLY ILL

The many friends in Escanaba of Rev. G. C. Empson, pastor of the Congregational church at Gladstone, will be grieved to learn that his condition has again become critical. Mr. Empson has been seriously ill for some weeks, but his condition took a turn for the better a week or so ago and he continued to hold his own until this morning, when he suffered a stroke of paralysis which may prove fatal. At three o'clock this afternoon Mr. Empson's condition was most precarious. He is the father of Mrs. A. P. Smith of this city, who is now at his bedside.
