

FIGHT IS HOT

CONTEST OVER ELECTION OF SCHOOL TRUSTEES IS BEING FOUGHT TO A FINISH TODAY.

BOTH SIDES ARE CONFIDENT

Men and Women Throng the Polling Place and Cast Their Votes for Two Out of Four Candidates on the Ticket—Woman Faints in Crush—Polls Will Close at Eight O'clock—Great Interest Being Taken in the Outcome—Details.

One of the warmest and hardest fought school elections in the history of Escanaba is in progress today and the result can only be guessed at. There are two sides, the candidates for one being Attorney N. C. Spencer and Dr. W. A. Lemire and the candidates of the other being Attorney S. M. Matthews and Dr. E. E. Torell.

It is not understood that these two sides have been regularly organized, for all of the candidates are running as individuals, their names having been placed on the ticket in accordance with the law after they had filed with the school election commissioners their petitions with the necessary number of signatures thereon.

The issue between the two factions or parties appears to be involved in the retention by the board of education recently of Superintendent F. D. Davis as head of the local public school system for another term of three years. This action of the board is condemned by some and approved by others, the result being a well defined difference of opinion, which is finding expression at the ballot box today.

Heavy Vote Being Cast.

That interest in the outcome of the election is intense and deep and that each side is determined to win if possible, is evidenced from the large vote being cast. Up to 2:45 o'clock this afternoon the total number of votes cast was approximately 1,000 and the line of voters, men and women, was undiminished from the volume it assumed soon after the polls opened at the city hall at nine o'clock this morning.

There was a veritable jam all during the morning hours and one woman was so overcome by the excitement or the crowding that she fainted in the hall where the election booths are stationed.

This afternoon the rush to the polls is almost as heavy and it bids fair to continue until the polls close at

NEW BRITISH MARK FOR HIGH FLYING

(By Associated Press.) Bournemouth, England, July 11.—A new British record for high flying was established today by J. Armstrong Drexel, son of Anthony Drexel of Philadelphia. At an aviation meeting being held here today he reached an altitude of 1960 feet. Young Drexel has been practicing for some time with the Bleriot monoplane and his best previous achievement was 1,070 feet on June 20. The making of this record prevents an unusual combination, being a British record, made by an American in a French machine.

RIVER STEAMER SINKS PASSENGERS ESCAPE

(By Associated Press.) St. Louis, Mo., July 11.—The river steamer Cape Girardeau struck a snag and sank in the Mississippi river today near Turkey island, fifty miles south of here. The one hundred and fifty passengers that were on board were taken off in safety.

GO TO MENOMINEE FOR THEIR WEDDING

Miss Gladys Zane and Thomas Beebe Steal a March on Their Friends—They Slip Quietly Out of the City and When They Return are Man and Wife—Story.

Without telling any of their friends or even the immediate members of the bride's family of their intention, Miss Gladys Zane and Thomas Beebe went to Menominee from this city Saturday and were united in marriage, the ceremony being performed by Rev. Guy B. Hoard, pastor of the First M. E. church of that city.

The many friends of the young couple were aware that the wedding was to take place in a short time, but none of them knew that it was to be quite so soon and were entirely unprepared to receive Mr. and Mrs. Beebe upon their return to this city.

The bride has lived in Escanaba for a number of years and has taught in the public schools. Mr. Beebe is not so well known in this city, having only been here for a few months. He is a rising young civil engineer and has been employed in the construction of the new ore dock. His home is in Willow Springs, Ill.

Mrs. Frank D. Mead has gone to Milwaukee, having been summoned to that city by announcement of her mother's illness.

WILLING TO GIVE JEFF ANOTHER GO

Champion Jack Johnson Says He is Not Averse to Fighting White Man Again at Reno—Would Have Match on Labor Day—Repeats Story of Attempt to "Fix" Fight.

Chicago, Ill., July 11.—Jack Johnson has responded to the report that Jeffries is seeking a new bout. He says: "I'll give Jeffries another chance to win the championship if he wants it. I'll meet him at Reno on Labor Day, if that suits him. I don't believe that Jeff was in as good condition on July Fourth as he was two weeks before, and for that reason I'm willing to give him a chance. I don't want any dispute about my superiority."

Johnson took occasion to reiterate his charge that a former manager of his attempted to "fix" the fight for Jeffries to win. He said: "He offered me $300,000 providing I would bet half of it that Jeffries would win the eighth round. He knew that he could get more than that sum back by betting on the outcome, and so wanted it fixed for a certain round. And there were a lot of people led to believe that I had been fixed. One Chicago theatrical manager, I have been told, lost many thousands of dollars. He should have known better."

"I don't want to be president of the United States because I could not hold the job, but I do wish to be champion. There is not money enough to compensate for the loss of that."

PHOTOGRAPHER ROBB ATTENDS CONVENTION

Henry H. Robb, one of Escanaba's expert photographers, left Sunday evening for Chicago and Milwaukee. At Chicago Mr. Robb will transact business and at Milwaukee he will attend the annual convention of the Photographers' Association of America, of which he is a member. The convention opens tomorrow and will continue during the remainder of the week. The Photographers' Association of America includes in its membership nearly all of the leading photographers of the country and it is expected that there will be not less than 1,500 delegates in attendance at the convention.

Before leaving Escanaba Mr. Robb stated that he would not miss this convention for a good deal, for he expects to gain at each session some new ideas and information that will be of great value to him in his photographic work here. Mrs. Robb and daughter, Alta, will leave tomorrow to join Mr. Robb in Milwaukee and will enjoy with him the entertainment features of the big gathering.

THE NELSON HOUSE AT ISHPEMING LEASED

Escanaba friends of John P. Outhwaite of Ishpeming will be interested in the announcement that he has leased his hotel, the Nelson house, to Harry Dunn and Peter Barnaby. Mr. Outhwaite has personally managed the place since George E. Voyer resigned the management a couple of years ago. Mr. Dunn has been the chef at the Nelson for the past four years and Mr. Barnaby has been connected with the institution for a long time. The new lessees have had considerable experience in the hotel business and their friends hope they will make a success of their new venture. They assumed charge today.

Edward Larson, who was recently operated upon at the Delta County hospital for appendicitis, has so far recovered that he was able to return today to his home in Maple Ridge township.

HOODOO FADES

HIDE AWAY LONG ENOUGH TO PERMIT GLADSTONE BASEBALL TEAM TO WIN GAME.

ESCANABA TEAM NOT AT BEST

But Gladstone Plays Better Ball and Deserves Its Victory—Both Use Two Pitchers and Run Getting Stops After Changes are Made—Game is Slow, But Results Give Satisfaction to the Gladstone Fans—Some of the Details.

Escanaba, 5; Gladstone, 7.

That hoodoo which has so persistently afflicted the Gladstone baseball team this season faded away to an extent Sunday afternoon that enabled the team to administer a defeat to Escanaba by the score noted.

It was not a case of all luck for Gladstone, either, for that team played better ball than the Escanaba aggregation and deserved its victory, which no fair-minded person is disposed to begrudge it.

Escanaba and Gladstone each used two pitchers. Escanaba started with McDonald, but in the fifth inning he gave way to Monte Olmsted, who held the Gladstone team runless after that. Miller was in the box for Gladstone until the fifth inning, when Toman took his place with such effect that Escanaba was also held down to the runs it had previously made. Gladstone made its runs in the second, third and fourth innings and in making of them were some good hits, two or three bases on balls and two or three costly errors by the Escanaba players.

Escanaba Team Weakened.

About the same mixture resulted in the five runs Escanaba got in the second and third innings. Escanaba got six hits and made three errors, while Gladstone grabbed off eight safe swats and was guilty of but one misplay, according to the official score.

The Escanaba team was weakened by the absence of Captain Fred Olmsted, who was unable to play on account of an injured hand. In his place at second base was "Polly" Jaegers, who did not make a very strong substitute, to say the least. The entire team appeared to be more or less affected by the absence of its leader and did not play its usual fast game. The game was slow, in fact, taking up an even two hours, but its results up an even two hours, but the Gladstone fans, who were hoping against hope almost that their team might win. About half the crowd of spectators was made up of Escanaba people, who took the defeat of their team good naturedly. The score and summary:

Details for the Bugs.

Batteries—For Escanaba, McDonald, Olmsted and O'Connors; Miller, Toman and Richards. Earned runs—Escanaba, 2; Gladstone, 7. First base on balls—Off McDonald, 3; off Olmsted, 2; off Miller, 3. Left on bases—Escanaba, 6; Gladstone, 9. First base on errors, Escanaba, 1; Gladstone, 2. Two base hits—Aronson (2), Lentz, Loell, Richards and N. Walsh. Struck out—By McDonald, 2; by Olmsted, 3; by Miller, 2; by Toman, 3. Double plays—Frendenburg to Boyer. Passed balls—Richards, 1. Hit by pitcher—Enders and McDonald. Time of game—Two hours. Umpire—Mathes and Nelson.

This afternoon the Escanaba and Gladstone teams are playing their second game of the present series at Gladstone.

The Chicago & Northwestern Railway company's tie-preserving plant in this city has been given its usual summer shut-down and may not again be in operation for several months.

NEW MOTOR BOAT LAW IS NOW IN EFFECT

Escanaba Launch Owners Will Do Well to Post Themselves Upon Its Provisions—New Equipment Must Be Provided—Some of the Essential Requirements.

Escanaba launch owners will do well to take note of the new motor boat law which went into effect Saturday. Under it every boat irrespective of size must carry a fire extinguisher. They must also carry one life preserver or other device approved by the proper government official for every passenger carried. Craft over 25 feet in length must in addition to the regular whistle equipment be provided with a fog horn.

All sizes of launches must carry a rear white light, so that a light on the boat is made visible at night from every direction.

These rules apply to launches whether engaged in passenger traffic, private launches, freight carrying or any other business. These are the salient features of the new law. There are numerous others with which local launch owners should speedily acquaint themselves.

No specific means of promptly extinguishing burning gasoline are prescribed by the new law. Besides the usual fire extinguishers, suitable chemicals or bags of coarse flour or sand will serve the purpose.

LITTLE GIRL DIES AFTER BRIEF ILLNESS

After an illness of but forty-eight hours with an affection of the throat and lungs, Margaret Wall, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Wall, passed away at eight o'clock Sunday evening at the family home, 464 South Sarah street. The little girl was but six years old last October and her death is a severe blow to her parents and other members of the Wall family.

The funeral will be held from St. Patrick's church at 2:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. Rev. Father Langan officiating, and the remains will be laid to rest in St. Joseph's cemetery.

GIRL BABY DIES OF CHOLERA INFANTUM

Ruth Berkel, the two months old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Berkel, died about 8:30 o'clock Sunday evening at the family home, 1222 Escanaba avenue. Cholera infantum was the cause of the little one's death.

The funeral will be held from the home at 3:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. Rev. F. W. Ainslie, pastor of the First Baptist church, will conduct the services and interment will be in Lakeview cemetery.

CUBANS ARE CHARGED WITH CONSPIRACY

(By Associated Press.) Havana, Cuba, July 11.—Col. Jorge Valera, a mulatto, and six of his friends have been arrested by the secret police today charged with a conspiracy to start an uprising on this island against the government.

FUNERAL OF LATE ROBERT L. BRIDGES

Funeral services over the remains of the late Supervisor Robert L. Bridges of Maple Ridge were held at the Bridges home in Maple Ridge this afternoon and were largely attended. Rev. E. E. Williams, rector of St. Stephen's Episcopal church, this city, conducted the services. Among those from Escanaba in attendance at the funeral were Undersheriff and Mrs. T. J. Curran, Prosecuting Attorney H. R. Dotsch and Supervisor J. H. Burns. Mr. Curran acted as one of the pallbearers.

PICNIC AT MAYWOOD IS WELL ATTENDED

Several hundred people journeyed to Maywood Sunday to either enjoy a day's outing privately or to attend the picnic held under the auspices of the Apollo club. Intermittent showers of rain interfered somewhat with the attendance at the picnic, but the steamer Maywood carried fair passenger lists on each trip, that it made to the popular resort during the day. Music at the picnic was furnished by the Escanaba City band, and Vurpillat's band also contributed to the musical program. Dancing was one of the features of the picnic.

AN INTERURBAN CAR JUMPS THE TRACK

The two o'clock interurban car, bound from Escanaba to Gladstone, jumped the track at the switch near the bridge Sunday afternoon and the mishap caused considerable delay in traffic between the two cities over the line. After considerable work the car was replaced on the track and the car continued its journey to Gladstone. On board were a large number of Escanaba baseball fans, who were late in arriving at the Escanaba-Gladstone baseball game. Nobody was injured by the accident.

DANISH BROTHERHOOD TO GIVE EXCURSION

Announcement is made that the Danish Brotherhood of this city will give a water excursion from Escanaba to Menominee on the steamer Maywood next Sunday, July 17. The boat is advertised to leave the dock here for Menominee at 8:30 a. m. and to leave Menominee for the return trip at 6:30 p. m. The Escanaba City band has been engaged to play for the entertainment of the excursionists, who probably will be numerous if the weather is propitious for an outing on the water.

MOB IS SWIFT

CONDEMNED MURDERER WHO TOOK APPEAL TO LOUISIANA SUPREME COURT LYNCHED.

HANGED ON SPOT WHERE HE SLEW

He was J. D. Freeman, White, Who Shot and Killed Town Marshal of Rayville While the Latter Was Attempting to Arrest Him for Minor Offense—Mob Batters Down Jail Doors—Aftermath of the Lynching at Newark, Ohio.

(By Associated Press.)

Rayville, La., July 11.—Aroused by the fact that an appeal to the supreme court had been taken, following his condemnation to death here on the charge of having murdered Town Marshal C. C. Chenault, a mob battered down the doors of the parish jail at Rayville Sunday and, dragging out J. D. Freeman, a white man, hanged him at the spot where he had slain the marshal.

"This is the outcome of the appeal," was the note found pinned to the dead man's clothing.

Freeman shot and killed Chenault when the latter attempted to arrest him for a minor offense.

Causes Flurry in Newark.

Newark, O., July 11.—The sudden rival of Governor Harmon Sunday afternoon wrought consternation among the city and county officials who are threatened with imprisonment as the result of Friday night's lynching of Carl Etherington, an anti-saloon league raider.

The governor demanded to be taken over the battered jail. He examined the structure minutely. Sheriff Linke explaining every step of the mob. The governor tested the bars and examined the locks, taking notes. He held a star chamber session with the sheriff, prosecuting attorney and mayor.

Governor Harmon said that if he had any statement to make he would make it later from Columbus. Newark people believe that the governor's hurried visit presages the immediate suspension of the sheriff and possibly the mayor.

WOMAN WOULD BE GOVERNOR OF STATE

Concord, N. H., July 11.—An attorney, acting for Mrs. Marilla M. Ricker of Dover, Washington, D. C., San Jose, Cal., presented to the secretary of state Saturday her declaration of candidacy for the Republican gubernatorial nomination at the direct primaries in September, accompanied by the $100 fee required by law. They were accepted by the secretary of state, subject to an opinion to be obtained from the attorney general as to the right of a woman to become a candidate. Mrs. Ricker has been prominent in the woman suffrage movement, and as a taxpayer has attempted to vote, but without success, at many elections in New Hampshire. She is a lawyer, and was the first woman to be admitted to the bars of the District of Columbia and of New Hampshire. During President McKinley's administration she applied for the position of minister to Colombia. The presdent was inclined to favor her at first, but on the advice of others he decided against Mrs. Ricker.

GETS DIVORCE DECREE ON COFFEE GROUNDS

Chicago, Ill., July 11.—Mrs. Harriet E. Sanborn Saturday obtained the only divorce ever allowed in Cook County on coffee grounds.

The defendant, Joseph W. Sanborn, a locomotive engineer at 3414 West Chicago avenue, it appeared from the testimony, was in the habit of drinking four or five cups of coffee every morning for breakfast. He wanted the coffee good and he wanted it hot. In order that he might be sure that it was hot he always took the coffee pot off the stove himself and placed it on the table beside him.

One morning when he started to go through the usual breakfast proceedings his wife objected because the bottom of the pot was sooty and the table cloth had just been washed. Sanborn went to the coal scuttle and got out a piece of paper. The paper was dirty. He laid the paper on the cloth and then set the pot on top of it. Immediately afterward Mrs. Sanborn began telling him what she thought of him. She was still at it when her husband hit her on the head with the coffee pot, threw her on a sofa and began to choke her.

Helen Rodenberg, a friend of Mrs. Sanborn, told all about this in Judge Chetlain's court and the court decided to give Mrs. Sanborn her liberty.

THERE'S NO ROOM FOR PULPIT PESSIMISM

"One hundred years ago every man in the United States got drunk once a week—except my progenitors, and yours. One hundred years ago every man was a gambler—except our own particular ancestors. It's foolish to say that the world is growing worse." These statements were made by Rev. Newell Dwight Hillis, pastor of Plymouth Church, Brooklyn, in a lecture on "The New Position of the Pulpit in American Society" in Mandel Hall, University of Chicago. "Society has a right to demand optimism from the man in the pulpit," he continued. "There is no room for pessimism. The men who preach that all politicians are grafters and hold-up rascals in every branch of society and then sends his audience home to enjoy a Thanksgiving dinner, is ignorant of history. No man can read history intelligently and be a pessimist. Social problems are not for the pulpit. I believe in social progress, but we must not turn Sunday, the soul's library and cathedral day, into something else."

"IS LIFE WORTH LIVING?"

Mrs. Mollie McRaney, Prentiss, Miss., writes that she had a severe case of kidney and bladder trouble, and that four bottles of Foley's Kidney Remedy cured her sound and well. She closes her letter by saying: "I heartily recommend Foley's Kidney Remedy to any sufferer of kidney disease. It saved my life." Sold by all druggists.

THE GENERAL PRIMARY ELECTION IN SEPTEMBER

Campaign Being Waged is One of the Most Notable in the History of Michigan.

One of the most notable political campaigns that has ever been witnessed in the state of Michigan is the one being waged on the Republican primary election in September. It is made more interesting by the fact that it will be the first time in the history of this state that a general primary election has been held. There have been primary elections in the state covering various officers, but it is the first time that the people have been given an opportunity of making their choice by direct vote for all candidates from United States senator to county officers.

By means of this new primary election law every candidate has a fair show, and each one of them has the same chance for nomination as his rival. The people in general also profit by the new manner of nominating candidates for office, for in the new way the man that is nominated is their choice and not the choice of a few delegates that are sent to a convention for that purpose.

Many Candidates in Field.

The fact that the new primary law gives every man an opportunity of running for office has been seized upon, as can be seen from the large number of men that are office-seekers in Delta county. The county of Delta is not alone, however, in having a large number of office-seekers, but the whole state of Michigan is seething with candidates for county, state and national offices. For governor of the state of Michigan there are three candidates running for the nomination to that high office, and a warm fight is being waged between them.

Osborn for Governor.

The fights for governor of the state and for congressman are attracting attention everywhere. One of the things that is drawing attention is the fight that the upper peninsula is making for the nomination. Chase S. Osborn of Sault Ste. Marie, who is running for governor, is growing stronger throughout the state as the time for the primary draws near and there is but little question of the outcome at the primaries. Mr. Osborn is a man who is working for the interests of the upper peninsula and for the welfare of the entire state, and the people are with him. Patrick H. Kelly of Lansing and Amos Musselman of Grand Rapids are the other candidates.

H. O. Young for Congress.

For congress the upper peninsula is represented by H. O. Young of Ishpeming, who is in the race against Angus W. Kerr of Calumet. Mr. Young is a man of fine attainments and long experience and his election seems assured. The record he has made in Washington is an enviable one and the upper peninsula is proud of it.

Friendly Feeling Prevails.

For United States senator Julius C. Burrows of Kalamazoo is running for renomination against Congressman Charles E. Townsend of Jackson. Congressman Townsend is recognized as a man of mark in national affairs. He had charge of railroad legislation in the administrations of Roosevelt and Taft and is generally regarded as one of the ablest men in public life.

The fact that there are so many candidates running for office has made the political question seem in doubt and time can only tell who will be the successful candidates for office. All the candidates are working along clean and manly lines and the ones that are defeated will devote their untiring efforts in behalf of the successful candidate, and of the Republican party.

AGED 70; NEVER SLEEPS, BUT KEEPS ON TOILING

Septuagenarian at Lincoln, Neb., is a Strange Sufferer From Insomnia—Story.

Lincoln, Neb., July 11.—A. D. Gregg a resident of Lincoln for forty years and seventy years old, claims to be the sleepless wonder. For ten years Mr. Gregg says he has not slept to exceed 100 hours, and for two and a half years not a wink of sleep has he indulged in. Members of his family, neighbors and friends, vouch for the truth of his statement. He is a good citizen, well known, and his integrity is unquestioned. For a man of his years he is robust and performs an average day's work.

The unusual story of Mr. Gregg's experience in going without sleep has been of interest to physicians. Mr. Gregg himself regards it as quite a commonplace affair. He is rather inclined to shun the notoriety his sleeplessness has given him and says he is more interested in municipal affairs and the every-day activities of his fellow men than he is in the fact that in increasing his waking hours and so materially adding to his activities he has solved one of the problems of the hour.

Cease to Wonder.

To his family and friends Mr. Gregg's affinity for sleeplessness has ceased to be a wonder, but has been the subject of much doubting reflections on the part of physicians who have had the case called to their attention. Members of his own family, however, assert that he never takes any sleep. "He may lie down for a few hours at night to rest, but he never sleeps," said his wife.

A doctor who discussed the matter with him recently was skeptical. "Why, man," said the physician, "you couldn't live more than eight days without sleep." Mr. Gregg only laughed and said: "Come out to my home some day and see me work and find whether I am alive or not. Stop at my house any time of the night or day; come in as quietly as you wish, and if you or any one else catches me asleep I will admit I am a fraud and falsifier."

A few who have believed the veteran carpenter has been unconsciously deceiving himself, and laid a trap to prove their theory, are compelled to admit that it is themselves who have been deceived, and that not within two years has the subject of their quest slumbered for a single minute. Doctors confess the case puzzles them, but they no longer question the truth of the phenomenon.

Caused by Rheumatism.

Mr. Gregg appears to be a living corroboration of the claim of those who hold that sleeping is only a habit contracted during the ages when man knew nothing of fire and illumination, and was compelled to rest during the dark hours. In his youth and up to middle age Mr. Gregg enjoyed the normal amount of sleep. He attributes his affliction, though he does not call it by that name, to several attacks of inflammatory rheumatism, followed by chills. The first of these attacks occurred nearly thirty years ago, and with convalescence he found himself troubled with sleeplessness.

From that time on he began to take less and less sleep. About ten years ago he suffered from another attack of rheumatism.

POSTAL SAVINGS BOARD ASKED TO HURRY WORK

Washington, July 11.—The board of trustees in charge of the establishment of postal savings banks was informed Saturday that the people demand that it hasten without unnecessary delay. In a long letter addressed to the board a southern correspondent declares:

"You will be directly responsible for most of the financial loss and suicides that will occur in the future, where such loss of suicides take place subsequent to the ending of a reasonable time for you to get the postal savings bank in operation. You are entitled to a few months necessary for the establishment of these banks, but any unnecessary delay on your part will be criminal and willful negligence. Get busy and establish these banks at once."

Petitions continue to pour in on the board from postmasters and banks.

SNATCHED FROM THE JAWS OF DEATH

Vurpillat's New Discovery Destroys Monster Tape Worm—Mrs. Chas. Pariseau of 112 N. Norris St. is Relieved of the Parasite.

Office in the Jepsen Block Crowded.

Vurpillat and his New Discovery gained their first victory in this city yesterday. The results obtained fully prove all that is claimed for this preparation. It is evident from the reports in the city that this practical advertiser will demonstrate to the satisfaction of all that he is not making any idle boasts, but stands ready to fulfill all promises made in regard to his New Discovery.

Yesterday Mrs. Charles Pariseau of 112 N. Norris street, called upon Vurpillat, bringing with her a container in which was a monster tape worm. With gratitude showing in her face Mrs. Pariseau said: For the past four years I have been a sufferer from stomach trouble. I was constantly suffering intense pain in my stomach. At times my appetite was ravenous, then the very sight of food was enough to sicken me. At night my sleep would be broken and in the morning I would be more tired than before I went to bed. My nerves were unstrung and I was very nervous. Having heard of the New Discovery, I concluded to try it, as I had tried most everything without results. To my surprise after taking just a few doses I passed the monster tape worm and I can cheerfully recommend the Discovery to anyone suffering as I did."

Among the number who took advantage of the free demonstration was Mr. Richard Steinke of 615 Wells avenue, who had been troubled with deafness in the right ear for the past five years. After Vurpillat had applied the New Discovery for a few minutes Mr. Steinke said he could hear clearly at a distance of thirty feet, something he had not been able to do before coming upon the platform.

The office in the Jepsen block was crowded all day yesterday with people who called to take advantage of the free consultation and examination between the hours of 10 a. m. to 4 p. m., and for the benefit of the working people between the hours of 7 p. m. and 8 p. m.

BRING FIRE TO THE ENGINE HOUSE DOOR

Green Bay, Wis., July 11.—Bringing a fire to the fireman to put out is not on innovation in the annals of fires but was new in Green Bay until Saturday.

Some place between here and Appleton a refrigerator car in a train on the Chicago & Northwestern road coming from Milwaukee, caught fire this morning and the flames were noticed by a brakeman and orders were conveyed to the engineer to stop his train near the engine house on Pearl street adjoining the right of way of the road. A warning was given by the engineer and when the train stopped firemen from Hose company No. 3 were ready to turn a stream of water onto the burning car. The fire was put out before the flames had spread to any other cars in the train and only the roof and one end of the refrigerator were burned.

It is supposed that sparks from the engine fell onto the roof of the car and caused the fire. The car was the property of the Northwestern road.

MUSSELMAN COMING TO UPPER PENINSULA

Lansing, Mich., July 11.—Following the example of Lieutenant Governor Kelley, candidate Musselman proposes to invade the upper peninsula and is planning a trip that will take him into every county in the twelfth congressional district, except Mr. Osborn's home county. Mr. Musselman's friends are very much pleased at his increasing strength and claim that they are going to make serious inroads in Mr. Osborn's territory. Mr. Musselman will be accompanied by Hon. George Clapperton, one of the best campaign speakers in Michigan.

Mr. Osborn is pushing his lower peninsula campaign with his usual energy and vigor. His automobile campaign was opened by a series of meetings in Emmet county July 5th. Nearly all of the meetings were well attended and Mr. Osborn was greeted with much enthusiasm.

FOUR STATES OBJECT TO NEW RATE TARIFFS
Indianapolis, Ind., July 11.—The Michigan, Ohio, Illinois and Indiana railway commissions will petition the interstate commerce commission to use its power to cause the railways of the country which carry on interstate freight traffic in the states named to postpone the taking effect of new class and commodity rates until the states can have time to go into the new rate sheets thoroughly and determine whether or not the railways are justified in demanding the increases scheduled. The new rates are proposed to be effective on August 1.

Woman's World

Little Princess Mary Her Father's Chum.

PRINCESS MARY.

England will now have three queens, the queen dowager, the new queen and Princess Mary. The latter is the only girl among the six children in the royal household and has long been a pet of the English nation. She celebrated her twelfth birthday on the 25th of last October and is said to be as pretty and lovable a little princess as ever lived outside a book of fairy tales.

Princess Mary was always a great favorite with King Edward, who kept her constantly in his company at Sandringham or Balmoral.

"Mary is as much a boy as the rest of them," her father said once. "She enters into the sports and recreations of her brothers with enthusiasm and can hold her own with them in most games."

Plays Cricket Like Boy.

She can play cricket and boasts of having once "clean bowled" Prince Arthur of Connaught with the first ball she pitched to him. She practically lives in the open air, fishing and boating continually throughout the summer.

Once last summer she and her brothers, Prince Edward and Prince Albert, were boating on the Thames when a skiff containing two Eton boys collided with their boat.

"Why didn't your mother teach you to steer before she let you come out on the river?" said one of the boys.

"Why didn't yours teach you manners?" replied the princess.

In common with her brothers she has been trained to be thrifty and to save the money allowed her. Each of the children receives a stated sum every week, never under any circumstances to be exceeded. In the case of Princess Mary, however, she need never ask for an exceptionally large allowance, for she has a savings account of no small proportions, accumulated by weekly visits to the post-office savings bank. She understands the system, does her own depositing and frequently verifies her account.

Plays Jokes Upon Brother.

While her brother, Prince Edward, now her apparent, was at the naval college at Osborne she sent him a large, attractive looking parcel. As she had been delving into the mysteries of cooking and sending the products of her skill to her brother, he expected a feast and invited two friends to assist him in disposing of it. When the three of them opened the package, however, all they found was a wax faced doll dressed in the uniform of the Naval academy, bearing a tag in his sister's handwriting. "Isn't He Pretty?"

That the little princess is well educated may be gathered from the fact that her schooling began at the age of four years under a governess. At the age of eight Princess Mary was able to talk fluently with the French ambassador in his own language.

Lessons in the royal schoolroom begin at 7:30 a. m. in the summer and at 8 a. m. in the winter. There is an hour's instruction before breakfast, three hours before noon and two hours in the afternoon. Especial attention is paid to English history, in connection with which study frequent visits are made to the British museum for the inspection of original documents.

A Fashionable Cure.

If one could get well by going off to a fashionable sanitarium and making garden, why couldn't the same pursuit in one's own back yard prove as beneficial to the health and more so to the purse? Doubtless it would, but as with all remedies that cost little it is hard to convince some people of their value.

"Gardening as a curative pastime," says an exchange, "is the newest idea, introduced by the head of a fashionable sanitarium for nervous women, and each patient has her own particular plot to look after. She is even given the task of spading up the ground and is expected to spend a certain part of each day cultivating it regardless of the weather. On clear days, after the garden hour, the entire force of fair women is supposed to turn out and rake and burn leaves and twigs as another way of playing amateur farmers."

Points For Mothers

The mother with a nursery wants to get those linen picture books that are to be embroidered.

Sheets of linen are folded in such a way that they need only to be stitched on one side. The ends are turned back and stitched down, or the book may be bound with white or colored linen tape.

The cover is stamped with the title "Nursery Rhymes" or "Illustrated Alphabet" and on the different pages are appropriate figures and letters to be worked in outline stitch in mercerized cottons.

Use a heavy cotton and the gayest possible colors that will wash. The larger figures can be done in long and short stitch.

Such a book will not tear, may be made vivid enough to catch a child's fancy and will launder well.

The girl who can draw may originate designs on linen for it. Cut into strips eight or ten inches long and fold like a fan into five inch folds. Stitch at back through all these folds after the outlining is worked. The embroidery is done on both sides. This does away with hemming each separate sheet of book.

Care of Children's Teeth.

You cannot begin too early in life to care for your children's teeth, and mothers are often negligent in watching the condition of their children in this particular. Many believe it entirely unnecessary to give any attention to the temporary or milk teeth. As a matter of fact, these teeth aid in the growth and development of the second or permanent ones, which absorb the milk teeth as they push their way forward. Children should be taught as soon as they are capable of understanding that the toilet of the mouth is an essential part of the daily regime and be provided with their own set of dental preparations, including a baby toothbrush of camel's hair. If left to themselves children will go at the cleansing process too vehemently and bruise the delicate tissues of the mouth. They should be taught how to hold the brush, how to lay the powder or paste upon it and how to apply it in gentle strokes, which should not be across the teeth or in circular movements, but in the direction of their growth, so that the spaces between the teeth are well cleansed.

An Allowance.

"I do not see why a parent should not say to a girl, 'Here is so much a year; you have to pay your school bills, your dress, your laundry, your traveling expenses and the cost of your games and your sweets out of it.' This is the startling suggestion advanced by a public speaker in a lecture on "Woman and Her Money" given to a large gathering of women recently in London.

In his capacity as a lawyer the speaker has seen much misery and unhappiness for which extravagant wives and daughters, reared in total ignorance of the value of money, have been responsible, and, in his opinion, many disasters could be avoided if women were more wisely educated in the handling and investing of money.

"The ideal father and mother give their children an allowance," he went on to say, "even if it is only a penny a week. This allowance should be increased as time goes on, and a girl should gradually be allowed to pay all her own bills and expenses."

The Mother and the Boy.

A boy's heart is full and overflowing. He needs some one who will listen to his confidences. If he is repelled and finds himself alone he becomes fretful, indolent or worse. His affairs are not "unonsense." A good mother never says, "Run away; I am busy." She listens, encourages.

Important discoveries may be made in these outpourings. She gives sympathy, enters into his feelings, sees things from his point of view. If he tells her of something which proves that he is at fault she does not reprimand at the time, because this will check further confidences. She gives her attention quietly, tells him she is glad he has confided in her and that she will talk of it again with him.

If a mother has insight she can solve many problems. She is interested in her boy's sports, collections, his school and companions. The choice of his companions should not be left to chance. It is well if they are from families known to his parents.

There is no greater misfortune than to be able to bear misfortune. Insurance in the Continental before misfortune comes.

For the Children

Boy Horsemen Who Took a Long Ride.

Louis and Temple Abernathy, aged nine and six respectively, recently completed a horseback trip that extended most of the way across the continent. The boys are sons of Jack Abernathy of Oklahoma, noted wolf catcher and friend of former President Roosevelt. They made the trip from Oklahoma to New York to greet Mr. Roosevelt on his return to this country. They covered about 2,000 miles and arrived at New York in good health and fine spirits. On their way they stopped at Washington and were received by President Taft.

The youngsters are expert horsemen and made the trip without a mishap. When it is remembered that Temple Abernathy is only six years old, hardly more than a baby, the feat seems truly a remarkable one.

The Menagerie Man.

Each of the players except two takes the name of an animal, such as lion, leopard, panther, monkey, etc. One of the two remaining is called the buyer and the other the seller. The seller is supposed to own a menagerie, so he traces an imaginary cage upon the ground and puts his beasts into it. The buyer then comes to the menagerie and pretends to knock at the door.

The seller asks, "Who knocks?" The buyer replies, "A merchant." The seller asks, "What do you want?" The buyer says, "To buy an animal." The seller then asks, "How much will you pay for it?" The buyer then mentions some price, say $10.

The seller then invites the buyer to enter, asking him at the same time what kind of an animal he wishes to buy. If an animal is mentioned that the showman has he tells it to run out, at which it runs away from the cage. Before the buyer may run after it he has to pay the price agreed upon, and this he does by giving as many taps on the hand of the seller as he has mentioned dollars. He then pursues the animal he has bought. If it can get back to the cage without being caught it takes a new name. If it is caught the buyer pretends to cut off its ears, after which it is considered to be a dog. The dogs have to help catch the other animals. The game ends when all the players have been caught and become dogs.

It is hardly necessary to say that this is a boys' game and should be played out of doors.

SHE ASKS PART IN $10,000,000 ESTATE

Alleged Daughter of the Late "Lucky" Baldwin Leaves Boston for Los Angeles to Fight for Her Share in Immense Fortune—Bitter Legal Battle in Prospect.

Boston, July 11.—Beatrice Anita Baldwin Turnbull, the 17-year-old girl who claims to be the daughter of Elias J. Baldwin, famed throughout the west as "Lucky" Baldwin, has left Boston to fight for her share in the $10,000,000 estate left by Baldwin in a legal contest that will be the most notable ever held in Los Angeles, Cal.

Miss Turnbull is accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Lillian Ashley Turnbull of Brookline, and her attorneys, Walter B. Grant and Timothy W. Coakley. The first move of the attorneys will be the appointment of a guardian for the heiress, and then before a jury will commence the contest for one-third of the $10,000,000 estate.

That Beatrice Baldwin Turnbull is the daughter of "Lucky" Baldwin her counsel are certain that they can prove by the records of Los Angeles, which show the birth of a child seventeen years ago to Elias Baldwin and Lillian Ashley.

This birth record and the decision of Judge Stack, who sat on the case Mrs. Turnbull brought against "Lucky" Baldwin for support a few years ago and in his decision asserted that Mrs. Turnbull had proved that her daughter was the daughter of "Lucky" Baldwin, will be the two bitterly contested points in the coming legal battle.

Baldwin incorporated the following paragraph in his will: "I have only three children—Clara S., Anita M. and Roselda F. If after my death any person or persons shall be able to convince my executors or establish in court that he or she is a child of mine to such person or persons I give and bequeath the sum of $10."

THREE NUNS APPLY FOR CITIZENSHIP

Washington, July 11.—Three cloistered nuns, sisters of the Community of the Perpetual Adoration here, have made application for American citizenship. They are Marie Kamp, born in Amsterdam, Holland; Rachelina Maresca, a native of Sorrento, Italy, and Severina Di Giovanni, who first saw the light of day in Piana de Grece, Sicily. The religious names of the would-be citizens do not appear in the applications.

Hearings on the qualifications of the applicants will be held in open court the first Monday in November, the delay being caused by the provision of the district law, which requires that the names be posted for ninety days.

HER BIG HAT ACTS AS A PARACHUTE

South Dennis, N. J., July 11.—Miss Nellie F. Gurney of this village while riding upon a load of hay, was blown from the load and landed upon a barbed wire fence, as the result of wearing a large hat.

Crawling to the top of the load, she wished to ride from the field to the barn, a distance of about a quarter of a mile. She wore one of the new style large hats that measure slightly more than two feet across.

When about halfway to the barn a gust of wind suddenly caught the hat, and as it was securely pinned to the young lady's head the headgear acted as a sort of a sail. In less than a minute Miss Gurney was flying through the air.

She landed quite easily, however, upon a barbed wire fence about fifteen feet from the wagon, but luckily escaped injury other than a general shaking up.

Our Daily Short Story

HER BANK ACCOUNT

By J. ANTHONY TWining
Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.

A man suffragette and a man anti-suffragette were discussing the question of votes for women. The suffragette led off by stating that women often owned property and were entitled to vote for those who made the laws affecting their interests. A widow, for instance, had not even a husband to represent her. A woman who might have more business ability than many men—

"What's that you say about a woman having business ability?" interrupted the anti-

"I said that a woman might"—

"Do you include my wife?"

"I haven't the pleasure of an acquaintance with your wife."

"If you had you would never have made that statement."

"Is your wife a poor business woman?"

"You just try her in a matter of banking."

"Not up to that, eh?"

"I should say not. When I married her she had some funds and insisted on managing them herself. I opened a bank account for her and tried to teach her how to keep it. She learned very quickly what the check book was for, but the pass book baffled her. I brought down her balances for her in the check book, so that she would know how much she had in bank."

"One day I handed her her pass book that had just been balanced at the bank. She looked at the figures and seemed very much pleased. Then she went off and looked at her check book balance. Soon after that she presented me with a fur lined coat as a surprise. It was not long before she received a surprise herself in the shape of a notice from the bank that her account was overdrawn. She came to me to ask what it meant. I told her, and she left me with a puzzled look on her face."

"A few days later I received a polite note from the cashier asking me if I would kindly call at the bank. I did so, and he received me with a peculiar smile. Taking me into a private office where no one would hear, he told me that he had sent my wife notice that her account was overdrawn to the amount of $350. Then he showed me a note from her, in which she inclosed her check on his own bank for the amount to square the account."

"Your wife is not used to keeping a bank account, I take it," he remarked in kindly consideration of my feelings.

"Oh, yes, she is," I replied. "I've told her all about it."

"It can't be a mistake of ours."

"No; a mistake of mine. I should have told you that she can't learn just how the trick is done. I'll give you a check for her overdraft."

"I wrote him a check and that evening asked my wife how she expected to wipe out an overdraft in that way. She was very much surprised and disgruntled. I thought that I'd better look into her check and pass books, and what do you suppose I found? When a short time before I had handed her her newly balanced pass book she had noticed that the balance brought down was $350 to her credit. The balance I had brought down for her in her check book was $10. There were checks out not yet presented at the bank for $340. Being a mathematical prodigy, she figured that if she had $340 in the pass book and $10 in her check book she must have a balance of $350. She at once determined, in the generosity of her dear innocent heart, to spend it in a fur lined coat for me. I paid for the coat, and it furnished food for the moths."

"She was so disgruntled at her inability to manage her account that she said she would draw out all her money and give up banking. I asked her what money she referred to. She said that since I had paid the overdraft there must be several hundred dollars to her credit. Rather than try to explain to her that the account had been closed I deposited $400 in bank, and she drew a check for it, and in this way the matter was settled."

"Well, there was no more trouble after this till one day I left her to go on a business trip. In my check book I left a check payable to her order for a blank amount duly signed, so that if she needed money she could fill in the amount she required and get it at the bank. During my absence she ran short of money. A bill for perfume came in for $6.25. She filled in this amount, drew the money and paid the bill."

"The next day she needed more money. She submitted the case to a friend, who advised her to write a check for all the funds she would need till my return, take it to the bank, and they, knowing she was my wife, would probably cash it. Instead of taking it there herself she sent it."

"Well, she got the money. But when I came back, happening in at the bank one day, the cashier greeted me with another grin, this time more idiotic than before, 'handing me at the same time the check my wife had drawn, to which she had signed my name.'

"Great heavens! It was a forgery. I couldn't have written my name any better myself."

"I took the thing home and showed it to her."

"Why, I supposed," she said, "I should sign your name as nearly as you sign it as possible."

"No, sir; women are no good for keeping bank accounts."

A ROMANCE OF FLYING

By Herbert Quick

Copyright, 1909, by the Bobbs-Merrill Company

At the same hour Mrs. Shayne burst into Shayne's den, her breath short, her face flushed, her attire and cof-fure disarranged. Shayne knew the symptoms.

"Oh, tell me it isn't true!" she cried. "Tell me that I am not humiliated, ac-tually controlled, by that bandit from the Alabama forest!"

Mr. Shayne begged her to calm her-self. "It's only an injunction," urged Mr. Shayne. "We can't use the Roc be-cause the court forbids it."

"At that man Carson's request!" I tell you, Finley Shayne, it is a trick of the proletariat to immure us here and come at their leisure and kill us!"

"My dear, my dear!" urged Mr. Shayne. "That is quite impossible! We could go in the Roc rather than be murdered."

"You imprison me and then insult me. Coward! If going in the Roc is so easy, why don't we go? I thought I was married to a man!"

Shayne sprang to his feet. "Marie," said he, "the Roc will be ready in half an hour! I'll show you I'm no coward! Get ready! Call Vir-ginia and Silberberg! Hurry!"

Mrs. Shayne knew better than to try stopping him. He yelled messages and orders into telephones. He issued bur-y calls for valets and maids. The forcefulness that had made him what he was came uppermost.

Suddenly into Shayne's den burst Silberberg, his face red, his whole being shimmering hot.

"I'm done with you!" spluttered Sil-berberg. "Get me away from here if you're a gentleman!"

"If I wasn't I'd have you kicked off!" said Shayne. "You can't jump on me, if you are my guest! I'll—"

"She's refused me in a way I can't stand," protested Silberberg, with hands upflung. "She said I was dis-gusting! I can't stay!"

"Well," answered Shayne, "the Roc sails at once."

The other members of the imprisoned party were at the garage before Silber-berg. Mrs. Shayne in the cabin, Vir-ginia and Shayne in animated debate on the platform.

"Well," Shayne was saying to her, "stay, then, like a simpleton! But how are you to get away? I don't know how long the courts will keep this up, and our running the injunction won't make it any shorter!"

"It's blowing awfully," said Silber-berg.

Nobody noticed him but the pilot.

"I know it, sir," said he. "It's foot-hardly to take this gas bag out."

"Shayne," said Silberberg, "the pilot says it's not fit to go out."

"Then stay," answered Shayne.

"You're welcome to the house."

"But, Shayne," cried Silberberg, "it may mean getting whirled out to sea or—"

"Out to sea!" sneered Shayne. "And the wind southeast. Stay if you're afraid. Virginia, Mr. Silberberg's go-ing to stay with you."

Virginia walked aboard with a look of disdain, the bitterest cut of all. The winches drew back the leaves of the great roof to let out the Roc, and the surge of the outer air filled the garage with windy tumults. Silber-berg suddenly resolved to go and leaped to the gangplank. The drawbridge roof dropped down; the Roc, huge, stately and majestic, went out of her vast nest.

Shayne sullenly gave orders to lay a course dead for Temagami in spite of the northwesterly wind back of the clouds. By waiting for the turn of the wind they might have made New York, but every mile of nothing took them farther from the central "low" and into a larger circle of the huge whirl of the gale. The pilot knew that Temagami was out of the question, though the wind blew dead toward it—nay, because of that fact, for a high wind never blows straight, but always in a circle about the "low." So Shayne, violating the rules of weather outside to make sunshine within, was not surprised when told that they were approaching the line of reversal—the turn of the wind.

"Head against it," ordered Shayne, "and cross Lake Ontario before dark if you can."

"It looks more than we can face," said the pilot. "If it is shall we run before it and try for a Pennsylvania port?"

"Use your best judgment," said Shayne.

"Yes, sir," said the pilot, whose best judgment had been to stay housed.

"And you may want to know, sir, there's some sort of craft astern and overhauling us."

"The devil!" ejaculated Shayne. "I'll take a look at her."

The binoculars revealed an aeronef perhaps five miles astern, with wide wings, in which he could see the shimmer of blades in rapid revolution. The exclusive rights of the Virginia, the singular swiftness and power of the flight of this aeronef and the shimmer in her wings assured Shayne that he was pursued by the machine which had wrecked his monopoly. They wanted to put him in jail for breaking their injunction, he raged. The shame of it—he, Finley Shayne, a fugitive for sailing God's free air in his own ship! And the danger of it, too, for Canada and safety now looked utterly unattainable.

The mountains slipped from under them, and the farms and villages took their places on the moving concave of the earth as the big ship made speed toward the Mohawk. The Roc was struck by an opposing gale; a sudden hurricane smote her decks as her momentum drove her through the north wind. She turned before it. The great concave panorama below slowly reversed and began paying off to the north as the vast aeronef drifted like a bubble to the south before the fiercest blow she had ever dared en-counter. Canada was out of the question.

"If we reach an aerial harbor," said Shayne through the speaking tube, "what do you think of trying a land-ing?"

"She'd rip to strings," said the pilot. "We'd be killed."

To the pursuing Carson the Roc seemed doomed to the aerostat ship-wreck—a shattering fall in landing or watery extinction in the open sea. And Virginia! agonizing for her, Car-son followed, watching like a wrecker when a full rigged ship drives on a reef.

And yet, even after her turn, all seemed well with the Roc. The sea lay south and east. Nothing was im-possible; but, edging into the gale with all the power of her screws, she worked stanchly off into the west. Yet Carson knew it was a losing fight, and Shayne walked the deck in agony as she gave ground at last before the wind, which howled in across the Pennsylvania mountains and beat the great hunted creature to the Dela-ware at Philadelphia.

Virginia came on deck. "Where are you, uncle?" said she.

"Oh, we're all right!"

Time enough for the trouble when the crisis came, for shipwreck in aerial voyaging has no tossing before the cyclone ere the final plunge, no wrestle with the waves, no tiring at the pumps, no roaring of white surf scab-berding the teeth of the reef. All is steady and comfortable until under-neath yawns destruction. Though every moment inevitably marked a loss of gas in the balloon once out at sea, they must keep up to win the far Afric coast or to bear around the whirl to Nova Scotia or Labrador, and in that quadrant was rain. Before that could be done the huge gas holder would grow wrinkled, flabby, weak; the car would drag her down, the stronger ones would cut everything away to lighten the ship, the weaker would drop into the brine with no hope save in the prayer time accorded by the life preservers, and finally the last man clinging to the fragments of the nacelle would see the huge mass of flapping silk and gum and tin foil drop into the waves, himself utterly lost in the utter desolation of hopeless solit-ude—food for the fishes.

Dinner was served, Shayne trying to smile and discussing with these dear women the time of reaching Temaga-mi.

Virginia, again on deck, stood gazing ahead, not knowing that their actual flight was astern. She thought she was looking toward her destination. She had lost sight of the Virginia, and she was not sorry or displeased to have Carson give chase unsuccessfully. She was very angry with him.

Suddenly she looked astern and was amazed that such a body of water had been passed without her knowing it, as one journeying over a prairie might feel to look behind and see an ocean. The subtle expression of the tossing waves told her that this was the open sea. For miles and miles she saw great waves bursting in immense explosions of spindrift and spray, swept clean of shipping, the glassy rear of the racing billows throwing back to her eyes sinister glints from the rare gleams of the western sun, and out into this fierce fight of the elements the Roc was drifting stern on in spite of the frenzied thrust of her great screws into the suck of the gale.

"Uncle," said she, pointing. "I see! It's the ocean!"

"Yes," said he. "God forgive me, Virginia, for murdering you and your aunt! Go to her!"

Suddenly Virginia pressed his arm.

"Uncle"—said she.

"On board the ship!"

The call sounded in their very ears. Within thirty yards hung the Virginia, headed into the wind and drifting easily with the Roc.

"What do you propose to do?"

It was Carson's voice through the trumpet, but it sounded sweet to Shayne. He had no idea of any man-ner in which the Virginia would aid him, but the sickening speed with which he was driving out to sea made anything welcome as a modification of his despair.

"Do you understand?" shouted Car-son. "You are lost if you drift on. Drop your painter, and I'll give you a tow!"

Swallowing his pride, Shayne order-ed the painter dropped. The Virginia, running easily into the wind, dropped back, took the line and, with a word of cheer, walked up into the blast, pulled the painter taut and, like a tug with a freighter, threw herself against the pressure of the immense gas bag, and for the first time the people on the aeronef's deck clung fast and turned their faces from the wind as they felt its stroke.

"Hurrah!" came the cry from the en-gine room. "She's holding us!"

For a moment she did, and then she dropped the painter, and the abandoned Roc fell off before the storm again. The aeronef, having shown her power, had quitted its exercise. But the Vir-ginia again drew close in.

"Put on your life preservers!" cried Carson. "I'm going to put you in the water."

"No, you'll not!" said Shayne. "Wil-lett, keep her up and run before it. We'll circle the whirl and make shore."

"Mr. Willett," said Carson, "do as I say or as there is a God in heaven I'll go above, rip your envelope and let you drop from wherever you happen to be! If Mr. Shayne interferes confine him, and take orders from me—or drop from here!"

The second engineer went forward to Mr. Shayne. The answer of the others was to set the depressor screws going, and the doomed Roc, now quite over the sea, dropped nearer and near-er to the waves.

"Now," said Carson, "I'll tell you why I turned you adrift. Your envelope won't stand the strain. It had started to cave in at the bow, and in another moment it would have ripped open and dropped you. But I'm going to give it the test. If the Roc can stand the strain I believe I can tow her and land you. If she doesn't I shall drop you into the Atlantic, you'll collapse, and I can tow you in the water easily. Put on your life preservers! Hurry!"

Again the Virginia took the painter aboard and surged against the gale, but this time drifting with the wind while the life preservers were adjust-ed. Carson was confronted with a fearful alternative, if he let the Roc get out to sea she had a bare chance, though no such escape was recorded. On the other hand, dropping her in the water was an expedient full of danger. The collapsed envelope might blanket the passengers and drown them; some might be hit by breaking beams or stunned by concussion with the water from a badly judged height. And Virginia! Yet, weighing the chances, he did not hesitate.

"All ready?" he shouted.

"No!" cried Shayne. "Come back here!"

"All ready, Willett?" asked Carson.

"Yes!" cried Willett. "Go ahead!"

Slowly crowding on power, the Vir-ginia fought forward into the storm. The painter strained taut as a steel bar, and Carson wondered if it would hold. Suddenly a rainy gust bore down on them in fury, the envelope of the Roc crushed in at the bow with an awful ripping sound, and the huge steely bubble—longer than a city block, higher than a four story building—be-came a ragged cloud of tattered frag-ments, and with all on board, fell into the Atlantic and floated in a shapeless mass of wreckage.

Carson looked down to see whether the form he loved was smothered un-der the torn fabric or floating free, but never halted for the drowning of the living. He let out fifty yards of line he had made fast to the painter to give slack for the Roc's fall, and then with frenzied eagerness he dragged the whole huge mass ashore, and as the Virginia alighted on the beach her skipper, leaping out, began a fierce on-slaught on the wreckage, seeking in its chaotic mass for her whose drenched form he dreaded to see.

CHAPTER XIX.

FINALE.

THEODORE carried Virginia to a seaside cottage just in pro-cess of being put in order for its owners.

"Tell me, dearest," he kept whisper-ing, "that you are safe—safe!"

Virginia, wet, dragged, her strong little form resembling a rough cast statue of some one quite irrealistically shapely, silently hung about his neck.

"You love me!" said he. "I'm not going to let you leave me again, dar-ling!"

She squeezed his hand in gratitude. Carson went out radiant, meeting Craighead with the red mantilla on his arm.

"You all do know this mantle," said he, "but not the soul of poetry in things great. Ethically, this is a lost damsel snatched from a watery grave as she went down in the penultimate descent. I put my confounded life in pawn—for what? For a mere trum-pety kichshaw of silk with no more woman in it than a rabbit. Rotten! Rotten! This 'ere rescue ain't up to sample!"

"Craighead," said Carson, "I want you to run an errand, and be serious. Run for a doctor, Craighead. I be-lieve she loves me."

Pacing up and down the veranda, Carson was in a delicious disturbance of spirits. He forgot Shayne and his wife, but ran down to see the Virginia and found in charge the village const-able.

"I know the rules of these cases," said he to Carson. "When you give this to the papers say something about the way the police end of it was han-dled."

FINE BUNCH OF NEWS ITEMS OF GLADSTONE

(From The Gladstone Delta.)

Mrs. W. L. Marble, Jr., on Friday afternoon entertained a party of twelve friends in honor of Miss Mar-garet Slinings, whose wedding invita-tions have been issued.

J. Robert Barrett and Miss Flo-rence L. E. Pennock were married Wednesday evening, at the home of the bride's mother by Rev. E. E. Williams of Escanaba, and following the wedding dinner, left on the evening train for a brief honeymoon. They will be at home at 825 Michi-gan Ave., after next week; Mr. and Mrs. Barrett are young people with many warm friends, whose congratula-tions are heartily extended.

R. B. Baird came in Friday from McDonough's farm to spend the Fourth. He is looking much better, the simple life, milk diet, and outdoor sleeping quarters going far to restore his health.

Messrs. C. W. Malloch, J. J. Mall-mann, and Judd Yelland were in Gladstone Tuesday to attend the fun-eral of Rev. George C. Empson.

Mrs. Pennock, who will remain in Gladstone, will be again a candidate for the school board. No opposition has appeared, and this is as it should be. It is probable that hardly half a dozen votes will be cast Monday.

John Erickson returned Thursday morning from Green Bay, where he underwent an operation on his face two weeks ago. He is making a good recovery.

The Gladstone baseball nine headed by Captain Loell, Gust Lillquist, John Nelson, Albert and T. C. Ewald, and Charles Soderman, chaperoned by O. L. Mertz, went up to Days River Wed-nesday morning in Ewald's launch, and had a grand outing, picnic, fish fry and jollification on the shores of the upper bay. The program is un-fortunately not at hand to print in full. However, there is nothing to give a battling eye like fresh fish, so Escanaba may be warned to look out for her triple crown tomorrow.

Harold, the fourteen-year-old son of Charles Jacobson, had his hand badly burned and cut Sunday even-ing by a giant cracker. He will prob-ably recover without mutilation.

The consumption of water during the drouth is immense, every lawn and garden crying for it. The city's pumps are overloaded, and running constantly at high speed; they are old, and have never been rebuilt; a valve stem broke on one Tuesday, dis-abling it for several hours. The point which it is desired to impress is that in event of fire it will be impossible to maintain pressure with the mains bled at a thousand points. It is par-ticularly urgent that every user of water shut off his taps when a fire alarm is heard. The water may be bad-ly needed.

At its meeting Thursday the Water board voted one hundred dollars to the volunteer firemen, for the purchase of new uniforms. This is money well appropriated. The company has been always vigilant and efficient; it is probable that not one member has lost less in time and damaged clothing than the pay received by him for his attendance at fires, and it is several years since the company has asked the city for any assistance towards putting up a respectable front.

Many a breach of promise suit should be started against old Jupiter Pluvius for his flirtations of the past week, and any Delta county jury would award substantial damages. The crops of the northwest are fig-uratively and its forests literally burning up, while an occasional cloud and spattering of drops awakens hope only to throw it down again.

Renewed depredations on the bay front, joy-riding in motor boats and damaging them, the theft of loose articles from boat houses, and even fixtures from the boats, have anger-ed exceedingly property owners, and there is little doubt that an example will be made of the first person against whom evidence is secured. It is suggested that the owners of boats unite to hire a special policeman for a time to watch for offenders.

The ground has been like tinder for weeks. Twice the fire department has been called to the point to ex-tinguish a fire in the chips around the pumping station. On Thursday afternoon it fought a persistent fire, which was burning the very ground itself and igniting the old stumps all over block 84, behind the Catho-lic church.

Last Saturday the water board awarded the contract for laying the mains between Dakota and Montana to Chas. E. Nebel. It was resolved also that the transformers needed for the cemetery waterworks would be purchased by the board. This marks a triumph for Mayor Hammel, who has gained his point against strong opposition.

Gladstone was full of visitors Mon-day afternoon, the park, the ball ground and the streets being crowd-ed. The principal attendance was

Only an Ad-Reader Can Wisely Manage Household Finances

THE ADS. make "management" of "money matters" in the home POSSIBLE. The wife who always studies the ads. is working in business partnership with the husband—who, supposedly, has to "know things" in order to EARN the money. On her part, the wife comes to know values, and prices, and where and when and how to buy—and such knowl-edge, such education, comes chiefly through reading and answering ads.

"Household Prosperity" is assured if the wife makes Ad-Reading a part of her daily routine.

from the immediate vicinity, Glad-stone offering the main attractions in the county. It was probably the best celebration ever held here.

The Firemen's ball was again a success, about a hundred dollars being netted for the tournament fund. The boys will make a determined ef-fort to capture the big event for Glad-stone in 1911.

The Escanaba Traction company is now running special cars to handle its heavy freight here, without delay-ing the passenger schedule. Work is being done on the foundations of the warehouse.

One hundred! One hundred and one in the shade it was at Gladstone last Thursday afternoon, and citizens were seen inquiring the fare to Yu-ma, Island Diablo, and other cool places.

There was a good deal more sanity in the observance of the Fourth this year than customary, though it could not be observed that there was any diminution in the enjoyment of the day. Mayor Hammel resolutely set his face against the use of the large crackers and other dangerous contri-vances. Though there were of course violations of the law a step has been taken in the right direction, and next year should be safer than this. The large crackers are dangerous in any hands, the blank cartridges, rockets, etc., are none to safe for men to use, and it is certain that small children should not be allowed to buy them.

The baseball fans of Gladstone will make application to have their post-office address changed to Hard Luck, Mich. Gladstone lost three close, nar-rowly played games to Escanaba Sun-day and Monday, three of the best seen in the league, and which were full of interest to the end. But every occurrence that could happen to baffle or discourage Gladstone took place. The scores were 3 to 0, 1 to 0, and 5 to 3. Gladstone's flagpole may as well be sold to the highest bidder, but she will play the season out and put up a first quality of ball for the price of two bits. Escanaba here tomorrow and Monday.

Fourteen hundred and three paid a mission to the ball park. If Gladstone could have this attendance every time it would not make so much difference whether she ever won a game.

The receipts of the Yeomen on the Fourth will about balance their ex-penditures. Six hundred dollars was taken in at the stands during the day.

FORD, THE PITCHING FIND OF 1910, SHOWS FAILURE OF BASEBALL "DOPE"

RUSSELL FORD.

Russell Ford of the New York Yankees, who is regarded as the pitching find of the American league this year, has helped to prove the oft-repeated assertion that "dope" on baseball teams is the most uncertain of any in sport.

There is the turf "dope," for instance. The experts have been fairly able to figure that if "Cinch" beats "Sure Thing" and "Lead Pipe" throws dirt in the eyes of both of them, it is as good as money in your pocket to have a bet on "Cinch" when he is in a race with "Lead Pipe" and "Sure Thing" because he has recently trimmed "Lead Pipe." Sometimes it fails, but more often it will not.

In pugilism "Pug" and "Knocker-out" battle to a draw. "Left Swing" hammers the life out of "Right Jab." Then "Right Jab" turns around and trims "Pug." Along comes "Upper Cut" and he whales both "Left Swing" and "Right Jab." Then some promoter matches "Upper Cut" and "Knocker-out." Who should win? The "dope" says "Upper Cut."

But in baseball you have to figure on too many men. So when the season started there were few who thought the Stallings bunch would be such troublemakers in the American league. It was because they did not know just how good Ford is. Some persons say he is a better spit ball artist than Ed Walsh, which is going some. The youngster won seven straight before he lost a game. It is agreed that his great twirling has had much to do with putting the New York team up near the top, thereby showing how impossible it is to "dope" a baseball team.

Umpire Bill Evans asked Ford the other day if he really knows which way his spit ball delivery is going to break. Ford's answer was that he would demonstrate, and, according to Bill, he broke the spitter just as he said he would. On the strength of what ball players and umpires say about the New York phenom, it is not at all hard to understand why he has been meeting with such success.

Every batter of any class can be divided into three divisions, according to some of our most prominent umpires. Larry Lajole leads one section, Ty Cobb the second and Frank Schulte the third, in other words, these three great batters are the most typical of their divisions.

Lajole of Cleveland, who has stood as a leading American and National league slugger for years, stands "up to" the ball with only a trifle of a bend, and swings his bat slowly. He does not exactly walk into the ball, being more of a one-base swatter than a clean-up hitter. This is the most reliable type perhaps. The performer being a surer hitter. Others of the same class are Wagner of the Pirates, Willie Keeler, now of the Giants and a former Highlander, and Johnnie Evers of the Cubs and Crawford of the Tigers. Gessler of Washington and Stahl of the Boston Red Sox are other notable examples.

Ty Cobb, the great Tiger slugger, is the nervous type. His body forms a sort of an arch, and he swings his bat faster and faster as the pitcher unwinds. He puts all the strength of his body into the final swing, and if he hits the ball it is "good night." This is the clean-up type. Doubles, triples and home runs often fall to the lot of the leaders in this division. The Cubs have many in their lineup who bat according to this style. Manager Chance is one and Joe Tinker another. Terry Turner of the Naps falls into the same category, and so does Killifer of the Senators.

Then comes the silent type, best exemplified by Frank Schulte of the Cubs. To the average fan these batters appear careless. They stand like a statue, calm and almost motionless. Perhaps the batter may give one swing before letting go. They stand and eye the pitcher out of countenance. Of all the batters, this type is most feared by the pitchers. There is a grimace in the situation. The batter seems to say, "I'm laying for you, old kid."

Some of the best batters of the decade belong to this classification. In addition to Schulte there is Speaker of the Red Sox, one of last year's sensations. Dougherty of the Sox is another. You can almost imagine they are yawning with ennui as they stand up at the plate. Their position gives them an excellent birdseye view of the ball as it hurtles through the air, and they have an excellent chance to aim.

Everything in baseball today is the signal system. The marvelous performances of the Cubs, the irresistible rush of the Tigers and the sensational play of other teams owes much of its brilliance and seeming luck to team signals. Even the umpires find it profitable to understand some of the signals while officiating. Of course, it keeps them guessing a lot, because signals often are switched in a game, but they come to know, in a general way, what is going to be pulled off.

The authority for this statement is President "Tip" O'Neill of the Western league, who was once an umpire himself. "Understanding signals in a general way was often a help to me," said O'Neill. "For example, the umpire would often be caught napping on a base decision if he didn't know that a steal or hit-and-run signal was given. This enables him to keep one eye on the play and the other on the other angle of the play. It has been said that the umpire might give some of the plays to the other team if he knew the signals. That's all both. No umpire could do that and retain his job."

"Umpiring is one of the hardest jobs in all creation, and for that reason every little thing helps that aids him in his general all-round work. It is easier in the big league nowadays where there is a man on the bases all the time. That takes away nine-tenths of the worry from the man deciding the strikes and balls."

Evers "In Bad" Again. Didn't we tell you Johnny Evers couldn't help it? He started out the season saying he intended to be good and not have trouble with the umpires, et al. It wasn't until he had drawn a three day suspension for doing the very thing he said he wasn't going to do. Now the latest is a charge filed by the Pittsburg management that Evers made faces at people in Pittsburg grand stand when they ridiculed the Chicago players for bad work. Isn't it just like Johnny to have done it whether he did or not?

When Magee Swallowed His Quid. Although George Needham of New Britain swallowed a quid or tobacco while playing second base last season, it is doubtful if any one ever had the experience of Magee of the Phillies, in Brooklyn the other day. He made a hit good for four bases, but swallowed a quid as he was rounding second and was forced to pull up at third base to allow the process of digestion to overcome that of strangulation.

Patriot Back With Naps. Pitcher Andrew Patrick, who went home from Alexandria, La., during the Naps' training season, on account of illness, has reported to Manager Jim McQuinn and appears to be in good trim.

GOLD MEDAL FLOUR

CLEMENCEAU ATTACKED IN BIG BANK SCANDAL

(By Associated Press.)

Paris, July 11.—A great scandal involving ex-Premier Georges Clemenceau has broken out in connection with the trial of Henri Rochette, the well-known French promoter, whose financial institutions, the Franco-Spanish Bank and the Credit Minier, were closed in March, 1908, when Rochette was arrested on charges of extensive swindling. The testimony shows that immense sums of money were made by speculators immediately before the failure.

It is now charged that the arrest of Rochette was made upon direct order from Clemenceau. Several interpellations in parliament regarding the affair will be made on the 11th inst.

Clemenceau's friends intimate that former Foreign Minister Delcasse, who is an implacable enemy of Clemenceau, has taken advantage of the latter's absence in South America on a lecturing tour to spring this sensation.

Clemenceau's brothers, Paul and Albert, in an open letter characterized the attack as cowardly and declared that his public life is above suspicion.

GREEN BAY TO HAVE SKAT TOURNAMENT

Green Bay, Wis., July 11.—What promises the best state skat tournament ever played in Wisconsin is scheduled for this Aug. 14. These summer tournaments have always been popular among badger skat onkels, and the standard of entertainment established by other resort cities in the past has made it incumbent on Green Bay to outdo itself in the matter of hospitality. The response, however, has been most liberal, and $1,700 in cash prizes have already been hung up. Indications are that this amount will be added to.

MOTHERS SMOTHER
BABIES TO DEATH

Des Moines, Ia., July 11.—The fact that ninety babies have been found dead in bed during the last year in Des Moines has induced Coroner Iver G. Newlen to seek a law making it a crime for parents to sleep in bed with an infant child under two years of age. Newlen points to the fact that one baby a day has died in Des Moines during the last year and it is to reduce this mortality that he advocates a new law.

TELEPHONE COMPANIES PAY THEIR TAXES

Lansing, Mich., July 11.—Auditor General Fuller states that all the telephone companies in the state have complied with the order of the United States district court at Grand Rapids and paid in the taxes which they say they owe the state under the repealed specific tax law. An order requiring the payment before proceeding with the case against the ad valorem tax law, was made by the court. The companies paid in $137,941.80 this year as compared with $124,000 last year, voluntarily increasing their taxes this amount.

GIVES ONE MILLION DOLLARS TO CHARITY

Grand Rapids, Mich., July 11.—At the closing session district grand lodge No. 6, B'Nal Brith representing the states of Michigan, Illinois, Iowa, Wisconsin and Minnesota, David Wiener, of Chicago was elected president. The organization's gifts for charity are placed at a million dollars annually.

DIAZ IS PRESIDENT FOR SEVENTH TIME

Mexico City, July 11.—General Porfirio Diaz, who will be eighty years old the 13th of September, was yesterday re-elected president of Mexico for the term of six years, this being the seventh time he has been chosen. Ramon Corral was elected vice president. Reports from all states in the Mexican union are to the effect that in the electoral colleges, which met Sunday, Diaz and Corral won overwhelming victories.

Diaz was first elected president in 1876, to serve four years. He has been president ever since with the exception of four years—1880-1884, when Manuel Gonzalez was chief executive. Until 1892 the president was chosen for four years; since that time the term has been six years. General Diaz is hale and hearty.

WILL GIVE A TALK ON RARE EDITIONS

Capt. Alanson Himes of London, England, American Representative of Famous Printing Society, is in the City with Samples of Rare Volumes—The Details.

Capt. Alanson Himes, American representative of the Grollier Society of London, England, an association of English printers which has been in existence for over 100 years and which has produced some of the most famous and most exquisite editions placed before the world during that period, is in the city and at the Carnegie Public Library at three o'clock tomorrow afternoon will give a talk on rare editions of books, bindings, etchings, etc. Among the works issued by the Grollier society is an edition of Dickens in twenty-six sets, each set valued at $130,000 and numerous editions which have sold at from $10,000 to $50,000 per set. The society is now issuing a set of 200 volumes, each volume containing less than forty pages and selling at $1,000 or more per volume.

Captain Himes is accompanied by J. T. Loweth of the Irving Squire company of New York and Chicago, the financial agents for the Grollier society in the west, and the purpose of their exhibit is to bring to the American public the knowledge and appreciation of the best in art, literature and bindings, and to protect them against the widespread practice of falsifying on the public inferior publications, misapplied copyrights, etc.

Included in the exhibit, which will be made at the Carnegie by Capt. Himes and Mr. Loweth tomorrow afternoon are some of the rarest volumes extant. There are about two dozen of these volumes representing an aggregate value of from $25,000 to $30,000. They have one volume, a part of a set of 200, which alone is valued at $1,000 or $200,000 for the set. Every mark on this volume represents a work of art as never before seen in this country, and lovers of rare editions will enjoy seeing this one volume alone. The other volumes also are great works of art, special attention being given to the bindings, and, according to Captain Himes, the longer the volumes are used the more beautiful they become.

FINANCES ADJUSTED; ANNEN CO. TO STAY

Escanaba business men and firms who have had dealings with the Annen Candy & Biscuit company of Green Bay will be interested in the following, which appeared in The Green Bay Gazette of Saturday evening:

"The financial affairs involving the Annen Candy & Biscuit company have been adjusted and the concern will continue in business in this city. The creditors agreed to the composition of 25 cents on the dollar in payment of the accounts.

"United States Judge J. V. Quarles confirmed the composition of 25 per cent to the unsecured creditors, and today the Annen company deposited with Referee in Bankruptcy T. P. Silverwood a check for $8,825 in settlement of the accounts of the unsecured claims. No meeting of the creditors will be necessary now.

"The Annen company employs about 150 people and its monthly payroll amounts to about $3,000. Creditors filed an involuntary petition in bankruptcy against the company several weeks ago, and the factory has been run under the direction of a receiver until now."

MAKE TWELVE RUNS WITHOUT A SAFE HIT

Extraordinary Performance is Puled Off on South Park Ball Field by the Tip Tops and the South Sides—Game is Weird—Continental and Richters Play Well.

"One of the most extraordinary performances ever seen on a local ball field was pulled off at South Park Sunday afternoon, when the Tip Tops scored twelve runs in one inning, the fourth, of a game played with the South Sides. Both teams are of the City league and usually play pretty good ball, but Sunday was evidently an off day, for the game they played was weird in the extreme. It resulted in favor of the Tip Tops by a score of 13 to 8, the Tip Tops making but one run outside of the twelve manufactured in that awful fourth inning. Errors, sixteen of them, by the South Sides were responsible for the avalanche in favor of the Tip Tops, who ran bases until they were tired.

Outside of that one inning, during which the South Sides apparently went completely to pieces, the South Sides played fairly good ball and would have won hands down. The batteries were Carroll and Corcoran for the Tip Tops and Shepeck and Cass for the South Sides. Shepeck allowed but three hits, while Carroll was found for seven safe swats.

The game was the second of a double-header, the first game being played by the Continentals and the Richters, also of the City league. This first game was a good one and resulted in favor of the Continentals by a score of 4 to 2. The Continentals got nine hits against four for the Richters. Both teams played almost errorless ball, and the game was one of interest. The batteries were: For the Continentals, DeLoughary and Hirm; Richters, Aronson, Lasalle and Murray. DeLoughary struck out seven men and Aronson and Lasalle combined retired six on strikes.

GUNTER SAYS

I believe Chicago merchants will ship more merchandise into section visited by the delegation aboard the steamer Roosevelt than ever before—is all the Chicago Association of Commerce will do for this city—by word of their own mouth. And this is about all we can expect from Milwaukee, Green Bay, Menominee—because the people of these towns or any other will not tear down their labors in their own towns and transplant them to Escanaba. If this city is to grow and this county to prosper, it is up to our home people to do it—you can be as live a wire as ever lived and that at no extra cost to you by buying your roasts—chops—steaks and sausages from the little man who dares to do something worth while for this town and county. His name is MIKE GUNTER.

FIGHT IS HOT

(Continued From Page 1.) eight o'clock this evening. Although there will be a large number of votes to be counted, the result of the election should be known within an hour and a half of the closing of the polls.

Two members of the board of education are to be elected to take the places of H. W. Reade and Stanley M. Matthews, whose terms have expired.

The partisans of Spencer and Leuire predict their election, while the supporters Matthews and Torell are apparently just as confident that the latter will be chosen.

WILL FRATERNALIZE WITH PHOTOGRAPHERS

A. E. Ford, one of Escanaba's leading photographers, left today for Milwaukee, where he will attend the annual convention of the Photographers' Association of America, which opens tomorrow and will continue through the remainder of the week. Mr. Ford is a member of the national association of photographers and is naturally anxious to be with its members when they get together for mutual benefit and pleasure.
