

TOWNSEND IS "GOING SOME"

Citizens of Delta County Turn Out in Large Numbers and Give Burrows' Opponent for the Senate a Fine Reception—Makes Strong Speech Here.

Congressman Charles E. Townsend candidate for United States senator, must have felt pleased and flattered with the reception and welcome accorded him during his short but strenuous campaigning trip through a portion of Delta county yesterday.

As outlined in The Mirror yesterday, Mr. Townsend started his campaign in the afternoon at Rapid River, where he addressed a good-sized crowd of voters.

Following the Rapid River meeting Mr. Townsend and his party, which included a number of prominent Escanaba Republicans, motored over to Gladstone, where early in the evening a large and enthusiastic gathering of citizens was addressed in the open air by Mr. Townsend and Mr. McLaughlin.

McLaughlin Speaks First. The latter spoke first and then with several members of the party came to Escanaba, where he addressed the large assemblage in front of the city hall until Mr. Townsend arrived later.

"I knew Mr. Townsend a great many years; I knew him when he was in private life practicing law in the city of Jackson. I have heard of his earlier life, and I know that he was raised on a farm until he reached the years of manhood, and then he took a short course as much as his limited means would permit—in the University of Michigan, and later he took up the work of teaching school.

"I became intimately acquainted with him when I was a member of the board of state tax commissioners to assess steam railroad property in this state. You will remember, many of you, but to those who do not remember it, or have not heard of it, I wish to tell it briefly. Previous to the year 1901, the laws of this state provided that the railroad companies should pay a percentage of their earnings as taxes, instead of their property being assessed as real estate as other property always has been assessed. In 1901 a law was passed providing that their property should be assessed just as your property is assessed. As an indication of the great importance of that law I will tell you that the first assessment showed an increase over the year before of from one and a half million dollars to three and a quarter million dollars. The railroads contested the collection of that tax and started proceedings.

Get After the Railroads. "At that time Michigan was very fortunate in having an efficient attorney, general in the person of Charles A. Blair, but the suit brought by the railroad companies developed on Mr. Blair and he needed an assistant. The man for this place must be honest and one of ability and in whom implicit trust could be placed. The man selected for this work was Mr. Townsend. The work that he did for the state on this occasion, will go down as history, and some of the prettiest history of the state. The result of the suit in the United States court was entirely in accord with the position Mr. Blair and Mr. Townsend had taken, and the railroad companies were required to pay in the treasury of the state upwards of $10,000,000. A portion of that amount comes to Delta county, and is distributed to the different district schools throughout the county."

Congressman McLaughlin concluded his remarks by dwelling upon the fight Townsend made with Roosevelt in the administration railroad bill, and also the fight to take the power out of the hands of the speaker of the house and put it in the hands of the legislative body. At the close he advised the voters to vote for the one man of the candidates that is best able to represent the state of Michigan in that greatest of all legislative bodies.

Mr. Townsend Speaks. At the conclusion of his address at the Gladstone meeting, which was presided over by City Attorney Ira C. Jennings of this city, Representative Townsend hastened to Escanaba and arrived here in time to prevent

NAVAL RESERVES ARE HOME FROM CRUISE

Twelve Days' Service on the Yantic Proved Valuable—Had Actual Experience of Manning a War Vessel While Traversing the Great Lakes—Enjoyed Themselves.

Tanned and bronzed and well pleased with the results of their twelve days' cruise the Escanaba Naval Reserves have all returned home, the last detachment coming in from Marquette Friday night. The Yantic on which were the Escanaba boys stopped at the Soo Thursday on its way back to Hancock and also at Marquette Friday. At the Soo fourteen of the local Reserves left the ship and came home by rail. The remainder of them disembarked at Marquette and within a few hours were again in their own cities.

The boys all appear to be in good health and spirits, and while glad to be on land again they would not have complained if they could have sailed for several weeks longer.

The cruise this year was very successful, as was the case with those of the preceding years. The ships carrying the Michigan Naval Reserves traversed lakes Huron and Erie and St. Clair, and St. Clair and Detroit rivers, making stops at the principal ports on those waters, Buffalo, Cleveland, Detroit and Alpena. They were welcomed wherever they appeared, were treated royally, and enjoyed the cruise immensely. The sailors were obliged to man the ships, and learn the tricks of navigation so the boys will be very proficient, and able to perform their share in case of war.

The Escanaba and Hancock divisions took a prominent part among the Michigan reserves both on board the Yantic and in the competitive sports. They feel well repaid for their journey, this year's cruise probably being the most successful yet.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 20.—The forest service department has received urgent appeals from the officials of the Willowa and Crater national forests in Oregon, to send more troops to help fight the forest fires. FEAST FOR FANS

THE ESCANABA AND NEGAUNEE TEAMS WILL PLAY POST-SEASON SERIES GAMES NEXT MONTH.

Planned to Have at Least Five Games in the Series, Beginning on September 14—Three of the Games to Be Played Here—Details to Be Settled at Meeting of Team Managers Next Thursday—Games Probably Will Draw Large Crowds—The Details.

As the result of negotiations that have been in progress for some time, it appears to be practically settled that during the week of September 12, after the close of the Marquette-Iron County Baseball league's schedule, the Escanaba team of the Delta County league and the Negaunee team of the first named league will play a post-season series of at least five games, beginning on Wednesday, September 14, and concluding on Sunday, September 18. The details of the series will be arranged next Thursday, when either Manager Thoren or Captain Ed. Steimle of the Negaunee team will come to Escanaba to confer with the management of the Escanaba team.

According to the tentative plans now under consideration, it is probable that the first three games will be played in Escanaba and the last two on Saturday and Sunday, September 17 and 18, at Union Park, which is midway between Negaunee and Ishpeming.

Will Decide Championship. The Escanaba management would like to have the series consist of six games and this arrangement may yet be brought about, although it is said that the Negaunee team will disband on September 19, as two of its best players will be obliged to leave on that day for their schools.

The series with the Negaunee team will draw large crowds here and at Union Park as the games will practically decide the championship of the upper peninsula, Escanaba being the champion of the Delta County league and Negaunee having captured a like honor in the Marquette-Iron County league.

TOMORROW'S SCHEDULE OF BASEBALL GAMES

Tomorrow afternoon the Escanaba baseball team will play the Gladstone team at Gladstone, but that fact will not deprive the Escanaba fans who do not care to journey to Gladstone of an opportunity to witness exhibitions of the national game. While there doubtless are many fans who will take in the Escanaba-Gladstone game, there will be numbers who prefer staying at home. For these latter there will be a double-header provided at South park, where the Continentals and the South Sides will play the preliminary game, after which the Richters and the Tip Tops will hook up in a regulation nine inning contest. All of these teams are of the City league and are playing fast ball now. The games ought to be well contested and worth seeing.

At Gladstone, the team of that city, filled with pride over its recent creditable achievement of taking four out of five games from the Soo team, is determined to take the contest out of the Escanaba bunch and as the latter are just as determined not to get trimmed the game should develop into a battle royal.

DEATH TAKES AWAY AN OLD RESIDENT

Following an extended illness from a complication of diseases, John Carl Carlson passed away about 5:30 o'clock Friday evening at the family residence, 320 South Elm street. Mr. Carlson was a pioneer resident of Escanaba and had many friends who will earnestly regret his demise. He was 66 years old and leaves a widow, four sons and other relatives to mourn his loss.

The funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon at two o'clock from the family home and at 2:30 o'clock from the Swedish Mission church. Rev. C. A. Hogmader will conduct the services and interment will be made in Lakeview cemetery.

The Escanaba Traction company is having a thorough survey of the proposed line from Gladstone to Rapid River made by its engineer, D. A. Brotherton, with a view to determining the most economical route.

KROSICH MAKES GOOD SELF-DEFENSE PLEA

Trial of Thomas Krosich in Justice Linden's court Friday afternoon upon a charge of assault and battery, the complainant being Frank Krosobic, resulted in the acquittal of Krosich, who claimed self-defense. The jury took but very little time in finding a verdict of not guilty and Krosich was discharged. It was shown at the trial that in the trouble which the two men had Krosobic was the aggressor and that Krosich was to a large extent justified in protecting himself from Krosobic's attack. In doing this Krosich jabbed Krosobic in the face and arm with a pitchfork, causing painful but not serious wounds.

ESCANABA MASONS GO TO GLADSTONE

Friday evening a good-sized delegation of the members of Delta lodge No. 195, F. & A. M., journeyed over to Gladstone to join their brothers of the Gladstone Masonic lodge in a special communication. They left here in a special car over the interurban line at seven o'clock and returned at a late hour after all the doings were "did." It is scarcely necessary to say that they were royally treated by their Gladstone brethren and had the finest kind of a time. After the Masonic instruction, which was conducted by Grand Lecturer Frank O. Gilbert of Bay City, all present partook of a fine supper served in the theater by the Presbyterian ladies. Grand Master G. Roscoe Swift of Adrian was the particular guest of honor.

Next Monday evening Delta lodge of this city is to hold a similar special communication, to which the Gladstone Masons have been invited. Grand Master Swift and Grand Lecturer Gilbert will both be present in their official capacity and the latter will conduct a school of instruction and work on third degree. Following the business of the evening refreshments will be served.

(By Associated Press.) New Orleans, La., Aug. 20.—Cablegrams received here, today from Bluefields say that the revolution in Nicaragua has ended and that the Madriz and Estrada factions have agreed upon terms of peace.

At the headquarters of the Madriz faction it was declared that no such telegram had been received there.

Madriz Out of Presidency? Estrada sympathizers say they have information that Madriz is no longer president, but they do not admit the war has ended.

Cablegrams to steamship companies announce that Madriz has been succeeded to the presidency by Jose Estrada, a brother of General Estrada, leader of the revolutionists. Jose Estrada is one of former President Zelaya's followers.

J. E. COLE GIVES UP POST IN HIGH SCHOOL

J. E. Cole, who has for the last three years been at the head of the commercial department of the Escanaba High school, has tendered his resignation from that position to the board of education, which will be obliged, much to its regret and with great reluctance to accept. An inducement in the form of increased salary was offered Mr. Cole to reconsider his determination to resign, but it was of no avail, Mr. Cole having decided to leave the post he has so satisfactorily filled to accept a responsible and more lucrative position with the Escanaba Manufacturing company. He has already entered upon the duties of his new position and his many friends will rejoice to know that he is to retain his residence in Escanaba.

AN UPPER PENINSULA MAN LED RAILROAD LEGISLATION.

The desperation with which the Warner machine is fighting to perpetuate itself, in the face of an almost state-wide repudiation of its candidate for governor, is best exhibited in the speeches of Candidate Kelley wherein he decries and attacks the Osborn candidacy because of Mr. Osborn's residence in Sault Ste. Marie. Kelley has argued that an upper peninsula man will not give the state a square deal in administration affairs. Just what Mr. Kelley knows about a "square deal" is yet to be learned, for his long association with the Warner machine has left a record unmarked by any act indicating a desire to protect the people's interests. It is Mr. Kelley's clamor that too many important state issues are pending to trust to a man who lives above the straits of Mackinaw, and he practices the bold deception of declaring that the Warner administration brought about the legislation which enriched the primary school fund in the state by railroad taxation.

Mr. Kelley is, as usual, mistaken, to put it mildly. The railroad legislation which brought in the large primary school funds, was initiated by Governor Pingree and was enacted during the first term of the Bliss administration, and the committee which framed the bill, and reported it for passage, was named by Lieut.-Gov. Robinson, an upper peninsula official. Kelley nor none of the Warner machine had any hand in the passage of the bill, and Lieut.-Gov. Robinson of the upper peninsula in naming the special committee to handle this important matter, selected senate leaders from all sections of the state, and in no way attempted to "stack" the committee, a practice which flourished during Kelley's presidency of the senate.

Such are the facts in the situation, and they completely refute the state-

200 CHRISTIAN SECTS IN THE UNITED STATES

Census Bureau Statistics Show That Heathen Beliefs Flourish in This Country.

(Special U. T. Service.) Washington, Aug. 20.—Religious freedom in the United States shelters under its tolerant and ample folds thousands of representatives of a number of the so-called heathen beliefs, in addition to more than 200 various sects of Christianity, according to census bureau statistics dealing with the religious life of the country. Among the former are Buddhists, Confucianists and Bahais, who are engaged in an organized way in the spread of their doctrines in this country.

The data forming the basis of the volume was gathered in 1906. It is now in proof. In addition to statistics of the various denominations, the work will present a brief history of each; also the pertinent facts regarding their doctrine and polity. The compilation is the work of Dr. Edwin M. Bliss.

Confucianism is Prevalent. The followers of Confucianism organized in New York City in 1907 among the Mongolian students in Columbia University.

The organized followers of Buddhism are Chinese and Japanese. There are sixty-two Chinese and twelve Japanese temples in this country, the former being distributed over twelve, the latter over three states. California shelters all but three of the Japanese and more than half of the Chinese houses. New York boasted fifteen of the Chinese temples, the remainder being scattered over ten states, mostly in the West.

In a way the Hindu religion is represented by the Vendanta society, with organizations in New York, Pittsburgh, San Francisco and Los Angeles. It was organized in 1893.

While Bahalism, strictly speaking, is non-Christian and foreign, its followers are native and not necessarily un-Christian.

Another church of Asiatic origin, but still Christian, is the Armenian, whose organizations are mostly in the eastern states.

The eastern orthodox churches, or Greek Church, has 129,606 commu-

"DAMN" IS RUDE AND VULGAR WORD ANYWAY

Rev. W. O. Wallace, Bethany Presbyterian church, is astounded at the decision of a New York magistrate, who recently said that the word "damn" was not profane. "I have always considered the word profane and will continue to do so in spite of the decision of the New York Judge," said Rev. Wallace. "There is no doubt that the public in general and the lexicographers agree that the word has a significance. The expletive 'damn' is rude and vulgar, and is never used by people who are careful in their speech."

MRS. BARBER GETS THE PROPERTY

(Special U. T. Service.) Canton, Ohio, Aug. 20.—By a court decision Mrs. M. C. Barber, sister of the late widow of President McKinley, was given title to one-half of the property known as the McKinley Block in Canton valued at $45,000. James McKinley, a nephew of President McKinley, and other heirs-at-law of the late executive, brought suit to get possession of the property, but the court held that the title of Mrs. Barber is valid and that the property belongs to her.

(Special U. T. Service.) Cincinnati, Aug. 20.—Surgeons at the City hospital believe that John Lohray, a cooper, who applied for treatment last night, has the largest nose in the world. Lohray is suffering of elephantiasis of the nose. The nose will be amputated.

any delay following Mr. McLaughlin's remarks. He was introduced by Attorney H. J. Rushon and from the opening to the close of his powerful address held the close attention of his auditors, who frequently applauded him. In part Representative Townsend said:

"I am here as a candidate for the United States senate, to succeed Mr. Burrows in 1911. I am here because the people in the state of Michigan are going to have the right to elect a United States Senator. I will say that Senator Burrows and myself both agreed in writing that whichever received a plurality, there would only be one candidate for the office in the election in November, therefore your vote at the primary will decide the question as to who the man is. I am very glad indeed that they have finally adopted this method. I have always declared for it, even before I was so actively interested in politics. I was very glad to see this method adopted for I think that it should be the privilege of the people to elect all officers, from the president down to the coroner.

Refers to Corporations. "A few years ago there was a hundred or more different railroad systems in the country, now there are but six; a few years ago there were 100 oil lines, but now there is only one, and that is the great Standard Oil company. They are doing business on a large scale. They have their representatives at Washington to attend to their affairs for them, exerting their power and influence in favor of their company. The people of the United States should have their representatives at Washington. The life in Washington is not quite like it is here in Escanaba or down in Jackson. It is the center of the social life of the country; it is the cheapest place to own real estate. This is the city where the government pays half of the taxes.

"When you send a man to this city you want to be sure that he will make the right kind of laws. When the big corporations maintain a lobby at Washington to be sure that they get the right kind of laws, they try to keep everything out that will be harmful to them. I want to say to you that the voters of the country can send a man to Washington that will pass laws that will be in the interest of the people. I am saying to you that you can do it. You are not organized. You are going to depend upon your representative, therefore you should select your representative, and the representative that you want. If you select one that will be responsible to you, and you do not like him, you can discharge him; therefore I say it is within your power to select the man you want.

Select Your Own Man. "This is the first time a man running for senate has been chosen by the people, and I think it is a mighty good thing that he is, for I think it is a good thing for the man to come to Michigan once in six years and see how the people are living in Michigan. I have traveled in fifty-one counties of Michigan, and I think I know more of the state of Michigan than I did when I started out. I have been going forty days, speaking from five to twenty-five times a day. I think a whole lot of Michigan, and don't you know, I think it is a mighty sight better than Rhode Island. I think it is about time that two senators from Michigan be elected instead of one of them from Rhode Island. Therefore, I say I am in favor of you selecting the man you want.

All One and the Same. "The relations between the upper and lower peninsulas have not been as close as they might be. They do not hear from each other as they should. The papers above and below the straits do not have the circulation back and forth that they should have. When I returned home recently I found such an article as this in the papers: 'A meeting had been held in Kalamazoo and there were two or three gentlemen from the upper peninsula down there, and they said that they were going to deliver the upper peninsula to Mr. Burrows,' and said they could do it. But I have learned to believe since I have met you people face to face, that we are all one and the same kind and while that line of water running across the straits does now exist only for the time being, it will be overcome by the ambitions of the people of both peninsulas. Therefore, I say, gentlemen, we are going to elect a United States senator from all of Michigan and not for just the lower peninsula or the upper peninsula but both peninsulas. The votes are going to come from both peninsulas and in doing so the senator who is elected will certainly owe allegiance to both peninsulas.

He is a Progressive. "I am a progressive Republican and believe in doing what is best for the Republican party and the people at large. We have got to do these things and we can't trust either Aldrich or Cannon but we are sure to have better things tomorrow than we are having today. "Of course there are a class of leaders in congress as there are everywhere, but some of the time we find that the forces back home selecting them and sending them to congress, are not working in the interest of the people. I am glad to say that all of us are not that way at home. I have seen a good many men who said they were for me, but they said it in a whisper. I asked them what was the matter—what they were so quiet about it for, and they would tell me that there was a certain political boss in town who would make it hot for them if he found it out. Gentlemen, you must not expect good clean government at the hands of your representatives unless you are yourself an honest, clean man, and willing to come out and say so.

Fight for Law Observance. "I have no fight against the corporations individually. But I have a fight against the corporations when they try to get to people's money dishonestly. I say when they do that I have a fight against them. I want to say that all I want to fight them for is to make them obey the law, the same as you and I. Roosevelt said they were not obeying the law, and went after them. The Standard Oil company was made possible by the lower rates it received, that were not received by the little ones. The little companies were unable to sell in competition with the big corporation, and they were finally forced to sell out to them. You will remember that some of our coal deposits and forest reserves in the west were being taken in and gobbled up by certain parties. President Roosevelt said that should not be done. Some of the senators said he had 'better let well enough alone.' Roosevelt started the secret service men at work, and traced some of this fraudulent work right down into the seats of the senate. Investigation showed that these were the very men who said, 'Better let well enough alone.'

Vote for Your Choice. "I do not believe that we are going to allow party leadership to exist except through reason. I believe that those men that went down to Kalamazoo from the upper peninsula were wrong. I know they were wrong. If I can get your vote by convincing you that I am right, I hope to get your vote, but not because you are employed by somebody, and you must vote as somebody says. This is one of the great troubles of the politics of today.

"On the sixth day of next September you go to the primary to vote your choice for senate, and the man who goes to cast his vote on the Republican ticket is going to make his choice for the next senator from Michigan. If that choice falls to me I promise you to do my duty as I see fit. I hope if I shall be elected that I can come back to this city in the course of a year or two and that you will be glad to see me because you believe I have tried to do my duty to all of the people in this splendid state of Michigan."

Congressman Townsend, accompanied by Congressman McLaughlin and State Senator Arthur J. Tuttle of Lansing, left early this morning for Manistique and Sault Ste. Marie. He will address a meeting at the Soo this evening. It is estimated that the audience which heard him here numbered fully 1,500 people.

The Chocolate Furnace Explosion Last January is to be Aired in Court—Story.

(Special U. T. Service.)
 Marquette, Mich., Aug. 20.—As the result of the gas explosion at the Chocolate furnace on January 5, last, which three men were killed outright and a fourth was fatally injured, two suits for damages have been started in circuit court against the Lake Superior Iron & Chemical company, the owners of the plant. The suits are brought by Mary G. Deasy, administratrix of the estate of John R. Deasy, deceased and William J. McCormick, administrator of the estate of Charles Doitel, deceased. O'Brien and LeGendre are the attorneys for the plaintiffs in both suits and in each instance damages to the amount of $30,000 are prayed for.

not preventing them from going to the top of it, presumably for the purpose of fixing a valve which was not working as it should.
 According to the furnace officials' story of the accident at the time it occurred, the men went up to fix the valve against the advice of the foreman in charge and could have gone up and down the stairs outside the stack just as well as by going through the small room in which the explosion occurred.

PARISIAN POLICE BREAK UP HERO TRUST

Paris, Aug. 20.—A run on the Carnegie hero fund came to an end here today through the watchfulness of the Paris police. For days the newspapers have been filled with acts of bravery by boys of from 12 to 16 years.
 Daily two or three rescues have been made at the river and the canals by mere tots.
 Today it was discovered that there existed a band of small boys who were in the habit of drawing lots to see which should fall into the water and which effect the "rescue."
 Together with the dripping lad the "hero" would hurry to the nearest police station and claim the reward given the rescuer of a drowning person, after which the boys would sell the story to one of the newspapers and divide the proceeds.

Story of the Tragedy.
 It will be remembered that the explosion occurred on the day the furnace went into blast and is supposed to have been caused by one of the four men who were killed carrying a lighted torch into a small room near the top of the stack, which was filled with gas. Three of the men were killed instantly and the fourth, Deasy, lingered for eighteen days in an unconscious state, when he, too, passed away. No one was near the four men when the explosion occurred, and just what they were doing in the room or the exact cause of the accident will never positively be known.
 Negligence is Alleged.
 The declarations set up that the defendant company was negligent in not warning the men of the danger of gas in and about the stack and in

WANT ROOSEVELT AT THE STATE FAIR

Immense Petitions are Being Signed By Thousands of Michigan Citizens Urging the Former President to Be Present—His Answer Expected Soon.

(Special U. T. Service.)
 Detroit, August 20.—America's foremost citizen, Theodore Roosevelt may attend the Michigan state fair in Detroit, Sept. 19-24.

He will, that is, if he heeds the invitations being poured in on him by the foremost citizens in the state at the request of the state fair management.

Already a list of 42,000 signatures to an invitation has been secured from the members of the state grange, and 100,000 more are coming soon from the members of the fraternal and Masonic bodies of the state.

The grangers have invited Roosevelt to address the members of their organization on Wednesday, grange day, of fair week. The grange will attend in a body on that day and Roosevelt will, it is believed, appreciate the honor and will take advantage of this opportunity of talking to so many farmers.

Truman H. Newberry, former secretary of the navy, President J. L. Snyder of the Michigan Agricultural college, Mayor Breitmeyer of Detroit, Congressman Denby, Governor Warner, U. S. Rep. Samuel Smith, John R. Whelan, collector of customs, and dozens of other prominent men have sent their personal invitations urging the ex-president to be present.

Roosevelt's answer to all these numerous invitations will not be received for a week or so yet, but in the meantime the strenuous efforts made will be continued.

HIDDEN DANGERS. Nature Gives Timely Warnings That No Escanaba Citizen Can Afford to Ignore.

DANGER SIGNAL NO. 1 comes from the kidney secretions. They will warn you when the kidneys are sick. Well kidneys excrete a clear, amber fluid. Sick kidneys send out a thin, pale and foamy, or a thick, red, ill-smelling urine, full of sediment and irregular of passage.

DANGER SIGNAL NO. 2 comes from the back. Back pains, dull and heavy, or sharp and acute, tell you of sick kidneys and warn you of the approach of dropsy, diabetes and Bright's disease. Doan's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys and cure them permanently. Here is proof in the statement of a nearby resident.

Mrs. W. D. Bigger, 310 Ludington St., Menominee, Mich., says: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills and have a hesitation in publicly recommending them. My kidneys were badly disordered and I had pains through the small of my back and other parts of my body. I had often heard of Doan's Kidney Pills being a good remedy for lame back and disordered kidneys and I decided to try them. Procuring a box, I began their use and was very much pleased with the results."

Our Daily Short Story

Metamorphosed

By DOROTHEA HALE

Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.

The manager of burlesque opera sat at his desk. He had given out that he needed one who could take a woman's part to act, dance and sing. A girl about twenty years old, comely, with a good figure and a bright face, entered.
 "Dance?" asked the manager.
 The girl replied by pirouetting about in good style.

"Sing?"
 She ran the scale. Her voice was a full, round soprano and very sweet. The range was remarkable.
 "Act?"
 She recited a passage in a well known play.

"You are engaged."
 Miss Fredrica Harrow proved a success. She had in her a certain spirit of delivery that was especially appropriate to the parts she took. One role she played was that of a female Mephistopheles. When the audience left the theater after the performance they felt that they had been under the influence of a deliciously bad girl.

One Sunday morning the manager went to church. It is possible for a manager of a burlesque troupe to go to church and with religious motives. But this manager did not go with such motives. He went because he had heard that in the choir was a remarkably fine tenor. The services opened with a tenor solo. The manager was astonished. There was Miss Harrow in man's clothes. He not only recognized her by her face, but through her voice, which was Miss Harrow's lower notes.

But there was one difference between Miss Harrow soprano and Miss Harrow tenor. The latter was as heavenly as the former was devilish. She sang an "Ave Maria," and it seemed that an angel rather than a mortal was praying to the Virgin. The manager did not wonder that the tenor was exciting attention. But he had no use for him in burlesque opera. He expressed the good, and with that the manager was not concerned.

"Where were you last night?" asked the manager the next day when Miss Harrow came to rehearsal.
 "At home."

The manager said no more. He had slept over the tenor's identity and had come to the conclusion that he could not be Miss Harrow.
 Not long after that a man in his troupe fell sick, and there was no one to take his part.

"How low are his lowest notes?" asked Fredrica.
 The manager told her, and she said that she thought she could take the part. He also asked her to sing the lower notes, but she said she couldn't jump right into them; she must get it by practice. She left him, agreeing to be ready for the part when required.

Miss Harrow in man's clothes was a very different person from Miss Harrow in woman's clothes. In the first place, instead of singing the part in a low soprano voice, she sang it as a tenor. In the second, she made a failure in her action. Instead of being adapted to burlesque, she sang as if she were in oratorio.

"What the dickens is the matter with you?" said the manager after the first act. "Your singing is all right—indeed, it's a wonder for a woman—but you act as if you were preaching a sermon."

Miss Harrow hung her head and looked hurt. However, she finished the performance, and before the manager could catch her to find any more fault with her she had gone home. But the next day when she went into the theater she tackled her.

"There was something funny about your work last night. How did you get down to a real baritone, and what made you act like a clergyman?"
 "I told you that with a little practice I could do the low notes, and, as for my acting, the part is different from those I've been playing. It is not a rollicking role."

"And it wasn't taken out of a hymn book, either."
 "I'm sorry. I thought I could take baritone parts sometimes."

"So you can, but not where there's any devilry in them."

In a few weeks the regular baritone was down again.
 "I think," said Fredrica, "I can take that role. It's more serious."

"Who'll take your part?"
 "I think I can take them both."
 "Nonsense!"

"I'll show you how it can be done tomorrow at rehearsal." And she tripped away.

When the rehearsal came and the manager went out to the stage to conduct it he was more bewildered than ever. There were two Fredrica Harrows, fine and superior.

"How's this?" asked the manager, staring from one to the other.
 "Permit me," said Fredrica, "to introduce my twin brother, Frederick Harrow. He has a tenor voice."

Then she admitted that she had substituted him for herself in the man's part; that while she was all frolic he was religiously emotional.
 "Well," said the manager, "I want you two. I have a scheme for an opera involving a transformation scene, man metamorphosed to woman and woman metamorphosed back to man. You two will do it to perfection."

And so it was that the twins appeared in a part prepared for them and reaped a harvest. The opera was called "The Devil and the Saint."

and the new books show there are 8,205 of them in Chicago, to say nothing of 518 Johnstons, which might be included. The Smiths are easily second, having 5,333 to their credit.

FARMER BURNS HIS HAY AND WHISKERS

(Special U. T. Service.)
 Marquette, Mich., Aug. 20.—When Joseph Labin, a Baraga county farmer, was seized with a desire to smoke, he was on his way to town with a load of hay. After lighting his pipe he threw the match over his shoulder. The hay immediately caught fire. The flames spread so fast that Labin did not have time to jump before they reached the front of the rack and burned the horses, causing them to run away. The load overturned, with Labin underneath it. His cries brought a number of boys, who were picking berries nearby, and they pulled the burning hay off of him. Labin was badly burned and is in a precarious condition. If not his life, he may lose the sight of his eyes, for his long beard caught fire and burned off, severely scorching his face. Aside from all this, one of the horses had its side almost roasted and had to be shot.

2,500,000 CHICAGOANS IS LATEST ESTIMATE

Chicago, Aug. 20.—With a new directory giving the names of 803,108 Chicagoans, and accounting for a total of 2,329,013 by usual methods of computing populations of cities, publishers of what is said to be the largest directory in the world, announced yesterday their belief that Chicago had 2,500,000 people claiming it as home. The directory compared the names they found in Chicago in 1910 with the total number of names found in the city in 1900, and comparing the latter to the census bureau's finding of that year reached an average. The Smiths no longer enjoy the distinction of being the most numerous in the directory. The Johnsons have put all others far behind them,

A Strictly Cash Business

The Escanaba Steam Laundry Co. Decide to Do Cash Business.

We have hereby decided to carry on a strictly cash business, on and after August 1, 1910.

Our reasons for doing so are as follows:
 FIRST: Our accounts being necessarily small, an endless amount of confusion and expense is entailed to an injurious degree, and the loss in collections and time and attention it requires we can give to our work rooms and insure a higher standard of work.

SECOND: Our current expenses are cash and must be paid when due. The stand we have taken is one we have been forced into and we hope all will lend us their aid.

WHEN BUYING A WATCH

We stand between you and imposition. We know all about watches—the quality of the case and the quality of the works. We time and regulate every watch we sell and guarantee every one for a full year.

We will look the watch over any time you call, time it and rub up the case to make it look like new. We will keep it under life-long supervision and see that it serves you well and faithfully.

If you get a watch from a general store 500 miles distant, it won't be satisfactory at the start, and it will be less satisfactory ever after. A 500-mile shaking and jolting is rough treatment for a watch, and you have no redress except to repent at leisure.

We sell at the same prices as mail-order houses—possibly a shade less, quality considered.

HOW TO CARE FOR SPRINGS

Life Prolonged by Giving Them Close Attention.

THEY SHOULD BE LUBRICATED

Small Quantities of Oil Put on Now and Then Will Help—Little Things Count in General Upkeep of Automobile.

Life in springs will be prolonged if they are properly lubricated, since rust will be aborted, and when springs are allowed to rust up the pitting which follows marks the point of failure simply because the rust indentation has the same effect as a notch, which is made in a test proof to make it fracture easier and to mark the point of rupture; the real (desired) spring action will follow and unequal strains will not take place. Take half elliptical springs for illustration. They are made up of a plurality of flat leaves, each shorter than the other, all of the same width and all given a bow so contrived that the extreme fiber strain will be the same in each plate when the spring is deformed under the load it is designed to carry.

The reason for using several plates is to limit the extreme fiber strain, considering a given span of the plates and a given action in the transverse plane, as well as to absorb energy and put a quietus on the motion of the body. It would be possible to use a spring made of one plate only were the same tapered from the center out in such a way as to afford such limber qualities as the word implies.

When springs are properly made the plates press on each other with sufficient force to cause them to seize, and the action will then be "ferce." At the instant of seizing the local strains set up in the fiber of the plates is enough to cause rupture in many cases, and the only way to abort this very undesirable performance is to lubricate the spring, which to do requires that it be relieved of its load, when it will return to its open position. If all the plates are bowed to a common radius, since each one is different in length from the other, the ends will open up, and an oil can may then be used to squirt oil on the plates forming the laminae.
 Since spring plates are rolled with a concave surface, so that there is room for the oil between them, and in conformity with the behavior of the lubricating oil, it will tend to stay on the plates rather than to be squeezed out, since it will flow to the center, away from high levels, when it is heated or put under pressure. An acid free mineral oil, such as is used in cylinders of motors, is suitable for the purpose for reasons as follows: (a) It will not gum or evaporate; (b) it will not etch the material; (c) it will afford the requisite lubricating properties.

Long life, when flat plate springs are considered, would seem to be due to the use of very wide, thin plates rather than relatively narrow, thick plates. Makers of springs sell them on a pound basis, and the thicker the plates the lower will be the price, simply because the number of plates which will have to be handled per hundredweight will be lowered as the thickness is increased. Matters of this sort, while they involve the commercial side of the situation, have to be taken into account when users of cars are trying to get all they can out of the springs.

Retainers, if they are properly placed, will help out marvelously, especially if the plates are thick and a limited number of them are used. It might look as if lubrication is not desirable under such conditions, but it is only necessary to remember how fiercely a clutch will behave if the lubrication is awry and how well the same clutch will pick up and hold its load when attention is given to the lubrication. It is the same problem; the clutch refuses to work properly when the metal contacts and seizes, and the springs act in precisely the same way.

Be Careful of Tires.
 The motorist should be particularly careful not to impose unnecessary hardships upon the tire equipment if he expects to secure maximum service. A car should never be driven in street car tracks nor the tires allowed to come in contact with obstructions that can by a little care be avoided. Likewise corners should not be taken at high speed. A moment's consideration will show the effect produced as the car skirts around and the force the tires must withstand. Also driving at top speed the greater part of the time will result in the tire mileage being less than would otherwise be obtained.

The Best Spark.
 The spectroscopy, which is an instrument employed in determining the position of bodies by color comparison, has never been successfully employed in connection with the spark at the gap of a plug in an ignition system of an automobile. The best spark is the one which dissipates the largest amount of energy in the gas, and the measurement of the energy cannot be accomplished by the simple method of gaging at the spark as I decided that it is good because it is yellow or better because it is blue.

The Girl and the Bill

By Bannister Merwin
ILLUSTRATIONS BY RAY WALTERS

CHAPTER IX—Next morning Orme goes to "44," a tenement in N. Parker street. He makes a purchase in the ground floor store and receives in his change the marked bill. Orme, together with the girl, goes to the third floor. Orme calls on Alla, clairvoyant, on the fourth floor and persuades her to allow him to use the fire-escape to enter the rooms below. He conceals himself under a covered table in Arima's front room.

CHAPTER X—Arima has called—Alacran, Fortiol and the Japanese minister. Under the table, he finds a loose drawer containing the stolen papers and substitutes for them some mining prospectuses. Japanese and Boston Americans argue over the papers and Orme hears enough to convince him that they are of international importance, with a time-limit for signatures of that night midnight. Arima produces the papers from the drawer without detecting Orme's presence, and the substitution is discovered.

CHAPTER XI—The girl appears and leaves again after being told that "The American" has the papers. Alacran and the Japanese minister agree to work separately to "find the American," and the papers. They go away and Arima goes into another room. Orme attempts to get away, is discovered and set upon by Arima and Maku, down them both, and climbs the fire-escape to Alla's flat. She hides him in her ghost-chair.

CHAPTER XII—Orme escapes in a ghost costume during a séance given by Alla. Maku and Arima, who have refused to leave the rooms where they know Orme is, discover his hiding place. Orme is seen by them. On the side-walk he encounters Alacran.

CHAPTER XIII—Orme goes to find Tom Wallingham. Alacran hangs on and tries to get the papers or, if Orme in delay with them beyond midnight. Late afternoon, the refrigerator manufacturer's office is almost deserted. Wallingham has gone to Arsdale. Orme cannot safely dispose of the papers or even examine them for a clue to "Giri." During the excitement caused by one of Alacran's tricks, Orme sees the girl and follows her back to the office. He steps in front of a giant specimen refrigerator into which the girl has stepped to avoid Alacran. He is pushed inside and the door closes on them both.

CHAPTER XIV—They face death from suffocation in an airtight marble-lined tomb. Even now "Giri" does not tell her name but they confess their mutual love. Orme breaks the thermometer coils and attracts the attention of a late-going clerk. They are liberated.

CHAPTER XV—Alacran is on watch but after "Giri" telephones to her father they get away in a hired motor car to Evanston. The chauffeur turns out to be Maku. He runs them to a quiet spot where they meet another motor. Orme pretends to consult the papers under the seat, but drops them in the road.

Orme looked over his shoulder at the girl. She was clutching the door of the tonneau and leaning forward, staring with horrified eyes.

"Keep cool," he counseled.

Her answer was a moan of anguish, and he realized that she feared for him.

Suddenly she began to call for help. Twice her cries rang out, and then one of the Japanese leaped into the tonneau and placed his hand over her mouth, smothering her voice.

The sight of this action was too much for Orme. He began a furious effort to break away from his captors. One sudden motion freed his right arm from Arima's clutch, and he reached for Maku's throat. But after a moment of scuffling, he was again held securely.

"Giri!" he shouted, "don't try to call out. Keep quiet."

The Japanese in the tonneau appeared to understand the words, for he took his hand away from the girl's mouth, though he remained beside her, ready to put an end to any fresh outbreak.

"Now," said Orme, turning his eyes on Arima, "what does this mean?"

"You give us papers," replied the Japanese softly.

"I have no papers that mean anything to you."

"We see. Give them to me."

"What papers do you want?" demanded Orme.

"You know," Arima's voice sounded less patient.

"But I have nothing that you care anything about," repeated Orme.

At that Arima began rapidly to search Orme's pockets. There was sufficient light from the lamps of the two cars to illuminate the scene.

Arima's left hand still held Orme's right forearm, and his right hand was free to hunt for the papers. Maku, on the other side, had meantime strengthened his grip on Orme's left arm, at the same time raising one knee so that Orme could feel it pressing against the small of his back.

"What this!" asked Arima, taking a long envelope from the inner pocket of Orme's coat and holding it up for inspection.

"A blank contract," said Orme. "Do you want it?"

Arima took the paper from the envelope and examined it. Then with an exclamation of disgust he replaced it in Orme's pocket, and continued his search.

"You see," said Orme calmly, "there is nothing here."

The Japanese, muttering in his own tongue, ran his hands over Orme's body and even looked into his hat. Nothing was found.

"You might as well believe me first as last," exclaimed Orme. "The papers you want are not here."

Arima was clearly puzzled. "You had them," he began.

"Possibly. But I haven't them now. How would you feel if I should tell you that the young lady and I have made this journey simply to throw you off the scent, and that the papers were being delivered by another person?"

"I not believe," declared Arima shortly.

Suddenly Maku began to jabber at Arima, who, after an instant of consideration, gave a quick order to the fourth Japanese, who stood by. This man went to the tonneau and got the prospectuses which Orme had placed under the seat cushion.

Arima snatched the papers with his free hand, then, resigning Orme entirely to Maku's care, and clucking strangely, opened them.

A glance sufficed. With a cry of disappointment, he tore the paper in two and threw them to the ground.

He thrust his face close to Orme's. "Where the papers?" he said.

Orme did not reply.

The Japanese who had brought the prospectuses from the tonneau now stepped to Maku's assistance, for Orme had made a motion of the body which the spirits to that he was rapidly losing his patience.

"Queek!"

Still no answer.

"Ha!" The exclamation had a ring of triumph. "Mees have um!" He nodded toward the car where the girl still sat.

"No," exclaimed Orme vehemently. "She has not."

"Mees have um," repeated Arima. "We hunt. We see."

"I tell you she has not," said Orme. "No believe you," Arima chuckled. "Come, mees."

As Orme twisted himself around, he was enraged to see the Japanese in the car seize the girl by the arm and drag her to the ground. Once on her feet, she did not resist, but permitted herself to be led toward the little group.

Arima advanced a step to meet her. "Give me papers," he said.

"I have no papers," she protested despairingly.

"We search you," said Arima, taking another step toward her and extending his hands.

It may be that Arima did not intend actually to lay hands on her. His thought may have been that the threat would induce Orme to tell where the papers really were. But the effect on Orme was to set him ablaze with anger.

His swift, indignant purpose seemed to multiply his strength until the little men who held him were like children in his hands.

A sudden jerk, and he had pulled both his arms free. Maku and the man at his other side were taken completely by surprise, and before they had time to recover themselves, Orme had thrown his arms around them and crushed their heads together with such force that they dropped limp and unconscious to the ground. They were out of the fight.

At the first sounds of struggle, Arima turned. Now, as Orme charged toward him, he bent slightly forward, every muscle tense, ready to strike or trip or twist.

His framework was overlaid by muscles that were like supple steel. Light and quick, he had a strength that could hardly have been inferred from his build. And though Orme's outbreak had been sudden, the Japanese was apparently not in the least disconcerted.

He knew how to turn the rush of the American into a disastrous fall. He knew how to prod with his bony knuckle the angry man's solar plexus—how to step swiftly aside and bring the horny edge of his hand against sensitive vertebrae. He could seize Orme by the arm and, dropping backward to the ground, land Orme where he wished him. Yes, Arima had every reason to feel confident. Many a time had he got the better of American fist fighters.

But a system of offense and defense which is based upon the turning of an opponent's strength against himself absolutely depends for its success upon an accurate estimate of the opponent's intentions. A sudden shift of physical purpose may put your jujitsu adept at a loss.

Arima, from his knowledge of American fighting methods, had reason to think that Orme would continue his charge and strike out with his fists when he came near enough. That, however, is something that Orme did not do. For, in his two previous encounters with the Japanese, he had learned much. He had learned, among other things, the value of the unexpected. And though his anger was almost blinding, he cooled, during those few short strides, to his usual caution.

Within two paces of Arima, he stopped short.

For one tense moment Orme opened his senses to all impressions. He could bear, with almost painful distinctness, the moans of the two men he had stunned and the rustling sounds made by their writhings.

He caught a glimpse of the girl. The searchlight of one of the cars struck full on the side of her face, and drew there a distinct shadow of the network of her disarranged hair. He saw the strained, excited look in her eyes.

Her captor still held her arm. He was watching Orme and Arima indifferently, as though quite confident of Japanese skill.

All this Orme observed in an instant. Then his eyes were again on Arima.

He knew that he would have to attack. To await the trick holds of the Japanese would be to invite defeat. But if he attacked, he must use an unexpected method.

Suddenly he raised his left arm above his head and clenched his fist. His right arm remained by his side.

A step forward. The upraised arm descended. Swiftly Arima reached upward to seize it. But even as the one paralytically with every passing moment. The lives of his companions counted for nothing besides the papers!

"Where?" repeated Arima.

"I haven't them," said Orme. "You ought to know that by this time."

The answer was a torturing pressure on Orme's spine. "You tell," hissed Arima.

As the pressure increased Orme's suffering was so keen that his senses began to slip away. He was gliding into a state in which all consciousness centered hastily around the one sharp point of pain.

Then, suddenly, he was released. For a moment he staggered limply, but his strength surged back, and he was able to see how the situation had changed.

The girl had swung her car in closer to the edge of the grove and nearer to the struggling figures. Doubtless she had some idea of helping. But the effect of the change in the position of her car was to permit the searchlight of the other car to throw its bright beam without interruption down the road. And there, perhaps 50 feet to the southward, gleamed something white.

The girl could not see it, for her car was headed north. But Arima saw it, and in a flash he realized what it was. The papers lay there at the side of the road, where Orme had tossed them a moment before the two cars met.

"No," Exclaimed Orme, Vehemently.

arm descended, Orme swung his other, with terrific force, up from the waist, and caught Arima on the mouth.

The blow missed the chin, but it was hard enough to fell any man of ordinary strength. Arima staggered back, past the girl, and brought up against the side of one of the cars.

But with hardly an instant for recovery, he leaped forward again and the man who was holding the girl also sprang at Orme.

It would be folly to meet the two. Orme turned and ran quickly in among the trees of the little grove. The darkness was his friend, for the pursuers halted in their quick run and separated, proceeding more cautiously.

As for Orme, once in shelter, he stopped for breath.

He could see the two men coming toward him. They were outlined against the radiance from the motor cars. Cautiously he stepped toward the south, hoping that they would pass him in the darkness, but he dared not move rapidly, lest a stumble or the breaking of a twig betray him.

All this time the engines of the two cars had continued to work, and their muffled chug-chug-chug helped to cover the noise of footsteps.

What pleased him most was to see, out of the corner of his eye, that the girl had taken advantage of her release to climb to the chauffeur's seat of the car in which Maku had brought them from Chicago. That meant that, if he could reach the car, they might get away. But the papers—

By this time Orme was between his pursuers and the road. He stopped and groped about till he found a falsified stone, then worked toward the edge of the grove. The moment was at hand to make a dash.

Ten steps would take him to the car; then a leap into the tonneau, and off to the northward he and the girl would speed. Pursuit would be delayed for a few precious moments, for the Japanese would have to turn the other car around. Those few moments would determine the margin of success or failure.

But there were the papers. At all cost they must be secured. The plan that flashed into Orme's mind was to draw the Japanese from the spot and then, jumping from the car let the girl lead the pursuers on while he returned.

Just as he was about to rush for the car he heard a sound among the trees. He wheeled and saw the dim outline of one of his enemies coming toward him. In his excitement he had forgotten that just as they could be seen by him when they were between him and the road, so he could now be seen by them. Undoubtedly he was outlined, as they had been, against the background of the light.

The Japanese was only a few feet away. Orme threw the stone; by good luck it struck the man in the stomach, and he dropped to the ground and rolled in silent agony.

But at the same moment Orme was seized from behind, and held in a grip he could not break. Indeed, when he tried to break it, there was a sudden, killing strain on his spine. Then Arima's voice said, close to his ear:

"Where the papers?"

The papers!

Japanese character thus brought life fresh surprise to Orme. Even after this hard fight, when three of his friends lay groaning on the ground—when he had in his power the man who had injured them, who had temporarily bested himself—Arima's chief thought was still of the papers!

He seemed to have none of the semi-barbarian vengefulness that might have been expected. He merely wished the papers—wished them, the more decent manner, allowing no minors or women of shady reputations to visit their places of business or selling liquor to drunken men and will not stand for locked back rooms being maintained. Mr. Henry has served one year as undersheriff and is thoroughly acquainted with the duties of the office and is fully competent to perform those duties. Mr. Henry also promises the voters that if elected, he will not be controlled by any clique or gang, but will at all times serve to the best of his ability the best interests of the whole county.

IMPORT OF LUXURIES IS INCREASING

(Special U. T. Service.)

Washington, Aug. 20.—Two hundred and fifty million dollars' worth of articles classed as luxuries were imported into the United States during the fiscal year 1910, exceeding by more than twenty-five million dollars the figures of 1907, the former high record year, and being actually more than double those of 1900, according to statistics of the department of commerce and labor, made public today.

CHICKEN BONE IS GRAFTING WELL

(Special U. T. Service.)

Deadwood, S. D., Aug. 20.—The chicken bone grafted to the leg bone of Lloyd Hixson, a 14-year-old lad from Vermillion, is a successful means of repair. Hixson suffered from tuberculosis of the small bone in the leg, until it wasted away. He went to Hot Springs, where Dr. Walker removed the bone and substituted one similar in size from a healthy chicken. The new bone is believed to be knitting satisfactorily.

POUND AND HALF BABY IS BORN

Quinn, Ill., Aug. 20.—A girl weighing one and one-half pounds and less than twelve inches in length, was born to Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wallace, who live on a farm east of here.

The infant is so tiny a match will hide one of her fingers, while her head is about the size of a hen's egg. The doctors say she will live.

MAN ALWAYS DEAF HEARS ON MOUNTAIN

Colorado Springs, Colo., Aug. 20.—The summit of Pike's Peak, whose altitude is 14,147 feet above the sea, has established a new record in its effect on Edward B. Hainey, a Chicago delegate to the World's Congress of Deaf which has just ended here. He was born deaf and has remained deaf during his forty years of life.

While on Pike's Peak yesterday in company with other delegates, he felt a peculiar buzzing in his ears. He explained to his companions that he heard sounds. His friends enunciated a few words, and Hainey signalled that he heard, although he could not distinguish any words. He heard the noise of tramping and conversation, and an engine, and finally the braying of a burro, which startled him.

As Hainey descended his partial hearing left him. At Manitou, 8,000 feet below, he was as deaf as ever.

SIEGE OF VICKSBURG TO BE MEMORIALIZED

(Special U. T. Service.)

Washington, Aug. 20.—The siege of Vicksburg will be memorialized by stone monuments and bronze or iron tablets, if the hopes of the Vicksburg National Military Park commission are realized. The plans of the commission are outlined in a report to the war department made public today. Aided by donations from patriotically inclined Americans and the appropriations of the legislatures in various states, the commission expects to install a statue or tablet for each brigade, division, corps or army commander engaged in the operations around Vicksburg, and for each field officer and battery commander killed or mortally wounded.

TRIES TO MILK MULE; NOW IN A HOSPITAL

(Special U. T. Service.)

Masopeth, L. I., Aug. 20.—Dan Friedman's baby cried for milk earlier than usual Thursday morning, so the kind father went to the stable in the dark to milk the gentle Jersey. He was sleepy as he placed his three legged stool in position, put his pall down and groped for the animal.

"Get over there, Bossy!" he exclaimed angrily, administering a slap on the animal's flank.

At the German hospital a kind nurse explained to Friedman that he had gotten into the stall of the mule instead of the cow and that as soon as his four ribs mended he would be able to return to his pastoral home.

A TIMELY WARNING!

Shun the meat peddler as you would the fire and pest, for you don't know what minute you are likely to strike down with disease yourself or some beloved one. Mr. Peddler may be as honest as the day is long—he may want to sell you none other than healthy meats, but how will he with his meagre knowledge and experience tell as to whether this critter or that is healthy? His intentions may ever be of the best—he may be ever so honest, but let him fetch in a diseased critter by mistake, error or otherwise and no amount of repentance will ever undo the wrong done you and your beloved ones. Admitting even that the peddler's meat was healthy when dressed, would you undertake to state that this same meat, exposed as it is all day long to sun, dust, flies; handled and rehandled, and then handled some more by hands which may not have come in contact with soap and water for some time, without picking up that little fellow that has so much in common with the octopus? Once Mr. Octopus gets his strangling hold upon the bold diver, it requires superhuman effort to extricate and free himself.

Just so with innocent looking Mr. Germ. Shun his company wherever you can. You cannot afford to court his acquaintance, for he is a sworn, merciless foe to the dearest and most precious of your possessions—and this is your health. Never by willful neglect, read reader, allow yourself to court dangers, incurring contagious disease that some day you may be obliged to say with Cain, "Am I my brother's keeper?"

It is bad enough that you be thrown on the sick bed and pay the penalty of your own folly; but what about all those innocent of your doings who contract disease through a mistake or folly of yours? The footpad, the lurking murderer, is merciful compared to the person who by their own folly or ignorance drag in and expose to contagious diseases an entire community. The former kills on the spot his lonely victim, the latter does so by inches to friend and foe alike.

Do not be so brave, dear reader, about poohing to the dangers sounded here—do not let the foolish idea run away with you that the writer is exaggerating or day dreaming. Just ask your state authorities about the percentage of tuberculosis cows in your county! This is but one disease and you may get some faint idea as to numberless diseases that flesh is heir to.

And who is there who will stand for all of Mr. Peddler's honor about wanting to sell you no meats but what they would eat themselves? The sure way is to buy your meats in your city markets—these meats are U. S. inspected, they are healthy and safe to use. Steer clear of the meat peddler until such time, at least, as your city authorities make him furnish you with meats which have stood inspection by your city authorities as to the healthfulness thereof and you will save money, sorrow, pain, regret and, what is more than all, your own health as well as that of a community which has done so much already to banish disease from your midst.

McGRAW PICKS CUBS TO WIN

Manager of New York National League Team Gives Reasons for Selecting Chicago.

That so eminent a baseball authority as John McGraw should scan the baseball situation with an unbiased eye and give the Cubs the best chance of winning the pennant this year has cheered that team considerably. They know that many things—unexpected to be relied upon when he talks baseball in a purely impersonal manner. This is what McGraw has to say about the pennant race:

"I am not giving up the fight yet—not by any means, believe me. Neither Clarke nor Griffith should give it up, either, for baseball is a mighty uncertain sort of a game, and you and I know that many things—unexpected things—may happen that would change the whole complexion of the race.

"Still, if you were to ask me, not as the leader of the Giants, but as a student of form, both of men and of horses, who was going to win this race, I'd be obliged to say, 'The Cubs.'

"Reason? Not their pitching staff. No, and not their individual or collective experience as players. It's simply this: Their experience and the steady, consistent play they can keep up without the rattles interfering. Don't you see? If they were so old that they couldn't stand the strain, that would make things different. Their experience wouldn't save them then. But they are still young enough to go the route, believe me; and that, with their long training in the field of championship ball, will carry them through.

"There are three teams out of the first four that cannot put up the steady concerted game needful to beat the Cubs."

NOVEL RULING BY CHIVINGTON

President of American Association Orders One Inning to Be Played to Settle Dispute.

President Thomas Chivington of the American association promulgated one of the strangest decisions in baseball history, ordering the second game of the double header between Columbus and Minneapolis on June 30, which went only seven and one-half innings, to be finished after a regular game to be played here soon.

On June 30 Umpire Guthrie called the game with Minneapolis ahead, 8 to 4, on account of darkness. Manager Friel of Columbus protested the contest, and it was established that it was light enough to continue play.

DIAMOND GOSSIP

Boston Nationals have made 18 home runs this year, and the team is in last place.

Heine Peltz, the deposed manager of the Louisville Colonels, is now managing the Lancaster team in the P-O league.

Artie Hofman, center fielder of the Cubs, is batting .316 in 83 games. Magee of Philadelphia is batting .322 in 92 games played.

Fred Tenney is the latest addition to the authors among the ball players. He will become a full-fledged writer after the baseball season this fall.

Snodgrass of New York is leading the league in batting with .392 in 37 games played. Campbell, former Cub, is second, with .383 in 50 games played.

Jerry Downs, who was a member of the Senators before going to the American association, is slated for a berth with the Cleveland team for next season.

Hill Burns reads magazines between innings to keep his mind off the game. That is one of the reasons, he says, that he has been able to pitch so well since he joined the Reds.

Patsy Donovan of the Red Sox says the fight for the American league flag is to be a four-cornered affair. All of them seem to think the Tigers will be in there before the finish.

Bescher of Cincinnati has stolen 29 bases and Paskert of the same team has 28 to his credit. Magee of Philadelphia has stolen 28, Hofman of the Cubs has stolen 19 and Chance 12.

Ban Johnson, president of the American league, has signed J. H. Collier as a regular league umpire. He comes from the South Atlantic league, and was formerly a pitcher.

Paul Smith of the Canton (Ill.) team has been signed by President Murphy for the Cubs. James Murphy, who is scouting for the Cubs, discovered the youngster and says that he is a wonder.

MINISTER SAYS CHICAGO IS WORST

(Special U. T. Service.)
New York, Aug. 20.—"New York is the best behaved big city in the country. It has improved wonderfully in the past ten years and appears to me to be getting better all the time."

Thus Rev. Dr. M. A. Matthews, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Seattle sums up a "study" of the moral conditions in the metropolis. He made a similar "survey" of the city ten years ago.

"Yes, New York is better morally as a city than Chicago, Pittsburg, Los Angeles or San Francisco," said Dr. Matthews. "There is not that vicious, vulgar flaunting of vice which is noticeable in some of the big cities."

"Chicago is the worst of all in this respect. There is more vice there than elsewhere and it is worse in quality as well as quantity."

WILLIAM CHAPPLE IS DEAD IN BOSTON

(By Associated Press.)
Boston, Mass., Aug. 20.—William Chapple, aged 75 years, died in this city today. Mr. Chapple formerly lived in Ashland, Wis., and his sons were at one time the owners of The Ashland Press. For a number of years the deceased was commander of the Grand Army post at Ashland.

W. R. C. TO GIVE A BENEFIT PARTY

(William Chapple was a relative of Attorney Clyde Hayden of this city.)
For the benefit of a Civil war veteran who is sadly in need of financial aid, the members of the Women's Relief Corps of this city will give a dancing party in Clark's hall next Tuesday evening. Arrangements are being made to give all who attend a splendid time and it is hoped that the worthy object of the party will attract a crowd that will tax the capacity of the hall. The net proceeds of the affair will be donated to the veteran for whose benefit it is planned.

Nicholas Britz is down from Lathrop today on business.

THEATRICAL

The Peterson: "Rosalind at Red Gate," a dramatization of Meredith Nicholson's novel of the same title, was presented at the Peterson last night before a small but highly pleased and appreciative audience. The company presenting the play is a strong and well balanced one and entirely adequate to all requirements, while the scenic settings and general atmosphere are entirely in keeping with the locale of the production and conducive to that realism which is so greatly enjoyed in stage pictures. Of the members of the cast there can be naught but praise in a general way, but the work of Miss Jean Ward in the dual role of Helen Holbrook and Rosalind, William Marble as Larry Donovan, Etha Ramsdell as Miss Patricia Holbrook and Frank Curtis as Reginald Gillespie, is especially entitled to commendation. It is to be regretted that the production of this excellent attraction in Escanaba was not witnessed and enjoyed by a larger audience, for it deserved a capacity house.

The Peterson:—"The Flower of the Ranch," to visit this city on Sunday evening, August 21, is beautifully staged, presenting an ideal picture of rugged ranch life in California. The music is bright, possessed of graceful melody and catchy rhythm. The story is intensely interesting, from a dramatic standpoint, possessing a mixture of excellent comedy dialogue. The dances are finished, and the chorus movements are novel. There are several competent people in the cast, including Miss Nellie Waters as the fascinating little "Flower;" Mr. John E. Frank, a tenor of excellent quality, while Jess Harris, who handles the comedy role of "Skivers" is the dazzling light of the show.

The Peterson: The Francis Greene Stock company, which last night enjoyed a rest on account of the opera house being engaged for "Rosalind at Red Gate," will again occupy the stage this evening, when it will give the concluding performance of its present engagement. "A Country Girl" will be the bill. The company's performances have all been up to the standard and it has made many friends in the city. Later in the season the company will play a return engagement in Escanaba.
