FATHER BARTH IS APPOINTED

Pastor in Charge of Parish at Stephenson for Fifteen Years is Chosen by Bishop to Take Charge of St. Patrick's Church and Parish in Escanaba.

Rev. Father Francis X. Barth, pastor of the Catholic church at Stephenson, has been appointed by Rt. Rev. Bishop Eis to the pastorate of St. Patrick's church in this city, to fill the vacancy caused by the recent death of Rev. Father Joseph M. Langan.

Announcement of the appointment was received here late yesterday afternoon and was confirmed by Bishop Eis himself when he was called up on the long distance telephone today by a representative of The Mirror.

Bishop Eis stated that he had carefully looked over the field of available priests and considered at length the qualifications and circumstances of each and had come to the conclusion that the appointment of Father Barth as the late Father Langan's successor was the best that could be made. He further stated that the appointment takes effect immediately. This indicates that Father Barth may be here to conduct services in St. Patrick's church next Sunday.

Well Known in Escanaba.

News of the appointment of Father Barth to the pastorate of what is considered one of the largest and most important churches in the Catholic diocese of Marquette and Sault Ste. Marie will be received with delight by his multitude of friends in this city, where he is exceedingly well known and highly esteemed. He not only has many warm friends here, but also has several relatives. He is a nephew of James and John Tolan and Miss Margaret Tolan and is more distantly connected with a number of other Escanaba people, all of whom will rejoice over his advancement.

Rev. Father Francis Xavier Barth was born and bred in Marquette and was a son of the late Nicholas Barth, who was very well known here.

For the last 15 years he has been stationed at Stephenson. That parish has, in fact, been his only charge, for he was assigned to it directly upon his ordination.

Successful in His Work.

He has been most successful in his work there, one of the monuments to his ability and indefatigable industry being a large and beautiful church, one of the finest in a town the size of Stephenson to be found in the entire country. Last November Father Barth celebrated the fifteenth anniversary of his appointment as pastor of the Stephenson parish, note of which fact was made at the time by The Mirror.

His army of friends here and elsewhere will consider that his appointment to the larger parish in Escanaba comes to him as a well earned promotion. He will be given a most hearty welcome by his friends both in and outside of the church and parish over which he is to preside in place of the lamented Father Langan.

KERMIS STARS TO ENJOY THEMSELVES

"The Dutchman" of the Kermis recently given by the Ladies' Aid Society of the First Presbyterian church, will have their first reunion at the home of Miss Maud MacColl, 408 South Campbell street, tonight at seven o'clock. The entertainment will be a pot-luck supper given by the young ladies of that famous number of the Kermis. The Kermis not only proved a gratifying financial success but has given great enjoyment to the young people of the city. Many reunions and parties have been planned for the coming weeks by the representatives of the different nations and a number of joyous occasions are being booked by the young people because of this popular entertainment. The young people especially will be pleased to note that this entertainment is to be repeated another year.

TIME SET FOR THE EDWARDS FUNERAL

Announcement is made that the funeral of the late Sylvester F. Edwards, whose death occurred Monday forenoon of the deceased, 205 Ogden avenue. Wednesday afternoon from the home of the deceased, 206 Ogden avenue. Rev. P. B. Ferris, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, will conduct the services and interment will be made in Lakeview cemetery.

The night chef at Hines' Cafe makes the best club sandwiches in town.

ESCANABA AND ITS PEOPLE PRAISED

Mrs. Pettie and Miss Palmer, Directors of the Kermis Recently Held Here, Speak in Most Complimentary Terms of Escanaba, Its People and the Kermis.

Mrs. W. Pettie and Miss Jessie Palmer, who were the directors for the Kermis, given here under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of the First Presbyterian church, left Monday afternoon for their home in Marquette, where they will remain for about two weeks before going to Ironwood, Mich., where they return for the third engagement with the church at that place.

Before leaving the city for their home, the directors were interviewed by a representative of The Mirror, and were asked concerning their impressions of the city and its citizens.

Mrs. Pettie expressed herself as greatly pleased with the hearty response given to their suggestions and overtures during the production of the play, and stated that the Kermis here was the largest ever given by them. In point of the number of participants, and that the audiences that greeted them were most satisfactory. And although they had played to larger houses, that was only in such cities as Sacramento, Los Angeles and San Francisco to five to twenty times the size of Escanaba.

Miss Palmer issued the statement that altogether there had been Kermises where individual parts had been taken a little better, there were many numbers of this Kermis that had never been surpassed or even equaled.

"The most encouraging part of the work in Escanaba," she said, "was the hearty efforts of every one to make the Kermis a success. The young men of the opera house, the men who had an interest in the church, the young men and women who took part and the children down to the smallest member of the Chinese delegation showed such an interest and appreciation of our work

NOTHING DOING IN VOTE SCANDAL

GOSSIP AND SPECULATION ARE THE ONLY FEATURES IN DANVILLE TODAY IN CONNECTION WITH THE ALLEGED BUYING AND SELLING OF VOTES—SUBPONEAS ARE ISSUED.

(By Associated Press.)

Danville, Ill., Jan. 24.—While there is plenty of gossip and much speculation concerning the vote buying in this county, the only development today was the issuing of subpoenas for witnesses and a request by the foreman of the grand jury for a court order to compel the sheriff to explain why he did not attend to the serving of certain subpoenas.

MURDERERS CONVICTED

SLAYERS OF STANLEY KETCHELL ARE CONVICTED AND LIFE IMPRISONMENT RECOMMENDED—MAN AND WOMAN BOTH FOUND GUILTY.

(By Associated Press.)

Marshallfield, Mo., Jan. 24.—At noon today the jury who had been listening to the trial of Walter A. Dibley and Goldie Smith, charged with the murder of Stanley Ketchell, brought in a verdict of murder in the first degree and recommended that they be given life imprisonment.

MIRROR IN ITS NEW QUARTERS

ARDUOUS WORK OF MOVING AND INSTALLING EXTENSIVE PRINTING PLANT IS FINALLY DONE.

NOW LOCATED AT 713 LUDINGTON

Gratifying Growth of The Mirror and Its Business During the Twelve Years of Its Present Proprietorship Briefly Reviewed—Time, Labor and Money All Potent Factors in Its Development—The People's Newspaper—Visitors to Plant Welcome.

After ten days of pretty hard work, The Mirror plant has been moved to its new quarters at 713 Ludington street and proprietors will be glad to have all their friends and enemies, too, if they have any, come in and see what a really fine equipment they have. It has taken them just 12 years to build up a plant that is second to none in this section of the country. When the present publishers of The Mirror took this paper over Escanaba was about to become without a daily publication. No one wanted to take the trouble and stand the losses of getting out a daily paper in Escanaba.

The first few years were not profitable ones for the owners and to get the equipment up to its present efficiency has meant a lot of time, hard labor and considerable money. The Mirror, however, has never cost the citizens of Escanaba one cent and it did not pay any dividends to its owners.

THE PEOPLE'S PAPER.

No stock company, no political party nor body of individuals have had anything to say in the management of The Mirror. No one has been asked to make up deficiencies when such a thing was necessary.

The Mirror starts in its new quarters under very favorable circumstances—clear of debt and with one of the best equipments of machinery in Northern Michigan. Merchants and citizens have been very kind to

GARMENT WORKERS HAVE BLOODY RIOT

TAILOR SHOPS ARE WRECKED AND MEN ARE DRIVEN INTO STREET—SIX ARRESTS MADE—WAS REGULAR RIOT.

(By Associated Press.)

Chicago, Jan. 24.—Two tailor shops were wrecked and more than one hundred non-union tailors driven into the street in a riot incident to the garment workers strike that has been in force for weeks. Many were bleeding from cuts and wounds before the disturbance was quelled. Six arrests were made by the police that were called to the scene.

NOTED YACHTSMAN DIES SUDDENLY

(By Associated Press.)

Southampton, England, Jan. 24.—Captain Charles Barr, the famous American yachtsman who has won many victories for his country and defended the American cup many times successfully, dropped dead while at breakfast this morning. Heart trouble is said to have been the cause.

ANOTHER PANEL OF JURORS DRAWN

In Accordance With the Decision of Judge Flannigan Declaring Drawing of Old Panel Invalid, a New Set of Jurors is Drawn to Serve at This Term of Circuit Court.

In accordance with Judge Flannigan's decision of Monday afternoon declaring the drawing of the panel of jurors for the January term of circuit court to have been invalid through irregularities in the manner of drawing and his subsequent order, a new panel of jurors was drawn Monday night. This work was performed by Probate Judge Yelland, County Clerk Smer, County Treasurer Mallmann and Sheriff Curran and was not concluded until about eleven o'clock.

The names of prospective jurors were taken from poll lists of the last election and after slips bearing the names were placed in a box and shaken together they were drawn therefrom as required by law.

Instead of 36 jurors, however, there were but 24 drawn and Sheriff Curran and his deputies are now hustling about, notifying those drawn that they must report in the circuit court room at two o'clock tomorrow afternoon. Following is the list of the jurors drawn:

Escanaba city—First ward, Jacob Fransen and Nick Brown; Second ward, Frank L. Winegar and John F. Burns; Third ward, Peter Olson and Victor Bloomstrom; Fourth ward, W. C. LaBelle and William Wickett; Fifth ward, Charles Pariseau and Alfred Carlson; Sixth ward, Herman Aronson and Bert Healy; Seventh ward, Victor Johnson and Peter Norman.

Gladstone city—First ward, C. W. Miller and Louis Larson; Second ward, Phillip Rupy; Third ward, Matt Miller; Fourth ward, Andrew Iverson.

FAMOUS AUTHOR MAY NOT DIE

AN IMPROVED CONDITION IS REPORTED FROM THE HOSPITAL WHERE DAVID GRAHAM PHILLIPS IS BEING CARED FOR—CENTRIC MUSICIAN WAS THE PERSON WHO SHOT HIM.

(By Associated Press.)

New York, Jan. 24.—It was reported at noon today that the condition of David Graham Phillips, the author, is somewhat improved and that his chances for recovery are very good. The man who shot Phillips was Fitzhugh Coyne Goldsborough an eccentric musician who thought that he had a grievance and who took his own life after shooting Phillips.

THE COUNTY FAIR SOCIETY TO MEET

According to a notice issued some time ago, the regular annual meeting of the Delta County Agricultural society will also be taken up and if chamber of the city hall tomorrow evening. It is particularly desired that every member of the society shall be present at this meeting, for business of great importance is to be transacted. Directors and officers for the ensuing year are to be elected and plans for the fair next fall discussed. In all probability the matter of incorporating the society as a branch of the State Agricultural society will also be taken up and if affirmative action upon the proposition is taken the corporate articles will be signed.

EXPERT COMES TO ESCANABA

Escanaba Water Company Engages Bacteriologist to Take Charge of Its Filtration Plant—Advance in Water Rates Called Off This Afternoon.

YOUNG COUPLE ARE HAPPILY MARRIED

Miss Gretchen Bager, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Bager, and Richard Perow, both of this city, were united in marriage at 8:30 o'clock this morning in St. Joseph's church, Rev. Father Julius performing the marriage service. The bride's attendants were Miss Rose O'Neill and John St. Peter. Following the wedding the bridal pair and those in attendance repaired to the home of the bride's parents, where a wedding breakfast was served. Mr. and Mrs. Perow left on the eleven o'clock train for a wedding trip. They did not reveal their destination. Upon their return they will make their home in this city, where they are well known and have many friends, who will extend congratulations and best wishes.

THAT CLOCK SYSTEM IN THE HIGH SCHOOL

Many Escanaba people are curious about the Frick clock system that has been installed in the H. S.

which has been given considerable publicity during the past week. An investigation reveals the fact that the entire system was placed in the building when it was erected, with the exception of the individual clocks in each class room. A former member of the board of education says that the old board purchased the system with the exception of the individual clocks and made an arrangement with the manufacturers that the clocks could be bought later when there was more funds on hand. The financial condition of the schools at the present time made it possible for the present board to purchase the clocks for a little more than $200 and their installation was completed last week, as previously noted by The Mirror.

Miss Getrude Jaeger of this city has accepted a position as superintendent of a homeopathic hospital at Houston, Texas, and has already entered upon her duties as such.

Henry Kneeland of Pittsburg, Pa., an expert bacteriologist, arrived in the city Sunday and will take charge of the Escanaba Water company's filtration plant. Carpenters are now at work constructing an office for Mr. Kneeland's occupancy and use and within a few days he will have his instruments and other paraphernalia here so that he will be enabled to conduct the filtration plant upon the scientific basis recommended by the representative of the state board of health who was sent here to inspect the plant and make recommendations based upon his findings. The report of that expert has heretofore been published in these columns.

Mr. Kneeland's coming here to take charge of the filtration plant as an expert bacteriologist whose work is expected to result in a pure supply of water is in accordance with a statement to the council made recently by Superintendent W. J. Hatton of the Water company and will be accepted by many as an evidence that the company is desirous of doing what it can toward transforming the present impure and dangerous water supply into what it should be. into what it should be.

Advance is Called Off.

Acting under instructions received in a letter from his company this afternoon and following a conference with Mayor Greenboot and President W. A. Cotton of the Escanaba Business Association.

advance in water rates, which became effective January 1, will be called off and will not become effective for the present, at least.

Mr. Hatton states that patrons who have already paid their dues at the advanced rate will be given credit for the difference on their next quarterly bill.

TOUR CANDIDATES BUSY WHILE NATURE SMILES

Those Young Ladies Who "Beat It While the Going is Good" Will be the Gainers When the Grand Show-Down Comes at the End of the Contest--Keep Busy.

Think of what can be accomplished in the way of getting out to see your friends, you Bermuda Tour candidates, during these delightful winter days. Now is the time to see just as many of your acquaintances as possible, and secure at least their promise to give you the paid-in-advance subscription before the contest ends. You are fresh and full of energy. How can you better use this overflowing vitality than by making use of it to win for yourself something that will permanently add to your store of knowledge?

Get Everybody.
The easiest way to win is to ask every one of your friends to subscribe to The Mirror. If they are now taking it, they should give you a renewal, which counts quite a few votes for you; but if they have not heretofore taken our paper the votes for new subscriptions will count you twice the number that the old ones do. This double compensation in votes for the new ones is given because The Daily Mirror wishes to add to its list of subscribers, and all will gain thereby, for the larger number of regular subscribers we have the better paper we can get out for our customers.

Rivalry Brings Votes.
By getting every possible promise for a subscription now, you will be in a position to meet the competition when the rivalry becomes more keen during the last weeks of the contest, for then your friends will come forward rapidly when they see that you are going along well in the race. It is the alternating positions of the candidates in the various districts that causes the friends to get out and hustle for their favorites, and they will do this for you, Miss Candidate, if you will now enlist their services.

See The World.
The ability to see the world, to know its beauties, its history, its people and the comedy and tragedy behind their lives, is within the realm of possibility for three congenial women.

The Daily Mirror makes you an offer by which you can do all this—to broaden your view of life and acquire a splendid education, for "Travel is the real source of all wisdom." The fact that the date of the tour (April 17) may take away some of the enhancement, and its advantages may not present themselves to you with much vividness. But when The Daily Mirror tourists are leaving New York next spring, clambering up the gangplank, waving adieu to their admiring friends and well wishers; and the warning, "All ashore who are not going!" rings out, and the steamer slowly swings away from her moorings, headed for the port of Hamilton, Bermuda, then a full realization will come to you, and if you are not one of the merry party you will understand it was caused entirely by your own timidity or hesitation.

But will you neglect the opportunity?

For the Children

A Stanch Little Ship With a Big History.
An event of unusual historic interest recently took place in New York harbor. It was the decorating of the two masted schooner Polly with a memorial tablet telling of her valorous deeds in the war of 1812. The Polly was built in 1805 and is therefore 105 years old. She is sixty-one feet long, of old fashioned model and is still engaged in trade. The little schooner retains her original planking of three inch oak, and her eight inch ribs are as sound as when placed in her over a century ago. Under command of Captain Judah Upham the Polly sailed from Salem on Dec. 7, 1812, on the lookout for British merchantmen. Two days later she captured an English full rigged ship. In all she took eleven prizes. Once she fell a victim to superior force and was taken prisoner by the British frigate Phoebe. A few days later she was recaptured by a United States man-of-war and thus was spared for the honor which lately came to her.

New Year's Customs.
In some countries, notably in Great Britain and in some cities in the United States, the new year is welcomed in by festivities on the eve of the day. In Scotland, for instance, it is customary to celebrate New Year's eve with a festivity, which is prolonged until past midnight. At the stroke of 12 every one present wishes each other a "Happy New Year." The custom is also common in many parts of Germany, where the salutation is "Prosit Neu Jahr."

Similar to this custom are the religious "watch meetings" held in some of the churches in this country on New Year's eve. In England on New Year's eve in some houses a curious custom or superstition is observed. At the stroke of 12 which ushers in the new year the party, already waiting on the stairs, begin to ascend the stairway backward, taking a step at each stroke. Every step successfully mounted means a happy month, every stumble a reverse. Of course it is one of those playful superstitions which are not taken seriously.

A Trick Game.
Have, say, 100 toothpicks and agree with some one to take alternately from the heap any number not exceeding ten. The trick is to have the last toothpick or toothpicks whatever your adversary may do. For this remember the numbers 1, 12, 23, 34, and so on, increasing by 11 each time. Supposing you have the first draw, you take one pick only, and your opponent can never have a chance, for if he draws as many as possible at one time (ten) you take another one, making the total 12. Say now he draws eight picks, you take three, and so on, making whatever number he takes into 11. When you have got to 89 you will see that the other player has no chance. Two persons who know how this is done cannot play at it, because the first player must infallibly win. Supposing one who does not understand it to have the first draw, he will be sure to make a mistake somewhere in the game and enable you to attain one of the before named numbers (12, 23, 34, etc.), when you are quite safe to win.

Origin of Some Words.
The lemon, it is said, takes its name from the city of Lema.
Lodestone is a corrupt translation of Lydium lapus, the stone of Lydia.
The word money reminds us that the coinage of the Romans was struck at the temple of Juno Moneta, the goddess of counsel.
"Dollar" is from the German thaler, which is derived from Thal, the valley of Joachim, in Bohemia, where the silver works were situated that made this coin.
The word "panic" has a curious origin. According to Herodotus, the god Pan was supposed to have assisted the Greeks at the battle of Marathon, 490 B. C., striking such a terror into the Persian host that they fled to their ships in perfect dismay. From that time the Greek word panikon was used to describe unreasonable or sudden and overpowering fear.

New Year's Talk With Dolly.
Now, Dolly, dear, it's New Year's day, and that's when peoples plan to be so good the whole year round—The goodest that they can.
I think you're old enough to make Some resolutions too. There's room for 'provement—'deed this is—
In lots of things you do.
You can learn to be more neat. It's really a disgrace The way you spill your sawdust round And dirty up your face.
You can quite make up your mind Not to cry and pout Just because your wig is gone And one eye is losted out.
I hope you'll be much gooder now And try and mend your ways. It's such a 'sponsibility To have a child to raise!

A NEW YEAR'S BARGAIN

Grandmother and Grandfather Smith sat in their cozy living room, grandmother knitting and grandfather looking steadily into the fire which burned so brightly in the grate. At length grandfather sighed and spoke.

"Mother," he said, "I was just recalling our past New Years—so many of them that I have lost count. And I was thinking how nice it was when our son Tom and our girl Stella were at home, for then we had some young life in the house, some one to plan for and to make merry over."

"Yes," said grandmother, her voice low; "yes, father, it is very sweet to have children about."

"Yes, we are an aged household, mother," said the old gentleman. "But there goes the bell. I'd better go to the door, mother."

"No, don't trouble to put down your pipe, father. I am already up and shall see who is ringing. Oh, it's our morning paper, I guess. I see a boy's cap over the lower part of the door-sash." And Grandmother Smith opened the big hall door. As she did so a young, happy face looked into hers. A boy perhaps ten years old stood there, holding a roll of papers under his arm. As grandmother looked down into his eyes the boy smiled brightly, saying, "Are you Mrs. Smith, mum?" Grandmother returned the smile and replied: "Yes, I am Mrs. Smith, little man. What is wanting?"

"Why, I'm your paper boy, mum, an' I've got your paper here." And the lad held up a paper to grandmother. "An' since you are Mrs. Smith I want to thank you for your patronage during the past year. An' I want to wish you and Mr. Smith a most prosperous an' happy New Year, mum."

After delivering himself of his speech the little paper vender was about to depart when grandmother suddenly thought of something. "Wait a minute, little man. Won't you come in and have a cup of hot chocolate and a slice of cake?"

The lad hesitated, then looked down at his poorly shod feet. "I'd hate to soil your floor, mum," he said. "My clothes ain't fit, you see."

"Come right in, child," said grandmother. "Never mind about your clothes. It is you we want." The boy took off his ragged cap and followed grandmother into the cheerful living room. There he was greeted pleasantly by grandfather, to whom he was introduced. "Now sit there till I fix the chocolate," said grandmother, designating a comfortable chair beside the glowing grate.

Within a few minutes grandfather, grandmother and Dick, for he had told them his name, were chatting pleasantly. And to their many questions Dick told the story of his young life. He was an orphan, without a living relative in the world that he knew about. He lived at the Newsboys' home, over by the viaduct. He managed to get enough to pay his $2 a week at the home and went to night school three nights of each week.

Grandmother looked at grandfather. Then she arose and beckoned the old man to follow her into another room, telling Dick to excuse them a minute. In the dining room the old folks had a whispered consultation. Then, with beaming faces, they returned to the living room. And they explained to Dick a new plan they had conceived. And the plan was for Dick Sunshine (for that was what the dear old grandmother called him) to take up his residence with them—make their home his home and to give up selling newspapers and go to day school. Dick's face was radiant for a moment. Then he hung his head. "I can't do it, mum and sir," he said. "I'd be gittin' everything and givin' you nothin' for it. It wouldn't be a fair bargain."

Art Calendars For 1912

Reserve your calendar order for us. Our 1912 line is now ready to show, and our representative will call on Escanaba merchants in a few days with samples.

The line consists of a big assortment of imported embossed panels, cut outs, tissue novelties, hangers and wall pockets and domestic mat board mountings hangers, etc., etc.

The entire line is twice or three time as large as outside agents are able to carry and in most cases our prices are lower. We do the printing on the calendars just before delivering them, so that should a merchant change locations after giving his order, we will be able to print his correct address in the card.

The Mirror distributes many hundreds of dollars every year in salaries, all of which is circulated in the city of Escanaba. The outside calendar man spends a couple of dollars here, gets all the money he can, all of which is spent to help build up other communities.

MONEY IN LITTLE THINGS.

The announcement from Chicago that a combine involving a $9,000,000 capitalization has been formed in chewing gum serves to illustrate once more the enormous proportions which the seemingly diminutive industries of other days have assumed under the modern system of manufacture and distribution. It also serves to illustrate the fact once more that pennies count, comments the Calumet News. There is no need to dwell upon chewing gum in this connection. Other small and more useful commodities are readily at hand, and some of these, considered from the unit point, give even greater force to the now generally accepted business aphorism that there is big money in little things.

Take for example, pins, needles, thread, tacks, nails or matches, marbles, toys or combs, brushes, tooth paste or buttons, collars, cuffs—take anything in common use, no matter how cheap the individual piece or article may be; manufacture it on a scale that will bring it a little below the established price long enough to crowd out competition or to compel opposition to come to terms, and the way is open for consolidation and capitalization in millions.

This is modern industrialism in its present stage of development. The concern that turns out a commodity in a small way cannot compete on equal terms with the concern that can turn out the same commodity in a large way. And one of the things that have combined to revolutionize the industrial system in these latter years has been the discovery that there is practically nothing in a small way, from brads to buttons, from lead pencils to pies, from baseball bats to biscuits, that cannot be turned out in a big way.

THE CARNEGIE HEROES.

Republics are ungrateful, and heroes often never even get thanks. Andrew Carnegie's medals and cash awards, 26 of which were distributed last week, are one of the few instances where poetic justice is done.

It is notable that most of these awards go to men in quite humble or very ordinary ranks of life. They are not the fellows who tramp down the streets with lordly front and swell clothes. All of which shows that stained working clothes and soiled hands often hide a heart that is true gold.

These awards not merely give the recipient something to kindle a glow of pride for a lifetime, but they must be of very practical service. A fellow who receives this distinction must attract wide notice, which must tend to improve his chances for advancement in his trade or business, not to speak of the cash payment handed out where needed. The feeling of the hollowness of human society, which so often produces bitterness in many hearts, is a little relieved when meritorious acts receive such a fitting tribute.

Those advertisements are still as interesting as ever and your neglect to read any of them will prove a losing proposition for yourself. Learn to read the advertisements carefully and the advisability of purchasing at home will at once become apparent.

Queer, isn't it, how much more exciting life seems to our gilded youth at 1 a. m. than at the mollycoddle hour of 9 p. m. Paul Jones is to have a crypt at Annapolis costing $135,000. If Congress had been asked to give him $1.35 for a square meal in his life time, it would have come hard.

Mr. Taft has become an honorary president of the Boy Scouts of America and he did not have to promise any post-offices to get the office either.

Twenty-six more Carnegie heroes were made last week but not one of them would dare pin his medal on his coat and walk down town.

Aviator Ely flies from the land to a warship, but judging by recent accidents, he was much safer in the air than on any of our war vessels.

The deadlock over the New York senatorship will strengthen the movement to give the other 9,000,000 of the state a pass-key.

The salary of the president of the steel trust is cut from $100,000 to $50,000. His wife must reconcile herself to their fallen fortunes and prepare to do her own housework.

THOUGHTS ON BUSINESS

BY WALDO PONDRAY WARREN

COMMON SENSE IN SELLING

It doesn't pay to be too anxious to sell—it only drives the trade away. One morning recently I stopped at a fruit stand. I was in just the frame of mind in which I didn't want anything in particular but wished to buy something if I saw anything that appealed to me. But the instant I began looking at the fruit the old man came up and began pointing to this, that, and the other, not giving me a moment to think for myself. I simply turned and walked off—probably as thousands had done before me. I was willing to buy goods, but not willing to have goods sold to me. And I went away disappointed at not having the privilege of looking over the stock.

This same spirit in some degree pervades almost every line of business. The men who own the business may know better, but they fail to impress the point upon their salespeople, and the result is the same as at the fruit stand. Those who are willing to be customers turn away when they are denied the privilege of looking over the goods and forming their own impressions.

But, on the other hand, there are people who desire immediate attention and go away if they don't get it. There is a happy medium between these two extremes that is an important point in successful salesmanship.

Our Daily Short Story

NO HOPE FOR HER

Miss Merton was one of those unclaimed blessings for whom their feminine friends who have achieved the great end of matrimony are constantly on the lookout for husbands.

She was the kind of girl—of forty or thereabout—of whom it is always said: "Isn't it the greatest pity in the world that she never married? She would have made such a good wife for some man!"

Miss Merton herself wasn't particularly troubled about her state of single blessedness. "I'm too fat to make a hit with the men," she would say with a rippling giggle. "Besides, I laugh too much. The men always think I'm making fun of them."

Her sister-in-law, John Merton's wife, was devoted to Miss Merton, and was most anxious to see her charms appreciated.

When her sister-in-law called her up on the telephone and asked her to dine with them on a certain evening, on which Harriet happened to know that John was going to bring home a business acquaintance whom she remembered to have heard Mrs. John speak of as a very reserved and dignified but prosperous widower, Harriet chuckled.

"Does he like them plump?" she queried.

"Does who like what plump?"

Harriet's rippling giggle came over the wire. "Why, Mr. Ploperton, wives," she returned, generally. "John told me he was going to bring Mr. Ploperton home with him tonight."

"I wish John wouldn't talk so much," Mrs. John retorted, impatiently. "He did also the stately Ploperton."

The dinner passed off delightfully. Harriet evidently made quite an impression on the prosperous widower. She was natural and unaffected. After dinner and a short game of bridge, Harriet rose from the table.

"Well, John," she said to her brother, "you know you'll have to take your little sister home."

John remained seated. "Oh, ask Ploperton," he said, lazily. "It's on his way."

Ploperton protested ponderously, but quite sincerely, that he would be delighted. As he and Harriet stepped out on the front porch Mrs. John gave a little exclamation.

"Why, it's been sleeting," she cried. "Do be careful. The steps are slippery."

In spite of the uncertainty that attended their sliding feet, Miss Merton and Ploperton were having an extremely pleasant walk, when at the top of a perfectly innocent looking hill, just as Ploperton was saying gallantly, "I hope I may soon have the pleasure of—" he suddenly flung his arm wide to the breeze. Then with an airy sweep of his leg he brought his feet into the proper position for what is technically known as "sliding down hill," and with his coat tails standing out grandly behind him and his arms rhythmically beating the air in the most approved fashion, with an unbelievable lightness and grace, he sailed off, giving forth, at short intervals, what might have been smothered bellows of joy.

For an instant Miss Merton maintained her equilibrium at the top of the hill, and then, as though inspired by Ploperton's apparent sportiveness, she gave a little impromptu skip, her feet flew out from under her and with a squeal of mingled terror and amusement she sat down and sped down the hill after Ploperton.

The next thing of which she was conscious was that she was sitting at the bottom of the incline with two substantial feet planted in the middle of Ploperton's stately back. For an instant they sat thus, then Ploperton faced about, looking with intense disgust into his companion's face and remarked: "How ridiculous people look doing a thing like this!"

He proceeded to roll over until he reached the edge of the sidewalk, on which he took a firm grip with both hands. Gradually and with extraordinary care he walked himself up as near as he could to where his hands were and then undoubling in a very gingerly way he managed to regain the perpendicular.

Miss Merton looked up from her lowly position into her companion's disgusted and indignant face. Then she buried her own face in her muff and shrieked with laughter.

"I'm awfully sorry for you, Mary," she said to Mrs. John the next day when she was telling the latter about it, "because if I hadn't laughed I think there would have been a fighting chance for me. So far as I can remember, he was on the verge of asking me to go motoring with him when the catastrophe happened, but after he had with much puffing managed to roll me over and get up on to my feet he never said another word except good night when he deposited me at my own door."

Miss Merton laughed again at the recollection. "I never saw anything in my life any funnier," she declared. "He had such an air of being full to the brim with hilarity and good fellowship and yet loathing it all the time."

"I'm really very sorry for you, my dear, because you will have to keep your matrimonial agency open indefinitely now, and you didn't have the fun of seeing him, either, but personally I wouldn't exchange the memory of that joyful sight for a dozen husbands."

Patient Bravery.
The heroism of the man or woman who patiently endures pain which, while not severe, continues for weeks and months is as much to be commended, perhaps, as the courage of the moment in the case of a bad accident or a severe operation. Every city has its scores of these cases. Every hospital interne could relate stories of patient bravery that are not noticed simply because they are so common.

THEATRICAL

THE PETERSON--"St. Elmo," the story which though written years ago, is in steady demand in all the public libraries today, is to be told in a play. A special company has been formed to present it through this region. The players have been selected with careful attention to the great dramatic possibilities of "St. Elmo."

Burr's Successful Flattery. A contemporary of Burr, explaining how fascinating he was to young minds, says: "In his manner of listening he seemed to give your thoughts so much value by his manner of receiving and to find so much more meaning in your words than you had intended; no flattery was more subtle."

Close Observer. Philip, eight years of age, already is a close if silent observer. In his town a number of men in the past few years have died, leaving their families unprotected for. One day Philip's teacher asked him to define the word "widow." "A widow," replied thoughtfully Philip, "is a poor woman with a large family who takes boarders."

The Shortest Name. A correspondent thinks he has discovered the shortest shop front name in London. It is above a shop in Gray's Inn road--simply S. B. There is some sort of accent on the "e," but the sign writer seems doubtful about it. Can you beat that name for brevity?

Willing to Please. "These stocks of yours are worthless." "I don't care," said the woman. "The broker was very accommodating. He has exchanged them four times."

Again That Big "if." How wise we should all be if at middle age we could actually know as much as in youth we thought we did!

FOLEY KIDNEY PILLS Are tonic in action, quick in results. A special medicine for all kidney and bladder disorders. Henry Bower, Traverse City, Mich., says, "Since the first of the year I have been a very sick man. Have spent a lot of money in doctoring, have bought various kidney medicines and used them but to no effect. Foley Kidney Pills were brought to my notice through a friend and I decided to try them. After using them a short time I was greatly relieved and can honestly say that they did me a world of good." Sold by all druggists.

GRAND MARAIS IN FIGHT FOR LIFE

William Leighton is at Lansing, Lobbying in the interests of Keeping His Home City on the Map--Asks For Road-Work Fund to Build to Railroad--The Details.

Lansing, Mich., Jan. 24.--William Leighton of Grand Marais, is at the capital lobbying in the interests of keeping his home city on the map. Recently the Manistique road the old Alger-Smith railroad, announced that it would no longer run trains into Grand Marais, abandoning that city on the shore of Lake Superior.

Sooner or later the Cleveland Cliffs company is expected to put a railroad through from Lake Michigan to Lake Superior, which will reach Grand Marais. In the meantime the city which has done all it can in the interests of good roads asks from the legislature as large an appropriation as possible with which to build a fine wagon road from Grand Marais to Seney, where it can reach the railroad.

A lot of hard work is being done on this proposition which means practically the life of the town. It is feared by some that the constitution may stand in the way of bringing this about on the ground of appropriating public money for local improvements, but the attorney-general is trying to draft a bill which will give what is desired without conflict with the constitution.

BUILDING PLANNED FOR THE G. A. R.

It is Proposed to Raise $200,000 By Issuing Three Per Cent Bonds--Plan is Sprung at a Meeting Attended by Governor Osborn and Other Notable Men.

Lansing, Mich., Jan. 24.--The Department of Michigan, G. A. R., has a bill prepared and which will be introduced in the legislature soon providing for a Memorial building to be erected in Lansing at a cost of $200,000, the amount to be secured through 3 per cent bonds. The plan was sprung at a meeting of Foster Post G. A. R., at which Governor Osborn, Senator James Leonard, all three offices of the department of Michigan, Spanish War Veterans and Representatives Chambers, McBride, Ewing, Murphy, Flak, Gard, Arthur Odell, and Oppenborn, all members of the Sons of Veterans; Speaker Baker and Representatives Rankin Heckert, Graves, Sharp and Russell, members of the G. A. R., were guests.

The guests were informed at this meeting that the Department of Michigan had the plans all drawn and the bill ready by which this memorial building should be erected. The department soon loses its headquarters in the capitol building and for this reason it is deemed fitting that such a memorial building should be constructed.

LENGTH OF BAGGAGE CAR IS LIMITED

The Central Passenger association has voted that no baggage cars more than sixty-feet in length can be used on railroads operating in the C. P. A. territory. Some of the road have been using seventy-foot cars, but these have been found unsatisfactory. Theatrical companies in particular will be affected by the ruling, as they have been asking for seventy-foot baggage cars. The usual request would be for two seventy-foot cars, and when these could not be furnished they would demand three sixty-foot cars, practically getting a free car. This ruling will go into effect March 1.

JUDGE SEES WIFE; RAISES THE FINE

Kansas City, Jan. 24.—Upon the size of the wife a man beats depends the size of the fine he must pay in Judge Carlisle's court. Luther Chambers was fined $25 for beating his wife. He said he could prove by her that it was his first offense. A sweet-faced little woman walked out of the crowd to take the witness stand. "Is that small woman your wife?" "Yes," responded Chambers. "Your fine is raised to $500," said the judge.

BISHOP EIS PASSES ANOTHER MILESTONE

Friday, January 20, was the 68th anniversary of the birth of Rt. Rev. Bishop Frederick Eis, bishop of the Roman Catholic diocese of Sault Ste. Marie and Marquette, Mich. Bishop Eis was born in Arbach, Germany, January 20, 1843. As a youth he came with his parents to America settling in the upper peninsula of Michigan, and after completing his preliminary education he studied for the priesthood in seminaries in Milwaukee and in Montreal. After his ordination in 1870 he was assigned to St. Peter's Cathedral parish in Marquette. He afterwards filled pastorates in Calumet, Hancock, Negaunee and one or two other places in upper Michigan. Following the death of Bishop Verlin in 1899 he was appointed administrator of the diocese of Sault Ste. Marie and Marquette and on August 24 of the same year he was consecrated as successor to that prelate.

WITNESSES WERE OUTSIDE THE STATE

They Refused to Come to Escanaba to Testify and for That Reason Two Criminal Cases in Circuit Court are Dropped—Several Other Cases Also Dismissed.

In circuit court Monday afternoon the cases of the People vs Nellie St. Clair, charged with keeping a house of ill fame, and the People vs John Powers, charged with inducing a female to enter a house of ill fame for the purpose of prostitution, were ordered dismissed upon request of the prosecuting attorney. The prosecutor stated to the court that material witnesses in both cases were outside of the state and absolutely refused to come here to testify. Without their testimony conviction in either case was impossible, he stated, and he therefore asked the court to nolle the cases.

Today nolles were entered by the court in the cases of the People vs Mike Okonich, charged with forgery; William Kolaski, charged with forgery, and Carl Ingebrizzen, charged with larceny. In the first two cases the defendants were released upon parole. It was shown that they had not actually forged time orders of the I. Stephenson company, but had tried to utter them after they had been fraudulently changed by somebody else and that they were young aliens ignorant of the seriousness of their offense.

Ingebrizzen's case was investigated by the court, who learned that the defendant was not of strong mental ability and scarcely responsible for his action in stealing $60 from a fellow workman. The money had been recovered and was in possession of the clerk of the court. It was ordered turned over to its rightful owner and Ingebrizzen was dismissed after being severely reprimanded by the court.

The following cases were continued upon application of the defendants, who gave the illness of their attorney as a reason for their requests: People vs Isaac Caron, charged with violation of liquor law; Andrew Peterson, violation of liquor law; James Pilotte, selling liquor to minor; Fred Frasher, selling liquor to minor; Eugene Blair, larceny; Rock Miron, violation of liquor law.

Calling and arraigning of the calendar was resumed today, with the result that not a few cases were continued over the term or otherwise disposed of. The new jurors are ordered to report at two o'clock tomorrow afternoon, when the first case to be tried before a jury probably will be taken up.

Spread of Child Labor Reform. The recent meeting of the commission on uniform laws had some cheerful news to give on the reform in the child labor situation.

In six years thirteen states and the District of Columbia have established departments of inspection for the enforcement of child labor laws, and ten states and the District of Columbia have established an eight hour-day for children under sixteen. In 1904 the fourteen year age limit was in effect in only twelve states; now it is in force in thirty-seven.

HARD ON WORKERS

Toil of Slaves Used to Drive Out American Free Labor.

STATE'S SIMPLE METHOD.

Minnesota Employs Convicts to Manufacture Binder Twine That Undermines the Product of Free Workers. Family Rights Ignored.

We are unable to join in the enthusiasm manifested by the governing powers of the state of Minnesota over their "successful" methods of putting the price of binder twine down to 3 cents below the level at which "the trust" is able to sell it. Nor can we hurrah very heartily over the fact that by the same method the state will regulate the market rates of agricultural implements in the coming year.

The state's method is simple—so simple that the morality of it seems to have evaded the attention of its legislative, judicial and executive departments and of its citizens in general. It is the good old plan of reducing a workingman to slavery and taking from him by force all of the product of his labor except a bare subsistence. Success in this plan blinded many a generation of slaveholders, and the success of Minnesota is undoubted, for she made a profit of $189,000 last year out of every slave in her twine works, and with her new agricultural implement works also operated by the same sort of slave labor her total profits from this source are expected in future to average $300,000 a year. All goes into the state treasury.

Apart from our objection to slave labor, the feature of the plan which results in barring the trust made binder twine out of Minnesota brings up in our bosom certain disturbing sensations. There are many good trade union people working for "trusts" in this country, if by the word "trust" is to be meant any industry conducted on a large scale. The railroads are an example. Actually we prefer to see railroad men in their present condition rather than in slavery.

The binder twine trust employed free labor to make the goods it formerly sold in Minnesota. Each slave who is now handling over to the state $189,000 annually has been substituted for a freeman, whose wages must have been approximately the same as those prevailing in similar grades of work in the United States, and on the whole, after some extended observation, we believe that the general American rate of wages is still somewhat more than sufficient to maintain our workmen above the slave level. We shall be reckless right here and now and say, however much the trust in the financial and industrial field is abhorrent to justice, we are willing to tolerate it for a little while longer rather than to see it abolished by the Minnesota method. There may possibly be some other way.

Another thing that appeals to us in this case is that before being thrown into slavery many of the men in Minnesota's binder twine slave works were husbands and fathers, and their families are now in sad need of the proceeds of their labor which Minnesota is taking from them by force. It is a hard thing when even a slave's little children are in destitute circumstances.

As is always the case in social problems, at the bottom of it all is a question of morality. To the state of Minnesota—nonsense, there is no state of Minnesota in moral responsibility—to the people of the state of Minnesota, we suggest that they ask their pastors to address them on a given Sunday on the commandment "Thou shalt not steal."

How easy it is for men to lull their conscience asleep when they have other men at their mercy and can make them do their bidding! How blind men are to the remote effects of any social contrivance by which they themselves profit!

It might be thought that the Minnesota method would be denounced by every other state in the Union. A mistake! Michigan talks of taking it up. If the idea spreads to other states the working classes will have before them an urgent task in self protection, for, whatever their sentiments toward the slaves who are made to work for the enrichment of the state, they must see to it that they themselves are not deprived of the work that by the scheme goes to the state manufacturers operated by slaves.—Samuel Gompers in American Federationist.

that it was the easiest thing in the world to make the Kermis a success. I like Escanaba and Escanaba's people and the consideration and kindness shown by them in the great strain of our work speaks well for the type of citizens that makes up Escanaba's population. Let me say that I consider the Kermis at Escanaba one of our best successes, and a success that would always be assured to us if at each city we visited the people would enter into the work with the same spirit of enthusiasm.

Mrs. Pettee and Miss Palmer were very popular with the young people and there was a sound of disappointment in the voices of the children when the good-byes to them were said Saturday afternoon.

STATE FISHERMEN GREATLY PLEASED

Michigan fishermen are greatly pleased over a report from Washington to the effect that the international fishing regulations agreed upon between the United States and Canada will not be put into operation until 1912. It was the original intention to put the new rules into effect at once. The international regulations require the fishermen to use a larger mesh net for whitefish and trout than the state law requires and as the fishermen already have laid in most of their supply of nets for the coming season, strong representations have been made to the Michigan congressmen that the immediate enforcement of the new regulations would be a great hardship to the fishermen of this state. According to reports the protest has been heard and the enforcement of the new regulations has been postponed one year.

The Milk Tyranny. As an article of diet milk is over-estimated. Man is the only animal who when grown to be adult drinks milk. The cow herself will not drink it except in rare instances. Many horses refuse it. In the wild, if the grown lion or elephant or fox were disposed to dispute with the younglings for possession of the udder he could prevail and rob the sucklings till the race perished.

Hours to Remember. The hours I remember most joyfully are the hours in which some unselfish effort or sacrifice stirred the sluggish pulses of my heart.—J. Baldwin Brown.

To Polish Old Furniture. For furniture there is nothing to equal olive oil or raw linseed oil, rubbed into the wood, according to the grain. The woodwork may require retaining as well. Ordinary old oak is always improved by rubbing it with warm beer. It should be remembered that linseed oil has the effect of darkening mahogany.

An Eye-Opener. A child of strict parents, whose greatest joy had been the weekly prayer meeting, was taken by its nurse to the circus for the first time. When he came home he explained: "Oh, mamma, if you once went to the circus you'd never, never go to prayer meeting again in all your life."—Harper's Magazine.

Hit Him in the Wrong Place. A pneumatic barber chair exploded in Los Angeles and put out a barber's eye. That isn't the device that is needed. What the world requires is a chair that will explode and land on the barberial conversation department.

Looked Good. Wogs—So you got stung in that mining company? You should have known better. Wogs—How could I? It looked like a real thing; no fake earmarks about it. Why, there wasn't a single man on the board of directors who was prominent in public life.—Puck.

AVERAGE OF ALIENS HERE IS EXCELLENT

Chief Naturalization Examiner M. A. Sturgis Speaks in Complimentary Terms of Delta County Applicants for Full Citizenship Papers—An Unusually Good Class.

Attorney M. A. Sturgis, chief naturalization examiner of the state of Michigan, who was in the city Monday to conduct in Circuit court of a large number of aliens for their final citizenship papers, left Monday night for his home in Detroit.

When asked about it, Mr. Sturgis stated that the class of men examined here Monday for their final naturalization papers averaged up very well. In fact, it was an unusually good class, Mr. Sturgis stated, and there were but five or six applications out of a total of nearly 65 that had to be dismissed.

Mr. Sturgis stated that the organizations that have been formed in several counties of the upper peninsula and other parts of the state for the purpose of aiding aliens in acquiring the knowledge which they must possess before becoming full citizens of the United States are doing good work. There is such an organization in Delta county and Mr. Sturgis said he believed the excellent showing made by the petitioners here Monday afternoon could in some degree be credited to the work of that body.

INFORMAL DANCING PARTY IS SUCCESS

Clark's hall was the scene last night of an exceptionally enjoyable social affair, an informal dancing party given by the Delta Dancing Club. There was a good attendance, just about large enough not to interfere with the freedom and pleasure of dancing, and the people were congenial. Brotherton's orchestra furnished excellent music for the dance program, which was inaugurated about nine o'clock and concluded at one. For the occasion the hall was decorated in a simple but very effective manner. In every detail the party was a complete success.

BEST AND LATEST NEWS.

The Associated Press telegraph service furnished this paper its greatest news service in the world and gives you each evening all the most important news for the day. Local news is published with an eye only to facts and without bias or coloring.

We want any advertiser or any one else that is interested to come in at any time and see how many subscribers we have. The books have always been open and it is easy to count the city circulation as the boys take the papers for their routes each evening. For the past twelve months many new names have been added to this list of subscribers. Some of these are new people who have moved to town and some who have lived here for some time, but never cared for The Mirror until we became members of The Associated Press telegraph service.
