MANY NEW MEN IN THE UNITED STATES SENATE

Personnel of Upper House Will be Considerably Changed at the Next Session.

Washington, D. C. Feb. 14.—The personnel of the United States senate is to be considerably changed as a result of the elections that have taken place in the legislatures of numerous states during the past few weeks. The choice has now been made in practically all of the states, thus making it possible to draw an upper house that will stand after the adjournment of the present session.

The thirty senators whose terms will expire March 4 are: Aldrich of Rhode Island, Beveridge of Indiana, Bulkeley of Connecticut, Burkett of Nebraska, Burrows of Michigan, Carter of Montana, Clapp of Minnesota, Culberson of Texas, Depew of New York, Dick of Ohio, DuPont of Delaware, Fline of California, Frazier of Tennessee, Hale of Maine, Kean of New Jersey, LaFollette of Wisconsin, Lodge of Massachusetts, McCumber of North Dakota, Money of Mississippi, Nixon of Nevada, Oliver of Pennsylvania, Sutherland of Utah, Swanson of Virginia, Taliaferro of Florida and Warner of Missouri.

Prominent Senators to Retire.
Senator Aldrich of Rhode Island, who declined to be a candidate for reelection, is succeeded by Henry F. Lippitt, a millionaire cotton manufacturer. Mr. Lippitt has never held public office, though his family has furnished two governors of Rhode Island.

Senator Beveridge of Indiana gives way to a Democrat, John W. Kern, who is best known as Mr. Bryan's running mate in the last presidential campaign.

Senator Bulkeley of Connecticut was a candidate for reelection, but was defeated by George P. McLean, a former governor of Connecticut.

Senator Burkett of Nebraska is succeeded by Gilbert M. Hitchcock, at present member of the house and the proprietor of a newspaper in Omaha.

Senator Burrows of Michigan, one of the veterans of the upper house, gives way to Charles E. Townsend, who has represented the Second Michigan district in the house for eight years.

Atlee Pomerne, a newcomer in the field of national politics, is the choice of the democrats of Ohio to succeed Senator Dick, republican.

John D. Works, the successor of Senator Flint, of California, is an able lawyer with many years of experience both at the bar and on the bench.

Luke Lea, who takes over the to-go now worn by James B. Frazer of Tennessee, is a lawyer and newspaper publisher of Nashville and has never held public office before.

First Democratic Since 1856.
Senator Hale of Maine is succeeded by Charles F. Johnson, a prominent lawyer, who has the distinction of being the first democrat sent to the senate from the Pine Tree state since 1856.

J. E. Martine, the democrat who succeeds Senator Kean of New Jersey, has never before held public office though many times a candidate.

Senator Money of Mississippi gives way to John Sharp Williams, the former leader of the democratic minority in the house.

Senator Warner of Missouri gives way to James A. Reed, who made a reputation as democratic "reform" mayor of Kansas City some years ago.

W. A. Blount, a prominent lawyer of Pensacola, is slated to succeed Senator Taliaferro of Florida, who was not a candidate for re-election.

W. F. Chilton, the democrat chosen to succeed Senator Scott of West Virginia, is a prominent lawyer and politician of Charleston. The West Virginia seat made vacant by the death of Senator Elkins, and now held temporarily by the son of the late senator, will be filled after March 4, by C. W. Watson, a wealthy coal operator.

The North Dakota vacancy caused by the death of Senator Johnson will be filled at the next session by A. J. Gronna, now a member of the house.

These Succeed Themselves.
The senators elected to succeed themselves are Clapp of Minnesota, Clark of Wyoming, Culberson of Texas, DuPont of Delaware, LaFollette of Wisconsin, Lodge of Massachusetts, McCumber of North Dakota, Nixon of Nevada, Oliver of Pennsylvania, Page of Vermont, Rayner of Maryland and Sutherland of Utah.

CORN HOLDS ITS OWN DESPITE WEATHER

Lansing, Feb. 14.—According to the monthly crop report, issued by Secretary of State Martindale, 435 correspondents throughout the state say that wheat has not suffered since the first of the year, while 156 are of the opinion that the crop suffered during the month of January.

The report shows that 372,738 bushels of wheat were marketed at various flouring mills, grain dealers and elevators, of this amount 266,515 bushels were marketed in the southern tiers of counties; 93,480 in the central counties, and 12,743 in the northern counties and the upper peninsula.

The estimated total number of bushels of wheat marketed in six months, August-January, is 6,750,000. Fifty-five mills, elevators and grain dealers report no wheat marketed during January.

HUNTS FOR A WOLF, FINDS A BLACK FOX

John Vanastine of Baldwin township, Algoma, Keweenaw county, followed up some tracks from poison he had set for wolves when he came upon an animal which lives to a great extent in the dreams and imaginations of all hunters and trappers, namely, a black fox. The skins are listed from $300 to $1,500 each, and as this is a large one, glossy and absolutely perfect, it ought to fetch somewhere about a thousand dollars. The fur is as fine as silk and of a glossy black underneath, each of the long hairs being tipped with white.

PER CAPITA WEALTH IN NATION IS $34.43

(Special U. T. Service.)
Washington, D. C., Feb. 14.—The per capita wealth of the United States, as based upon the new census figures, is $34.43. Under the census of 1900 it was computed by the treasury department as $35.10.

According to the latest estimate, the total amount of money now in circulation is $3,211,550,465, as against $3,125,586,720, a year ago. The increase is represented by the coinage of gold.

John M. Millar, Secretary.

THE TALKING HORSE.

A horse, brought to an evil pass, was given speech, like Balaam's ass, and it remarked, in mournful tones, while rude winds chilled its ancient bones: "My master sits beside the fire, and there he'll talk, and never tire, of equal rights, square deals and things of which the jaw-smith always sings, and I stand haltered to a post, most ready to give up the ghost. I wouldn't give a picayune, I wouldn't give a moidore for any scheme of equal rights—that leaves dumb critters out at nights. The square deal that man can plan, is framed exclusively for man; while he is fussing with his jaws, devising tax and tariff laws, he lets his poor old pony wheeze, he lets his trusty roosters freeze, his cow must shiver by the fence because she has no residence, his dog must sleep beneath the barn, and never does he care a darn. I wish the world were changed around, and horses had the right to pound and bullyrag and starve men—you'd see some drazy dogs then! My boss would stand here, nice and cool, and I'd be in there playing pool, or sucking elder through some straws, and arguing some blame fool laws!" Then, having told what he desired, the poor old war-worn plug expired.

PUGGIE AND THE SNOW MAN

Minnie had worked busily all the week making a fine big snow man. Minnie was not very big herself; therefore it was very hard work for her to build a snow man all alone. So when she was almost up to his head she decided to call Puggie, her pretty pet puppy, and ask him to help her. She knew he could scratch snow and pile it up for her to use. So she went to the door and called to Puggie, who was asleep on the fur rug before the fire, "Oh, Pug—Pug—Puggie, come here and help me work!"

Puggie bounded up at sound of his little mistress' voice and ran gayly into the yard, where he was introduced to the headless snow man. "This is Mr. Snow Man, Puggie," said Minnie. "Of course he can't bow to you yet, as he hasn't a head, but as soon as he gets one maybe he will do so. Anyway, you must bow to Mr. Snow Man and show your good manners." And Minnie made Puggie, greatly against his will, bow very low and shake his paw and say, "Bow-wow, bow-wow-wow."

But Puggie was fuller of mischief than he was of manners or tricks. He may have disliked the headless snow man, too, just on general principles, but anyway he refused to work as Minnie dictated. She showed him repeatedly how to scratch up loose snow into a pile for her to work from, but the minute she let go of his paws he would put them trembly down, whine and shiver as much as to say: "Now, for pity's sake don't oblige me to work on this lifeless, silent thing! If this great, clumsy snow man could run and jump and play I'd do my best to help you put a head on him. But he's of no use except to freeze children's hands and dogs' paws in the building."

Minnie, provoked at Puggie, made him sit down on the cold doorstep, where she could keep an eye on him. After awhile she thought it time to go into the house to warm her hands and eat a cookie. But to punish Puggie for his stubbornness in refusing to help her in her work she bade him remain out of doors till she should return. Well, the little miss did not know her pet Puggie's ugly tricks. As soon as the door had closed behind her Puggie made a leap at the snow man, scratching and gnawing at his legs till had they been of flesh they would certainly have poured forth blood. But as they were only of soft snow they crumbled away and became a heap without form.

Just as Puggie was finishing his work of destruction Minnie reappeared on the scene. For a moment she could not speak, her mouth was so full of cookie. But the instant she swallowed, the sweet morsel she ran toward Puggie, crying out: "You had, naughty little scamp! You've killed my poor snow man and before he'd got his head on! Oh, I'll whip you for your naughtiness, I will! And you'll go to bed tonight without your supper too."

And that night as Puggie lay down in his warm basket, his little stomach begging for a nice supper, he felt that to behave naughtily only injured himself. The snow man didn't suffer, and Minnie could build another one. But he—oh, he couldn't have his supper and an affectionate good night from his kind little mistress! So he made up his mind, Puggie did, to be good and obedient after this and never to kill any more headless snow men, especially if his young mistress were likely to see him at his work.

WHY HE DIDN'T TOUCH SECOND BASE

Fred Merkle, of New York Giants.

Fred Merkle, the man who set the baseball world on its ear by failing to touch second and who "came back" last fall by playing a wonderful game against the Highlanders, dropped into New York the other day to see McGraw.

Merkle was in a talkative mood, and for the first time since that lamentable incident which lost New York the pennant he gave his side of the affair. Up to this time he had never said a word, but it is known that he lost 20 pounds and came near an attack of nervous prostration through worry caused by the national attack on his so-called "bonehead play."

"I'll tell you the truth about that play," said Merkle, "and I don't think that I was to blame because other ball players have been doing the same thing for 20 years or more. I was on first base and McCormick was on third. When Al Bridwell shot that long single into center that won the game I started across the grass for the clubhouse. Mathewson was near me and when Evers began shouting for the ball he noticed that something was wrong. He caught me by the arm and told me to wait a minute. We walked over toward second base and Matty spoke to Emalle.

"How about this, Bob?" asked Matty. "Is there any trouble with the score or the play?"

"It's all right," replied Emalle. "You've got the game. I didn't see anything wrong with the play."

"Matty then took me by the arm, and we walked away to the clubhouse." During the hearing of that famous case Merkle was not called before the commission, and up to this time he has never said a word about the incident. On account of Harry Pulliam being present at the game evidence was not considered necessary.

WILL BE A SLOW START BUT A STRONG FINISH

Marine Men Do Not Expect that Navigation Season Will Open With a Rush This Spring.

According to marine men here and at all the Great Lake ports, the outlook is for a very slow start in the lake trade next season, and some of the independent owners are planning on holding their boats in port until June or later. "There will be very little demand for wild tonnage during the early part of the season," says the manager of one of the big fleets, "and I have notified our captains and engineers that it will be pretty late before we will do any work in the way of fitting out. We will not start our boats until they are wanted by the shippers, and we have notified our men regarding the conditions so they can make arrangements accordingly. Managers of other fleets have also notified their captains and engineers regarding the uncertainty of placing their boats in commission during the early part of the season."

But Little Wild Ore.

It seems to be the consensus of opinion among the marine interests that there will be some grain and coal to be moved at the opening, but the indications are that there will be very little wild ore on the market.

The big shippers will have about all they can do to take care of their own capacity at the start. It is expected that there will be no great rush on the part of the shippers to place their boats in commission. It will be some time before the question of freight contracts is taken up, and some of the ore men are of the opinion that the season will open before carrying charges are fixed.

The trusts freighters were started with a rush last year and before some of the vessels were out a month there was a surplus of tonnage on the market. A number of wild carriers were laid up in June and some of them were in ordinary for two months. Many big carriers were brought down light from upper lake ports to load coal, and vessels were more plentiful than cargoes all season.

Expect a Fair Finish.

While the boat men look for a poor start they feel quite confident that there will be a fair demand for tonnage during the latter part of the season and that there will be a fair finish. The improvement will be slow in coming, they say, if too much capacity is placed in commission at the start. A number of steamers have been chartered for coal and grain for the first trip, but some of them will probably have to lay up after they deliver their cargoes. The iron trade is in better shape than it was a month ago. The Steel Corporation has increased its furnace capacity about 10 per cent during the past three weeks. More furnaces will be blown in during the next few days, and it is expected that 60 per cent of the capacity will be in operation next week.

PUTTING KERMIS ON AT IRONWOOD

Mrs. W. J. Pettie and Miss Jessie Palmer of Marquette, who recently conducted a very successful Kermis here under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid society of the First Presbyterian church, are now at Ironwood, where they today began holding rehearsals for a similar Kermis, to be held under the auspices of the woman's guild of the Ironwood Episcopal church.

THEATRICAL

THE PETERSON.—With a company of superior excellence, an entire new scenic investiture, a brand new costume embellishment, a host of new, novel, up-to-date features, comes Pixley and Luder's musicale triumph, "The Burgomaster," to the Peterson Wednesday, February 15. "The Burgomaster," always the most pleasing and popular of all the Pixley and Luder successes, has been kept right up to the minute, and a little beyond. This season will prove no exception to the rule, and William P. Cullen promises the original metropolitan production. Reserved seats now on sale at Mead's drug store.

THE PETERSON.—Sunday evening, Feb. 19.—Miss De Voss and company will open a three nights' engagement in the latest Western success, "The Last Round Up." Since their last appearance here Mr. Rotnous has secured some of the best talent obtainable. The plays that will be presented here during their short stay will be all new and up-to-date. "Merry Mary Jane" will be presented one evening, which is Miss DeVoss' own play in which she excels. Each play is mounted with special scenery and polite vaudeville between all acts make the performance continuous. Seats for the "Last Round Up" will be placed on sale Saturday morning with the prices at 10, 20 and 30 cents.

THE PETERSON.—Following is an extract from a long notice published by the Evening Chronicle of Port Arthur, Ontario, relative to the Juvenile Bostonians, who are booked to appear at the Peterson Wednesday evening, February 22:
Despite the terrific storm which raged over the city the Galety was filled almost to capacity when "The Ransom" was produced by the Juvenile Bostonians to the delight of all those present. The Bostonians made good the claim that they "are better than ever."

The plot of the opera, following the custom of all comic operas, is a mere thread upon which is strung sparkling solos, duets, and choruses with pretty situations and dances. It tells the story of the adventures to a little American girl who wandered into a gypsy camp and is held for ransom by the gypsies until a cowboy rescues her. The staging was very pretty and the costumes most attractive. Very tuneful music is the setting of this opera, and the songs were all remarkably melodious. * * * The Juvenile Bostonians are liberal with their endores and they are so willing to return, that, when a particularly pleasing number is given, the audience forgets often in its enthusiasm that it is demanding far more than it is entitled to.
