

UPPER PENINSULA GIVEN SELECT TREATMENT BY EQUALIZATION BOARD

LOWER COUNTIES OF THE STATE ARE HARDER HIT BY THE LANSING MEETING.

FINLAY'S REPORT BELIEVED.

Delta County Figures Given Out at $9,500,000 by Yesterday's Session of the Body—Mine Report Makes Great Cut in Houghton County Valuation—Plea of Poverty Ignored.

Lansing, Mich., Sept. 2.—Apparently the poverty pleas of the various counties whose representatives appeared before the state board of equalization last week, had but little effect on that body as the equalized value of the whole state has been tilted from $2,734,100,000 to $2,290,000,000, an increase of $555,900,000 since the last meeting of the board in 1906.

It was the contention of practically every county representative that the board of equalizers should not follow the dictates of the tax commission in this regard, as it was the unanimous opinion of every one interested in taxation matters that the tax commission had gone slightly beyond the limit.

Nearly All Pay More Taxes. The reduction by the board of equalization of the values as placed by the tax commission is no surprise to those who have followed closely the proceedings of the last two weeks. With very few exceptions all of the counties will have to pay more state taxes during the next three years than they have during the last five.

According to the figures reaching Escanaba today from the office of the auditor general the proportion of the tax now born by Delta county is .0055 an increase of .0001 as compared to the figures of 1906, when .0054 prevailed. The two decreases in the upper peninsula are in Chippewa with .0006 and in Houghton with .0371.

U. P. Statistics. The equalized valuation of the upper peninsula by counties in 1906, as levied by the state board, follows: Chippewa, $12,500,000; Mackinac, $3,700,000; Schoolcraft, $15,000,000; Delta, $9,500,000; Menominee, $11,000,000; Dickinson, $12,000,000; Marquette, $30,500,000; Baraga, $2,100,000; Keweenaw, $7,500,000; Houghton, $140,000,000; Iron, $6,500,000; Ontonagon, $5,000,000; Gogebic, $15,000,000.

By the latest state equalization the amounts by counties are: Chippewa, $15,200,000; Mackinac, $6,200,000; Schoolcraft, $6,000,000; Delta, $12,600,000; Alger, $6,000,000; Dickinson, $16,000,000; Marquette, $54,000,000; Baraga, $5,000,000; Keweenaw, $10,000,000; Houghton, $100,000,000; Iron, $21,000,000; Ontonagon, $10,000,000; Gogebic, $40,000,000.

These figures show a boost for the present valuation over 1906 of $55,600,000, the total 1906 assessment totaling $265,500,000, and the one just arrived at $321,100,000.

This makes a total increase of $55,600,000. The decrease in Houghton county is $40,000,000.

LABOR MEN TO HEAR SERMON TOMORROW

Members of the Trades and Labor Council will attend the services at the First Baptist church in a body tomorrow morning, to listen to a special sermon to be delivered by the pastor of the church, Rev. F. W. Ainslie.

The subject of the address will be "The Call of Christ to the Men Who Toil." There will be special music and the service will be one of interest to the union men. The public is invited to attend.

RALPH CANTLIN IS 'NONPARIEL' OWNER

Ralph Cantlin is now the complete owner of the Nonpariel barber shop, 702 Ludington street, the deal, whereby he purchased the interest held by Joseph Perrin, his partner, being consummated last night.

The young man established the shop over a year ago and have enjoyed an extensive patronage. Mr. Perrin will engage in another line of work, but will remain with Mr. Cantlin for some time, until his preparations materialize.

ESCANABA LOSES PECULIAR GAME

HAVE GAME SEWED UP IN EARLY INNINGS, BUT MARQUETTE GETS TO "RUBE" IN 9TH.

W. L. P. C. Negaunee16 9 640 Escanaba14 13 640 Marquette11 15 423 Ishpeming11 15 423 After Escanaba had the game in a condition that is usually known as "sewed up" in the eighth inning by a score of 7 to 3, Marquette gave a vice versa twist to things and flipped five runs over the rubber in the last round for the margin of an 8 to 7 score yesterday.

The lake town sluggers failed to slug through the early innings and could not catch on to Gilligan until the late session. When they did solve the Milwaukee benders they clouted heavily and for distance, although failing to send "Rube" to the bench. Mr. J. H. Gilligan, hung on to the mound while being touched for twelve during the inconsistent milling.

Five of the localities had never played on the Marquette grounds before but were getting away with the positions in a clever manner, when Ohlin booted a grounder and after recovering it sent it to first too strong. Lindquist could not touch it and Dixon went safe.

The orchestra then started the afternoon's concert. The clouting was terrific and the fielding was fearful. Lindquist came back to his own yesterday and clouted out three safe bingles in three times up. Connelly and Olmsted with two baggers, placed them in just the right portion of the game to constitute an advantage.

It was in the ninth that Marquette got in its deadly work, but even here a balk in the fielding furnished the opportunity. Dixon was first up. He laid a grounder down to Ohlin, who juggled the ball for a moment and let it fly to first on a high slant. Lindquist had to go into the air to handle the peg, and the ump's wavy money to stay there. Ryan found the ball for a single, and Riley proved himself among the old reliables by following his example, his bingle scoring Dixon. Ryan counted on what looked like a play to second by Redy. Gilligan stuck up his mit, knocked down the ball and killed its speed and before it was recovered Ryan was safely across the pan. Escanaba tightened up at this juncture. Tiffany flew out to Connelly in center, and Hynes whiffed. It look as if Marquette was not going to get the necessary run to tie the count. But Day was equal to the emergency presented to him when he strode to the plate, and, after much sparring with Gilligan, finally dumped a Texas leaguer back of the shortstop sending Riley across the plate. Mack drew a pass to the first station. It was left to Young to settle whether the game

REV. P. B. FERRIS TO VISIT CINCINNATI

DR. HUSTON OF MANSFIELD TO ARRIVE THIS EVENING TO OCCUPY PULPIT.

Owing to the belated arrival of Rev. R. M. Huston of Mansfield, O., who will hold his pastorate while he is on a vacation trip to Cincinnati, Rev. P. B. Ferris will preach tomorrow at the First Presbyterian church.

As Rev. Huston will arrive tonight Rev. Ferris decided to wait until Monday before departing for his old home. The Ohio minister will occupy the pastorate for several weeks. Mr. Ferris expects to return in ten days. All services will be conducted by him tomorrow.

"SHAN" ON FENCE; LADDER TO RESCUE

"Dad" Shanahan, familiarly known as "Stein" who is the doing the catching for the Alphas, met with a deplorable accident while working out at the park yesterday. "Dad" firmly asserts that the report is untrue.

Mr. Shanahan is gifted with a constant contour, and being the last to leave the park attempted to climb the fence to catch up with the rest, according to his teammates' story. Getting to the top of the enclosure he remained there for obvious reasons. Passers-by noticed his predicament and assisted him to the ground with a ladder. Nevertheless he will be in the game Sunday against the Tip Tops.

Miss Louise Leonhardt and Mrs. George Lovelace of Centralia, Ill., are guests of Mrs. John Derrigan.

AVIATOR DIES IN GREAT FALL

JOHN F. FRISBIE, CHICAGO AVIATOR, FALLS A HUNDRED FEET AT THE KANSAS MEET.

(By Associated Press.) Niangua, France, Sept. 2.—Captain DeCamine of the French army fell from his monoplane today and was instantly killed.

Troyes, France, Sept. 2.—While making an aeroplane flight today, Lieut. DeGrailly was burned to death in the air. It is supposed that the gasoline tank exploded.

(By Associated Press.) Norton, Kas., Sept. 2.—John F. Frisbie, of Chicago, a Curtiss aviator, was killed by a fall at the Norton county fair here late yesterday. The flyer met with an accident and went into the air again only when driven to do so by the taunts and jeers of the crowd. He dropped about one hundred feet and the engine of his machine fell upon him, crushing his left side and chest. He lingered for about an hour before he died.

Machine Disabled. Thursday Frisbie's machine acted badly and he had a fall of about forty feet, but beyond bruises and a shaking up he was not injured. He was skeptical about the ability of his machine to stand another flight and he announced that he would not take the air. When this statement was communicated to the crowd there was an angry demonstration. The spectators hooted, shouted "fakery" and refused to listen to explanations.

Frisbie announced that rather than have the big crowd go away with the impression that he was not willing to do his best, he would attempt a flight. He ascended from the track without difficulty and attained a height of one hundred feet, but in attempting to make a turn the plane pitched and Frisbie lost control. As he came crashing to the earth the spectators could see the aviator trying to right his machine, but as the aeroplane neared the ground one of the wings crashed into a bar and the biplane, glancing off, struck the earth with Frisbie underneath.

Wife a Witness. Frisbie's wife, son and little girl were witnesses of the accident. Mrs. Frisbie being prostrated when she saw her husband fall. Tonight she bitterly denounced the action of the spectators in forcing her husband to make the flight with a disabled machine.

SCHOOLS BELLS TO TOLL NEXT TUESDAY

ON TUESDAY MORNING AT NINE O'CLOCK, school bells will again toll forth, not to cease their daily appeal to the younger element for many months.

Wearily and reluctantly the pupils will wend their way to school, in the same manner that has prevailed for scores of years back. With faces washed brightly, books under arms, and a determination to shine intellectually, as school is a necessary evil, enrollment for the pupils will be a mixture of joy and sadness.

After ten weeks of care free play, with nothing to bother them, and clean faces and neat clothes a forgotten habit, the youngsters will be compelled to patiently allow their fond mothers to change their exterior appearance to one that will be consistent with the new regime.

All teachers have now arrived in the city and the assignment list is complete. The teachers will meet Monday at the High school for consultation and plans of procedure.

Miss Caroline Atkinson has returned to her home at Earlington, Ky., after spending several weeks as a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Thatcher on Michigan avenue.

BAPTIST LAYMEN HEAR CLERGYMEN

PROMINENT MINISTERS TALK BEFORE MEN'S SOCIETY OF THE CHURCH HERE.

Four prominent members of Michigan's Baptist clergy made addresses before the meeting of the Men's society of the First and Swedish Baptist churches at the parlors of the former last evening. A large body of laymen attended, and listened to several interesting and instructive addresses.

Rev. J. C. Rooney, a former pastor of the First Baptist church, Rev. Ira Smith of Sault Ste. Marie, Magnus Burgess, state Sunday school superintendent and Rev. Joshua Roberts of Detroit, director of state missions, were heard following the luncheon.

All of these men gave strong and helpful addresses. Together with the talks by the visitors, four local men gave brief speeches.

The attractive and sumptuous feast provided by the ladies for the occasion assisted to make the evening one of pleasure.

Rev. J. C. Rooney is now located at Bay City. Few men in the state have been in the Baptist clergy so long, or been identified with its best works, as he has. He left this morning for Cheboygan, where he will spend some time before returning to his home.

Rev. F. W. Ainslie, pastor of the First Baptist church here, arranged the affair, bringing the men down from Iron Mountain, where they participated in the convention of the Marquette Baptist association.

ESCANABA MEN ARE READY TO LEAVE

ROUND TRIP PRICE OF $5.60 WILL PREVAIL FROM HERE TO ST. IGNACE NEXT TUESDAY.

All delegates from Escanaba and other portions of Delta county are ready to leave Tuesday morning at 7 o'clock on the Soo line train out of the Northwestern station for St. Ignace, there to board the steamer bringing the name of that city, on the trip of the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau of Detroit.

The special fare granted by the line amounts to $5.60 for the round trip to St. Ignace. This is one and one-third the regular fare, and the return checks are good until September 15.

Preparations for the entertainment of the delegates at Detroit have been completed by the Board of Commerce of that city, and everybody from Mayor Thompson down, are ready to welcome the men from this section of the state.

Over thirty men, the names of whom have been published, will go from Delta county. Menominee will give a like delegation. Houghton, Marquette, and others will also send delegations of over thirty each. Other places will send smaller groups.

In the opinion of local men who are officers of the bureau, this excursion will be the greatest affair, as far as boosting this section is concerned, that has ever been attempted.

GLADSTONE READY FOR GREAT EVENT

ATTRACTIONS NOW ON GROUNDS OR COMING FOR THE BIG LABOR DAY CELEBRATION.

Reports from Gladstone today concerning the Labor Day celebration for Monday and Tuesday, overflowed with enthusiasm, and it is likely that the city will entertain more outsiders on these days than ever before in its history.

The program for the affair, which was published yesterday, is as complete as most cities ten times the size arrange, and is sufficient to bring out delegations from all over the upper peninsula.

Escanaba people will have an opportunity of participating in the event Tuesday after the celebration here Monday. All attractions are already on the grounds or coming, and the schedule will be carried out without an inconsistency.

Called Before Committee. Wisconsin Men To Open Before Investigating Body.

(By Associated Press.) Madison, Wis., Sept. 2.—Attorney General Bancroft, Edward McMahon and Paul J. Watrous, were subpoenaed today to appear before the senate committee, who will investigate the election of Senator Stephenson in Milwaukee on October 19.

PLANS COMPLETE FOR ESCANABA'S GREATEST LABOR DAY CELEBRATION

$10,000 SUBSCRIBED FOR NEW EDIFICE

SWEDISH M. E. HAS SECURED A LARGE PORTION OF THE NECESSARY SUM.

The $10,000 mark in subscriptions for the new Swedish Methodist church was reached today by the committee, practically every responsible concern of this city and vicinity having its name opposite a comparatively large sum.

An attempt will be made to secure $25,000 for the erection of a new modern edifice, at the corner of Mary street and Wells avenue, construction to begin probably in the spring. This was recently moved by the congregation. The church will face Mary street.

Private parties will be solicited from now on, and several thousands of dollars more are expected to be secured.

When completed the structure will be one of the best of that determination in the upper peninsula and the northwest.

SUSPECTED FORGER GIVEN RELEASE

NO EVIDENCE TO HOLD JACK O'HARA, CHICAGO MAN, THE POLICE DISCOVER

After looking up the past history of Jack O'Hara, the man arrested here yesterday as a forgery suspect, Chief of Police Iverson released him last night. O'Hara is the man who entered the State bank and after purchasing a special delivery stamp, purloined a pad of check blanks.

The chief communicated with the bureau of identification of the Chicago police department and found that the address given by O'Hara, at 740 Congress street, was correct, and that he had left the city five weeks ago. The forgeries here were committed before that time. He was then released.

X-RAY PICTURES ON EXHIBITION

Some very interesting X-ray pictures are on exhibition in one of the windows of the Mead Drug Co. The pictures are the work of Dr. Kitchen, who has and recently installed one of the finest machines on the market. The pictures that have been made are the best ever produced in this section of the country and are attracting a great deal of attention.

Dr. Kitchen has a great deal of surgical work and says that the new X-ray machine will prove a very valuable assistant to him in locating fractures and showing clearly their nature.

MISS OLIVER IS HOSTESS AT PARTY

Miss Marjorie Oliver entertained last evening at Clark's hall, with one of the season's prettiest parties. Golden glow, golden rod and field daisies formed the decoration scheme, and harmonized delightfully.

Brotherton's orchestra furnished the musical numbers for an enjoyable dancing program. The affair was informal, and was attended by a large number of the city's younger society people.

ENTERTAINS 35 FRIENDS AT PARTY

Miss Catherine Turner, 421 South Campbell street, entertained 35 of her young friends at her home last evening. The party was chaperoned to the Royal by Miss Elsie Atkins and Miss Edith McNaughton early in the evening, and upon the return participated in a dainty luncheon.

Progressive dominoes were played following the luncheon. Miss Hazel Shaw and Murray Winninger captured the first prizes for girls and boys respectively, while the consolation prizes went to Miss Eleanor Whithy and Ward Youngquist.

PARADE WILL FORM NEAR CITY HALL AT NINE O'CLOCK ON MONDAY MORNING.

ATTY. SPENCER TO GIVE SPEECH

Hundreds of Union Men Will Form in Line and March to Point on Charlotte Street, to Enter Cars for South Park—Mayor John Lindsay to Speak—Ball Games Scheduled.

With everything completed and all arrangements made, Labor Day in Escanaba this year promises to be the greatest event that has ever before been attempted by the affiliated organizations of the city.

Hundreds of men will participate in the parade that begins its line of march at nine o'clock in the morning, and the entire population will assist in the festivities. Participation of the whole Escanaba populace is asked by the union men, and will undoubtedly be experienced.

Each and every union has arranged some little innovation that, while consisting with their trade and occupations, will assist greatly in making the parade a pretty feature. Emblems, banners and pennants have been secured, and with bands of music, automobiles and floats, the celebration bids to excel any of past years.

Heading the parade will be the Escanaba City Band.

The unions will form at the city hall at 9 o'clock in the following order: Coal holsters, carpenters, masons, coal heavers, machinists, barbers, printers, blacksmiths, or trimmers. Northwestern top dock workers cigar makers, lumber handier, paper-hangers, St. Paul top dock workers and brewery workers.

After passing on the principal street, the members will march out Charlotte street for several blocks, there to enter cars that will take them to the park for the opening of the celebration.

Reaching the park the unions will group themselves about the grounds and listen to the speeches of the day. Mayor John Lindsay will open the celebration proper with a speech and will be followed by Attorney N. C. Spencer who will deliver the Labor Day address.

A ball game will follow between the Union Giants and the Escanaba league team. Another game will be played in the afternoon beginning at 2:30.

All manufacturing and distributing establishments, in fact, all places where men are employed in the city will close for the day, and in Escanaba a fitting observance will be experienced.

The day will see its culmination with a dancing party at Peterson's hall.

NO DELIVERIES FROM P. O. MONDAY

POSTOFFICE WILL BE OPEN AS USUAL ON HOLIDAY, FOR BRIEF INTERVALS.

No deliveries will be made from the Escanaba postoffice on Monday. Collections will be maintained, nevertheless. Distribution of the mail will be the same as on other holidays—the window to be open from 9 until 11 a. m. and from 6 to 7 p. m. Box owners can get into the building between these hours.

The public library will be closed all day. Other municipal buildings will be closed entirely, as will practically every place of business, in strict observance of Labor Day.

COMMISSIONERS REJECT LONE BID

The one proposal submitted to the county road commissioners yesterday afternoon for the construction of two miles of roadway in Nahma township was thought too high by the members of that body and was rejected. The lone bid was from the Solid Rock Construction company. Bids will be re-advertised for by the commissioners, with the hope of getting several contractors to submit prices.

The concrete bridge over the Escanaba River at Wells was formally accepted by the commissioners yesterday, but the balance of payment, $2,500 was withheld until the Delta Contracting company, constructors furnish a maintenance band, guaranteeing the bridge for a year.

Charles Tuxford and Miss Ruth Tuxford departed today for Chicago. The latter will leave from there for Greenville, Ill., to resume her studies.

A Shave in China.
The Rev. Louis Byrde, a missioner, gives an interesting account in a London paper of a shave in China. He writes: "The greatest treat which I only give on special occasions is a mid-day shave in public. In the early morning a Chinese inn is terribly dark, and at night bed soon claims one. I select a table at the street front (the whole front is formed of movable doors, which are entirely taken away during the day) and, provided with the necessities, commence operations. Fifty or sixty people stand round in ranks, the innermost circles consisting of children and the outer rings of men and mothers with their babes. Not a word is uttered; all eyes are fixed first on the shaving brush as the soap is lathered on the face, and then on the razor as the stubble falls. The Chinese never shave themselves, and possibly to see a man handling a razor on himself may suspect that he is about to commit harakiri in their village."

DISAPPEARANCE OF THE "MONA LISA" RECALLS THEFT OF

Leonardo's Painting is Regarded as the Finest in the World

By JAMES A. EDGERTON. THE disappearance of the famous "Mona Lisa" of Leonardo da Vinci from the Louvre, Paris, is the latest nine days' wonder in the world of art. This great painting, also known as "La Gioconda," has been pronounced by many the finest in the world. It certainly stands in a list of the world's half dozen greatest paintings and in popular regard perhaps ranks second only to the "Ristine Madonna" by Raphael. Some think "The Last Supper," also by Da Vinci, greater than "Mona Lisa," but this sort of comparison is fruitless, as the two paintings are quite different in subject and treatment. Walter Pater pronounced "La Gioconda" as "in the truest sense Leonardo's masterpiece."

The painting is a portrait of Madonna Lisa del Giocondo, third wife of Francesco del Giocondo of Florence, both of whom would have been forgotten centuries ago but for the genius of Leonardo. It is said that the painter worked at this masterpiece four years and then pronounced it unfinished. To keep the haunting smile on the subject's face he had music and jesters in the studio. As we now know it the painting has lost some of the exquisite lines and hues it had on leaving Da Vinci's hand, since it has faded through the centuries and has been retouched. Yet even in this imperfect state it has charmed the world.

Leonardo da Vinci was born in 1452, the natural son of a Florentine notary and a peasant woman. He was celebrated not only as a painter, but as a sculptor, architect, engineer and scientist. He engaged in various engineering and architectural works, divided his time between Milan, Venice and Florence and toward the end of his life was attached to the court of the king of France, where he died. Outside of his many paintings he did much in sculpture, little of which survives. He also accomplished many works in the line of engineering and architecture, these being his chief vocations. In science he was in advance of his age, being especially versed in anatomy. As an artist he was a contemporary—and in some senses a competitor—of Michelangelo and others almost as illustrious. His schools at Milan, Florence and elsewhere were the beginning of a new era in Italian art. He was great not only as a producer, but as an inspirer of others. By many he is regarded as the most universal genius of the renaissance period.

In person Leonardo was handsome, with a fine face, great physical strength and charm of manner. Among his other accomplishments he was a musician. His "Mona Lisa" was painted about 1505, when he was more than fifty years old. It was bought by the king of France and has since been the property of the French nation and in more recent years the pride and the greatest ornament of the Louvre, where it has been admired by millions from generation to generation. Every one is familiar with the painting or with prints of it. Perhaps more copies, photographs, engravings and other reproductions have been made of this than of any other painting in the world. One of the proofs of its quality is that the artistic and popular verdict on it agree. Usually the common herd is enraptured with things that the art critics pronounce duds, and the art critics are enchanted with some impressionistic thing that is a blank to the man on the street. But "Mona Lisa" is so supremely great that it levels all ranks and compels praise from artist and layman alike.

The face, with its dewy eyes and faint smile, contains everything that charms us in womanhood. It is spiritual, yet has touches of the "earthly," alluring and still elevated and sweet. The charm is one that eludes analysis, as is the case with all that is finest not only in painting, music and poetry, but in nature. The effect is wonderfully heightened by an almost weird background of rocks and streams. This and the sphinxlike expression of the face give a mystical element to the picture that has perhaps proved its greatest charm. But I am not enough of a highbrow in art to trust myself to describe it and reproduce the estimate of Walter Pater in one of the finest pieces of writing in English literature.

"We all know," he says, "the face and hands of the figure, set in its marble chair in that cirque of fantastic rocks, as in some faint light under sea. Perhaps of all ancient pictures time has chilled it least."

He then goes on to describe the painting as a creation of the artist's brain and soul rather than a portrait of a flesh and blood person. Its infinite appeal is greater than could have come from any physical likeness, but rather arises from an indefinable something not subject to decay, something carrying a breath from the eternal country. To return to Pater:

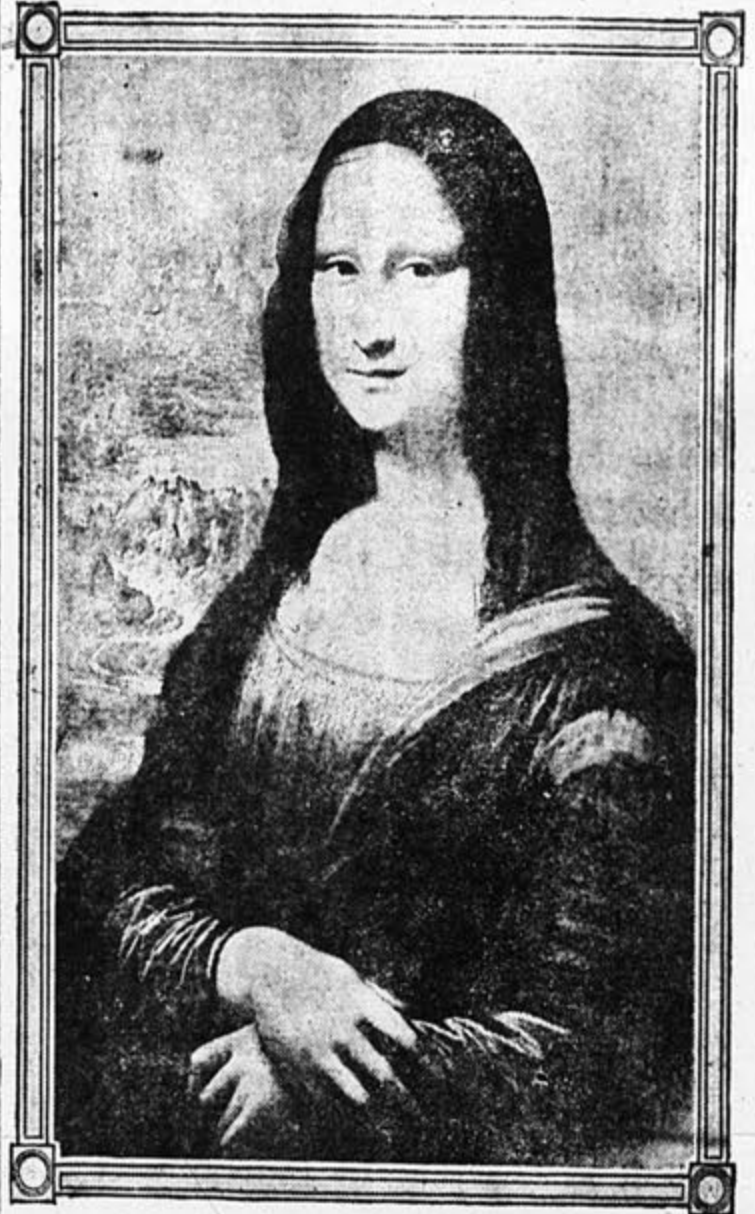

The presence that thus rose so strangely beside the waters is expressive of what in the ways of a thousand years men had come to desire. Here is the head upon which all "the ends of the world are come," and the eyelids are a little weary. It is a beauty wrought out from within upon the flesh, the deposit, little cell by cell, of strange thoughts and fantastic reveries and exquisite passions. Set it for a moment beside one of those white Greek goddesses or beautiful women of antiquity, and how would they be troubled by this beauty, into which the soul with all its maladies has passed! All the thoughts and experiences of the world have etched and molded there, in that which they have of power to refine and make expressive the outward form, the animalism of Greece, the lust of Rome, the reverie of the middle ages, with its spiritual ambition and imaginative love, the return of the pagan world, the sins of the Borgias.

THE "MONA LISA" FAMOUS GAINSBOROUGH

"Duchess of Devonshire" Was Returned After Quarter of a Century

She is older than the rocks among which she sits. Like the vampire, she has been dead many times and learned the secrets of the grave, and has been a diver in deep seas, and keeps their fallen day about her, and trafficked for strange wares with eastern merchants, and as Leda was the mother of Helen of Troy, and as St. Anne the mother of Mary, and all this has been to her but as the sound of lyres and flutes and lives only in the delicacy with which it has molded the changing lineaments and tinged the eyelids and the hands.

The loss of this picture is regarded by the French as a national calamity. To them it is not only priceless, but a part of their very life. It has been reported, and is probably true, that the French government once refused an offer of $5,000,000 for the painting.

THE "MONA LISA."

Upon its disappearance the Louvre was closed for several days, a large force of police was set to work searching every nook and cranny of the great building, and sixty detectives were started working on the outside.

One of the theories of the authorities was that the thief was a young man who was known to have become enamored of the painting and who had waited it at intervals for several months, sitting before it with a rapt expression for hours together. They believe that he fell in love with the face, as painters have been known to become enamored of their own works, and grew insane upon the subject, his mania finally prompting the crime.

So much were people affected by this masterpiece that some shed tears at sight of it. Not a few letters have been received at the Louvre addressed to "Mona Lisa" and expressing love to her as to a living person.

That the deed was the work of some deranged person seems almost certain for the reason that the picture could not be disposed of and hence would be without value to the thief. A painting is only valuable when shown. If the criminal could dispose of it to a private collector—and it cannot be conceived that any thief would dare to offer it for sale or that any collector would be so foolish or depraved as to buy it—such collector would not dare exhibit it for fear of detection. While there are many copies of the painting that the average man could hardly detect from the original, there are always those who can distinguish, and now that the whole world is on the lookout for the picture every copy will be subjected to closer inspection. Moreover, an old master is chiefly valuable because it is an original, and to be able to refer to it as such and to know in his heart that the claim is true constitute its chief value to the collector; hence insanity of one form or another is the only rational explanation of the act. That goes, paradox and all.

An interesting fact in this connection is that several months ago it was reported in the public prints that "Mona Lisa" had been stolen and a copy substituted in its place. This was afterward denied, but the disappearance now makes it seem a strange coincidence, almost a prophecy.

There is one other possible explanation. It is notorious that in Europe the trade of making fake "old masters" flourishes apace, chiefly for the purpose of gulling American millionaires. These copies are properly aged by processes that the fakers know and are then sold for fabulous prices to those who have more money than expert knowledge or perhaps real appreciation of "old masters." To do this work fakers have to possess originals in order that the copy may be as nearly perfect as possible. Sometimes these imitations are so close that they fool even the experts.

Some such an organization of fakers may have taken the "Mona Lisa" for copying purposes, expecting afterward to return the original or a clever duplicate for a ransom. This would be hazardous a game, however, that even a league of criminals would hardly run the risk.

Many pictures have been stolen in the past, but none even approaching the value of "Mona Lisa." The most famous case in modern times was the theft of Gainsborough's famous portrait of the "Duchess of Devonshire." The "electioneering duchess" she was called, having been active in her husband's political canvasses. This painting was missing nearly a quarter of a century and was finally returned through the instrumentality of the late Pat Shedy, the "square" gambler. Shedy's version of the affair was that the thief was Adam Worth, whom Shedy regarded as the greatest criminal of the last century. The painting was originally stolen to be used in an effort to get one of Worth's accomplices out of jail. The man escaped on a technicality, however, and Worth had the picture on his hands. He did not dare to sell it or even to mention its existence. The painting was kept in a hermetically sealed case in the false bottom of a trunk. The Pinkertons, who were set to work on the case, believed that Worth was the thief, but could not prove it.

This is where Shedy came into the case. Worth had at one time done Shedy a kindness—$2,000 worth of kindness, to be exact. Pinkerton heard of this and asked Shedy that if he ever saw Worth again to find out about the Gainsborough. Some years later when Shedy was running a gambling joint in Constantinople, he received word from Adam Worth, who was in trouble, as usual. Shedy, of course, more than made good the former loan and got Worth out. He then mentioned the matter of the Gainsborough, and Worth replied that he was on the point of breaking the ice on that subject himself. The upshot of it all was that Shedy acted as a go-between, got the picture out of the false bottom of the trunk where it was in storage in Boston, had the British owners over to examine it, collected the $25,000 reward, presumably turned over the money to Adam Worth and his pals and as a result of the incident got into "art" himself.

Worth was so grateful for Shedy's action in the Gainsborough affair that before his death he insisted on giving Pat an original Murillo which had been stolen out of some monastery. When this came into his hands Shedy tried to find the rightful owners, advertising extensively in South America and elsewhere, but failed. Some years later he heard that Rais-ul, the Moroccan bandit, had in his possession a Correggio, which was also obtained. Pat's reputation as a connoisseur in this art was made.

PLAN FALL TRIP TO JAPAN Jimmy McAleer Will Take Team of All-Stars to Orient for Series of Games—Probable Make-Up.

Next fall a bunch of ball players will travel to the Orient and Jimmy McAleer will be the pilot. When the All-Stars of the American league played the Athletics and dressed them into proper shape to take a fall out of the Cubs in the world's series they impressed upon McAleer that they were some baseball organization.

Already McAleer has made arrangements to visit the Philippines and Japan with the All-American Stars next fall. He has the personal assurance of each and every member of the all-star team that played the Athletics that they will go along with him. The make-up of the All-Star team that will tour the Orient in the fall of 1911, under the management of Jimmy McAleer, will be as follows:

Pitchers—Ed Walsh of Chicago, Walter Johnson of Washington, Doc White of Chicago. Catchers—Billy Sullivan of Chicago, Gabby Street of Washington. Infielders—Harry Lord of Chicago, Herman Schoefer of Washington, Kid Eberfeld of Washington, Cunningham and George McBride of Washington. Outfielder Ty Cobb of Detroit, Clyde Milan of Washington and Tris Speaker of Boston. There's nothing so good for a sore throat as Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil. Cures it in a few hours. Major League Notes

Tyrus Raymond Cobb, ball player, extraordinary, was found guilty of speeding in his automobile when arraigned before Justice Randolph in Detroit yesterday. Sentence was suspended. The officer who arrested the Georgian swore that he was running his machine twenty-four miles an hour. Umpire Becker of the Wisconsin-Illinois league, who is a member of Typographical union No. 16 of Chicago, who is running the national printers' baseball tournament games at St. Louis, has received a telegram from the American association notifying him that he has been appointed a member of the association staff of arbitrators. Judge Sugden, the veteran catcher, has been engaged as trainer of the Detroit Tigers, succeeding Harry Tuttle, who goes to West Point. The Boston American league baseball club today closed a deal to do its 1912 spring training at Toga, Texas, fifty-nine miles north of Fort Worth. With a new record in the South for strike-outs and with thirty games won and eight lost, Pitcher Swindell left the Winston-Salem club, champions of the Carolina association, today to report to the Cleveland Americans. Certain baseball writers still insist that this is going to be Connie Mack's last year as manager of the Athletics. If the team wins the flag again this year, which now seems likely, it is said in certain quarters that Mack's retirement will be certain. He is a heavy stockholder in the club, and would become an officer of the company in the event that he quit his bench bossing, probably president. Connie is 49 years old and his head isn't as good as it used to be. Then, too, he was married last fall and he is said to prefer a special home life to traveling around the country with his ball players. Philly fans cry: "Alas and alack Have you heard about Manager Mack? It just makes me weep For now who will keep Our pennant machine on the track?"

ARE WOMEN HUMAN.

Rheta Childé Dorr, famous as the author of "What 8,000,000 Women Want," comes forth in an article in the September number of Hampton's magazine and bluntly announces the discovery that women are not human. She says that it is because men have persistently denied them admittance into the human race, and have kept them down to the level of being merely a sex, that women have been unable to get their rights. Among other things Mrs. Dorr says that the conduct of our public schools and colleges has much to do with the retarding of woman's progress.

"By the time the girl reaches school age she has pretty firmly rooted in her mind the idea that she belongs in a special class," says Mrs. Dorr "not admittedly inferior to boys, but different, widely, essentially different. Many things which boys do, say, or think, the girl child knows would be improper for her to do, say, or think. A different interpretation is given, for example, to the word play. This prepares the girl's mind to encounter in school a different interpretation of work, of destiny, of life itself. The public school curriculum is based on the theory that the male child tends to variation. That his destiny may be commerce, law, medicine, engineering, or merely manual labor. The female child is held to be destined for one position only—housekeeper to a man.

The census of 1900 reported in the United States approximately 8,000,000 women engaged in gainful occupations outside the home. The census noted the momentous fact that the number of women in all but three or four of the one hundred and three occupations. Some one should have called the attention of the school authorities to that census report. Because, so far as shown in the average school curriculum, few of the school authorities know that any women are working for wages, unless it be in domestic service. In place of the manual training, almost universally now included in school work for boys, the girls are given cooking and sewing. The object of the manual training is to develop industry, ambition, co-ordination of hand and brain, individuality and self-control. You might think that these fine qualities ought to belong to women as well as men. Well, say the school authorities, so they ought, but still more essential to women is domesticity.

SCHOOL DAYS AGAIN.

The restless and happy days of vacation are about over. Tuesday the irresponsible gangs of tousel children playing about the back yards will be succeeded by the long lines of starched and brushed youngsters scarcely recognizable with their hair smacked down and vacation dirt removed from tanned faces.

The "What shall I do now, mother" type of youngster is so general now, that schooldays are a relief to many a burdened family. The farm child will always find amusement enough, while the barn with its dark hay mows and lawless freedom stimulate the spirit of romance and play, while the brooks breed tadpoles, and the old swimming hole offers its cool welcome.

But the boy was considered a negligent factor when the modern town was laid out. Advanced municipalities are providing their playgrounds, it is true. Every town needs them. But the average city and large village offers the American youth no more constructive occupation than plundering such fruit trees as may exist under urban conditions, and swapping curbstome gossip and cigarettes.

YOUR GRAY HAIRS QUICKLY VANISH

A Harmless Remedy, Made from Garden Sage, Restores Color to Gray Hair.

A feeling of sadness accompanies the discovery of the first gray hairs, which, unfortunately, are looked upon as heralds of advancing age. Gray hairs, however, are not always an indication of advancing age, for many people have gray hairs quite early in life. Of course, it is unnatural, and indicates that there is something wrong with the individual, and that Nature needs assistance in correcting the trouble. The same is true of hair that is constantly falling out and becoming thinner every day. If everything is right with Nature, the hair, even in comparatively elderly people, should be long, thick and glossy, without even a streak of gray.

Proposal Rock
By EBEN B. MATTESON
Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

They were dawdling about on a seabeach. The girl was pretty, though burned brown by the sun. The sleeves of her dress or her waist or whatever it was were rolled under to above her elbows. The fellow was in tennis costume.

"Do you see that rock out there?" she asked, pointing to a protuberance from the water about a hundred yards from shore.

"Yes, I see it."
"Do you know what it is called?"
"No."
"It's Proposal rock."

"Why do they call it that?"
"Well, they say that if a girl receives a proposal on that rock she can't refuse."
"Not if the fellow is a cad?"
"Oh, that isn't what the saying or the legend is. It's kind of romantic, you know. There are no cads in romances."

"There's usually a villain who serves to bring out the virtues of the hero by contrast."
"It means that if a girl receives a proposal on that rock there is a subtle influence that—that disposes—"

"Her to the man who proposes."
"How unsentimental you are," she said, with a pout.

"Go on; I won't interrupt you again."
"The legend is that an Indian maiden called Minne something or other was loved by an Indian—an Indian—"

"Buck."
She refused to go any further. The legend was a beautiful one, but he made fun of everything.

"How could one get out on the rock?" he asked.

"Why, in a boat, of course."
"They might put on bathing suits and walk or swim out."
"I never knew a man so matter of fact. He wouldn't think of proposing to a girl in a bathing suit."

"Why not?"
"I don't know; I never heard of such a thing."
"The girl at least would certainly know better what she was going to get. Take the man's feet for instance. She could see the bunions—"

"She put her hands to her ears."
"You don't like to look at things as they are, do you?"
"No; not the way you do."
"When you are married don't you expect your husband to see you in curl papers?"

"How funny! I never thought about it."
"Or see you take the balloons and rats out of your hair?"
"I'm not talking about after they are married. It's the proposal that interests me. But don't let's talk any more about it; you stab all sentiment. I don't believe you have a sentimental hair on your head."

"I won't have any kind of a hair on the tip top when I'm thirty. It's pretty thin there already."
"Oh, dear!"
"I'll go and get a boat and we'll go out to Proposal rock."

She neither assented nor demurred to this. He left her and, going to the pier nearby, came pulling back in a boat. It was a thin one with out riggers.

"Good gracious! You don't expect me to get into that toppy thing, do you?"
"It's the only one I could get."
"I couldn't think of going out on the water in it."

"Then I suppose we can't go to Proposition rock."
"Proposal rock. We might go another time."
"No. I'm going away soon. There'll be no other opportunity."

She stepped on to the boat, squatting immediately to prevent upsetting. He pulled away from the shore, the boat dancing on the little rollers that were coming in. She held the gun wale on each side tight, as though she could hold it upright. He pointed for the island, but since from that direction the waves came obliquely he was obliged to point in another. This took him out of his way, and when he turned again toward the rock he got a worse sea than before. A larger wave than the others upset the boat, and they both were spilled into the water. He was a good swimmer and carried her to the rock without difficulty. The girl was very angry.

"You did that yourself," she said.
"Did what?"
"Upset the boat."
"Right you are."
"Why did you do it?"

"On the same principle that a man should propose in a bathing suit that the girl might know better what she's going to get. I wanted to have a look at your temper. Will you marry me?"
The look she gave him was terrible.

"I wouldn't marry you if you owned the globe and wore an angel's halo around your head."
"Men don't wear halos; you girls do that. I've seen 'em on bargain counters."

"Will you kindly go out and bring in that boat?"
It was evident that she had got beyond the legend of Proposal Island, so he swam out for the boat. She got in, and he pulled her to the shore.

She didn't speak to him for a week; then he proposed again in a milder fashion, and she accepted him.

There have been a good many betrothals on the rock, but the others have all been of the conventional type. This one alone was unique.

DRY CLEANING

This process removes the dirt smoke or any foreign matters without the slightest damage to the fabric, the color or the finish. The finest materials in silks, velvets, evening gowns, etc., are treated with good success no matter how delicate the colorings or how badly they are soiled. It does not shrink materials of any description.

EXPERT DYEING

Our system of dyeing is so complete that we are enabled to change the color of any garment to the desired shade. Dyeing will completely change the appearance of garments that have been laid aside because you have become tired of the color. Do not attempt to wash garments before sending them to be dyed. We clean garments thoroughly first. Dyeing is done without ripping any of the seams in any way unless the style of the garment wants to be changed, then ripping is required before the dyeing. Our Dyer is a man of skilled experience, capable of handling all kinds of materials, consequently we are able to give our customers first class work.

DYEING OF LACES

We make a specialty of dyeing laces and guarantee the exact shade as per sample.

ACCORDAIN PLEATING

Goods can be pleated from 1/2 in. in width to 46 in. in width in five different styles of accordain and knife pleating for the very reasonable charge of 1 cent per running inch.

Our Establishment is the Largest of its Kind North of Milwaukee and we invite our patrons to call at any time and see our plant in operation.

DOUBTFUL VALUE OF SPITBALL PITCHERS

Cy Morgan, One of Connie Mack's Southpaws.

The spitball pitcher has won many a game, but it is a question whether he has won any more for having developed the spitball. Maybe he has, but pitchers of the first class who don't use the moist curves and who are just as capable as their damp delivery contemporaries are too numerous to mention. Such pitchers as Ford and Walsh have done wonders with the splitter, but with their physique, knowledge of pitching and natural ability wouldn't they have been fully as effective in the long run had they stuck to regular methods of serving slants and shoots?

Walsh took part in two of the games the White Sox won from the Cubs, and as much as any one man helped win the prize in 1906 for the American league; but he is the only one of the anointed ball set who ever cut any figure in a world's series.

Walsh helped the Athletics win the pennant last year, but Mack didn't use him at all in the games in which the American leaguers gave such an artistic and thorough trimming to the pride of the National league. The spitball pitcher is not a useless unit in any whole, but he is by no means a necessity.

Anyway, it is a striking fact that in the biggest of all baseball prizes, the post season series for the world's championship, spitball pitchers have played but a slight part. As a matter of fact they have not been very prominent on pennant winning teams of either league, and since 1903, when the present world's series began, the only spitball pitcher who has figured in a world's series is Ed Walsh of the Chicago White Sox.

Keene, the youngster Fred Clarke tried out on first, did not look like a Konechy or a Hal Chase, but he might have been a bit nervous to break into the limelight so suddenly.

Victor Saler has developed into the sensation of the league as a first-sacker. He already has his manager beaten in digging up the hard bouncers out of the dirt, and for making fancy stops that are several feet out of line.

Stops earache;—in two minutes toothache or pain of burn or scald in five minutes; hoarseness, one hour; muscleache, two hours; sore throat, twelve hours—Dr. Thomas' Eclectic Oil, monarch over pain.

Brief Notes From Neighboring Cities

A yacht club for Menominee! It sounds good and the idea is very liable to result into a reality sooner or later. Two fine new boats have been added to the list in Menominee and there are prospects of more. W. S. Carpenter and W. E. Collette have recently acquired a fine yacht, each.—Menominee Herald-Leader.

During the testimony of the first witness for the defense in the Wertelowski murder case at Menominee, a motion was made yesterday morning by Judge Quinlan to discharge the prisoner on the grounds that the testimony of the state's witnesses failed to show any crime had been committed. The motion was overruled by Justice Bernardy.

P. C. Servatius, a former well known resident of Fond du Lac, and whose mother, Mrs. P. Servatius, still resides there, was seriously injured at Menominee, Mich., where he now conducts a meat market, yesterday, by being pinned under an automobile. His collar bone was broken and two ribs fractured, one of them nearly penetrating a lung. The extent of his internal injuries have not as yet been ascertained.

Henry Bowe of Ripley is at home nursing a bad foot, the result of a gun-shot wound, which he received a few days ago while hunting small game. Young Bowe set out to hunt chipmunks that he might secure the fur for his little sister who desired making a dress for her doll.

George H. Sutton, a billiard player who has appeared in upper peninsula towns on divers occasions, and who is known as the "handless wonder," has taken out a hunting license and will hunt deer in the northern wilds of Wisconsin. George Graham, an acquaintance of Sutton's arrived here yesterday morning from Milwaukee and was telling a number of knights of the incident at the Scott yesterday morning. Sutton will be accompanied by his three children, all of whom are good shots.

make him play his best ball. Pitcher Joe Howlik, bought by the White Sox from Peoria, once had a trial with Washington, but was sent back. Jack Elias, who is doing the heavy backstopping for the Cardinals in the absence of Manager Bresnahan, is doing creditable work. J. Ed. Grillo, Washington critic, is authority for the statement Manager Clarke Griffith of the Reds will lead the Browns next year. McGraw has a rule that no member of his team shall hit at the first ball pitched. Murray forgot the other day, and it cost him $20 for the little slip. The New York American league ball club announced that Pitcher Brockett had been released unconditionally to the Rochester Eastern league club. Connie Mack thinks he is lucky if he can get Chief Bender to pitch a good game every fifth day. The Indian is not a glutton for work, like Jack Coombs. The National commission has fined the Brooklyn club $50 for permitting Pitcher Ragon to play in an exhibition game with the Independent team at Long Branch, N. J. George Davis, former White Sox star and last year manager of the Des Moines club, has given up the "wonderful game" at last. He has entered business in New York. Johnny McGraw tried to farm out Henry Groh, the Decatur infielder, to the Buffalo club, but Boston refused to waive on the youngster and the Giants may have to keep him.

Don't Bank Your Money

That is don't bank it where you can't get sufficient interest and no benefit. Put money in Real Estate at this stage of the game; Escanada real estate will pay at least ten (10) per cent. We have left three very desirable resident building lots on Sixth St., corner of Jennie St., that will sell for $400 a piece, $100 down and the balance to suit the purchaser. On the same $350 cash each. This is the bank scheme that never fails. If you need money and own Real Estate it is as easy to obtain as if you had money in the savings bank.

AUGUST SUMMARY ISSUED BY V. E. JAKL

The summary of August weather issued by Observer V. E. Jakl, of the local station, is as follows:

"The month as a whole showed no important departures from the weather conditions generally experienced in August. Some exception, however, must be made to this statement as regards wind, which was decidedly less than the average for August; and August is the least windy month of the year. The highest velocity recorded during the past month was 26 miles an hour from the northeast on the 10th.

There were no prolonged periods of unusually warm or cold weather, nor any unusually warm or cold days; and while the temperature averaged one degree below normal, the only cool period of importance was from the 28th to 30th, the deficiency being principally due to frequent short spells of moderately cool weather. The highest temperature was 81 on the 9th, and the lowest, 43 on the 29th. The variability, or change from day to day, averaged only three and a half degrees, and the greatest difference between the afternoon maximum and morning minimum was 22 degrees on the 23d.

The rainfall was 3.52 inches, only a tenth of an inch below the normal for the month. The greatest amount occurring within 24 hours, was 1.20 inches on the 7th. Thunderstorms occurred on four days, the most severe of which was that of the 16th. During this storm nearly half an inch of rain and hail fell in five minutes. The greatest amount of rain ever recorded in August, was 12.06 inches in 1876.

Dense fog occurred on the 14th and 15th, during a total of about four daylight hours, and was probably of not much longer duration on the lake, or of consequence in interfering with navigation. There was the usual amount of sunshine, 11 days being clear, 16 partly cloudy, and cloudy. Measurable amounts of rain fell on 10 days.

V. E. JAKL, Observer.

FATHER F. X. BARTH DEPARTS TODAY

Father Frances Xavier Barth, pastor of St. Patrick's church of this city and one of the best known Catholic orators in this part of the country, left today for Two Rivers, Wis., where, together with Bishop Fox of Green Bay, Father Lochman of Kaukauna and Father O'Brien of Chicago, he will be one of the principal speakers at the annual gathering of the Wisconsin Federation of Catholic societies.

Father Barth is the only outside speaker engaged, with the exception of the Chicago priest. Bishop Fox will sing a pontifical high mass for the first time in that city.

Representative Catholics from all over that state will attend.
