

SKULL STILL MYSTERY - FAIR PROGRAM OUT - THREE HURT IN COLLISION

HUMAN BONES FOUND ON SAME SITE WHERE GHASTLY DISCOVERY WAS MADE THURSDAY; MORE PIONEERS REMEMBER EARLY TRAGEDY

Circumstances Surrounding Disappearance of Long Ago
Are Verified

DISPLAY OF SKULL ATTRACTS

That the present residents of Escanaba are interested in the ancient history of this city was demonstrated yesterday by the interest that was taken in the mysterious skull that has been on display in The Mirror office window. Fully 5,000 people stopped and looked at it and last night up to ten o'clock last night hundreds of people visited the office. The 1,500 extra papers that were printed did not begin to fill the demand.

Bones Found Long Ago.
It has been learned today that some years ago, when the former owner of the property, where the skull was found, was doing some excavating he found several bones that he supposed were human and after placing them in a new box, they were reburied. No mention was made of the skull being packed by itself and many think that the bones discovered by the former owner of the property have no connection with the skull.

CANTILLON IS TRICKED

Washington Manager Fooled at His Own Game.

Elevate Pitcher's Box So That White Sox Twirlers Couldn't Get Ball Over Plate—Comiskey Lowers His.

"Long ago, when the world was young," says Joe Cantillon, once manager of Washington, "Charlie Comiskey and I were running rival teams in the old Western league, and what we didn't plan in the way of jobs and tricks upon each other wasn't worth putting in the Book of Frauds. I always figured the great-hearted Comiskey as my legitimate meat, and he soon learned a few things on his own account, so that the score was kept fairly even as the days went by.

"One time, when Commy's team was slated for a series on my grounds, a really great idea struck me. In those days there were no rules restricting the height of the pitching mound, and some awful elevations were constructed round the circuit. I resolved on making a hill such as no pitcher ever used before, and I made it, too. The ground-keeper at my park built up a mountain, and I trained my hurlers on that mountain every morning for four days. When Comiskey's gang arrived they were dumfounded to see that Mount Whitney of a pitching hill, towering up above the diamond, and with my pitchers grinning down at them. But they kicked in vain; there was no rule to stop me, and the game began. For three days we had rich fun with Commy's men. My pitchers sent the ball swooping downward with a speed and an angle of direction that they couldn't touch, while Commy's pitchers, unused to such an altitude, were helpless, hitting the batters on the feet and rebounding the ball from the turf for wild pitches.

"We arrived in Comiskey's burg two weeks later, and I felt pretty sure that we had a cinch. No matter how the old Roman might elevate his pitching mound, he couldn't fool us, for my pitchers were all trained to the hill work, and could not be rattled or put to the bad, even if they were asked to throw from the summit of a steepie. But when we got to Commy's field we let go one long, lingering yell of anguish and despair. We were tricked, beaten, flim-flammed and skinned alive.

"Immediately after his return from my town, so it seems, Comiskey got busy with his plans for a dark revenge. He had his groundkeeper dig a grave at the pitcher's slab—an excavation about up to the hips of the average man—and then he trained his curving force, day by day, to that most difficult of feats—throwing up Rey Thomas is still on the pay roll of the Quakers. His services nowadays are confined to acting as pinch hitter.

Of the five players Cleveland gets from the Central league, two are hitting over .300, while another is close up to that mark.

First Baseman M. M. Kilber of Petersburg, Va., who starred in the Virginia State league, has reported to Fred Clarke for a try-out.

The St. Louis Browns have acquired a pitcher named Spencer from Quincy, Ill. The purchase has been delayed somewhat in announcement.

Owners of the Decatur (Ala.) club of the Southeastern league deny the reports that their city will not be represented in the circuit next season.

The announcement that James McAleer might get a controlling interest in the Washington club was greeted with general approval over the American league circuit.

Cincinnati asked waivers on Larry McLean and all clubs said "Sure." But Larry will remain a Red; it was just to show him that he's not the backbone of the national game.

One of the records claimed by the Henderson team of the Kitty league for the season, was three consecutive shut-outs over Fulton. The scores were 1 to 0, 5 to 0 and 4 to 0.

Kentucky sporting blood was stirred in the post-season series between Paris and Shelbyville in the Blue Grass league. A purse of $1,000 a side was proposed for a series of five games.

Husk Chance, while driving his new auto from Boston to New York, put on a little too much speed and was held up by a real constable. It cost the Cubs' leader a five spot to square accounts.

ber and, which they had evidently been unable to control. The Chameleon still hung tattered overhead, slowly circling. I had scarcely raised my head a little higher when I caught sight of Payton in the brush, calling and gesticulating to his men, who soon came into sight behind him. They were all dripping and bedaubed with mud, and a more savage looking trio I never beheld. To my dismay I saw that they all carried rifles.

I had no weapon but my automatic pistol, which contained ten shots, besides twenty in my belt. It was a slight preparation for a siege, but I had the advantage of the natural fortification of the rocks.

And now a new cause of anxiety presented itself. It was evident that the Chameleon was gradually being brought to earth. I saw signals exchanged between her and Payton. His men on the Chameleon had seen us, and I saw from their motions that they were pointing us out.

He knew how to manage his campaign. He sent his two men around to the northeast and northwest sides while he himself guarded the south. Then we were surrounded.

The question now was, How large a reinforcement would Payton receive when his aero succeeded in landing? Miss Grayman thought five had fallen. In that case our enemies would number only five in all, and Payton's accession of force would be two men still. It would be terrible odds, since they had guns and I only a pistol.

The open ground around us was sufficiently broad to require several minutes for a runner to cross it. My task was to keep a sharp watch on all sides and prevent an approach.

I ran round the parapet, as I may call it, peering out in every direction. Miss Grayman, comprehending what I was about and seeing my difficulty offered to aid me. I refused at first, fearing to expose her to a shot, but she eagerly insisted, and I let her take the northern side, instructing her to peep through the interstices in the broken rocks, but not to show even her head.

Presently a shot came from the northeast side and splattered on the rock close by her head. She screamed and dropped through fright, and I sprang to her side, with a terrible fear that she had been hit. She was all right, however, and I pulled her to the center of the inclosure and sprang back to my watch.

After awhile the Chameleon came down in the brush close to the point where our parachute lay. Payton disappeared, and another man took his place. The way in which they exposed themselves in surrounding the rocks convinced me that Payton knew very well that I had no other weapon than a pistol.

I now told Miss Grayman to renew her watch, being extremely careful not to expose the least part of her person and to give me warning if any one tried to approach the rocks from her side. I did not know at what moment the rush might come.

There were yet several hours of daylight, and if I could stand Payton off long enough I felt confident that our friends on the Osprey would manage to ground her if they could not reverse her course and would come to our rescue. I counted a great deal on the sagacity of Mr. Grantham and the experience and devotion of Ethan Haigbt.

On the other hand, we were without provisions and water. I felt the more sure that Payton would make a rush because he must understand that aid would reach us before long, and I was puzzled at his delay after the arrival of his two men from the Chameleon.

But presently I discovered the reason and felt my face turn pale.

Out of the brush where the Chameleon lay a kite began to rise.

The wind was in such a direction as to carry it directly over us. I knew instantly what it meant, and it made my heart sick. Without explaining my motives, for they had not seen the kite, I immediately led the two girls into a corner of the rocks, where a ledge projected so as to make a kind of roof, while in front of the bears' den thus formed another ledge rose, leaving only an irregular, narrow opening. I hurried them in here, saying:

"I think they are going to fire a shell at us, but in here you will be perfectly safe," and I turned to leave them.

"But you," exclaimed Miss Grayman, detaining me, with an expression of concern that thrilled me—"you must not expose yourself while we are covered."

"I'll look out for cover," I returned, "but I must first make sure what they are about."

I knew well enough what they were about. It was evident to me now that the Chameleon carried the dropping bombs that were used in war, and that Payton was going to drop one of these missiles upon us with the aid of the kite, another military device which at that time had come into use as an auxiliary in such cases.

If the top of the rocks had been as exposed as he naturally concluded it to be his cunning would have had its reward and we should have been blown to bits; or, at the very least, put hors de combat so that he could safely rush the stronghold.

I watched the manipulation of the kite with the keenest anxiety, hoping that some accident would come to it. But Payton was skillful, and in a few minutes he had it poised exactly over the top of the rocks. I was familiar with such tactics.

I could see the round black bomb depending from it, and the string that controlled its descent, the pulling of which would cause it to fall. In my desperation I took a quick aim with my pistol and fired, for the thing was not a hundred feet above us, hoping to cause an explosion in the air. But of course I missed, and an instant afterward I saw the string jerked and the fearful missile began its descent.

I ran and dodged into a sloping crevice at the side of the inclosure.

In two or three seconds the explosion occurred. The effects were fearful. It shook the whole rocky eminence, sent fragments flying in every direction and ground the rock where the bomb struck to powder. I felt an excruciating pain in my left ankle, which had been left exposed, but I was out of my hiding place in a moment, limping to a peep-hole.

At the same moment Miss Grayman appeared, ashy pale and trembling.

All now happened as I had expected. Payton, seeing that he had hit the exact spot aimed at, shouted to his men and came running forward. Another man ran at his side.

"Quick to your lookout!" I called to Miss Grayman; "but, for God's sake, don't show yourself!"

At the same time I got ready for Payton. I meant to make sure of him now. Hardly a second had elapsed when Miss Grayman said in a frightened voice:

"Three men are coming on a run!"

"I'll take care of them," I replied. "Keep yourself under cover."

It was Payton that I wanted. He being disposed of, I felt in my exaltation equal to dealing with the others. The pirate and his companions ran with the speed of deer.

Presently he was within twenty-five yards. I could not be mistaken in him—a broad breasted mark, making straight for my pistol, leveled through a triangular crevice. I felt that I could not miss him, and growling through my clenched teeth, "I've got you now!" I fired.

But at that very instant Payton's foot caught and down he fell, my bullet singing over him. His wits worked like lightning. He had heard the shot, and instead of rising he rolled into a depression.

I knew I had not hit him, but I could not see him where he lay.

The other man came on at full speed, bringing his rifle to his shoulder as he began to ascend the rocks. I shot him down as I would a mad dog.

Cursing the mischance that had made me miss Payton, but not daring to wait longer for a second opportunity, I dashed to Miss Grayman's aid just in time to see the three men clambering up the lower rocks. Having them at a disadvantage, when the difficult climbing prevented them from handling their weapons, I leaped upon the rim and fired point blank at the nearest, who went down in a heap.

I LEAPED UPON THE RIM AND FIRED POINT BLANK AT THE NEAREST.

Then I sent a shot at each of the others, but with what effect I could not tell.

Both instantly disappeared, and I darted back again, fearing that Payton had recovered his feet and was advancing. But I could see no trace of him.

For a moment I debated whether, after all, I might not have hit him. But no; I had seen too clearly the cause of his fall.

I was tempted to run down to the place where he had dropped, but was restrained by uncertainty as to what had become of the other two men. When I returned to Miss Grayman she said that she had not seen them.

Our peril was as great as ever, perhaps greater, for the enemy was hidden.

What was to happen next? What were they planning now?

VISIT OF THE CRUISER HAI CHI

First Chinese Ship to Anchor in American Waters.

OFFICERS SPEAK ENGLISH.

Net a Single Cue Among Her Crew of 450—Equipped With Wireless—No Chaplain Aboard—Discipline is Strictest.

The cruiser Hai Chi of the imperial navy of China, the first vessel of any kind flying the yellow dragon flag of China that has ever been in American waters, arrived in New York harbor recently. The trim warship, which is of 4,800 tons displacement, got a noisy reception, salutes being given in honor of Rear Admiral Chin Pih Kwang, the second highest ranking officer in the Chinese navy, whose blue pennant flies from the mast of the Hai Chi.

The only thing that makes the Hai Chi look out of the ordinary is the great silken flag that stretches to the breeze astern. This giant piece of yellow silk displays a huge blue dragon with big black eyes, a flaming red tongue and white claws a foot long, all needle worked into the yellow field in exquisite fashion.

The Hai Chi is as clean a ship as ever came to port, and it was noted that among her crew of 450 officers and men there was not a single cue. The uniforms of the officers and blue-jackets are much like those worn in the American service, and among the officers there are not half a dozen who cannot speak English. The Hai Chi also has a fine brass band.

Conspicuous among the officers of the cruiser are thirteen midshipmen who were recently graduated from the Imperial Naval academy at Chefoo. They are clean cut, well groomed young men.

The Hai Chi has a new Marconi outfit, and Warrant Officer Kuh, who operates it, is one of the four wireless operators in the Chinese service.

"I use the English language entirely in sending and receiving," said Kuh, "but I can send in Chinese, too, and sometimes I use it in home waters."

One of the most attractive apartments on the cruiser is the wardroom of the junior officers. As you enter your attention is attracted to a huge group portrait of gorgeously dressed Chinamen. The picture was taken in Shanghai just before the Hai Chi sailed for England several months ago. In the center on a throne is a small, clean shaved young man. He is the prince regent of China. Surrounding him are high government officers, officers of the navy and Chinese captains of industry resident in Shanghai.

There is no chaplain on the Hai Chi. It was explained that there are many religions represented in the crew. Among the sailors are several Christians, young men who were converted to Christianity and educated by the missionaries.

The discipline on the Hai Chi is of the strictest. There is a battle drill every day. The inspections are frequent, and every man must keep himself clean, and his quarters must always be ready for the scrutiny of the commanding officers. There are recreation hours, of course, and in those hours the band never stops playing, for there is nothing that the Chinese bluejacket loves so much as good music.

After leaving New York the Hai Chi will visit several other American ports and then go to Mexico and Cuba, returning to New York for a short call, and will then sail for England, where she will act as convoy for a new cruiser that has just been completed in England for the Chinese government. The Hai Chi and the new cruiser will return to China together via the Suez canal.

DIAMOND GOSSIP

Jennings is to turn to his younger pitchers.

Lee Tannehill is coming in for his annual retirement again.

Mullen says Harry Lord throws an easy ball to catch at first.

If Ping Bodie has an off day at bat he makes a flashy catch. Always busy.

Fred Clarke sent Gibson in to steady O'Toole on his first appearance in Boston.

Accusing Mordcau Brown of yellowness sounds like a first-class joke to Chicago fans.

Recruits for the Cubs will be tried under fire if anything goes wrong with the regulars.

Jimmy Doyle has a pretty throw to first. It is like Steinfeld's line shot, but not quite so accurate.

It will be funny when the ump's announcement: "Mr. LaJole will now bat for Ten Million," when as a matter of fact the big Napoleon seldom hits over .450.

Armadillo Marsans, Cuban player, would make a great hitter if he would use a bat. He bats with a toothpick, weighing about one-third as much as a regulation stick.

Pitcher C. E. Gotchy of Bellingham, Wash., is the newest Nap in camp. The new Nap is a stocky chap. He appears to be strong as a bull. Friends of Jim McGuire, who recommended the kid, claim that he has "the makings."

Thomas Carney, catcher of the Saskatoon team in the Western Canadian league has been sold to the Chicago American League baseball club for $1,600. He is twenty-one years of age and this is his first year in professional baseball.

The Naps still have a chance to get revenge on the Cincinnati Reds for the way they were treated in the series for the championship of the state last fall. The management of the two clubs are now considering the proposition to have the two clubs meet again this fall for the supremacy of Ohio. A definite decision will be reached later.

PROTECT GUNNERS' EARS.

Navy Looking For Guard to Soften Terrible Concussion.

An exhaustive study is being made by the medical corps of the navy to devise means of protecting the hearing of American sailors from the disastrous effects of gunfire. Ear safeguards used in foreign navies are being compared with similar devices now supplied to American seamen, and it is expected that a protector shortly will be evolved that will adequately resist the terrific concussion of the big guns. The subject is being investigated by Dr. E. M. Shipp of the naval medical corps.

The ear protectors now used are filled with cotton. The great shock from one of the mammoth guns is likely to rupture an eardrum and produce deafness at once unless the delicate organ is properly protected; also it is feared that the constant firing of the small arms, such as the service rifle, may gradually produce the same effect.

FOLEY'S KIDNEY REMEDY (Liquid)

Is a great medicine proven value for both acute and chronic kidney and bladder ailments. It is especially recommended by elderly people for its wonderful tonic and reconstructive qualities, and the permanent relief and comfort it gives to them. For sale by all druggists.

The betting on the Cubs and White Sox for the Chicago series has already started. The fans are taking it for granted that there will be such a series, although no move has yet been taken by the two clubs.

The increased activity on the part of Bobby Wallace indicates he is to be given another chance to manage the Browns next year.

Buck O'Brien, the Red Sox recruit pitcher, who has made such a good showing since joining the team this fall, has a brother that is a pitcher too. Pete will pitch for the Brockton club in the New England league, and, like his brother, depends much on the spitball.

next year than the costly Marty O'Toole. He has shown quite as much so far since he joined his team at any rate.

A world's series between the Giants and the Athletics is about as easy a proposition for the national commission to handle as any that they have ever pulled off. The games can alternate each day, for it is only a two-hour ride between the two cities.

Third Baseman Smith of the Dodgers seems to be the real thing. He fields like a veteran and hits the ball well, and is the best third-sacker the Brooklyn team has had for some seasons.

Only one more ball game will be played in Bennette park at Detroit, this year, and then the work of building the new plant on the enlarged field will be undertaken and hurried to completion without delay before the cold weather.

Schulte has not given up hope of being able to boost the home-run record, but the wait between twenty-one and twenty-two is a little discouraging to the fans.

With The Fighters

"How long are you going to let Wells go?"

"Why about eleven rounds." That is why Jack Johnson, heavy-weight champion of the world, said at his quarterly in Neuilly, a suburb of Paris yesterday.

"What do you think of Wells, anyhow; do you know his style?" "I don't know anything about his style. I don't want to till I get in the ring, and then I'll know all about him in the first round."

"That is, if the English clergymen let you fight," it was suggested. Johnson grinned.

I reckon most of them will be at the ringside," he said. "Preachers don't worry me; they're advertising the show, that is all. I'm ready to fight anywhere. If London don't want it, then I'll fight Wells in Paris. Paris looks good to me anyhow."

Tony Caponi and Sailor Burke were matched yesterday to box ten rounds before the Twentieth Century Athletic club in New York on Oct. 6. They agreed to do 150 pounds at three o'clock. Hughey Gatens, Caponi's new manager, said Tony had the promise of a chance at Jim Flynn if he won over the sailor, who bested Bill Papke. Caponi has started training.

When Commissioner O'Neil of the state boxing commission returned to New York last night he brought with him definite instructions from Gov. Dix to take the necessary steps to have declared illegal the license of the Madison Square Garden Athletic club. The commissioner received his instructions directly from Gov. Dix at the state capitol.

Packey McFarland and Matt Wells, the English lightweight champion, yesterday were matched to box ten rounds at Madison Square Garden, New York, Oct. 19. According to the agreement, the boxers will weigh in at 135 at 5 o'clock on the day of the bout.

The match was closed yesterday by Harry Pollock, matchmaker for the Madison Square Garden A. C. and Emil Thiry, manager of McFarland, over long distance telephone. Billy Gibson, promoter of the Fairmount A. C., had first call on McFarland's services, but waived his claim to the local boxer's appearance when he learned Pollock wanted to stage the fight. Gibson was delegated to sign for McFarland and post the latter's forfeit.

THEATRICAL THE PETERSON—"When Knighthood Was in Flower" will come to the Peterson on Thursday, Sept. 28 and local theatergoers are assured of one of the real dramatic treats of the season. Miss Anna Day, who for the past three seasons has played all the principal cities of the country in the role of Mary Tudor, will again be at the head of this season's company. She has surrounded herself with a capable cast of twenty players. The production gives a splendid opportunity for gorgeous mounting, and it is said this season's production is one of the most elaborately equipped on the road, from a scenic standpoint.

Tim Crain whose name was brought into prominence last week as having paid a fine for killing a rabbit has proven an alibi and says that the name of the Crain that killed bunny was William and not Tim. Mr. Crain is in the meat business and says that he is pushing beef and pork and is not trying to flood the market with wild meat. A number of the girl friends of Miss Anna Mulvaney surprised her last night at her home at 1112 Third street. The evening was spent in games and music and luncheon was served just before the party broke up at midnight. About thirty friends of the young lady made up the party and all of them spent a most enjoyable evening.

MENOMINEE JURIST ON 600-MILE TRIP Judge W. F. Walte and son of Menominee has returned from a canoe trip of about 60 miles on the Menominee river which lasted a little over five days. The judge says it was a fine trip and that they enjoyed it to the best of their ability. "We had nice weather most of the time," said Judge Walte there yesterday "and we made the trip easily in a canoe. We had no trouble of any kind and we enjoyed a good deal of real exercise which I think will do me a great deal of benefit. We took some sandwiches with us and procured things to eat along the route. The scenery along the two shores of the river is beautiful at this time of the year and we looked at it until our eyes were tired. The current is not strong and we had no hard rowing to do. The boat ran smoothly and in all the trip was a delightful one. "We made extra good time coming back and really enjoyed the trip more than we did going. We saw very few boats on the river. We did some fishing but did not hook anything-large during the trip. It was simply an outing and we enjoyed it as such." Most disfiguring skin eruptions, scrofula, pimples, rashes, etc., are due to impure blood. Burdock Blood Bitters is a cleansing blood tonic. Makes you clear-eyed, clear-brained, clear-skinned.

REAL ESTATE MEN BOOSTERS, HE SAYS LOCAL MAN IN INTERVIEW CLAIMS MEN OF HIS CALLING ARE REAL PROMOTERS. In a recent interview with a prominent real estate man of this community he says that the men of his business are the real upper peninsula boosters. Nevertheless, every resident here, regardless of his avocation is a booster, but here is what he says of the real estate man: "The real estate man is the real booster in every community. He is a full page display advertisement, printed in colors, and always gets on the title page. He builds cities, drains mosquito swamps, irrigates deserts and makes the blossoms of prosperity grow on scorching sands. His motto is 'success,' his shibboleth 'everlasting labor.' When the real estate man wrinkles up his face and declares that business has gone to the bad, it is time to 'put out the fire and call the dog.' If he can get no juice from the turnip there is no juice. "He smiles sunshine into the blackened community elements when the sun of prosperity refuses to shine and stars of hope themselves are eclipsed by the gathering clouds of financial depression. "No progressive and self-respecting community could thrive long without these cherry apostles of hope, these princes of joy, these Billikins of the glad word, 'Forget-it-and-smile.' "They are the builders. They pull for the town when every other man lies down and quits. They keep on pulling when there seems to be nothing left to pull. They keep on talking for the town and preaching the gospel of hope when others grow speechless with timidity. "The real estate man is among the foremost in all public enterprises that aim at the development of the community. He may not have any direct interest, but he works all the same. He will be satisfied with some little reward that may come his way in the nebulous future. His children or his executors may reap some of the fruit. If it is good the town or the community he is for it and ready to work for it. "He never receives more than his share of the reward, either in dollars or epiques of appreciation. His efforts are too often looked upon as being prompted by selfish motives. He may be selfish, but it is for the public interest as well. "The real estate man often sacrifices more in a movement for the general uplift of the community than he ever hopes to gain. He is the real hero in every epoch-making climax in the dangerous evolution of public progress. He stakes more and sometimes loses more than any other man or interest. If he wins rich reward, perchance, in dollars and cents, it should not be begrudged him. He deserves it."

ADMITS BEING A LABOR SLUGGER Chicago, Ill., Sept. 23.—John Daly better known as "Chicago Jack" Daly, a former pugilist, yesterday testified before Municipal Judge Himes that he received $50 from William J. Boener, said to be former organizer for Chicago Typographical Union No. 16, and John Olson, a printer, for assaulting Rush V. Denon, a non-union printer, who died January 16, 1911, as a result of his injuries. Boener and Olson are under arrest charged with conspiracy in connection with the crime. Samuel Cassidy, who is said to have been employed by Daly to assist him, was also in court and admitted striking the blow that resulted in Denon's death. Daly testified that he was paid $50 for the job and that he employed Cassidy, "Mumie" Wilson and John White to whom he paid $5 each. Daly testified that several days previous to the attack on Denon the same men assaulted Louis Berhaus, another non-union printer, who recovered from his injuries after lying in a hospital three weeks. Hearing of further testimony was continued until next Tuesday. Live local and general news will be found on every page of this paper.

WEDDING OCCURS AT STONINGTON TODAY MISS JENNIE CARLSON MARRIES RUDOLPH HANSON—OTHER LIVE ITEMS FROM THERE. (Special Correspondence.) Stonington, Sept. 23.—Mr. Chas. Barquist is seriously ill at his home here. Dr. Snyder is the attending physician. Hans Bonefeldt Jr., entertained his friends at a birthday party on September 20. H. Bonefeldt, Hans Lansen and Geo. Jacobsen spent Sunday here with their parents. Mrs. Peter Hansen was visiting her parents here but has now returned to her home in Fairport. Announcements have been received here of the marriage of Rudolph Hansen, a prominent young man of Stonington and also well known in Escanaba, to Miss Jennie Carlston, on Sept. 23. The Ladies' Aid will meet at Mrs. John Brandt's next Sunday. Mr. I. Papineau left this week for a visit of three or four weeks in Canada with relatives and friends.

M. E. JUNIORS HOLD PARTY FOR MEMBER Last evening was the scene of a very pretty party at which little Miss Elizabeth Spence was the guest of honor. The Junior league of the First M. E. church having arranged the party in the way of a surprise. The church hall was decorated for the occasion in red and green, while asters furnished the table decorations. When all was arranged the little girl was called to the church, and on answering the door was greeted by "surprise" from the juniors, who then led the way to the dining hall, where a sumptuous repast was awaiting them. Plates being set for forty. After all were seated came surprise number two. At the head of the table where the guest of honor was seated, a dainty package was placed in which was found a sterling silver chateleine purse, containing a neat sum of silver. After dinner the children played several games and enjoyed themselves greatly until eight o'clock.

SHIP MUCH GRAIN TO CITY MARKETS That there has been a rapid growth in the development of the farming districts of Delta county has been evidenced in many ways and is well known to real estate dealers keep in touch whose business it is to keep in touch with such matters. One of the latest evidences of this growth is the shipment this week of grain to Milwaukee. More or less grain has been shipped north of here for a number of years but the present we records the first shipment of a surplus which found its way to the city markets.

DANISH AVIATOR TO CROSS ATLANTIC New York, Sept. 23.—The conquest of the Atlantic the most ambitious exploit yet undertaken by an aviator, is contemplated by the Danish aviator, who describes his plans in a letter to be published tomorrow in the "Nord Lyset," a Danish newspaper published in Brooklyn. This aviator writes that he has enlisted the necessary financial aid and made arrangements to fly next spring from Copenhagen to New York, resting only at London and Queenstown, and upon ships stationed at intervals across the North Sea and the Atlantic ocean. At the aviator's request his name is withheld from publication at this time. He says he will use a biplane of American manufacture and expects to fly at a rate of about 56 miles an hour.
