

SOME INFORMATION ABOUT DAN PATCH ELECTRIC RAILWAY

MAGAZINE WRITER GIVES THE RESULT OF HIS INVESTIGATION REGARDING THE SAVAGE ENTERPRISE.

NOT IN ACCORD WITH STANDARDS

What He Says of Great Interest in Escanaba, in View of Fact that Efforts Have Been Made to Dispose of Stock Here—Medicines and Railroads Not Often Mixed.

Editor The Mirror: The writer would like to have you tell your subscribers what you may know of the Dan Patch Electric railway, for which enterprise this city has recently been solicited by a stock seller. The Dan Patch road is being boosted in connection with the Dr. Belding Medicine company.—Subscriber.

The Mirror would be very glad to give any information that it is possible to get in reference to this newest and latest "fine proposition" which has recently been placed before local business men.

John Grant Dater, who writes for Munsey's Magazine, has given the road as well as the medicine company some thought and investigation and says in an article that was written last May:

"Electric railways and patent medicines are not often found in combination, but on looking over the literature that accompanies the above inquiries I note that when not engaged in offering six per cent preferred stock in the Dan Patch railroad, M. W. Savage, of Minneapolis, president and treasurer of that undertaking, is engaged in vending the twelve per cent preferred stock of the Dr. Belding Medicine company, of which the self-same gentleman is also president and treasurer.

"M. W. Savage seems to have a fondness for huge type, and his prospectus of the Dan Patch proposition is of circus-poster proportions. It contains many words, but it does not seem to mention any amount of capital for the electric road. Perhaps it is unnecessary to specify a fixed amount of capital in offering shares to the public for the common stock seems to be of such trifling value that it is given away for nothing, share for share, to any one who has the courage to pay for the preferred. "I found no amount of capital stock stated in connection with Mr. Savage's other undertaking, the Dr. Belding Medicine company, and perhaps for a similar reason. As the preferred stock of the medicine company promises twelve per cent, twice the Dan Patch rate, it follows logically that the relative position of the common stock should be maintained. In consequence, if you are brave enough to pay for Dr. Belding Medicine preferred, twice as much of the company's common stock is thrown into the balance without causing a flutter of the finger on the dial which registers its value.

"It seems to me, if one may properly indicate these things by symbols, that Dan Patch might be represented by o and Dr. Belding Medicine by oo. These are characters of deep significance in a certain game of chance, in which the potency of zero and double zero transcends all numbers from one to thirty-six. When they turn up, they sweep the table clean.

ST. IGNACE MAN DIES AT HOSPITAL

Robert Johnson of St. Ignace died at the Delta County hospital early Thursday night from diabetes. Mr. Johnson, who was 23 years of age, was taken to the hospital on Monday, where his condition grew rapidly worse until he was finally taken by death. The young man's father had been summoned and was at the bedside of his son when the end came. He accompanied the remains to St. Ignace today.

LOCAL MINSTRELS HOLD REHEARAL

MEMBERS OF CAST MEET, AND HAVE THEIR PARTS ASSIGNED TO THEM—CHORUS WORK IS GONE OVER.

Members of the cast for the big minstrel show that will be held under the auspices of the Escanaba Base Ball club on November 30, met at St. Joseph's hall last night and held their first regular rehearsal. Several of the members did not appear, however, and Directors F. E. Lavine and J. A. Allo say that unless these members are more attentive their parts will have to be assigned to someone else. Most of the soloists had their parts given to them last night and the chorus numbers were arranged. The next rehearsal will be held at 2:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon in St. Joseph's hall and it is hoped that all the members will be present for all the parts will be gone over by a special instructor at that time.

As announced in The Mirror several days ago, the talent for this show is the best that can be found in the upper country and with the aid of some imported talent, the directors say that their minstrel performance will be the finest thing of its kind ever seen in this section.

MRS. CUTHBERT SERIOUSLY ILL

Friends of Mrs. C. M. Cuthbert, 520 Michigan avenue, will regret to learn that her illness from diphtheria has developed into a serious stage, but there is still hope that she will recover. Dr. H. B. Reynolds, the attending physician, and two trained nurses are doing all that skill and experience can suggest to combat the disease, which has made quicker inroads than usual in Mrs. Cuthbert's case owing to the fact that she had scarcely recovered from an attack of scarlet fever when the diphtheria developed.

TAFT TAKES REST IN RECORD TRIP

(By Associated Press.) Hot Springs, Va., Nov. 3.—President Taft brought his second longest tour of the country to a temporary halt today. He will rest here until Monday. The trip is the longest ever taken by a president. Taft travelled 13,436 miles, beating his own previous record by 500 miles. The president before returning to Washington will visit Ohio, Kentucky and Tennessee, adding 1,800 miles to his record. It is said that in the forthcoming message to congress, Taft will devote much attention to the tariff reform with reference to the report of the tariff board, and will discuss the "trust question" and will recommend that the federal incorporation bill presented to congress two years ago be enacted into law.

Announcement of the funeral will be made later.

PROFESSOR HAYNES FINDS ARSENIC IN LIVER OF VICTIM

CHIEF OF POLICE IN CHICAGO PREPARES TO ORDER THE IMMEDIATE ARREST OF MRS. VERMILYA.

ARTHUR BISSONETTE MURDERED

Accused Woman Summons An Attorney to Her House to Draw Up Her Will—Lawyer Says Will is Ready For Her Signature Today—Police Guarding Her Home Night and Day.

(Special to The Mirror.) Chicago, Nov. 3.—Professor Walter Haynes, expert toxicologist, reported to the coroner today that he found abundant arsenic in Policeman Bissonette's liver to cause death.

The chief of police is preparing to swear out warrants for the arrest of Mrs. Louise Vermilya, charging her with murdering Bissonette and Richard Smith, an Illinois Central conductor, who died at her home.

Beside Bissonette, who died suddenly a week ago at the woman's home, eight other deaths, relatives of Mrs. Vermilya or those closely associated with her, have occurred within the last few days. Mrs. Vermilya is now ill of pneumonia. The warrant for her arrest was issued, but she will not be removed from her home until tomorrow.

An Earlier Dispatch.

Chicago, Nov. 3.—No development of more than trivial nature marked the close of Thursday's investigation into the mysterious death of Policeman Arthur Bissonette a week ago and the deaths of eight other relatives or friends of Mrs. Louise Vermilya, whom the police have had under surveillance for several days.

Not much effort was made Thursday by the coroner or police to delve farther into the history of the strange chain of death, which Mrs. Vermilya declares is only a string of ghastly coincidences. Toxicologist Walter Haynes was expected to deliver to the coroner today a report on his examination of the viscera of the dead policeman and upon the result of this examination hangs much of the future of the case.

Wants Her Will Drawn.

Mrs. Vermilya last night surprised the detectives guarding her in her home by a request that a lawyer be summoned to draw her will. She said she was suffering from the same kind of pain in the stomach that had preceded the deaths in her household. An attorney was summoned, but he said he would not have the will ready for signatures till today. The detectives having the woman under surveillance asked for a constant guard of trained nurses, and their superior officer prepared to establish such a watch service.

NO DEATHS IN CITY FOR THIRTEEN DAYS

The monthly record of births and deaths turned in to the city clerk for October shows that the deaths remained at the same figure last month as in September, the total number being 14. Something has gone wrong in the department of the local stork, the number of births for October, 24, being seven less than for the previous month. A strange thing about the death record for October is that there were absolutely no deaths in the city between the 9th and 23rd of the month.

JURY DISAGREES IN THE MURDER CASE OF MRS. LEE.

CIRCUIT COURT SESSION IS ENDED

OCTOBER TERM ONE OF THE BUSIEST EVER HELD IN DELTA COUNTY—NIGHT SESSIONS ARE HELPFUL.

The trying of all jury cases for the October session of the circuit court for Delta county was completed late Thursday afternoon and members of the panel of jurors were dismissed from further service. All court business was finished Thursday evening, and after certifying to the court proceedings in the court journal this morning, Judge Cooper left for his home at Ironwood.

The last evening session was held Thursday night, and the remaining non-jury or chancery cases were disposed of. The decision to hold night sessions had the effect of greatly shortening this term of court, as it is said that the October calendar was one of the largest ever held in this county. But for the night sessions it is possible another two weeks would have been necessary to conclude the court's business.

In the circuit court Thursday, various cases were disposed of by juries. The case of Frank Lacost vs. Antoine Deloria was settled by a dismissal order being entered. A continuance was granted by the court in the case of the Prescott company against O. L. Raymond, upon motion of the plaintiff. In the case of A. Stromberg vs. William Swainstrom, a default judgment was given amounting to $625. Another default judgment of $392.02 was entered in the case of Joseph Silverman and company against A. L. Wargny and Edward Perron. Default judgment was also entered in the suit of the Commercial National bank vs. H. A. Bauman. It amounted to $182.

The jury in the case of Mrs. Georgiana Belanger vs. Dr. George C. Bartley awarded the plaintiff $89.30 for injuries sustained by her son while he was riding a bicycle, when an automobile owned by Bartley struck and knocked the lad from his wheel. The injuries, while not serious, caused the boy to suffer various painful bruises. At the time of the accident the auto was being driven by Neil Bartley, a brother of George Bartley.

Judge Cooper granted a motion of the defendant in the divorce case of Eli Clich vs. Sarah Clich, allowing attorney's fee and temporary alimony at the rate of $6 per month until the action is settled.

William Braun, arrested on the charge of burglary and who had entered a plea of guilty to a charge of larceny, was sentenced to serve 90 days in the county jail. His honor took into consideration in sentencing the prisoner, the period already served by him since his arrest and plea of guilty.

Peter Harkins was granted a divorce Tuesday evening in the action brought against him by his wife, Mrs. Marion Harkins. The court gave Mr. Harkins the custody of the five years old child of the couple. The court refused to allow the plaintiff alimony.

CURATE MAY ARRIVE SATURDAY EVENING

Rev. William J. Datson, the new rector of St. Stephen's Episcopal Church, who was expected to arrive in the city last evening, will probably not reach Escanaba until Saturday evening, according to information received by parishioners today. The rectory has been put in first class order for the reception of the curate and his family. The walls have all been repaired, and other needed improvements attended to. Mr. Datson will, it is said, preach the first regular sermon to his new congregation Sunday morning.

Mrs. D. J. Duranseau returned yesterday from a two weeks' visit with relatives in Minneapolis.

CHINESE NATIONAL ASSEMBLY COMPLETES DRAFT OF THE PROPOSED NEW CONSTITUTION OF COUNTRY.

EMPEROR'S POWER RESTRICTED.

Imperial Princes Cannot Hold Office of Premier—Rebels Capture Arsenal and Native City of Shanghai—Rebels Said to Have Seized British Tugboat—Appalling at Hankow.

(By Associated Press.) Peking, Nov. 3.—The National Assembly has completed the draft, the basis of which proposes to construct a new constitution in China. It was accepted by the throne.

The draft provides for the perpetuity of the Manchu dynasty, but the power of the emperor is restricted. The imperial princes under this draft cannot hold the office of premier.

Taken by the Rebels. Shanghai, Nov. 3.—The arsenal and the native city of Shanghai were taken over by the revolutionists this afternoon without opposition. The rebels expect to occupy Wu Sung, a town ten miles north, tonight, and they will move forward to occupy Mankang and Ching Kiang, tomorrow.

Some of the foreign warships landed marines in Shanghai before the rebels took possession. Foreign volunteers have taken every precaution to protect their concessions. It was reported that the rebels at Kih Kiang seized the British tugboat Sampson.

The province of Yun Nan in southwestern China has declared its independence according to reports received here.

Situation is Appalling. Hong Kong, Nov. 3.—Delayed dispatches from Hankow describe the situation there on the night of November 1 as appalling. Conflagrations were sweeping the city and fighting was in progress in several quarters among the rebels and loyalists.

(By Associated Press.) Rhineland, Wis., Nov. 3.—Three boys, seven, nine and twelve years, respectively, arrested for an alleged attempt to wreck a Soo passenger train near Weyerhauser, Tuesday night, by piling ties on the track, were sentenced to the reform school today. The freight crew removed the obstruction. The boys said they had seen moving pictures of train wrecks and thought it would be fun to see the real thing.

PRETTY WEDDING AT BARK RIVER

MISS MAYME ANDERSON IS UNITED TO JOHN E. JOHNSON—ESCANABA PEOPLE AMONG WEDDING GUESTS.

One of the prettiest weddings that have taken place in Bark River for a long time was solemnized in the Swedish Lutheran church there at 7:30 o'clock Thursday evening, when Miss Mayme Anderson and John E. Johnson, both of Bark River, were united in the matrimonial state, the nuptial knot being tied by Rev. C. A. Lund, pastor of the Swedish Lutheran church, this city.

Attending the bridal couple were Miss Anna Anderson of Chicago, a sister of the bride, as bridesmaid, and Albin Nelson of this city as best man.

Present at the wedding ceremony and the reception and banquet, which followed at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Anderson, were a large number of relatives and friends of the bridal pair. These guests included a number of people from Escanaba. Miss Marie and Carl Holmes of Cornell were also present. The bride and bridesmaid presented a most charming appearance, the former being attired in a beautiful white messaline gown veiled with white lace and the latter wearing a gray silk gown. The bride carried a bouquet of white roses and the bridesmaid carried a large cluster of white Chrysanthemums.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnson have a large circle of friends, many of whom were pleased to extend their congratulations and good wishes in person at the wedding.

ST. JOSEPH'S WILL PLAY GLADSTONE

The St. Joseph and Gladstone football teams will clash for the second time this season at the fair grounds on Saturday and the lover of the game for its own sake will be assured of a treat. Both teams have been improved and strengthened since their last appearance here and their coaches and rooters are making big claims for them so the fans can all expect to see the feathers fly when the teams come, together tomorrow to play off their previous tie and decide which is the better.

NO EXTRA CHARGE FOR MESSAGES NOW

Fish of the local office of the Western Union Telegraph company. In the past charges for carriage or a reasonable sum for taking a message to the outskirts of the city has been charged, but under the new ruling no charge will hereafter be insisted upon by officials of the company.

BANKERS' LIFE INSURANCE CO. QUITS OLD PLAN

DES MOINES COMPANY ABANDONS ASSESSMENTS—ADOPTS THE MUTUAL LEGAL RESERVE PLAN.

MEMBERS ARE NOT AFFECTED

Ten Year Policy Will Supplant Certificates—Has $500,000,000 in Force—Many Escanaba People Will Be Interested in the New Regime, Which Will Strengthen Company, it is Said.

Many Escanaba residents who are financially or otherwise interested in the Bankers' Life Insurance company of Des Moines, Iowa, will be enlightened more or less concerning the change in the affairs of the concern. The Chicago Tribune in issue has the following account of the matter:

Notably Successful. The changing of the Bankers' Life of Des Moines from an assessment life insurance company to a mutual, legal reserve, old line company eliminates from the field one of the great est exponents of assessment life insurance. The company was incorporated and began business in 1872. It has been notably successful in getting new business and now has more than $500,000,000 of insurance on its books. Its largest business is in Illinois, where it has more than $70,000,000 of insurance in force.

The Bankers' Life has been economically managed at the home office and has had a remarkable mortality record. Edward A. Temple was the organizer of the plan and operated. He died early in 1911.

With the large volume of assessment insurance on its books the present management has foreseen that in time the mortality of the old members would increase and that to keep up the stride it has been making and take care of the increased death loss would be impossible.

Will Be Mutual Company. The company under its new regime will be a mutual company paying annual dividends, and will have no membership fees or guarantee notes. Its first policy is a ten year term plan and will supplant the present assessment certificate.

The old business will not be disturbed, but all new business will be written on the old line plan. In a short time it will get out regular forms of policies on life and endowment plans. The 200,000 old members will be allowed to carry their insurance according to the assessment certificates and the charter and by-laws of the old organization. Of course the assessment on this old business will have to be raised materially from year to year, as there will be no further new members on the assessment plan. The company has a fund of $8,000,000 in addition to its power of assessment to take care of future death losses.

ABOUT DAN PATCH ELECTRIC RAILWAY

"This passing reference to a somewhat hazardous employment of capital is suggested by Mr. Savage's selection of the well-known race-horse for the familiar name of his electric road. Its corporate title is the Minneapolis, St. Paul, Rochester and Duquesne Electric Traction company. As an extra inducement, purchasers of the stock, and others, for a trifling fee, may obtain an engraving of Dan Patch, the celebrated pacer. The picture of the horse, I think, is probably preferable to a bottle of Dr. Belding's medicine, which Mr. Savage, with equal facility, might have thrown in with the Dan Patch shares.

"I am informed that Mr. Savage has other and substantial interests in his home town, but his promotion methods in connection with the above mentioned concerns are not in accord with investment standards."

The Dan Patch Railway.
Again in September Mr. Dater writes as follows:

"The promoters assert that forty miles of the road have been built and are in operation, and that construction is progressing. Whatever may be the company's future, however, the stock at the existing stage of development, and with the present method of promotion, is in no proper sense an investment.

"In offering shares to the public—one of preferred and one of common, value $100 each, for the lump sum of $125—the company furnishes no report of earnings or operations, makes no financial statement, and supplies no details of the amount of capital authorized or the amount of stock sold and outstanding. Though constructing a line in Minnesota, the concern

"There is always a serious element of risk in buying shares in a non-reporting company in the development stage. No one can foretell the future, and in this respect a person who puts money into such an enterprise is like a man who takes a leap in the dark. He cannot tell where he will fetch up."

They Both Are Studying Law and Expect to Become Partners.

Mrs. Sarah T. Andrew, aged forty, has matriculated at the Washington College of Law, and her son, Herbert B. Andrew, twenty, has started a law course in the law department of the Catholic university.

Mrs. Andrew is the wife of a government clerk. Before she married she taught school in Missouri. Herbert has just completed an academical course at Gonzaga college. Mrs. Andrew said:

"It is the intention of Herbert and myself to complete our courses here and take the Washington bar examinations. If we are successful we will go back to Missouri and put out a joint 'shingle.'"

"I have been after mother for years to get her to study law," Herbert said, "because I believe by nature and training she is especially suited for a legal career. I am delighted that she has started and look forward with pleasure to the day when the sign of Andrew & Andrew will appear at our old home in Missouri."

PLAN INSURGENT ORGAN.

Newspaper to Be Launched at Chicago With $2,000,000.

Prominent insurgents will spend $2,000,000 to start a national organ. The paper is to be published in Chicago, and the first edition is scheduled to appear about the middle of November.

The most significant part of the plan as disclosed is that it originates from the same people who have been managing the campaign of Senator Robert M. La Follette, but it is denied that the paper is to be made a personal organ for La Follette's boom for the presidency. It is stated that nearly $500,000 is pledged for the purpose. The newspaper will be incorporated, according to the present plans, at $2,000,000.

HARVARD UNION BARS DRINK.

Even the Football Team May Be Denied Its Weekly Ale.

Liquor has been barred at the Harvard Union, the big university clubhouse, which welcomes to its abode the poor as well as the rich—in fact, every student in the university who desires to join it.

The edict comes as a surprise, as many dinners and alumni reunions were held there.

If the new varsity club, which is an annex to the union, is included in the dictum it will be a blow to the football team, which is allowed ale at meals once a week.

Hitting the Doctor.

As today, in the days gone by the doctors were made the target of the jester's fling.

Pausanias, the Spartan general, when asked by a physician how it was that he was never ill, exultingly answered, "Because I never consult you."

At another time Pausanias said that the best physician was the one who dispatched his patients with the least possible suffering.

Pausanias, strongly disapproving of a certain physician and his methods and berating him in no mild terms, was asked by a friend how, as he had never consulted that particular doctor, he could be so sure of his statements. Pausanias answered, "Well, had I consulted him would I be living today?"

A Summer Without Nights.

To the summer visitor in Sweden there is nothing more striking than the almost total absence of night. At Stockholm, the Swedish capital, the sun goes down a few minutes before 9 o'clock and rises again four hours later during a greater part of the month of June. But the four hours the sun lies hidden in the frozen north are not hours of darkness. The refraction of his rays as he passes around the north pole makes midnight as light as a cloudy midday and enables one to read the finest print without artificial light at any time during the "night."

INSURANCE COMPANY QUITS OLD PLAN

Haven't You a Job

Of Work for a Want Ad to Do?

It needn't be some task so easy that it will almost do itself. You can entrust it with some errand that is difficult—that only a want ad. can do WELL AND INEXPENSIVELY.

The person who finds jobs for want ads. to do is the sort of chap who looks at you rather quizzically when you try to tell him that business is dull, or that you can't rent that apartment, or office, or store, or house, or that you can't find a position. For, you see, he has gotten into the habit of accomplishing things—which is a habit within the reach of any person with half a will and three-quarters of a purpose.

morning's action had been set the night before. Tudor was to behind in his banyan refuge and strength while the expedition led. On the far chance that might rescue even one solitary member of Tudor's party, Joan was in her determination to push on. Tudor, Adamu Adam and Arabu to stop as guards.

Charley led the way, by proxy, for, by means of the poison-spear he drove the captive bush- ahead. They plodded on, pant- ing and sweating in the humid, stag- air. They were immersed in a wanton, prodigal vegetation, light by surprise fifteen feet in above the path in the forks of a bay branched tree, a bushman ed like a shadow, naked as on tal morn. It was hard for them lize that it was a man, for he d a weird jungle sprite, a goblin forest. Only Binu Charley was urbed. He flung his poisoned over the head of the captive at itting form. It was a mighty well intended, but the shadow, g. received the spear harmlessly en sung sprawling. Before he get away Binu Charley was hm, clutching him by his snow hair. He was only a young man dandy at that, his face black- with charcoal, his hair whitened wood ashes, with the freshly d tail of a wild pig thrust h his perforated nose and two thrust through his ears. His ther ornament was a necklace man finger bones. At a sight of her prisoner he chattered in a uerulous falsetto, with pucker- ews and troubled, wild animal He was doubled of along the of the line, one of the Poonga- man leading him at the end ngth of bark rope.

he up he stop," Binu Charley d them in a whisper.

as he spoke, from high over- ame the deep resonant boom of drum. But the beat was slow, was no panic in the sound. The y now became a deeply worn rising so steeply that several the party paused for breath.

man with a rifle could hold it a thousand," Sheldon whisper- Joan. "And twenty men could with spears and arrows."

came out on the village, ston- a small, upland plateau, grass d and with only occasional trees.

There was a wild chorus of warning cries from the women, and spears and arrows began to fall among the in- vaders. Hey, you, Charley! What fella place head he stop?"

"S'pose he stop along devil-devil house," was the answer. "That big fella house, he devil-devil."

It was the largest house in the vil- lage. Into it they went. Crouched before a slow smoking fire, in the littered ashes of a thousand fires, was an old man who blinked apathetically at the invaders. His task, it seemed, was to tend the fire, and, hung in the smoke, he found the object of their search. Joan turned and stumbled out hastily, deathly sick, reeling into the sunshine and clutching at the air for support.

"See if all are there," she called back faintly and tottered aimlessly on for a few steps, breathing the air in great drafts and trying to forget the sight she had seen.

Upon Sheldon fell the unpleasant task of tallying the heads. They were all there, nine of them, white men's heads, the faces of which he had been familiar with when their owners had camped in Berande compound and set up the polling boats. Binu Charley, hugely interested, lent a hand, turning the heads around for identification, noting the batchet strokes and remark- ing the distorted expressions.

Other heads, thoroughly sun dried and smoke cured, were found in abun- dance, but, with two exceptions, they were the heads of blacks.

"Me savvy black Mary, me savvy white Mary," quoth Binu Charley. "Me no savvy that fella Mary. What name belong him?"

Sheldon looked. Ancient and with- ered, blackened by many years of the smoke of the devil-devil house, never- theless the shrunken, mummylike face was unmistakably Chinese. How it had come there was the mystery. It was a woman's head, and he had never beard of a Chinese woman in the his- tory of the Solomon. From the ears hung two inch long earrings, and at Sheldon's direction the Binu man rubbed away the accretions of smoke and dirt and from under his fingers appeared the polished green of jade, the sheen of pearl and the warm red of oriental gold. The other head, equally ancient, was a white man's, and Sheldon wondered what forgotten beche-der-mer fisherman or sandalwood trader had gone to furnish that ghostly trophy.

Telling Binu Charley to remove the earrings and directing the Poonga- Poonga men to carry out the old fire tender, Sheldon cleared the devil-devil house and set fire to it. Soon every house was blazing merrily, while the ancient fire tender sat upright in the sunshine, blinking at the destruction of his village. Every member of Tudor's expedition was accounted for, and it was a long, dark way out of the head hunters' country. Releasing their two prisoners, who leaped away like startled deer, they plunged down the steep path into the steaming jungle.

That night found them back in camp with Tudor, and at high noon of the third day, travelling with the current and shooting the rapids, the expedi- tion arrived at Berande. Joan, with a sigh, unbuckled her revolver belt and hung it on the nail in the living room, while Sheldon, who had been lurking about for the sheer joy of seeing her perform that particular homecoming act, sighed, too, with satisfaction. But the homecoming was not all joy to him, for Joan set about nursing Tudor and spent much time on the veranda when he lay in the hammock under the mosquito netting.

The ten days of Tudor's convales- cence that followed were peaceful days on Berande. The work of the plantation went on like clockwork. With the crushing of the premature outbreak of Gogoomy and his follow- ing all insubordination seemed to have vanished. Twenty more of the old time boys, their terms of service up, were carried away by the Mariba, and the fresh stock of labor, treated fairly, was proving of excellent qual- ity. As Sheldon rode about the plan- tation acknowledging to himself the comfort and convenience of a horse and wondering why he had not thought of getting one himself, he pondered the various improvements for which Joan was responsible.

There were times when he was dizzy with thought of her and love of her, when he would stop his horse and with closed eyes picture her as he had seen her that first day in the stern sheets of the whiteboat, dashing madly in to shore and marching belligerently along his veranda to remark that it was pretty hospitable, this letting stran- gers sink or swim in his front yard.

It was patent to Sheldon that Tudor had become interested in Joan. Often after his morning ride over the plantation or coming in from the store or from inspection of the copra drying, Sheldon found the pair of them together on the veranda, Joan listening intent and excited and Tudor deep in some recital of personal adventure at the ends of the earth.

Sheldon noticed, too, the way Tudor looked at her and followed her about with his eyes, and in those eyes he noted a certain hungry look and on the face a certain wistful expression, and he wondered if on his own face he carried a similar involuntary ad- vertisement. He was sure of several things—first, that Tudor was not the right man for Joan and could not pos- sibly make her permanently happy; next, that Joan was too sensible a girl really to fall in love with a man of such superficial stamp, and, finally, that Tudor would blunder his love making somehow. And at the same time, with true lover's anxiety, Shel- don feared that the other might some- how fall to blunder and win the girl with purely fortuitous and successful mercerious show.

The situation was very unsatisfac- tory and perplexing. Sheldon played the difficult part of waiting and looking on, while his rival devoted himself energetically to reaching out and grasping at the fluttering prize. He did not belong to Berande, and now that he was well and strong again, it was time for him to go. Instead of which Tudor had settled himself down comfortably, resumed swimming, went dynamiting fish with Joan, spent hours with her hunting pigeons, trapping crocodiles and at target practice with rifle and revolver.

But there were certain traditions of hospitality that prevented Sheldon from breathing a hint that it was time for his guest to take himself off. And in similar fashion, feeling that it was not playing the game, he fought down the temptation to warn Joan. Had he known anything, not too serious, to Tudor's detriment, he would have been unable to utter it, but the worst of it was that he knew nothing at all against the man.

HON. H. O. YOUNG IN COPPER COUNTRY

SAYS IN AN INTERVIEW THAT HE HAS NOT THOUGHT OF RUNNING FOR CONGRESS AGAIN—HIS WORDS.

Congressman H. Olin Young of Ish- peeing has been visiting friends in the copper country for the past couple of days. This visit had no particular political significance whatever, as Mr. Young said it was a short visit to copper country friends. The Hough- ton Gazette contained the following in- terview with Mr. Young:

"I expect to leave for Washington in less than a month," said Mr. Young, "so I thought I had better run up to see the copper country and see a few of my friends before that time. I have not seen them since the campaign a year ago, and am now giv- ing myself the pleasure."

"Anything doing in connection with the campaign next fall?"

"No. We have a number of fellows who would like to run for congress from the upper peninsula," was Mr. Young's nonchalant answer.

"Said anything about running your- self, Mr. Young?"

"Have not thought much about it."

"Going to run, aren't you?"

"Well, yes," answered the congress- man, "Fact is, I guess I had consid- ered that was something that might be taken for granted."

Mr. Young did not have much to say about political business in the copper country. He could not say whether or not the congress would touch upon anything affecting the up- per peninsula in either a general or a special way. It might tinker with the tariff a little and it might get so far along as to take up the steel sched- ule again. He hoped not.

AIRSHIPS AS MAIL CARRIERS

Postmaster General Wants $50,000 to Make Tests.

$150,000 FOR PARCELS POST

Mr. Hitchcock is Convinced That the Aeroplane Will Soon Be a Practical Utility in the Postal Service—His Estimates.

A recommendation that $50,000 be appropriated to enable postal officials to make experiments in the transpor- tation of mail by aeroplane was em- braced in estimates forwarded to the treasury department by Postmaster General Hitchcock.

The postmaster general is convinced that the aeroplane will soon be a practical utility in the postal service. He points out, for example, that its use would effect great economies in the transportation of mail in Alaska, where routes, owing to circuitous roads and obstructions, are long and difficult to traverse. In a number of instances in Alaska mail routes may be materially shortened by following straight air line strips made by aeroplanes. There are other sections of the country where conditions obtain in the postal service that would be improved by the utiliza- tion of mail airships.

The postmaster general's estimates, which will be used by congress as a basis for making appropriations for the postoffice department for the fiscal year that will begin July 1, 1912, con- tain other important recommendations. For example, the postmaster general asks for an appropriation of $50,000 to cover the preliminary expenses of es- tablishing a parcels post on rural mail routes and a like appropriation to start the parcels post system in the city delivery service. The postmaster general is a strong advocate of the in- stallation of the parcels post in both the city and rural services. He be- lieves that after the initial expenses of establishing are defrayed and the parcels post is in full operation on the rural mail routes it will not only bring in some of the revenue to meet its cost, but also a surplus that can be utilized in paying the expenses of a parcels post in the city delivery service. He recommends a $50,000 appropriation for the latter service in order to cover certain expenses to be incurred before the system is in full operation.

Other Items.

In addition to these two items the postmaster general includes one of $50,000 to cover an investigation hav- ing for its object the final establish- ment of a general parcels post on all railway and steamboat transportation routes. By including in his estimates these three items Mr. Hitchcock will submit squarely to congress the question of establishing a parcels post, for the postal committees of the house and senate will have to pass directly on each item. He is confident that legis- lation authorizing a parcels post in some form will pass next year.

Still another item included in Mr. Hitchcock's estimates is one of $50,000 for the purchase of time and la- bor saving mechanical devices for use in the postoffice. In the last two years many such appliances have been in- troduced in the postal service, and the economies thus effected have, officials say, far exceeded the cost. An item of $10,000 is added to be expended in giving rewards to postal employees who invent improved mechanical ap- pliances that accelerate the handling of the mails, the purpose being to af- ford every possible incentive for the production of such inventions.

The postal estimates call for a total appropriation of $200,938,463, an in- crease of $2,585,740 over the appropria- tion for the current year.

MAIL BOXES FOR PASSENGERS

Hitchcock Orders Them Put in All Railway Stations.

In order that the traveling public may enjoy the conveniences of the postal service, Postmaster General Hitchcock has directed that all post- masters in cities operating free deliv- ery be instructed to place a street let- ter box at all railroad stations.

These boxes are to be located in con- spicuous places as near as possible to the center of the platform and paint- ed a distinctive color, such as may be recognizable at a distance. At sta- tions where there are double tracks and passenger platforms on each side a box will be placed on each platform at the most convenient point for the traveling public. Collections will be made from the station boxes by the city letter carriers at regular intervals, and letters will be handled with the same dispatch as the usual first class city mail.

Why Rubber Tires Grow Hot.

When an automobile is running at high speed the rubber tires are rapidly warmed, and the heat sometimes be- comes very great, with resultant in- jury to the rubber. The cause of this accumulation of heat in the tire is ascribed to the kneading of the rubber, which generates heat faster than it can be radiated away. For this reason manufacturers have found it to be an advantage to have metal parts in the tread, such as the ends of rivets, in contact with the tire, because the metal being a good radiator, helps to carry off the heat of the outer air.

WORKINGMEN'S COMPENSATION.

The commission appointed by Governor Osborn to study the question of workingmen's compensation has completed its public hearings on the questions and will now take up the work of formulating a report to the special session of legislature to be called by the governor.

While the report is purely tentative as yet the principal points to be recommended are:

The creation of a state department to administer the law.

Compulsory contribution to the compensating fund from which damages arising from the injury or death of workingmen are to be paid.

Making it elective on the part of the men as to whether they wish to come under the provision of the act.

The abolition of the common law defense of contributory negligence, fellow servant doctrine and assumption of risk in cases where the worker elects to come under the compensating law.

A slight modification of the common law defense, particularly in the fellow servant doctrine for the protection of those who decide to take their chances in the court.

The fixing of $3,000 as the maximum which may be paid for death or total disability in the case of those who come under the provision of the law.

Those are the principal points, and even these are subject to change. One point that has not absolutely decided is whether the individual employer will be compelled to stand alone and suffer his own losses or whether all will contribute to a general fund from which claims will be paid.

The commission will prepare with its report a bill containing the provision it favors, which will be presented to the legislature.

As the commission is framing up its report, when the employe accepts a job he will have to decide what he is going to do in case of accident.

The question of whether a man should be paid if injured while intoxicated is also a mooted one, and it is likely on this point the law will be that he is entitled to damages only if the employer allows him to go to work knowing that he is intoxicated.

The statistics worked out by the commission show that the average paid by the employer in case of death of a worker is $1,800, of which the beneficiary receives but $450, the rest goes to the lawyers.

The lawyers, or rather those with big damage suit practices are opposed to the whole scheme.

The law is also opposed by the liability insurance companies, which now insure employers against loss through accident and which fight the cases brought by the men.

Much interesting argument was presented by the various men who attended the two sessions of the commission at Detroit, but the striking fact was the lack of knowledge of what had been done in other states along the same lines and misapprehension on the part of those appearing as to the intents and purposes of the law. It was plain that a campaign of education will be necessary before any act can be passed by the legislature. The commission, which under the law which created it must report by January to the governor is composed of Hal H. Smith of Detroit, W. P. Belden of Ishpeming, Charles R. Slight of Grand Rapids, M. P. McEwen of Grand Rapids, and Ora E. Reeves of Jackson, R. L. Drake of Detroit is secretary.

COMMANDMENTS FOR MA.

Rev. W. B. Millard of the Morgan Park (Ill.) Congregational church,

formulator of the "twentieth-century decalogue for fathers," which The Mirror published last Wednesday, has ten up to date commandments for mothers. They cover many mothers' little whims and deary prize card parties, neighborhood gossip and vanity. In brief they are as follows: 1. Thou shalt have not man except thy husband. 2. Thou shalt place no pleasure or organization or missionary society before thy home. 3. Thou shalt not waste thy husband's substance on gay raiment and vain show. 4. Thou shalt not let the petty vexations of the household disrupt the family harmony. 5. Thou shalt not regale thy family with idle gossip. 6. Thou shalt not fret because thy neighbor's house is greater than thine, nor repine when she smiles condescendingly from her limousine to thee in a trolley car. 7. Thou shalt not serve punch nor put up whist party prizes lest thy moral advice to thy children become mockery. 8. Thou shalt not declare to the conductor that the 13 year old child is of half fare age. 9. Thou shalt not shine with imitation jewelry. 10. Thou shalt not allow thy Bible to gather dust and thy divine worship to be governed by the state of the weather

ANNIVERSARY OF RT. REV. BISHOP EIS

Forty-one years ago Wednesday Bishop Eis said his first mass in St. Peter's cathedral in Marquette, he having been ordained to the priesthood the day previous. Bishop Eis' first pastorate was in Marquette, after which he went to Calumet, then to Hancock, Menominee and Negaunee, where he remained a number of years. Twelve years ago he was made bishop of this diocese, at which time he was pastor of the Crystal Falls church.

ROOSEVELT RAPS ARBITRATION IDEA

(By Associated Press.) New York, Nov. 3.—Ex-President Roosevelt's article in the current number of The Outlook deals with "Arbitration Pretense and Reality." He calls attention to the recent events in the old world as emphasizing the necessity of real arbitration, and the folly of making treaties of which there is no real intention of putting into effect, and he cites Turkey's present situation as an instance in proving that a treaty unsupported by an efficient navy is not worth the paper on which it is written. Roosevelt frowns upon any proposal to submit to others whether the given dispute is "justifiable" or not.

McGoorty outpointed Dillon in only one round, the third, when landed a vicious uppercut to the jaw and had Dillon almost out. Dillon was the aggressor throughout and was McGoorty's superior at in-fighting.

OSLER RIGHT: YOUTH SUCCEEDS AGE

The Summerless Year. The year 1816 was called the "year without a summer." Spring came that year, but in its faintest form. Snow, cold rains and winds were incessant. It was the 1st of June before the first left the ground. The farmers planted their crops, but the seed would hardly sprout, and when they came to the surface there was not heat enough to make the frail plants grow. It is recorded that during the month of June birds froze to death in the woods and fields. Small fruits, such as there were, rotted on the stems, there being no birds to eat them. But little corn matured. Only in sheltered spots were good sized roasting ears to be found. Frosts prevailed every month in the year and almost daily. The people after repeated hopes of a change for the better settled down almost in despair. The like of it was never known in the country before and, fortunately, has never been repeated. THEATRICAL

THE PETERSON—“Get Rich Quick Wallingford,” George M. Cohan's much heralded comedy will be presented at the Peterson this (Friday) evening.

No play produced in recent seasons has received the stamp of unqualified public approval with the convincing certainty that is evidenced in the applause and appreciation of amusement seekers as they view the unfolding of the story that is woven around Rufus Wallingford's promotion of shady financial deals. The methods he pursues and the avidity of the gullible, yet hard to convince, speculators who, while they would like to get something like seventy-five per cent returns on their investments, yet hesitate to take a chance, is the story of many men of today who seek to acquire wealth by a surreptitious route. Curtain at 8 o'clock sharp.

THE PETERSON—“A Millionaire Tramp,” which will be the attraction at the Peterson on Sunday evening, November 5, is a powerful comedy drama telling a beautiful story combining humor, pathos, heart interest, and thrilling realism. There is a strong vein of comedy of a laughable nature that more than pleases. The story is written around incidents of a celebrated case of New York life, well written and not unreal or stagey. It is one of the best comedy dramas of today written by a playwright who has given the public some of the very best dramas of recent years. “A Millionaire Tramp” will be presented by a competent company with the eminent and emotional actress, Miss Zola Raymond, in the leading feminine role and supported by such people as Louise Wren of “Jekyll and Hyde” fame, Hal Williams, Frank Carman and others in the cast.

THE GARRICK—The bill at the Garrick for the latter half of the week is exceptionally good and one that will compare favorably with the class of shows run by the large vaudeville houses in the cities. Bel Badie has a bull dog which has been trained to a remarkable degree and shows an almost human intelligence in the stunts that he is put through. Miss Kiara Farm is so well known here that it will suffice to say that she was in good voice and that her performance was put to its usual high mark. Baby Athlone is a very precocious youngster and endeared herself with the large audience last night with her clear, sweet little voice and her charming, dainty manners. Her ability to sing Italian and German dialect songs is truly remarkable in so young a child. Her partner, Albraxar, gave some very clever imitations on the piano and played the “Glow Worm” in both waltz and march time in a very amusing fashion. Pelle Dixon is a charming young lady, who wears beautiful gowns, has a pleasing stage presence and sings popular, catch little songs in a clear, strong, mezzo soprano voice. The Imperial Masloff Troupe of Russians, composed of two men, two women and a boy, gave a fine exhibition of their native songs and dances, throwing themselves into the work with a spirit of almost barbaric abandon, and while their performance was a bit weird, it was extremely interesting. The management of the Garrick theater might make a better selection in its moving pictures. Several of the pictures shown were very good, but two of the others shown this week could not be so classed. Pictures which show a rejected suitor murdering his successful rival and later being murdered in turn by the object of his affections or driving her to a nunnery are not helpful in their appeal, may pervert the ideas of impressionable youth, and a bad taste in the mouth. It might be added that the cowboy picture has had its day and we are all ready for something else.

THE GRAND—The two big acts at the Grand for the last part of the week consist of everything that is pleasing. Doc Emmet and his dogs, pleased the big crowds last night, and all of the tricks executed by this troupe of trained animals are above the average. Hammon and James, as singers, talkers and musicians deliver the goods, and their many changes of beautiful wardrobe make them about the classiest act, that has visited the Grand this season. The motion pictures are of the best and more than pleased. This program will be repeated tonight, Saturday and Sunday and should prove a big drawing card.

THE BIJOU—The new program at the Bijou opened last night to a pack-

BLOW UP A MINE LESSON IN THE

President Taft Will Witness Demonstration at Pittsburgh on Oct. 31.

By JAMES A. EDGERTON.

AL of us have heard several thousand times of being “blow-up” to make a Roman holiday. Now we are to have the blowing up of a mine to make a Pittsburgh holiday. Yet there is a difference. With the Romans the object was a holiday and nothing more. They loved killing for its own sake. With the Pittsburghers the motive is just the opposite. They blow up the mine as an object lesson to prevent the blowing up of other mines in future; also to show the use of the oxygen helmet and other apparatus and to give a realistic exhibition of rescue work.

President Taft will be there. It was originally intended to hold the mine rescue exhibition on Oct. 29-27, but the dates were changed so that Mr. Taft could make it on his schedule. Pittsburgh is the last point he visits before his return to Washington. The explosion will take place on the 31st, and this is the day the president will be on hand. The show, which is officially known as the mine safety demonstration, begins Oct. 30.

Nothing like this has ever been seen on earth before—not but what there have been mine explosions, too many of them. Yet there was never one made to order. The festival is exciting the interest of mining men the world around. It is under the auspices of the national bureau of mines, the American Red Cross, the United Mine Workers of America and the Pittsburgh Coal Operators' association. Among those who participate are Dr. J. A. Holmes, chief of the bureau of mines; Walter L. Fisher, secretary of the Interior; Governor John K. Tener of Pennsylvania and Miss Mabel Boardman of the Red Cross. The industrial department of the International Y. M. C. A. is also interested and has a representative on the board of managers.

murdered the higher ideals of liberty, democracy and equal-opportunity that gave the nation birth. In the rapid pace at which we have been going, in the vast material development that we have brought about, some things have been sacrificed, things that we need and must now revive. Yet it would hardly be just to say that this sacrifice has been willfully made.

The trouble has been shortsightedness. We have been so intent on some things that we have overlooked others. As has happened so many times in the world's history, we have gone to an extreme. The pendulum swings, and we must return to the normal. Why can we not have the material prosperity plus the ideals? Why can we not conserve all good things, including liberty, popular rule and equality before the law and yet achieve even greater economic and industrial development? Why can we not use our soil and not destroy it? Why can we not develop our natural resources without squandering and giving them up to the control of the few? Why can we not make money and yet follow the rule of “safety first”? Others have done so, and what others have done Americans can do.

countries have had to learn through long and bitter experience. In time we shall learn the primary safeguards that European countries have been forced to adopt. For example, we have long held that floating coal dust alone would not explode. The bureau of mines is prepared to prove that it will explode and will use floating coal dust to blow up its experimental mine. To establish that one point will be a long step in advance. The bureau officials say that coal dust has been the cause of most of our mysterious mine explosions.

One of the most important features of the demonstration will be a contest in first aid to the injured. Two sets of problems of five each will be given the competing teams and forty-one companies will be represented in the contest. In the old days we had tournaments in the field, in which the wounding or death of one or the other of the participants was the goal. Now our contests are more inspiring, if not so exciting, and are for saving life, not taking it.

The Oxygen Helmet.

Seven rescue cars, fully equipped with the latest appliances and manned by picked and trained experts, will be on hand. These crews use not only all the first aid to the injured kits, but the oxygen helmet and the oxygen reviving outfit. The helmet provides for artificial breathing in the midst of smoke or poisonous gases. By means of it men can enter a mine immediately after an explosion. The reviving outfit pumps the poisons out of the lungs of an unconscious miner and supplies the life giving oxygen. Many men thought to be dead have thus been brought to life.

Most of the rescue crews are, of course, made up of miners themselves. In the first place they understand the life and are accustomed to thread the dark passages miles underground, and in the second, they know the dangers and are accustomed to braving them. No heroism in war or peace is more thrilling than that of the man with Conservation of Men.

For in essence this proposition of saving life and property is a part of the great conservation movement. It is the conserving of human beings. It is important to save coal lands, wa-

Reviewing the Dead.

While more lives are lost in American mines than in those of most other countries, it remained for the United States to hold this exhibition in life saving that is unique in the history of mining. Indeed, nobody but an American would ever have thought of a sure enough mine explosion as a means of arresting public attention to the subject of preventing mine explosions and of safeguarding the lives of miners.

One of the most impressive spectacles of the two days will be nearly 20,000 miners marching past the reviewing stand, symbolizing the lives snuffed out in the past few years. In other words, every one of these 20,000 living miners will represent a dead miner. The press bulletins of the bureau of mines are authority for the statement that 30,000 miners have been killed in the United States in the past ten years, that 75,000 have been injured in the same time, many of them being left cripples for life; that 11,000 widows and 30,000 fatherless children have resulted and that in Europe the number of miners killed per year has been only two per 1,000, while in America it has been nearly four per 1,000. Another authority says that in Belgium, where the mines are deeper and more gassy than in the United States, the average for many years has been as low as one man per 1,000. The reason for the lower death rate in foreign mines, according to this writer, E. W. Lightner, is that for fifty years the rule abroad has been “safety first.”

BLUE AND GRAY TO UNITE.

Confederates and G. A. R. to Hold Peace Jubilee in 1913.

Plans were made at the reunion of the veterans of the Union and Confederate armies at Memphis for a peace jubilee and general reunion of the blue and the gray, to take place in Washington in 1913.

General John H. McDowell, commander of the Army of Tennessee, subdivision of the United Confederate Veterans' association, presided at the meeting, which was attended by 500 veterans of both sides. Commander in Chief Trimble of the Grand Army of the Republic could not be present but sent as his personal representative, Adjutant General C. R. Koch of Chicago.

When the vote was put on the proposal for a peace jubilee and general reunion at Washington it was carried by acclamation. Judge Trimble and General McDowell will each name a committee of six to arrange plans.

power sites, forests and soil fertility, it is infinitely more important to save the lives of men, to which these other things are only contributory. In the end it all comes back to that rule of “safety first.” On that count, perhaps we are not guiltless. Has our first thought been of the safety of the toilers? Through bonding companies and the evasion of employers' liabilities, have we not sought to protect ourselves against the calls of those who might suffer in our employ? Have we not taken the cynical attitude that about so many were doomed to be killed anyway, instead of using every possible safety appliance and precaution to reduce the number? Have we not taken risks where risks were not called for? Have we not gambled with death for the gain of speed or of profit?

Possibly a man is justifiable in gambling with his own life, but how about gambling with the lives of others? Does not an employer gamble with the lives of others when he fails to follow the rule of “safety first” and this not only in words, but in making everything else subordinate thereto? In mines we not had employers, in mines and elsewhere, who preferred to invest their money in bonding companies rather than in safety appliances? There is the rub. It makes all the difference between safety first and profit first, the difference between the viewpoint of the man who sees life as infinitely above everything else and that of the man who sees it only as a matter of dollars and cents, of profit and loss.

Coal Dust an Explosive.

Fortunately we are coming to the standard of “safety first.” There is infinite hope in this. We are seeing life as more precious than dollars. We are ready to begin, or at least to promote, the conservation of men. It was for this purpose that the bureau of mines was organized. Already this agency has made great progress in the investigation of the causes of mine explosions and in devising methods of relieving the victims. The men in charge of the bureau do not believe that the chief cause of these explosions is carelessness, either on the part of the employers or employees. That is comforting and revives faith in human nature. They ascribe it to the newness of the country or, to put it plainly, to ignorance. The other pick who goes back to save the lives of his comrades after a deadly explosion. He faces a thousand dangers that others can scarcely comprehend—dangers from fire, from asphyxiation, from further explosions and from falling coal or rocks loosened by the first gigantic blast that has laid his fellows low. Frequently whole companies of rescuers have been killed by a second catastrophe. Frequently they have been shut off by fire or have been overcome by the poisons before they could return to the shaft. Yet despite all these dangers, and none know them better than the men themselves, no sooner does one of these disasters occur than practically all the survivors volunteer as life savers.

The men in the mines work in constant perils that beget courage and that only brave men will face. All hail to a movement that will in any degree lessen these dangers and that will render the lot of the man with the pick somewhat more endurable!

The British government is about to spend a considerable sum in investigating the use of electricity in agriculture. So far as wheat is concerned, the beneficial effect of electricity has already been amply demonstrated by experiments.

Married Women's Names. In England and in the United States a woman loses her identity in marriage. In Belgium and Spain the husband adds the name of his wife to his own. In the United States women sometimes retain the family name, as Mrs. Harriet (Beecher) Stowe. In the Channel Islands the woman never loses her maiden name. In Spain the children write the names of both parents, as Llorens y Monteverde. In "Don Quixote" is the following: "Casajo was my father's name, and I, for being the wife of Sancho Panza, am called Teresa Panza, but by good right they ought to call me Teresa Casajo." In Scotland both names are preserved, and the woman is always known by her maiden name. In Wales it is the custom to describe the woman by her maiden name. The fact that a woman on becoming the wife of a man loses her identity is apparent in many portions of the Bible, when under the ancient custom man, on taking a wife, declared that she became "flesh of my flesh and blood of my blood," thereby establishing the old time saying that man and wife are one.—Richmond Times-Dispatch.

Tyranny of the Tip. There have always been those who have revolted against the tyranny of the tip. "No long ago as October, 1795, we find that ubiquitous personage, "Constant Reader," venting his grievances in the columns of the London Times. "If a man who has a horse puts up at an inn," he complains, "besides the usual bill he must at least give 1s. to the waiter, 6d. to the chambermaid, 6d. to the hostler and 6d. to the jackboot, making together 2s. 6d. At breakfast you must give at least 6d. between the waiter and hostler. If the traveler only puts up to have a refreshment, besides paying for his horse's standing he must give 3d. to the hostler; at dinner 6d. to the waiter and 3d. to the hostler; at tea 6d. between them; so that he gives away in the day 2s. 6d., which, added to the 2s. 6d. for the night, makes 5s. per day on an average to the servants." They did the thing pretty thoroughly in those days.

A Millionaire. The term "millionaire" is of international use, but it does not mean the same thing in the mouths of different nations. To every one it means the possession of a million, but not necessarily a million dollars. In Great Britain a millionaire has a million pounds, or nearly $5,000,000, while in France they count francs, so that there a millionaire is a comparatively poor individual with but $200,000 to bless himself with. Millionaires are quite common in Prussia, but a million marks don't mean much these days, amounting to a trifle of $250,000 in our money. For millionaires of real class it is necessary to go back to old Babylon. The Babylonian millionaire had 1,000,000 talents and would not be regarded as a poor man even by a Wall street office boy. A talent was about $2,000, and a million of them would be $2,000,000,000.

A Triple Play. It was at the end of the ninth inning. Yet, though the home team was two runs to the good, things looked black for them.

The visitors were at bat. There were no outs, and three men were on bases; also Terrible Terry Tomkins was up, and Terry's batting average reached the clouds.

Terry hunched his shoulders and waited confidently, and a groan went up from the bleachers.

The ball flew in three pieces, and the pieces flew in three directions. One was caught by the pitcher, one was pulled out of the air by the shortstop, and one landed in the first baseman's mitt. A triple play! The game was the home team's.

The bleachers went wild.—Philadelphia Times.

Breaking It Gently. "I have called, sir, to see the photo of the lady with $25,000 who wants a husband." "Can you keep your face straight?" "Of course I can." "Very well. We'll break you in first with the $5,000 applicants, and then gradually, as you grow stronger, we will work you up to the big prize. This way, please, and don't get frightened."—Exchange.

ESCANABA PLAYS AT MANISTIQUE

The football team of the Escanaba High school with a large turnout of rooters will leave the city tomorrow morning for Manistique, where the local team will clash with the Manistique High school team. Coach Wilkerson of the local team reports that practically all of the regular men who were out of last week's game are back in the line up and that the team is ready, now or never, to show what it is made of. The Manistique team has been coached by Mr. Edmunds, who formerly coached the local teams to victory, and this has added greatly to the interest in the coming game.

FINE STOCK FOR RUMMAGE SALE

The big rummage sale of the October section of the Ladies' Aid Society of the First Presbyterian church will begin Monday morning in the building at 614 Ludington street. Those who remember the sale of last year and who took advantage of the bargains at that time will be pleased to hear that the stock this year will be a great deal better than last. Many of the local merchants have contributed liberally of brand new articles and large boxes have been received from Montgomery, Ward & Co., Sears, Roebuck & Co., Marshall Field and other Chicago houses. The Milwaukee firms are also responding and a fine line of cloaks and coats and winter wearing apparel will be displayed, as contributions from these stores. The large stock will be in readiness about noon on Monday and the store will be open for three days. The ladies of the church solicit your patronage.
