This evening at the Bijou theatre, which has been rented for the occasion, P. D. Estes will give an illustrated lecture on the handling of explosives in a safe manner. The lecture will be under the auspices of the Chicago & Northwestern railroad and everyone that is interested will be welcome.

Mr. Estes is one of the representatives of the Bureau of Explosives of the American Railway association and is sent by them to the different division points, to teach trainmen and others how to handle dynamite, gun-cotton and nitro-glycerine without danger.

During the course of the lecture over 50 slides will be used to illustrate the dangers of explosives in shipping and also how to overcome them. The lecture is free.

The Bijou will probably be well filled this evening at 8 o'clock when the lecture starts for a great many of the railroad men as well as shippers are going to be present.

SHOTS MAN AND GIVES SELF UP

Pembine Saloon Keeper Claims He Tried to Stop a Fight

John Jensen, Pembine saloon keeper, surrendered himself to the authorities at Marinette yesterday, saying he shot E. Berbey, a lumberjack from Oconto, Sunday night, to stop a fight at his saloon.

Jensen was not arrested, as Berbey, who is now in a hospital at Oconto has made no complaint. Berbey will recover, the wound being in the flesh of the lower leg.

Jensen says Berbey started a quarrel with Alex Gagnau, 60 years old, a bartender. Jensen interferred, he says, and that Berbey and his friends then attacked him and he drew his gun to defend himself.

CLEANER ESCANABA

WITHIN SHORT TIME SMOKE AND STEAM NUISANCE WILL HAVE TO COME TO AN END IN THIS CITY

OFFICER WILL BE ON THE JOB
There Ought to be a Big Demand for Smoke Consumers Within the Next Thirty Days

If the ordinances that were passed by the council last evening are enforced like all the rest of the city ordinances are, Escanaba will be a "City Beautiful" before next month this time.

No longer will great clouds of smoke waft gently over the washing that is hung out by the cleanly housewife. No longer will jets of steam rush madly from the side of an industrial enterprise and frighten "faithful Dobbin" into a mad flight down the street.

The ordinances passed were relative to the "smoke and steam nuisance" and the people hit by the measure will have a month to get in shape to avoid paying a heavy fine for disregard of the law.

In many cases the new ordinance will work a hardship to manufacturers and in all cases to much extra expense. The Richter brewery is the only place in the city where a smoke consumer is used at the present time. The mayor will appoint a man who will make it his special business to see that the ordinances are recognized and who will prosecute any and all offenders.

Following are the new ordinances adopted last night:

An ordinance to abate the smoke nuisance in the city of Escanaba.

The city of Escanaba ordains: Section one.—In the city of Escanaba.

(By Associated Press.)
Chicago, Jan. 8.—The telegraph and telephone wires between New York and this city are prostrated as the result of the worst storm that the country has seen in years. Eighty poles in succession are reported down this side of Toledo and the market reports from the east are not being received. Hundreds of tons of sleet forced the wires and poles to the ground and it will take several days to put the lines in their original condition.

GOV. FERRIS TO REPLACE WHITE

Orlando Barnes, of Roscommon, a Democrat is Booked for Former Escanaba Man's Position

Although it was announced several days ago that Governor Ferris might reappoint Thomas B. White, formerly of this city, as a member of the state tax commission, word was today received in the city to the effect that the governor has another man slated for the position. The man who it is expected will be appointed to the position held by Mr. White is Orlando F. Barnes of Roscommon. He is one of the best known Democrats in Michigan, having been a candidate for state land commissioner on one or two occasions and always prominent in the councils of the party. His appointment will give the Democrats control of the commission, three to one.

UNKNOWN MAN PUTS BULLET INTO HIS BRAIN

WOODSMAN WAS MORE SCARED THAN HURT

Company Surgeon Could Find no Injury to Man That Claimed He Was Fatally Injured

Last night Haring's ambulance was notified to meet the passenger train arriving on the Escanaba & Lake Superior railroad to take a man from the station to the hospital. Dr. Kitchen was also notified to be ready to care for the patient, an Austrian who had apparently been injured at Camp 5.

When the train arrived the patient was tenderly carried to the ambulance and then to the hospital. Upon arriving at the hospital the surgeon placed the man upon one of the operating tables. The patient could not tell where he was hurt and was unable to locate any injury and the more the surgeon examined his patient, the more puzzling the situation became.

Finally losing patience with the man, Dr. Kitchen told him that there was nothing wrong with him, whereupon the man immediately recovered from all injury and can return to work today. It seems that a tree fell near him and some of the branches brushed his side, frightening him into the belief that he was seriously injured.

HALF OF BIG CROP MAY BE SAVED BY WARMTH

HIGHER TEMPERATURES PREVAIL AND ARE HELPED OUT BY OIL FIRES IN THE ORANGE GROVES

RAILROADS LOSE LARGE AMOUNT

Half of the Crop That Has Been Lost Would Have Been Shipped East by the Railroad

(By Associated Press.)
Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 8.—Higher temperatures prevail and with the addition of the oil fires that have been burning in the groves of the growers of citrus fruits, it is estimated that about half of the fifty million dollar crop of oranges and lemons will be saved.

The railroads will lose about nine million dollars in freight receipts as the result of half the crop being lost. Thousands of dollars worth of crude oil has been burned during the past few days and it is claimed that if it had not been for their method of keeping away the frost the loss to the growers would have been still greater.

Miss Kane has held a position of trust with some of the largest firms in Ishpeming and The Fair is to be congratulated in getting her to fill the position to be vacated by Miss Nugent.

STRANGER ABOUT FORTY YEARS OF AGE KILLED HIMSELF NEAR ST. PAUL DOCK THIS NOON

SHOT HEARD BY MANY PEOPLE
Remains Have Been Taken to Oliver's Morgue Where Identification Will Be Sought

An unknown man shot and killed himself by placing a revolver to his right ear near the No. 2 St. Paul dock shortly before 1:00 o'clock this afternoon and the body has been removed to Oliver's morgue where an effort will be made to establish his identity.

No one seems to know him and he had not been seen about North Escanaba this morning. The body was found just off the road to Wells and was lying face downward with the hand holding a 32 calibre revolver under his body. At the time the body was discovered the man had not been dead very long.

A farmer passing along the road noticed the body and informed the men at the St. Paul dock office who in turn notified Coroner Dube and the police department.

After viewing the remains the coroner decided that suicide was too evident to make it necessary to hold an inquest and he ordered the body taken to the morgue. Apparently the man was about 40 years of age, weighed 175 pounds and was tall. He is well dressed, man's clothes and had 46 cents in his pockets. Several have viewed the body and no one recognizes it.

Max Kellerman, who is employed on the St. Paul dock said that he heard a shot at about 12:20, but thought nothing of it as many people are hunting rabbits in that vicinity. Later however when the farmer reported that a dead man was along side the wagon road near the dock, Kellerman remembered the shot he had heard and decided it was the shot he heard fired.

ANDREW SKAUG IS VERY ILL

Dr. H. W. Long was called over on the peninsula early this morning by a message that summoned him to the bedside of Andrew Skaug, who is very ill at his home a few miles south of Farmer's dock. It was not stated in the message as to the nature of the illness of Mr. Skaug.

Andrew Skaug is well known in this city and is a member of the firm of Skaug Brothers. He is unmarried and has made his home on the peninsula for a number of years.

GIRL "TOO PRETTY TO TEACH;" IS DISMISSED

Bethany, Pa., Jan. 8.—Miss Helena Kesterling, physical instructor to the co-eds at Bethany college, has been dismissed by the trustees because of her good looks. Five male students were dismissed at the same time.

Miss Kesterling is one of the most beautiful girls ever seen at the big college. She was prominent in all social and athletic affairs given by the co-eds as well as the male students.

It is alleged that the fair instructor was the flame which drew young students like a horde of fluttering moths.

"They would give me no reason at first for dismissing me, except that I was too beautiful to remain in the same zone with the susceptible students," declared Miss Kesterling today. The trustees told me that my beauty was likely to prove a hindrance to my work, but they could not show me where I had fallen behind in any way.

"When I demanded that they give me a reason for my dismissal, they said that I had walked to the postoffice after 7 o'clock in the evening with a young male student, and that was against the rules, hence I was dismissed."

"Those five boys that were dismissed were nice, gentlemanly fellows, and there was no reason in the world for executing them. I suppose they were seen talking with me at some time or another, and the old fogies who rule the destinies of the college decided that we all must go."

"Because a girl is pretty and lively she has no right to live in the zone they are supposed to reign over."

"Every Little Olive Tablet Has a Movement All Its Own"

Your doctor will tell you ninety percent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver. Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil, to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, are gentle in their action, yet always effective. They bring about that exuberance of spirit, that natural buoyancy which should be enjoyed by everyone, by toning up the liver and clearing the system of harmful impurities. 10c and 25c per box.

THE BEST TEACHER

Old Experience Still Holds the Palm

For real practical reliability and something to swear by, experience—plain old experience—is able to carry a big load yet without getting away-backed.

A Western woman found some things about food from Old Experience a good, reliable teacher. She writes: "I think I have used almost every breakfast food manufactured, but none equal Grape-Nuts in my estimation."

"I was greatly bothered with weak stomach and indigestion, with formation of gas after eating, and tried many remedies for it but did not find relief."

"Then I decided I must diet and see if I could overcome the difficulty that way. My choice of food was Grape-Nuts because the doctor told me I could not digest starchy food."

Grape-Nuts food has been of great benefit to me for I feel like a different person since I began to eat it. It is wonderful to me how strong my nerves have become. I advise everyone to try it, for experience is the best teacher."

"If you have any stomach trouble—can't digest your food, use Grape-Nuts food for breakfast at least, and you won't be able to praise it enough when you see how different you feel." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. "There's a Reason."

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

RESTORE GRAY HAIR TO NATURAL COLOR

The old idea of using Sage for darkening the hair is again coming in vogue. Our grandmothers had dark, glossy hair at seventy-five, while our mothers are gray before they are fifty. Our grandmothers kept their hair soft and glossy with a "Sage Tea," which also restored the natural color.

One objection to using such a preparation was the trouble of making it. This objection has been overcome by York who has placed on the market a superior preparation of Sage, combined with Sulphur preparation of Sage, combined with Sulphur and other valuable remedies for dandruff, itching scalp, and thin, weak, falling hair.

The beauty of the hair depends more on its rich, even shading than anything else. Don't have dry, harsh, faded hair, when a simple, harmless remedy will bring back the color in a few days; and don't be tormented with dandruff, itching scalp, loose, falling hair. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur

Hair Remedy will quickly correct these troubles, and give color, strength and beauty to your hair.

Get a fifty cent bottle from your druggist today, and prove this to your own satisfaction. All druggists sell it, under guarantee that the money will be refunded if the remedy is not exactly as represented.

Mr. Alfred Uihlein
Schlitz Brewing Co.
Milwaukee, Wis.

Dear Sir:

Answering your favor of recent date in regard to the influence of light on the quality of beer, will say that our observations, extending over the last twenty-five years, have convinced us beyond a doubt that exposure of beer to light has a very detrimental influence on its quality generally, but especially upon the flavor of the beer.

Not all beers are alike susceptible to this influence of light, pale strong hopped beers of the "Pilsen" character, that is, the type that is most favored in America, being especially susceptible, and acquiring, when only exposed for a few minutes to the sunlight, a disagreeable odor.

We have tested beers repeatedly in this direction placing the bottles into direct sunlight, and testing the same after one, two, three and five minutes exposure, found that the beer with three and five minutes exposure became undrinkable, on account of the peculiar odor developed.

The detrimental effect of light upon beer can be successfully counteracted by the employment of brown or dark colored glass bottles, and such bottles are therefore recommendable.

Authorities on the subject of the detrimental influence of light on beer are:

- C. Lintner, Lehrbuch der Bierbrauerei 1875, S. 343
- Beck, Zeitschrift für das gesamte Brauwesen, 1882, S. 370
- V. Huth, Der Bierbrauer 1876, S. 127
- Ney, Allg. Zeitschr. f. Bierbr. u. Malzfabr., 1878, S. 273

The latest and most exhaustive series of experiments on this subject are those by the well known scientist J. Brand, in an article entitled "Tests on the Protection afforded by the beer bottle glass against the influence of light." "Zeitschrift für das gesamte Brauwesen," 1908, page 333.

Yours very truly,

RW/B

"Beer bottles should be manufactured from reddish-brown glass, inasmuch as same will to a much higher degree than any other kind of glass, minimize the influence of the rays of light on the quality of beer, and will protect the latter against acquiring the disagreeable taste (Sonnengeschmack) due to the chemical action of the light. * * * * *

"In white and green glass bottles the beer is most affected by the action of the light. Such bottles are, therefore, absolutely inappropriate and should never be employed by brewers." (Signed) Prof. Dr. F. Schonfeld.

From the Illustrated Brewery Encyclopedia, p. 99 (Illustriertes Brauerei Lexikon.) Published by Dr. Max Delbrück, Privy Councillor, Professor at the Royal Agricultural College and Director of the Institute for Fermentology at Berlin. Berlin: 1910.

"Bottles of strong glass should be selected. They should never be of colorless glass, inasmuch as through the influence of light the beer will not only take on a disagreeable odor and taste, but will also become turbid." (Lintner.)

Extract from Die Malz und Bierbereitung. Published by E. Leyser, Director of the Brewing Academy in Augsburg. Tenth Edition, Stuttgart, 1900, page 680.

"The beer in the white glass bottle had taken on disagreeable odor and taste and was absolutely undrinkable. The beer in the dark bottles did not show this peculiar odor and taste." (G. Beck.)

Translation of Extract from Zeitschrift für das gesamte Brauwesen, 1882—page 376

"It appears that chemical changes are produced in the beer, which attains an exceedingly unpleasant taste and a disagreeable odor."

Extract from Letters on Brewing (Vol. 5) published by Hantke's Brewers' School and Laboratories. Dr. G. Thevenot.

"While beer quickly deteriorates when it is exposed to direct sunlight, such deterioration will eventually take place in diffused light."

Extract from Proceedings of the Second International Brewers' Congress held in Chicago, October 19-21, 1911.

"Beer acted upon by light soon takes up the very disagreeable so-called 'light taste,' and also a repulsive, skunk-like odor. Beer so affected is offensive to the palate of most consumers."

Extract from Beer Bottlers' Handy Book (By Philip Dreesbach, Bottling Expert and Instructor in the Wahl-Henius Institute of Fermentology.) 1906.

Dr. W. Schulze (Allgemeine Zeitschrift für Brauerei, 1888, p. 593) finds that dark brown bottles offer the best protection against the rays of the sun.

"It is interesting to note the observation that beer in colorless bottles exposed to diffused light will undergo a change, precipitating a heavy sediment and taking on a disagreeable odor and taste."

Extract from Die Theorie und Praxis der Malzbereitung und Bierfabrikation. Published by Director Julius E. Thausing, Leipzig, 1893, Fourth Edition, page 920.

"In recent years the observation has been made that the rays of sunlight effect a chemical change in beer. For this reason the use of beer bottles blown from colorless glass is diminishing, bottles blown from colored glass being chosen; the amber colored bottles, which, when held towards the light, show the color of light beer, are particularly to be recommended."

Extract from Die Praxis der Bierbrauerei. Published by G. E. Habich, 1883—page 786.

"It is a known fact that sunlight and daylight influence unfavorably the taste and flavor of the beer and care must be exercised in the selection of the bottles."

J. Brand (Zeitschrift für das gesamte Brauwesen, 1908, p. 333).

STUDY IN PRODUCTIVENESS.

Alexander von Humboldt said that South America could produce more human food than any other continent. Very likely he was right. The palm of productiveness, even for South America, he assigned to Paraguay, practically every acre of which is tillable. Possibly Humboldt was right there, too; but he overlooked many of the difficulties in the way of using that productiveness. Paraguay at present is a cattle country. Climate and range are perfect, says the Chicago Journal. But the insect pest can be endured only by the "native" range cattle, whose hides are as tough as their meat.

Effort after effort has been made to improve the breed of Paraguay cattle. Effort after effort has failed. The improved stock succumb at once to the insect pests. As a result, no refrigeration plant has been established in Paraguay, and none is expected. To the pleas of the cattlemen, the hard-hearted packers answer that they could not sell Paraguayan beef if they did freeze it. It is useful only for canning purposes—where it comes in to competition with the worn-out mule—or for immediate consumption by persons who cannot get anything better.

The one absolutely sure conclusion of modern medicine is that disease never originates de novo and that cases of contagious disease always take their rise from preceding cases. There is no spontaneous origin of life, and diffusible disease is due to living germs. Usually the germs of disease find their way from one patient to another through excreta. Hence the necessity for extreme care in the disposal of excretions of all kinds. Sewage becomes, then, the possible source of disease and must not be neglected. It is costly to dispose of it properly, but the cost is more than counterbalanced by the easily calculable money value of life and health to many people. When it was first proposed to institute sewerage systems the expense seemed to be an absolutely prohibitive factor. Now even small towns know that it pays. When Berlin found that the two little rivers, the Havel and the Spree, became sources of disease because blocked with sewage, the growing city made other arrangements, and her sewage farms are one of the sanitary lessons of the world.

Several aviators are planning to cross the Atlantic next spring. The world wishes them well, but would be pleased to have their preference as to epithets before the start.

CHAPTER II. A Lover's Quarrel.

WHEN Stuart reached the Gramercy park house a maid answered at last and ushered him into the dimly lighted parlor.

"Miss Nan is at home, Heria?" he asked eagerly.

The little Danish maid smiled knowingly.

"Na, but Meeds I'm rouse!"

With a groan Stuart sank to a chair. The entire house had been redecorated. An oriental rug of dazzling medallion pattern was on the newly polished floor. Instead of the set of Chip pendule mahogany the Primroses had brought from the south a complete outfit of stately gilded stuff filled the room, and heavy draperies to match hung from the tall windows and folding doors. The mother's velvet hand he saw at once. Of course she had not borrowed the money from Bivens. She was too shrewd for that. But she had borrowed it beyond a doubt, and she had evidently gone the limit of her credit without a moment's hesitation. He wondered how far she had got with Bivens. Could it be possible that Nan was with him tonight? No—preposterous!

Mrs. Primrose greeted him with an usual exclamation:

"Oh, Jim, this is such a glorious surprise! Nan didn't expect you till morning, and she will be heartbroken to have missed you even for a half hour. My dear, dear boy, you have no idea how lonely both of us have been without you the past two weeks."

"You missed me, too, Mrs. Primrose?"

"Of course I missed you, Jim! You're come to be like one of us. You know I've always loved you next to Nan."

She spoke with such fervor that Stuart shivered. It was sinister. She evidently felt sure of his ruin.

"We needed you here so much to help us fix up. We've had the good luck to rent our second floor to a young millionaire."

"Mr. Bivens, yes?"

"Why, how did you know?" she asked with a start.

"Dr. Woodman has just received an important letter from him, dated here, and he asked my advice about it."

"Oh—"

"Where's Nan?" Stuart asked, with sudden anger in spite of his effort to keep cool.

"Why, she's giving a little box party at the theater tonight!"

"And our mutual friend, John C. Calhoun Bivens, is presiding?"

"Why, Jim, how could you be so absurd?" she protested indignantly.

"I've been saving money for a month to give Nan this chance to return some courtesies she has received from rich friends. I need Mr. Bivens' money to pay the rent of this big house. But any attention on his part to Nan would be disgusting to me beyond measure."

"Yet he's the sensation in high finance just now," Stuart said, with an unconscious sneer. "They say he's destined to become a multi-millionaire."

"Come, come, Jim, it's not like you to be nasty to me. You know as well as I do his origin in North Carolina. His people are the veriest trash. He was at college with you."

"And how did you know that?"

"Not from you, of course. You've never mentioned his name in your life. He told me. He thinks you are going to be the greatest lawyer in New York. And I told him we'd known that for a long time."

Stuart turned his head to hide a smile.

"But of course he's not in Nan's social set. I told her the day he came that we would treat him politely, but draw the line strictly on any efforts he may make to pass the limits of acquaintance."

A carriage stopped at the door.

"There's Nan now!" the mother exclaimed, rising to go. "I'll leave you to surprise her, Jim."

Stuart heard the carriage door slam, and in a moment the girl he loved stood in the hall, the joy of an evening's perfect happiness shining in her great dark eyes. He watched her a moment unobserved as she laid aside her opera cloak and stood before the big mirror proudly and calmly surveying her figure. Never had her beauty seemed to him so dazzling. The smile was one of conscious power. The corners of the full sensuous lips curved the slightest bit as the smile faded and a gleam of something like cruelty flashed from the depths of her eyes as her head lifted.

Stuart, unable to wait longer, was about to spring to her side when she caught the flash of his laughing face in the mirror and turned.

"Oh, you rascal! To surprise me like this!" she cried, with joyous laughter.

"In all your pride and vanity!"

"You can't help being a little vain yourself, Jim, any more than I can. You know you're a stunning looking fellow. These Yankee girls all love you at first sight—the tall, straight, stoney figure, strong and swift in every movement, the finely chiselled face, the deep set, dark brown eyes under their heavy brows, that big masterful jaw and firm mouth!"

Stuart suddenly took her in his arms and kissed her into silence.

"ing—consciously or unconsciously, of my home—whether it shall be a hotel or a palace."

"It all depends on whether love is the bulwark!"

"It all depends on the man I marry," was the laughing answer. "I've always dreamed of you as a man of wealth and power. Your splendid talents mean this. When you came to New York I was more sure of you than ever. You've simply got to make money, Jim. Nothing else counts in the world today. I hate poverty—I fear it—I loathe it!"

"And yet," the lover said, drawing closer, "I hold the touch of your little finger of greater value than all the gold on the earth or beneath it."

"Don't interrupt me, please, with irrelevant remarks," Nan cried, laughing in spite of herself. "Seriously, Jim—you must listen to me. I'm in dead earnest. You must have money, if for no other reason because I wish it. I can't be happy in poverty. The man I love must be rich. Oh, Jim, you shall be! Wealth is the only road now from the vulgar crowd—the only way to climb on top."

"But suppose I don't wish to climb on the top of people?"

"You can't be such a fool!"

"But suppose I am? True civilization has always placed manhood above money."

"Jim, are you crazy?"

"It's true, dear. My father gave up his law practice to bend over my mother's bedside for six months. He was a giant in mind and body—she a poor little, broken, withered invalid. He lost money and clients and never regained them. Did it pay? Does anything that's born of love pay? Surely not children. I was always a dead expense. The biggest fee I ever received as a lawyer in New York was a shout of joy from a poor woman whose boy I freed from a false charge of crime. She fell sobbing before me and actually kissed my feet."

"Oh, Jim, why can't you be practical? Why are you not willing to fight for a fortune—as other men?"

"Because, dear," he answered quickly and tenderly, "we haven't time—you and I. Life is too short. Love is too sweet. The fields are too green."

"The man I love must be rich."

The birds sing too sweetly. Have you forgotten our old day dreams in the fields at home?"

"I've forgotten everything," she answered bitterly, "except that you are falling me when put to the first test. And it would be such a little thing for you to do."

"At the price of my self respect—and you call this a little thing. Great God!"

Nan rose with a sudden gesture of impatience.

"You refuse absolutely to consider this generous offer?"

"Absolutely!"

"And you are willing that the woman you love shall live in poverty while her more fortunate sisters laugh and dance in luxury?"

"The one joy of my life will be to gratify every reasonable wish of your body and soul!"

"Yet the most reasonable wish I express you refuse to consider. Mr. Bivens says he would make you a millionaire in five years. You're only twenty-six now."

"That's very kind of Mr. Bivens, I'm sure. When I need his patronage I'll take my place in line with other bachelors and ask for it."

Nan suddenly extended her hand.

"Good night."

He attempted to draw her into his arms.

She repulsed him and repeated her cold dismissal:

"Good night."

"Nan, dear," he pleaded, "we've never parted in anger before. Of all the hours of my life this is one in which I—least dreamed of such a thing."

Without a word she turned toward the stairs.

"Nan!" he called tenderly.

With a sob she threw herself into his arms.

"Forgive me, Jim."

"Forgive me, dear. If I've seemed unreasonable," was the low answer.

"But you will think it over, won't you? Just for my sake—just because I ask it—won't you?"

"Just because you ask it—yes, I will, dearest."

He kissed her tenderly and walked home with a great sickening fear slowly creeping into his heart.

(To be continued tomorrow.)

Stuart paused and laid his hand gently on the girl's white, round arm, and she turned, with a start.

"I didn't hear your last sentence, Jim."

"Of what were you thinking?"

"Of what a woman is always thinking—consciously or unconsciously, of my home—whether it shall be a hotel or a palace."

"It all depends on whether love is the bulwark!"

"It all depends on the man I marry," was the laughing answer. "I've always dreamed of you as a man of wealth and power. Your splendid talents mean this. When you came to New York I was more sure of you than ever. You've simply got to make money, Jim. Nothing else counts in the world today. I hate poverty—I fear it—I loathe it!"

OSBORN EVADED LAW, IS CHARGED

Atty. Barkworth Attacks Ex-Governor For Action in Eisy Shooting

Lansing, Mich., Jan. 8.—Attorney Thomas E. Barkworth, of Jackson, declared Sunday, in an address here the class in sociology at the First Baptist church, that one weakness of the system of American civilization is the absence of that which will inculcate morality in law and public business.

Mr. Barkworth cited the incident at Jackson prison when militiamen under Capt. Blackman killed John Eisy, a foreigner, during the prison riots. Barkworth assisted Prosecutor Bailey of Jackson county, in the investigation that followed. The case, he said, proceeded no further than the investigation, as Gov. Osborn had said that if Blackman were convicted he would be pardoned. The circuit judge and prosecutor saw the futility of proceeding further and dropped the case.

Ned York, Jan. 8.—Long Island's "beachcombers" are happily counting today the rich harvest reaped from the gale-blown sands of Far Rockaway, Coney Island, Manhattan and other beach resorts where the summer crowds are wont to disport themselves.

Every time there is a big storm the winds blow the top off these beaches and uncover to the eager eyes of hundreds of searchers thousands of dollars' worth of valuable articles lost by summer bathers.

$30,000,000 IN AUTOS EXPORTED IN 1912

Washington, Jan. 8.—Eleven thousand miles of motion picture film, or enough to stretch from New York to Manila, was sent to foreign countries last year by American manufacturers, according to a government report of exports. Motor cars and parts, including tires were exported to the extent of $30,000,000; also telephones worth $1,000,000 and aeroplanes worth $100,000.

The striking fact in the export of motor cars is the marked decline in price at which the machines are exported. In 1907 the export price averaged a little less than $1,000. Those exported were sold chiefly in British territory.

GIRL GETS $8,000 FOR HELPING PEDDLER ON CAR

Harrisburg, Pa., Jan. 8.—Margaretta Jane Brown's kindness four years ago in helping an old peddler onto a trolley car here has won her a reward of $8,000. The young woman, who recently became Mrs. Ray Mason Knesel, received in her mail yesterday a check for this amount, and note addressed "To the little girl who helped me on a trolley car four years ago." She had almost forgotten the incident. The reward was from Valentine R. Cortus and was mailed from California.

"Not One Cent For Tribute."
 The copper piece with the legend, "Millions for defense, not one cent for tribute," is not a coin at all, but a medal commemorating our troubles with France during the Napoleonic wars. Resenting our Jay treaty with Great Britain, made while George Washington was president, and angry because we would not take sides in those wars, France in 1797 began to attack our merchant ships, and we came very near becoming involved in war with her. We sent a commission over to try to arrange the trouble, and the French prime minister, Talleyrand, gave them to understand we could arrange it only by paying a bribe or making a loan to the French government. To this it was said that Charles Cotesworth Pinckney of South Carolina, a member of our commission, replied in the words quoted on the medal. This he denied, however, his reply being simply, "No, no, no; not one sixpence!"

Singular Use For Bread.
 Bread is used for many purposes, but the most singular use may be seen in some of the great watch factories. More than forty loaves of fresh bread are required each day in one such factory. It appears that from the earliest times in the history of watchmaking it has been the custom of watchmakers to reduce fresh bread to the form of dough by steaming and kneading. They use this dough for removing oil and chips that naturally adhere in the course of manufacture to pieces as small as the parts of a watch. The oil is absorbed by the dough and the chips stick to it, and there is no other known substance which can be used as a wiper without leaving some small portion attached to the thing wiped.

Alpine Climbers.
 In the earlier part of the nineteenth century many eyes of those who had been up Alpine peaks themselves denounced the sport. Regarding the ascent of Mont Blanc, Murray's Hand book in the year 1828 stated that "all who have succeeded have advised no one to attempt it" and nearly twenty years later noted the "remarkable fact that a large proportion of those who have made this ascent have been persons of unsound mind."

NEW MONEY IS IN BIG DEMAND
 Treasury Department Cannot Supply All Asked For

Washington, Jan. 8.—So great has become the demand for new paper currency in certain parts of the country to replace old notes, that treasury officials are now making a tour of the sub-treasuries to see whether some way can not be devised to limit the redemption of bills, which is costing more now than the treasury under present regulations can well afford.

"The demand for new paper currency is much greater now than the appropriation from congress allows to be fully met," said Treasurer Thompson. "We are trying to see if it would not be possible to cut down redemptions. I think sentiment has more to do with the demand for fresh money than sanitary ideas. As for the claim sometimes advanced that old money is dangerous to handle, it is worthy of mention that during the existence of the redemption department, not a single case has been known there of transmission of disease in this way.

"The life of a $1 bill nowadays averages a little over one year. In Boston I noticed a note presented for redemption which left the treasury only three weeks ago. The oldest and most worn notes come from the mining districts, especially those of Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Indiana. The extreme south is bad in this respect also. The New England district seems to be more particular about getting new money than any other section of the country."

Shawano, Wis., Jan. 8.—The advisory democratic system which prevails among the Menominee Indians on the reservation at Keshena is attracting much favorable attention.

Until a few years ago, these Indians were ruled entirely by the reservation superintendent. His word was law. He did all the thinking for his charges—the Indian was not supposed to think. But with the coming of the present superintendent, J. S. Nicholson an experiment was introduced which has worked out so well that it is no longer an experiment, but an established system. The idea, in a word was that, given an opportunity to exercise his own judgment, the Indian is not irresponsible, but will exercise as good judgment as will a white man. A council was organized to which every male Indian over 21 years of age belongs.

Has Power to Vote
 This body is given the power to vote upon all questions concerning the welfare of the tribe, and the superintendent has not yet failed to abide by the vote of the council. In fact, the more assiduous of the council has now become so strong that it were doubtful that any superintendent could proceed against the vote of that body, hereafter.

At the present time there are 436 Indians eligible to vote at the council meetings. When a question comes up for decision the superintendent of the reservation posts notices, calling a meeting of the council, not less than three weeks before the session is to be held. The sessions invariably are attended by almost a full quota of members. The superintendent acts as temporary chairman until a permanent chairman is elected from the Indians' numbers, after which his vote counts no more than does that of the lowliest of his charges.

Some weeks ago a lawyer living in the city of Milwaukee named Kershaw made claim that he was a Menominee, and produced credentials to show that he was a direct descendant of one John Corn, a full blood Menominee, and on the strength of them asked for adoption into the tribe. The question was put up to the council, and after a rigid campaign, the vote was taken; although it meant a dividing with him the periodic payments received from the federal government

FOUR BANKS FOR COUNTY'S FUNDS

The finance committee of the county board submitted to the members of the board contracts with four banks of the county between whom the county's funds are to be apportioned while on deposit. The four banking institutions are: the First National Bank, Escanaba National Bank and State Savings Bank, all of Escanaba and the State Savings Bank of Gladstone. Each bank furnished the county a bond of $25,000.

All Fortune Tellers
 "You are accused of swindling people on a fortune telling game," said the district attorney "Can you really read the past?"
 "No."
 "Well, I can."
 And he proceeded to read the culprit's rather stormy record.
 "Can you read the future?" inquired the judge.
 "No."
 "Well, I can to some extent. At any rate, I can tell you where you'll be for the next two years."—Kansas City Journal

Madison Has Mysterious Woman Tale Who Tries To Incite Family Disturbance

Madison, Wis., Jan. 8.—This city has a woman—a mysterious person, whose identity has not yet been revealed—who makes it her business to call Madison women over the telephone and give them startling information concerning the doings of their husbands.

"Is this Mrs. So-and-So," is the greeting that comes over the telephone.

"Yes."

"Well, do you know, I think it's a shame the way your husband treats you. I am your friend—a personal friend—and I think you ought to know what he is doing."

Then "she" deals in details which are enough to disturb the peace of a mind of any woman, unless she has implicit confidence in her husband.

The same kind of messages have been received in several Madison homes.

Thus far "she" has operated freely, and has avoided detection.

HEWETT GRAIN CO. SECURES JUDGMENT

Grain Company Are Given Full Amount of The Claim Made Before a Jury in McEwen's Court

The Hewett Grain & Provision Company were given a judgment against Charles Arnold yesterday afternoon in an action that they brought against the defendant for some provisions that had been sold to him.

The contention that was set up by Arnold for the non-payment of the bill was that he had sent meat to the Grain company in this city for which he had not received credit. The Grain company admitted that Arnold had sent them meat, but that it was not in fit condition to sell and that they did not dispose of it.

The case was tried by a jury who decided that Mr. Arnold should pay the Hewett Grain company all that they claimed and in addition pay the cost of the suit. The amount claimed by the grain company is $42.07, to which the costs will be added.

BEAVER SAFE IN MENOMINEE CITY

Menominee, Jan. 8.—No beaver hunting licenses have so far been issued by County Clerk Carl Anderson in Menominee County.

The principal obstacle in the way of beaver trapping," said an old time hunter this morning, "is that a man may not hunt or trap beaver on another man's land without getting a permit from the owner. The trapper is also forbidden to kill more than four beaver in any one colony or family

JEALOUSY IN THE CHOIR AT CHURCH

Michigan Judge Says Little Flirting Among Members Should Not Be Divorce Cause

Kalamazoo, Mich., Jan. 8.—Declaring that because a man flirted a little in a church choir with a singer was not sufficient reason for a divorce, Judge Bridgeman in Berrien county has refused a divorce to Mrs. Clarence Brown of Milburg. Mr. and Mrs. Brown both sang in the choir, as did the girl in question. "Church choirs have ever been the chosen habit of jealousy and discord," said the judge in denying the divorce. The church is divided over the affair.

MEN ARE NEEDED FOR WOODS WORK

Complaints are coming from points on Big Bay de Noc to the effect that the shortage of men for the camps is a matter that is causing no small amount of concern. It seems as though the shortage was never quite as apparent as this year. Of course there are about the small towns a few men who will not work anyway, but the supply of willing workers has been exhausted.

WAITING FOR THE NEW YEAR.

"Please, mamma, let us sit up until the New Year is in!" the children begged.

"No, no, children," said the mother. "You couldn't keep awake."

"When does it come?" asked little Katy.

"At 12 o'clock, in the very middle of the night."

"Big people always sit up till 12 o'clock, don't they?" asked Freddy.

He and Jennie thought that was the regular rule and were quite surprised when mamma said, "No, not always, but baby is often awake then."

"Baby later than the big people? How funny! But let us try just once."

"Oh, let them just once!" said papa. So at last she said they might.

It seemed great fun after supper to stay in the sitting room after 8 o'clock.

THEY ALL LOOKED AT THE CLOCK.

which was bedtime. They sat on the sofa and whispered about the New Year.

"What will it look like?" asked little Katy. "Will it look anything like Santa Claus?"

"No, course not," said Freddy, who was much older and wiser than his little sister. "You don't see it; it just comes. I guess there's a kind of splosion or something."

"No," said Jennie, who was even wiser than Freddy and quite a little grandmother. "You don't hear it, either. It just happens."

"How do you know it's come, then?" asked Freddy.

"Why, you watch the clock, and when it strikes 12 you know it's next year. You just feel it," said Jennie.

Freddy looked disappointed, but just then mamma called to them to come and play a game, and then afterward papa read some stories to help them to keep awake.

But dear me, it was a long evening. By and by they found Katy so fast asleep on the sofa that no one could wake her. Jennie and Freddy held their eyes open with their fingers until it was after 11 o'clock. Then mamma brought out some ice cream, and that waked them up. By the time it was gone it was a quarter to 12.

"Now we will watch the clock and listen for it to strike," said papa. "I'll shut my eyes," said Fred. "I won't go to sleep. You can listen just as well with your eyes shut."

"Better," said Jennie. "Don't you know how well blind people hear?"

So they both folded their arms on the table and laid their heads down on them. The clock ticked hard. It was five minutes to 12. Mr. Harmon put a newspaper over his face so that he could listen better. Mrs. Harmon dropped her book and did not pick it up for fear of making a noise.

Suddenly she heard the baby crying in the next room. She jumped up and ran into him. He was very indignant, for he had been crying for some time. She brought him into the sitting room. Papa got up to see what was the matter. Freddy and Jennie lifted their heads.

When the baby saw the light he stopped crying. Then they all looked at the clock.

It was three minutes past 12! Nobody had seen the New Year or heard it or felt it but the baby!—H. F. Lovett in Philadelphia Ledger.

Yield of a Grain of Wheat.
Very few bakers have an idea of the bounty of nature. A scientist of Cambridge, England, recently made an instructive experiment which showed that a single grain of wheat, sown in June, produced within fourteen months 576,840 grains, weighing forty-seven pounds and seven ounces. One acre of fairly good land will produce thirty bushels of wheat or 1,200 pounds of flour.

Filled Them All Full.

Old Lord Forgien, the Scotch judge, died in 1727. Dr. Clerk, who attended his lordship to the last, calling on his patient the day he died, was admitted by the judge's old servant and clerk, David Reed. "How does my lord do?" inquired the doctor. "I houp he's weel!" responded the old man, whose voice and manner at once explained his meaning. With tears streaming down his face he conducted Dr. Clerk into a room where there were two dozen bottles of wine underneath the table. Other gentlemen presently arrived, and, having partaken of a glass or two of wine while they listened to David's account of his master's last hours, they all rose to depart. "No, no, gentlemen; not so," said the old factotum. "It was the express wish of the deceased that I should fill ye a' fou, and I maun fulfill the will o' the dead." Dr. Clerk used to, add when relating the story, "And indeed he did fulfill the will of the dead, for before the end o' there was na ane of us able to bite his ain thumb!"

The Salty Atlantic.

Some odd disparities have been found to exist in the saltiness of the sea water in different oceans and latitudes. For a number of these A. Woelkowitz in his book, "Ueber den Salzgehalt des Meeres," presents ingenious explanations. The Atlantic ocean is known to be about one-sixtieth more salty than the Pacific and two-sixtieths more so than the Indian ocean. This is in spite of the fact that it receives considerably more fresh water drainage in proportion to its extent, an apparent anomaly. But, points out the scientist, the Atlantic itself supplies, by evaporation, most of the rain that ultimately drains back into it. The prevailing west winds, on the other hand, carry much of its moisture to Indian or even Pacific ocean watersheds. As no fresh water comes down to replace this lost evaporation the residue of the Atlantic becomes saltier. Inflow around the Horn and Cape of Good Hope alone prevents this process from going further than it does.

A Problem at Cambridge.

When Lord Rayleigh, the British scientist, was a student at Cambridge the examiners set among other problems one which they based on an article in a German mathematical periodical supposed unlikely to have penetrated to Cambridge. Only two men solved it. Mr. Strutt (Lord Rayleigh) and another. The examiners asked the other man about this problem. "Oh," he said, "I take the — (mentioning the name of the periodical), and I was very glad to find that, thanks to an article in the last number, that problem came out quite easily." When Mr. Strutt's turn came they expected a similar answer, but he astonished them by replying, "The fact is, gentlemen, that I sometimes contribute to —, and I could not help feeling greatly flattered that you should have thought my little problem worthy of a place in this examination." He was awarded the prize.

A Slump in Kisses.

A Frenchman who apparently has a good deal of time on his hands has been amusing himself by reckoning up the number of kisses he has given his wife during the first twenty years of his married life. He finds that in the first year he dispensed about a hundred kisses a day, or, say, allowing for birthdays and holidays, about 36,700 in the year. In the second year, this number was reduced by half and in the third year to ten a day, while in the fifth year his better half had to be content with two a day, one in the morning and one in the evening. What happened after the fifth year is "wrapped in mystery," but at the same rate of "progression" he probably arrived eventually at one kiss on the 1st of January every leap year.

"Counselor Therefore."

Sergeant Kelly, a celebrity of the Irish bar, had a remarkable habit of drawing conclusions directly at variance with his premises and was consequently nicknamed "Counselor Therefore." In court on one occasion he thus addressed the jury: "The case is so clear, gentlemen, that you cannot possibly misunderstand it, and I should pay your understandings a very poor compliment if I dwell upon it for another minute. Therefore I shall at once proceed to explain it to you as minutely as possible."

COMMITTEE REPORTS ON HOSPITAL QUESTION

The committee appointed at the last meeting of the county board to report on the advisability of selling the county hospital, submitted a report at the meeting of the board today. The committee reported against taking any action towards selling at present, but advised that the old institution be repaired and continued as a county institution. The report was accepted by the board.

FLINT'S LETTER

Severe wire trouble between Chicago and New York deterred trading today to a great extent, consequently what trading took place was principally by the bears, who did not fail to press their advantage, while Boston was practically isolated, the copper producers report showing an increase of the metal for December of over 19,000,000 lbs, caused a very heavy feeling among copper share holders and declines of from one-half to two points were recorded in the active issue. The large increase for the month was a decided surprise to the majority of the holders of stocks, and as a result traders are all at sea. It will probably take several days for the market to adjust itself to the changed conditions. Of course holders will realize, after a while, that this large increase does not take into consideration the heavy sales of metal, both foreign and domestic, which occurred the last week in December.

HOLES in the POCKET

"Look at that hole in the bottom of my pocket; no telling how much money I have lost," lamented a young man the other day.

After he had gone an old man said, "I'll bet he has lost more money out of the hole at the TOP of his pocket than he ever lost from that little hole at the bottom." He spoke with the wisdom of age. Most of the money goes out of the big hole at the top of the pocket and we don't worry, but we raise a great rumpus if even a dime drops out through the hole at the bottom. Moral.—Do away with the pocket as a money purse by starting an account at this bank.
