CONSTANTINE IS NOW KING

SUCCEEDS KING GEORGE, ASSASSINATED YESTERDAY, TO THE GRECIAN THRONE AT ONCE

DIES IN CARRIAGE TO HOSPITAL.
Was Struck in Heart by Bullet From Revolver of a Subject of Low Mental Type

(By Associated Press.)
Washington, March 19.—President Wilson today sent a message of condolence to the widowed queen of the late King George.

Greece is in Mourning
Athens, March 19.—Queen Olga, Princess George and Andre and other members of the royal family called for Saloniki today. A period of six months' mourning has been ordered. The church bells are tolling all day. The newspapers of the country are using black border on account of the death of their beloved king.

New King to Saloniki
Janina, March 19.—Constantine, the new king of Greece, left today for Saloniki. General Danglis has assumed charge of the Grecian forces.

Story of the Crime
Saloniki, March 19.—King George of Greece who was murdered while walking in the streets of Saloniki late yesterday afternoon. The assassin was a Greek of low mental type, who gave his name as Aleko Schinas. He shot the king through the heart.

The king was accompanied only by an aide-de-camp. The assassin came suddenly at the king and fired one shot from a seven-chamber revolver. The tragedy caused intense excitement. Schinas was seized immediately and overpowered. The wounded monarch was lifted into a carriage, which was driven to a hospital. The king died on the journey.

Founded Anarchist School
New York, March 19.—Schinas was an educated anarchist, and the founder of the anarchist school at Volos, but was soon closed by the government, was a statement made today by Demetrios Botassi, the Greek consul here.

Assassin is Against Government
Prince Nicholas, the king's third son, and other officers hurried to the hospital. Arriving first, Prince Nicholas summoned the officers and, speaking in a voice choked with sobs, said: "It is my deep grief to have to announce to you the death of our beloved king and invite you to swear fidelity to your new sovereign, King Constantine."

Crown Prince Constantine, who succeeds King George, is at present at Janina. He is expected to come here with all possible speed.

The assassin of the king is an evil-looking fellow, about forty years of age. On being arrested he refused to explain his motive for the crime. He declared his name was Aleko Schinas and in reply to an officer, who asked him whether he had no pity for his country, announced that he was against governments. Schinas maintained a perfectly impassive demeanor, which was suggestive of his being irresponsible for his action.
Notwithstanding the rapidity with which the king received attention, he was found to be dead on arrival at the hospital. Precautions were at once taken throughout the city and perfect order is being maintained.

INSPECTORS ARE NAMED

Mayor LeMire Appoints Election Officials Last Evening at the Council Meeting

Last evening the volume of business transacted by the city council consumed just forty minutes and the councilmen took care of the work with much dispatch.

The Fifth ward of the city was divided last evening into two voting precincts, owing to the fact that the number of votes cast in that ward is too great for one voting place. The portion of the ward east of the center of Oak street was designated as the first precinct, while that portion west of the said street was designated as the second precinct. The voting place in the first precinct will continue at the Washington school annex, and the voting place in the second precinct will be in the Hess building.

Mayor W. A. LeMire named as election commissioners for the coming election, John J. Sourwine, Attorney H. R. Dotsch and B. J. Mackilligan. The election inspectors named to serve in the several wards of the city at the coming election are: First ward, George English; Second ward, A. J. Stegath; Third ward, Martin Lyons; Fourth, A. H. Rolph; Fifth, ward, precinct No. 1, Con Gallagher; precinct No. 2, Edward McDonough; Sixth ward, Patrick Burns and Seventh ward, C. E. Snyder.

Besides several permits were given by the city fathers to have buildings removed to other sections of the city. Mrs. Mogan was present at the meeting and asked that taxes on her property be lowered, which was referred to a committee for investigation.

The board of public works were instructed to prepare plans for the building of a sanitary sewer in the southwestern part of the city, and make report as soon as possible to the council.

Were About to Leave for Panama With Their Spoils When Taken into Custody Today

(By Associated Press.)

New Orleans, March 19.—Charged with defrauding the banks here and abroad of millions of dollars through alleged manipulations of invoices, Antonio Musica, three sons, George, Arthur and Phillip and two daughters, Grace and Louise, were taken from the steamer just before their departure for Panama. Fifty thousands of dollars was found on Arthur Musica and much more on the others. They had nine pieces of baggage, which, it is believed, contained more money. The men are also accused of securing advances on invoices for cases marked "extra fine" hair, and when opened they contained "scraps." They were formerly in the business of importing cheese. In 1910 the father was arrested on the charge of short weighing, and Phillip took the blame and was sentenced to two years in jail but liberated, after a short time.

FIVE TICKETS IN THE FIELD

JUDGE YELLAND IS PREPARING THE OFFICIAL BALLOT TO BE VOTED ON APRIL 7TH IN COUNTY

EACH PARTY HAS FULL TICKET

The National Progressive Party Have First Place on the Ballot at Coming Election

Judd Yelland, judge of the probate court, is preparing the official ballot for Delta county and according to the instructions received from the state officials, the official ballot, which will be voted on by the voters of this county on Tuesday, April 7th, will contain five tickets.

Each ticket has a full set of candidates for the state offices, and the tickets will be arranged in the following order: National Progressives, Republicans, Democrats, Prohibitionists and Socialists. Heretofore the first place on the ballot has been given to the Republican ticket, but at the last election the National Progressives received the largest number of votes for presidential electors. The statute says that the places shall be arranged in accordance with the vote polled at the last election for the state presidential electors. Judge Yelland stated this morning that he had to receive advice from the state department at Lansing as to which should occupy the fourth position the Prohibitionists or the Socialists as he was not positive which party's presidential electors polled the largest vote last November.

Each of the parties have candidates for the following on the state tickets for the offices of justices of the supreme court, superintendent of public instruction, regent of the state university, a member of the state board of education, a member of the state board of agriculture and a state highway commissioner.

The only name on the county ticket to appear will be Geo. Mashek in the Republican column for county road commissioner.

Appended to the ballot one amendment will be voted for—the resolution favoring women's suffrage. It is possible that other amendments may be voted on, providing the state legislature passes them within ten days of the election.

PLANS ARE FORMULATED

FOR THE AGRICULTURAL EXHIBITS TO BE MADE BY THE CITY AND RURAL SCHOOLS FOR FAIR

Plans have been formulated by the directors of the Delta County Agricultural society and Supe. F. E. King for the agricultural contest for the school children of the city and rural schools as advanced at the annual meeting of the society in February.

The idea is to have the farming spirit become recognized more by the school children in as much as they are taking up agricultural work at the several schools and give the visitors at the annual "pumpkin show" a chance to see the result of the efforts of the farming lessons to the younger generation.

The plan adopted by the agricultural society is to offer a prize to the one of the five graded schools of the city having the best exhibit of products at the county fair. Each of the schools will be allotted a piece of ground near the city park, where they will make a garden and cause to grow different products, which will be transferred to the fair grounds in the fall.

In the country each student at the schools will be allowed to grow certain farm products on his father's farm (the kind will be named later) and bring them to the fair in competition with the other rural students of agriculture.

In order that this work in the rural schools might be improved, Supt. King has offered to have Jas. A. Wescott teacher of the agricultural department in the city schools, together with some of the senior members of the class to visit the rural schools and give lectures and practical demonstrations in the advancement of that study to the country girl and boy.

Charge of Agricultural exhibit of Schools—F. E. King, chairman, Geo. M. Mashek, Matt Fillon and Jas. H. Mac Donald, of Rapid River.

MEETING OF THE DIRECTORS OF THE AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY WAS HELD LAST EVENING

WILL BUILD A GOOD RACE TRACK

Approved The Action of President Strom of Joining the U. P. Fair Association

Last evening the board of directors of the Delta county agricultural society held a meeting and started to formulate plans for the building of a new race track at the local fair grounds and also took preliminary steps to devise ways and means to have the 1913 county fair and race meet eclipse all former efforts of the association in this county.

It was unanimously decided that the construction of the new race be started as early as possible, so that it will be in fairly good shape to use for racing purposes next fall, although it is realized that the track will not be in perfect condition for a year or more at least.

Plans were discussed for the advertising of the fair, and other general means of making the coming event a greater and more successful one than ever before was discussed. The action of President Strom in affiliating with the Upper Peninsula Fair association, as noted in The Mirror at the time, was heartily endorsed by the board of directors, that was recently launched at Iron Mountain.

Those who attended the meeting of last night were President Torval E. Strom and Directors W. L. Marble, Sr., of Gladstone; W. H. Wellsted, Sr., Brampton; John D. Colburn, Cornell; Owen Jones, Escanaba; A. J. Hen and F. X. Fontaine of this city.

The committee assignments for the year announced last night by President Strom are as follows:

Premium list—Charles H. Kimball, chairman; William E. Wickert, Geo. Jensen, John K. Olson, Frank Burleson.

Live stock — Dr. Ed. Shevaller, chairman; C. E. Ehner, Dr. W. J.

FOR LOVE OF A CHUM

Designated Also as "A Darling" and "Cut Up," She Had Heart of Gold.

BY GEORGE ELMER COBB.

"Don't trifle with me, Vera—I am desperately in earnest!" pleaded young Doctor Irwin.

"I'm not, Rolfe," asserted the bright-eyed, vivacious girl who leaned upon the garden gate that separated them. "I think too much of you to tell you a falsehood, and I am too young—oh, far too young, mamma says—to think of telling you the truth," and the flashing eyes looked clear and loyal, if they were mischievous.

The wholesome looking young fellow who had just asked her to become his wife, looked puzzled, then hopeful, and then he had a smile.

"I know you are the dearest, sweetest little midget of cheerfulness in the world," he declared enthusiastically, "and I am sure a good friend of mine."

"Never doubt that, Rolfe," said Vera. "But when you come to talk about becoming engaged—why, think of a romping cut-up, as everybody calls me, trying to pose as the dignified wife of Dr. Rolfe Irwin. It would shock everybody. Besides, dear," and her voice was as tender as was it honest, "with your career just commenced, I would be a drag on you. Not that I wouldn't share a crust of hard bread with the man I loved, but I am very proud of you, and I don't want to hinder you from making your mark in the world."

Doctor Irwin bestowed a fond look upon the little child-woman who was the dearest being in the universe to him. He bade her good-by, not at all gloomily, and started for his office. Vera stood following him with her eyes, a demure and thoughtful look on her usually smiling face.

"Poor boy," she said, and then she added: "I love him! I love him!" and her face, which with the red, red roses along the garden path, she ran down it, bursting into a happy song.

Vera had called herself "a cut-up." The young men of the town designated her as "a darling," her girl friends as "a love of a chum," and there was not an adult man or woman in Brandon who did not pretty nearly worship her. Her bright ways captivated everybody, and the victims of her mischief felt honored, rather than offended.

There was the pure gold of a noble manhood in Doctor Irwin, and Vera recognized it. She had liked him the better because he had accepted a piece of real injustice without a murmur. When his granduncle, old Simeon Dunn, had died, Rolfe was one of six minor heirs. They were each to receive $10,000, but it was contingent on the will and caprice of Mr. and Mrs. Egbert Dawson.

Simeon Dunn had willed all his real estate to them. They also were given a life interest in his investments. However, if mutually agreed, they could distribute these latter, pay off the minor heirs, and take a third for themselves.

This was the original intention of the husband and wife, and the lesser heirs had confidently expected their legacies. Then a terrific quarrel came up between them. It was regarding the old Dunn homestead. Egbert Dawson wanted this so that he might give it to a crippled brother. Sarah Dawson insisted on having it to present to a superannuated spinster relative. They could not agree; bitter feelings arose. They separated. The husband lived alone at one end of the village. The wife lived alone by herself at the other end of the village.

Egbert Dawson vowed he would never address his wife again until she spoke first. Sarah Dawson obstinately declared that not a word should escape her lips until her husband spoke. This action tied up the estate, and the minor heirs expected considered it a far look ahead before they would enjoy the goodly heritage they had anticipated.

Egbert Dawson had become a crusty, unhappy hermit. His wife shut herself up like a recluse. There was no heart that witty, sprightly Vera could not reach, however. Mr. Dawson dotted on her, and she swayed him as if he were a child. With the same smiling influence, she was almost idolized by the lonely Mrs. Dawson. More than once Vera had tried to bring about a reconciliation between the unhappy pair, but—neither would "speak first."

"Oh, what a splendid idea!" cried Vera, an hour after the visit of her suitor. "If it is only for the sake of dear good Rolfe, I am going to try it." Her eyes danced and her face showed eagerness and delight. Vera told her mother she was going down to see Mr. Dawson. She was soon at his home.

"I have come to ask a great favor," she told him. "You know there is going to be a mask party at the library hall next week. It is for the benefit of the old folks' home—want you to buy a ticket?"

"Two of them, if you like," readily announced Mr. Dawson to his favorite. "And I want you to go."

"No, no, child," resented Mr. Dawson gravely. "I am past the folly of dancing."

And then the little witch began her powers of beguiling. At the end of half an hour, even down to the mask he was to wear, Vera had prevailed in her coaxings.

Mrs. Dawson was not so easy to persuade. Willy Vera told of the good cause she was helping along. Finally she carried her point.

"Well, I'll come, dear," promised Sarah Dawson, "but it's just to please you."

The bright little schemer had woven quite a plot about the estranged and unsuspecting husband and wife. She took great pains to conceal from each the expected appearance of both at the function. Vera enlisted the cooperation of a number of her girl friends. Everything turned out as they planned. Mr. Dawson, arrayed in his best, and his wife, wearing a tasteful silk gown, a reminder of happier days came, saw and were soon carried out to themselves amid the enjoyment of the occasion.

Shrewd and watchful Vera had kept close track of them. They had danced together twice without recognition, when the bell called for unmasking. Vera arranged it so that just after a dance, they and herself alone were the sole occupants of one of the small rooms leading off from the dance floor.

"Unmask!" she cried gaily, her eager eyes dancing with suspense and delight, and the dumfounded husband and wife confronted one another. Both had enjoyed the unusual occasion, and Vera knew it. "Quick!" she demanded, with a roguish laugh—"who spoke first?"

"I did," declared Egbert. "Sarah, you're as sweet and handsome as ever. You can have the old homestead. I reckon you and I have made each other miserable long enough, don't you?"

"Egbert," returned his wife, glad to meet him half way, "I don't care a pinch of salt for the old homestead—I just wanted to have my own will."

"Well, you've got it," observed Egbert, "so let us kiss and make up."

The Dunn estate was divided soon after that, and Doctor Irwin received his little fortune. He proceeded to offer it and his deepest love to the wonder-working little miss who had brought it all about.

All the benefits of nasty, sickening, griping cathartics are derived from Olive Tablets without griping, pain or disagreeable effects of any kind. Dr. F. M. Edwards discovered the formula after seventeen years of practice among patients afflicted with bowel and liver complaint with the attendant bad breath.

AVOID WARMED-OVER COFFEE

Harj to Make the Beverage Palatable. Though There Are Uses to Which It May Be Put.

Never serve warmed-over coffee. It is one of the worst of warmed-overs and has little justification. If it must be done pour the coffee from the grounds, strain and set in a tight glass jar in a cold place. When reheating tie a little fresh coffee in a lawn bag and bring to a boil with it. This gives more of the fresh-made flavor.

Left-over coffee is good strained and kept on the ice until lunch, when it serves as iced coffee. This should have whipped cream and sugar passed with it. Have iced tea glasses half full of shaved ice and pour the cold coffee over it. Occasionally the whipped cream, sweetened, is mixed with the coffee, but tastes very too decidedly to make this feasible when strangers are to be consulted.

Paris Needs Skyscrapers.

Paris is realizing that it is faced with the problem of a greatly overcrowded business center, and the only solution of the matter seems to be the adoption of the American skyscraper, which is being bitterly opposed by the true Parisian, who regards the innovation as destructive to many of the famous structures and disastrous to the appearance of the city. It is a fight of the new against the old, and means the elimination of many cherished institutions and time-honored customs of the typical Frenchman of the gay metropolis.

Good Kindler.

In some sections kindlings are very hard to secure, owing to a lack of timber of all kinds. An inexpensive kindler may be made as follows: Take to one pound of resin three ounces of tallow, and while still hot after melting mix with fine sawdust, straw or any inflammable material and mold in small pieces about one inch square. One pair will start a fire in the stove.

TO INVESTIGATE THE RURAL CREDIT SYSTEM

Secretary of State William J. Bryan Issues Instructions to American Diplomats in Europe.

Washington, March 19.—Instructions to the American diplomatic officers in Europe to secure courtesies from the foreign governments for the American commission which is to visit Europe this spring under the auspices of the Southern Commercial Congress to investigate rural credit systems were issued today by Secretary of State William Jennings Bryan.

Before leaving office Secretary Knox gave the State Department's approval to the rural credit investigation but since that time the American commission has received approval by Congress and President Wilson, which gives it a semi-official status. In his instructions Secretary Bryan points out that Congress has appropriated $25,000 for the expenses of several commissioners, who will be appointed by President Wilson, to co-operate with the American commission. No salaries will be paid to these commissioners. Congress also passed a joint resolution directing the Secretary of State to "speak for the proposed American commission the diplomatic courtesies of the various European governments." In carrying out these directions Secretary Bryan has instructed the American ambassadors in Europe to secure for the commission "such courtesies and assistance in the line of its endeavors as it may be possible to obtain," and adds "it will be seen that by this joint resolution the commission under the direction of the Southern Commercial Congress is given a semi-official standing."

This act of Secretary Bryan raises the American commission to the standing of a semi-official body and assures it every facility that can be extended by the European Governments for the conduct of its investigations. The commission is directed by Congress to submit to that body a report on the subject of rural credit systems and the question of adopting the cooperative principle in all lines of agricultural production and distribution.

Though the Southern Commercial Congress began its efforts in a campaign for the adoption of rural credit systems it has received such strong support both from the Federal and State Governments and from private sources that it has been able to enlarge the scope of its work to include a thorough investigation of all forms of cooperative production and distribution in the agricultural field. Cooperative credit is only a part of the

WHEN HAIR FADES AND TURNS GRAY USE A LITTLE SAGE TEA TO RESTORE COLOR

A Mixture of Sage and Sulphur Prevents Dandruff and Falling Hair

When you darken your hair with Sage Tea and Sulphur no one can tell because it's done so naturally; so evenly. It is also splendid to remove dandruff, cure itching scalp and stop falling hair.

Preparing this mixture, though, at home is a messy and troublesome task. For about 50 cents a bottle you can buy at any drug store the ready-to-use tonic called, "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy." Some druggists put this mixture up themselves but make it too sticky, so insist you want "Wyeth's" then there will be no disappointment. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur" and draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. Do this at night and by morning all gray hair disappears and after another application or two becomes beautifully darkened and more glossy and luxuriant than ever. You will also discover dandruff is gone and hair has stopped falling.

Gray, faded hair, though no disgrace is a sign of old age and as we all desire a youthful and attractive appearance, get busy at once with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur and you'll look years younger. Inquiry shows all pharmacists in town here sell lots of it.

immense system of cooperative organizations which has spread all over Europe. Cooperative purchasing organizations, cooperative and municipal markets, where farmers' produce is sold by agents at a fixed commission, the entire balance of the proceeds going to the farmer direct, and cooperative associations for packing and distributing farm products, will all be investigated.

The Democratic national platform, on which President Wilson was elected, contains a plank endorsing the agricultural cooperative movement and President Wilson has already evinced a keen interest in the subject. There now exists a committee of nine Governors of States to consider legislation necessary for the organization of cooperative credit; and other associations. This committee, as well as the Federal Congress, will receive the report of the National Commission, and it appears now that next fall a nation-wide campaign will be waged in the interest of the cooperative movement among American farmers as a means to increase agricultural production and lower the cost of living.

Fete for the Lame.

In the little village of Varennes-Saint-Sauveur, in central France, a fete is to be held; at three o'clock there will be a walking race, and the festivities are to be wound up with a ball, to which the lame will invite guests less handicapped than themselves.—London Standard.

Man as Bad as 7,000 Years Ago.—Man has showed no improvement either in intellectuality or morals from the days of the earliest Egyptians and Syrians, 7,000 years ago, to the keel-laying of the latest dreadnought," according to a survey which Dr. Alfred Russell Wallace, known as the "grand old man of science," completed on the eve of his ninetieth birthday.

"There has been, of course, a great accumulation of human knowledge," he adds, "but for all that we are no cleverer than the ancients."

"There is still more abominable vice going on; every kind of cruelty to the poor and children; adulteration in every commodity, and lies everywhere."

"The average of mankind will remain the same until natural selection steps in to raise it. The outlook is hopeful."

Harmony of Colors.

The principle that the sensation of white results from the equal excitement of sensations produced by the three fundamental radiations is deduced naturally from an analysis of the rules of the harmony of colors. Colored lights do not focus at the same point; therefore the eye must sense different distances at the same time in order to see when different colored surfaces touch. The difference of refrangibility of the different colored rays causes some colors to stand out and others to stand back. Red is the most "flying" or "tapering" of the colors, a red object always appearing to be farther away than a blue object, though it is seen on the same plane and in the same light.—Harper's Weekly.

PREVENTING THE PREVENTABLE

It is, of course, worse than useless to worry about unpreventable misfortunes. It is worth while, however, to differentiate between the preventable and the unpreventable. It is equally worth while to work for the prevention of the preventable. And one is surprised to find how many of the losses and sufferings of mankind might be prevented if proper time and thought were given to them. Losses of human life through unnecessary diseases, destruction of food products through preventable causes, sacrifices of property through avoidable fires—they constitute an appalling chapter on social inefficiency. Only an approximate monetary value can be placed upon human life. The insurance companies make such estimates, but they are convincing only when considered impersonally. To say that millions are lost to the people of America through unnecessary dying, through the ravages of preventable diseases, is to state an economic fact unfeelingly. It is, none the less, a fact. The property loss by fire in the United States for 1911—the latest authentic figures obtainable—was $225,000,000. And any expert will say a majority of those fires might have been prevented by precautions of quite an ordinary character.

Chauver accomplished the task, but received fatal injuries while coming down. Biełowucci made the voyage and descended in safety. The aeroplane is becoming safer and safer in careful hands.

A Bavarian scientist proposes to establish a university of love where young men and women will be instructed in the proper modes of courtship and marriage. HER LAUDABLE EFFORT

BY EFFIE SAUNDERS.

"Do you notice any difference in me?" Inquired the little stenographer of the bookkeeper.

"Well, that depends," he replied, non-committally. "There is the weather and the daylight and so many other things one's supposed to notice a change in—"

"Oh, tell me all about that some other time!" interrupted the little stenographer. "I had the floor, and I simply asked you a question to be answered 'yes' or 'no.' I had reference to a change for the better. However, I know it would be hard for you to distinguish any added graces and beauties in me, so I withdraw my question."

"Thank you," murmured the bookkeeper, meekly.

"You'll be pleased to know that I'm a follower of one of the muses. I affect gymnastics—and they, incidentally, affect me! Of course, gymnastics in themselves are not my aim—rather, they were not. I once could see myself spinning around on one toe, rushing gracefully across the floor with outstretched arms as though to catch a streak of lightning, suddenly halting and spinning like a top; then vigorously repeating the performance with variations.

"You know, I really saw a fish and blood girl do such things. And she said it was easy!"

"I talked with her about it and, oh, she was so graceful, it seemed to affect even her tongue! While she talked she moved around me like a fairy, and I nearly fell over myself in awkward attempts to get out of her way every time she came near me! But she talked right on, and never noticed anything. She was so well-possessed, as a result of her dancing.

"So I grew more and more interested. She told me what she had studied, and how long she'd been at it—just two years—and what it cost for a course and, above all, how much fun it was!"

"I felt the need of something of the sort. When I'm out in company I sit still and envy every one, most of the time! It seems that I'm the only person on earth who hasn't a single accomplishment! And after talking with the girl who knew gymnastic dancing I could see myself calmly smiling at all my new hosts of friends while they begged me to dance for them. I could see myself, after much coaxing, rising languidly and, amid a breathless hush, pirouetting into a wonderful dance!"

"I could see club women begging me, as a favor, to help them entertain! I could see myself doing innumerable dances with wonderful men escorting me, throughout all the rest of my life!"

"Well, of course, I couldn't start right in pirouetting in graceful masses. I had to begin with the groundwork! That girl had to, too, when she began. It sounded all right. I thought I could hastily brush over the necessary foundations, and hasten onward to the heights.

"I'm still hastening, but the heights have gone up so high in the meantime that I've given up even wanting to get there! Do you know, in order to dance, you have to be able to swing Indian clubs to music, just as fast as you can go—whether your head gets in the way or not makes no difference—until it's just as simple to you as swinging your arm over a boat.

"Thus far I can manage to grasp the club firmly and put it back of my head every other count without muddering my neighbor—and I consider that this degree of dexterity is quite an achievement.

"Then you have to be able to bend forward, with your knees straight, and touch your hands to the floor. Now, the tips of my fingers come almost within a foot of the floor when I'm bent double that way, and I'm most appreciative of the early martyrs who had their muscles drawn out as far as possible. Unless I crack, I fear my hands will never touch the floor!"

"Then you have to stand facing front, and at a signal turn so that just the half of you from your waist up is facing back! I know it sounds im-

The time to buy them is when everybody wants to sell. Coppers at the present are selling from 10 to 25 per cent lower than they were when metal was selling around 14 cents. possible, but it's required and that's all there is to it. You just have to! It isn't the only absolutely impossible thing that I'm forced to do!

"But, anyway, I've paid my tuition, and they say it's beautifying, so I'm making it my ambition now to grow beautiful!"

"Oh, yes—I didn't tell you that. The reason I've relinquished the dream of dancing is that I discovered that my graceful adviser studied every day of her two years, all day long! I have been trying to learn in one hour a week, at night! I suppose now, if I fail to grow graceful, I'll find that it's because I should have begun trying as an infant, before my bones hardened. But as long as they keep the bitter truth from me, I shall continue to hope!"

"You asked me a little while ago," said the bookkeeper, "if I noticed a difference in you. I had noticed it before you spoke. I thought it was rheumatism!"—Chicago Daily News.

WHY CONNECTICUT IS PROUD

People of "Land of Steady Habits" Had Rare Foresight, and Are Getting Results.

Connecticut is proud to call herself the Land of Steady Habits, writes Governor Baldwin in Leslie's. She is slow to adopt new experiments in government. She knows that they often are two edged swords and cut both ways. Connecticut early adopted compulsory education. She has therefore always had an intelligent people. She believes in God, and has a religious people, largely Roman Catholic. But two states are smaller in territory, but 17 are smaller in population. She saw many years ago that the money to be made out of farming was, on the whole, less than that to be made out of manufactures in a state where the people had a well cultivated, inventive faculty and regular habits of trained industry. She thus passed from the ranks of the agricultural states to those of the manufacturing states, and she has grown rich because of the change. She still has, however, large farming interests—as large as they ever were. Her climate favors them. More varieties of trees flourish in Connecticut than in any other state. More varieties of birds are found there than in any other state.

KEEPING FLOOR IN CONDITION

Excellent Polish May Be Made at Home and Kept for Use—Use No Soapsuds on Hardwood.

Polishing floors is hard work, and calls for no end of "elbow grease." For a hardwood or stained wood floor, take eight ounces of yellow beeswax, one quart of Venetian turpentine; cut the wax into small pieces and pour the turpentine over it, and let stand in a vessel of warm water until dissolved, which it will readily do; then bottle. Apply a very little at a time with a flannel cloth, rubbing until there is none left on the surface, then proceed until the whole floor is finished. It keeps the floor in excellent order, and the polish is required ordinarily about once in six months.

Soapsuds should never be used on a hardwood floor that is oiled or waxed. All that is needed is to wipe with a cloth dampened in a little warm water—say a wash basin full, to which about two tablespoonfuls of coal oil has been added. One tablespoonful to the basin will be enough for anything unless very dirty. The oil should be well stirred into the water, the cloth just dampened, wrung out as dry as possible before use, and the floor polished afterward with a clean flannel cloth. This is good for matting also.

Adopting One's Parents.

If a woman will adopt, parents are the best material for the purpose. They will not be in subordinate; from the days when from the vantage of my high chair I clamored sharply with my spoon for attention, and received it, have they not been carefully trained in the docility befitting all good American parents? Nor, being in their safe and sober sixties, are they likely to blossom into naughtiness, large or small, so that the folk will shoot out their tongues at me, sneering, "Pray is this the best you can do in the way of imparting a bringing-up?"—And how much better than an adopted husband and mother! They will not go about tapping cigar ashes over my manly prejudices; they will tread gingerly and not make a horrid mess of my very best emotions. Yes; to all ladies about to adopt, I recommend parents.—From the Atlantic.

EVICTED VICEROY FROM HOME

Element of Humor in Recent Action of Petulant Government of New South Wales.

Australia is a land of political experiments. The latest of these is the eviction of the governor-general or viceroy, the official representative of the king. It is the government of New South Wales that has performed this astonishing feat, and the indignation which burst forth at the moment is giving way to prolonged laughter. Since the union of the colonies under the name of the Commonwealth of Australia, it has been the habit of the governor-general to live for a part of the year at Sydney, New South Wales, and for the other part at Melbourne, Victoria. Government house at Sydney is the property of the government of New South Wales, having been the residence of the governors of that colony before the commonwealth was formed; but the colonial government gladly lent it to the viceroy of all Australia for the honor of his presence in the city.

But the government of the colony recently took offense at the proposal of the federal government for the establishment by the commonwealth of a post office savings bank, which would have come into competition with the New South Wales State Savings bank, and rashly resolved to emphasize its opposition, hoping perhaps to frighten the federal government from its purpose, by resuming possession of government house and thereby turning out the governor-general. The deed has been done and Lord Denham has left the city, cheered all along the route to the railway station by the citizens, and presented on their behalf by the lord mayor with an address expressing love and loyalty, condemning the action of the government as an indefensible outrage on the national hospitality, and affirming the official residence at Sydney re-established. Alas for the spiteful landlord! There is in this affair the libretto for a comic opera.—Boston Herald.

ROYAL HEADS NOT ALL WEAK

Some Able Men Among Those Who Are at Present the Occupants of European Thrones.

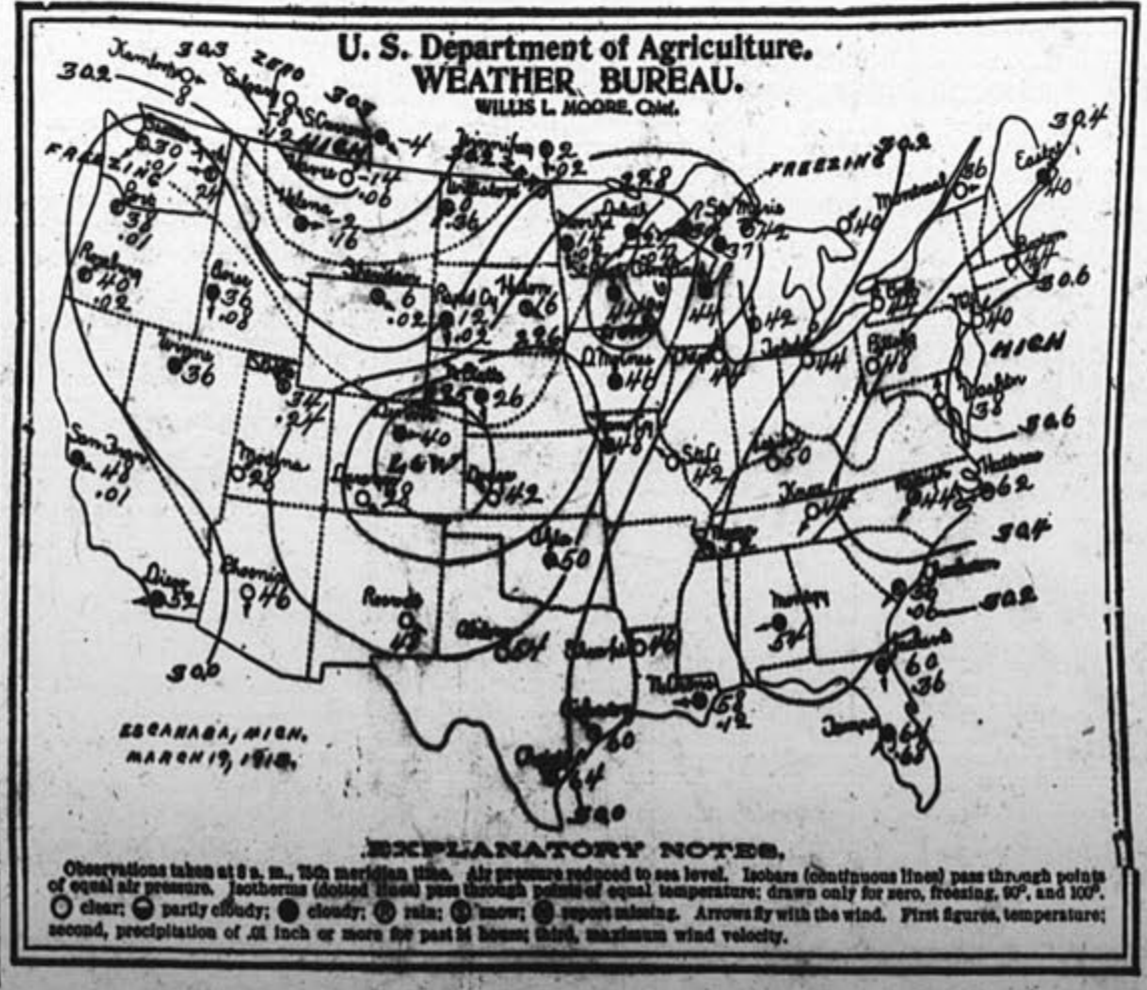

Though the kings and princes of Europe include some sadly deteriorated physical specimens, it would be a mistake to suppose that they have not some able men among them. Probably they average as high in mental ability as kinds did in the middle ages when they not only reigned, but governed. The German emperor is a strong ruler, and Francis Joseph of Austria has sailed his crazily built empire on a very even keel for many years.

Victor Emmanuel of Italy is a very prudent and clever man, who can think and act on his own responsibility, and Alfonso of Spain is a man of great spirit and an able politician. Ferdinand of Bulgaria is cutting a wide swath just at present, and is credited with brains. George V. of England is commonplace, but prudent. Accounts of the character and ability of the Russian Czar differ widely. Some who have seen him credit him with great ability, but the course of events in Russia does not seem to justify this estimate. King Haakon of Norway is undoubtedly a clever man, and King George of Greece has been an excellent diplomatic agent for the Hellenic kingdom, as well as an abrewd moderator of the personal ambitions of Greek statesmen.

Sun Power in Egypt. At Meadi, a suburb of Cairo, is a sun-power plant of unusual interest. It consists of five reflectors, each 204 feet long, whose cross section is in the form of a parabola, with the generator units at the focus. The last named are of zinc, built of rectangular sections 14 inches wide. To render them efficient they are painted with a black paint of high heat absorbing capacity. The water is introduced at the lower end and the generator at its upper end and is provided with silvered glass mirrors. The plant works best at a pressure slightly below the atmosphere.—Scientific American.

DISPLAY WINDOWS ANNOUNCE SPRING

Easter Bonnets and Spring Goods are Winter's Mourning—The Displays Please

The first robin has come and gone the kids are playing marbles, March 17, accepted as the first day of summer by the Irish, has passed, awnings have been hung over the iron bars, which support them and furnish shade during the summer, and various other signs of summer life have made their appearance during the past two weeks, but it remained for the arrival of spring goods and the window displays that were to follow to convince a large number of people that spring was really here.

Escanaba stores are announcing the welcome dash of spring and it is not over-reaching when it is remarked that the lines this year are keeping pace with an era when time flies. There is no harbinger of spring so emphatic to the women folks as the announcement of the first display of things which are to be in vogue. She has waited through long dreary months for spring when she could buy something new because they hate to wear the old things—bought only a few months ago—and though Easter is early this season, and they do not feel like rushing the season, still some friend better off financially, has decided to appear next Sunday in her new regalia, and "John, I could not think of going to church without that new hat," will be the "touching" story.

Just now the hats are receiving greatest attention and as they are to be quite small this year, men folks are feeling grateful. The hats will fit closely and are of small, long mushroom shape. Women who wore large hats a year ago, almost as big as parasols, find the little ones very becoming, and apt to nullify the years that have gone by and left their imprint.

Taken in all the women are as great pleased with the displays as is the merchant, who will receive her order.

MANY WOMEN REPLENISH TABLE SILVER WITHOUT COST.

Housewives Rush to Stores to Exchange Galvanic Soap Wrappers for Rogers Spoons

Thrifty housewives of this city in large numbers have taken advantage of the limited offer of the B. J. Johnson Soap company to exchange the wrappers from Galvanic Soap for a beautiful set of Rogers silver plated spoons. The wrappers are redeemed through the local dealers, the spoons given out at the local grocery stores.

The offer, and its prompt acceptance by many women of this city, have caused considerable excitement. The women save the outside wrappers from a hundred cakes of the soap, and in exchange for these they are allowed to select either half a dozen of the Rogers silver teaspoons, or three of the Rogers silver dessert or soup spoons. The spoons are of the exquisite LaVigne pattern, and are A-1 extra silver plate. No return other than the wrappers is asked by the soap company for the spoons.

The offer is an unusual one, the spoons being given as a form of advertising to introduce Galvanic soap into the homes of this city. It is too expensive to be continued long, the manufacturer says, and hence the offer is limited to May 1st.

Because of the limited time in which to secure the wrappers, many women of foresight are buying the soap by the box and taking their silverware at once. A prominent dealer, who was interviewed this morning, declared that this offer is creating more interest and excitement among women than anything which had ever before been attempted. He predicted that he would have to hire extra help if the rush continued.

QUICK THOUGHT, WITH NERVE

Incident That Shows Modern Young Man is Quite Able to Look Out for Himself.

A certain literary man, possessor of the learned degree of doctor, used to take his midday luncheon at a well-known West End cafe in London. One wet day the place was less fully attended than usual, and the miserable state of the weather induced most of the visitors to seek their various employments as speedily as possible. While proceeding to follow their example, the doctor was astonished to find, in place of his shabby and weather-beaten head covering, a stylish tall hat, shining with sparkling brilliancy.

He could only attribute this quasi-magical change to the delicate attention of some friend, and hastened to display the acquisition, with no little pride, to his family. The next day a young man accosted him at the cafe and politely remarked:

"Doctor, allow me to claim my hat and to apologize for the apparent mistake. The fact was, however, I had no umbrella, and you had one. I did not know what to do to prevent my new hat being spoilt in the rain, and, as I knew yours could not be made much worse than it is, I borrowed it, and now return it, with thanks."

SAYS PATENTS HELP PUBLIC

Give to the Citizen the Right of Enjoyment of the Property of the Original Inventor.

A patent right is not a monopoly within the true definition of the word, says a writer in Leslie's. It is not an appropriation from the public domain of anything. Every invention is a new creation. It is an addition to the world's knowledge and instrumentalities. It is the sole individual property of the inventor, its creator. The public has absolutely no right in it.

In behalf of the public, however, the government seeks to make a contract with the inventor whereby its citizens shall have the enjoyment of the invention at the end of the brief period of 17 years. The right then is the right to exclude others from using, or appropriating, what is, in the first instance, and continues to be, the inventor's own. It is the inventor that gives all that is given. The public is the real beneficiary.

It is because of this, and because the patent laws offer the inducement to the inventor to disclose his invention, that the public has obtained the benefits and advantages that have proceeded from the development of the arts and sciences under the stimulating influence of these benefits.

Rhubarb Mold.

An excellent mold for a luncheon or supper dish is made of rhubarb cut into lengths and boiled until sufficiently liquid to pass through a jelly bag. Then the liquid so procured is sweetened and stiffened with a little good gelatine. This should color quite nicely of itself, but if it does not seem quite of an appetizing pinkness, a few drops of carmine can be added. This is cooked till of the necessary stiffness to "jelly" well, and then poured into mold and set aside to cool. Whipped cream should be served with it.

Most Regrettable.

"I understand you have sold your beautiful country home, Mrs. Wuffles."

"Yes. We hated very much to part with it, but there was nothing else to do."

"It was a charming place."

"Undoubtedly, and it pleased us in every way, but we were unable to decide on a name that was sufficiently bizarre to look well in the society column."

FLINT'S LETTER

The assassination of the king of Greece and its far reaching results, was taken advantage of by the bears to depress prices on the stock exchange. Holders who have been somewhat shaky for some time on account of the European war and foreign money situation gave up and dumped their stocks on the market. The copper metal situation is extremely good. Despite the fact that exports for the first two weeks this month were over thirty five million there was a decrease of over two million in the foreign visible supply of copper. It is said that the Amalgamated interests have disposed of all their copper until May 1st. Personally I think that the next copper statement will show a decrease of at least twenty million pounds. Near the close the market showed some support and rallied sharply in New York so that the gains and losses were nearly even.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Stolk and children left this morning for Chicago, Milwaukee and Baraboo, where they will visit for a few days.

(TALKS ON BANKING)

WHAT IS SURPLUS?

Have you watched the accumulation of a bank's surplus with the idea that it represents only the reserved earnings of stockholders. This is true. A bank, like any other business, must show a profit. But it is more than this.

Surplus is the money of stockholders held in the bank's assets to GUARANTEE YOUR DEPOSITS.

A bank cannot be wholly used by its directors and managers to earn and pay dividends. They must and do (if they are sound) provide for the stockholder's earnings, a substantial guarantee of the safety of deposits.

This bank has a surplus of 100% of its capital, and here is what we want you to keep in mind and associate always with the name of this bank.

That the First National Bank pledges the safety and reasonable earnings of deposits by a strong surplus, ample capital, the double liability of stockholders and the character and integrity of its managers.
