DEPUTY GRAND EXALTED RULER

Turkey Dinner Served at 6:30 O'clock Enjoyed by one Hundred Lodge Members

One hundred members of Escanaba lodge No. 354, B. P. O. E., last night attended the banquet, initiation and vaudeville entertainment given by the lodge in honor of C. E. L. Thomas of Calumet, deputy grand exalted ruler of the grand lodge.

The feast was served in the hall promptly at 6:30 o'clock and these fortunate enough to be present enjoyed a turkey dinner of such delicious proportions as one seldom has the opportunity to partake of.

It was 8:00 o'clock before the feast ended and at that hour the regular lodge session was taken up. Eight candidates were initiated into the lodge, following which Mr. Thomas delivered a brief but stirring address on "Eldkom."

Later in the evening vaudeville performers from the Garrick theatre made their appearance and for an hour delighted those attending with song and dance.

Mr. Thomas returned to Calumet this morning.

BITTER FIGHT ON IN ILLINOIS SENATE

Speaker McKinley and Representative Browne Wage War Against Each Other and Trouble Follows

(By Associated Press.)
Springfield, Ill., April 17.—The bitter personal fight between Speaker McKinley and Representative Browne was resumed today. Browne attempted to introduce a resolution ahead of time and was ruled out of order. He refused to desist and Sergeant at Arms Klein, who is a Browne appointee, refused to force Browne to sit down and was removed from office at once by McKinley for failing to do his duty.

Then Browne and Representative Shanahan clashed, their war of words ending in Browne asking in harsh tones, "Do you want to make this house a hell?"

WRECK VICTIM HAS BROTHER IN NEW YORK

BELGIUM STRIKE CONTINUES TO GROW

POPE SHOWS IMPROVEMENT

TAKES NOURISHMENT AND SAYS HE FEELS BETTER THAN SINCE HIS FIRST RELAPSE

TEMPERATURE DROPS DEGREE

American Cardinals Prepare to Leave for Beside of the Head of Their Church

(By Associated Press.)
Rome, Italy, April 18.—The pope spent a good night and this morning his temperature had dropped to 97, there was a slight improvement in his bronchial trouble and his cough has lessened.

Although today's indications are favorable it is feared that the end may come at any time. The pope himself says he is feeling better. "This is the first day since my relapse that I have really felt relieved," he told his physician this morning.

Other improvements in the pope's condition were shown by the fact that he was able to retain a quantity of chicken and that he slept peacefully for a considerable time.

All his life the pope has been a great lover of music. The pontiff often asks for favorite hymns, which seem to soothe his restlessness and pain. During the most trying periods of his sickness he lay listening to the tones of a small organ in the adjoining chapel.

The pope is concerned at the trouble he gives to those around him, often expressing to them his deep gratitude.

Pittsburgh, April 18.—Cardinal Gibbons, who is here, has cancelled all future engagements and will leave as soon as possible for the Atlantic coast, prepared to embark for Rome at a moment's notice. Boston, April 18.—Cardinal O'Connell has made all arrangements to embark from New York immediately to attend a consistory in Rome in event of the pontiff's death.

40 HOURS DEVOTION

SERVICES CAME TO A CLOSE THIS MORNING AT THE HOLY FAMILY CHURCH WITH HIGH MASS

SIX HUNDRED COMMUNICANTS

Most Successful in the History of the Church—Many Visiting Clergymen

The forty hours devotion at the Holy Family church came to a close this morning with solemn services, with Father LaForest of Iron Mountain as celebrant Father Tastevin of Perkins, Deacon and Father Beauchene, sub-Deacon.

That the devotional services, which began Tuesday morning, were easily the most impressive and successful from a view point of attendance, in the history of the church, is attested to by the fact that there were 600 communicants.

Monday evening, as a prelude to the devotional services, the Very Rev. Father Barth, Deacon, lectured to a large audience.

The services proper opened Tuesday morning with all the solemn and impressive ceremonies that the occasion demanded, Father Barth, assisted by Father Tastevin and Father LaForest of Iron Mountain conducting the services.

Tuesday evening the services, of a most solemn nature, were conducted by Father Soudard of Rapid River. On Wednesday the services were of the same nature as on the preceding day, Father Tastevin delivering the evening sermon at 7:30 o'clock.

The close of the services this morning was especially solemn and impressive. Solemn high mass was followed by a procession and the chant of the Te Deum.

A large number of clergymen from throughout this section attended the various services.

In addition she is suffering from a shock and her return to her home will be delayed several days. She is visiting at the home of Samuel Stonehouse.

RAPID RIVER HAS A CLEVER ARTIST

Ice Jam Causes Residents of Town Slight Alarm—Waters Receding

The waters of Rapid River, which threatened for a time to flood the town that bears its name, are receding rapidly and the residents of the town are breathing more easily.

MURDERESS IS SILENT

CALUMET WOMAN WHO SLEW HUSBAND WITH AXE REMAINS MUTE IN JAIL AT HIGHTON

KILLED HUSBAND AS HE SLEPT

Children Were in Room When Fearful Murder Was Committed by Her Mother

Concerning the murder of Elias Kuusisto by his wife at Calumet the following particulars have been learned:

Following the murder Mrs. Kuusisto left the dead body in bed and went to an adjoining room, where she sat immovable till some hours later she was taken in charge by officers.

The Kuusistos had six children living at home. Three younger ones slept in the same room with the parents. One of these children heard a noise in the room and, judging from previous trouble, decided that something unusual was happening. He alarmed an older brother and sister, who notified the neighbors. The latter found the dead body of Elias Kuusisto in his bed, nearby a bloody axe with which the man's head actually had been split open from brow to lip, and an insane woman sitting in stony silence in another room.

This scene was the last act of a tragedy that opened last August.

Used Axe on First Attempt

Mrs. Sanna Kuusisto was arrested Aug. 7, 1912, on a charge of assault with intent to murder. She had struck her husband on the head with an axe while he was lying in bed. She admitted the assault, but offered such an incoherent explanation that it was decided she was insane and as she had been bound over to the circuit court she was referred by Judge O'Brien to a commission on her sanity, consisting of Dr. G. E. Gallen of Hancock, Dr. LeBlanc, the county physician. (Continued on Page 2.)

(By Associated Press.)
Washington, D. C., April 17.—Senator Works made a vigorous attack upon journalistic methods when speaking this morning in favor of his bill which makes it unlawful for District of Columbia newspapers to publish the details of crimes, accidents and tragedies. He maintained that such publications were deleterious to the minds of the readers and were a violation of good morals and decency.

The Senate approved the following appointments: William Roper, a former Princeton coach, appraiser of customs at Philadelphia; Jerry Sullivan of Iowa board member, United States general appraisers at New York; H. Clay Breckenridge of Kentucky, assistant secretary of war; Herbert W. Manson, collector internal revenues for the second district of Wisconsin; William J. Harris of Georgia, director of census.

DIRECT NEWS FROM THE SEAT OF WAR

Greek Furnishes Graphic Description of What Happened to the Turks

A brief but comprehensive description of the Turkish-Grecian war is contained in postal cards just received by the city editor of the Mirror from a friend in Greece who gave his services to allies when hostilities first broke out. One card reads: "I have just come to Athens to preserve and give honors to our late King George. I came from Janina which city was captured after a fierce battle, 32,000 Turks were made prisoner and 150 big guns were taken. Janina was one of the best fortified places in the world and thank God we took it without any losses."

The second is a trifle more graphic: "We have no more Turks to fight with. We cleaned them all out and those we didn't kill we captured, altogether about 88,000 prisoners. No more Turks, to h— with the Turks. This fighting Greek bears the name of Nicholas Glonopilous."

Coroner Hoffmann said today that the jury will probably order the arrest of another man and a woman.

She was evidently in a hurry and did not heed the warnings of the clerks who a second later heard a loud crash and upon investigation found the window broken and the woman slightly lacerated about the face and hands. She disappeared before her name was learned.

DEBATE IS CALLED OFF

CONTEST SET FOR FRIDAY NIGHT WILL NOT TAKE PLACE—"UNPREPARED" IS THE EXCUSE OFFERED

POSTPONEMENT UNSATISFACTORY

Escanaba Will be Declared the Winner of Contest Through Non-Appearance of Opponents

Pleading that the members of the Menominee high school debating team were unprepared to pit themselves against the team from the Escanaba high school in debate on Friday evening officials of the Menominee institution last night informed Superintendent F. E. King that the team would not appear here on that date.

The cancellation came as a great surprise to the local school officials and likewise proves a disappointment. The debaters had primed themselves for the contest and were confident that they would carry off the honors.

Early last October Mr. King was in communication with the school powers at Menominee and it was at their solicitation that the date for debate was set for April 18, although Mr. King desired either a date in February or March.

Menominee expressed a desire to postpone the debate but believing that "not prepared" was worse than no excuse at all, Mr. King called one of the Menominee school officials by telephone and stated that Escanaba would be prepared for debate on the date scheduled. He was told that Menominee flatly refused to appear on that date and the debate was called off and the rules governing the debate will give the contest to Escanaba by default.

On May 2 a dual debate will take place between teams representing the Ishpeming and Escanaba high schools.

A CARLOAD OF VAN DUNK STAKE POCKETS

Large Consignment Received Yesterday by the E. & L. S. Railroad Company

The stake pockets for use on logging cars, the patent of which is controlled by Van Dunk of Wells, are speedily coming into use throughout the lumber section, a car load arriving at Wells yesterday consigned to C. W. Kates and for use on the logging cars of the Escanaba and Lake Superior railroad company. All the cars of the company will be equipped with the device, which has proven by actual test to be highly efficient in the saving of time and as a safeguard to the lives of the men handling the logs.

Mr. Van Dunk is introducing the patent stake pocket among the largest lumber companies and the demand for the device threatens to exceed the output.

NEW STEEL WRECKER FOR NORTHWESTERN

Arrives in Escanaba and Will be Held for Use at Points on the Peninsula Division

A modern steel wrecker was received in Escanaba yesterday for use on the Peninsula division of the Northwestern railroad company. It will be held at this point for calls to all points on the division.

The inadequacy of the old wooden wrecker, which had been stationed here for many years, was demonstrated in clearing up the recent wreck at Bagley and as a result of that smash-up the steel wrecker was ordered from the Bucyrus company.

she hit him the first time with the axe last August, she said that God had directed her to do it, because her husband at one time had driven her from home with her babe in her arms, while he was in a drunken rage. But her vagaries this time took no active form.

Kuusisto worked at the Tamrack mine Monday and on Monday night returned home as usual, ate his supper and went to bed as usual. Whether or not there was anything to revive in the insane mother's mind the murderous suggestion this night never will be known. Her husband was sleeping, her three youngest children were sleeping in the same room. In the darkness she went into the yard, procured the axe, returned to the room quietly and almost in absolute silence brought the heavy blade down on her husband's head. He is believed to have died instantly.

SMALL CRAFT GUIDE TO FLY ONLY BY DAY

Warnings Will be Sent to Responsible Parties Who Have Facilities For Displaying Signals

The regulations in force last year concerning the display of warnings for small craft will be continued this year by Observer Jaki. The display was started Tuesday and consists merely of a red pennant flying by day time from the mast. Since small craft are not supposed to be plying the waters by night no provision is made for night signals.

The small craft warning issued by the U. S. Weather Bureau indicates that moderately strong winds are expected that will interfere with the safe operation of small craft, such as those engaged in fishing, towing, motor boating and yachting, but not of sufficient force to affect high-powered vessels.

Small craft warnings will be sent to any responsible person desiring them, who will defray the expense, if any, of the messages, and who, without cost of services or equipment will display the warnings of regulation size. This applies to boat clubs or any others interested in the safety of the small craft.

The warning is displayed by means of a red pennant the regulation size of which is eight feet at hoist by twelve feet fly. Such a pennant may be obtained from any manufacturer of flags and will cost about $3.

The warning will not, under any circumstances, be displayed except under orders issued by a Weather Bureau official.

It will not be displayed from a staff on which any other flag or pennant is flying.

It will be displayed during the day only and will be lowered at sunset.

The responsibility of the Weather Bureau will end with the filing of the warning message.

TWO IMPORTANT FACTS

to remember about Wild's Parquet Linoleum. It looks just like hardwood floors, and wears for years as the patterns are inlaid. The colors go through to the back. It is noiseless, sanitary, easily kept clean and less costly than hardwood. Ask your dealer. The genuine is stamped "Wild's Linoleum." 1247-107

Woman in County Jail

Mrs. Kuusisto is now in the woman's ward of the Houghton county jail. She has said nothing since the killing, at least had not up to last night.

Three of the younger children, the baby being one, have been turned over to friends. The other three, the eldest a boy of sixteen, have been taken to the juvenile detention building.

Kuusisto was about fifty years of age. His wife is about forty-five years of age. They have married children in addition to the six referred to and Mrs. Kuusisto is about to bring another into the world.

Value of Osteopathy

Man is a machine. Machines sometimes get out of adjustment. Osteopathy is the science of adjusting the human machine.

If you know of an isolated case where Osteopathy failed to effect a cure do not by that token condemn the science of Osteopathy. No doubt, by putting your memory to the test, you will be able to recall cases where medicine, or even surgery, failed.

While the curative value of Osteopathy, by putting the body mechanically in order, is great, yet its preventive value is greater, for a perfectly adjusted body is practically immune to disease. Everyone, when ill, desires to recover from disease, but it is even more desirable never to have had the disease.

Osteopathy is a discovery, a science, a system of treating diseases. Before the Osteopathic idea prevailed the first cause of disease was unknown. Osteopathy is sensible, logical, scientific, efficient and results of treatment are satisfactory as a rule, both to patient and physician.

Can't Get Away From It

Is it possible to nourish, strengthen and Rebuild the Brain by Food?

Every man who thinks uses up part of the brain each day. Why doesn't it all disappear and leave an empty skull in say a month of brain work? Because the man rebuilds each day.

If he builds a little less than he destroys, brain fog and nervous prostration result sure. If he builds a little more each day, the brain grows stronger and more capable. That also is sure. Where does man get the material to rebuild his brain? Is it from air, sky or the ice of the Arctic sea? When you come to think about it, the rebuilding material must be in the food and drink.

That also is sure.

Are the brain rebuilding materials found in all food? In a good variety but not in suitable proportion in all.

To illustrate. We know bones are made largely of lime and magnesia taken from food; therefore to make healthy bone structure we must have food containing these things. We would hardly feed only sugar and fat to make healthy bone structure in a growing child.

If we desired to keep brain strong and healthy, we would use food known to contain the things Nature uses for the purpose.

True, Nature provides these elements in a variety of edible things. We submit the following facts for those who care to know something definite on the subject:

Analysis of brain by an unquestionable authority, Geoghegan, shows of Mineral Salts, Phosphoric Acid and Potash combined (Phosphate of Potash) 2.91 per cent of the total, 5.33 of the mineral Salts.

This is over one-half.

Beaunis, another authority, shows "Phosphoric Acid combined" and Potash 73.44 per cent from total of 101.07.

Considerable more than one-half of Phosphate of Potash.

Analysis of Grape-Nuts shows Potassium and Phosphorous (which join and make Phosphate of Potash) is considerable more than one-half of all the mineral salts in the food.

Dr. Geo. W. Carey, an authority on the constituent elements of the body, says: "The gray matter of the brain is controlled entirely by the inorganic cell-salt, Potassium Phosphate (Phosphate of Potash). This salt unites with albumen and by the addition of oxygen creates nerve fluid or the gray matter of the brain. Of course, there is a trace of other salts and other organic matter in nerve fluid, but Potassium Phosphate is the chief factor and has the power within itself to attract, by its own law of affinity, all things needed to manufacture the elixir of life."

Further on he says: "The beginning and end of the matter is to supply the lacking principle, and in molecular form, exactly as Nature furnishes it in vegetables, fruits and grain. To supply deficiencies—this is the only law of cure."

The natural conclusion is that if Phosphate of Potash is the needed mineral element in brain and you use food which does not contain it, you have brain fog because its daily loss is not supplied.

On the contrary, if you eat food known to be rich in this element, you place before the life forces that which Nature demands for brain-building.

Mind does not work well on a brain that is broken down by lack of nourishment.

A peaceful and evenly poised mind is necessary to good digestion.

Worry, anxiety, fear, hate, etc., etc., directly interfere with or stop the flow of Ptyalin, the digestive juice of the mouth, and also interfere with the flow of the digestive juices of stomach and pancreas.

Therefore, the mental state of the individual has much to do (more than suspected) with digestion.

Brain is made of Phosphate of Potash as the principal Mineral Salt, added to albumen and water.

Grape-Nuts contain that element as more than one-half of all its mineral salts. We must remember that nearly 95 per cent of the brain is composed of water and albumen, but the little worker Phosphate of Potash must be present in order to blend the more bulky materials into useable form.

So with Grape-Nuts. The Phosphate of Potash is more than one-half of all the mineral salts, but the total volume of those elements is exceedingly small as compared with the greater bulk of other food elements contained in Grape-Nuts.

We should also remember that this small ingredient should not be put into the food in the form it might come from a chemist, because man cannot produce these elements in as digestible a form as Old Mother Nature, when she puts them in the wheat and barley from which Grape-Nuts is made.

A healthy brain is important, if one would "do things" in this world.

A man who sneers at "Mind" sneers at the best and least understood part of himself. That part which some folks believe links us to the Infinite.

Mind asks for a healthy brain upon which to act, and Nature has defined a way to make a healthy brain and renew it day by day as it is used up from work of the previous day.

Nature's way to rebuild is by the use of food which supplies the things required. Brain rebuilding material is certainly found in a very natural and perfect form in

WELLS NEWS.

Several families have moved from here lately to other parts of the country, some going as far as California. Our farmers are rejoicing over the coming of spring and all are preparing for the spring work on the farm. The I. Stephenson Co. is preparing to put in a large acreage of potatoes and corn. They are the largest farmers in this township. Our people are glad because the Escanaba traction company will soon extend their street car line to the new dam and pulp mill. Everybody in this township will be more or less benefited by the extension. William Breitenbach of North Escanaba, will clear and plant about 20 acres on his new farm here this spring he will also build a large house and barn on the farm. Mr. Breitenbach is one of our most enterprising farmers.

CAN'T PICK THE CONVICT

GENERAL GREEN OF IONIA SAYS AVERAGE MAN LOOKS LIKE THE REST IN CRIMINAL GARB.

EMPLOYS PAROLED PRISONERS

With Warden Fuller He Has Done Much for Uplift of Men in Ionia Reformatory.

Ionia, Mich., April 17.—Pick any fifty men you please from all walks in life and put them in prison garb, distribute them through the departments of any penal institution and the average observer could tell you he would know them for criminals anywhere.

This is a rather interesting summing up of the question of criminology by General Fred W. Green, who has spent years inside the state reformatory here in charge of the prison contract work and has been responsible for more practical uplift among the unfortunates here than perhaps any other individual.

General Green has devoted his effort to a campaign to offset the prison influence. With the basic idea in mind that prison garb, prison routine, restrictions and activity will bring a certain hand-dog expression and carriage that conveys an impression of criminality, he has conducted a sort of psychological work among the prisoners in the hope of making them immune from the usual effect of penal confinement. In other words, the general seeks to have all the convicts retain their self-respect and self-confidence and to make them realize that a term in the reformatory is a stepping stone to something better on the outside.

As head of the Ypsilanti Reed Furniture company, which had its beginning in prison contract work, the general is given the tools to carry out this broad idea of philanthropic work. The company has expanded and includes big factories for free labor and the men who lend themselves to the general's plan of reformation never need worry about getting employment upon release.

Warden Otis Fuller and General Green have worked together. Neither could be successful without the other, but the combination of a broad minded and sympathetic warden coupled with a contractor who constantly offers a promise of better things in the future for the prisoners is one of which few penal institutions in the country can boast.

"I never figure a man is bad because he comes here," said the general. "Indeed, I find average is but little lower inside the walls. Of course we do not get the worst types in Ionia but I have not been limited to Ionia for my prison experience. There always are the bad ones, incorrigibles who cannot be reached. It is hardly fair to count these in reaching an average, because they exist outside the walls and are not there counted, because they cannot well be recognized until they fall.

"It is the average prisoner to whom I refer. He makes one slip, often due to a little too much liquor. He should not be buried under the weight of a belief that his incarceration here means his everlasting damnation in the eyes of the more fortunate men. And so I make it my business to work along this line in a quiet way."

CHICAGO TO NEW ORLEANS BY BOAT

Long Discussed Project Will Become Fact in Establishment of Boat Service to Crescent City.

Chicago, Ill., April 17.—After years of discussion and agitation the "Lakes to the Gulf" project, aiming at the restoration of freight traffic by water between the great lakes and the Gulf of Mexico, is about to become an accomplished fact. The Chicago and New Orleans Transportation company has been organized to maintain a regular boat service between Chicago and New Orleans, and tomorrow the service is to be inaugurated with the sailing of the steamer E. S. Conway from La Salle, Ill., bound for the Crescent City. The route will be by way of Chicago Drainage Canal and the Illinois and Michigan canal and down the Illinois river to the Mississippi. The steamer Conway will carry about 860 tons of freight on its Italian trip and more than 100 prominent Chicagoans who are interested in the deep waterway movement. Officers of the new company believe that one result of their enterprise will be to make railway rates lower.

INCREASE FIREMEN FORCE ON LAKES

Three Watch System Will Be Inaugurated and Additional Deck Officers Provided.

Firemen on all ships in the Lake Carriers' Association will be divided into three watches, working eight hours out of twenty-four and a new deck officer will be installed on all ships of 4500 or more gross registered tons.

The new officer will be known as the boatswain, and will be paid $5 a month more than the wheelman, will assist the mates in handling the boat in port and will be in charge of the deck crew when the ship is outside. The addition to the crews of the larger boats is the result of an investigation that has been going on for some time to determine a means of equalizing the work on the larger and smaller ships. The new system also will make it less difficult for the officers of the ships to obey the Hardy act, and will materially reduce the work of the mates.

Under the new arrangement, on vessels carrying six firemen, the men will pull the ash pans, put the ashes overboard, break their own coal and do all the other firehold work. It will be the duty of the mates to have all coal delivered into the fireroom.

LARGEST CUT EVER RECORDED IN MICHIGAN

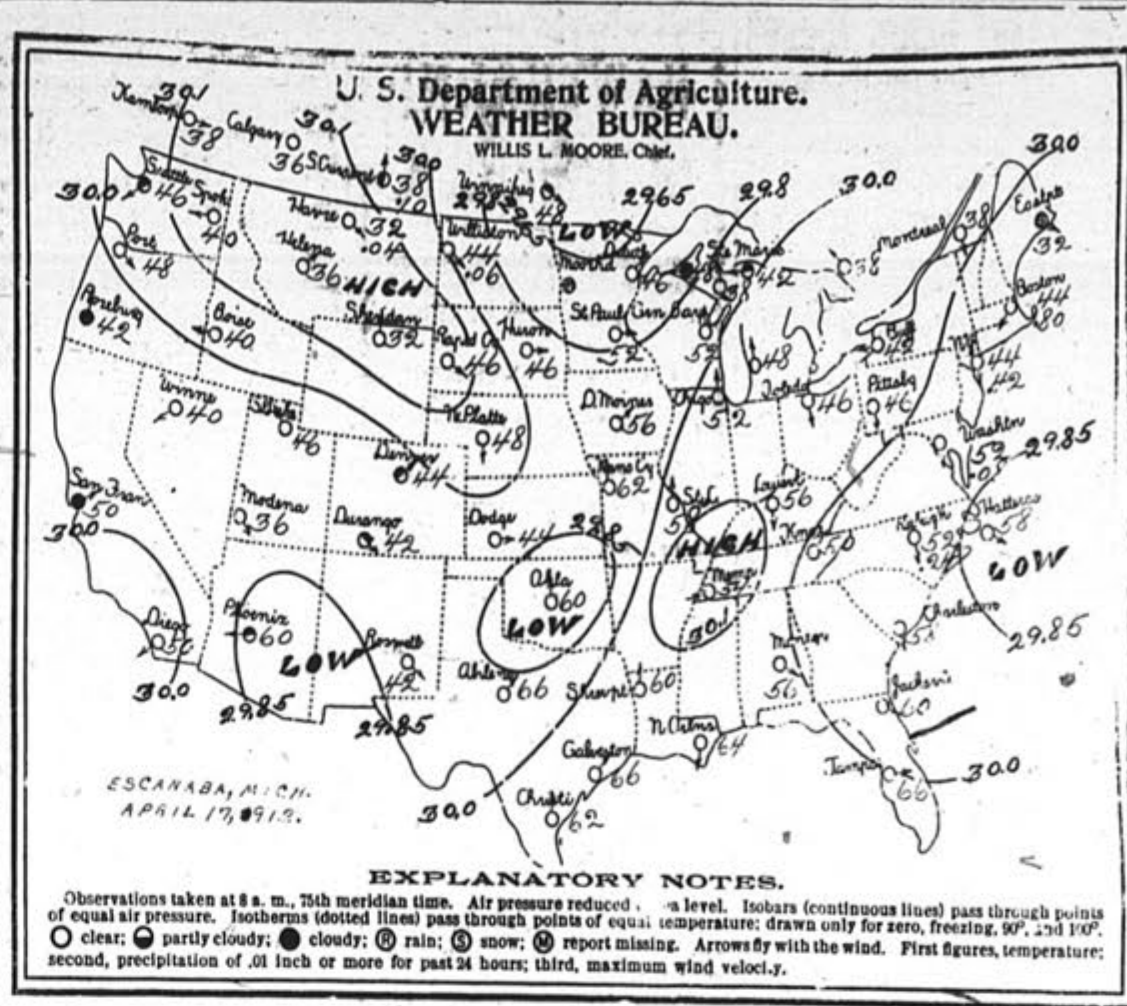

Last Winter's Cut of Timber in Ontonagon County is Estimated at 150,000,000 Feet.

Nestora, Mich., April 17.—The last winter's cut of timber in Ontonagon county, the center of the logging operations in the upper peninsula, is estimated at 150,000,000 feet. This input is believed the largest ever recorded in any one season in the district and is evidence that lumbering is still an important industry in Michigan's north country.

The biggest single cut of timber in Ontonagon county was that of the Holt Lumber company; it approximated 20,000,000 feet, all of which will be shipped to Oconto, Wis., for manufacture. The Diamond Lumber company, with mills at Green Bay, Wis., harvested 15,000,000 feet. Practically all the remainder of the Ontonagon cut will be manufactured in the region adjacent to the scene of the logging operations.

The Greenwood Lumber company, with 13,000,000 feet, was the most extensive logger of the home concerns, the harvest of the others—sawmill operators and logging jobbers—ranging from 10,000,000 down to 50,000 feet. The season's work in the woods gave employment to 2,000 men and many teams of horses.

Look for the cause of backache. To be cured you must know the cause.

If it's weak kidneys you must set the kidneys working right. An Escanaba resident tells you how. Mrs. A. V. Lindquist, 1401 Escanaba Ave., Escanaba, Mich., says "I suffered from backache for years and had a dull, heavy ache across my loins. I tried many remedies and consulted doctors but did not get relief. Seeing Doan's Kidney Pills highly advertised, I got a box from the Mead Drug Co., and began using them. I was surprised and gratified at the prompt relief they brought me. Two boxes removed my trouble."

The above statement was given February 3, 1905 and when Mrs. Lindquist was interviewed on November 8, 1911, she said: "I value Doan's Kidney Pills as highly today as when I gave my former public statement. I use Doan's Pills occasionally and find them to be just as represented."

EQUAL RIGHTS AMONG BIRDS.

"The male pine warbler takes no part in the incubation of his young. He believes in equal rights of women, takes no part in the nest building, watches his little wife gather the material and put it together, while he sits on a branch close by, pouring out his love in sweet, delicious notes. It's a case of everybody works but father," says Prof. William Brinckley, discussing "Our More Common Warblers," in a recent lecture. "There is no more varied group than that of the warblers. They are divided into two large groups, old world and new world warblers. The old worlders are smaller and more modest in plumage. Anyone who can tell a warbler on the wing is a marvel. The differences of species are very difficult to notice when the bird is flying. The only way to know a warbler is to know him from the earliest through the various stages of his plumage, which change as fast as the Paris fashions. Of the wood warbler there are 150 varieties alone. Their territory covers the district between Argentina and Labrador. In North America there are 55 varieties. Here they reach their greatest numerical strength. They fly at night and often take a 500 mile trip between sundown to sunrise. They are rapid on the wing, and often get ahead of the weather. They are easily harmed by storm, their plumage is quickly saturated with water and they drown."

A dispatch from Paris says that a movement has been started in the gay city to substitute a less meaningless phrase for the popular salutation, "How do you do?" In the first place, the French idiomatic phrase of greeting cannot be rendered into the English "How do you do?" but literally translated is "How do you carry yourself?" "How do you do?" is not insipid, but graciously suggests regard for one's friend by making it the first consideration to obtain assurance that he is in good health. This is the foundation idea of forms of greeting in all parts of the world, including such special inquiries as that of "How's your liver?" which prevails among the English in the trying climate of India. The probability is that even the mercurial French would not be likely to yield readily to an invitation to change in a day a custom of centuries. But Paris correspondents often are more concerned about amusing their readers than instructing them—and this discussion as to altering the form of salutation may afford an illustration of that fact.

The cockroach always has been an object of detestation to housewives. Now that physicians are indicting the cockroach as a disease-carrier equal in menace to the fly, public health officials will exert themselves to exterminate the pest of cockroaches in hotels, restaurants and bakeries. Lately it has been suggested that cockroaches may have something to do with the spread of cancer. There is confidence in the assertion that they carry the germs of diphtheria, scarlet fever and smallpox. Pulverized sugar and borax sprinkled in the dark corners that the cockroach loves is said to be a sovereign recipe to keep him away.

Vladimir has never ceased intriguing for—
"Prince Vladimir" she broke in angrily. "How I hate him! I hate him as bitterly as if I'd really seen him instead of only hearing how abominable he is."
"Why," faltered the king in confusion, "that makes it very awkward, Irma; for, the fact is, everything is changed now. Prince Vladimir and I are dear friends."
"Friends?" gasped Irma, incredulously.
"The very best of friends," her father assured her. "And you mustn't hate him any longer, my dear, because, you see, you are going to be Prince Vladimir's wife."
"Oh, no! It's—you're joking! It isn't possible!" the princess cried, her face paling.

"In diplomacy everything is possible. A treaty was signed today between myself and Vladimir between the house of Oberlech and the house of Halberstadt. And after spending a century at each other's throats we're falling on each other's necks."
"And I am to marry him? Marry a man I hate? A man I've been taught to hate because he is the enemy of our house?"
"Can you imagine a more fitting revenge?"
"But I don't want to marry him. I don't want to marry anybody!"
"You inherit that from me, Irma. I didn't want to marry, either. But I did it. And my only child is a daughter, which makes my sacrifice useless. It is your turn now, dear, to sacrifice. You can do your country a tremendous service. You can save it from blood shed and revolution. This treaty is a great benefit to Borrovina. It insures us perpetual peace and security. It makes Vladimir and yourself my successors on the throne."
The princess dropped her head sadly. Tears came into her eyes.

"But," she suddenly cried, with determination, "if I had to marry at all why couldn't I marry some one I love? And her glance again strayed toward the summer house."
"That is the price of royalty, my dear," answered the king. "The seat of royal affections is not in the heart, but in the foreign office. Come, come, little girl! You mustn't cry. Prince Vladimir and the chancellor will be here in a moment. I told them to wait until I had broken the news to you. They mustn't find you crying. There, there! Remember, this marriage is not forced on us. We consent to it willingly, proudly, royally."
"For the sake of our country," she whispered more to herself than to the king, "to bring peace and safety and happiness to the dear land I love, to serve the kingdom that is dearer to me than all the world—yes, it is worth the sacrifice, no matter how terrible that sacrifice must be."

"That's right," approved the king. "That's a good, brave little girl. So! They're coming."
He took her by the hand and stood beside her in the garden walk, a certain dignity ennobling his meager figure. The girl, too, forced herself to choke back the tears that blinded her and to stand proudly at her father's side to receive the group of men who were coming forward from the palace.
Anthony Hamilton Hawthorne took a quick step forward from his hiding place behind the summer house. His bronzed face had gone dead white. His alert eyes were ablaze. And his muscular body was tense.

"History is going to be made here in a minute or two," he muttered under his breath. "And maybe trouble too. And, as usual, the U. S. A. is going to be right on the spot when things begin to happen. Now for it!"
CHAPTER II.
"Remember your promise!"
A GROUP of men in court dress were coming from a palace. In the lead was a large, heavily made man, with a gross face. From many pictures the princess recognized him as Prince Vladimir of the house of Halberstadt. Behind him on one side walked his equerry, Radulski. On the other were Count Ivan Paulovic, state chancellor of Borrovina, and General Hohenloe, commander in chief of the army.

"His highness Prince Vladimir Halberstadt!" pompously announced Hohenloe.
"Ah, prince," said the king pleasantly. "You enjoyed your drive out here to the summer palace?"
"I had plenty of time to enjoy it," yawned the prince. "Your majesty's horses move like snails."
"A lover's impatience, sire," put in the equerry, Radulski, apologetically, as the king's sallow old face flushed a little at his guest's boorish rudeness. Augustus III. smiled civil acquiescence and turned to the prince, still holding his daughter's hand.

"Irma," said he, "let me present to you his highness, Prince Vladimir Peter Joseph Bojidar Halberstadt."
Turning formally to the prince, he added:
"You Oberleches are a race of little people."

"Her royal highness the Princess Irma Augusta Elisabeth of Borrovina." The prince slouched surlily forward, eyeing Irma critically. Then, as etiquette demanded, he knelt and kissed her ice cold hand.
"Princess," he said in brusque fashion, as though closing a business deal "the diplomats have settled it that you and I are to marry. If you are willing so am I. I think there's nothing more to be said."
Without waiting for the terror stricken girl to reply he left her abruptly and slouched over to the king.

"Your daughter is good looking," he commented, "but she's small. You Oberleches are a race of little people."
"Your highness," whispered Radulski "Tact! More tact. I beg of you."
The king at the same moment was muttering angrily to his chancellor.

"The fellow is impossible—a boor! We have swallowed fifteen such insults since lunch."
"I'm going to inspect the army tomorrow," answered the prince. "How many troops have you in Borrovina? And is it true you haven't paid any of them for more than a year? I'm told not an official in the government has had his pay for months except the chancellor, who also happens to be treasurer."
"Prince," interposed the king, ignoring his guest's coarse speech, "our arrangements for dinner will take us

And the next moment she was gone.
During the next twenty-four hours Anthony Hamilton Hawthorne of the United States worked harder than ever before in all his pleasantly lazy life. Certain idle queries of his led to unexpected clues. And these clues, with the help of a local newspaper man, he followed to some surprising conclusions.

He learned, for instance, that Prince Vladimir had not the remotest intention of waiting for King Augustus to die before declaring himself king of Borrovina. He learned that by incendiary speeches and by promises of money in that bankrupt community the prince had won over most of the tiny Borrovina army, General Hohenloe and a number of other high officials.

"Also," as Hawthorne classically expressed it, "something was due to break within the next day or two."
Just what that "something" might be, the American resolved to find out. Blake had been reconciled to staying a little longer in Borrovina by the arrival at the hotel of Senator Ballard and of the latter's daughter Kate, a wide awake American girl with whom Blake was hopelessly in love.

Blake and Hawthorne, with the Ballards, were standing on the hotel balcony next morning, for a procession was due to pass the hotel a few minutes later the betrothal procession of Princess Irma and Prince Vladimir. And the street was black with waiting people.
Blake, noting Hawthorne's unwonted air of gloom, drew him aside from the rest.

"What's the trouble?" he asked his chum. "Another clap been making love to the little girl in the garden?"
Hawthorne nodded.
"Cut him out!" exhorted Blake.
"Can't be done. I suppose you may as well know who she is. Her royal highness Princess Irma."
"The devil you say?"
"And then some," gloomily assented Hawthorne. "I didn't know till too late. There's something I want to do here. Then we'll take the suit case full of dough and go to Paris."

"You don't mean to say you still keep $100,000 bundled up in a cheap suit case?"
"Sure. Why not? Who'd think of looking for it there? Besides—

"But why not bank it?"
"In Borrovina? If they knew there was that much money in the country they'd never let it get out. I'll bank it when we get to Paris. Until then—"
A blare of band music cut short his words. The procession was nearing the hotel. In front rode a file of the life guards, the only regiment in all Borrovina on whose loyalty the king could rely and incidentally the only regiment that ever got even a portion of its pay.

Next came the royal carriage. In it sat the king, the princess and Prince Vladimir. His majesty was stiff and correct in his gorgeous attire. The prince was in uniform.

Irma, looking very much like a frightened mouse, sprang shyly back in one corner of the huge state vehicle.
"Well, well," Senator Ballard was demanding of no one in particular, "where's all the enthusiasm? In England there's a lot of cheering when the king appears in public. And in New York what?"
A sound went up from the crowd below as the royal carriage approached. But it had far more the semblance of a groan than of applause.

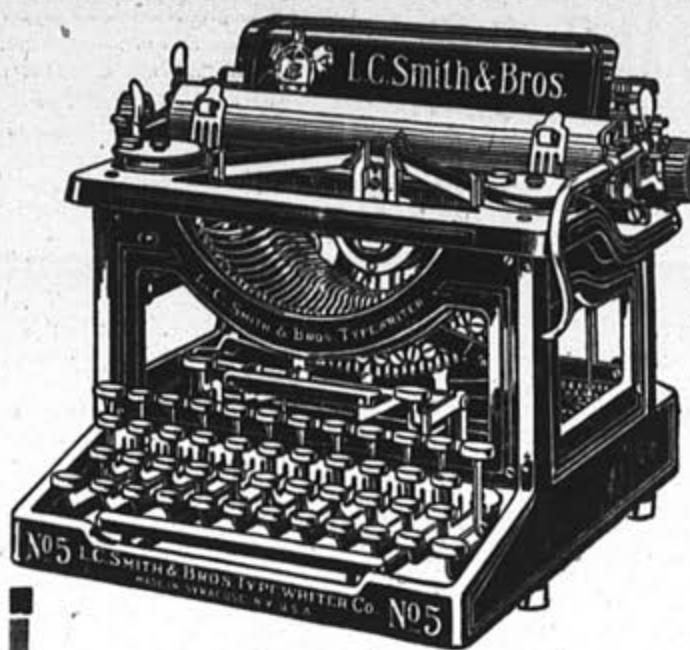

"His majesty doesn't seem exactly popular," commented the senator.
"But isn't the princess beautiful?" exclaimed Kate. "See, she's looking straight up here. Why, Mr. Hawthorne, it seems almost as if it were you she's looking at!"
She broke off with a little cry. There was a surging, eddying movement in the crowd just beneath them. Then from the thick of the press around the royal carriage there came a spit of red flame, a puff of smoke and the crack of a pistol. Then a melee of crass confusion.

"The king!" bawled some one on the balcony. "The king has been shot!"
"No!" yelled another voice. "The princess!"
"They have killed!" began another shrieking voice amid the babel.
But Hawthorne heard no more. With a mighty spring he had cleared the balcony rail and had launched himself bodily downward into the struggling mass of humanity that surrounded the royal carriage.

THE BOHEMIAN GIRL

One of the distinct novelties of last season was the revival of "The Bohemian Girl" by the Aborn Opera Company. This is the reverse of the usual case, as revivals are as a rule, lacking in novelty. Not so however, in this instance, because of the many innovations introduced by Milton and Sargent Aborn under whose direction it was, in its new form originally presented, at The Peterson Friday April 18.

WEATHER CONDITIONS

The weather has been fair over nearly all portions of the country since yesterday morning; and, except for a change to cooler weather over some north-western states, temperatures have remained stationary. The low pressure area noted over the Rockies yesterday morning, has advanced to the western Mississippi Valley, but has not thus far caused any precipitation of consequence, and will not likely cause any precipitation in this vicinity within the following 36 hours. Generally fair weather is therefore indicated for this vicinity tonight and Friday, with a change to cooler Friday. The winds will be moderate south, shifting to west.

Senate Passes Scott Vagrancy Bill to Give Police Increased Powers.

Lansing, Mich., April 17.—Cleanups such as the police never before in Michigan have dreamed of will be possible if the Scott vagrancy bill, passed in the senate is similarly treated by the house.

The Scott bill giving the police departments of the state tremendous power over the ordinary street tough and loafer is the direct result of the agitation by the Detroit police department for means of reaching young men who seldom work, always appear to have money, hang around pool-rooms and saloons, but do nothing by which the police can secure a hold upon them.

Police Commissioner Croul wanted it also, particularly to reach a growing class of men in Detroit—that nameless class that derives support from women's shame in whole or in part, but against whom it is almost impossible to secure evidence.

Under the Scott bill the police may arrest all persons having no visible means of support, and who live without employment, all who wander about streets, wharves, depots and other public places, those who sleep in saloons, markets, sheds or uninhabited buildings, who loiter about places known to be harbors for thieves, all hangers-on around poolrooms, gambling houses and race tracks, beggars, habitual drunkards who is complained of by any member of the family.

One of the strongest provisions is that which gives the police power to arrest any man officially reported to them by some other police department as a criminal and who is not following an honest occupation. The police may give him 24 hours to leave the jurisdiction. All arrests for these offenses may be made on sight without warrant.

RAPID RIVER GOES OVER ITS BANKS

George Bernard, Sixteen Years of Age, Complimented by President Wilson on Drawing

Rapid River has a celebrity in the person of George Bernard, a sixteen year old youngster, who has developed remarkable skill with the pen and who in addition shows decided ability as a cartoonist.

The boy recently sketched a likeness of President Wilson which he sent to the president. In return he received a letter, which he treasures highly, thanking him for the sketch and complimenting him upon it.

The young man has a large number of pen and ink sketches, cartooning men in the public eye, that an experienced cartoonist might well point to with pride.

How One Woman Saves Expense.

One woman at least in this city has found a remedy for the high cost of living. Instead of buying her Soaps, Toilet Articles, Foodstuffs, Sewing Supplies, Stationery and other household supplies at the store and paying big prices for them she buys them direct from the manufacturer by the Larkin "Factory-to-Family" plan. What she saves in this way (and it is usually one-half the cost of the article) is returned to her by the Larkin Co. in the form of extra products. In this way she gets $2 worth of household supplies for every dollar she spends. This plan can be used by any woman just as successfully as it is by her. It means a saving of one dollar, two dollars, or three dollars a week; according to the amount of household supplies you use. Write to the Larkin Co., Buffalo, N. Y., for their large Catalog R 143. It explains this "Factory-to-Family" method of dealing and describes the various products (over 500 in number) which the Larkin Co. make.

"THE ROSE MAID"
"The Rose Maid," Werba and Leuschner's spectacular sister opera to "The Spring Maid," which is soon to come to this city, has been much praised for its beauty, its wealth of charming melody, and the great size of its company; but reviewers have devoted remarkable space to its members from a strictly vocal point of view. It is said to be the most important organization of singers that have been gathered for any light opera. Its cast, as it came from the remarkable New York run, has as its star Allice Lloyd, the most famous of all English singing comedienne, and includes Juliette Lange, the Russian singer, Ida Van tine, Jeannette Gaillard, in a typical French role; Arthur Clough, a tenor of vocal ability whose acting has been considered unusual in a tenor; Leo Stark, H. Tyler Brooke, the English baritone, Harry Lester Mason, Harley Knoles and Edwin Clark, besides a chorus for which it is at last claimed that a chorus of beauty has been gathered whose members can sing.

Observer Jakl of the local weather station made an attempt yesterday afternoon but because of the cracked condition of the ice, the water and slush that covered it he was unable to accomplish his purpose. JUNGLE GIRLS PLEASE PATRONS OF GARRICK

Performance at Vaudeville House
This Afternoon Delighted
Big Audience

The vaudeville act which opened at the Garrick at a matinee today for the last half of the week scored a big success and is one of the rare treats in comedy of the season. The company is "Tom Linton and his Jungle Girls," comprising nine people and is one of the breeziest and most unique acts ever presented on in Escanaba. It is a condensed musical comedy, neatly costumed and well done, abounding in clean comedy, with bright, catchy songs. Mr. Linton calls the act a "tropical oddity," all of which it is and then some.

Mr. Linton carries out an artistic and clever performance in the role of "I Vorhies Hope," the timid missionary who lands unceremoniously on the island, and proceeds to investigate the jungle land. He winds up as king of the "lonely" isle where he is made monarch of all he surveys and fifty-two women subjects. His fall from grace is as rapid as it is alarming. One humorous situation was the attack by a ferocious lion and its being frightened away when Mr. Linton threatened to send "Teddy Roosevelt" after it. The whole act constitutes plenty of action and many a laugh.

DELTA COUNTIANS 2 TO 1 AGAINST SUFFRAGETTE

Official Vote Shows That Amendment Lost in County by Vote of 2299 to 1156

Delta county residents, the voters at least, believe that the suffragette is not a consummation devoutly to be wished for the canvass of the votes cast at the recent election, completed by the board of canvassers at three o'clock this afternoon shows that the amendment providing for suffrage for women, met defeat by a vote of almost two to one. 1156 voted "Yes" on the amendment and 2299 voted "No."

On the firm's pension amendment the vote stood, Yes, 1723, No. 1503, while on the Referendum 1639 voted for and 1328 against the amendment. The constitutional amendment vote was, Yes 1600, No. 1347. For the Recall, 1831 voted as favoring it and 1230 voted against it. The Alms house amendment carried in this county by a vote of 1774 to 1525.

The official vote for the candidates for Justices of the Supreme court follows: Joseph H. Steerer, R. 1431; Joseph B. Moore, R. 1384; August G. Cook, R. 876; Willard J. Turner, P. 867; Rollin H. Person, D. 821; Alfred J. Murphy, D. 822.

Room for Courage.
There is no duty so small, no trial so slight, that it does not afford room for courage. It has a meaning and value for every phase of existence; for the workshop and for the battlefield, for the thronged city and for the lonely desert, for the sick room and for the market place, for the study and for the counting house, for the church and for the drawing room. For courage is just strength of heart, and the strong heart makes itself felt everywhere, and lifts up the whole of life, and ennobles it, and makes it move directly to its chosen aim.—Henry van Dyke.

RINGERS BANQUET AT EXPENSE OF SINGERS

Knights of Pythias Enjoy Feast in Odd Fellows Hall—Advice on Attendance

The Ringers of the Escanaba lodge Knights of Pythias celebrated their victory over the Singers last night with a banquet enjoyed at the expense of the latter. The feast was the direct result of an attendance contest which has just closed. The members were divided into two factions and it was agreed that the side showing the lowest percentage of attendance in a given time should provide a feast for the more punctual ones. The Ringers won out and in the short talks which followed the banquet they gave their delinquent brethren some excellent advice on lodge attendance.

ENTERTAINMENT AT HOLY FAMILY

Plans Have Been Made for Lunch and Fine Program for Next Monday Night at Fiat Rock

Rev. Fr. Beauchene who was in the city this afternoon says that the people of his church at Fiat Rock have arranged a very fine program of dialogues and speaking for next Monday night. In addition a luncheon will be served and the price of admission has been set at 25 cents. The program will take up the larger part of the evening and everyone is invited to attend.

BILL GIVES VETERANS THEIR TRANSPORTATION

Measure Providing Appropriation to Pay Way of Old Soldiers to Gettysburg With the Governor

A bill providing for an appropriation to pay the actual railroad fare or transportation, to the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the battle of Gettysburg, to be held at Gettysburg, Pennsylvania, July 1, 2 and 3, 1913, of all union or confederate soldiers of the civil war, who were present and participated in that battle, has been presented to the Governor for his approval. The bill further provides that the veteran benefiting through the appropriation must have been a resident of the state of Michigan six months prior to January 1, 1913.

LIVES ARE LOST IN BURNING HOTEL

Malone, N. Y., April 17.—Seven were burned to death and fifteen were injured, when the DeWilson hotel burned this morning. Thirty of the guests were in bed at the time the fire started and were cut off from escape by the fire which had burned the stairways. Two women jumped from the third floor and were seriously injured.

Many were overcome by the flames in the hallways and the firemen made a heroic effort to save as many as they could, but the flames had a big start. The building collapsed within a short time after the fire started, burying seven people who had been unable to get out.

FLINT'S LETTER

Today's stock market was just as strong as it was weak yesterday. The report that all copper producing agencies had advanced their prices, the statement that consumption abroad was enormous, the better monetary situation abroad and the prospects of an early settlement of the balkan war were all factors in imparting buoyancy to the opening quotations this morning. Advances of over one dollar per share were made during the first hour of today's trading. London copper warrants closed fifteen shillings higher than yesterday. After the early buying had been satisfied however the market again became dull, yet the closing quotations were all somewhat higher than yesterday, with the exception of Greene which closed lower.

Australian Justice.
Recently after hearing his first case an Australian justice of the peace delivered himself thus: "There's been a lot of lies told in this case, and I don't know who's been tellin' 'em. So I'm goin' to fine you $2. If yer guilty yer kettin' off very light, an' if yer not guilty it'll teach yer to be more pertickler about the company yer keep."

It's Dangerous, Being a Songster.
"I notice," said Mrs. Pozozie, "that a choir soloist in Greenwich, Conn., broke an artery while singing a high note. I never heard of an accident such as that before, but I have often feared Mr. Pozozie might rupture himself singing the low notes in 'Rocked in the Cradle of the Deep.'"

HENRY POST HONORED BY FORMER EMPLOYEES

Presented With Watch on Eve of his Leaving to Assume New Position

The employees of the Escanaba Manufacturing company made evident the esteem in which they hold Henry Post, the retiring superintendent, when they presented him with a Howard watch and fob last evening.

After work had suspended for the day the workmen assembled in Mr. Post's office and William Belongie, speaking in behalf of his fellow employees, made a neat address in which he told the much surprised superintendent just how he stood with the men who had labored under his direction for fourteen years. At the conclusion he presented him with the watch. Mr. Post replied in a manner that showed his complete surprise and great appreciation.

Mr. Post has taken up his new duties as superintendent of the Ready Rack company.

That Lost Balance.

A young lady while out boat riding one day in a park, attempted to change seats, and fell overboard. When she was brought up gasping and struggling, the usual crowd gathered around and asked how it happened. "Oh, I just lost my balance," she began, when a little Jewish boy, who had been listening open-mouthed, said: "Youse loose your balance, lad, I will find it for youse."
