LIGHTING IS DISCUSSED

COUNCIL APPROVES LIGHTING RATES AND WILL CONSIDER INSTALLATION OF NEW LIGHTING SYSTEM

BOARD TO MAKE IMPROVEMENTS

Adopted Escanaba Will Be One of the Best Lighted Cities in the United States

The members of the board of public works met last night with the city council and discussed the lighting rates and contemplated improvements.

It was the desire of the city fathers to have the lighting rates reduced and for that purpose they asked the board of public works to meet with them. Secretary Byrns of the board explained the proposed rates that are contemplated, i. e., the extension of the gas main and the purchase of gas machinery, etc., amounting to about $25,000 in all and explained that for that reason it would be imprudent to consider a reduction at this time. Council then approved the lighting rates as submitted by the board, the same as those for the year just closed.

On motion of Alderman Smith a committee of three was appointed by Mayor Chaffed to meet with the board of public works and a West-Loose electrical expert to consider the installation of a new lighting system in Escanaba. The new system now in vogue in Gary, Indiana, considered the best lighted city of its size in the United States and many other large cities is known as the marmette system. The lights are set upon poles about fourteen feet in height and each pole carries either three, four or five lights. The installation of this system would do away with the unsightly poles now in use as the conduit system would be used. The conduit will be laid in the curb line. If adopted Escanaba's main thoroughfare from the Northern station to the east of Ludington street would be lighted in the manner and the street lights would still maintain in the residential sections.

Members of the board of public works explained the needs of the city as regards to lighting and explained to the council their own definite as to whether or not it approved the contemplated improvements.

Before retiring council voted the board members a vote of thanks for their attendance and evident desire to cooperate.

PORTLANDCE FILES SUIT

ASKS $1500 DAMAGES FROM THE MORNING PRESS COMPANY AS RESULT OF RECENT SUBSCRIPTION CONTEST

WILL BE HEARD IN OCTOBER TERM

Maintains That he Rightfully Won the Car and That Values Were Misrepresented

Prof. Portlandce has through his attorney A. H. Ryall, filed a suit for damages against the Escanaba Morning Press company, for the recovery of damages in the sum of $1500, the suit being the outcome of a subscription contest run by the Morning Press in which Portlandce was a contestant.

A summons was served on the Morning Press company yesterday, a copy of which is set out below. It will come up for trial during the October term of court.

It is published in the information of which the suit is based that the value of the car is $1500, and that the value of the automobile itself is $1000. It is claimed by the plaintiff that the company advertised prize values in excess of their actual value. That Mr. Portlandce was misled as to the value of the car and that it was advertised that three reputable judges were to canvass the vote whereas it is alleged that the judges were merely given figures to add. That Mr. Portlandce turned in the greatest number of subscriptions and that he was therefore entitled to the grand prize, according to the conditions of the contest as further averred.

The final count is based on the claim of the plaintiff that the second prize awarded him (a piano) does not represent the value of $400 placed upon it by the Morning Press company.

The jugular vein had been severed with a knife blade, a blood stained clasp knife with a three inch blade, lying near the body, bore mute evidence as to the method used by the murderer. The police believe that the woman, who has not been identified, was murdered after she had been assaulted.

A gold necklace with a locket of plain gold, and a ring with a ruby setting were not removed.

The police have arrested Andrew Dufrain, a night watchman at the American hotel.

The police maintain that he was seen entering the alley in which the body was found several hours before it was found. He has several scratches on his right arm which he claims are the scratches of a cat.

Bloody finger prints on the platform have been photographed.

$300,000 YEARLY IN PAPER

Owms 500,000 Acres of Forested Land Operates Eight Farms, Owns a Railroad and Some Banks

Washington, July 2.—In the recent lobby inquiry some interesting confessions have gone into the records touching the personal fortunes of members of the Senate. They were asked to tell as to investments or business interests which might be affected by the tariff so the confessions are only partial. One of the richest senators appears to be Stephenson of Wisconsin, who told cheerfully that he turns out a hundred and fifty million feet of lumber every year; that he makes $300,000 a year from his paper business; that he owns 500,000 acres of forested land; that he operates eight farms; raises hundreds of horses; has a railroad; several mills, is interested "some" in banks draws $12,000 a year in royalties from iron mines and has a few other little things.

Another man with extensive holdings is Mr. Catron, recently elected from New Mexico. His colleague, Mr. Fall, is also a rich man. Catron possessed to the ownership of 25,000 acres of coal lands, 8,000 acres of timber, some rich lead and zinc mines, paying $200 a month. Senator Fall has 10,000 head of sheep and 12,000 head of cattle and also breeds horses on one of his big ranches. He is an owner of coal mines as well as lead and zinc mines. He is a heavy stockholder in several life insurance companies and owns $15,000 worth of bank stock.

HARTNETT AVENUE JOB IS ACCEPTED

Council Pays Balance Due Delta Contracting Company—Long a Bone of Contention

The paving of Hartnett avenue, long a bone of contention in official city circles, was finally disposed of last evening when the street was accepted by the city and the mayor and city clerk authorized to sign warrants for the fifteen percent of the contract price due the Delta Contracting company, amounting to $4024.82.

The aldermen agreed that the job was an excellent one but the fact that the concrete work ran flush to the street car rails and that a portion of it had cracked alongside the rails kept them debating as to who was responsible for this condition. The original specifications called for expansion joints parallel to the rails.
This was changed and the expansion joints cut out. The vibration of the rails caused by the heavy street cars doubtless caused the breaks but one or two councilmen who believed that the specifications were unwilling to lay the blame to the traction company.

The atmosphere was cleared when
P. L. Utley of the traction company stated that the company was bound by agreement to keep in repair the street inside its rails and one foot on either side in repair. A resolution accepting the street and authorizing the payment of the balance due the contracting company was the passed.

His colleague, Smith admits heavy timber interests. Many senators are in United States steel. ## ALL PITCHERS NOT LION HEARTED

Preparations to Take Him Out Affects a Twirler.

ALLEN LOSES HIS NERVE.

Brooklyn Southpaw Said to Be Equal of Rucker Except For This Peculiarity—Makes Matty Work Harder. How It Affects Other Hurriers.

Ball players in the National and American leagues are not as courageous as most fans imagine. Most followers of the game carry the idea that the men who pitch and who stand up at the plate and allow a pitcher to throw the ball at their heads have a lion's heart. Such is not always the case.

There is a twirler on the Brooklyn team who would be a wonderful slab artist if he were not inclined to be timid. It is not the intention to convey the idea that he is "yellow," but only to point out how a player deprives himself of being a topnotcher in the ranks through fear of what he imagines is a disgrace and the lack of an abundance of nerve.

The individual in question is Pitcher F. L. Allen of the Trolley Dodgers. He is a southpaw and the possessor of as great an assortment of twisters as any left hander in the National league today. Manager Dahlen thinks as much of him as he does of Nap Rucker and depends upon him almost as much. But Allen has that one fault of becoming intimidated when he observes from the rubber that another man is being sent out to warm up to be in readiness should his services be required.

Brooklyn secured Allen from Mobile, Ala., last spring, and it was a member of the board of directors of the Southern league team who told of the peculiarity of the southpaw.

"Allen was on our team in the season of 1911, and as I saw every game he twirled at home I studied him thoroughly," said the Mobile baseball man. "One of the first faults I detected was his tendency to ascend when another twirler was sent out to loosen his arm. It seemed as soon as the pitcher walked from the bench Allen would lose all his nerve. I can easily realize it, for you will often find men who will quit when they discover that another is being sent preparing to take their place. It seems to impress upon them their efforts are not what they should be. This is the way it affected Allen. If he were handled properly I believe he would be a wonder of the league. By that I mean if Dahlen in sending a man to warm up would keep him out of Allen's sight he would get better results."

Sending pitchers out to warm up when the man on the slab is weakening and threatening to toss away the game affects some twirlers, and most of them differently from the way it does Allen. Marquand of the New York Giants is one who is inclined to lose his nerve when McGraw orders another man to get ready. Christy Mathewson of the same club is just the opposite. He is a great twirler, and it hurts him to be taken out, and therefore when he notices two or three men at the clubhouse warming up he braces and pitches harder than ever. Seaton of the Philadelphia is of much the same temperament, as is Suggs of the Cincinnati club.

When Manager Evers of the Cubs wants George Pierce to tighten and pitch his "head off" he stops the game and picks a man from the bench and sends him to the clubhouse accompanied by a catcher. The effect this has on the left hander is more than perceptible. His action shows it. He walks around the rubber with a quick, snappy stride, nervously calls for Archer to give him the sign and shoots the ball in the direction of the plate with terrific speed. He is one of the twirlers who consider it disgraceful to be yanked from the slab, and he would rather miss his meals for two days than have that happen. Pierce has a sort of fiery temper while pitching, and when a club makes a run or a few hits off him he grits his teeth and strains himself all the more.

Batters are required to have as much nerve and fighting spirit as the pitchers. Often they will have balls thrown at their heads while at the plate, which is done by the slabman in an effort to scare them. The hitters have to take this and still remain there and step into the following balls as if nothing happened. When a batter is frightened by a pitcher throwing a ball at him he is lost and at the mercy of the flinger, who probably will come back with a big curve and strike him out. There are many pitchers in the league who have that trick.

There are not many players in the league who are scared by that method. They are fully aware that the twirler does it with that intention, and they refuse to step toward the bench. Star hitters such as Wagner, Doyle, Zimmerman, Cobb, Jackson, Speaker, Meyers, Schulte, Magee, Bescher and a host of others seldom pull away from the plate unless the man on the rubber is excessively wild. Then they realize they are in danger and take no unnecessary chances. That is why a pitcher who is erratic and possesses tremendous speed is successful.

FOOT BALL CHILD'S PLAY COMPARED TO ROWING

Compared to rowing a race in an eight-oared shell, 70 minutes of football is child's play, the 400-dash, the Marathon, a championship boring match all mild tests of gameness and stamina. In the big races, crews are supposed to row themselves out in the first two minutes. The rest of the event is raced on nerve, stamina and trained efficiency.

In these first two minutes, where strength counts, the crews may row perhaps 40 strokes in the first and 35 in the second minute. In 78 strokes, which have carried the shell something like half a mile, the oarsmen are supposed to have used up all their first strength.

After that the race begins. From that time on, training, heart and reserve strength count. If the crew is not mechanically perfect, its strokes goes to pieces, the men splash, and the boat loses headway, as Yale's did for that cause in the race with Harvard.

If some one lacks reserve strength, he goes to pieces and spoils the team work; exactly the same thing happens if a man has a yellow streak. But these last two causes seldom figure, as the terrific training strain weeds out the weaklings and cowards before the race.

Every man who rows in a big race has stamina and courage. In the finishing spurt, training tells.

FRENCH BANTAM NICE LITTLE BOY

Los Angeles, Cal., July 2.—He is a real Frenchman this Charles LeDoux, French bantamweight champion, who is training here for a battle with Eddie Campi. He carries a manager, a trainer, an interpreter and a trunk full of politeness about with him. The politeness is all in French and that is where the interpreter comes in.

Charles submitted to an interview here yesterday. He went through a lot of motions like a pitcher winding up and stopped only after holding two fingers in the air. His manager explained:

"He says he saw a lot of jack rabbits while he was on the train and wants to go hunting so he can shoot one when he is jumping in the air."

"Has he ever fought 20 rounds?" This was asked in English.

The manager launched forth on a line of German. LeDoux speaks four languages, but is not sure of his United States talk yet.

"He says you will have to excuse him," transmitted Glavin. "He is sorry, he trains for 20 rounds, but if he knocks the opposing gentleman out and the fight don't go 20 rounds, he is very sorry and must apologize."

"Does he have to go back soon and serve in the French army?"

Another conference, in French, this time.

"He was to go back in September, but he has been granted a leave of absence for one year and won't have to report until a year from next fall."

It will seem strange to have a champion fighter, worth a fortune, serving in the ranks of an army, won't it? How much would Mr. Wolgast or Mr. Rivers like to be enlisted in the army of this nation?

It was agreed that most American fighters would fight shy of the military service.

The next question was about his training.

"He says he must apologize, but he has to win from Campi and then fight perhaps Kid Williams if Kid Williams wins from Conlon."

The manager then produced a number of French newspaper cartoons which made the little French boxer laugh. There was one which showed LeDoux in the make-up of a chef.

"Oh, yes, Charley is a great little chef. That is his trade," informed the manager. "He will do most of his own cooking while training here."
