PROTECTION OF MILITIA FOR MINERS RETURNING TO WORK

General Abbey Announces That Not Only the Men but Their Homes Will be Protected

NO STRIKEBREAKERS USED

Sufficient Men Went to Work This Morning to Keep the Mines in Running Shape

STORE BURNED SATURDAY NIGHT

The store of the Calumet and Hecla properties, the largest holdings in the copper country, announced this afternoon that under no consideration would they employ strike breakers.

A mass meeting of strikers was held on the South Range this afternoon and a number of prominent strike agitators spoke. No disorders attended the meeting.

The arrival of the troops has given the copper country the appearance of the "Peaceful Valley." No disorders of any description have marked the strike since the arrival of the troops with the exception of the burning of a store on Saturday night which has not been directly traced to the strikers.

Sunday was a day of demonstrations by the military as well as by the union. While the men and their families were marching through the streets, a full battalion of infantry under Major Kramer was sent through Laurium, the command dividing into companies to traverse by streets and uniting in full strength as it reached the principal thoroughfare.

Thousands of spectators watched the rival parades, but the crowds were apathetic. Most of the cheering came from the ranks of the marching miners, who followed the American flags and stepped to the cadence of a band composed of miners with a musical band.

Alongside many of the men walked their wives, and some of the latter pushed go-carts, which sometimes contained two or three children.

Miller Criticizes State Executive. Speeches in five languages were made at the meeting, the chief address coming from Guy E. Miller, a Colorado member of the executive board of the federation.

Mr. Miller pleaded for "industrial justice," asserting that the companies had violated fundamental ethics in refusing a conference with the representatives of their employees, and criticizing indirectly the action of Governor Ferris in sending troops into the counties. He counseled passive resistance to the operators' tactics, saying:

"All these working people seek to do so to hold their arms for the next ten days, and Manager MacNaughton of the Calumet & Hecla will not be talking so freely about his blacklist. Instead, he will be asking you fellows to save the whole conglomerate lode from caving in and you will do it, too, when he treats you right. We bear

Senator Townsend Gives Tariff Measure Under Consideration a Thorough Roasting.

(By Associated Press.)

Washington D. C., July 28.—Eleven progressive republican senators have agreed to support LaFollette's substitutes for wool, cotton and their schedules in the tariff. The announcement came as the result of the first conference on the progressive republicans on tariff revision. Clapp presided and Borah, Bristow, Crafford, Stierling, Cummins, Kenyon, LaFollette, Gronna, Norris and Works were present.

Senator Townsend raised the tariff bill this afternoon because, he stated, of "executive interference," and "because it was brought forth in the darkness of the secret caucus chamber." "It is," he said, "under the professional charge of one without business experience."

He said that the only thing that the administration could hope for was conditions as they remained today, that there was no hope for betterment and a grave fear of worse conditions.

FAIR STORE WILL BE ALMOST DOUBLED IN SIZE

Glazer Property Adjoining Store on Ludington Street Has Been Purchased

The Fair Savings Bank store is to be enlarged so that its floor space will double that now available. Plans for the new addition have not been made but Mr. Salinsky has stated that the work would probably begin early in the coming spring.

The property adjoining the Fair store, which has been in the hands of Max Glazer of Berkeley, California, was purchased Saturday by Mr. Salinsky, who also owns the lot just to the west of that purchased Saturday. This gives an additional fifty foot frontage on Ludington street to that already held.

The Fair store has been in need of additional floor space for several years and Mr. Salinsky has been endeavoring, with no success until Saturday, to purchase the Glazer property. There is a possibility that the work of building the addition will be begun this fall but the probability is that it will not be started until spring.

FIND BODY OF BOY IN PARK

WITH FEET AND HANDS TIED, POLICE FIND HIM DEAD WITH BULLET HOLE IN HEAD

DEAD WOMAN IS IDENTIFIED

Police Inclined to Connect Murder of Last Friday With That of Last Night

(By Associated Press.)

Chicago, July 28.—The body of a fourteen year old boy was found this morning in the bushes of Morgan park with a bullet hole in his head. In his pocket was a school certificate bearing the name "Dernie Holsten." The body lay face downwards with the hands tied behind the back. His legs were tied with his suspenders and his coat was under his head with the sleeve as a gag.

The body of the woman found in Rogers park last Friday has been identified as Miss Alice Lees of Alma, Wis. Attorney Edward Lees of Alma, a brother, identified his sister and is confident that she committed suicide, as she had been in ill health and had been pursuing a fruitless search for work in Chicago.

She too had a bullet wound in her head and the police are inclined to believe that the crimes may in some way be connected.

CUBS LOSE TO RAPID RIVER IN SLOPPY GAME

Game is Played in Water and Mud and Final Score of 10 to 11

The Cubs and Rapid River slid, waded and wallowed through seven innings of baseball at Rapid River yesterday afternoon and when the game was finally called in the seventh inning Rapid River was leading by a score of 11 to 10.

The rain fell in veritable torrents before the game and the playing field was several inches deep in water. Despite the mud and water the game started out to assume a complexion of a real game but in the third inning Smith, who was on the mound for the visitors went up. Five men were passed, a pair were soaked in the ribs, a pair of bingles were scored and coupled with a bunch of errors netted Rapid River eight runs. Smith was then relieved by Hess who held the local team easily.

Buckman, who was on the mound for Rapid River, was found at all stages of the game and but for the bad third inning Escanaba would have been returned an easy winner.

CARNIVAL CO. WILL COME

LONG JUMP FROM SAULT STE. MARIE TO WISCONSIN MAKES SHOWING HERE A NECESSITY

THE BUSINESS MEN ARE OPPOSED

Will Have to Pay a License of $475 For the Week—Definite Arrangements Will be Made Tonight

The Great Southern shows, the Carnival company concert which has been much discussed in business and civic circles the past week, will in all probability pitch its tents along the streets of Escanaba during the week of August 15.

Several members of council met Saturday night and discussed the matter informally but reached no definite decision. The majority of the business men of the city have announced themselves as being opposed to the company's appearance here but with the ordinance as it now stands there is apparently nothing but the repeal of the ordinance that can stop the company coming if it desires to do so.

The advance agent who has been the city several days left Saturday night and prior to leaving announced that in all probability the show would be brought to Escanaba. He rejoined the carnival to determine of the management whether the license required here $475 was prohibitive.

The carnival is booked to appear in Sault Ste. Marie the week preceding that of August 15 and in a Wisconsin city the week following.

The long jump necessitates a booking between and for that reason the advance agent announced that the management would probably have to accept the terms required.

The ordinance states that $100 license shall be paid by a carnival company for the first day's showing and $75 for each succeeding day. The ordinance also gives the company paying the required license the privilege of the streets.

Council can do nothing to bar the shows but repeal the ordinance.

NOISY LINES TO GLADSTONE

Michigan State Telephone Company Should Improve Service to Upper Bay Town

The Michigan State Telephone company is seriously in need of a new line or new lines to Gladstone. The lines are all exceptionally noisy and it is more difficult to hold a conversation with the upper bay town, only six or seven miles away, than it is with cities sixty and seventy miles distant. The lines to Gladstone are kept busy the day through and the telephone company should see that the service to that point is improved.

J. S. BLACKWELL GUEST OF SON H. W.

Early Settler of Upper Peninsula
Visits Scenes of Younger Days and Recalls Experiences.

Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Blackwell for the past number of years residents of Neosho Falls, Kansas are here the guests of their son and daughter-in-law Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Blackwell and the party of four made a trip during the week to Sault Ste Marie and other points in that vicinity that were familiar to Mr. Blackwell and recalled a number of his experiences of the early days of the Upper Peninsula.

About forty years ago Mr. Blackwell, a comparatively young man then, was employed as general manager of the stores of the old furnace company near where Munising now stands and known as Old Day Furnace. A part of the duties of his position was the looking after the handling and dispatching of the mail between the town and the outer world. At that time the only mail route that existed in that locality was the route between Marquette and the Soo and the mail was carried the entire distance through the woods and across the ice on the back of some sturdy frontier man a task that can be easily imagined that described especially by any one familiar with the conditions of the country at that time and the hardships associated with the traversing of an unbroken winter trail. Mr. Blackwell has a number of interesting anecdotes relative to those early days, also a few relics that nothing could induce him to part with. Among other things he has a pipe that was carved out of stone by an old Indian medicine man over forty years ago and given to him. The pipe is modeled after the old Indian first impression of old time locomotive which he saw on one of his very few trips to Marquette.

Another point of interest that has bearing on the history of what at that time constituted Schoolcraft county is the fact that Mr. Blackwell was the first County Clerk of the county that at that time took in vastly more territory than it does at present. Mr. Blackwell tells an interesting story of the hardships met with at that time when the only means of getting in supplies was in the summer months when the boats were running. In one instance owing to a severe winter and excessive ice the boat was late in arriving and the inhabitants were reduced almost to a point of starvation before the spring supplies arrived.

Any one wishing to know more about old Munising, Marquette and Sault Ste Marie and other points in that vicinity, can find out all they wish to know in a few hours conversation with Mr. Blackwell.

Mr. and Mrs. John Harris of Escanaba and Mr. McGillis of Dallas, Texas who are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harris visited Thursday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dan McCarthy of this city.

F. L. Baldwin, F. L. Brooks and Mr. Roberts attended the grand meeting of the local lodge I. O. O. F. Wednesday evening and made this office a friendly call. Also during the pleasant hour spent we received some very excellent and well meant advice that we wish were in a position to act upon.

Miss Mary McCarthy left Friday for Chicago, Ill., where she will finish her course in public school music at the national summer school. From Chicago she will go to Independence, Iowa, where she is engaged as supervisor of drawing and music in the public schools of that city.

Miss Mary and Loretta McCarthy of this city were entertained at the home of Miss Maud Cusson, on South Jeanie street, Escanaba, Thursday evening.

Dennis Callahan of Isabella arrived here Friday and is the guest of the Lynch family on Minnesota avenue.

Will Cramer left Saturday for Milwaukee where he will be gone for a week or ten days consulting a specialist and taking treatment for throat trouble.

W. C. Shaffer of Chicago, is here for a few days visiting with his brother George Shaffer. Mr. Shaffer is located in Chicago where he is practicing law and will leave here for there Sunday evening after an absence of a few days here.

Andrew Klugeberg left Friday evening for Washington island where his family is visiting his parents and there he will spend a week's vacation returning next Saturday.

Henry Neville of the firm of LaBar and Neville arrived from Manistiquette Thursday evening and will have charge of the store here for the present and Gus Dehlin left Saturday morning for Manistiquette where he will assist in the work of the store there.

John Burgess is taking a week's vacation and is soaking up Cap. Fishers hospitality at Maywood.

Doctor Bjorkman who has been spending the past couple of months at his old home in Sweden returned to the city Friday and is being welcomed back with the glad hand. It was the Doctor's first trip back to his old home since his boyhood days and the trip seems to have made him younger by a number of years.

THE RURAL SOUTH.

Maryland Only State in Which Nearly Half Inhabitants Live in City.

It appears that Maryland, where the population of Baltimore city alone constitutes more than 43 per cent of the total population, was the only Southern State in which the population was divided about equally between city and country. The per cent of urban population in the South was only 22.6, and, in addition to Maryland only five States had a proportion of urban population greater than the average proportion for the whole section. Those States are Louisiana, with 30 per cent of its population urban; Florida, with 29.1 per cent; Kentucky, with 24.2 per cent; Texas, with 24.1 per cent, and Virginia, with 23.1 per cent.

In 1910 there were forty-one cities in the South having a population of 25,000 or more. The increase in those cities in ten years had been at the rate of 34.4 per cent. But the increase in that period in the urban population of the South had been 27.7 per cent.

Between 1900 and 1910 the urban population of the South increased from 4,508,385 to 6,296,598, a gain of 1,698,213, equal of 37.7 per cent, and the increase in urban population in the rest of the country was from 27,049,157 to 36,416,785, a gain of 9,367,628, equal to 34.4 per cent.

Although the South's increase from immigration is much less rapid than that of the rest of the country, in the end its white population will be the more homogeneous and desirable for that very reason. -Marion Telegraph.

Comparative Cost of Lights.

In few branches of science has greater progress been made than in artificial lighting. That is why the illuminating engineer is to-day a factor in solving cost and efficiency of labor problems. Roughly estimated the relative cost of light per hour for a 15 candle power light is as follows: Candles, $98; oil lamp, $93; incandescent lamp (carbon filament), $606; gas flame, $602; arc light (carbon), $402; acetylene, $402; incandescent lamp (tungsten filament), $6024; gas, with mantle, $602; mercury or filament tubes, $601 to $6025. -System.

New English Fishing Ground.

Some Yarmouth herring boats have discovered a new fishing ground off the coast of France from which they bring large catches to Yarmouth, or take them into nearer southern ports in order to save the expense and avoid the delay involved in a steaming back to the east coast. The discovery is the more important from the fact that the grounds off Lowestoft and Yarmouth have now been practically fished out this season. -London Daily Mail.

GREAT EXHIBITION OF WRESTLING SATURDAY

Carl Lehto Wins Over Gunner Gronlund in Two Straight Falls

What was undoubtedly the best wrestling match ever staged in Escanaba took place Saturday night in the Peterson hall when Carl Lehto of the Copper country and Gunner Gronlund of Detroit went to two straight falls before a handful of enthusiastic spectators.

Lehto, outweighing his opponent by at least twenty pounds won in straight falls, the first in thirteen minutes and the second in five. Both falls came with a half-Nelson and a crotch.

Gronlund made up for his weight handicap by an agility that was marvelous. Time and time again he pivoted or bridged out of what appeared to be certain falls. Lehto, the most perfect specimen of physical manhood it has ever been the lot of Escanaba residents to look upon, claims the 190 world's championship and his performance of Saturday night would indicate that it is more than a bill board claim.

There was action and plenty of it during the entire match. Both wrestlers showed a thorough knowledge of the game and a keenness for mastery that knocked into a cocked hat any suspicion on the part of the spectators that the bout was "fixed." Gronlund was on the defensive the major portion of the time but he kept his knacker opponent extremely busy and Lehto had to extend himself for both falls.

Following the match Lehto gave an exhibition of bridging that rather astonished the spectators. Lying flat on his back he rose to a bridge seven times with one of the spectators sitting on his breast. The spectator announced his weight as 235 pounds. Gronlund then gave a dextrous exhibition of bridging and pivoting.

The preliminary between Joseph and Emil Perrow was a neat exhibition. Both boys showed a keen knowledge of the game. But the fall was registered Joseph Perrow taking it in fifteen minutes. The youngsters tussled for the succeeding fifteen minutes without the semblance of a fall.

Dr. Erikus gave great satisfaction as a referee. Should either Gronlund or Lehto ever return to Escanaba for a match they would be assured of a record house.

SCHAUER, $10,000 PITCHER.

Arms Greatest of Minor Leaguers.
Alexander J. "Rube" Schauer, the sensational Superior (Wis.) pitcher, purchased by the New York Giants for $10,000, according to some experts, is the greatest pitcher who has appeared in the minor leagues in years and was much sought after by all the major league scouts.

Curly Ulrick, promoter in Superior, sends along the following comment on the pitching find of the year:

"Schauer pitched but eight professional games previous to being signed by Superior last spring. The eight games on the previous record of Mr. Alexander J. were pitched at Garrison, N. D., which is the home town of the now famous athlete.

"Garrison has a semipro team made up of boys from that vicinity, and the players split up the gate receipts after paying the expenses. Schauer accordingly received his first regular pay when Bill Conner handed him a check for his first month's pay just about a month ago.

"Schauer has pitched three no-hit games this year and holds the strike-out record in his league.

"Before twirling for Garrison 'Rube' pitched a few games for school teams and performed on the corner lots, so that his pitching for Superior practically is the first real test he ever had."

CLAY COURT TENNIS TITLE.

Omaha Will Hold Big Event July 21 to 27 Inclusive.

The fourth annual national clay court tennis tournament, to be held on the courts of the Omaha Field club, Omaha, Neb., July 21 to July 27 inclusive, promises to be one of the greatest ever.

Tennis champions from California, New York, Texas, Iowa, Nebraska, North and South Dakota, Missouri, Illinois, Pennsylvania and, in fact, every state where the popular game holds sway will battle for the beautiful cups emblematic of the singles and doubles championships of the world.

The Omaha Field club courts are conceded to be the best clay courts in the world, and because of this Omaha has been selected for the national championships for three of the four competitions.

The 1913 list of aspirants will be the most representative of any field. As the game has grown so has interest in it, especially the clay courts end, and today tennis men from all parts are being rapidly converted to the clay courts competition. The fascination of the perfect court has much to do with the popularity of the game. It means as much to the tennis player to play on a clay court as it does to the ball player to play on the skinned diamond.

MYERS PANTHER ON PATHS.

Boston Braves' Lanky First Baseman Has Tremendous Stride.

When Nap Myers, the lanky first baseman of the Boston Nationals, is in full stride stealing bases he covers one foot, something unusual in running.

Myers is leading the National league base stealers, despite a baffling average of but .224, which means that he does not reach first base as often as men like Bob Bescher, Hans Lobert, Doyle and Merkle of the Giants.

The average stride of a sprinter is about six feet, and even the "lathey" sprinter takes a comparatively short stride. Myers is six feet six inches and has the longest legs in the league.

TWO VIEWS OF NAP MYERS, BOSTON'S SPRINTING FIRST BASEMAN.

Myers stole 115 bases while a member of the Spokane team in the North western league last year. No one expects him to duplicate this in the National, but that long stride gets him over considerable ground in a hurry.

A Cincinnati depositor figured that the average base runner takes thirteen steps of seven feet in going from base to base, while Myers takes but ten.

Myers is something of a baseball chronicler, and his work is watched with interest by the fans. If the time comes that the big fellow climbs into the 300 class as a batter, he is apt to become a veritable terror of theorists to pitchers and catchers. He uses a bat of unusual length.

SPORTING BRIEFS

Miller Huggins, manager of the St. Louis Browns, threatens to resign.

Theodore Roosevelt Pell is startling the eastern tennis experts by his brilliant playing this season in all departments of the game.

Harry Miller, first baseman, and Ben Kramer, shortstop, both members of the Pittsburgh All Star team, have just turned down flattering offers from a minor league club and will continue in their respective positions for Manager Rappoport's team.

Manager Jim Buckley announces that the star of his collection of fighters, Gimbo Smith, for whom he will soon claim the world's heavy weight title, will do no more fighting till after the "hot weather" is over. Buckley says that Smith's next opponent will probably be Jim Flynn.

"Connie Mack of Philadelphia has one of the greatest baseball teams ever assembled," says Frank Chance, manager of the New York Americans. "He has a great pitching and fielding combination and his pitchers are going well. It isn't luck that has put the Mackmen at the top of the heap—it is natural that they should be there."

PHILLIES LOOK LIKE CHAMPIONS

Club Has Qualifications Necessary For Winning Flag.

TEAM HAS THE PITCHERS.

Seaton, Alexander, Moore, Rixey, Chalmers and Brennan Are a Sextet to Be Proud Of—Quakers Are Aggressive, Speedy and Well Fixed With Batters.

Philadelphia, which has been leading the National league baseball race, possesses the necessary requisites for a championship club. Not a thing is lacking on the team. It has the fighting spirit, the speed, batters and, most important of all, the pitchers.

It has always been said that a group of athletes are not of championship caliber unless they are aggressive. Look at the Philadelphia list, and much of this will be discovered. Manager "Red" Doolan himself lives up to the color of his hair, as he does not allow an opportunity to protest pass.

Otto Knabe, who takes care of the second station, is a batter from the word go, no matter what the situation of the conflict. He is inclined to be a tire sprinter, but it is his system of setting his opponents.

Doolan and Lobert also have that never say die habit, as have outfielders Macez and Paskert. There are sufficient determination and aggressiveness in this group alone, not counting the others, to make up a winner.

The club does not lack speed at all. Lobert, Doolan has one of the fleetest printers in the league. "Dude" Paskert does not want to be overlooked when it comes to dashing around the base lines or chasing for a long drive. Cravath is the only slow regular on the staff, but what he lacks in speed he makes up for in batting. Doolan and Knabe are fairly speedy, as are Macez, Seaton, Paskert and Killifer.

Pitching, most of all, is what has been keeping the Phillies on top. If the men Doolan does not give way under the strain of leading the league appears as if New York and the others are going to have a tough time in catching them.

At the start of the season it was reported that the Pirates had the strongest arms of fingers in the National league, but so far the Pirate slabbers have not come up to expectations. Since they have failed Doolan is conceded to be the most effective set. He has only two men, but really a raft of them, and all seemingly are dependable. They are Alexander, Seaton, Rixey, Mayer, Brennan, Chalmers and Moore.

Rixey and Brennan are southpaws, and they are to be classed with the best in the league. They, with Alexander and Seaton, have been bulwarking most of the work. They should not encounter much trouble in continuing their brilliant hitting as long as the batters continue hammer the sphere as they have to date.

WHEN CALLAHAN TOOK THE SPUNK OUT OF A FAN.

Manager Jimmy Callahan of the Chicago White Sox took a great deal of spunk out of a baseball fan who wanted to tell him how to run the team. Callahan was watching Cicotte and Walsh warming up.

"Say, Cal," yelled this fan from a box seat, "don't pitch Walsh today. He hasn't got a thing but that glove. I have been watching him warm up."

Callahan walked over to the box where the box manager was seated and latted this out:

"Say, I've been looking you over for a long time, and you seem to know a great deal about the game. Now, if you would only plant yourself in a box close to our bench every day you would save me a great deal of trouble. As it is now I have to walk about fifty feet to know how my ball club is getting along and what is going on. With you on the job there would not be a hitch and I would not be making so many mistakes. Be sure to sit there tomorrow, will you? Or perhaps you would like to put on a uniform."

Said fan sneaked out of the park like a burglar, and Callahan has not seen him since that day.

COVELESKIE COMING BACK.

from them in a crucial series, but who since that time failed on every major league chance he was given, is to return to the major league ranks ere long.

Coveleskie is now a member of the Chattanooga club of the Southern league, where he is pitching remarkable ball. He is wanted by both Detroit and St. Louis, and the latter club appears to stand the best chance to acquire his services, because it has some sort of an agreement with the Southern league club whereby players are to figure in a trade.

Coveleskie may make good in this company, but he will have to improve a whole lot before this is possible, for the only time he ever showed anything was the fall he made it possible for the Phillies to stop the Giants from winning a pennant. And it was because of this performance that he won the nickname of "Giant Killer."

Brooklyn Has Find in Stengel.

Brooklyn appears to have picked up an excellent fielder this season in Stengel, formerly of Anson's. Stengel is a hard hitter and is largely responsible for keeping Brooklyn in the first division so far. He is fast and an exceptionally good fielder.

and Luderus. Doolan slams out a ball when it is least expected. Lobert and Knabe are fairly consistent batters, while Killifer and Doolan hold their own with all the back stops in the league, with the possible exception of Chief Meyers. Paskert is the only one of the outfielders who is not hitting, but Doolan keeps him in the game because of his speed on the bases and in the outfield.

OUR NEIGHBOR MARS.

Now comes the famous astronomer Professor Worthington, to support Professor Lowell's idea that Mars is inhabited by a superior race of beings, that they are far ahead of the human race that people the earth. They must be entirely different, for all the physical conditions are wholly unlike those on the earth. Water there boils at 110 degrees, and the atmosphere is less dense and both are slowly disappearing. This fact according to the evolutionary idea, will cause the physical nature of the people there to change or it will soon be a dead world. Its destiny is very interesting to us, for what will become of the Martian people will become of us. This whole universe started with mind. Its first objective force was light, and then on to every form of matter. Mars is going back to its primitive state, its dwindling matter has excited their intelligence to the utmost to provide physical conditions in harmony with their needs. This very effort has lifted them up to a higher intellectual plane. So Mars teaches the doctrine, from matter to spirit, and probably, some day, the earth will learn the lesson.

Judging by the amount they are allowed to expend for music, it would seem that the inhabitants of the United States of all people in the world, should be free from inclination to treason, strategem and spoils. For why? Because they have music in their souls. John F. Freund, the veteran editor of Musical America, declares that the Americans spend for music the enormous sum of $60,000,000 per year. Mr. Freund seems to think the aggregate cost of maintaining the army and navy in time of peace is $100,000,000 per annum. In fact, in 1912 it was half as much again, or nearer $200,000,000 per annum. Perhaps his estimate of the cost of music is as much too high as his estimate of the cost of the army and navy is too low.

The scientific world is beginning to recognize in the United States a degree of progress in certain branches of medical science which puts this country even ahead of Germany. That this is not mere empty talk is demonstrated by the circumstance that the eminent Viennese physician, Dr. Carl von Noorden of the medical faculty of Vienna university not only has attested these things by word of mouth, but has sent his son to this side of the Atlantic to become a student at Johns Hopkins.

National theaters—of an open air kind—at one time existed in England, as Parran Round, in Cornwall, testified. Here we have a vast amphitheater, tufted to seat over 2,000 persons, says the London Chronicle. The beginning of British dramatic art sprang from these open air theaters, where the mediaeval plays were produced—and forgotten. The sands of the Cornish coast have covered more than one specimen of these pioneer temples of the dramatic art.

Now the historic cow of Mrs. O'Leary that was reported to have kicked over the lamp that started the great Chicago fire has been exonerated by the writer of the story. So another cherished illusion is threatened, though it is doubtful if any exonerated of proof of innocence will ever reanimate that injured cow in the good opinion of the country at large.

The WOMAN

A Novel by Albert Payson Terhune

Founded on William C. de Mille's Play of the same name

CHAPTER XX.

The Last Card.

Wanda was first to see her, even before Mark felt the restraining clasp on his arm.

"Mrs. Robertson!" cried the telephone girl in terror; intuition telling her why Grace was there.

"Grace!" called Tom joyously. "Help us! You'll make everything right. You always do."

"Father," said Grace in eager appeal, "you won't go on with this? It is abominable!"

"I'm sorry, daughter; but we've got to. I wish you'd clear out. It's no place—"

"But, father, can't you see? Miss Kelly is protecting some poor woman who has done wrong and who has repented. Must she be punished so? Must the Woman's years of repentance all count for nothing?"

"That's no concern of ours," said Mark. "The Woman's possible repentance is between her and her God. We—"

"Then leave her punishment to God. It's not for you to say how she shall suffer. You are striking with the blindness of a man; without dreaming where the blow will fall."

"It will fall where it is deserved. I'm enough of a believer in divine justice to know that."

"It will fall on her husband more heavily than on her."

"It will do no harm to know the type of woman he's married."

"It isn't fair! It isn't fair! Mark, your injustice to this girl here is a thousandfold worse than your cruelty to the Woman. It is wicked to punish Wanda Kelly for her loyalty in trying to save a friend from disgrace. It's cowardly—unbelievable!"

"Steady, daughter! Steady!" admonished Blake, amazed at his usually well-poised child's vehemence. "You're all worked up over this. It isn't like you to—"

"No," agreed Mark. "It isn't. That is what has been puzzling me."

He was eyeing Grace strangely. The lightning quick and accurate faculty of deduction that had won his first prize in the law was stirring strongly in his mind. He commanded the voice still gentle, but with a ring of iron behind its suavity, "look at me!"

Slowly, as by hard physical effort, she raised her panic-widened eyes to meet his gaze.

"You know this Woman's name," he declared.

At the mastery that vibrated through his voice and look, she faltered, through no conscious volition of her own:

"Yes."

"You know the name," pursued Mark, still gripping his wife's brain by the magnetism that was almost hypnotic power. "We still have time to use it. Tell it to me."

"No—no!" she murmured distractedly. "I—I can't. I won't. I—"

"Grace!" and now the iron glinted more openly through the velvet sheathings, "do you mean to say you are going to let us face ruin when one word from you would—"

"I tell you, I can't—I can't!"

Mark shifted his attack with unexpected swiftness.

"Mr. Standish is willing," said he, "to see this girl here terribly punished for protecting the guilty Woman. Are you?"

"No, no! But—"

"Mrs. Robertson!" broke in Wanda, first of all to detect the note of weakness in Grace's voice. "Don't tell! Don't tell! Keep your nerve. It's all right. Never you mind what they threaten to do to me. Don't give her away!"

"Shut up!" roared Neligan.

"Mark's eyes had never for an instant left his wife's face. At the horror that now deepened in it he saw what his next and crowning move must be.

"Neligan," he ordered, "take this phone girl downstairs and turn her over to the officer who is waiting. Van Dyke will be around at the station-house in a few minutes to make the charge. And he'll see that she is held in bail too heavy for her friends to pay."

"Neligan!" yelled Tom, springing in front of the giant henchman as the latter moved toward Wanda. "If you put a finger on her I'll—"

"No!" wailed Grace in the same breath. "You shan't arrest her, Mark. I can't bear it! I—"

"You'll tell!" asked Mark, exultant at the success of his ruse.

"I—yes!"

"Pardon me, Robertson," intervened Standish, as he saw Grace's last barrier break down; "but I advise you to clear the room before you let her speak. Three people here already know the name. I advise you to keep the number as small as possible."

"That is our affair, not yours," retorted Mark. "She shall tell us all. Inside of a few hours the whole country is going to know that name."

"Mark," begged Grace, "let me tell it to you alone!"

"No," refused the husband. "It's too to need to spare any one's feelings. And witnesses are necessary in an affair like this. It concerns us all. And we must move quickly."

"Mr. Standish," he went on with a savage joy that rent away the last remnant of the velvet from the iron beneath. "It's been a long fight. But you couldn't beat the organization. You've been howling for a fight to a finish. This is the finish."

"It is the finish," agreed Standish, his deep voice infinitely sad. "And I am sorry for it. I don't think you need me here any longer, gentlemen. And I will barely have time to reach the capitol before the bill comes to a vote. Good night."

"He looked furtively at Grace. But she was staring blankly ahead of her with eyes that saw nothing.

"Good night," he repeated. "I would have spared you, Robertson. But you would have it."

And he was gone. His words had fallen on deaf ears. The men were leaning forward eagerly to catch Grace's first syllable.

"And now," Mark demanded, as his wife still hesitated, "who is she, Grace?"

Blake had forestalled her answer. He crossed the room to the telephone. "We win!" he was chuckling. "It's a way we've got. Hell's full of losers. And I'm still loss-proof."

"What are you going to do?" queried Van Dyke, who had dropped back in his chair a few moments earlier, taking no longer even a passive part in the scene.

"I'm going to phone Gregg to let the house know the whole story; names, dates and all. By the time I get on the wire Grace will have told."

"Hold on, Jim," objected Van Dyke. "Not yet."

"Not yet?" What d'ye mean? Why not? We're almost against the ropes over there at the capitol. This is our last punch and it's going to be a knockout."

"Wait, Jim!" begged Van Dyke. "Wait till you hear the name."

"We've got the name. Grace is going to tell us."

"You've got it, yes. But you can't use it, Jim."

Blake, telephone instrument in hand, passed to glare down in angry amazement at the saturnine lawyer who so calmly opposed him in the hour of victory.

"Why in blazes can't we use it?" he blustered. "Are you weakening?"

He took the receiver from the hook, but Van Dyke, with a peremptory gesture, halted him.

"Wait, I say!" ordered the lawyer. "Neligan, go downstairs and get rid of that officer. And don't come back."

"Go with him, Tom," whispered Wanda. "For my sake. You don't want to hear the name."

"You're right," assented Tom, following in Neligan's wake. "It's none of my business. Now that you are safe—"

The door closed behind the two departing men.

Grace's lips paled. But they were dry and cracked. Her tongue would not stir.

CLOCK IN A FRYING PAN.

Hours Marked on Oyster Shells—Old Timepiece Made by Cripple.

In a restaurant here, there has been for more than twenty years an odd clock on the wall. The bottom of the pan forms the face of the clock and the hours are numbered on oyster shells fastened to the pan. The hour and minute hands are a fork and knife.

Other curious clocks stand in out of the way corners of the city. In a lime museum that used to be on the factory there stood for many years a huge clock, about the size of the ordinary rolltop desk, said to have been made by a cripple with the aid of a fretsaw and a jackknife. This clock was made of 70,000 pieces of wood of different kinds. It had five dials, showing the time in London, Paris, Berlin, St. Petersburg and New York; there were also dials that indicated the phases of the moon, orbit of the earth, small figures representing the Last Supper, and Crucifixion and other Biblical scenes. The quarters, halves and hours were struck on small bells by gnomelike figures made to resemble familiar dwarfs in the Sleepy Hollow scene of "Rip Van Winkle." For many years this clock was the main feature in the museum. It was later bought by a club, it is said.—New York Sun.

Tom Purdie.

The funeral of James H. Melrose, Abbey Churchyard of places in Howden, Darnick, who had reached the age of 89 and who remembered the time when Sir Walter Scott was a familiar figure in Darnick. He could tell of an occasion when Scott went to Darnick one night in search of Tom Purdie and having found that worthy in the village inn took him back to Abbotsford in his rig.

Who was Tom Purdie, some will ask. Tom's introduction to Sir Walter was in connection with a poaching charge. Tom being either defender or counsel according to the stage the charge had reached. Sir Walter with his keen knowledge of men and things perceived that in Tom was material which could be moulded and the poacher became shepherd. Later Tom continued himself librarian at Abbotsford and claimed a sort of joint authorship in the novels, inasmuch as he used to refer to them as "our books," Sir Walter's testimony as to Tom's sterling character, as far as the writer remembers, was in these words: "You could trust Tom with untold gold, but not unmeasured whiskey."—London Globe.

FOR THE CHILDREN

The Brownies Move.

Billie the Brownie, who lived in a tree, was troubled one morning a woodman to see.

The king walked beside him and presently cried, "Just chop down that tree with the Brownies inside!"

Away galloped Billie to tell the sad news and panted, "We have not a moment to lose!"

Then back came his friends to the tree in the wood. And all started packing as fast as they could.

Tables and pillows and bedding and chairs, Nothing is heavy if every one shares, And, all being willing, 'tis easy to see They very soon emptied their house in a tree.

Then Billie set out with his wife, and they found A pretty new house in a mushroom, all round.

They moved in at once, and that night you should see, They sat down to supper as gay as could be.

Two Little Caretakers.

"Now, Dot," said mother, "I want you to stand here and take care of Carlo till I come back."

Dot was a very small girl, and Carlo was a very large dog, but they had been friends for so long that both felt quite safe with the other, though Dot did hope that mother would not go far away.

She was, however, too brave to say so and, putting one arm round Carlo's neck, promised that she would not move a step.

Mother was back in a very few minutes. "I took care of Carlo, didn't I?" said the little girl.

"Yes, dear," said mother as she took her up in her arms.

But if Carlo had been able to speak he think he would have said as he leaped and barked at his mistress' side, "I never moved after you left us, and I hope you see that I took good care of Dot."

Queer Ways of Eating.

Spiders chew their food with hard, horny jaws.

The jellyfish absorbs its food by wrapping itself around the object which it seeks to eat.

The butterfly pumps nectar through a tube into its body, and bees and flies suck their food with their long tongues.

The woodpecker has a three barbed tongue, like a P'jian's spear, with which it draws out the worm or insect.

The cuttlefish does not chew its food with its mouth, but with its gizzard.

The horseshoe crab chews its food with its legs. The little fellow grinds its food morsels between its thighs before passing them to the mouth.

Sturgeons draw in their food by suction and are toothless.

A Dog Groom.

The dog and the horse often become each other's grooms and are very fond of foundland dog that always stands by the stable to get his horse. While the groom saddles the horse the dog lay with his nose between his jaws.

When the horse was ready the dog took the reins in his mouth and led the horse to his master. He then followed him in his ride.

On returning the rein was given to the dog, and he led his friend back to the stable. If the groom happened to be out of the stable the dog barked loudly till he came.

A Ring Trick.

A scientific experiment which will interest young and old is to hang from the ceiling a thread which has been soaked in very salty water and then dried.

To this fasten a very light ring and announce that you are about to burn the thread without making the ring fall. The thread will burn, it is true, but the ashes it leaves are made up of crystals of salt, and they are strong enough to bear the light weight of the ring tied to the thread.

Fox In the Ring.

All the players form in a ring except the "fox." He sneaks around outside and taps one of the players on the shoulder. The one tapped starts to run around the outside of the ring in one direction, while the "fox" runs around the ring in the other direction, both making for the place vacated by the tapped child. If the "fox" gets there first the other is "it." If not the "fox" is "it" until he succeeds in getting into a "den."

A Floral Turncoat.

A novel flower has been found at the Isthmus of Tehuantepec. This flower changes its colors during the day. In the morning it is white, while the sun is at its zenith it is red, and at night it is blue. The red, white and blue flower grows on a tree about the size of a guava tree, and only at noon does it give out any perfume.

A Good Reason.

Little five-year-old Lloyd when coming through the yard one evening at dusk bumped into a tree. On his arriving home he explained to his mother his trouble. She asked him if he cried. "No," replied Lloyd, "because there wasn't anybody there to hear me."

Escaping the Moles.

Little gophers and moles are the cause of endless trouble for the Southern Pacific company, and continual expense, especially in the Willmette valley where the land is rich and the gophers like to live and dig. Foreman Strawn is raising portions of the track near Eugene an inch to two inches, and other section foremen have to do the same in other sections.—Eugene (Ore.) Guardian.

Mrs. Thomas Rice of Shaffer was in the city on Saturday.

A famous scientist condemns the light bottle.

We reprint herewith an extract from an opinion rendered by a famous scientist showing that beer in light bottles can not remain pure.

"Beer bottles should be manufactured from reddish-brown glass, inasmuch as same will to a much higher degree than any other kind of glass, minimize the influence of the rays of light on the quality of beer, and will protect the latter against acquiring the disagreeable taste (Sonnengeschmack) due to the chemical action of light.

"In white and green glass bottles the beer is most affected by the action of the light. Such bottles are, therefore, absolutely inappropriate and should never be employed by brewers."

BIG OIL TANKS.

Largest Ever Built Now Under Construction by the Krupps.

The largest oil tank ship ever built and by far the largest ship yet planned to be driven by internal combustion motors, says Popular Mechanics, is to be constructed by the Krupps for the German-American Petroleum Company. The vessel will have a length of 525 feet, a breadth of 66 1/2 feet, a depth of 41 feet, and will have a loading capacity of about 15,000 tons. She will be driven by two 6 cylinder, 1,750 horse-power Krupp-Diesel engines, which will give her an ocean speed of about ten miles an hour.

Two-thirds of the length of the vessel will be occupied by the tanks, which will be divided by transverse bulkhead into eleven compartments, which in their turn are separated into twenty tanks, partitions being made by a longitudinal bulkhead extending over the length whole.

The vessel had hardly made fast when decks, cabins and staterooms were infested with big mosquitoes. Some temporary relief was had by getting out the big fire hose and wetting everything down thoroughly but the mosquitoes soon returned, and when the steamer sailed nearly every man on board bore huge welts, the marks of the insects. The thickest clothing was no protection.—Boston Globe.

Officers of the British freighter Miguel de Larrinaga, from South America, reported an unusual and unpleasant experience while their vessel was at Caltarten, Cuba, where she called to land dried beef on her way north.

Shipped Frozen Carcasses.

Nearly 5,000 frozen carcasses of pigs, sent all the way from Hankow, in China, for consumption in England, passed the inspection of the port of London sanitary authority at Deptford. The pigs are only a part of a consignment including beef, poultry, deer, game and eggs.

A SPRINKLING DEVICE.

Used in Many Households as a Fire Protection.

A sprinkling device has been invented by a New York man that enables the user to put out the fire in the red-hot ashes he rakes down and sift them at once. An upright stand with a horizontal arm is fastened to a base on the floor in front of the heater. This holds an L-shaped pipe which has a reservoir for water at the top and a sprinkler at the other end and which moves about so that the sprinkler can be inserted in the door of the ash-pit, or can be swung around out of the way. A stop-cock regulates the flow of water from the reservoir to the sprinkler. It often happens that the man who tends the furnace wants to sift the ashes and recover the good coal at the same time that he rakes the fire down and builds it up fresh. When the ashes are red-hot this is an pleasant, if not practically impossible operation. The sprinkling device here shown overcomes this difficulty and also acts as an efficient protection from fires resulting from the removal of too hot ashes.—Phila. Public Record.

Cheap House Competition.

If competitions and prizes can secure it we are certainly soon to have the model cheap house. The latest competition of the kind was that instituted by the Building Trades Employes Association of New York City, which has offered prizes for the best designs for houses of two classes, one containing four rooms and a bath and costing not more than $2,500 and the other containing eight rooms and costing not over $4,500. ## TREE WRECKS FAST TRAIN rectly in front of a broken steam pipe. For two hours a score of men worked before he could be rescued. He is now in an Iron Mountain hospital, where his condition is said to be critical.

Saw Danger Too Late

The train was traveling at a rapid rate in an attempt to make up lost time, and had just turned a short bend when the engineer saw a large tree lying across the tracks. He attempted to stop the train, but did not have time. Both he and his fireman were buried beneath the wreckage. The engine, the express car, mail car and baggage car were pitched into a tangle heap, but the passenger coaches remained on the track and, with the exception of the forward part of the smoker, were undamaged.

The unidentified man had letters on his person addressed to "Mrs. Lily Harrin, Cleveland, Ohio." It is thought he was stealing a ride and may have been on the pilot of the engine.

A relief train was sent from Iron Mountain with doctors and nurses and the injured were taken there.

An eye witness describing the wreck said:

"The scene for the moment was one of the greatest confusion. Trainsmen rushed to and fro seeking lanterns that they might ascertain the extent of the damage, and a brakeman rushed to the rear to get out danger signals. Flashes of lightning punctured the rain laden clouds and by the light they afforded showed those of us who had pushed forward beyond the baggage car the extent of the disaster, which for a few moments following the crash no one at all appreciated.

Locomotive Mass of Junk.

"The locomotive was a mass of shapeless junk, bearing little resemblance to its original form. The tender was nowhere to be seen at first giance, but between the locomotive and the end of the baggage car was the wreckage of the express car, which had been telescoped, resulting in the instant death of Express Messenger Way's twelve-year-old son, and his own serious injury. The wreckage of the express car and the locomotive seemed to be inextricably wedged together, and the boy's death was said to have been caused by scalding by steam from the locomotive.

"At first it was believed that the members of the engine crew had jumped, and a hasty search was made for them along the right of way back where the first impact occurred. They were not found, however, and soon their forms were made out beneath the wreckage of the locomotive. The boy, Walter Way, was found dead in the wreckage of the express car and the tramp, instantly killed, was thrown clear of the train, on the left hand side. Mr. Way the express messenger, called pitteously for his boy. His heart action was low, and it was feared that if he knew the boy was killed the shock might also cause his death, so he was told the boy was all right, but could not see him just then.

Troops to Keweenaw Houghton, Mich.—After a week of hesitance, Sheriff John Hepting of Keweenaw county Sunday afternoon asked Governor Ferris to furnish troops to protect the property of the mining companies in his county.

As soon as the sheriff had made a formal demand on the governor, the chief executive wired orders to General Abbey to send troops into Keweenaw county.

Mines There Are Flooded. At this time the mines of Keweenaw county are absolutely at the mercy of the strikers.

The Keweenaw county order will make it necessary for General Abbey to rearrange his scattered forces.

First Work of Disturbers The first actual destruction of property believed to be traceable to the striking miners took place Saturday night.

Between 11 and 11:30 Saturday night the meat market and store of Morgan & Grierson at Centennial was destroyed by fire.

Fearful because of credit conditions due to the strike and general unrest in the district the firm announced Saturday that no credit would be given, commencing with Monday. Threats were made during the day that the stores of the big firms to take such action would be destroyed.

No Water Protection. There was no water with which to fight the blaze, as all fire protection was cut off Saturday when the strikers drew the fires from beneath the boilers operating the pumps that supply water for the Centennial district.

The water in some of the mines has reached a depth of three hundred feet, thus injuring the batteries of the pumps.
