FORE TROOPS LEAVE STRIKE SCENE

Demonstration of Hostility on the Part of the Western Federation Members

Houghton, Mich., Aug. 19.—With actual mining operations, actual hoisting of rock, in progress at five shafts of the Calumet & Hecla company's properties, the strike situation began to take on a more encouraging outlook that is, from the viewpoint of the Spaniards and of the general public. These operations were attended by hostile demonstrations of serious nature on the part of the Western Federation members, the situation is deemed to have a very cheerful aspect. There were many rumors regarding the intention of the strikers to attempt to stop these operations by a show of force, but these rumors proved groundless. With such a large number of men on strike, in such a large district, there are bound to be sorts of rumors, based on the fears of the community, the interest of the strikers, the natural desire of some (Continued on page 5.)

THE UNITED STATES AS MEDIATOR

Lind and Huerta Believed to Have Reached an Agreement—Gravity of Situation Relieved

Washington D. C., Aug. 19.—Charged Affairs O'Shaughnessy has called Bryan from Mexico City that Huerta, through the foreign minister had denied that there was "any foundation whatever" for the statement that Huerta had delivered an ultimatum to the United States demanding recognition.

Mexico City—Lind and Huerta are believed to have reached an understanding that will prevent the severance of relations between the United States and Mexico and will serve to continue the negotiations for the United States to act as a mediator.

Washington—A dispatch from John Lind informed president Wilson that he had held a conference with Huerta and that his reception had been "cordial." Early dispatches announcing that Huerta had issued an ultimatum stirred official Washington. Bryan was out early and rushed to his office where he found the cable from O'Shaughnessy saying that the ultimatum was untrue. He then went to the White House and while there the message from Lind arrived.

The members of the senate foreign relations committee, alarmed at the apparent gravity of affairs, rushed to the White House early. The officials do not believe the situation is serious.

PLAN TO SEAT W. M'DONALD

PROGRESSIVE IS EXPECTED TO RECEIVE UNANIMOUS VOTE OF DEMOCRATS

ARE ARGUING THE CASE TODAY

Not Unlikely That House Will Take Action Tomorrow in View of Copper Country Needs During Life of Big Strike.

It is being stated apparently on authority that William J. MacDonald, progressive, will be seated as the representative in congress from the Twelfth Michigan district this week by the unanimous vote of the Democrats of the house and by many of the Republican votes.

The allegation is that every Democrat member of the election committee having the contest in charge will vote to make a favorable report on MacDonald's contest and that on this basis there will be no Democrat votes against him when the report comes up in the house for action.

Young's Charges Jeopardized. It appears that the Republicans threw away such chance as they permitted H. O. Young's attorney to continue in the case after Young's resignation. He based his case largely upon the charge that MacDonald was not legally nominated. The Democrats were aware that this phase of the case came up during the campaign and that at that time Young waived any right he might have had to contest the validity of the MacDonald nomination by saying he would not take advantage of a technicality to get rid of him as an opponent.

For Young's lawyers now to set up the claim that MacDonald was not legally nominated appears to have struck the Democrats as untenable. The Democrats also are struck with the argument that with the big strike pending in the copper country of Michigan the district is peculiarly entitled to representation in congress at this time.

Oral arguments are being heard today in stead of Tuesday, as originally announced, the case having been advanced by one day. It is understood the speaker is willing to have the election case taken up on the floor just as soon as the committee reports. If a report is made by the committee on the same day that Mr. MacDonald and Mr. Young's attorney are heard, it would be possible to vote on the meeting of Mr. MacDonald Tuesday.

25 DEAD AND MISSING ON SUNKEN STEAMER

Purser Lost all Records and Exact Number of Dead Will Never Be Known

Juneau, Alaska, Aug. 19.—The list of known dead and missing from the ill fated steamer, State of California, remains twenty-five. The total fatalities will never be known as Purser Coughlin did not succeed in saving any of the records.

Everything on board including the cargo, mails, express and personal effects of the passengers went down with the ship. The boat sank so quickly that there was no chance to summon aid and many people were killed when the upper works of the ship collapsed.

Thirty-two survivors are on the way to Seattle on the steamer Northwestern and eleven are in the Juneau hospital. Ten bodies have been recovered. The State of California left Seattle last Saturday for Skagway and sank at 8:30 Sunday morning in Cambler bay when the vessel struck an uncharted rock. The ship was valued at $400,000.

SLIGHT RAISE IN SCHOOL TAX

ESTIMATE TO BE SUBMITTED TO COUNCIL TONIGHT $7,240 IN EXCESS OF LAST YEAR

FIX STATE AND COUNTY TAX SOON

$53,140 is Asked by the School Board for Running Expenses for the Coming Year

The board of education will present tonight to the city council its estimate of expenses for the coming school year. The estimate is $53,140, slightly over 1 and 1-4 cent of the assessed valuation of the city and in excess of the estimate of last year.

The law permits 1 and 1-2 percent of the assessed valuation for school purpose and 1-4 per cent for construction. The estimate is somewhat below the limit.

Last year the estimate was $44,900, so that the excess this year over last is 7,240. The city tax for the year, 1 and 1-4 per cent, is the same as last year, the state and county tax will not be known until the county board holds its September meeting but will probably be about the same as for the past year.

AGRETTES NO LONGER EIGHTY COUPLES ATTEND THE CLOVERLAND DANCE

Purchase or Sale in the State of Michigan is Forbidden by the Ogg Law

The Ogg law is now in force in Michigan and the women of Escanaba who own agrettes had better treasure them carefully for no longer can they be purchased in the state of Michigan. Milliners, in anticipation of the law, have seen to it that the agrette has in a way lost cast but the knowledge that they cannot be purchased in the state will probably stimulate the desire of the females for such trimming.

The agrette is the plumage of the white heron, taken from the mother bird while alive in breeding time. The mother dies after its plumage has been torn from it and the young perish. A passage of a law such as the Ogg act is a long step in the right direction.

The newly organized Cloverland orchestra furnished an exceptionally fine program of music, the delight of all present. Prappe was served throughout the evening.

Hints to Beauty Seekers

In the case of tan, the adage holds true that "an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure." The skin should be protected as much as possible, to prevent these troubles. If you tan easily, it should be protected first by using some cold cream and then coating with a pure powder. A liberal amount of cold cream should be dabbed on and carefully wiped off with a sterilized gauze. Both buttermilk and lemon juice are excellent for taking off tan. Squeeze the juice from a lemon into half a glass of buttermilk and apply with a soft cloth several times daily. Always use cold cream afterward. Fresh buttermilk, used as if it were water, takes off tan better than almost anything that is known. It should be applied freely and allowed to dry in.

Had circulation and weak muscles are to blame for an excessively oily condition of the scalp. For poor circulation, scalp massage is a sovereign remedy. In fact massage of the scalp is absolutely necessary to keeping it in good condition. It should be done with the tips of the fingers, thoroughly and vigorously every night, and every portion of the scalp should be moved free from the skull. In this way the sluggish circulation is aroused.

There are numerous causes of indigestion. Sometimes the trouble is in the stomach, again in the intestines. A small pinch of bicarbonate of soda in hot water, thoroughly dissolved, will in most cases prove helpful. Golf is an excellent exercise to cure indigestion. Every sluggish part of the body is stirred by the game of golf, and this, real and imaginary, drop of sweat after a few months on the links, new blood, few muscles, and a clearer brain come as a natural consequence. If you do not have time for golf every day, try the following exercises: Take your place before an open window and inhale a deep breath while you slowly count six. Hold your breath and spring from standing position with the feet well separated, and at the same time raise the arms until they are parallel to the floor. Exhale slowly with the mouth closed and then inhale again to the count of six. Now bend to the floor, lowering the knees until they are between the arms, then with another quick spring bring the feet together and the arms to the sides. Let us hear of your progress.

To make the eyelashes grow, rub nightly with the finger tips, applying either plain olive oil or vaseline.

Try the following exercises for your sluggish liver: Stand erect, with the arms hanging naturally at the sides. Throw the left arm over the head and bend the body at the waist as far over to the right as it will go. The fingers of the hanging right arm should touch the floor. Reverse the exercise and bend to the left, the right arm over your head. Repeat several times. Walking is an excellent exercise for a sluggish liver and it is also helpful in reducing flesh.

To reduce your lips rub the following astringent ointment into them night and morning: Melt one ounce of cold cream in a double boiler, using no more heat than is required to keep the mass in a fluid state. Add one gram of tannin (in powder) and one gram of chopped alkanet root, and let it steep for five hours. Strain through cheesecloth into a jar and stir until cool.

To remedy excessive perspiration of the face apply the following lotion several times a day: Six ounces of rose-water, two ounces of elderflower water, one-half ounce of tincture of benzoin, and ten grains of tannic acid.

A simple method for destroying vermin in the head is to soak the scalp and hair thoroughly with tincture of larkspur, taking care that none gets into the eyes. This should be done at night, tying the head in a towel. In the morning shampooing is done, and that night another application of larkspur, following with a thorough shampoo. Two applications are usually enough to destroy them entirely. Larkspur is poison if taken internally.

Soda or alum baths are excellent for reducing the flesh. Throw a handful of alum or soda into a tub of water and sit in it for about ten minutes. This is said to dissolve the globules of fat. Then when you get out of the tub use a rough Turkish towel and rub your flesh until it tingles all over. Turkish baths are highly beneficial, but injurious if kept up too continuously. Once a week with daily hot bathing is wiser.

One of the simplest methods of overcoming the nail biting habit is to anoint the finger tips with a bitter liquid. Have this solution made up and apply several times daily after washing the hands: One gram quinine sulphate, one ounce water and one dram extract of quassa. This solution does not discolor the nails, but it does leave a little deposit which is exceedingly bitter and disagreeable to the taste. If you bite your nails, it is well to manure them thoroughly once a week and give them a little care each day. The secret of conquering the habit is to make the nails too attractive to disfigure.

It takes time to reduce one's flesh. Diet and exercise are the only methods that one can use with any degree of satisfaction and success. Pimples are usually caused by careless bathing or improper diet. Cleanse the face well every night, using a good clear skin cream, warm water and a pure soap. Anything that promotes normal acidity of the skin is helpful both in removing and preventing blemishes. Remember, however, that massage is not good for pimples. Such treatment makes the trouble worse. Do not eat excessive quantities of candy or other sweets, oatmeal doughnuts, cakes, rich pastry, fried meats and other indigestible foods.

After excluding sugar and starch from your diet for a time, I think the pimples will disappear. When the pimples come to a head, open them with a fine new needle which has been dipped in boiling water, press out the matter, then apply a healtag, soothing paste.

Here is the recipe for a good tonic for the eyebrows: One ounce of yellow vaseline and eight drops each of lavender and rosemary. After washing the face smooth the eye brows carefully with an eyebrow brush, upon which a drop of the tonic has been placed. Yellow vaseline is one of the best hair growers. This tonic is for your brows, but do not use it on your lashes; you will need only the yellow vaseline on them.

An application of hot vinegar to the hair and scalp will rid the head of nits.

To reduce the flesh on your face, try vigorous massage, using a good cold cream.

The most stubborn and common of facial blemishes are blackheads. As a rule they flourish in great numbers on the chin, forehead, nose, and side of nose; sometimes they spread to the cheeks and appear on other parts of the body. Blackheads are sometimes caused by a derangement of the general health or a disorder of one or more organs. If your health is not good, consult a reliable physician who will be able to cure, or at least correct the cause as far as is possible, for local applications amount to little when the trouble comes from within.

A more frequent cause of the little pests is careless bathing. Unless the impurities are removed from the pores every day, sooner or later they will form the foundation of a blackhead. The face should be thoroughly cleansed every night, using warm water, a pure soap, and a cleansing cream.

Do not try to expel the blackheads by force. This merely tends to irritate the skin and bruise it. The finger nails are poisonous and should never be employed under any circumstances.

A small amount of olive oil to correct torpidity of the liver will cause an increase of flesh. If you are showing a tendency to the dread obesity begin preventive treatment in time. Practice the exercises faithfully and do not overeat. The chief trouble with women who gradually and surely increase in weight is they are apt to have a large appetite. Therefore, do not eat as much as you want. One of the best rules is to omit a meal now and then. Being hungry is often a habit.

Merely washing the face with soap and water will not keep blackheads from forming in the pores of your skin.

Before using soap and water apply a cleansing cream, going over the entire face with a rotary motion around up and out. Massage for ten minutes, then remove the excess of cream with a soft cloth, and the results will be frankly embarrassing. This will soften the pores so that the rest of the dirt will readily come out when soap and water are applied.

The condition of the hair depends largely on the condition of the body, and if your general health is good, your hair is pretty apt to be likewise. So before you apply a tonic to restore the light and life to your dreaded tresses, look to your general bodily health. If your blood is impoverished your hair will be dry and brittle and you must treat the blood, not the hair, for such a condition. Hair tonic should be applied direct to the scalp, not poured all over the hair. You want to get at the roots, not the ends. Part the hair from the forehead to the nape of the neck, dip the fingers into the tonic and massage it in the length of the part. Now make a new part, dip the fingers in the tonic again, massage into the part, and keep on that way until you feel that you have pretty well covered the entire scalp. Then massage the whole scalp until it tingles with new life.

In some months tartar accumulates in spite of the most careful daily attention. In such cases, the dentist should be consulted, for decay soon sets in and the breath becomes offensive. A good rule is to visit the dentist at least twice a year, even though the teeth appear to be in good order. This attention, together with careful daily cleansing, will keep the mouth in perfect condition.

In no way is more injury done to the teeth than by the natural acid in the mouth. This acid or acids act quickly upon the enamel, bringing cavities as well as yellowness. To prevent any tendency to acidity, a mouthful of the milk of magnesia should be taken every night before retiring, allowing it to penetrate into every nook and cranny of the mouth.

Here is the formula for a satisfactory paste for tinting the lips: One ounce of spermaceti ointment, fifteen grains of balsam of Peru, fifteen grains of alkanet root, five drops of oil of cloves. Warm the ointment in a double boiler at a gentle heat—do not let it boil—and in this steep the alkanet root until the liquid is a deep rose color. Pass through a coarse strainer to remove the pieces of root and when the ointment has slightly cooled add the balsam. Let this mixture settle for a moment, then pour off the clear portion, to which add the oil of cloves. This amount will fill a colored jar. It is safe to use and is healing to the lips as well as giving them a pretty rose tint.

Berlin's Taxes.

Berlin with its surroundings represents about nine per cent. of the population of the kingdom of Prussia, but it pays in taxes one-fourth of the total amount collected on incomes. The total amount assessed in Prussia was 294,000,000 marks at the end of 1910. Berlin itself contributed 42,000,000, but when the suburbs are included the sum amounts to 72,500,000. The German metropolis pays 10,000,000 more than the whole Polish province and the six eastern provinces furnish to the treasury 10,500,000 marks less than does Berlin.—London Globe.

HAMMOCK FOR BABY.

Can Be Suspended Over Parents' Bed and Infant is Safe.

A substitute for a baby's cradle has been invented by a Tennessee man, in the form of a hammock, adapted to be hung over the parents' bed. This hammock is so designed that it combines perfect comfort for the occupant with perfect safety and is within easy reach of the mother if baby needs attention. The baby portion of the hammock is a boat-shaped affair of some flexible material and laces together at the end. A hood shelters the head of the device and a belt passes around it and serves the double purpose of keeping the infant from falling out and keeping his coverings on.

Easy to Reach from Bed.

Ropes are attached to each end of the hammock and their other extremities fastened to hooks in the opposite walls. Thus suspended the hammock swings over the bed in full view of the child's parents, who can rock it as they lie and with much less trouble than it takes to rock the ordinary cradle. When not in use the hammock takes up no more room than the space required to hang it on a hook in the closet.

Packing the Trunk to Go Abroad.

"It may sound frivolous to lay so much stress on the packing of a trunk," says Esther Brooke in Woman's Home Companion, "but no one can travel three or four months without a certain amount of extra clothing. Just what to take and what to leave out is the question. A woman needs most of all to concentrate her mind on the little things which she will need, such as needles, thread, buttons, safety-pins, tape, elastic for garters, shoe-trains, scissors, corset-laces, collar-buttons, hairpins, soap, candles, matches, alcohol lamp, this writing paper, fountain-pen, silk scarf to cover the hat, memorandum-book and pencil, folding umbrella and a few pet medicines.

"As for clothes, alpaca dresses, coats and skirts are the best of all. Tan or gray is better than black. They shed the dust, are not too hot and heavy, and not too cold, and they are more durable than silk. Union undersuits of gauze are not to be improved upon, for compactness, for convenience, for comfort and for cheapness in washing. At least half a dozen pairs of these should be taken. Choose whatever shoe you know to be most comfortable to you in walking, and with these a dozen pairs of washable, wearable hose. Solid taffeta silk petticoats are best, and plaid wears better than the plain colors. After this, as many shirt-waists and white or light fancy silk or lace blouses as you have space for are in order. You cannot have too many pretty blouses and fresh handsome belts. These, with a pretty hat, will make the plainest get-up look stylish and attractive, especially if accompanied by a fresh linen collar at least once a day. Add a second dress of white alpaca or white de nion, which latter is practically un-musable, and you are ready for all occasions."

Time Measurement.

Our measurement of time into sixty minutes, each minute into sixty seconds, etc., comes from the ancient Babylonians. The system was handed on to the Greeks and the distinguished philosopher, Hipparchus, who lived about B. C. 150, introduced the Babylonian hour into Europe. Ptolemy, lived and wrote about A. D. 150, gave still another currency to the Babylonian way of reckoning time.

HOW WE GET TUBERCULOSIS

We can get tuberculosis only by receiving into the body the little germs known as tubercle bacilli. The consumptive infects another, or gives tuberculosis of the lungs to another, by means of the tubercle bacilli in the material coughed up from the diseased lungs which often contains millions of these germs. They get out of the body of a person who has tuberculosis, not only in the material which is coughed up, but also in the little drops, so small to be seen, which are sprayed out when persons with tuberculosis cough or sneeze.

Great care must be taken to destroy all the material coughed up by the consumptive, and to avoid careless coughing and sneezing. If this is not done, and if the sputum is discharged on the floor or carpets or clothing the germs may live for months, especially in dark, damp, unventilated bedrooms, living rooms, and work-rooms. The germs will live in the darkness and dampness for a long time, and are stirred up in dusting and sweeping these rooms. They float in the air and may be breathed into the lungs, or may fall upon articles of food and be taken into the body in that way. It is not safe to move into a house or rooms in which a patient with tuberculosis has lived until such house or rooms have been thoroughly cleansed and disinfected or renovated.

The kind of people most apt to get tuberculosis are those who are run down or ill from poor or insufficient food, from living in dark, overcrowded or ill-ventilated rooms, or from overwork, or during convalescence from other exhausting diseases. Their weakened systems cannot resist the disease. Working or living in dusty rooms may lead to the disease, especially where the air is bad from poor ventilation or overcrowding.

Landowners in Japan. A landowner in Japan, states a British consular report, owns the surface and products of the surface of land only; all minerals under the surface appertain, not to him, but to the Japanese Government. Moreover, should the Government or its nominee wish to extract the minerals lying under a landowner's property, the latter, though he would, of course, receive compensation for loss, cannot object on legal ground to the development of those minerals.

Oil for Locomotives. Successful experiments in the use of crude oil on the locomotives on the Canadian Pacific Railway between Vancouver and Kamloops have decided the vice president, William Whyte, to recommend the use of oil as fuel for the entire distance through the mountains. It is believed the adoption of this course will remove the danger of conflagrations in the great forest areas of the British Columbia.

Tainted Milk Traced. Out of 760 samples of milk examined in London in three months 106 were tuberculous, and the task of tracing this milk necessitated the examination of 8715 cows at 102 farms scattered over the country.

Southern States' Population. The 14 Southern States with Missouri and Oklahoma now have an aggregate population of 32,600,000, which is only 18,000,000 less than the total population of the entire United States in 1880.

OUR BOYS and GIRLS

THEY MADE GRANDMA YOUNG.

Nip and Nibble, tots of only 6 and 4 years, stood behind Grandma Charles' chair, taking her hair-plugs out. When the last one was reached down came Grandma's snowy-white hair, "for all the world like a waterfall," Nip said.

Then Nip combed and then Nibble combed. Grandma had given them permission, for they were gentle, and she liked to feel their soft little hands wandering over her hair. "Danna, do wese pull?" asked Nibble, putting up her lips for a kiss. "Bless the child! No indeed. Grandma could sit all the afternoon while your sweet hands pat and smooth. It is very soothing. You make grandma happy."

Then the children had to kiss her again and again before they combed another stroke.

"Es. es. Wed cheeks an' 'ips," said Nibble.

"It makes me feel as if I were a little girl again, being rocked to sleep in my cradle," said grandma, and the next moment the side of her face rested on the back of the rocking chair and she was fast asleep.

"Isn't it too bad," said Nip, "that any one so nice as our grandma had to get old?"

"Daddy 'tis, I feels real sorry for her," said Nibble.

"So do I," said Nip. "I say, Nibble, wouldn't it be nice if we could make her a little younger?"

"Es, es," laughed Nibble. "If we could make her a little dirl 'like me, den she could run an' play wif us, an' I'd let her hab my velly best doll."

"What would be the little," said Nip.

"I mean we could make her young as mamma is."

"'Ung as mamma 'ith," repeated Nibble.

"Young folks have red cheeks and lips," said Nip.

"'Es, es. Wed cheeks an' 'ips," said Nibble.

"Red ink is on the desk," said Nip. "Let's stain her cheeks and lips."

"'Es, es. 'Es," said Nibble, dropping her comb to clap her hands.

"Then Nip took a soft rag, dipped the end of it in the ink and rubbed it gently over grandma's cheeks. Grandma dreamed it was a kiss, perhaps.

"O-o-o! 'Ou's made-danna booful," cried Nibble, standing back to view the effect.

"She arn't have gray hair. It ort to be black like mamma's," said Nip, taking up another bottle and applying the fluid it contained to grandma's hair.

"Oh, Nip! It's blue. De ink 'ith blue. Danna's hair 'ith blue. 'Ithin't s'e pitty? Won't danna be pleased when she wakes up?" Then both children ran out to play, while grandma slept on and on, and never waked up until the supper bell rang. Then, after feeling the back of her hair to find if it was up (for these children had a trick sometimes of running off and leaving her hair all of a tumble around her shoulders), she hastened away.

There was company that night, and as grandma entered the dining-room every eye was turned full upon her. Some, with a startled look of astonishment, others just ready to break into laughter.

"What is it?" smiled grandma, as she seated herself at the table. "You don't like my coiffure? There are my hair-dressers," and she looked playfully over to the children. "I fell asleep before they were through, and that may account for it."

"You dreadful children!" exclaimed their father. "Mother, just look in the glass," and then everybody laughed, for they couldn't help it. Such a thing as a grandmother with bright red cheeks and blue hair had never been seen before.

It took grandma some time to get the red off her cheeks, and as for her hair, she said that could only wear off, and that is why Grandma Charles is wearing a black lace cap today, though caps for old ladies went out of style years and years ago.

Clock Made of Straw. An extraordinary addition has been made to the exhibition of inventions now being held in Berlin. A shoemaker named Wegner, living in Strasburg, sent in a clock of the grandfather shape, nearly six feet high, made entirely of straw. The wheels, pointers, case and every detail are exclusively of straw. Wegner has taken 15 years to construct this strange piece of mechanism. It keeps perfect time, a Berlin reporter says.

TO KEEP AWAY WITCHES.

Women's Belief in the Power of Fantastic Costume.

A remarkable case of supposed witchcraft was brought to light at Taunton, England, recently, says the London Daily Mail, when Frances Jane Smith, a married woman, residing at Sweet Hay, was brought up on a charge of threatening to stab another woman with a pocket knife. The defendant is well known in Taunton, where she has been noticeable for some time past by reason of her fantastic attire.

The police state that the woman and her husband formerly had a large farm near Honiton. Having lost a good deal of stock through disease, some gypsies told the woman that her cattle had been bewitched, and that the only thing which would act as a spell and keep the witches away was for her to dress in peculiar garb and to wear charms in the form of rings and other ornaments. She was also told to put money under a stone to appease the wrath of the witch.

Mrs. Smith presented a remarkable appearance before the magistrate in her grotesque attire. She wore a "Tam-o-Shanter" with numerous colored feathers, a large check jacket, and an orange colored dress. From her neck were suspended an iron padlock, a pair of scissors, and other articles. Her fingers were covered with rings.

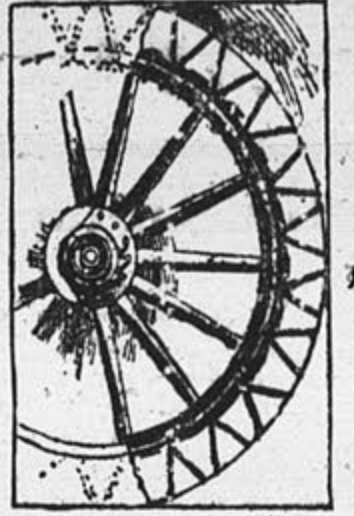

Questioned by the mayor, the woman could give no coherent explanation of her conduct, and the police said they had received complaints of persons being interfered with by the woman.

She caused a scene by going down on her knees and asking to be forgiven.

The charge against her was not gone into, but she was seen by Dr. V. Keene, of Taunton, who certified that she was of unsound mind, and later in the day she was removed to the asylum.

Anti-Slipping Attachment.

The pneumatic or cushion tire is such an improvement over the iron tire used on vehicles that its use is becoming universal; but the rubber, being susceptible to changes of temperature—contracting and expanding with the heat and cold—difficulty has been experienced in preventing the tire from slipping off the wheel of the vehicle. As yet no satisfactory device has been devised which thoroughly overcomes this fault. A unique contrivance is the one shown in the illustration. It comprises a chain which takes a zig-zag course upon the circumference of the tire and is anchored at intervals by means of double-ended snap hooks to a chain passing adjacent to the rim of the wheel. This chain is made up of links, turn-buckles being positioned at intervals to connect the sections of the chain and to draw and hold it taut. Another chain is placed zigzag over the surface of the tire and is connected at intervals with the lower chain by means of double-ended snap hooks. These hooks are each made of a piece of metal bent to form hooks, while the shank of each hook is concaved to conform to the contour of the tire. In applying the anti-slipping attachment to wheels the inner ends of the hooks are caught into links of the lower chain, there being two of these chains, one on each side of the wheel. The upper chain is run zigzag over the surface of the tire, being made to engage alternate snap hooks upon opposite sides of the wheel, and when the chain has been run about the entire circumference of the wheel the turn-buckles are operated to draw the lower chain taut. This device can be applied to a tire while it is an inflated or deflated condition, and can be quickly attached or detached from a vehicle wheel.

METAL OF THE STANDARDS.

No Products of Human Skill on Which Greater Care is Expended.

There are no products of human skill on which a greater degree of care is expended than the standards of weight and measure in use among the civilized nations of the globe. Two things in particular have to be considered: accuracy and durability. Nature does not furnish any single metal, or mineral, which exactly answers the requirements of a standard of measure or weight that shall be, as nearly as possible, unalterable. The best substance yet produced for this purpose is an alloy of ninety per cent. of platinum with ten per cent. of iridium. This is called iridio platinum, and is the substance of which the metric standards prepared by the International Committee on Weights and Measures is composed. It is hard, is less affected by heat than any pure metal, is practically unoxidizable, and can be finely engraved. In fact, the lines on the standard meters are hardly visible to the naked eye, yet they are sharp and accurate.

If our civilization should ever be destroyed in some brighter age in the remote future, there is nothing that could bear higher testimony to its character than these standard measures of iridio platinum, for the perfection and preservation of which the science of this day has done its very best.

Cleaning Jewels. Gold rings, brooches, and articles of jewelry that are set with precious stones can be cleaned with warm water and a white soap with very little ammonia. Use a soft toothbrush to get in between the setting and the stone. For rings set with turquoise pearls the water cleaning should be avoided, but for the hard transparent gems it is allowed. Polish the rings and pins with soft chamols and they will be perfectly bright and sparkling.

General Abbey stated today that he proposes to ask John H. Walker, representative of the mining department of the American Federation of Labor for an explanation of his scurrilous attack upon the militia, sent to Wash- ington and from there all over the country by the press associations the latter part of last week. General Abbey says he will investigate these charges thoroughly, although in common with most of the residents of the district he does not believe them.

The Misses Ada and Ella Frechette have left for a few weeks visit at Eau Claire, Milwaukee and Chicago.

Mrs. Joseph Bruner of Spaulding has returned to her home after a several days visit in the city.

Miss Theresa Frechette returned to her home in Bark River last evening after spending the past few days in the city with friends and relatives.

Miss Sadie Ingram of Oconto is the guest of Miss Ella Sullivan for a few days. From here Miss Ingram will leave for Iron River, where she is engaged as a teacher in the public schools.

FIVE SHAFTS IN OPERATION

People to magnify fears, dangers and actual facts. General Abbey had his military force on the alert for danger at these shafts; Sheriff Cruise's forces also were in readiness for any contingency, but the day passed with only minor disturbances being reported.

The Calumet & Hecla shafts now in actual operation are Nos. 4, 5 and 6, Calumet conglomerate; No. 7, Hecla conglomerate, and No. 15, Osceola conglomerate. These shafts did not hoist sufficient rock to make shipping profitable, but it is believed that if the operations tomorrow are attended with as little interference as those of today shipping to the stamp mills at Lake Linden will be resumed forthwith.

There was a rumor that all of the Calumet & Hecla shafts would be hoisting by tomorrow. This could not be confirmed. The five Calumet & Hecla shafts mentioned are the only ones in active operation. There has been no resumption at any other mines, excepting the underground work that has been in progress on a greater or lesser scale for nearly two weeks and excepting that repair work at the Superior was started today. The Baltic and the Isle Royale did not resume hoisting today, as had been expected on Sunday.

More Troops Relieved From Duty

While there were a few disturbances the strikers were, as a rule, orderly during the day. This fact was so striking that the state military board met at Calumet this morning and relieved the Calumet Engineers, the Houghton Light Infantry and half of Company B, First regiment, of Detroit, from further duty. These companies made immediate preparations to return home.

In an interview today, following the meeting of the military board, General Abbey, commander of the National Guard, stated it as his opinion that Governor Ferris will not recall the remainder of the troops as long as there is any possibility of trouble after the removal of the soldiers from the strike zone. The general intimated that if it is necessary to insure order and prevent any attempt to interfere with the operation of the mines, the militia will remain in the district until snow flies.

Will Ask Walker for Explanation.

closed, and when rehearsals begin in the early fall for the new shows there are always more chorus people applying than it is possible to assign positions, for they know if they locate with this firm that they have a fair chance for working the entire year. As a result LeComte and Fletcher's attractions start the season with a full quota of show girls, "Ponies" and chorus men.

EVAN WILLIAMS "COLD"

Noted Singer's Audience Naturally Labor Under Misapprehension

Critics unacquainted with Evan Williams voice and his way of presenting a program almost invariably think he has a cold when he first begins to sing and often say "Mr. Williams was suffering from a cold, but his voice soon cleared up and he sang gloriously, etc."

The fact of the matter is he almost never has a cold, but he begins his program with a dark tone of great depth, and from this evolves the brilliant sunlit tone coloring that brings the rapturous admiration and applause which is always rampant in an Evan Williams audience.

It is a quiet and beautiful philosophy of his that all light must come forth from darkness and all gladness out of sombre depths, so he makes this fact vocally realistic, few people realize that it is partly from his very fact that they enjoy his recitals so intensely. Of course he does his best work when he is warmed up in the sunshine, but who would know it was sunshine without the deep shadows behind? So Evan Williams "Colds" are but shadows after all.

Evan Williams appearance here Tuesday evening, August 26 at Peterson's Opera House has aroused great interest in all the neighboring towns and it is expected that many automobile parties will be planned by those coming to Escanaba to hear him.

Oakland, Cal., is to have a woman's police bureau next year with a woman in charge.

RETURN ENGAGEMENT

Le Comte and Fletcher, who are presenting several of Adams, Hough and Howard's successes among them the musical fantasy, "The Prince of Tonight," coming to the Peterson for a return engagement next Sunday, experience very little of the so called distressing shortage of chorus people. The reason undoubtedly is, that this firm have sometimes as many as three attractions on the road during the summer when most attractions are closed, and when rehearsals begin in the early fall for the new shows there are always more chorus people applying than it is possible to assign positions, for they know if they locate with this firm that they have a fair chance for working the entire year. As a result LeComte and Fletcher's attractions start the season with a full quota of show girls, "Ponies" and chorus men.

STEER CHASES CHILD TO SECOND FLOOR

Animal Scampers up Stairs in Moser Building to Second Story and Has Door Slammed in His Face

A two year old steer belonging to Frank Case caused considerable commotion in North Escanaba this morning when it scampers gaily up the rear steps to the second floor of the Moser building in pursuit of a little girl.

It happened this way. Buck Nolden went to the Case farm about noon today to bring a steer to the city for slaughter. The steer made its getaway from the pasture before it was roped and tore down the road with Nolden in pursuit. When Nolden reached the Breitenbach meat market he asked for aid in capturing the steer. Hugo Breitenbach suggested that they might corner it and then lasso it. With Charles Grunert aiding the cornering proceedings began. The steer however refused to be cornered and sighting a woman and girl in the alley made their way. The little girl frightened clamored up the steps leading to her home on the second floor of the Moser building. About three feet from the ground is a ten foot platform. Onto this the animal leaped and the little girl scrambled up the stairway with the steer in full pursuit. Taking three steps at a time he tore up the steps and was headed into the kitchen of the Peterson home when the child slammed the door. The platform at the top of the steps is so small that his steerishness could not move very freely and his pursuers experienced no trouble in pushing and pulling him backwards down the flight of stairs. He was then roped and led off to the slaughter.

CHIMNEY FIRE TODAY

Companies Called to Fond du Lac House at Two O'clock This Afternoon

Companies Nos. 1 and 2 responded to a fire alarm sent in from the Fond du Lac house at 1208 Ludington street shortly after two o'clock this afternoon.

When the firemen arrived they found that the chimney was having a little fire all to itself and that the property was not in danger.

Japanese Fruit Trees.

Among the many ways of their own that the Japanese have for doing things is their system of pruning and training fruit trees. The system is called "tana," and consists in training the branches overhead on trellis work made of bamboo or wire supported on wooden posts about five and a half feet high.

This offers advantages in gathering the fruit, and not only serves to protect the trees against wind and storms, but is said to increase production. Only very light pruning is done, and that usually in the winter-time. This system is generally adopted for pears and vines, less often for apples and plums. Youths' Companion.

Varieties of Oranges and Lemons.

Oranges and lemons of excellent quality have reached this country from Rhodesia. The introduction of both these fruits into Europe is more recent than many suppose. A native of India, the orange came to us by way of western Asia, the bitter orange being brought in by returning Crusaders and the sweet variety not coming until the fifteenth century, when Genoese traders introduced the tree into Italy.

The Lath.

It would appear, says the London Engineer, that certain busy bodies in America are dissatisfied with the term "lath," and would have it changed to "turning machine." Engineering nomenclature, particularly in the United States, is in large part formed of localisms. Each district frequently a different name for the same article or tool, and the terms employed in one place are commonly unintelligible to engineers hailing from others.

The New Japanese Census.

It appears that the Japanese are going to take their next census according to European methods. For this purpose a Japanese professor from the University of Tokio visited Rome with a view to studying the taking of the Italian census. He had been in Berlin and Vienna with a similar object. The Japanese census is to be taken on more exact lines than has ever been attempted on previous occasions.
