

ROYAL TO-NIGHT

Three Reel special Feature

The Tiger Lily

The principal character in this three-reel special is a Parisian actress, the "Tiger Lily." She is a woman of powerfully emotional temperament, capable of raising to the greatest heights, or sinking to the lowest depths, a creature of vindictive jealousy and tigerish hate, utterly without scruples in the gratification of her inclinations. It is difficult to imagine a photoplay containing more thrills and powerful situations than the "Tiger Lily." The frequent and always startling introduction of a full-grown Bengal tiger supplies a large share of the excitement.

CAN'T AGREE ON THE WORDING OF MOTIONS

Mayor Insists That Clerk Copy Motions Precisely as Alderman Make Them

Mayor O. P. Chatfield took issue with City Clerk A. J. Pepin at last night's session of council regarding the wording of the minutes as placed upon the record. The Mayor insisted that the clerk should copy the various motions word for word. Mr. Pepin answered that many of the motions needed a little polishing and for that reason he merely took notes and put the motions in good English at his leisure. The Mayor answered that this would not do, that it was not the clerk's prerogative to doctor up the motions, that he took the sense of the motion and then worded it so that it would be readable without in any way changing the sense of it.

The motion in question at the time was restated by the alderman who made it and when Clerk Pepin read it at the request of the Mayor it read something like this:

"I move that this horse business be referred to the purchasing committee and the fire committee with power to act."

UPPER PENINSULA WINTER RYE

Farm Expert Geller Demonstrates This a Valuable Crop for U. P.

Henry W. Geller, agriculturist for the South Shore railroad, who was in Houghton recently, has demonstrated at the company's experimental farm at Lake Nebagamon, Wis., the adaptability of winter rye to this soil and climate. He considers it will be one of the best paying crops in the upper peninsula, practically on new land. Mr. Geller sowed a few acres to winter rye, using a pedigree seed. His crop has acclimated the seed still further. The average yield on the farm was 28 bushels to the acre. Some acres produced 39 1/2 bushels. The first seed purchased cost $2.50 a bushel, but the South Shore, to introduce the grain to the upper peninsula will sell the seed to farmers at $1.50 a bushel.

Henry Bedlow, of Newport, R. I., aged 91, has fallen heir to $300,000.
