A TREAT FOR THE KIDLETS

CLIP THE COUPON FROM TODAY'S MIRROR AND ATTEND MATINEE PERFORMANCE AT ORPHEUM

MIRROR'S TREAT FOR CHILDREN

Any Child Under Fifteen Years of Age Will be Admitted on Presentation of Coupon

The coupon appearing on this page of The Mirror will entitle any child under fifteen years of age to admission to the Orpheum theatre at the matinee tomorrow (Saturday) afternoon.

Attention was called to the Mirror's big treat in yesterday's issue. Through arrangement with Manager Cobb The Mirror has made arrangements for this unexcelled offer.

It costs the child nothing. Absolutely the only requirement is the presenting of the coupon at the door of the Orpheum tomorrow afternoon. It's The Mirror's treat and costs the holders of the coupons not one cent.

The bill being offered this half-week is one well calculated to please the children. There is fun galore in all the acts and in addition special reels for children will be shown.

Clip the coupon and if you haven't any children of your own give it to one of your neighbor's children. It is The Mirror's desire to have as many youngsters as possible present.

IN MARQUETTE JAIL

Young Men Arrested in Gladstone Are Now in Marquette County Institution Awaiting Trial

James Cotey and C. M. Hess of Danville, Illinois, who were taken from Escanaba yesterday by U. S. Marshall Ross, are now in the county jail at Marquette.

The young men, who are charged with stealing clothing from the Illinois state militia, maintain that the warrants issued for their arrest is spite word pure and simple. During the time that the young men were employed in Gladstone they conducted themselves so as to gain the esteem of all with whom they came in contact.

FIVE CORRECT GUESSES

J. D. Shackleford of Schaffer Wins Plow Offered by Charles Gunderson

J. D. Shackleford of Schaffer has been announced as the winner of the plow offered by Charles Gunderson at the Northern Michigan State fair to the person who guessed nearest its weight. The correct weight of the plow was 136 pounds and there were five correct guesses. In the drawing Mr. Shackleford won. The guesses ranged all the way from 75 to 637 pounds.

MANY ANSWERS RECEIVED

"Guaranteed" Was Missing Word and Miss Jessie M. Pulley is the Winner

The missing word in Thursday's missing word contest was "guaranteed" in the Bonen and Sonaglia advertisement. The omission was an obvious one and a large number of answers were received.

The winner of yesterday's contest is Miss Jessie M. Pulley of 711 Ludington street.

Watch for the next contest in Tuesday's issue of The Mirror.

Mrs. H. J. Ellis and Son Continue Their Journey to New Orleans

Mrs. H. J. Ellis and son Earl, who arrived from Gwinn in a canoe Wednesday, continued their journey south this morning and a considerable number of people were at the Stephenson dock to see them off. They do not expect to reach Green Bay until the latter part of the coming week as the journey is to be made in easy stages.

WASP STING FATAL

Lady Molesworth, Stung Over Jugular Vein and Dies in Twenty Minutes

(By Associated Press.)
Trewarthenic, Cornwall, England, September 26.—Lady Molesworth, daughter of Brigadier General Frost, U. S. A., was stung just over the jugular vein this morning by a wasp. Twenty minutes later she was dead.

DARING WORK OF MERE BOYS

YOUTHFUL BANDITS HOLD UP TRAIN, RIFLE MAIL CAR AND DYNAMITE EXPRESS CAR

ENGINE STARTED WITHOUT DRIVER

Line Engineer Firemen and Mail Clerk Alongside of Track and Steal Train

(By Associated Press.)
Cottondale, Ala., Sept. 26.—Two mere boys were the bandits who held up a train on the Alabama Great Southern Railway and rifled the mail car, dynamited the express car and escaped with the booty, say the trainmen who were on board the train.

After stopping the train with a danger signal the bandits forced the engineer and firemen, express messenger and six mail clerks to leave the train and line up along the side of the track.

They then compelled one of the men to detach the engine, mail and express cars. With one of the bandits covering the men the other got on the engine and started down the track, the other climbing on board as the detached cars started.

After they had gone a sufficient distance they rifled the mail car, dynamited the express safe and then pulling the throttle of the engine wide open sent the train dashing down the track without a soul on board. The short train dashed through several towns and did not stop until the steam was exhausted, which was near Englewood, Ala.

As soon as word could be sent out a posse was organized and an effort is being made to locate the boys. The trainmen maintain that they were not over 16 years if that. The holdup was conducted in the regular western moving picture style, the boys wearing masks and broad brimmed hats which were much too large for them.

OLE THEOBALDI AT PETERSON TONIGHT

Celebrated Violinist With Madame Stitzel and M'le Helene Kellere

Tonight Ole Theobaldi, the man with the "one million dollar finger," recognized as one of the world's greatest violinists, M'le Helene Kellere and Madame Stitzel will appear tonight at the Peterson opera house under the auspices of the Norwegian Lutheran church and the entertainment promises to mark an epoch in Escanaba's musical history.

The celebrated violinist holds first rank in the violinists of the world and the music lovers here may well congratulate themselves upon this chance to hear him. The seats for the entertainment are going rapidly and a capacity house is assured.

MYSTERY IN MASON DEATH

BARAGA COUNTY ATTORNEY SUPPOSED TO BE DROWNED WAS SHORT IN HIS ACCOUNTS

MAY HAVE LEFT FOR OTHER PARTS

Investigation Discloses Estate to be Bankrupt—School Funds $12,000 Short

(By Associated Press.)
Marquette, September 26.—The examination of the affairs of W. T. Mason, the Baraga county attorney, who is supposed to have been drowned two weeks ago, was completed this morning and an alleged shortage of twelve thousand dollars in the school fund of which he had charge is disclosed.

The examination showed Mason to have been on the verge of bankruptcy when he disappeared. These developments give rise to the belief that Mason either committed suicide or upset his canoe and left for other parts hoping to give out the impression that he had been drowned. The only proof that he was drowned was the finding of the capsized canoe on Keeweenaw Bay.

"YOU SEE IT FIRST"

Brother Baldwin of Escanaba Journal Skeptical as to Morning Paper's Claims

"Our morning contemporary claims 'You see it first in this paper.' We don't see the sheet very often, but in looking over the issue for yesterday we were impressed with the indisputable fact that that particular issue was in substance a reprint of the Mirror of the previous evening and the Mining Journal of the previous morning. The morning sheet better strengthen its armor before doing such extravagant boasting."

P. R. R. WILL SELL ANTHRACITE MINES

Will Probably Dispose of $22,000,000 of Cambria Steel Holdings

(By Associated Press.)
Philadelphia, Sept. 26.—President Rea of the Pennsylvania railway has made the announcement that the board of directors have decided to sell their holdings in all of the anthracite coal companies, which has been attached to the company for forty years.

These holdings represent ten per cent of the hard coal mined in the United States. The Pennsylvania railroad controlled 17000 acres of coal land. It is also reported that the company will sell $22,000,000 worth of Cambria Steel company holdings.

LOCAL MERCHANTS AT THE STEPHENSON FAIR

Fair Store, Cash Merchantile Company, Escanaba Marble and Granite Works, John Sourwine Have Displays

The Stephenson fair came to a successful close last evening. The exhibition which continued over three days, was by far the most successful exhibition of its kind ever held there. The attendance was large, the exhibits high class, the attractions many and in every other way the fair was a distinct success.

The Fair Savings Bank store of Escanaba had the largest display in the exhibition building and the only display of merchandise. The Escanaba Marble and Granite company, The Cash Merchantile company and John Sourwine, all of Escanaba, occupied booths. Among those in attendance at the Stephenson fair yesterday were Herman Salinsky and Mr. T. E. Strom.

WINDFALL FOR ENGLAND

American Dies and Death Duties to Great Britain Will Amount to Over $1,000,000

(By Associated Press.)
London, September 26.—The British Treasury has received an unexpected windfall from the estate of the late Anthony Nicholas Brady of Albany, N. Y., whose English property is valued at $6,500,000. The death duties for the nation amount to over a million.

ESCANABAN IS FUGITIVE

DR. J. STAFFORD CONLEY IS SOUGHT BY WEBSTER POLICE ON CHARGE OF LARCENY

FRIENDS HERE ARE SKEPTICAL

News Dispatch From That City Says That Dentist Eloped With Nurse

The following press dispatch in reference to "Stafford" Connelly, who was formerly an Escanaba boy will come as a great surprise to his many friends in this city, who hope that there must be some mistake in regard to it and that when explanations are made everything will turn out all right.

While the young man lived in this city he was of good habits and that he would go wrong seems almost as impossible as it would be regretted.

Webster.—Armed with a warrant charging larceny, the police late today began a search for Dr. J. Stafford Conley, a well-known dentist, who has been reputed wealthy, and who disappeared from Webster early today. It is charged that Dr. Conley, after selling his instruments, fixtures and business to Dr. Charles D. Ross of Malden, for $500 cash yesterday, rose early this morning and left town, with the instruments, in his automobile.

Mrs. Conley, after recovering from the hysteria attendant upon his unexpected departure, filed an attachment for $1,000 on her husband's office and gave out a statement in which she said that she not only owned the office fixtures and instruments, but that Dr. Conley had taken with him about $1,500 belonging to her.

The warrant for Dr. Conley's arrest was sworn out when Dr. Ross reached Webster, and found both him and the instruments which he had purchased (Continued on page five)

FIVE HUNDRED WATCH AN EXCITING CHASE

Sprinter When He Overhauls Fugitive Who has a 100 Yard Start

Nearly five hundred people watched an exciting chase shortly before noon today when John Burns from Lathrop was the chassie and officer Pariseau and the bartender, in the Gene Sullivan saloon were the chassers. The flight began at the Sullivan saloon and ended in front of the West End jewelry store.

Burns had broken a glass in the swinging door at the Sullivan saloon and as the act that caused the breakage was one of intent the bartender demanded payment. This Burns refused and when the bartender started from behind the bar he took to his heels and the barkeeper gave chase. As the two tore past the Mary street corner Officer Pariseau sighted them and jumping to the conclusion that the fugitive was badly wanted for some cause or other he joined in the chase. Although many yards in the rear at the start he soon overhauled Burns and hauled him to the jail. Burns meanwhile resisting to the best of his ability.

When Burns pushed his hand through the glass of the door he cut it severely.

ARE PREPARING FOR DANCE

FATHER SCHMIDT AND MURET ARE INDICTED

(By Associated Press.)
New York, Sept. 26.—The federal grand jury has returned an indictment against the confessed slayer of Anna Aumuller, Hans Schmidt and his associate Ernest Muret, charging them with conspiracy to counterfeit.

TO COMPLETE CITY CHARTER

CHARTER COMMISSION WILL HOLD ITS FINAL SESSION—CHARTER HAS BEEN COMPLETED.

ELECTION TO BE HELD JANUARY 26

Will Be Submitted to Governor Ferris for His Action on Monday Next.

The charter commission will complete its work at a meeting to be held tonight and on Monday of the coming week Governor Ferris will probably pass upon the charter.

The charter itself is complete and all its provisions have been adopted by the board. At tonight's session it will be carefully read and such corrections as are deemed necessary will be made, although it is highly probable that the charter, as it now stands will receive the final stamp of approval of the members of the board.

In the event of the approval of the charter by Governor Ferris it will be returned with the approval and the work of the charter commission will have ended.

The charter provides that the voters of the city of Escanaba shall pass upon the charter at a special election to be held on January 26 of the coming year. Should the charter be adopted Escanaba will in the future enjoy a commission form of government for such the charter provides.

Each elector in the city will be provided with a copy of the charter and there are twenty-two electors in the city. In the event of the acceptance of the charter by the people many additional copies would be necessary, probably four thousand copies will be ordered from the printers on the first run.

The charter provides for the election of a mayor, two commissioners and one justice of the peace to be chosen at the regular spring election, the first Monday of April next.

COUNTY GRANGE TO HOLD CONVENTION

Annual Meeting Will be Held at City Hall, Escanaba, on October 8.

Delegates to the State Grange convention to represent Delta county will be elected at the annual convention of the Granges of this county to be held at the city hall, Escanaba, on Wednesday, October 8, at one o'clock in the afternoon.

Each subordinate Grange in the county in good standing will be entitled to send four delegates to the county convention.

The State Grange convention this year will be held at Flint, commencing on December 12.

MORNING STAR DANCE

Society Will Hold Party in the North Star Hall Tomorrow Evening

The Morning Star society will give a dance at the North Star hall tomorrow evening. An invitation has been extended to the North Star society and the Krouan society of Gladstone and a large attendance is expected. Members of the local order may take one friend. Excellent music has been engaged and a good time is assured.

MANY ENJOYED DANCE HELD LAST NIGHT AT DANFORTH

The dance held last night at Danforth proved a most enjoyable affair a crowd that taxed the capacity of the new hall being in attendance. Excellent music was furnished and all attending report a most enjoyable evening. Several young people from this city were in attendance.

THE DEACON'S HANDICAP

By J. C. PLUMMER.

Deacon Job Potter entered his kitchen and seated himself with a deep sigh on the bench.

"What's the matter, Job?" asked Mrs. Potter.

"I'm concerned, Hannah, I'm concerned. My spirit is as clear as spring water, but I'm concerned about what these hyar carnal minded people will say."

"What's happened?" inquired Mrs. Potter, anxiously.

"I was drivin' to hum this afternoon when who should come up to me but Mordecai Pratt a drivin' that there two hundred dollar critter he bought in York, hitched to his buggy. I had my old sixty dollar mare to the light wagon and when she heard that critter behind her she jest gripped the bit in her teeth and Mordecai wasn't nowhere 'cept kivered with dust. Now, all these people will think I was racin'."

"Eat your supper, Job," said Mrs. Potter, "no one 'll believe you would race after the way you've talked agin it."

A ripple of laughter came from the parlor.

"Who's in thar?" asked the Deacon.

"Why," replied Mrs. Potter, coloring. "Fred Carey walked hum with Sarah, and he's not gone yet."

The Deacon thumped his fist on the table.

"I won't have that man a goin' with Sarah," he snarled, "he's a worldlin' and sells feed to those unregenerate critters that have race horses at the track."

"Judge Grimes says Fred's doin' a nice business and is goin' to be a rich man some day," put in Mrs. Potter.

"Who's Judge Grimes?" retorted the Deacon, disdainfully, "don't be playin' cyards!"

But Mrs. Potter went up stairs before the sins of the Judge were fully proclaimed.

After she had gone the Deacon emptied his pockets of some old papers, throwing them into the stove.

"Mordecai wasn't nowhere," he chuckled and then looked at a square piece of cardboard among the papers. It read as follows:

"International Turf Club, New York. Play or Pay. 1000 Saracen Atlantic Handicap."

"I picked this hyar thing-up on the road in front of the house," muttered the Deacon; "some carnal idjut been bettin' his money and a scorchin' himself with Hell fire. I'll talk about this hyar paper at Sunday school," and he replaced it in his pocket.

The horses were gathering for the spring races near the village, and Fred Carey was doing a large business with the horsemen. If it were not for the Deacon's savage opposition to his suit for his daughter's hand he would have been entirely happy.

The village, being right in the shadow of the great race course, naturally contained some ungodly souls who were interested in the sport, and a few evenings later the Deacon, carrying home a half-soled pair of boots from the shoemaker, found them wrapped in a sporting paper. The Deacon eyed it with a hostile gleam as he unwrapped the boots in the privacy of his kitchen and then his eye caught an item in the paper:

"Public interest on the winner of the Atlantic Handicap now centers on Saracen. Opening at 100 to 1 in the winter betting, his odds have dropped to five to one with 'wise' money going on fast at that."

The Deacon dropped the paper and felt in his pocket. He drew forth the pasteboard card.

"A thousand to ten," he murmured, "and this hyar card belongs to the one who has it."

When the day of the race dawned the Deacon wandered about the house as a perturbed spirit. The handicap was to be run about four o'clock and by that time the Deacon was slinking about the entrance to the course in an agony lest he be recognized and lest Saracen should lose. He heard the cheers and shouts which heralded the finish and a cold sweat came out over him. Men began to come out of the entrance and seek the cars, but he dared not ask who had won. Finally, in desperation, he approached a sportive looking man and asked quaveringly who had won the handicap.

"Why, Saracen," replied the man, "hands down and the jock looking back at the other skates."

"Is this your ticket?" asked the cashier at the Turf club.

"It is," snapped the Deacon.

The man called to someone in the office, and in a moment the Deacon and Fred Carey, two very surprised men, were staring at each other.

"This man has the ticket you stopped," said the cashier.

"I found it in front of my house," murmured the Deacon.

"By George!" exclaimed Carey, "I must have pulled it out of my pocket when I was going to see your daughter. As long as you found it, why, half of it goes to you and the other half will help to pay for the house Sarah and I will live in next month."

Hadn't His Advantage.

A trio of professional story-tellers were in a cozy corner of the club, spinning yarns. Brown had just told a most unbelievable story, and the other two glanced at each other questioningly.

"Well, I assure you, gentlemen," said Brown, "if I hadn't seen it myself I shouldn't have believed it."

"Ha-h-m-well," said one of the two doubtful ones, "you must remember old man, that we didn't see it."

SAGE TEA PUTS LIFE AND COLOR IN HAIR

Don't Stay Gray! Sage Tea and Sulphur Darkens Hair So Naturally that Nobody Can Tell.

You can turn gray, faded hair beautifully dark and lustrous almost overnight if you'll get a 50 cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy" at any drug store. Millions of bottles of this old, famous Sage Tea Recipe are sold annually, says a well-known druggist here, because it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that no one can tell it has been applied.

Those whose hair is turning gray, becoming faded, dry, scraggly and thin, have a surprise awaiting them, because after one or two applications the gray hair vanishes and your locks become luxuriantly dark and beautiful—and dandruff gone, scalp itching and falling hair stops.

This is the age of youth. Gray-haired, unattractive folks aren't wanted around, so get busy with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur tonight, and you'll be delighted with your dark, handsome hair and your youthful appearance within a few days.

Stripes and Plaids. Roman stripes and Scotch plaids are promised for fall, and already these bright effects are creeping into summer costume. A tulleur, worn at Belmont park last week, was of navy blue lansdowne, with blue buttons corded silk pipings at the seams of the coat. Around the hips was knotted a tasseled sash of blue and green checked taffeta. White sponge, crepe and embroidered batiste frocks, worn at country club affairs, have sashes of bayadere and Roman striped ribbon, and some of the colors used are brilliantly gay.

The Darning Stitch. The darning stitch is still much used as a filler for motifs on guest towels.

The Ed. Erickson Company

WITH THE LOW-CUT BODICE

Waistcoat of Tulle the Most Satisfactory as an Accompaniment of the Present Style.

Now that the bodice of almost every frock is extremely low-cut from the chin down, the wide or narrow shape thus formed must be partially filled in one way or another. An earlier filling-in method than the attached vest, or than the detached chemise, which has an annoying fashion of drawing out of position and lending the bodice an awkward look, is to have a tulle waistcoat which is separately put on. This accessory is easily made and fitted, if cut after the body of a well-fitting shirtwaist, as that will be a correct guide for the shoulders and the arm-eyes. And to make the shoulders and the arm-holes feel comfortable and all that is necessary, as an elastic ribbon run through a casing at the lower edge of the waistcoat will draw smoothly over the bust and back and about the waistline. If the lower two-thirds of the waistcoat's back is of batiste, the garment will be firmer and wear better, since that portion of it must stand most of the strain. The fronts may be solidly pin-tucked and fastened blindly with hooks and eyes, or finely tucked in groups at either side of a row of tiny crystal buttons, while the neck may be finished with either a standing or a turned-over collar a-four stitch bordered.

Profitable Dreams.

Authors and musicians are not the only dreamers of profitable dreams. St. Augustine records that a disciple of his, having to lecture on Cicero's rhetorical books, was baffled by a certain passage. He slept, and in a dream his master, who was really far away and unconscious of the whole thing, appeared to him and expounded the passage. In 1893 Herr Hilprecht, professor of Assyriology in the University of Pennsylvania, was worried over two small fragments of agate found at Babylon, of which he had received drawings. In his dream a tall, thin Assyrian priest told him they "belonged together," being portions of an inscribed votive cylinder which had been cut up to make earrings for the statue of a god. The professor found next day that the fragments did fit.

FORD BUYS $1,000,000

IN DETROIT BONDS

Mr. Ford is the first individual to purchase so large an amount of municipal bonds in one transaction, said Controller Engel Tuesday. "I do not believe that any individual ever subscribed for so large an amount of bonds of any sort, unless he had a financial interest in the corporation issuing them."

NOTICE

The annual meeting of stockholders of the Escanaba, Iron Mountain and Western Railroad Company will be held at the office of the Company in Escanaba, Michigan, on Thursday, October 9, 1913, at 10 o'clock a. m. for the election of a board of directors and the transaction of such other business as may come before the meeting.

JOHN D. CALDWELL,

Albin Anderson left for a visit a Milwaukee last evening.

"I asked Mr. Couzens, Friday, to see if Mr. Ford would not take some of the city bonds, but I did not expect to sell him a million dollars' worth. He showed no more concern than if he were buying a bag of peanuts."

The purchase of these bonds by Mr. Ford relieves the financial situation of the city until spring and by that time the money market will be easier or we will have a charter provision allowing us to give a higher rate of interest."

Profit Will Be $1,200,000.

Mr. Ford will receive an annual income of $40,000 from the city for 30 years, or a total of $1,200,000 in addition to the principal. On a basis of 4 1-2 per cent which is the best the city could hope to realize on its bonds, the price would be 94 so that Mr. Ford may be considered to have given the city at least $60,000.

The council Tuesday evening passed a resolution authorizing the controller to have the bonds printed and prepared for delivery.

On motion of Alderman Lodge, the council adopted a resolution, Tuesday night, thanking Mr. Ford for his action in coming to the assistance of the city and a copy of it will be transmitted to him. Mayor Marx sent Mr. Ford a letter of thanks, Tuesday afternoon.

OUR $5,000,000 COCKROACH

By E.W. PICKARD

C. Z.—If you wish to hear "ge," just say "Cucaracha" to the engineers engaged in building the central division of the Panama

Canal in Spanish means a cockroach. In the Canal Zone it is the greatest of the numerous cockroaches that have made the completion of the Panama Canal so different and so difficult. Why that slide was named "Cucaracha" I could not discover. I have even the Panamanian cockroach not so large, and he moves more swiftly.

The first French company to attempt to build the Panama Canal in 1839 was the "Compagnie de la Mer du Nord." It was the greatest of the numerous cockroaches that have made the completion of the Panama Canal so different and so difficult.

to see the canal opened to commerce as soon as possible, for it is revenue I am after."

Another day I stood with Col. D. D. Gaillard, the engineer of the central division, outside his office in Empiro, and watched his army laboring in the cut, the completion of which has been his biggest task and greatest glory.

Right at our feet a big area had sunk down 70 feet in a night, and if there had not been warnings of the break a wing of the colonel's office building would have gone down with it. "We had just time to remove that wing," said he, "and my office force is rather nervous now, for there are three big cracks under the main building. I expect it, too, will have to be torn down very soon."

These slides used to make us rather despondent, for it seemed as if they never would stop, but the progress we are making this year has cheered up the operating force again, and we can see the end of the work. The slide and the break are quite different. In the former the earth slides at an angle down a sloping face of rock, and in the latter the mass sinks straight down and at the bottom bulges out into the channel. Along both sides of the cut you can see numerous small slides and breaks. Those are in pockets in the rock wall, and, annoying as they are, they only need cleaning out. The Cucaracha started as a slide and now it is both a slide and a break.

"Incidentally, that cut should be a great place for geologists. I have found in it every kind of rock except granite, and many interesting fossils and petrification have been discovered there. In one stratum through which we cut there were found a great number of teeth of prehistoric varieties of sharks."

"What is your opinion concerning the date when the canal will be ready for commerce?" I asked.

"If I had my say," said the colonel emphatically, "not a commercial vessel would be allowed in the canal until it is absolutely complete down to the smallest detail. In some of the many safety devices were not in operation and an accident should result, the canal would get a black eye from which it might not recover for a long time. Officially, the time for the completion of the canal is still January 1, 1915. It may be done before that date, but in March of this year there was still about $50,000,000 worth of work ahead of us."

"We who have been digging the canal and are still here in positions of responsibility—I mean the members of the Isthmian canal commission—are rather fearful concerning that part of the Adamson bill which permits the president to dissolve the commission whenever in his judgment the canal is near enough to completion. We feel that it would be extremely unjust not to allow us to remain on the job until after the grand formal opening in January, 1915. It would be much like permitting a boy to complete his university course, and then taking him home before he receives his diploma."

And then Colonel Gaillard said some things about Mr. Taft's efforts to put into effect that clause last January, which must have made the ex-president's ears tingle a bit.

"The Cucaracha cut is like a three-ring circus. I don't know which way to look," said one visitor to the zone.

It indeed a scene of wonderful activity. Giant steam shovels are scattered all about, scooping up enormous masses of rock and earth; on half a dozen tracks on as many different levels scurrying and puffing locomotives are swiftly drawing loaded or empty dirt trains; along the ledges are batteries of steam and compressed air drills, making holes for dynamite; suddenly there is a tootling of a steam whistle, a hundred men scurry to shelter, and a dynamite blast fills the air with sound and dirt and rocks.

Watching the steam shovels is a favorite occupation of visitors who venture down into the Cucaracha cut. They seem almost human, and do a vast amount of work. Their dippers hold five cubic yards of material, weighing on an average a little more than three tons. This spoil is emptied into cars of several kinds. Flat cars with one high side are unloaded by plows that are drawn the length of the train by cables upon a winding drum. The others are dump cars, the largest of which are operated by compressed air from the locomotive. The trains haul the spoil from the cut to dumping grounds, which on an average are about 12 miles distant. Some 18,000,000 cubic yards of this material was used as filling for the long breakwater at the Pacific entrance.

When the water will be let into the canal? "I cannot say, but the sooner the better, for the operating crews are properly trained before that celebration. I wouldn't have a cent of it occur for anything. If we have commercial vessels going before then, I shall ask the navy to send naval vessels to the operating forces can experience. Anyhow, I want

LET BIRD SING ALONE

WORSHIPERS AT EVENING SERVICE YIELDED TO ROBIN.

Feathered Songsters' Fondness for Frequenting Interiors of Holy Edifice Well Known, But in This Case He Rendered a Solo.

I have often speculated on the fondness shown by robins for the interiors of churches, writes E. Temple Thurston in his book, "The Open Window." Scarcely one of the books by the various authorities I have consulted ever mentions the fact. Rev. C. A. Johns alludes to it and with all that he says in a brief reference to the subject, I am in complete agreement. It is undoubtedly for the sake of company that they frequent our places of worship, for I have seldom heard of a robin building its nest inside a church, and it is nearly always at the hour of service they are to be seen there.

The other evening the one that had attached himself to our church flew in through an open window in the chancel and, seating himself upon a pinnacle of the old choir screen, sang with us the Nunc Dimittis. All heads, I know, were raised from their books, all eyes were turned upon him as he sat there, his throat swelling, his beak wide open as he poured out his glorious notes. Everyone must have heard them above the organ, even above the voices in the choir, so shrill and sweet they were.

"Lord, now lettest thou thy servant depart in peace, according to thy word; for mine eyes have seen thy salvation, which thou hast prepared before the face of all people."

It is my habit, well as I know the words of morning and evening prayer, never to look about me, lest my attention might stray. But on this occasion I could not refrain from watching this little creature or from listening to every note that he uttered. And as I listened I suppose I must have stopped in my singing, the better to hear his perhaps; perhaps because my voice, never at any time too tuneful, was disturbing in my ears to the beauty of his song. Whatever it was, I became silent and then was slowly made aware that everyone else had ceased from singing, too. So intent was my mind upon the robin I was not fully conscious of it until the last voice had stopped and, to the soft notes of the organ that bird was singing alone.

It was only for a moment or so and the chant was finished. As though suddenly we had all come to our senses we joined again in singing Amen and, with the cessation of the music the robin flew up into the rafters and was hidden from sight.

Three Men of Schooner Emmanuel Saved From Watery Grave Near Green Island.

Hasty and fearless action on the part of Captain Frank Drew, in charge of the lighthouse at Green Island, Monday resulted in three men on the gas schooner Emmanuel being saved from a watery grave.

The schooner which is almost seventy feet long left Cedar River Sunday night with a heavy load of cedar and a bad storm raging on Green Bay. They had progressed but a short distance when one engine was disabled and the emergency engine was resorted to. However when they neared Menominee bound for the Republic Cedar company's dock, their emergency engine also went wrong and the gasoline tank filled with water. They anchored out in the bay at 1:50 o'clock Monday morning but the anchor dragged and with a heavy wind prevailing they soon drifted. Shortly after daylight Captain Drew from the lighthouse spied them in the distance and hastened to this shore.

When Drew started for this side in his boat he had no possible chance of reaching the foundering boat, but saw a slight chance of making the west shore with safety. When he reached here he immediately telephoned the life saving station at Sturgeon Bay who saved the three men when they drifted near there at 5 o'clock Monday afternoon after over twenty-five hours of being tossed on the bay.

Captain Oren Angwall, Engineer Albert Larson and First Officer Frank Gunderson were the only occupants of the schooner. Had not Drew obtained the aid of the life-saving crew at Sturgeon Bay within an hours time the schooner would have been dashed to pieces against the rocks on the east shore.

The police set to work on the case at once, but were unable to trace the dentist. They are working on a theory that he was accompanied by a woman from a nearby town.

Dr. Conley came to Webster from Providence, two years ago, and was prominent in the social life of the town. He was one of the promoters of the Webster Automobile Club. He is a graduate of the dental school of the University of Chicago.

Mrs. Conley, who is believed to be wealthy in her own right, was Miss Edith Hager of Marquette, Mich., before her marriage.

Dr. Conley is described as a slim man, wearing at the time that he went away a gray suit and straw hat. He is clean shaven, wears glasses and weighs in the neighborhood of 135 pounds.

Through Dr. G. C. Littlefield, at whose home Mrs. Conley tonight is under treatment because of the ordeal Mrs. Conley gave this statement: "Dr. Conley gave me no intimation

"For some reason, I had occasion to tell him something of importance, and telephoned to the barber shop, and found that he had not been there. Then I came to the office and found them open, the instruments and books gone, and knew at once that something was wrong. His diploma remained in the office with his registration papers.

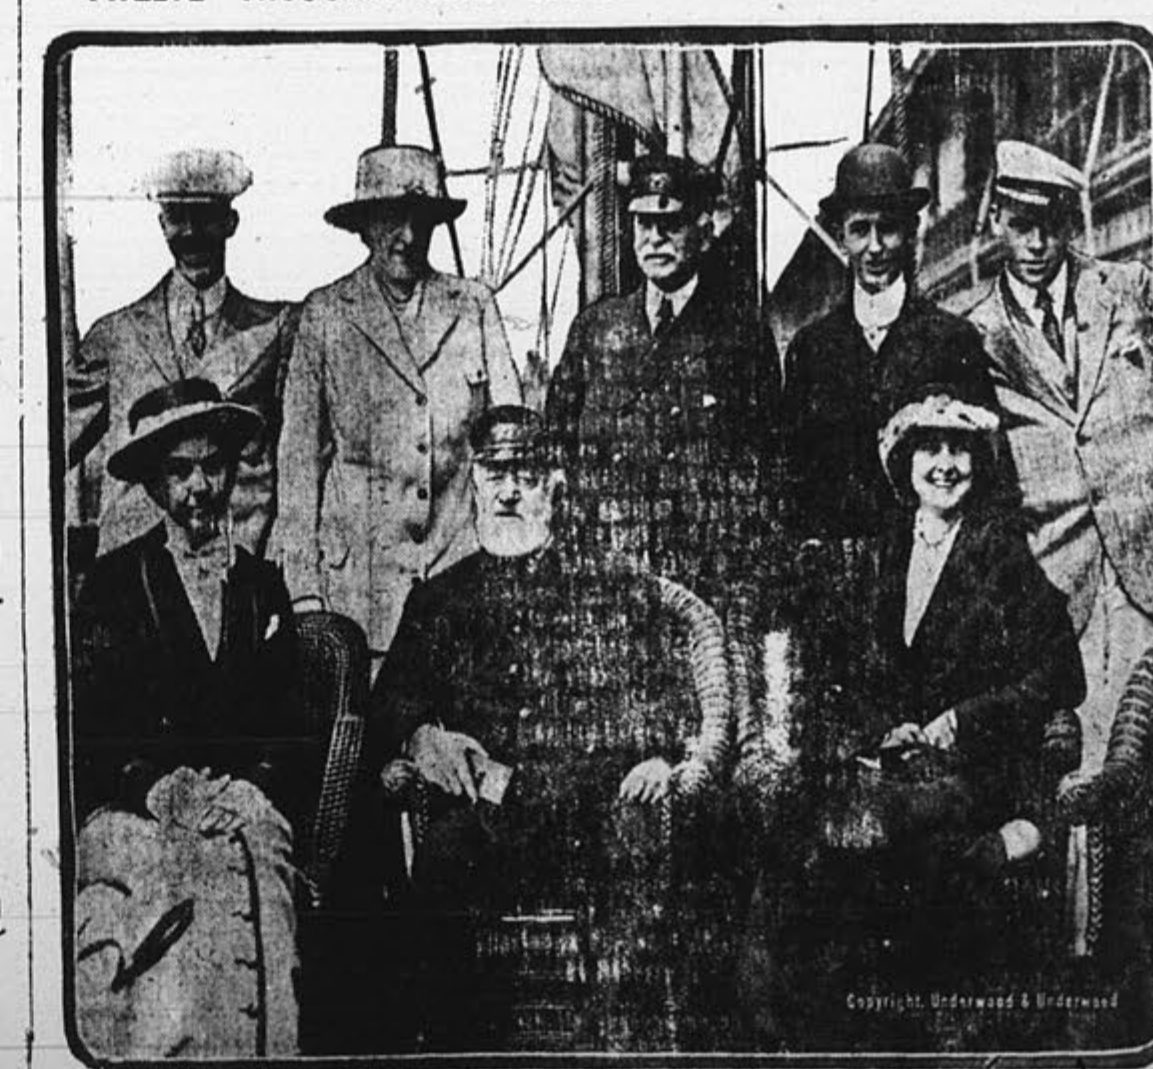

"Then came the second shock from Dr. Ross, who informed me that he bought the offices yesterday, and exhibited a receipt for $500. As the offices did not belong to Dr. Conley, but were bought by me, he had no right to sell. Then also the fact that he took with him the valuable dental instruments made it all the more plain that he intended to flee.

Dr. Conley, according to a statement from Mrs. Conley, probably had about $2,000 in cash when he left Webster, as his bank deposits show that he had withdrawn money that he had in Webster banks before leaving.

RITCHIE GOES TO MILWAUKEE

Lightweight Champ Will Visit Cream City Freddie Welsh on His Trail

San Francisco, Cal., Sept. 24.—Negotiations for a twenty-round fight between Willie Ritchie, lightweight champion, and Harlem Tommy Murphy in this city in November made some progress when Ritchie accepted Jimmy Coffroth's offer of $15,000. The exact date was not fixed, Ritchie will go east this week and expects to meet Leach Cross in New York on Oct. 31. It is probable the Ritchie-Murphy bout will be scheduled for Thanksgiving. Ritchie may also battle in Milwaukee before meeting Murphy. The champion declared today he would be in Milwaukee Monday to witness the McGorty-Klaus match.

Welsh Follows East Seattle, Wash., Sept. 24.—Freddie Welsh, the British lightweight champion, accompanied by his manager, Harry Pollock, is here from Vancouver, B. C., on his way to New York. Welsh expects to stop off several times on his way east and will fight Fighting Dick Hyland at Butte this week. "I will have several small battles on my way," said Welsh, "and I may meet some bigger fellows when I land in New York, but my main purpose is to meet Willie Ritchie."

Complaints to "Commish" Lead to Disbarment of Athletes. Cincinnati, O., Sept. 26.—Owing to complaints received by the national baseball commission and the Baseball Writers' association concerning articles alleged to have been written by ball players, the national commission on Wednesday ruled that no players eligible to compete in the world series shall write series for any newspapers, nor shall any player allow the use of his name over an article purporting to be written by him.

Violation of this order will result in the infliction of such penalty as the commission may determine.

The Baseball Writers' association of America had recently solicited the co-operation of the commission in preventing ball players from invading their field. In the communication to the national commission President Johnson of the writers' association, declared: "Owing to this evil, we, the newspaper men, are forced to do something to protect ourselves against a growing evil that threatens baseball reporters in a pecuniary way. It also is making the reports of world series ridiculous."

Chicago, Sept. 26.—Cook county hospital records indicating that John G. Evers and Henry Zimmerman received treatment there were contradicted today by Charles W. Murphy, president of the Chicago National league club. Mr. Murphy denied emphatically that any member of the ball club had ever received treatment free or otherwise, at the county hospital.

The records contained the names of the ball players were unearthed in an investigation, following charges that persons will be able to pay used the hospital to the exclusion of the charity patients for whom it was intended.

The hospital records show that Aug. 7, 1905, John Evers was admitted to the institution, where he remained until Aug. 15. His occupation was given as a ball player.

June 2, 1908, Henry Zimmerman, whose occupation also was given as a ball player, was admitted to the hospital and treated until June 15.

Mr. Murphy contended that the entries did not refer to the members of the National league club.

MURPHY DENIES CHARGES.

Says Players Did Not Receive Treatment at County Hospital.

Chicago, Ill., Sept. 26.—President C. W. Murphy of the Cubs, flatly denied the charge that Johnny Evers, Heinie Zimmerman and other Cub players had been cared for at the Cook county hospital free of charge because he was on good terms with the hospital administration.

HOW RECEIPTS AND ATTENDANCE AT TITLE GAMES HAVE INCREASED.

The amazing growth of the popularity of baseball is strikingly shown by the increase in attendance and in gate receipts from year to year at the world's series contests.

In 1884, when the first world's championship contest was played between the Providence team of the National league and the Metropolitans, winners of the American association pennant, the attendance was 2,000.

The receipts were about $1,500. The game was played on the old Polo grounds in New York city.

In 1905 the total attendance at the five championship games was 91,723.

In 1906, when the Chicago White Sox won the title from the Chicago Cubs, the receipts jumped to over $100,000.

In 1909 the gate receipts at the Pittsburgh-Detroit series were $188,362.50, the attendance 146,295.

In 1910, at the Athletics-Chicago series, the attendance was 124,222, the receipts $173,980.

The Athletics-New York contests in 1911 drew 179,851 persons and $342,164.

Last year the New York-Boston contests attracted 251,901 people, and the gate receipts were the enormous sum of $490,449.

played in the present probe to determine how many persons obtained treatment free because of political influence, found that John Evers, ball player, was a free patient at the hospital for two weeks in 1905, and that Henry Zimmerman, ball player, was treated free for two weeks in 1908. "It must have been somebody else," said Murphy. "If those records say any of my men have been treated free they are false."

"SLAM" YOST ANGERS THE MICHIGAN SQUAD

Harper's Weekly's Reference to His Alleged "Brainstorm" Stirs Up a Desire to Wallop Mistaken Author of Article.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Sept. 26.—Coach Yost's pupils at the University of Michigan are sore, very sore.

And the cause of their peeve is an article written in Harper's Weekly of this issue in which some eastern expert (?) affirms that their coach is subject to brain storms. Several other things are said about Fielding Yost in this very same article, and the whole has combined to generate a healthy disgust in the minds of about three dozen young men whose "Hello, Coach" has a whole lot more love and admiration in it than the most enthusiastic "Hock der Kaiser" that ever rang forth in old Berlin.

Although they have no psychological examination or analysis by the all-wise professors up on the campus to back up their assertions, these same hero-worshipping, husky young fellows insist that their coach never had a brain storm in his life.

And the more one studies this "Big Chief of the Wolverines" the more one is impressed with the probable truth of his pupils. To watch the soft-speaking thorough-going all-seeing Yost as he stands out there on Ferry field training grounds during practice hours, is to bring up visions of almost any kind of genius save one afflicted with mental aberrations. His drawl, his smile, his whole way speak the keen strategist, the wonderful field general which he is.

The veteran watchers down at Ferry field smiled happily when Coach Yost made his appearance for practice Monday morning. For he was dressed in the "battledress" costume which has made him famous, and which is known to every man and boy who has ever seen his pictures. He had on that broad hat, the type which many thousands have watched on its countless trips up and down in front of the north bleachers on Ferry field. He wore a long coat, the kind that reaches nearly to his knees. And his hands were gloved. As he stood in the middle of his men, giving them his instructions, those veteran watchers began to talk of Yost between-half lectures.

But it will take a long time before some 38 football men forget about those Yost brain-storms.

FOR THE FAVORITE BROOCHES

Neat Receptacle That Will Keep Them From Becoming Tarnished or From Scratching Each Other.

Brooches generally suffer unless some special receptacle is provided for them, for if they are pinned upon an ordinary cushion and left exposed to the air they tarnish very quickly, and if they are placed loosely together in a box, they are liable to scratch each other.

The neat receptacle for brooches shown in our sketch can be made with the aid of any strong cardboard box.

of a suitable size and shape, and there are many kinds of boxes in which chocolates and other candies are sold that are specially suitable for this purpose.

The box is suitably covered outside with a pretty remnant of thin silk, the material being turned over at the edges and underneath and fastened in its place with some strong adhesive. The interior is lined with soft white silk, and ribbon strings are sewn to the edge of the lid and the front of box to secure it when closed.

A small cushion covered with soft wash-leather, and of the nature shown in the small diagram, is made to fit just comfortably inside the box, and on this cushion the brooches may be pinned in the manner illustrated.

The other small diagram shows the box closed and secured with the ribbon strings, and the word "Brooches" can be embrodered in silk in some strongly contrasting shade of color where indicated. In the larger sketch the cushion is seen resting half in and half out of the box.

Jap Women Have Few Rights. Until recent years, when a Japanese wife failed to present her husband with a son he was free to supplant her with a successor more fortunate, and even today the Japanese girl must always address her brother with the prefix "mister." Love-marriages are still little known in the "Land of the Rising Sun;" wives receive little respect from their husbands, and it is significant of their condition in the present and the past that only recently have they been allowed to exchange visits or to open their mouths in the presence of their husbands or brothers.

WOMEN DOING LESS TALKING

French Scientist Makes the Assertion and Gives Reasons for the Somewhat Strange Change.

M. Duboudot, a French scientist, has recently given out some startling facts, which appear to show that the tendency of woman to talk is actually growing less, and that if this alarming decline keeps up the woman of a thousand years from now may be man's silent partner, speaking seldom and only when words are absolutely necessary.

"This strange change," he says, "can be explained in several ways. For that there has been a change I have no longer any doubt, after my extended observation, not in France, but in America, and England, and Italy, and Spain. Women are not the persistent, animated conversationalists that they were 20 years ago. Take, for instance, women in restaurants and at public places of all kinds, where they are seen freely moving about with men. Everywhere you see the men taking not only their own share in the conversation, but even leading it in many cases. At receptions, too, and at public dinners, the fair sex seems, for some time now, to be letting the reins of conversation slip from their hands.

"One explanation for this queer state of affairs is that women, with their growing interest in outside doings, in business and politics, and in the strenuous pursuit of careers independent of men, are becoming more and more self-absorbed. A woman whose mind is occupied with some burning question of the day, or who is greatly concerned over the success of her next business venture, or the popular approval of her latest book or picture or song, is not nearly so likely to keep up a running fire of light conversation as her more care-free sister of 20 years ago.

"If the man she is with shows an inclination to talk she is more than willing to let him. It gives her greater opportunity to follow out her own train of thought, while outwardly she pretends to drink in every word that he says.

"The old-fashioned woman was not interested in self-advancement. Neither did her own affairs absorb her. She chatted on constantly, sometimes interestingly, cleverly, occasionally, even brilliantly, but always more or less superficially. Now she is interested more deeply in things, she does not seem able to talk about them so readily.

M. Duboudot claims to have spent over a year studying this question, and to have gathered actual statistics, first hand, from watching men and women in different parts of the world.

Farmer's Fear of Good Methods. A farmer was questioned about buying phosphate and ground limestone to increase the fertility of his farm. This was the way he answered:

"Now, see here. Suppose every body did as you advise, we would be raising so much that prices would be clear down to the lowest notch."

The answer was as follows: "Who are you farming for, yourself or the rest of the farming community? You know that if everybody else even should do the right thing it would take twenty-five years to get them all into it. In the meantime their bad farming is lessening production and that keeps up prices. You have the chance if you improve it to increase the producing power of your land, take advantage of high prices and get rich before everybody wakes up to the situation. Isn't it about time you saw these things in the light of your individual interests as a farmer? How absurd it is to go on improving your land for fear that everybody will catch on sometime and reduce prices."—Hoard's Dairyman.

Original Specialty of Coffee. Nowadays the "cafe" is the last place in which any one looks for coffee, but originally that was the French name for coffee, and appeared on the sign outside of the coffee houses of Paris. Other drinking was introduced later, until gradually the cafe came to mean a barroom, nothing more.

FAIR STORE FALL OPENING BRINGS OUT BIG CROWDS

Showing of Hats, Cloaks, and Suits Delights Women Visitors

The Fair Savings bank store is resplendent in fall colors and the opening of yesterday and today, which concludes tomorrow, brought out large crowds.

In the millinery department the showing of hats is one of exceptional brilliancy and the models are very modish and chic, the latest thing from the style centers.

The cloak suit department is making an excellent showing.

Mr. Train, head of the department, has spared no expense in securing the latest materials and styles.

The sport coats and the sport suits are shown in all colors and the latest and most popular styles and materials in cloaks and suits are in evidence without number.

The newest and destined to be the most popular materials are the dovydine, velour de laine, matlasse, zeblyne, and waffle cloth. A suffragette suit, a three piece suit with mannish vest and coat and tight fitting skirt with pockets will be on display in a few days. The split petticoat is attracting much interest.

The concerts are proving most popular.

ERICKSON STORE IS THRONGED FOR OPENING

Popular Ladies' Wear Establishment Never Presented a Finer Appearance.

The fall opening at the Ed. Erickson store yesterday and today attracted a large number of women to the store and all day superlative comments on the beauties of the decorations and of the displays were bandied back and forth between the visitors.

Perfect fall weather brought out an exceptionally large crowd today. Ten living models, the city's most comely young women, both of face and form, displayed beautiful cloaks, gowns, suits and hats almost without number.

R. A. Thews deserves no small amount of credit for the success attending the opening. The window and interior decorations equal, if they do not surpass, anything before seen in the city. The blending of colors is exceptionally fine and Mr. Thews is being heartily commended.

The window display is one of rare beauty and color combinations. Victrola concerts were given yesterday and this afternoon and were hugely enjoyed adding greatly to the brilliancy of the opening.

The display of hats, cloaks, gowns and suits is one of which Mr. Erickson should be and is proud.

The style show concluded today but the concert will continue through the opening which concludes tomorrow.

GREENLAW'S OPENING

Started This Morning and Will Continue all Day Tomorrow

The fall opening at the Greenlaw store began this morning and will continue tomorrow. The showing of hats, cloaks, suits, etc., is an especially elaborate one and the store was crowded throughout the day.

The store is resplendent in appropriate fall decorations and the showing of fall wear is exceptionally fine.

BEAT GAME LAWS BY PARCEL POST

Hunters Send Illegally Shot Birds Through Mails Say Wardens—Mail Cannot be Inspected.

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 24.—A puzzle to game wardens, now that the hunting season is open is the manner in which the hunters are making use of the parcel post system. It is said that the parcel post unconsciously protects the "bird hog", who is forbidden by law to shoot more than twenty-five birds. The hunters are taking advantage of the law which prevents the game warden from inspecting the United States mail by shooting more fowl than the law permits and sending them to friends. The parcel post regulations allow the shipment of dressed game in the 150-mile zone.

FEAR DISASTERS IN COMING WEEKS

Marine Men Say Boats Not Likely to Withstand Fall Storms Are in Commission.

Although the season of navigation to date has been remarkable for the small number of losses apprehension exists in marine circles that before the lake steamers go into winter quarters some serious marine disasters will be reported. More wooden hulls, it is said, are in commission this year than during any of the past several seasons, and some are in none too seaworthy condition. A marine man is quoted as saying:

"There are many vessels out this year that will hardly stand a good battering and if rough weather prevails, I wouldn't be surprised if a large loss of life and property is the result. I know of boats being operated this year that had not been out in a decade previous, and while they were given a general overhauling, they never could stand to encounter some of the rough weather we will probably have on the lakes.

"So many cargoes were offered at the opening of the season in all lines of freight, that every old hulk on the lakes was refitted and put into commission. Steam vessels that had been out of commission for years were overhauled and brought out. Tow barges, which do not have to pass inspection, were brought out and, irrespective of their seaworthiness, were put into commission. Ninety per cent of them are still out, and it is because of that fact that marine men look for many wrecks on the lakes this fall and winter.

The equinoctial gales are on now, and it would not surprise me a bit if we experienced many losses of those old craft before the next two weeks are out. Last year we did not experience the same fall equinoctials that we are having this year and consequently many of the wooden boats were laid up before we had rough weather. This season, however, it is different. We are right in the midst of our stormy weather and some boats especially the wooden ones, are going to suffer severely.

Boats Fortunate This Week.
Considerable surprise is expressed in marine circles that the storm that swept the lakes Sunday and Monday, having been at its height Sunday, was not attended by serious disaster on the lakes, for it is generally asserted by the masters that it was one of the heaviest blows that has occurred in recent years. That it was not accompanied by wrecks is attributed to the fact that the storm warnings were generally heeded. Boats were either kept in port or those on the lakes when the blow started made their way to the nearest ports where they could obtain shelter.

It is reported that the steamer Walsh that put into Marquette Sunday afternoon, after two unsuccessful attempts to get through to Portage Lake, is the only vessel that any actual damage as a result of the storm. The Walsh lost three or four hatches and part of her afterworks were stove in by the force of the waves.

All lake traffic was set back about two days by the storm, and this is the equivalent to the handling of several hundred thousand tons of ore and other freight. The movement of freight on the lake is only now beginning to get back on a normal basis.

CAPT. CHARLES BRONSON MAKES HIS LAST CRUISE

Milwaukee, Sept. 26.—Capt. Charles T. Bronson, master of the light-house Tender Hyacinth, who was taken from his boat at Green Bay three weeks ago because of illness and brought to his home, 1025 First avenue, by Mrs. Bronson and Lewis M. Stoddard, lighthouse inspector for this district, died at his home at one o'clock Wednesday morning from an attack of Bright's disease.

Capt. Bronson was 52 years old, and is survived by three children, Mrs. L. E. Work and Charles C. Bronson of Chicago and Miss Helen Bronson of Milwaukee.

He was one of the best known captains on the lakes. He was for some time in charge of the revenue cutter Calumet, which plied out of Chicago. Leaving the employ of the government he entered the service of the Goodrich Transportation company, where he was known as the school-master of the Goodrich line. For, during his years of service there he was instrumental in schooling to the ways of the great lakes a number of the sailors who afterward became captains. Leaving the Goodrich service he again entered the employ of the government and was master of the Hyacinth for a number of years.
