POLICE SEEK AUTO PARTY

KNOWN AUTOISTS COLLIDED WITH RIG ON GLADSTONE ROAD — OCCUPANTS ARE SLIGHTLY INJURED

POLICE HAVE CAR'S NUMBER

Stats Drive Injured Marg to Gladstone and Then Suddenly Disappear

Police are awaiting a communication from the state highway department when it is hoped to learn the name of an automobile that figured in the accident on the Gladstone road ten o'clock on Sunday evening. It is believed that the owner of the car is either a resident of Gladstone or Escanaba.

As a result of the accident Frank Roberts of this city is nursing a badly injured leg and Paul Scheibner, of this city, is badly bruised.

The accident occurred about two miles south of Gladstone on the bay road. Scheibner had accompanied Roberts to Gladstone at the request and because of Roberts' experience with horses Scheibner had the reins. Seeing an automobile approaching Scheibner drove one side of the road so that the wheels of the rig were in the ditch on the right of the road. The automobile passed with plenty of room to the south and later another car came by. Nothing still a third car carrying Scheibner clung to the back of the auto, keeping to the right of the road struck the front of the buggy and threw Scheibner and Roberts into the ditch.

Scheibner scrambled to his feet but lay still. The auto stopped and the occupants, two women and an endeavor to restore him consciousness. Falling they took in the car and drove to Gladstone where Roberts was placed on a bench of a store and while Scheibner was being taken to a doctor the automobile disappeared. Roberts was hospitalized but owing to his inability to work Monday.

The rig was badly damaged, one wheel torn off and the body crushed. The horse, liberated by the driver, ran down the road, was found next morning by a farmer and taken to McDonough's livery.

FIFTEEN YEAR OLD BOY MURDERS EMPLOYER AND SIX OTHERS WHEN REPRIMANDED

GOES TO BED AND SLEEPS SOUNDLY

Spare Only Four Year Old Child Whom He Finds Sleeping

(By Associated Press.)
Nantes, France, Oct. 1.—A crime incredible in the history of savagery was committed by a fifteen year old boy, Marcel Redureau, a vine cutter. He murdered seven people with an axe.

While at work yesterday pressing grapes, his employer, Georges Mabit had trouble with the boy and scolded him for lax methods. The boy seized an enormous axe and killed Mabit with one blow. He then entered his employer's house and with blood dripping from the axe slashed the throat of Mrs. Mabit until she was dead.

He then killed the servant in the same way. Rushing to the mother of his employer he killed the aged woman who was holding her four year old grand child. Then to complete his work he killed three of the children. The only one spared was the little four year old who was with the grandmother.

After the murders the boy went to bed and slept calmly until this morning. The bodies were discovered by villagers and after being arrested the boy confessed.

TEN ARRESTS HAVE BEEN MADE IN COPPER COUNTRY SINCE TUESDAY AFTERNOON

CAVALRY CALLED TO PREVENT RIOT

Leader of Women is in Custody—Parties of Hunters Fired Upon by Strikers

(By Associated Press.)
Calumet, Oct. 1.—There were ten arrests since yesterday afternoon as the result of rioting. Annie Clemens, the leader of the women and Ben Boggs, one of the male strike leaders, were taken with the others.

Workmen have been intimidated and one deputy sheriff was badly beaten up and had to be taken to a hospital. The cavalry was called this morning to disperse the strikers who were trying to prevent the miners from going to work at the Allouez mine.

Several hunting parties who passed through the mining district on the way to the woods were attacked and fired upon by the miners and a chauffeur who was driving a physician on a sick call narrowly escaped death when a shot fired at him took off one of his fingers.

There is picketing about all the mines and a number of shots were fired in the Keweenaw district during the night.

General Abbey says that his men are all picked for service and unless something out of the ordinary comes up he can handle the situation.

The trip was to be made by automobile and when all members of the party had arrived and exchanged greetings, they climbed into the automobile and were seen in the forest near Cornell. ## CHILD HAS A CLOSE CALL

LITTLE DAUGHTER OF WALTER LARSON NARROWLY ESCAPES DEATH UNDER WHEELS OF STREET CAR

CUT BADLY ABOUT THE FACE

Dashing Across Tracks in Front of Car She is Knocked Down by Step

Death under the wheels of a street car was the fate which the four year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Larson of Stephenson avenue narrowly escaped late yesterday afternoon. Although not seriously injured the child is suffering from cuts and abrasions about the face and slight bruises about the body.

The child had been playing on the sidewalk, the street car was proceeding south on Hartnett avenue on its trip from Gladstone. Motorman Powers had noticed the child standing near the curb and was horrified to see her start across the street when the car was almost upon her. Quickly he applied the brakes and checked the speed of the car. The child apparently unmindful of her danger, cleared the front of the car by a margin of but a few inches and was struck by the jutting step. She was knocked forward upon her face with great force and it was feared at first that she was critically injured.

She was carried to her home on Stephenson avenue nearby and a physician was summoned, her injuries were dressed and today she is apparently not much the worse from her close call to death.

SEPTEMBER A NORMAL ONE

PAST MONTH DID NOT DEPART FROM THE ORDINARY IN ANY RESPECT EXCEPT TEMPERATURE

BUT TWO DAYS WERE FOGGY

Mercury Dropped to Thirty Degrees on the 23d—Rose to 85 on 7th.

Considered as a whole, the past month was a typical September, none of the averages for the month departing materially from the normal. There were short periods, however, of decided temperature departures, notably on the 1st, 2nd, and 7th, which were warm days; and from the 21st, to the 23rd, when a pronounced cool spell prevailed. The highest temperature, 85 degrees, occurred on the 7th, and the lowest, 30 degrees, on the 23rd, giving an extreme range for the month of 55 degrees. The low temperature on the 23rd marked the date of the first killing frost, which was about 11 days earlier than the average date. Light frosts were observed on the 13th and 18th.

The mean temperature for the month was 56.0 degrees, or one degree less than normal. The greatest daily range of temperature, 25 degrees, occurred on the 7th, and the least, 5 degrees, on the 16th.

The total precipitation, 3.54 inches, was entirely in the form of rain, and was practically the same as the normal. The greatest amount falling in 24 consecutive hours was 1.72 inches, on the 20th-21st. Measurable amounts of rain fell on 8 days. For the crop growing season, computed from March 1st, to September 30th, there was a total deficiency in precipitation of nearly one inch.

The total wind movement was 7085 miles or an average velocity of 8.9 miles an hour. There were no windstorms of consequence, the highest velocity, recorded on the 20th, being only 30 miles an hour. The prevailing direction for the month was south.

Sunshine was slightly above normal. 10 days were clear; 12 partly cloudy, and 8 cloudy. Dense fog occurred on the 25th and 30th.

Thunderstorms occurred on the 1st, 2d, 7th, and 20th. Auroral lights were observed on the 9th and 10th.

TELLS STORY OF CLOVERLAND

Chicago Paper Has an Extended Write-up of Advantages of Upper Peninsula

The Chicago Record-Herald of Sunday, Sept. 28th, contained a two-column story on the Upper Peninsula of Michigan, in which was set forth numerous advantages to settlers, and the many opportunities offered in this vicinity. The story states that there are in all 10,420 acres of available land in the Upper Peninsula, enough to make thirteen Rhode Islands.

With reference to farming it refers to the conditions of being most favorable. "Rains are well distributed throughout the year and crop failures are unknown. Cyclones and blizzards are unheard of. A large variety of farm crops and grasses grow luxuriously everywhere. The fruit grown in the Upper Peninsula is of better texture, of richer flavor and of better keeping qualities than fruit grown in any other section of the United States."

"Ten million acres of the most valuable and fertile land is awaiting settlers in 'Cloverland' which can be purchased in small tracts at very favorable terms. These lands produce remarkable crops of grains, grasses, vegetables, sugar beets and fruits of all kinds."

TRY HAMMELS IN JANUARY

ATTORNEYS FOR PROSECUTION AND DEFENSE EFFECT AGREEMENT UPON A CONTINUANCE

AVOID FURTHER COMPLICATIONS

Amended Complaints Necessitates a Further Postponement of the Cases

The Hammel cases will not be heard at the October term of circuit court in Iron Mountain as announced when the cases were continued from the July term. This is the result of amended informations made by Attorneys T. E. Strom and M. J. Doyle, for the people and an agreement reached at a conference between M. J. Doyle and P. H. Martin, chief counsel for the defendants.

The cases were to have been heard at the July term and previous to the date set for the trial Attorneys Strom and Doyle in the examination of witnesses for the people found that it would be necessary to amend the informations made. A continuance was asked for and granted by Judge Flannigan.

When the amended informations came to the notice of P. H. Martin, attorney for the Hammels he stated that he would be unable to prepare the defense on such short notice on the amended informations.

At a conference a compromise was effected. Mr. Martin agreed to allow the substitution of the amended complaints providing that the cases were continued until the January term, this giving him time to prepare the defense. In the event that compromise had not been effected the cases would probably have been dismissed at the October court and the defendants arrested under the amended complaints.

When the cases are called Judge Flannigan will be asked for a continuance and will doubtless grant it.

CULMINATION OF FEUD

By C. E. HARRISON.

Between the Maxwells and the Hoyces there existed a feud as fierce as the historic one between the Montagues and the Capulets. Old man Maxwell hated old man Hoyce with a fervor inherited from their fathers before them and Ethel Maxwell hated Carl Hoyce with a fierceness reflected from her grandfather, old man Maxwell, while Carl Hoyce hated Ethel Maxwell as much as a well-tended young fellow could be expected to hate a pretty girl, albeit not so much as his uncle, Old Hoyce, might desire.

These being the somewhat complex conditions and all of the parties in the drama were located for the summer at the same coast resort.

Now it happened that sailing was Ethel Maxwell's enthusiasm.

So in the middle of a glorious afternoon Ethel and her old grandpa sailed over the billows of the bay with a taut sheet and a steady tiller.

Carl Hoyce had decided also to take a sail that afternoon, and was skimming over the waves alone with his thoughts, when on a tack he came right across the bow of Ethel's boat.

In fact, Ethel's quick eye of the tiller was all that prevented a collision.

"A very awkward tack, Mr. Hoyce," sung out Ethel, pertly.

"Didn't expect to run into ladies on the bay," retorted Carl. "Supposed a man was in the boat and could take care of himself."

Ethel flushed and sung out: "There's no man enough in this boat to beat you to the island for a silver cup."

"Go ahead," came back the answer. Now the island was far out at the entrance to the bay, and too near the open sea to make it safe sailing with but one in a boat. So intent were the contestants on making the best of their opportunities that they did not notice the gathering clouds.

So it was that a catastrophe ensued right at the point of the island. While making a tack on which they ran rather close together, a sudden gust of wind from the open sea lifted Ethel's boat fairly out of the water and hurled it squarely against that of "Hoyce." In a flash both were in the water and both boats hopelessly capsized.

Ethel was not a strong swimmer, and with her skirts and in a bad way, but Hoyce soon had a strong arm about her and pulled her over a capsize boat.

"Well," he said with a grin, "here is a situation for a novelist."

"Please release your arm," replied Ethel. "I am hanging on quite well now. What are you going to do about it?"

"I would suggest formal introductions," remarked Carl. "Permit me to present Mr. Carl Hoyce, Miss Maxwell." Then growing serious he continued: "It would be a strange fate were we to die together—we who were born to hate each other."

"Do you think it is as bad as that?" she asked, her face blanching.

"It is getting rougher every minute," he replied.

A PLEASANT LITTLE MERE.

A gastronomic grouch, writing in the Chicago Post, asks, "Why is parsley?" He goes on to assert that parsley is of no good under the sun, that it spoils potatoes and other viands in which it is injected, and has no ornamental value as a garnish. He would, in short, abolish parsley. Perhaps this captious one is not aware of the delight of neatly boiled potatoes slathered over with melted butter and finely chopped parsley. If he has not essayed potatoes in this guise he has missed much that is best in potato lore. If there were nothing else to be said in behalf of parsley this alone would justify its continued cultivation. It seems that in this tolerant day a man who sets out with the premise that parsley is all wrong, and attempts to prove his case by mere bluster, is somewhat of an anachronism. It is as fair for one to assert that parsley enhances, almost anything. But extremes are indefensible. Parsley is not good in custard pie, or in gooseberry-jam. But there is scarcely anything in the strictly meat and vegetable line which is not improved, edibly as well as visibly, by the presence of this humblest of our market offerings. The mere appearance of parsley is alluring. There are those who restrain themselves with difficulty from nibbling at it when it appears as an inconspicuous side issue with a steak or a bluefish. Even if the proprietress prevent one from devouring the tempting greenery one can imagine its fresh and appetizing taste, and derive zest therefrom.

At a town over in England, a historic fitch of bacon is awarded to the couple who can convince a jury of six bachelors and maidens that they have not said a cross word to each other during the previous year. Two happy pairs won the prize, though every effort was made to trip them up. One man who had been married for 25 years was asked why he waited till bacon was 44 cents a pound before he entered the contest; and he answered, because he wanted to celebrate his silver wedding with that side of bacon. He got the fitch. But a prevailing circumstance in his case was his receding hair, and this was it: "Similarity of states, readiness to help each other in the little difficulties of married life and no nagging at home." The last is the keynote to matrimonial serenity. Nagging, whether it is petulant or good-natured, is one of the greatest enemies that ever got into a home. It gets in as easily as the snake got into Eden and when it plays the very deuce. If that captious one nagging phrase to pass his lips he would have had no bacon on his silver wedding day.

The idea of a title page did not occur to the early printers. "The books started straight off with 'incipit' or 'here beginneth' without author's or publisher's name. This causes much difficulty in attributing earlier works to the proper sources." The idea of a title page with names seems first to have occurred to a Cologne printer named Therhornen, about 1470; but it was not generally adopted until 50 years later. The early punctuation was very simple, consisting of an oblique line and a full stop. One of the first books to introduce the colon and notes of interrogation and exclamation was a "Lactantius" printed at a monastery near Rome in 1486.

Sporting World

FINANCES OF WORLD'S SERIES

How the Vast Gate Receipts Are Divided.

LIMIT TO PLAYERS' SHARE.

They Figure in Money Taken in During First Four Games Only—Winners Get 60 Per Cent and Losers 40. How Clubs and Commission Profit.

Naturally the first question the baseball fan asks himself or his neighbor is, "Who is going to win the world's series?" and right on top of it comes the query, "How much do the players get?" So strongly has the dollar sign been burned into the average American brain that there is almost as much interest in the concrete coin involved in the big series as in the possession of the abstract title for which the teams will compete.

Nearly everybody has been able to figure out in advance to his own satisfaction what chance each team has to win the bunting emblematic of the highest baseball honor, but a great deal of uncertainty and misinformation exists regarding the financial emoluments germane to the world's series. In a general way the public knows that the players of the competing teams share in the coin taken in at the gate, and the great majority of the fans understand that the teams divide this coin 60 per cent to the winner and 40 per cent to the loser. The same majority believe that it is for the interest of the players to have the world's series last as long as convenient so as to increase the size of the melon that is cut up at its conclusion.

A Limit to Players' End.

To combat this tendency to suspicion on the part of the sport loving public the rules which govern the distribution of the money were framed so as to give the players no interest in the world's series after four games have been played to a decision. The contestants share only in the receipts of the first four games, and consequently it is to their interest to finish the series as soon as possible. The club owners profit most when a series lasts over four games, and there is hardly a ball player in the country who does not begrudge the club owner these additional profits, so that there never would be a series of over four games if the players were able to end it that way.

It is seldom, however, that a world's series extends beyond five games, so that the players really are the greatest beneficiaries.

The players do not divide all the income from the first four games of a series—far from it. Their pool is made up in this way: From the gross receipts of each game 10 per cent is deducted for the national commission, which conducts the series. After that deduction the remaining 90 per cent is divided into two portions. Sixty per cent is put into the players' pool and the other 40 per cent into the coffers of the two club owners, who split their share half and half.

To illustrate, suppose the gross receipts of the first game amount to $20,000. The first thing done is to deduct $2,000 and hand it to the national commission. That leaves $18,000, of which 60 per cent, or $10,800, goes into the pool to be distributed among the players and $7,200 goes to the club owners, each of them taking $3,600 for his share. This is the method of parceling out the coin for each of the first four games played.

Further Details.

If the gross receipts were exactly $20,000 for each of these days it can be seen that the national commission's share would be $8,000 for the four games and the players' pool would amount to the sum of $43,200, while each club owner would get $14,400 if the series lasted only four games. After the fourth game the split is entirely different. The national commission still gets its $2,000 for every $20,000 taken in, but the club owners divide the remaining $18,000 half and half between them, or $9,000 apiece. It is to the interest of every one except the players, therefore, to have the series go the limit.

Out of its 10 per cent the national commission pays part of the expenses of conducting the series. Out of its share come the salaries and expenses of the four umpires and two official scorers assigned to the series, the cost of the emblems given to the victors and the pennant awarded to the winning club; also a small part of the expenses of the national commission while attending the series. The club owners must pay out of their share of the coin all other expenses in connection with the series. These include the salaries of the players, their traveling expenses, the cost of printing and distributing tickets, advertising, police, park employees and all the many other incidental expenses of the series.

The players' profits are net, as no part of the cost of the series is deducted from their pool, and in addition to this financial reward for winning their respective league championships their salaries are paid pro rata as long as the world's series lasts.

BASEBALL

YESTERDAY'S GAMES.

American League

Washington, Sept. 30.—Ayres, a recruit pitcher from Richmond, Va., went through his first full major league game today against the Athletics, and shut them out. The young star pitched a fine game, striking out eleven men and giving no bases on balls. The champions played "second string" again today, only one of the regulars getting into the game.

Score. R. H. E. Philadelphia 0 4 3 Washington 3 7 2 Batteries: Boardman and Giebert; Ayres and Henry.

Boston, 3-2; New York, 2-0.

New York, Sept. 30.—Boston today turned the tables on New York, duplicating the home team's performance of yesterday by winning both games of a double header. The first game was featured by snappy hitting. The second game was called at the end of the eighth on account of darkness.

Score. R. H. E. Boston 3 12 1 New York 0 7 1 Batteries: Leonard and Cady; Moore, Schulz and Sweeney and Reynolds.

Second game: Boston 3 11 0 New York 0 2 3 Batteries: Moseley and Thomas; McHale and Reynolds.

National League

Boston, 8; New York, 0. Boston, Sept. 30.—Today was "Tyler Day," and Tyler celebrated it by smutting out New York in Boston's final game of the season with the Giants. Mayor Fairbanks, of Derry, N. H., Tyler's home town, presented the pitcher with a silver loving cup and $100 in gold. He also received a chest of silver and a pair of diamond sleeve buttons.

Score. R. H. E. New York 0 7 2 Boston 8 15 0 Batteries: Fromme, Schutt and Hartley; Tyler and Rariden.

Philadelphia, 10-1; Brooklyn, 9-3. Philadelphia, Sept. 30.—Today's double header between Philadelphia and Brooklyn here resulted in an even break.

Score. R. H. E. Brooklyn 9 10 6 Philadelphia 10 14 4 Batteries: Ragon and Fisher and McCarty; Rixey, Chalmers, Marshall, Camnitz, Doolin and Burns.

Second game: Brooklyn 3 12 0 Philadelphia 1 3 0 Batteries: Walker and Fischer; Camnitz, Finneran and Killifer and Burns. Walker Brooklyn.

No other games scheduled.

Old Lady Some Pedestrian. In 1851 an old Cornish fishwife of eighty-four, named Mary Callinank, walked from Penzance to London to see the great exhibition in Hyde park. The distance is nearly 300 miles. The old lady created a sensation and was noticed by Queen Victoria. She had vowed to call on the lord mayor before returning, and she carried out her intention, but, of course, was not permitted to walk back.

Matter of Size. A Chicago lecturer declares that a girl with "a pink aura" makes the best wife, but that wise young men will avoid the charmer with a green one. Not a long-green aura, however.

COMB SAGE TEA IN HAIR TO DARKEN IT

Grandma Kept Her Locks Dark, Glossy, Thick With a Mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur.

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grandmother's treatment, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color, which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the mussy mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy" for about 50 cents a bottle. It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft lustre and appearance of abundance which is so attractive; besides, prevents dandruff, itching scalp and falling hair.

IF BACK HURTS USE SALTS FOR KIDNEYS

Eat less meat if Kidneys feel like lead or Bladder bothers you—Meat forms uric acid.

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean, and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then be fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is harmless to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity. It also neutralizes the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is harmless; inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everybody should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean, thus avoiding serious complications. A well-known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

A CLEAR COMPLEXION

Ruddy Cheeks — Sparkling Eyes—Most Women Can Have

Says Dr. Edwards, a Well-Known Ohio Physician

Dr. F. M. Edwards for 17 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he gave to his patients a prescription made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients mixed with olive oil, naming them Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, you will know them by their olive color.

These tablets are wonder-workers on the liver and bowels, which cause a poisonous action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter that one's system collects. If you have a pale face, sallow look, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headaches, a listless, no-good feeling, all cut of sorts, inactive bowels, you take one of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets nightly for a time and note the pleasing results.

Thousands of women, as well as men, take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets now and then just to keep in the pink or condition.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the successful substitute for calomel—10c and 25c per box. The Olive Tablet Co., Columbus, Ohio.

Offered a New Experience. "Supposing I give you your supper," said the tired-looking woman, "what will you do to earn it?" "Madam," said Meandering Mike, "I'll give you an opportunity of seeing a man go 'trot a whole meal without findin' fault with a single thing." The woman thought, a minute, and then told him to come in and she'd set the table.

Ouimet, Young Golf "Champ," Will Remain an Amateur

Photos by American Press Association.

FRANCIS OUIMET, the sensational young Boston lad who won the open golf championship of the United States at Brookline, Mass., recently, denies that he will quit the amateur end of the game and join the professionals.

The report that Ouimet would join the money makers has been widely circulated. The lad's wonderful performance in defeating Harry Vardon and Ned Ray, England's great professional masters of the game, has made him a headliner of imposing proportions. Jerry Travers, the noted amateur champion, prophesied at Garden City, N. Y., when he defeated Ouimet, that "the youngster is a sure enough phenomenon and will make a great name for himself some day."

And Jerry was right, as the Brookline tournament proved. In the accompanying illustration Ouimet is shown playing the last hole at Brookline, when he worsted Vardon, his nearest competitor, by five strokes, and also he is pictured being carried on the shoulders of the enthusiastic crowd after winning the title.

WITH NOTHING TO MAR THEIR CHARMING SIMPLICITY

Nothing is quite as dear to the heart of woman as the dainty negligee into which she slips with such a feeling of luxury in the seclusion of her own room. She may revel in its supple fabric, its soft colorings and the grace of its frills and flounces with never a misgiving as to its suitability, for it is the one garment that may be as plain or as fancy as the fancy desires without losing its charm.

Printed silks or cotton crepes with quaint, impossible flowers or old fashioned looking designs sprinkled here and there are admirably suited to negligees, and the plain crepes and muirs are dainty, too, offering possibilities for frills and flounces galore. 7077 is a pretty empire model, depending upon graceful lines rather than more elaborate. The lace butterfly across the front and one of those attractive trifles and easily made, that do make a garment distinctive. To make this model in silks requires 4 1/2 yards of 36 inch No. 7941 is a design that, a softly tinted albatross or trimmed with tiny frills of bon and sashed in a vivacious silk, would bring joy to the school girl. It would also be a silk or crepe. Three and three-quarter inch material is needed to size 16.

To obtain either pattern illustrated fill out this coupon and enclose 15 cents in stamps or coin. Be sure to state number of pattern and size, measuring over the fullest part of the bust for dimensions. Address Pattern Department.

SEA LION ENTERS CAMBRIDGE

Cambridge, Mass.—Cambridge had a sea lion hunt the other night. The animal came up out of the Charles River basin and invaded East Cambridge street, where it flopped about, barking loudly, and frightened a crowd which retreated before it.

Attracted by the light of a store, it leaped four feet through the window, shattering the heavy plate glass. The proprietor of the store, Isaac Friedman, who was counting his cash, left in a hurry, while the animal raised havoc in the place.

A small squad of police reserves tried to confine it in a packing box and in a big sheet of canvas, but it smashed one and ate its way through the other. Finally freed from the Boston parking lot, it was sent to that institution.

There it was said to be a good specimen of a California sea lion about three years old and weighing more than 200 pounds.

"A rare visitor in New England waters," one of the officials said.

RUN OVER BY CAR; CHEWS CUD

After Being Rescued, Cow Was Tied to a Post and the Car Proceeded.

Chicago.—A Jersey cow walked into the path of an east-bound Chicago avenue car at North Forty-sixth avenue and was run over. The car was stopped as the front truck rested on the bovine, shaking the passengers, who were startled at the apparent hill-climbing proclivities of the car.

The cow viewed the situation calmly, chewing its cud while awaiting the arriving wagon to lift its burden. After being released, the cow was tied to a post and the car proceeded. The animal suffered only a slight cut.

A short time later Hoffmann Thomas Thompson discovered the cow tied to the post and led it to the West Lake street station. Sergeant O'Neil discovered that it had not been milked and performed the task. The cow's battle with the automobile.

MIRROR TO PUBLISH MOTION PICTURE SERIES

Series of Articles Will Appear in This Paper Through Arrangement With Kenneth E. Voght

A series of articles on motion pictures will appear in The Mirror through arrangement made with Kenneth E. Voght of this city. The first of the series appears in this issue and deals with the discovery of the "motion" picture. In the next article Mr. Voght will explain the making of the exterior and interior pictures.

The keen interest shown by the people of Escanaba in motion pictures will doubtless make this series of articles most popular.

The First Motion Picture

The fact that pictures could be produced in motion was first discovered in the United States in 1878 by a man named Muybridge who on a wager that all four feet of a horse did not leave the ground at the same time, while trotting, set up twenty four cameras along side of a race track so arranged that when the horse went by he broke strings which were attached to the cameras thus closing the lenses and making a snap shot. These twenty-four pictures he made into a booklet and when they were run through they gave the appearance of moving or motion pictures.

Motion pictures of course are not really "moving" pictures but are pictures thrown upon the screen so rapidly that one is led to believe that the objects or persons are moving. The pictures on the film are about one inch wide and about three fourths of an inch long, there being sixteen pictures to every foot of film and they are thrown upon the screen at the rate of one foot or sixteen pictures every second, the average film being one thousand feet in length and running from fourteen and one half to sixteen minutes. The films of the Kinemacolor company differ somewhat from the above. These films are those which are produced in natural colors. The Kinemacolor pictures are produced by a process known only or rather controlled only by the Kinemacolor company. They are thrown upon the screen at the rate of about two and one half feet or forty pictures per second. The machines which project these pictures upon the screen are motor driven.

The picture which is first taken by the film company with the camera is known as the negative. From this as many projecting films or positives are printed much the same as the photographer prints a picture from a negative.

Some idea of the magnitude of the moving picture industry can be gained when we are told that the Lubin

TONNAGE DEMAND MAKES RATE FIRM

Grain Cargoes Offered Freely, With Shippers Bidding for Boats

Cleveland, Sept. 1.—Grain tonnage is in good demand at the head of Lake Superior and with offerings for early loading light, the rate to Buffalo is firm at 13-4 cents. Cargoes were offered pretty freely today and shippers were bidding for boats at this end of the route to go back light. Contract ore boats close by are being lined up, without much trouble, and the delay due to the fog and storm of the past week has made a few wild cargoes in that trade.

Practically all the grain available during the next few days has been lined up and two boats that will be ready the first of next week were chartered today. A big steamer was placed to load wheat at Port William for Buffalo at 13-4 cents, and a steamer of medium size will take a cargo of wheat from Duluth to Georgian Bay at 15-8 cents. On a small cargo of flax to load next week, 12-4 cents was offered to Buffalo.

Ore carriers are slow getting around and contract boats that will be ready up to the early part of next week will be lined up for cargoes without much trouble. Wild loads will be scarce from now on, but some coal could be traded for ore.

Coal is not coming forward fast enough to take care of the contract tonnage and a large number of vessels will be forced to go back light this week. There will be no improvement in the movement during the next week.

Upsets the ink.

want a coonskin to hang over the fireplace.

The little visitor was supposed to be a fugitive from one of the parks in the city, but lately it has been rumored that he is the pet of a resident in a nearby hotel.

One morning recently Attorney Clayton C. Dorsey was astonished to find a large bottle of ink overturned on his desk, with tracks of Mr. Coon running hither and thither all about the office.

Again the rubber floor matting was found to have a fringed edge after one of his visits.

He is a remarkable coon in several ways. He is frequently seen on the roofs of buildings in the block and apparently he must climb the fire escapes to get there. Only a few days ago, in the evening, he was seen peering over the edge of the cornice of the International Trust building by the janitor. He is seen only at night.

GIRL'S FAITHFUL DOG PUTS HOBO TO ROUT

Puppy in Role of Hero When His Mistress Is Attacked by a Tramp.

Canal Dover, O.—Rebekah Root is the comely seventeen-year-old daughter of Jonathan Root, a farmer who lives north of town. Her constant companion in her farm duties is a young bull pup she calls Raleigh. The other day she went early to the meadow near the edge of her father's farm to pick blackberries. The ripened and juiciest picking was along a fence skirting the roadway, and here she bobbed in and out, sometimes in sight, often concealed entirely by the bushes. Raleigh was with her, of course, but as she seemed to his dog mind to loiter, he amused himself by chasing birds and butterflies in the undergrowth back of the fence.

While busily engaged in filling her bucket with luscious black beauties, she suddenly popped out in the roadway, where she was surprised at being confronted by a man. He was young, roughly dressed and of the tramp species. Seeing she was alone he accosted her roughly, asking what she had in her bucket. She pleasantly told him berries and offered him some, but he grasped her in his arms and began dragging her backward toward the bushes. She had just time to scream "Raleigh" before his rude hand closed over her mouth, but her cry was enough.

The faithful pup, alive with instinct of his kind, abandoned his merry chase of winged playmates, and responded almost instantly. As the dog reached the open, and saw his mistress grappling with a hobo, he knew just what to do. Leaping for the man's throat he all but landed, but the tramp threw him off, at the same time letting go his hold upon the girl. Then the flustered and disconcerted young woman witnessed a pretty fight. With her berry bucket the fellow successfully combatted his dogship for a time, but finally the dog's teeth became set in the flesh of the man's trousers, and he could not be shaken off. The girl saved the situation by helping her assailant to get free, and he ran as fast as he could while she held her faithful Raleigh and alternately laughed and cried.

LIFTS A TUG OUT OF WATER

Huge Whale Tries to Wreck Vessel, Then Chases It for Half a Mile.

Baltimore, Md.—To have their vessel lifted three feet out of the water and to be later chased over half a mile by an 80-foot whale was the experience of Capt. L. M. Smith and crew of the seagoing tug Defiance, which reached port the other day from the Virginia coast.

Captain Smith says the incident occurred at one o'clock in the afternoon, while the tug was cruising between Cape Henry and False cape, off the Virginia seacoast.

"I was lying in my berth at the time and Mate Jack Reese was at the wheel," said Captain Smith, "when all of a sudden the bow of the tug rose in the air and dropped with a plunge and a terrific roll. When I reached the deck Mate Reese was trying to steady the vessel, which was still rolling, and when he recovered his voice, said that he had run over a whale.

"Standing in the pilot house, we watched the whale, which turned around and followed the tug for at least half a mile, then headed toward the beach as if fatally hurt. While the whale was following the tug it lifted about two-thirds of its body out of the water. The fin, huge flukes and almost the entire head were in plain view."

OATES ORDERS AUTOS FOR GAME WARDENS

Lansing, Mich., Oct. 1.—State Game, Fish and Forestry Warden W. R. Oates has purchased for the state department automobiles, which the various deputy wardens will use in their work. The department had one machine and Oates issued orders to use autos in catching violators of the game and fish laws. The results were such as to warrant other machines being purchased.

Oates has figures showing that since the new scheme went into effect enough fines have been collected by deputies operating one machine to almost pay the first cost of the auto. The expense of the department for travel has also been cut.

Warden Oates has inaugurated a scheme by which more civil service will be added to the department. The new system provides promotional examinations for deputies to be held twice a year in certain districts.

Wages in the department will not be reduced after once being fixed, except for cause. Oates also has given out that he will hold an annual conference with his deputies or officers if deemed advisable, at which time administrative problems will be discussed and all other matters pertaining to the welfare and improvement of the department work.

CANAL SHOULD BE DEEPER, SAYS PECK

New Yorker Sees Need for 30 Foot Channel at Sault Ste. Marie

The two new locks and the new canal now in the course of building at Sault Ste. Marie should be built to a depth of 30 feet instead of 24 1/2, is the opinion of Joseph Ripley, consulting engineer of the New York state barge canal, Alexander E. Kastl, deputy state engineer of the same canal, and Duncan W. Peck, superintendent of public works on the same work, who yesterday completed an inspection of the work at the Soo.

Great possibilities are seen in the near future by them as regards great lake traffic and the canals should be built so as to care for any exigency in the future, no matter how many years hence, they argue. It is the intention of the Canadian government to erect a 30 foot lock at the Canadian Soo in anticipation of the general deepening of the waterways throughout the entire length of the lakes.

While the new locks will be 21-2 feet deeper than the old ones over the miter sills, the engineers in the inspection party from New York declare that in ten years they will not be deep enough to care for the boats that have been made larger with the deepening of other waterways. The new Welland canal will be made much deeper than the new locks at the Soo.

PATHETIC CASE HEARD BEFORE JUSTICE GLASER

Trial of Case Reads Like a Chapter of a Work of Popular Fiction

A pathetic case was heard this morning before Judge Glaser, a case in which a woman's repentance and the forgiveness of a husband played a prominent part.

The tale reads like a chapter from a work of popular fiction or a recital of Enoch Arden. Over a year ago Henry A. Ducap or Wittmore left for northern Canada to take up a homestead claim. His destination was over 250 miles from a railroad in the wildest portion of the least inhabited section of Canada. Owing to the inaccessibility of his claim he was gone longer than he expected and when nearly a year had elapsed his wife, left with three small children, hearing that her husband had gone to California and believing herself deserted, placed her children with her mother and went to Newberry where she secured work as a nurse in the asylum. There she met Fred Allen also a nurse. Being only human she finally yielded to his blandishments and came to Escanaba where the two lived as man and wife.

Meanwhile Duncan returned to find his wife gone. He finally located her here and communicated with Sheriff Curran. Mr. Curran found that the couple had moved to Trenary and went there yesterday and placed them under arrest on a disorderly charge.

They were brought to Escanaba last night and given a hearing this morning before Judge Glaser. Both were found guilty and sentenced to spend thirty days in the county jail. The woman's repentance was so sincere that Judge Glaser suspended sentence in her case and she left this afternoon for Whitmore with her husband. Allen is serving his jail sentence.

The Ladies' Aid society of the Presbyterian church will hold their annual turkey supper on November 13, at the church.

MANY HUNTERS OUT

Behind horses, in automobiles and walking the hunters of Escanaba start out early this morning on the hunt for partridges, the season opening today.

In the neighborhood of one hundred nimrods started out with their guns this morning and if the day's kill is not a large one it will not be because the hunters are scarce.

The partridge season will extend until November 30. Protection is also removed from woodchucks and spruce hens. It is unlawful to kill more than six in one day or to have more than fifteen in one's possession at any one time. It is also unlawful to kill more than fifty in any one calendar year.

Deputy Game Warden Lelsner who recently returned from a trip through several of the counties in this part of the peninsula, reports that partridge are more plentiful than they have been in many years and believes that many hunters will be in the woods during the next few weeks.

THE large women may be majestic and stately or she may be shapeless and dowdy—it is all a matter of her corset and how she wears it. The manufacturers of Warner Corsets do not recognize one type of figure-perfection only, but have planned so thoroughly for the needs of every woman that the tall, the slender and the plump may be alike improved in figure and carriage. You will never know the full beauty-possibilities of your figure, till you have worn the right Warner model. Every pair guaranteed. Price, $1.00 to $3.00.

The Corset from the Back

"TIS the test of welcome," some philosopher has wittily observed, "the feeling with which we see a guest depart." Applying this to Corset-wisdom, 'tis the test of corset-perfection, the lines it gives to its wearer at the back. Slight defects of figure may be overlooked or softened in front—but at the back, never! Nothing short of perfection can satisfy us in what should be the matchless natural curves of the back—the long, supple, sweeping lines that the Redfern models assure in their fullest beauty.

Above is a typical "Redfern back," suggesting both the grace and the ease of a perfectly fitted Redfern Corset.

Price, $3.00 to $8.00
