GIANTS RALLY IN FINAL INNINGS BUT LOSE THIRD GAME 6-5

POSTOFFICE AT NAHMA ROBBED DURING EARLY HOURS ON WEDNESDAY

BURGLAR PRIES WINDOW OPEN WITH PEVY AND LOOTS THE OFFICE STRONG BOX

LOOK FOR "SCRATCHED-FACED" MAN

Nearly Sixty Dollars in Cash Removed But Stamps and Checks are Left

Early yesterday morning the postoffice at Nahma was entered and robbed. The strong box was broken open and between $55 and $60 in cash was removed and the burglar made his escape.

The sheriff and his deputies are looking for a man with a bad scratch across his nose and extending under his eye, the man they believe responsible for the robbery.

Early yesterday morning Postmaster W. E. Barlow discovered the robbery when he opened the postoffice for the day. One of the windows was standing open and the lid of the strong box was swung back. A hasty search showed that the roofer had removed the cash and left the stamps and checks unharmed.

The burglar made entrance by prying the window open with a peevy. He used the same instrument to pry open the lid of the strong box.

When an inspection of the premises outside was made the footprints of the man were plainly discernible and fresh that the conclusion that the robbery had been committed early in the morning reached.

The individual with the scratched face hung about Nahma all day on Wednesday. He was at the office several times and when questioned said he was from Manistowick.

When Sheriff Curran was notified immediately put Deputy Sheriff Chester of Garden in charge and Mr. Chester feels confident that he will catch his man. Meanwhile all deputies in Delta county have been instructed to be on the watch for the "scratched" and the sheriffs in adjoining counties have been notified.

The man wanted is described as about five feet, eight inches in height, light of complexion and wearing dark clothing.

INJURIES PROVE FATAL

Well Known Marinette Man is Thrown From Buggy and Death Results

Marinette, Oct. 10.—John Helmer of Marinette, who Tuesday injured his back and suffered the fracture of two ribs when he was thrown from the buggy he was riding in near Wausaukee, died shortly before noon today at St. Joseph's hospital. Death resulted from internal injuries which were not thought to be serious until yesterday afternoon when he was removed to the hospital.

Helmer was driving a team of horses hitched to a buggy with another horse in the rear which he was leading when the rear horse became frightened and in jerking away, tipped the buggy over, Mr. Helmer landing heavily. He was not removed to the hospital immediately as his injuries were not supposed to be serious.

Helmer is an old resident of Marinette and for years has been engaged as a cruiser and land looker for the Skidmore Land company. He is survived by a son, William, his wife and his brother, William, his wife and his brother, William Helmer, who is assistant chief of police in Marinette. The body has been taken to Martin's undertaking parlors. No arrangements have been completed for the funeral.

(By Associated Press.) Calumet, October 10.—Three additional arrests for the killing of Deputy Pollack were made this morning. The Prosecutor denies that there has been any confession made so far. Joseph Manerich, who said he was shot by Pollack, died last night.

The injunction against picketing, was violated this morning at the Wolverine, Centennial and South Kearsarge mines, according to the Militia. At Allouez a workman was threatened with death.

At Quincy the porch was blown off the house of the Quincy mine trammer boss. No one injured. Michael Sheehan, a deputy, was shot in the legs by strikers.

There was much parading all morning of strikers and the workmen were jeered and hooted at.

ESCANABA BUSINESS MEN AT STEPHENSON

In reporting the recent fair at Stephenson, the Journal of that village has the following to say about Escanaba business interests that were represented:

"The merchants' exhibits were fine and the Escanaba business men carried away the honor. The best of the booths were that of the Fair Savings Bank Store and it is only proper to say that H. Salinsky, owner of the store, deserved all the credit given him and his exhibits. He was a live wire on all three days of the fair and he enucleated lots of points into the minds of the directors how to run the fair properly. As an advertising man he always had something interesting to show and to tell and the many souvenirs he distributed made him a good fellow among the patrons. The Lion Baking Powder Co., and the Escanaba Granite Works had fine booths.

City Clerk Pepin has received a communication from Governor Ferris stating that the charter has been received and placed in the hands of the Attorney General. Governor Ferris stated that the charter would be returned as soon as its inspection had been completed.

PREPARE TO OBSERVE THE DAY OF ATONEMENT

Special preparations are being made by the Jewish people to observe October 11, the day of atonement, one of the most significant of holy week.

The day of atonement is the holiest day in the Jewish calendar. Its biblical designation is Yom ha-Kippurim, later shortened to Yom Kippur. According to biblical tradition it is one of the cycle of holidays instituted by Moses. It is mentioned in Leviticus XXIII, 26-32, in the list of holidays; its ceremonial is described in Leviticus XVI, its sacrifices in Numbers XXIX, 7-11.

However, the day of atonement is not dependent on the sacrificial service prescribed in the Bible. Thus, after the destruction of the temple in the year 70, when sacrifices were abolished, the day of atonement was able to survive, and of all the holidays of the Jewish calendar it has most completely held its own in the hearts and observance of the Jewish people.

Emphasis was laid on confession, penitence, prayer and good deeds. It became the day of "afflicting one's soul" (Isaiah LVIII, 3, 5) which was interpreted as meaning fasting from the eve of atonement until the following morning.

The confession continues to be an important feature of the service; yet, while confession brings forgiveness of sins between man and his Maker, sins between man and man are not forgiven until redress is made for the injury. The eve of atonement day, therefore, becomes the occasion for the cessation of feuds and ill will. And the day of atonement is known as the Sabbath of Sabbaths—when men are at peace with all the world.

The service of the day of atonement beginning with Kili Nidre service on the eve of atonement is a continuous one throughout the entire day. The prayers in the synagogue are intoned in plaintive penitential tones. The spirit of the mastery sermon of Isaiah (Is. LVII, 4-9), which is the prophetic portion of the morning's reading, is manifested throughout.

BITTER ARRAIGNMENT OF GOVERNOR SULZER IS MADE BY PARKER

COUNSEL FOR PROSECUTION CLOSING WITH FEARFUL FLAYING OF GOVERNOR

DECLARES THAT HE MUST BE REMOVED

(By Associated Press.) Albany, N. Y., Oct. 10.—"For the honor, peace and prosperity of good government and this community William Sulzer must be removed" was the verbal flaying with which Judge Alton B. Parker concluded his argument in the Sulzer trial.

"In his opening argument he said: 'His dishonorable acts, attempts to suppress the truth and shift the blame for his acts upon others are stripped from his quaking flesh, until he stands naked, without a rag of his attempted vindication clinging to his deformed and mutilated manhood. His character is too baseless to fit him for a public or private trust.'

ESCANABA BIDS FOR THE MEETING OF EDUCATORS

Upper Peninsula Educational Association Asked to Meet in This City in 1914

Escanaba has extended an invitation to the Upper Peninsula Educational Association to hold its 1914 Session in this city and in competition invitations were issued by Menominee and Houghton. Menominee is presenting its claims strongly and are circulating literature putting forward the claims of that city. Escanaba is making a strong bid and has precedence over Houghton at least.

The secretary, appointed by the executive board will choose the place of meeting and as Jess Hubard of Menominee county has been elected to the executive committee it seems probable that the choice will go to that city.

At the meeting held yesterday John E. Doelle of Houghton was chosen president of the association. Mrs. Cora A. Jeffries of Painesdale was elected vice president and J. William of Gladstone was named treasurer to succeed F. E. King of Escanaba.

GOOD EATERS AS GOOD WIVES

May Be More Than a Grain of Truth in Reasons Advanced for the Assertion Made.

"Marry a woman who is fond of her meals. If you wish to be a happy husband, see that she shows discrimination and anxious care in the choice of food and drink for herself.

"Never marry a woman who will have high tea when you are not at home to dinner. The same remark applies to the woman who looks on a dinner properly selected and carefully set up with the fitting accompaniment of glittering glass and spotless cutlery as merely a powdering to the brutal instincts of man."

"This was told by an expert who has studied the question. 'If mothers would only teach their daughters,' he added, 'to enjoy their food and make it a joy for the husband, there would be fewer disastrous marriages.'"

"The majority of women try with their food and do not understand the enjoyment that a large meal well prepared and properly set out gives to a healthy man. How often does a wife profess a quiet disgust for her husband who insists on having good meals."

"I know a man whose wife will only occasionally eat a good meal with him. As a consequence, he very rarely dines at home."

"Quarrels are often the result, but the wife does not for a moment believe the cause of these is her inability to eat well in sympathy with her husband."

"Country girls generally make better wives than town girls, simply because they are good eaters. 'The average man feels miserable at a good dinner with nobody to eat with him.'"

SEE USEFULNESS OF CAMEL

Importation of Animal Into This Country May Be Productive of a Great Deal of Good.

News comes from the inland that the camel is to be imported into this country and domesticated and increased to that he may, through the useful work. The camel may be used on this continent in several ways. It was driven across the desert by the feet. It is said that it may take up the burden of life where he fails. He can stand without water for several days. He can eat almost anything that is given him. He can stand in the desert heat and cold. He is a valuable animal for the desert. He is a valuable animal for the desert. He is a valuable animal for the desert.

"Perhaps, however, the best use of the camel will be as an example to our rich men. Most of them are likely to forget how difficult it is for a camel to go through the desert of life. But when circumstances come to mingle with our ordinary advertisements and are being shown by walking up and down Fifth Avenue and Pennsylvania Avenue, who knows but that these humble instruments of commerce may serve as objects of admiration to satisfy merely material cravings—Life."

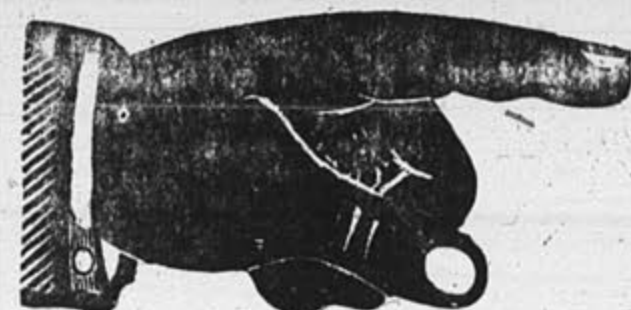

Sorry He Spoke.

Captain McLeod, a Scotsman to the backbone and, moreover, a distinguished officer in a distinguished Highland regiment, had an unbounded admiration for his countrymen, and never lost an opportunity of extolling their virtues. One evening at mess he was entertaining several guests, and at the conclusion of the meal, as he and his party were leaving the room, he happened to notice a magnificent specimen of a piper, clad in full Highland costume, stuffing by the doorway. Wishing to draw attention to the man's splendid proportions, he stepped, and: "From what part of Scotland do you come?" he inquired.

"Tipperary, sorr!" replied the man, with a punctilious salute.

Gifted Composer of "Fuzt."

Gounod was one of the most fascinating men I have ever spoken with. His manner had a charm that was irresistible, and his kindly eyes, soft and melting as a woman's, would light up with a smile, now tender, now humorous, that fixed itself ineffably upon the beholder. He could speak English, but he preferred his own language. He was a great conversationalist and he was a great story teller. He was a great conversationalist and he was a great story teller. He was a great conversationalist and he was a great story teller.

MICHIGAN HAS TIMBER FOR ITS BEST ELEVEN

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 10.—While Michigan's 48 to 0 over Case reminded Wolverine football followers of Yost's old time "point a minute" machines, the students are bearing in mind that the Cleveland eleven was not up to the usual Case standard. The victory nevertheless, has assured Maize and Blue supporters that Michigan has material which will develop into a great team.

The usual first game faults, such as blocking, poor tackling and inefficient interference, were almost entirely absent from the contest. The blocking was excellent, the blocking was good, and above all, especially during the first half of the game when the "regulars" were performing, there was good consistent team play at all stages. The work of the heavy linemen was exceptionally good, which reflects no little credit on "Germany" Schulz, special tutor to the forwards. The work of the light backs, using straight football almost entirely, received most favorable comment.

Individually, Catlett, at half, loomed up as a star. Galt, at half, Bentley and Quinn at fullback, were not far behind him. Hughitt's generalship was excellent. On the line, Torbert at end Pentius at tackle, and Allmendinger at guard assisted Capt. Paterson in bearing the brunt of the Case attack, and in opening holes for the speedy Michigan backs to shoot through.

With Case out of the way, attention is being turned this week towards Saturday's game with Mount Union College of Alliance, Ohio. For the past two years the Ohio school has been turning out teams that play on a par with Case and Western Reserve of Cleveland, and Michigan feels fortunate in securing this team to fill her open date, Oct. 11.

Coach Yost has cut his squad to 19 men who have been placed at permanent training table at the Michigan Union. The men are Capt. Paterson, Lichtner, Allmendinger, Cochran, Raynsford, Pontius, Musser, Torbet, Lyons, James, Watson, Hughitt, Galt, Mead, Diehl, Catlett, Benton, Quinn, and Bentley.

Miss Clara Flurry of Marquette, who has been sitting in the city with Miss Emily Miller, has returned to her home.

John W. Jackson of Gladstone was a business visitor in the city today. Mrs. Mae Parker of Turin is visiting in the city today.

Mrs. W. J. Smith of Wilson was in the city today.

Mrs. T. Corrigan of Wilson spent the day in the city.

Mrs. Ed La Cross of Wilson was in the city on a shopping trip today.

GUESSING FOR DOLLIES

Youngsters Trying to Win Jap Dollies at the Fair Store

The Fair store was crowded today with children. One of the windows is filled with Japanese toilet soap and in the center of the window are two Jap dolls. To the youngster who guesses nearest the number of bars of soap in the window the dolls will be given and naturally the youngsters, especially the little girls are guessing by the wholesale.

Tomorrow being a holiday with the Jews the Fair store will be closed as will the Fashion store.

U. S. ABANDONS ROMAN FOR ARABIC NUMERALS

Plain "1913" to Be Chiseled on Public Buildings.

Washington, Oct. 10.—Plain Arabic "1913" will be chiseled on public building completed this year instead of the MCXIII. Secretary of Treasury McAdoo has issued an order that the Roman numerals be dispensed with and the general understood to be used. He says:

"The reason for the order lies in the fact that few persons can read Roman numerals readily and the general public is in ignorance of the significance over the entrance of building."

SALTS IF KIDNEYS OR BLADDER BOTH

Harmless to Flush Kidneys and Neutralize Irritating Acids—Spends little for System.

Kidney and Bladder weakness result from uric acid, says a noted authority. The kidneys filter this from the blood and pass it on to the bladder, where it often remains irritating and inflame, causing a burning scalding sensation, or setting up irritation at the neck of the bladder obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night. The sufferer is in constant dread, water passes sometimes with a burning sensation and is very painful. Again, there is difficulty in voiding.

Bladder weakness, most folks get it, because they can't control voiding. While it is extremely annoying and sometimes very painful, there is really one of the most simple all-time remedies to overcome. Get about four or five of Jad Salts from your pharmacist, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast, continue for two or three days. This will neutralize the acids in the urine so no longer is a source of irritation to the bladder and urinary organs. Then act normally again.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless and is made from the acid of lemon and lemon juice, combined with sodium bicarbonate. It is used by thousands of folks who are subject to urinary disorders caused by uric acid irritation. Jad Salts is splendid for kidneys and causes no bad effects whatever.

Here you have a pleasant, effervescent lithia-water drink, which relieves bladder trouble.

CATCHERS IN WORLD'S SERIES

Backstops More Important Than Generally Believed.

HOLD DOWN BASE STEALING

Figures Show Good Work of Connie Mack's Receivers—Meyers and McLean of Giants Two of Best Men in Their Branch of the National Game.

In the midst of all the talk about the superior value of good pitchers to a ball team in a world's series and of the crowning merits of $100,000 fields, one should not overlook the importance of catching staffs and their influence on the game.

A good, heady catcher is one of the most assets a team can have in a of battles that will determine a world's championship. The backstop is all the players constantly in view can frequently save a situation in emergency that otherwise would have a severe setback to his team.

When the Athletics and the Giants engaged in their struggle for the high honors in balldom two years ago, the catcher was a splendid brace to the pitcher. John J. McGraw's band of fleet and young men would make life miserable for Connie Mack's receivers, prevalent belief being that neither Schang or John W. Lapp could handle the Manhattanites from sizzling rocks in great numbers. When the Athletics were over eminent statisticians, Schang's able athletes had succeeded in pinching just four bases in a game series and that nine of the nine who represented the senior organization had been turned back when set forth on thieving expeditions.

MID WEST FOOTBALL.

Chicago's Strong Back Field—Minnesota Has Heavyweights.
Football interest has spread rapidly through the country to the middle west with the opening of the practice season for the colleges, and reports show that the gridiron game will have all the spice of past years.

Couch Stagg has sent the University of Chicago football thermometer up a few degrees by describing the 1913 back field candidates as the best all round bunch he has ever had to work with behind the line. The statement is regarded by the Maroons as full of significance for the opening season.

Russell, Boyd and Breasted, the three leading quarterback aspirants, will gain respect in the eyes of the fans because of Coach Stagg's bulletin, which carries with it a recognition of much talent on the part of the young players.

Johnny Silkman, Illinois quarterback, has announced that he will not play football. Silkman arrived from his home in Baltimore, Md., with the explanation that his father asked him to take part in only one sport a year. The quarterback decided to stick to baseball.

Couch Zuppke has drafted Norman Wilson, end, for quarterback, and the quarter miler shows promise. Pogue and Reier are sophomore candidates. Minnesota's prospects for a winning eleven probably never have been so rosy so early in the season as they are this fall. While the men on the whole do not loom up as big as those who represented the Gophers in the days they were alluded to as the Giants of the North, they are not pigmies by any means. There are several big men in the squad, including Ostrum, Snyder, Robertson, Solon, Shaughnessy and Barron.

All of last year's letter men appear to be in the best physical shape. The return of Russell Tollefson is hailed with delight by the students, who have been on the anxious seat for some time, wondering whether or not this great little player would again be a contender for a position on the eleven. With Tollefson directing the play the Gophers are assured of a wonderful field general. Tollefson's work in the early games last fall stamped him as one of the most promising players Minnesota has ever had.

APPLEGARTH'S STANDING.

Noted English Sprinting Champion is Under Suspicion.

England may lose her star sprinter before the time for the 1916 Olympic games at Berlin rolls around. W. R. Applegarth of the Polytechnic Harriers, by long odds the greatest sprinter that England has developed in the last decade, is under suspicion as to his amateur standing, and it is a pretty well known fact that the officials of the Amateur Athletic association are seriously considering starting something in Applegarth's direction. Applegarth is a messenger by profession, and as such he is supposed to draw down a very small stipend. Despite this fact, since he has become prominent as an athlete Applegarth has been able to be away from his work a great deal and has become nearly as famous as a tourist in England and Scotland as has Secretary Bryan in this country. In England athletes are not allowed to accept car fare expenses from the promoters of athletic games, and the English officials are considering asking Applegarth where he gets the money to do so much traveling.

The British officials never start an inquiry as to an athlete's amateur standing until they have "the goods" on the man they are after. Therefore, if Applegarth is called before an investigation board, it is fair to assume that he will walk the plank, as Alfred Shrubbs did several years ago.

A QUERY FOR THE FANS.

A Cleveland correspondent, writing of a recent Cleveland Athletic game in Philadelphia, said: "Chapman almost committed a grievous crime in the seventh inning. Luckily for Chappie, Schang's boneheaded play appeared at the same time. Chapman was on third with the bases filled. Johnston struck out. Schang dropped the third strike. He forgot the rules of the game, and so did Chapman. Chapman dashed toward the plate, thinking he had been forced. Schang stepped on the plate, also thinking Chapman had been forced, and hurried to McInnis for a double play. Chapman scampered back to third before McInnis could get the ball to the bag."
Puzzle—What was the biggest bonehead play pulled and by whom?

Jim Wendell has changed his mind. The big athlete from Wesleyan university whose hurdling was one of the features of the intercollegiate games last May is not going to retire after all.

MATHEWSON'S CAREER.

Famous Pitcher Once Agreed to Go on Mack's Team.

Christy Mathewson, the veteran of the New York Giants' pitching staff, has been one of the most prominent figures in baseball for the past ten years. His record as a pitcher is one of the greatest in baseball annals. He was born in Factoryville, Va., on Aug. 12, 1880. As a boy he was a pitcher for the Scranton Young Men's Christian association, and later went to Bucknell, where he was a star baseball and football player. His first professional engagements were with the Norfolk club of the Virginia league and Taunton club of the New England league, but he did not stay long in the minors, for Connie Mack, new manager of the Athletics, saw him play and was eager to sign him. Mack made Mattie an offer, which he accepted, but later the New York management offered him greater inducements, and Mathewson joined the Giants in 1901.

APART FROM THE REAL WORLD

Dunkers Preserve the Primitiveness of Dress and Quietude of Living of the Founders.

The dress and customs of the Dunkers are as primitive as their creed. The men let their beard grow and part their flowing hair in the middle and wear slouch hats and the plainest of clothes. The garb of the women is equally plain and severe. There are no milliners among them, for each woman makes her own hat, a simple matter, since no feathers or other ornamentation is allowed, while the wearing of jewelry is strictly forbidden.

However, the Dunker women are seldom wanting in comeliness. Their faces are nearly always sweet and gentle, while an air of almost saintly simplicity is given them by the clear, starched cap, the handkerchief crossed on the breast, the white apron and the plain gray or drab stuff of their dresses. The Dunkers live in peace one with another, and never have recourse to law to redress an injury done to them. Disputes among themselves are settled by the elders, whose decision is final, and only in exceptional cases do they institute lawsuits against the people of the world. They are averse to accepting public office, and rarely, if ever, exercise the right of franchise. However, the Dunker ideal of personal conduct is a high one. They are temperate to abstemiousness, industrious and economical, and Carlyle's gospel work is theirs.—From Wilson's Rambles in Colonial Byways.

MONARCH'S ONE GOOD WORK

Founding of Greenwich, Still the World's Greatest Observatory, Stands to Credit of Charles II.

The first English observatory, and still the greatest, is that at Greenwich, which was founded 233 years ago by Charles II. It was erected on the summit of Flamsteed hill, so called in honor of the first astronomer-royal, John Flamsteed. The longitude of all English charts and maps is reckoned from this observatory, and the captains of ships take their bearings from Greenwich. Longitude is reckoned from the meridian of Paris, Washington, etc., but the reckoning from the meridian of Greenwich is most general. The first real observatory in the world was erected at Alexandria by Ptolemy Soter about 300 B. C. The first observatory in Europe was founded at Nuremberg in 1472 by Bernard Walther. Tycho Brahe's celebrated observatory was built in 1576. The French Royal observatory at Paris was established in 1667, eight years before the erection of the English Royal observatory at Greenwich, Kent. The first American observatory was established at Williams college in 1836, and that at Harvard four years later.—Milwaukee Sentinel.

"Horse Sense."

Was the sobriquet of Gulliver among the Houyhnhnms a fable, after all? The Society of Psychological Research listened to a remarkable report recently upon the education of horses, as conducted at Elberfeld, in Germany. Mr. Krahl, who acts as "coach" to a select number of the species, brings his pupils to a remarkable proficiency, both in literature and mathematics. Their spelling shows a tendency to eliminate vowels, and they have not yet extracted the square root of anything beyond 144. But they are able to "write from dictation," and they have the multiplication table and more abstruse branches of arithmetic at what, in other circumstances, would be their fingers' ends. The delegates of the Psychological Research society have seen these things for themselves, and find that they are "not in a position to give any definite solution of the problem." They seem to have found at Elberfeld that the "thinking horse" is not such a strange variety, after all. And in these days, when he only lags superfluous upon the stage of traffic, the leisure that he will enjoy for an intellectual career should enable his buried talents to be developed to the fullest advantage.—Pall Mall Gazette.

THE SMART TAILORED SUIT HAS A FIRST PLACE IN THE WARDROBE

Smart, simple, of good lines, there is nothing more becoming to the American woman than the tailored suit. This has always been true, and despite its change this season from strictly tailored to semi-tailored lines, the suit continues to be indispensable to the smart wardrobe.

Many of the skirts are draped, many show the double or triple skirt, others again are perfectly plain. The coats are sashed and vested, and often there is a novel collar or attractive cuffs that add to the effect.

Materials are most attractive—velours de laine, plain or self figured; duvetyne, which is as supple and rich as velvet, and numerous novelty stuffs that are exceedingly smart.

Tweeds in almost invisible mixtures are modish for morning wear.

A smart suggestion for 7988-7994 is navy blue velours de laine striped in natter blue with white collar and vest. To copy 7998 in size 36 it requires 2 1/2 yards of 36 inch material. In size 24 7994 requires 2 1/2 yards of 36 inch material. 7998—sizes 34 to 44 inches bust measure. 7994—sizes 22 to 36 inches waist measure. Each pattern 15 cents.

HOUSE "OVER THE WAY"

By UNA OOUSINS.

There was quite a stir in our quiet village when it became known that the house "over the way" had been rented. We prided ourselves on having quite an aristocratic little neighborhood, and as there were only one or two rented houses, we always felt anxious about a new arrival.

The new tenants were to arrive on Monday, and when we young folks gathered at our usual choir practice, the matter was fully discussed. Phillip King, the rising M. D., gave as his opinion that they would be two old maids, with a number of birds and cats. Gertie Black, with a merry twinkle in her roguish eyes, said: "Don't you wish, Nell, it may be a rich widow with two or three handsome sons? What an addition they would be to our circle!"

"I! What need I care if it were so—hadn't I Phillip? Perhaps I looked this, for they all laughed, although I had not spoken a word in reply.

On Monday the furniture arrived, and toward evening a carriage containing two ladies. The house was speedily put in order, and in a week's time the excitement had somewhat subsided, although no one had as yet seen the new tenant. On Saturday a strange lady sat in the minister's pew—a lady "from the crown of her head to the tips of her dainty boots." You needed only to glance at her to see this. How beautiful she was! I, a woman, was ready to acknowledge it at first sight. Her name was Mrs. Lee, the minister's daughter informed us—just the name which suited this lovely widow. About forty, I should judge.

I had just arrived at this conclusion as the benediction was pronounced, and awoke from a delicious dream. What was this lovely young widow to me, that I should make a study of her?

Mamma and I called, and learned during our visit that Mrs. Lee had sought our quiet village for change of air. We were introduced to her aunt, an elderly lady, who took charge of the little household, leaving her niece to perfect quiet and rest, as prescribed.

Mrs. Lee inquired the name of our physician, and was told Dr. Phillip Ring—my Phillip, as they all called him. Why did I wish he had not been named.

At parting, she pressed me to call frequently. She loved young folks, she said, and how often did I find myself running over during the summer that followed.

A few days after my first call I was surprised to see Phillip open the little gate that led to the cottage, and, after ringing the doorbell, he instantly admitted. Later in the day he told me Mrs. Lee was very ill, not dangerously so, but with one of her old attacks.

"Is she not lovely?" I asked. "More than lovely," he answered. "She has engaged me professionally during her stay in the village."

Need I tell you what followed—of Phillip's love for this beautiful woman ten years older than himself; of his mad worship, his utter neglect of old friends? From this time he was her constant companion in drives and walks, which were frequent. All his hopes in life seemed centered in the new tenant, and yet I could not blame him, for I soon learned to love her, too. I saw that people watched, and saw they pitied me; yet I was strangely indifferent. What I felt in secret none should ever know.

And so the summer passed, and September approached. She would leave in November. What had the summer brought to me? A nameless pain—a joy and sorrow blended.

Tonight, however, I had promised to take tea at the cottage. During the evening she played, and we sang a few duets. What a rich, clear voice she had; how well our voices blended—my own being a fine contralto.

"Now for a cozy chat," she said, rising from the piano. She told me of the two lovely boys laid away in the churchyard, of her beloved husband, loved so dearly, mourned so deeply, laid to rest by their side five years ago, of the disease which might at any moment call her to join them in the spiritland, of the happy summer just passed, which my friendship had gladdened. I felt at this moment I would have been willing to make any sacrifice to have kept her with us. Phillip came in during the evening. At half past ten I arose to say good night.

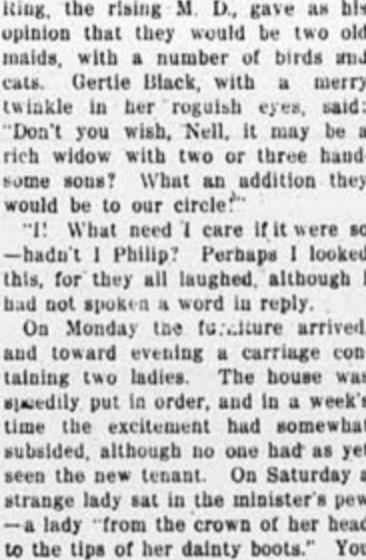

"She followed us to the door. Turning impulsively, I threw my arms around her, and kissed her. I had never done so before. What prompted me to do so now? She returned my embrace, exclaiming warmly: "God bless you, darling!" Turning abruptly to Phillip, she said: "Take good care of Nellie; she is a treasure. Good night!" I was surprised next morning by an early visit from Phillip. He told me that Mrs. Lee was dead; he had been sent for toward morning, to find her dying.

We stood together, and gazed on the beloved dead—loyal lover even in

EASY TO GIVE 'INDIVIDUALITY'

Child's Frock of Checkered Gingham Will Make Up to Please Both Mother and Daughter.

Such an original little frock of checkered gingham as appears today will appeal forcibly to the mother who covets the "individual" in her children's frocks. The little short waist is cut plain and finished on the bottom, edged with squares piped with white. Each alternate one of these is trimmed with white buttons. The short set-in sleeve is similarly finished and trimmed. The frock buttons to the left of the front with small crochet buttons. The straight narrow skirt joins the waist with only a slight fullness.

COATS USEFUL IN MANY WAYS

Garment of Lightweight Worsted Serviceable in a Great Variety of Respects.

No more useful garment than the coat of lightweight worsted has been included in woman's wardrobe in years. These coats fill almost every requirement of a summer wrap. They are gracefully appropriate for wear with the draped afternoon costume, of crepe de chine, lansdowne or foulard, are jauntily attractive over a short skirted outing costume, and they will answer for short motor trips and for travel by rail or by water. The rather severely cut models of dark or neutral colored material are the most satisfactory—and usually the smartest. Sometimes a bright colored Bulgarian collar adds a touch of gaiety, and very exclusive coats of this sort have linings of American Beauty or emerald green silk. Mandarin yellow is another favorite lining hue. Very good looking sport coats of pin striped black or navy serge, with trim lines and trimming of white pearl buttons may be found.

"Pam's" Little Joke.

Doctor Butler, the master of Trinity, who was entertained by the Harrow association recently, told an interesting story of Palmerston. He remembered, he said, one speech day when Palmerston went. It rained the whole day. Palmerston galloped down from the Cambridge house. He came and sat for two hours in his wet clothes listening to the speeches. He went out at the end not a bit abashed in spirit, and stood with the governors and a number of the boys, and began to speak.

"Doctor Butler," he was corrected, and told it was "Mr. Butler. "I beg pardon," he said, "Mr. Butler. No man should be doctored against his will."

Another story was to illustrate the fact that sometimes logic was overcome by personal feeling. He remembered many years ago meeting a little boy riding on his pony. He said to him: "I suppose you always wish the best side to win. I believe we are going to play Etou. Do you wish them to win?"

"No, certainly not," was the answer. —Pall Mall Gazette.

Gold and Silver Coinage.

Gold and silver coins were authorized at the same time by an act of congress in 1792, but copper coins, cents and half cents, were issued before either gold or silver. The coinage of copper cents and half cents began in 1793, of silver coins in 1791 and gold in 1795. The first gold coins issued were the eagle, or ten-dollar piece, and half and quarter eagles. The double eagle, twenty-dollar gold piece, was not issued till 1849, and the only piece of that year known to be in existence is in the mint at Philadelphia. From 1849 to 1881 not a single twenty-dollar gold piece was coined, but since 1881 the coinage has been continuous.

Not a Biography.

During a lull in the dinner conversation the hostess turned to the famous traveler and author, who was the lion of the occasion, and said: "I enjoyed reading your book so much. Now tell me honestly, did you really encounter all those wonderful adventures you narrate?" "No, indeed," replied the traveler in a burst of confidence. "If I had I'd never have lived to write about them."

There are now twenty public libraries in the Upper Peninsula. The organization of the Upper Peninsula Public Library Association is for the purpose of bringing the librarians together in a friendly gathering each year allowing an opportunity for exchanging ideas and methods. It may be described as a sort of literary house cleaning.

The tube of butter is to supplant the "patty" on the tables of Indian restaurants. The warm, moist air of the Hindoo peninsula has such deleterious effects upon the keeping qualities of butter that government officials are planning to pack this product in collapsible tin tubes such as tooth paste is marketed in. The tubes are to be of tin in order to avoid the poisonous compounds that would result from the action of the volatile fatty acids in butter upon such metals as lead and copper. Pounded half pound and four pound tubes are planned.

A vaudeville performer had a funeral march and a ragtime tune played at his wedding. The funeral march was in honor of his first wife and the ragtime tune was to celebrate his latest matrimonial venture. He seems to have a keen sense of values.

MISS OLSON IS MADE PRESIDENT

Marquette Librarian Honored at Organization of Upper Peninsula Library Association Yesterday

Marquette, Oct. 10.—Miss Alma Olson, librarian of the Peter White public library, was yesterday elected president of the Upper Peninsula Library Association, at its meeting held in Ishpeming. The meeting held at Ishpeming yesterday organized a permanent organization to succeed the temporary organization that was started last fall at Iron Mountain. Miss Lois Spencer, of Menominee, who acted as president of the temporary organization, refused to accept the honor for the coming year. Therefore, Miss Olson was elected president for the ensuing year.

Miss Olson is a graduate of the Marquette high school, the Northern State Normal school and the University of Chicago Library school. To be a successful librarian it requires a special training in library work as well as a college education and Miss Olson is well fitted for the position of president of the organization.

The Organization. F. H. Begole, one of the trustees of the Peter White public library, and who took part in the program at the meeting of the Upper Peninsula association, yesterday, has taken a great deal of interest in the organization of this association. In an interview with him today, he said:

"There are now twenty public libraries in the Upper Peninsula." The organization of the Upper Peninsula Public Library Association is for the purpose of bringing the librarians together in a friendly gathering each year allowing an opportunity for exchanging ideas and methods. It may be described as a sort of literary house cleaning.

"A number of the members of the new organization are also members of the Michigan State Library Association. The State organization has always held its meetings in lower Michigan, thus proving too far for many of the librarians to attend. However, it is expected that the State Association will hold its next annual meeting at some point in the Upper Peninsula and will probably hold that meeting at Menominee or Marquette."

Seats had been reserved at the Orpheum theatre and the young ladies enjoyed the excellent performance there. Later they enjoyed a feast in the Brown cafe. One of the booths had been prettily decorated in pink and white and it was there that the feast was held.

ESCAPED PRISONER BACK TO FINISH TERM AFTER RICH STRIKE IN ALASKA

Oakland, Cal., Oct. 10.—In February, 1912, William Walker, serving three months in the county chain gang for vagrancy, escaped with thirty days of his sentence yet to run. He returned today, married and wealthy, and surrendered himself. Walker explained that he had gone to the Alaskan gold fields and "struck it rich," but his unexpired term bothered his conscience. Walker declared his willingness to be locked up. During the next thirty days he will be extended every favor possible and will be made a trusty.

SHERIFF AND DEPUTIES SPEND NIGHT IN WOODS

Search For Man Wanted for Assault is Hotly Pursued

Sheriff T. E. Curran, Deputy Sheriff George Curran and Deputy Charles Larson of Perkins, spent last night in the woods about four miles in on the Beaver branch in a fruitless search for Stanley Brownlee, who is wanted for a murderous assault upon a fellow woodsman. The assault was committed several weeks ago and Brownlee disappeared. Yesterday the sheriff received a tip in his old haunts and with the two deputies he started in an auto. Reaching the Beaver branch he secured a gasoline peddler and went into the woods. Brownlee was sighted, carrying a suitcase by Deputy Larson and he gave chase. So hard was the the fugitive pressed that he dropped his suitcase and managed in the darkness to elude his pursuers. Not daunted Curran and his deputies remained in the woods all night in a tireless search for Brownlee. They returned to Escanaba early this morning, without their prisoner. The Misses Susie and Nettie spent the day with their friends.

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

IT'S EASY—IF YOU KNOW DR. EDWARDS' OLIVE TABLETS.

The secret of keeping young—is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle.

Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver. Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, are gentle in their action, yet always effective. They bring about that exuberance of spirit that natural buoyancy which should be enjoyed by everyone, by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities. You will know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets by their olive color. 10c and 25c per box. The Olive Tablet Company, Columbus, Ohio.

BASEBALL

Cuba Defeat the Sox, 6 to 5.

Chicago, Oct. 9.—In a thrilling thirteen-inning battle today, the Chicago Nationals made the standing in the Chicago championship series one to one, downing the American leaguers, 6 to 5, before 29,368 persons. The victory of the Cubs was due mainly to the courage and coolness of "Big Jim" Vaughn, who refused to give way before the vigorous attacks of the South Siders. Weaver's fielding was sensational.

The Score: R. H. E.
Nationals 6 9 3
Sox 5 11 3

Batteries: Vaughn and Archer; Cicotte, Benz and Schalk.

Pirates Tie Series With the Naps

Pittsburg, Oct. 9.—The Pittsburg Nationals shut out the Cleveland Americans here today in the inter-city series. The clubs are now even, with two wins each. Adams, for Pittsburg, pitched effectively and only once did the Cleveland advance a runner as far as third.

The Score: R. H. E.
Cleveland 0 8 2
Pittsburg 5 7 0

Batteries: Mitchell, Kahler, Cullop and Carisch; Adams and Simon.

Wild Throw Fatal to the Browns

St. Louis, Oct. 9.—That all the good baseball games are not played in the world's series was shown here this afternoon, when the Nationals defeated the Americans in the opening game of the series to decide the championship of the city. The teams, both of which finished eighth in their respective leagues, put up a wonderful exhibition. Sallee and Wellman were the pitchers, and the former gained the verdict, 1 to 0, when his rival made a wild throw to second base to catch a runner. The Nationals obtained but one hit off Wellman.

The Score: R. H. E.
Nationals 1 1 0
Americans 0 4 1

Batteries—Sallee and Wingo; Wellman and Agnew.

ORPHEUM PRESENTS CLEANEST, BEST BILL

Three Exceptionally Fine Acts Are Showing This Half-Week

The Orpheum is presenting this week one of the best all around bills its patrons have been treated to this year. Every number on the bill is a first class one.

The monologist offers the cleanest bit of monologue it has ever been your pleasure to hear. A quiet affair, nothing suggestive or off color in the slightest, just quiet, clean humor, not of the boisterous kind. In addition he has an exceptionally pleasing singing voice and a magnetic speaking voice.

Ventriloquism, we were convinced until last evening, was of the days gone by. A mistake. The young man appearing at the Orpheum this week is a thorough master and he offers a clean cut and mightily entertaining act. He walks through the audience with his marionette and you can't see a muscle move either in his throat or face. The dialogue in which he engages with the manikin is clean, devoid of the usual smutty smacks upon which so many performers depend for a laugh.

The third act is, in golf parlance a "foursome." Four young ladies offer songs. All are possessed of exceptional voices and their act is most pleasing.

FACING ARREST.

Warrants Are Issued in Sault Ste. Marie to United States Deputy.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Oct. 10.—Warrants were issued this afternoon for the arrest of 29 bartenders at the request of Charles Benson, special deputy in the United States Indian service. The charge in each case was the sale of liquor to Indians. John Driver, an Indian, procured the necessary evidence.

The movement originated in the department of the interior and is a general one to prohibit the sale of liquor to the American Indians.

LADIES! SECRET TO DARKEN GRAY HAIR

Bring back color, gloss and thickness with Grandma's recipe of Sage and Sulphur.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark, and luxuriant; remove every bit of dandruff, stop scalp itching and falling hair. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use tonic, costing about 50 cents a large bottle, at drug stores, known as "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," thus avoiding a lot of fuss.

While wispy, gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared. After another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant and you appear years younger.

The hall has been prettily decorated, refreshments will be served and the music will be furnished by five pieces of Olmsted's orchestra.

The young people of the city are discussing the dance with a pleasurable anticipation that is sure to result in a big time tonight.

AT THE PETERSON

"Too many cooks spoil the broth" is an axiom which does not apply to the brewing of a musical comedy. It is the greatest of the mall is any sort of a criterion. Take the case of "The Pink Lady," which was by far the most sensational hit of the decade on stage. Georges Berr and Marcel Guillemaud made the French farce, which was adapted for the American stage by C. M. B. McLellan. Ivan Caryll wrote the score. John C. Fisher bought the stage rights. Herbert Gresham organized and rehearsed the company. Julian Mitchell selected and drilled the chorus. F. Richard Anderson designed the costumes and outlined the whole scheme of color harmony. Bernard McDonald built the scenery. John Brunton built the properties. Fred Solomon organized the orchestra and conducted it after Ivan Caryll returned to London; Harry Blasing built the electric effects and Anderson and Schneider made the costumes. These are the names of those who had charge of the vital departments in the building up of this great hit. "The Pink Lady" will be seen here shortly with many of the New York and London company.

By J. W. JACKSON.

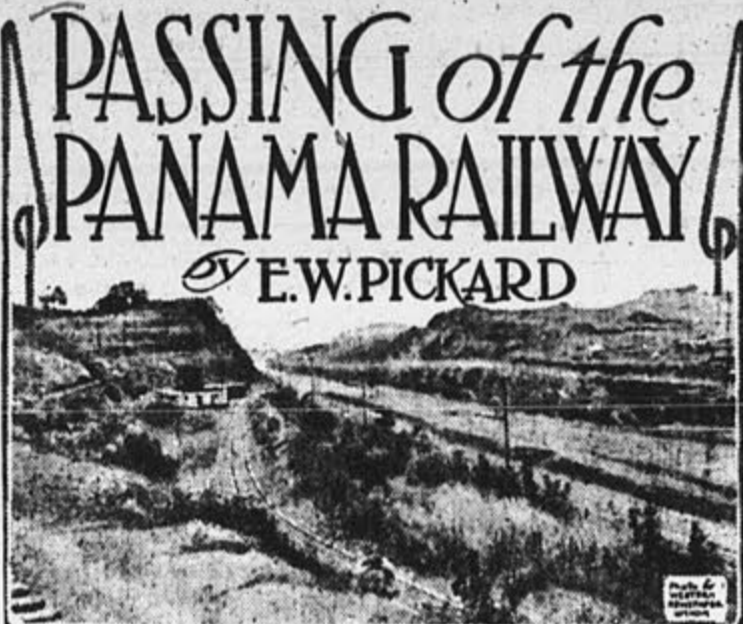

"Fair coming on, or a hospital donation wanted?"
The rich man stood in the middle of his study, one hand holding his eyeglasses, in an attitude of expectancy, and the other waving the young clergyman to a seat.
"Nothing of the kind today, Mr. Clappel," the minister said. "I came to ask you for a new church."
The rich man dropped into his revolving chair with the suddenness of a discovery in gravitation.
"You did, did you? Well, I don't know about that," he said, quizzically. "We need a church and a rectory," the minister continued, without visible discomfiture. "There will be no trouble about getting a rectory if I can manage to secure the church building."
"Yes, yes; I understand," Mr. Clappel broke in. "but I'm afraid I can't afford you a church. Yet—hold on a minute," he added, as he took up a letter which he had apparently written that morning. "See here," he continued, as he glanced over it re-acted in a way in which you might not want you want."

Graham looked over the sheet and read it the second time. Then he sat for a little while in a train of thought which brought a frown to his forehead.
"Mr. Clappel, do you remember Elizabeth Travers?" the clergyman asked, suddenly.
The chair came around with a quick jerk.
"In Heaven's name, man. How glibly you use a name. What do you know about her?"
"I know all about her," Graham declared, as he rose from the chair and laid the letter on the desk.
"Sit down, man; sit down, and tell me," Clappel begged. "There's no hurry about your going, is there?"
"I should make a call," Graham said, consulting his watch. "If I could write a note and send by messenger—"
"Oh, surely, yes. Sit down here, I will have a man drive over with it," Mr. Clappel indicated paper and envelopes. Then he touched a button and gave orders for the carriage.
The minister wrote a few lines rapidly on a plain sheet of paper.
The sealed letter bore no address and Graham handed it to the servant who brought it to the library and a request to wait for an answer.

"How came you to know Mrs.—Miss Travers?" Clappel asked.
"I am engaged to marry her niece," Graham explained.
"—Is she well?" Clappel asked, struggling to open the conversation.
"Quite well."
"Her marriage—was it accounted a success?"
"Hardly," Graham answered, with a flavor of irony. "Inasmuch as she never married."
"Do you mean to tell me," he asked, in a slow voice, "that I have deceived myself all this time?"
Graham nodded affirmatively.
"Man alive," Clappel continued, with a high note in his voice; "I've had murder in my heart for years. And now you tell me that I have harbored this hate without reason. Tell me more."
"There isn't much to tell. Ten years ago you thought—only thought—Captain Thomas had won out—"
"Yes—the furies take him!" ejaculated the older man.
"He is dead," Graham said, with something of solemnity. "He died a week after his arrival in London, where he had hoped to marry her. She came back here in the course of time. Five years later she lost her father and almost all means of support. Since then she has been struggling against adverse circumstances."
"And I with more than I can use," Clappel murmured.
Clappel hardly gave a glance in the direction of the door when the servant came in with the answer to Graham's note.
"Mr. Clappel," Graham asked, after reading the answer, "do you still hold to your agreement in regard to the letter you showed me?"
"Yes," was the absent reply.
"The letter instructs your agent," Graham continued, "to secure the Mercer farm at the lowest possible figure, with thirty thousand dollars as the limit."
"That is the idea. Whatever he saves out of the thirty thousand you shall have for the church," Mr. Clappel assured him.
"Very well," Graham replied. "I have written to the owner and this reply gives me authority to fix the price. There is a mortgage on the place; the owner must have as much as possible. I ask thirty thousand dollars. Read the letter."
Mr. Clappel glanced at the written page.
"Signed 'Elizabeth Travers'!" he said, in amazement.
"I'll go and buy the farm in person," Clappel said, impetuously. Turning to Graham, he added: "My boy, I hardly know how to—yes, I do!"
He put on his hat, took up a pen and rapidly wrote his signature. Then, blotting it nervously he thrust it into his pocket.
"She shall fill it out," he said softly. "Ten per cent. is your fee."
Graham deposited the next day, in the name of the church, a check for ten thousand dollars.

CULEBRA CUT from the RAILWAY

Colon, C. Z.—With the completion of the Panama canal the importance of the Panama railway will decline almost to the vanishing point.
For nearly sixty years this railway has been carrying people and freight from ocean to ocean. Though only 47 miles long, it has been, for certain periods, one of the most important and most interesting railroad lines in the world. During the building of the canal, under the ownership of the United States, it has become one of the best equipped and most efficient of railroads. It has given great help in the construction of the canal that will prove its virtual death.
The finding of gold in California was the cause of the building of the Panama railroad. For long years before the wild rush of argonauts in 1849 the isthmus was almost forgotten by the civilized world, but when the yellow metal was discovered on the west coast it became once more a great trade route. In order to avoid the long trip across the plains in "prairie schooners," thousands of gold-seekers went by boat to Chagres, up the Chagres river to Gorgona or Cruces and thence over the old Spanish road to Panama. This, too, was a long route and in the rainy season a painful and dangerous one because of the prevalence of disease.
To the rescue of the gold hunters came three bold Americans, W. H. Aspinwall, Henry Chauncey and John L. Stevens. In 1848 these men had asked the government of New Granada for a concession for the road, and in 1850 Stevens obtained it at Bogota. The Pacific terminus could not be otherwise than at Panama, but at first the harbor of Porto Bello was selected for the Atlantic terminus. However, a New York speculator spoiled this plan by buying up all the land about the harbor and holding it at a very high price, so Navy Bay was chosen instead.
When work on the line was begun in May, 1850, there was no celebration, no turning of the first spadeful of earth with a golden shovel.
Two Americans with a gang of Indians landed on Manzanillo island, now the site of the city of Colon, then a desolate, uninhabited spot, and began the tremendous task of clearing the route through the dense jungle. The surveying party suffered intensely, for the land was so swampy and so infested with malaria and yellow fever bearing mosquitoes that they were compelled to sleep aboard a ship. Much of the time they carried their lunches tied on their heads and ate them standing waist-deep in the water.
The efforts of the company to obtain laborers were attended by a terrible tragedy. Eight hundred Chinese were brought over from Hong Kong, but within a week of their landing scores of them died. Opium was given the survivors and for a short time checked the ravages of disease. But the supply of the drug was shut off on account of its cost, and again the deaths became numerous. The poor Orientals in despair began to commit suicide, some by hanging, others by impalement, while some deliberately sat down upon the seashore and waited for the rising tide to overwhelm them. In a few weeks scarce two hundred were left, and these, broken in health and spirits, were sent to Jamaica.
Another shipload of laborers, this time from Ireland, met no better fate, for nearly every man died.
The material difficulties that confronted the railway builders are thus summarized by Tomes in his "Panama in 1855": "The isthmus did not supply a single resource necessary for the undertaking. Not only the capital, skill and enterprise, but the labor, the wood and iron, the daily food, the clothing, the roof to cover and the instruments to work with came from abroad. . . . Most of the material used for the construction of the road was brought from vast distances. Although the country abounded in forests, it was found necessary, from the expense of labor and the want of routes of communication, to send the timber, for the most part, from the United States, and not only were the rails, to a considerable extent, laid on American pine, but the bridges, and the houses and workshops of the various settlements were of the same wood, all fashioned in Maine and Georgia. The metal work, the rails, the locomotives and the tools were brought, either from England or the United States. The daily food of the laborers, even, came from a New York market."
The first section of the road was laid through a mangrove swamp in which no bottom was found, the tracks being floated on an immense pontoon. By October, 1851, eight miles had been completed and solid ground was reached at Gatun. Lack of funds now began to hamper the builders. In-

LATEST CONFESSED DYNAMITER AND CAPTORS

(Left to right: Marshall Henkel, George E. Davis, referred to as 'O'Donnel,' during the dynamite trial at Indianapolis and one of the men most actively concerned in the dynamite conspiracy of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers, seated between United States Marshall Henkel, and Capt. Foster of the Foster Detective Agency of Louisville, Ky. This photograph was taken shortly after his arrest at the Hotel Breslin, New York. Davis had been traced for some time by Capt. Foster at the Fort Hotel in Pittsburgh, on September 10th, Davis decided to confess. Foster helped him to prepare this confession which involves the names of several of the officials of the association, and the pair went to New York, where Davis was arrested by Marshall Henkel. In his confession, Davis admits destroying nine structural jobs and recounts numerous other jobs which were planned, including the blowing up of the Queensboro Bridge in New York. Owing to his unwillingness to kill several men in the blowing up of the bridge, Davis gave up the job.
