GREAT STRUGGLE IN EAST IS DRAWING TO A HEAD; EXPECT DECISIVE BATTLE VERY SOON

INCREASED ACTIVITY IS MORE AND MORE APPARENT IN THE EASTERN ARENA OF WAR—BRITISH GOVERNMENT REFUSES U. S. REQUEST FOR REPORT ON AMERICAN CARGOES AT KIRKWALL—TURKS REPORTED TO HAVE SUFFERED HEAVILY.

BRITISH COMMANDER IN FRANCE EXPRESSES GREAT OPTIMISM OVER OUTCOME OF WAR—"ALLIES WILL WIN," HE SAYS

(BULLETINS)
London, March 25.—The British government has refused the request of the United States that an American consular officer be permitted to take station at Kirkwall, so as to report on American cargo ships detained there.

Sunderland, Eng., March 25.—The Swedish steamer, Goosebridge, with a cargo of iron was brought into Sunderland today by a British prize crew. The Goose bridge sailed from Spain and her cargo is presumed to have been designed for a German port.

(By Associated Press.)
Advices from Petrograd and Berlin indicate that the struggle in north Poland is drawing towards a decisive stage. The Germans who have attempted to pierce the Russian line at Ossowetz are now trying to stop the Russ advance into the districts to the north and south of the fortress and to intervene troops between it and the border.

An official communication from Berlin says that the Russians were repulsed in all their attacks. Petrograd asserts that considerable progress has been made.

Another lull has occurred in the fighting on the western front. There was a spirited artillery encounter yesterday and only small movements of infantry attempted.

Despatches from England sources regarding the fighting at the Dardenelles say that on March 13, the Turks suffered heavy losses in the attack.

Great Battle Developing
The battle in the Carpathians is developing into the most important phase of the land progress on the eastern front, but thus far no decisive engagements have occurred in the struggle which will decide the mastery of the mountain passes and to the gateway to northern Hungary.

A despatch from Athens says the Turks are fortifying positions on the border of Bulgaria in fear of an invasion from that direction.

SAYS SURRENDER ARRANGED
London, March 25.—The Evening Chronicle says that the surrender of the Dardenelles had all been arranged for before the attack of recent date but that at the last moment the negotiations were blocked by Germany.

TYPHOID AMONG AUSTRIANS
New York, March 25.—Typhoid and small pox epidemics has broken out among the Austrian troops, according to Dr. W. M. MacDonald of Washington, who has just arrived here from abroad. Dr. MacDonald was the head of the American relief hospital in Budapest. He said today:

"When summer comes I believe that typhoid will sweep through the ranks of the Austrians like a wind."
Dr. MacDonald was awarded a medal of honor by Emperor Francis Joseph for his work among the wounded and in the hospitals of Budapest. From New York he will go to Washington to prepare a report to the army heads there.

BAND CONCERT TONIGHT

Large Attendance is Expected at First 1915 Appearance of Band.

The final arrangements have been made and everything awaits the calling of the curtain for the band concert at the Peterson theatre this evening.

Much effort has been put on the preparation of the splendid program, and it is believed that generous support will be tendered the musicians. Much depends upon the success of this event, say members of the band. If a success it means the practical advancement of the organization.

ESCANABA WOMAN DIES SUDDENLY AT HER HOME

Mrs. Ambrose Clement is Victim of Heart Trouble—Will Hold Funeral Saturday at St. Anne's

Death entered the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ambrose Clement, 1514 Ludington street yesterday afternoon, and suddenly snuffed out the life of the mother and wife of the home.

Mrs. Clement had been indisposed for some time, but her condition was not at any time regarded as extremely serious, hence the shock of her sudden demise was a hard blow to members of the family who had believed she was improving. A neighbor sitting with Mrs. Clements during the afternoon, when she suddenly slipped forward into the chair. A physician was hastily called but death came before he arrived.

Deceased was well known and favorably, to many Escanabans, and leaves a wide circle of friends to mourn her passing. Of the immediate family a husband, three sons and three daughters survive. The funeral will be held Saturday morning at nine o'clock from St. Anne's church with burial at St. Anne's cemetery.

Say Turks Suffered
London, March 25.—Reuter's correspondent at Tenedos island telegraphs the following:

"According to reliable information obtained from refugees at the Dardenelles, the Turks suffered enormously in the allied attack of March 18.

"The Turkish submarine defenses have lost their value owing to the fact that mines break loose and are sent adrift. Two destroyers are said to have entered the straits.

SAYS SITUATION GOOD

British Army Headquarters in France—(Via London), March 25.—Commander Sir John French of the British forces in France today received the Associated Press correspondent, and discussed the military situation with him.

Before the conversation was over and in answer to a question, General French assured the correspondent that the situation was bright at the present time. He said:

"Indeed, there is no doubt of the outcome of the war in my mind. We were never more confident of victory than we are today. We are as confident as was General Grant, when he took command of the forces of the North in the civil war.

Speaking of the enemy he did not deprecate the fighting qualities of the Germans. "They are no greater than any other soldiers," was his statement.

"I attribute the well balanced conception of the Germans to their training. They are taught from the cradle to believe in their emperor, and their military training emphasizes this, so that they will die for him when told."
"And the French army. How does it compare with the Germans?" was asked.

"The French at the start of the war were laboring under the defeat of 1870, and the reputation of the Germans was still big. The French have already learned that they are not invincible and the world soon must, if they do not now," said French.

"I need not speak of their courage. They have the ardor of Napoleon's time. Man for man they are better than the Germans and the French army has advanced steadily while the Germans have deteriorated.

"We have abundant evidence of that deterioration on our own front. They lack the vigor of the earlier attacks and we are able to gain and hold positions easier than earlier in the war. Nueve Chappelle was a great victory," he concluded.

CIGARETTE MEASURES CAUSING UNEASINESS IN THE LEGISLATURE

MANY OTHER APPROPRIATION BILLS ARE LIABLE TO BE WITHDRAWN IF THE MILL TAX IS ALLOWED PASSAGE.

WILL EXTEND HELP TO STATE SCHOOLS

(By Douglas D. Martin.)
Lansing, Mich., March 25, (Special)—For once at least in the history of the legislature an anti-cigarette bill has appeared which seems to be other than a joke or a hold-up.

Anti-cigarette measures have been introduced at every session for so many years that nobody remembers when the practice began. They grew into disrepute and were characterized as "hold-up" measures because on one or two occasions the authors of the bills suddenly withdrew their support and it was rumored that they had been "seen" by the tobacco companies. Then too, the measures never got anywhere and so they were held very lightly in the estimation of the legislature and were held to be a good joke, but a rather suspicious one.

This year has seen a cigarette bill which prohibits the sale inside the boundaries of the state of the "paper pipes" pass the lower house of the legislature and go before the senate and there is considerable bewilderment over the reason.

Started as a Joke

The fact appears to be that the lower house was caught napping. It had two measures before it for consideration, one of them the Morford bill which merely forbids the sale of cigarettes to boys under 21, and the Hulse bill, which makes it unlawful to sell cigarettes in the state. The Morford bill has passed the senate and been favorably reported upon by the house committee. With the measure before them the house was ready to

KURDS CONTINUE THEIR BLOODSHED IN PERSIA

(By Associated Press.)

Tiflis, March 24.—(Via London, March 25.)—Telegrams and letters received here from Urumiah, in Persia, describes the situation of the American Presbyterian mission there as desperate. Turkish regular troops and Kurds are persecuting and murdering Assyrian citizens. Harry Packford of the American mission is said to have risked his life in a successful attempt to prevent a frightful massacre at one town where 3,000 Assyrians made their last stand. They had fought for three days and their ammunition was gone. Packford ran between the lines with an American flag and saved them.

Sixty missionaries were executed in one place—and in another the women were also killed with the exception of the younger ones who were taken as slaves. The U. S. is taking matters up with Turkey.

GREAT DIVIDENDS ARE PAID VICE HEAD, SAYS A N.Y. SPECIAL COURT

(By Associated Press.)

New York, March 25.—Mortch Goldberg who was arraigned on the calendar in the court of special sessions, is accused of being an official of a vice trust which maintains more than forty stations here and controlled more than 2,000 inmates and made a division of $1,250,000 each year. The district attorney's office says it has evidence that the trust made $400,000 a year from police protection.

START INNOVATION AT FAIR STORE TOMORROW

The management of the Fair store announce the discontinuance of the former method of selling men's suits. Hereafter, starting tomorrow, but four priced suits will be sold, making way with the previous broken price method. The new line will be known as the "Winners," ten, fifteen, twenty and twenty-five dollar suits.

SMALL FRIENDS ARE GUESTS ON BIRTHDAY

Eight small friends of little Miss Fredericka Shaw assisted her in celebrating her fifth birthday anniversary, Tuesday afternoon at the home of the small hostess' parents, 500 south Campbell street. Games and music, dear to the hearts of the small folks were played and delightful refreshments were served by Mrs. Shaw.

sage was sent to Chancellor von Hollweg; from Emperor William: "In the results of the second war loan, which exceeds all expectations and which is without precedent in financial history I perceive a manifestation of a will to conquer.

"The confidence of the people in their country is expressed. I give my imperial thanks to all who contributed to make this possible, and in the victories of my army and my navy I see ultimate glory.

GIRL SUED FOR BREACH OF PROMISE; NOW HELD FOR MISUSE OF MAILS

(By Associated Press.)
New York, March 25.—Miss Rae Tanzer who has filed a suit for $50,000 against N. W. Osborne for alleged breach of promise, was held today for the action of the grand jury on a charge of using the mails to defraud.

BANNER PRESENTED PENINSULA DIVISION

Meeting of "Safety First" Committee of Entire Division Held in City Today—Banner Presented This Afternoon

The beautiful banner awarded to the Safety First committee of the Peninsula division of the Chicago & North-Western railway, was presented to the men this afternoon by R. C. Richards of Chicago and was accepted for the men by Superintendent C. E. Andrews of the division.

In his acceptance Mr. Andrews spoke very proudly of the record his men have assisted him in making on this division and declared that he did not think the record was ever going to be any higher.

For the year ending December 31, 1914, there were 98 men injured on this division and but one killed in comparison with 5 killed and 298 injured for the previous year.

Before the banner was presented Mr. Richards gave the men an illustrated talk on the subject of "Safety First," and many important points were brought out and numerous startling facts revealed to the men.

According to Mr. Richards, and his statement is backed up by the report of the inter-state commerce committee, in the past four years, where 500 passengers upon trains were killed, 21,000 were killed by trains as the result of trespassing upon the railroad track. In other words 21,000 people would not have been killed if they had remained where they belonged instead of using the right of way of the road for a public highway.

Closed Meeting

During the morning session a closed meeting of members of the committee from over the entire Peninsula division was held in the office of Asst. Supt. Coughlan at which time matters to the future work of the committee was discussed and plans outlined for the coming year. It is evident that a concerted effort will be again made to land the big honor banner, during the present year.

SEWER RESOLUTION IS ADOPTED; CALLS FOR AN EXPENDITURE, $80,000

VOTERS TO PASS JUDGEMENT UPON SEWER EXTENSION PLAN—COUNCIL MEETS IN SPECIAL SESSION TO CONSIDER BD. PUBLIC WORKS RESOLUTION.

ENGINEER MAKES PRELIMINARY REPORT

Plans which call the expenditure of $80,000 for an adequate trunk sewer, to serve the north and west districts of the city, embodied in a voluminous resolution, were adopted by the unanimous vote of the city council, during the special session called for this purpose last night.

It was not, however, until a recess of ten minutes had been taken, during which time City Engineer McDonald explained the salient features of the plans as he had prepared them under the direction of the board of public works, that the members of the council voted the adoption of the resolution presented by the board.

There had been some misunderstanding as to the size of the subsidiary mains which were indicated to drain one section, but this matter was cleared up by the engineer.

Issue at April Election

The bond issue will be one of the most important subsidiary items for voters of the city to consider at the coming election, the preparation of the ballots for the purpose being ordered by the council, last night.

The plans, as outlined in the resolutions presented and adopted last night carry an item of $53,000 for the construction and equipment of a sewage disposal plant in the trunk line sewer, and another of $27,000 for the building and equipment of a sewerage disposal plant, to be located south of the city.

Some changes, though of not material character in the general plan of the proposed work, have been made by the engineer. One particular item, he has, however, changed. The style of pipe for the main sewer leading to the disposal plant was changed from a semi-circular tube to one of circular cross-section, it being argued that a large expense item can be saved by this means and that the pipe of McDonald's will as effectively carry the sewage, it being of as great area as the previously designed pipe.

Build Plant Cheaper

The disposal plant also was changed, in the matter of materials. From the "red brick and tile roof" plan, the city engineer prepared plans to build of the with stucco finish outside and lath and plaster inside. The disposal tanks will be carried, as will all machinery, motors and apparatus, on their individual foundations.

In the western section of the city where the trunk line will run at each street intersection, standard city manholes will be provided, to be constructed of standard material.

The preliminary report of the engineer, from which the above is a resume also advised the city "dads" to make plans to do the work themselves rather than let it out by contract, believing it can be done better and cheaper by this means.

None of the eastern part of the city was included in the plans discussed last night. The system for which the bonds will be voted is strictly a sanitary sewer. During the session a discussion was made relative to the feasibility of using the sanitary system for the drainage of storm water. This, however was not provided for in the above system, upon which the voters will place their approval or disapproval, April 5.

BUILDINGS ALMOST ENTIRELY WRECKED

The two buildings at the corner of Elmore and Ludington streets which are being torn down to make way for a new structure, are almost entirely wrecked at this time. Workmen have removed one of the buildings entirely and the other is almost down today. It is expected that in a short time actual work on the new building will be started.

IMPRESSIVE SERVICES MARK WRIGHT FUNERAL

Pioneer Resident of City is Laid to Rest This Afternoon at Lakeview—Masonic Honors Given

Once again the beautiful and impressive Masonic rites were invoked over the body of an Escanaba Mason, in their funeral services for the late John M. Wright, pioneer citizen of the city, who succumbed early in the week.

The services were held from the Presbyterian church this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock with Rev. R. Stanley Brown officiating. A large attendance was present to pay their last respects to the deceased. Members of the Escanaba lodge were present in a body during the services and the burial in Lakeview cemetery.

ORGAN IN OPERATION AT DELFT BY SATURDAY

Installation of the big new pipe organ at the Delft theatre is being rapidly pushed forward at this time and it is believed that the instrument will be in operation Saturday.

The instrument is a Weickhardt organ, built by the Wangerian-Weickhardt company of Milwaukee. The installation is being done by a son of the builder, Jos. Weickhardt, who is in the city at the present time.

Eleven stops, two organs and pedal organ are operated by the tubular pneumatic system. The organ is a two manual instrument and has a complete coupler system. Three thousand tubes or pipes are used in its construction, and the operation is had by a one H. P. motor driven turbine blower which provides the exhaust system with action. A detached console containing the keyboard is made of mahogany and is beautifully finished.

PHILLIES LICK CUBS IN PITCHERS' BATTLE IN THE SOUTHLAND

Tampa, Fla., March 25.—The Phillies came across old Tampa bay on Tuesday and licked the Cubs, 4 to 1, in a pitchers' battle in which five twirlers participated. It was a bully day for slabmen, as the combat did not start until nearly 4 o'clock on account of the late arrival of the enemy and dark clouds made it difficult to see the sphere at all.

The Phillies made only five swats off Vaughn and Standridge, who split the home slabbing two ways, while the Cubs made four hits off two of the three hurlers Moran sent to the mound. Neither team scored a tally by its own initiative, all five of the counters being gifts.

FORTY DOLLARS IN SILVER WAS MELTED

In the ruins of the upper floor of Atty. Rushton's home, at the time the fire occurred there some time ago, a large lump of melted metal was found.

That lump of metal has been found to be a mass of silver dollars, and it is estimated that about forty dollars was fused into the mass by the terrific heat of the flames. How the money happened to become united in the ball is explained by the fact that it was probably placed in a drawer and there became melted.

WILL HOLD MEETING ON APRIL 13—TO INVESTIGATE LIGHTING BILL AT JAIL.

Shortly after one o'clock this afternoon members of the county board of supervisors adjourned, after having transacted a large amount of business and heard some unusual proposals. The next meeting will be held April 13, as directed in a resolution adopted this morning.

Just previous to adjournment the report of the auditing committee was read and accepted. The report of Auditor A. H. Rolph was also presented and accepted.

Mr. Rolph paid a splendid compliment to the county officers, whose books and records he went over to prepare his statement.

"The books and records of all county officers are correctly and carefully kept and will compare favorably with any in the entire state, for which great credit is due these officers and their assistants," states the report.

A total bonded indebtedness of $183,000 for the county is revealed in the figures of the auditors account, of which amount $29,000 has been paid leaving a balance of $153,000.

Mr. Rolph stated the city, county and township records were carefully and correctly maintained, and the various funds properly distributed.

The jail inspection committee presented a report of conditions there, which was received and accepted.

Prisoners will hereafter be worked on alleys, streets or other places under the discretion of the sheriff. This is confined, however, to only those serving sentences.

During the morning session a vote of thanks was tendered Supervisor Mason for the work he has done, by the unanimous action of the board. A resolution that the board meet the first Tuesday after the second Monday in April, as provided in the recommendations prepared by Mr. Mason, was presented by the Gladstone member and given passage by solid vote. This makes the session in April a regular one for the transaction of any business that may come before it.

To Make Investigation
Considerable discussion was centered around the statement by Mr. Atkins that the lighting bills for the county jail was excessive and that

STILL USE ICE ON THE BAY FOR BRIDGE

Residents of Stonington and nearby points across the bay are still using the ice bridge between here and the other side, despite the warm weather of the past few days.

It would seem that the ice would be honeycombed and soft from the balmy atmosphere but Jacob Lausen of Stonington, here earlier in the week stated that under the slush on the surface, the ice was clear and comparatively solid.

However, with the approach of constantly warm weather it will perhaps be rather risky to continue the use of the ice for crossing purposes.

Nephew Local Man Writes From Africa—Cannot Reach Parents by Mail

This morning Henry Abenstein received a letter from his nephew, which was mailed from Dutch East Africa on December 1, last year. It has taken nearly four months for the letter to reach this city. The young man was in Africa when the war broke out and was obliged to remain there.

He writes Mr. Abenstein a request that his parents be advised of his whereabouts and well being. There is no way for mail to be transported from where the young man is to his home and Mr. Abenstein will be obliged to write to the parents in Germany, if they are to know of their son, whom they have given up for lost.

has been growing stronger day by day, finally tells her that he will open the mills on one condition, that is that she marry him. Stillman hastily arranges an illegal marriage with Dell. The girl believes she is to become his lawful wife, but Stillman has no such intention. The ceremony is performed and they repair to Stillman's home in the country.

In the meantime Stillman's love for the girl is growing genuine and she becomes the one thing in the world that he desires and his one fear is that she may learn the secret of the illegal life.

Dell returns to the mill and is indignantly repulsed by her former friends. Her father in a bitter scene denounces her and in utter dejection, she finds her way to the boiler room of the mill seeking Sam from whom she at least expects sympathy. She meets with the same treatment at Sam's hands and in fact is informed, by this, that he has entirely forgotten her and is to be married to another.

Dell has heard the conversation between Stillman and Sam and a revelation comes to her. She realizes the true condition. She knows that Stillman is the real love and slowly and sadly she walks to him as she asks him to take her back.

"Pair of Sixes," Coming to the Delft Theatre, Saturday.

"A Pair of Sixes," which drew full houses of laughter at the Longacre theatre, New York City for nearly a year, is to be presented by H. H. Frazee at the Delft theatre Saturday, March 27, matinee and night.

H. H. Frazee, producer of many successes, has in "A Pair of Sixes" the funniest comedy in twenty-five years and it would seem that success begets success, for Mr. Frazee has never yet had a failure. "A Pair of Sixes" is without doubt something entirely different in farce, for it tells a logical story, without resorting to slap stick methods and the action as well as the dialogue is thoughtfully worked out, so that the plot is cumulative and excites continued interest until the drop of the final curtain.

Those who have held sixes and failed to fill them and those who do not know one card from another will be equally amused at the ludicrous situations arising from the use of the diminutive sixes. Those who have partnership troubles will turn over a new leaf and decide to act like a human being for the sake of their business. You will surely lose your grouch while watching the effect of other people's grouches.

Today's offering at the Delft has Max Figman starring in the film "What's His Name," a five part Lasky feature.

"Daughter of the People" at the Bijou The World Film Corporation presents the five part photoplay, "A Daughter of the People," produced by the Dyreda Art Film Corporation, under the direction of J. Searle Dawley at the Bijou, Friday. The story is as follows:

Arthur Stillman, the senior member of the firm of Stillman and Thornton, cotton goods manufacturers of Rockton, Mass., has closed his mills under the pretense that he cannot obtain cotton to operate but really because he has conceived the plan of secretly buying cotton and storing it for the rise in price that he knows will come. The town of Rockton is entirely dependent upon this mills for its existence and the closing of the mills causes great suffering and even starvation. Dell Hamilton, daughter of an old mill dyer and a favorite with her people by reason of her sweet character and true sympathy with them, is probably the one in Rockton who suffers most. Her lover, Sam Lloyd, in despair at his inability to provide for his mother and sister, receives a note from a friend suggesting that if he can get to Springdale, a town nine miles distant, that he may get a job as fireman in a certain mill. CHAPTER XIII.

Countess Gives Me a Surprise. An hour or more after leaving the enchanted rooms near the roof I lounged in my study, persistently attentive to the call of the Red, with my mind for sounds from the other side of the secret panels. Alas! panels were many cubits thick and the sides of a but-
 But there was a vast satisfaction in knowing that she was there, perhaps, with her brown head close to the wall, but little more than an arm's length from the waistcoat of Ludwig the Red, sat rather low, like a Chinese and supported his waistcoat with his hands.
 I came and with it a sudden came to get down to work on my neglected novel.
 "Good morning, sir," said Hawkes as that seemed to come from the door.
 "I said I, and my voice sounded rather than his."
 Mr. Poopendyke to me, immediately after I've finished breakfast.
 "Good, sir. Oh, I beg your pardon, I am forgetting. Mr. Poopendyke. He asked me to tell you didn't return before 11."
 What business has he to be so late?
 "I mean to say he's not out, and he isn't just what you'd call in. He is up in the east wing, sir, taking down correspondence for the—for the day."
 "Quite so. I had forgotten the appointment."
 "I thought you had."
 "I dare say Britton will do well. Tell him to—"
 "Mr. Poopendyke, you forget goes every morning as soon as he had his—"
 "Yes! Certainly," I said hastily as the papers. Ha, ha! Quite

It was news to me, but it wouldn't do to let him know it. The countess read the papers, I did not.
 It was nearly 12 when my secretary reported to me on this particular morning.
 "Mr. Poopendyke," said I, "are you employed by me or by that woman upstairs?" I would never have spoken of her as "that woman," believe me, if I had not been in a state of irritation.
 He looked positively stunned. "Sir?" he gasped.
 I did not repeat the question, but managed to demand rather fiercely. "Are you?"
 "The countess had got dreadfully behind with her work, sir, and I thought you wouldn't mind if I helped her out a bit," he explained nervously.
 "Work? What work?"
 "Her diary, sir. She is keeping a diary."
 "Indeed?"
 "It is very interesting, Mr. Smart. Rather better than any novel I've read lately. We—we've brought it quite up to date. I wrote at least three pages about the dinner last night. If I am to believe what she puts into her diary it must have been a delightful occasion, as the newspapers would say."
 I was somewhat mollified. "What did she have to say about it, Fred?" I asked. It always pleased him to be called Fred.
 "That would be betraying a confidence," said he. "I will say this much, however—I think I wrote your name fifty times or more in connection with it."
 "Rubbish!" said I.
 "Not at all," said he, with agreeable spirit.
 A sudden chill came over me. "She isn't figuring on having it published, is she?"
 "I can't say as to that," was his disquieting reply. "It wasn't any of my business, so I didn't ask."
 "Oh," said I, "I see."
 "I think it is safe to assume, however, that it is not meant for publication," said he. "It strikes me as being a bit too personal. There are parts of it that I don't believe she'd dare to put into print, although she reeled them off to me without so much as a blush. 'Pon my soul, Mr. Smart, I never was so embarrassed in my life. She—'
 "Never mind," I interrupted hastily. "Don't tell tales out of school."
 He was silent for a moment, fingering his big eyeglasses nervously. "It may please you to know that she thinks you are an exceedingly nice man."
 "No, it doesn't!" I roared frantically. "I'm blamed if I like being called an exceedingly nice man."
 "They were my words, sir, not hers," he explained desperately. "I was merely putting two and two together—forming an opinion from her manner, not from her words. She is very particular to mention everything you do for her and thanks me if I call her attention to anything she may have forgotten. She certainly appreciates your kindness to the baby."

 "That is extremely gratifying," said I acidly.
 He hesitated once more. "Of course you understand that the divorce itself is absolute. It's only the matter of the child that remains unsettled. The—"
 I fairly barked a him. "What the mischief do you mean by that, sir? What has the divorce got to do with it?"
 "A great deal, I should say," said he, with the rare, almost superhuman patience that has made him so valuable to me.
 "Upon my soul!" was all that I could say.
 Hawkes rapped on the door luckily at that instant.
 "The men from the telephone company are here, sir, and the electricians. Where are they to begin, sir?"
 "Tell them to wait," said I. Then I hurried to the top of the east wing to ask if she had the least objection to an extension phone being placed in my study. She thought it would be very nice, so I returned with instructions for the men to put in three instruments—one in her room, one in mine and one in the butler's pantry. It seemed a very jolly arrangement all round. As for the electric bell system, it would speak for itself.
 Toward the middle of the afternoon when Mr. Poopendyke and I were hard at work on my synopsis we were startled by a dull, mysterious pounding on the wall hard by. We paused to listen. It was quite impossible to locate the sound, which ceased almost immediately. Our first thought was that the telephone men were drilling a hole through the wall into my study. Then came the sharp rat-a-tat once more. Even as we looked about us in bewilderment the portly facade of Ludwig the Red moved out of alignment with a heart rending squeak and a long thin streak of black appeared at the inner edge of the frame, growing wider—and blacker if anything—before our startled eyes.
 "Are you at home?" inquired a voice that couldn't by any means have emanated from the chest of Ludwig, even in his mellowest hours.
 I leaped to my feet and started across the room with great strides. My secretary's eyes were glued to the magic portrait.
 "By the Lord Harry!" I cried. "Yes!"
 The secret door swung quietly open, laying Ludwig's face to the wall, and in the aperture stood my amazing neighbor, as lovely a portrait as you'd see in a year's trip through all the galleries in the world. She was smiling down upon us from the slightly elevated position, a charming figure in the very latest Parisian hat and gown.
 "I am out making afternoon calls," said she. Her face was flushed with excitement and self-consciousness. "Will you please put a chair here so that I may hop down?"

 For answer I reached up a pair of valiant arms. She laughed, leaned forward and placed her hands on my shoulders. My hands found her waist, and I lifted her gently, gracefully to the floor.
 "How strong you are!" she said admiringly. "How do you do, Mr. Poopendyke! Dear me, I'm not a ghost, sir!"
 "How do you do?" he jerked out. Then he felt of his heart. "My God, I don't believe it's going!"
 Together we inspected the secret doors, going so far as to enter the room beyond, the countess peering through after us from my study. To my amazement the room was absolutely bare. Bed, trunks, garments, chairs—everything, in fact, had vanished as if whisked away by an all powerful genie.
 "What does this mean?" I cried, turning to her.
 "I don't mind sleeping upstairs now that I have a telephone," she said serenely. "Max and Rudolph moved everything up this afternoon." Poopendyke and I returned to the study. I for one was bitterly disappointed.
 "I'm sorry that I had the phone put in," I said.
 "Please don't call it a phone!" she objected. "I hate the word phone."
 "So do I," said Poopendyke recklessly.
 I glared at him. What right had he to criticize my manner of speech? He started to leave the room after a perfunctory scramble to put his papers in order, but she broke off in the middle of a sentence to urge him to remain. She announced that she was calling on both of us.

 "Please don't stop your work on my account," she said and promptly sat down at his typewriter and began pecking at the keys. "You must teach me how to run a typewriter, Mr. Poopendyke. I shall be as poor as a church mouse before long, and I know father won't help me. I may have to become a stenographer."
 He blushed abominably. I don't believe I've ever seen a more unattractive fellow than Poopendyke.
 "Oh, every cloud has its silver lining," said he awkwardly.
 "But I am used to gold," said she. The bell on the machine tinkled. "What do I do now?" He made the shift and the space for her.
 "Go right ahead," said he. She scrambled the whole alphabet across his neat sheet, but he didn't seem to mind.
 "Isn't it jolly, Mr. Smart? If Mr. Poopendyke should ever leave you I may be able to take his place as your secretary."
 I bowed very low. "You may be quite sure, countess, that I shall dismiss Mr. Poopendyke the instant you apply for his job."
 "And I shall most cheerfully abdicate," said he. Silly ass!
 I couldn't help thinking how infinitely more attractive and perilous she would be as a tylist than the excellent young woman who had married the jeweler's clerk and what an improvement on Poopendyke!
 "I came down to inquire when you would like to go exploring for buried treasure, Mr. Smart," she said after the cylinder had slipped back with a bang that almost startled her out of her pretty boots and caused her to give up typewriting then and there forevermore.
 "Never put off till tomorrow what you can do today," quoted I glibly.
 She looked herself over. "If you knew how many times this gown had to be put off till tomorrow, you wouldn't ask me to ruin it the second time I've had it on my back."
 "It is an uncommonly attractive gown," said I.
 "Shall we set tomorrow for the treasure quest?"
 "Tomorrow is Sunday."
 "Can you think of a better way to kill it?"
 "Yes, you might have me down here for an old fashioned midday dinner."
 "Capital! Why not stay for supper, too?"
 (To Be Continued.)

AUSTRALIAN NAVAL SCHOOL GETS FINE NEW HEADQUARTERS

(By Associated Press.)
 Sydney, Australia, March 15. (Correspondence.)—The Royal Australian Naval College, established two years ago in temporary quarters at Geelong, near Melbourne, has been moved to its permanent site at Jervis Bay, New South Wales. There are at present ninety students taking the four-year course. About a million dollars has been spent on the Jervis Bay site, and when the work there is complete the college will include some seventy buildings.
 Jervis Bay is on the beautiful south coast, on a fine harbor with rugged surroundings, and a sweeping command of the Pacific.

COPPER COUNTRY MEN AFRAID DEER WILL BE ENTIRELY WIPED OUT

Calumet, Mich., March 25.—Copper country sportsmen express fear that any changes in the deer hunting laws contemplated by the present legislature have come rather late, although advocated for years, or it is feared that deer will, within a few years, be almost extinct in this part of the country, so great has been the slaughter in the last dozen years. Game wardens in the woods of Keweenaw peninsula find this spring that there has been little yarding by deer during the winter months and that apparently there has been a great decrease in the number of the animals roaming these woods. Pot hunters are blamed.

BAD COOKING AND DIVORCE.

A Cincinnati judge, who has tried 6,000 divorce cases during a six-year term in office, says that in the great majority where strife was charged to the woman "it could generally be traced back to the fact that she was not a good cook." This is a striking testimonial to the value of teaching domestic science in the public schools. Cooking is essential to human welfare and happiness, says Louisville Courier-Journal. It is essential to life itself. Every girl should learn how to cook, not necessarily that she may devote her life to cooking, but that she may understand the rules of the game; that she may know good cooking when she meets it at the dinner table; that she may be capable to direct the preparation of a wholesome meal and that she may be able to prepare one herself in case of an emergency. Incidentally it is no mean accomplishment for a boy to know something of the rudiments of cooking, for there will be innumerable occasions in life in which such knowledge will "come in handy." Poor cooking certainly is not conducive to peace in the household and probably it is at the bottom of more matrimonial infelicity than the general public imagines.

According to the government statistics, the natives of Alaska are about twenty-six thousand in number, and they are spread over more than three hundred and fifty thousand of the 590,000 square miles of the territory. Their small settlements extend along 10,000 miles of coast and on both sides of the Yukon river and its tributaries, for a distance of more than two thousand five hundred miles. One of the supervision districts contains a full 100,000 square miles, the others average more than sixty-five thousand square miles each. Of the natives of Alaska, approximately 11,000 belong to six tribes of Indians in southeastern and southern Alaska, and in the valley of the Yukon. About eleven thousand are Eskimos on the western and northwestern coasts, along the Bering sea, the Bering straits and the Arctic ocean. Something more than three thousand are Aleuts and mixed races through the Aleutian Islands.

Who coined "pacifist" and "pacifist," and when did they first step into our vocabulary? The Army and Navy Journal comments on the fact that neither word is to be found in the Standard dictionary issued in 1913. The editor queried the dictionary maker, and he replied that the words sprang into being since the publication of his useful volume. He further ventured the opinion that the second form is to be preferred. Perhaps, from the standpoint of the erudite etymologist, but we are willing to bet that "pacifist" will persist, both because it is easier to pronounce and shorter to spell, says Chicago Post. For these reasons, anyway, we intend to stick to it—at least until the end of the war.

Philadelphians object to the dragging of the Liberty bell across the country every time there happens to be an exposition anywhere, and they are perfectly right. The Liberty bell is a precious relic in the eyes of all American patriots. If it should be destroyed by accident it could not be replaced. It belongs to Philadelphia, being an appurtenance of Independence hall. Why not leave it where it belongs?

According to the bird census, robins are more numerous in this country than English sparrows. This is surprising to city people, but then, the robin, being edible, is discreet enough not to live too close to...

CIGARETTE MEASURE IS CAUSING UNEASINESS IN THE LEGISLATURE

begin consideration of the question when Rep. Hulse made a long speech and pleaded with his colleagues to substitute his bill. Partly for the sake of pleasing Rep. Hulse and partly as a joke the house granted the request, expecting to kill the measure when it came up on third reading. But when that time came some of the members suffered a change of heart and enough votes were marshaled to send the bill on to the senate.

Up to the Senate.

The question is now up to the senate and some of the members of that august body are not very well pleased at the position they find themselves in. They claim that the house has ducked the responsibility and shifted the full weight on the senate's shoulder and has done so in the face of the fact that the senate has already expressed its preference for the Morford minor bill.

It is predicted that the senate will substitute the Morford measure for the Hulse bill and send it back to the lower body for a second time and that it will keep this up all session if necessary. But this is only a prediction and may not prove good inasmuch as many manufacturers in the state are supporting the anti-cigarette measure and are urging upon the legislators the advisability of passing a total prohibition law.

Make Farmers Light Rigs.

Senator Barnes' bill requiring all vehicles, of every description, to carry lights when using the public highways at night, accorded the upper house a pleasant afternoon a few days ago, such to the disgust of the author of the measure.

This bill is the pet measure of the man from Flint and he has been using great care in steering it past legislative rocks. If it should pass it would mean that no farmer, or other citizen, could ride over the roads at night in anything from a democrat wagon to a sulky without carrying a light. Senator Woodworth, in a facetious mood, moved that the bill be carried so as to read that lights be carried on dark nights only. Then another senator moved that the state dairy and food commissioner be authorized to analyze light nights and dark nights and decide what constitutes a dark night. Before the bill was read Sen. Barnes was almost in tears and the bill was in rags and tatters but the senators finally let it go and it is said to stand an excellent chance of passing.

Drinking Cups Wanted.

If Senator Smith, of Nashville, can have his way, the ordinary citizen who travels in the common passenger coaches of the railroads will no longer be compelled to go thirsty or drink out of a folded newspaper.

Senator Smith has introduced a bill which will make all corporations, concerns and individuals which provide drinking fountains either give the public individual drinking cups or install bubbling fountains.

Some years ago the legislature passed a law abolishing the drinking cup. It did this at the request of the state board of health. No provision was made for individual cups, however, and the result was that the railroads merely threw away their cups and then filled their tanks with tempting ice water that no one could get at unless they carried a private cup of their own. In the pullman cars a porter stands ready to furnish an individual drinking cup free of charge, but in the common coaches this luxury is unheard of. You either rig up some kind of a cup yourself or go thirsty.

To remedy this Senator Smith proposed to require the railroads and others to either provide sanitary cups or bubbling fountains.

Senator Smith has introduced another bill framed to safeguard the rights and comforts of the public. This is a pure cloth measure which would compel all manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers or agents handling wearing apparel to certify the percentage of wool, cotton or silk contained in the garments offered for sale.

For Pure Butter.

Another "pure measure" is the bill introduced by Senator Groger at the request of Commissioner Helme of the state dairy and food department. Senator Groger's bill creates a state seal for butter. It provides that when a buttermaker manufactures a product which receives a score of 94 he shall be entitled to use the state stamp upon it as proof to the consumer that the product is of the very highest grade and first-class in every respect.

In addition to this Senator Groger has introduced a bill providing a uniform standard for milk bottles. This bill is also one requested by the state dairy and food department. The senator is coming in for considerable criticism in the hands of his colleagues because he announced at the beginning of the session that he would absolutely introduce nothing except appropriation measures.

The second measure from Senator Groger sets forth the standards desired and prescribes that the capacity of the bottle shall be blown in its side. It also requires manufacturers to furnish $500 bond guaranteeing that their product will hold full measure.

New Labor Bill.

Senator Gansser of Bay City has introduced a pro-labor measure at the request of the State Federation of Labor in the shape of an anti-injunction bill.

The measures would make it impossible for a court to issue a restraining order during an industrial dispute unless there was reason to believe that it was necessary in order to protect property and lives and for such injuries as there is no adequate remedy at law. One prominent feature of the bill is that it would curtail the rights of courts to issue injunctions against picketing.

As expected, the anti-tipping bill was killed by the legislature without even a slight symptom of mercy. When it came before the house several of the representatives arose and lambasted it unmercifully. Rep. Follett, its author, pleaded for its passage, but was silenced by colleagues who pointed out the fact that he had sent the bill in under a misleading title. The title of the bill stated that it concerned farmers and farm employes. This caused it to be sent to Rep. Follett's own committee instead of to the committee where it belonged. If anything was needed to make the fate of the bill certain this furnished it.

M. A. C. May Get Mill Tax.

If the proposals now under consideration are favored by the two finance committees of house and senate, Michigan Agricultural College may yet get the one-fifth mill tax which it has been seeking at this session of the legislature.

Former State Senator A. J. Doherty of Clare and Wm. H. Wallace of Saginaw, both members of the agricultural board, went before the ways and means committee of the house with the proposal that if the legislature would give the college the one-fifth mill tax all other bills asking for appropriations would be withdrawn.

It has been evident that the college was going to be cut somewhere and the board thought this the best way of getting around the matter. It was agreed that if the legislature would consent to such a course that the much needed gymnasium which has been promised would be the first thing built out of the appropriation money. After that the board agreed that it would be able to take care of the college's running expenses without any trouble and could also take up the pending market commission program and carry it out.

The finance committees of both houses are determined that the students shall not be robbed of the gymnasium for which they worked so loyally and since they have the assurance that it will be built if the one-fifth mill tax passes, they will probably withdraw the appropriation bill which provides for the gymnasium and pass the tax measure.

Scientists are Protected.

A decision of the supreme court which upholds the medical law of the state and establishes the fact that chiropractors cannot practice until they have passed a state examination caused some furor in the legislature because of its phrasology. The decision was interpreted by some as meaning that Christian Scientists could not continue to heal without passing a state examination, but older members of the body remembered that when the medical law was amended two years ago to cover the case of the chiropractors, special provision was made for exempting Christian Scientists.

The Railroad Question.

Apparently the question of whether the railroads are to receive an increase of one-half a cent per mile in passenger rates is no nearer a settlement than it was on the day when the matter went before the legislature.

There is now some talk of reporting out a compromise measure although what form the compromise would take no one seems to know. There is also no assurance that a compromise would be received with any favor by the legislators and so the plan is not developing rapidly.

Figures have been received from the state railroad commission, however, showing that should the legislature authorize the half cent increase that the annual receipts of the railroads of Michigan would jump just about four millions of dollars.

This estimate was given to the senate by the commission on request in response to a resolution adopted and passed some weeks ago.

Amend Tax Laws.

Senator Smith of Nashville has introduced a bill amending the general tax laws of the state. It provides that where this is a mortgage against a piece of property the property shall be exempt from taxation to the amount of the mortgage. This applies to personal as well as real estate property.

Goodyear tires have bridged the way for countless men to less trouble and tax. And those men, by their endorsement, brought our last year's output up to 1,479,883 tires.

Why do you suppose that Goodyear tires hold top place—you who use other tires? They have held that place for years, outselling any other.

The only reason, as you must know, is that Goodyear's average best. And that's how they are bound to win you.

The Super-Tire

They are not trouble-proof. Mishaps come to them, misuse affects them, much like other tires.

But Goodyear's are Fortified Tires. They protect you in five ways employed by no other maker. They combat five major troubles in unique ways, exclusive to Fortified Tires. These five extra features cost you no more. One alone—our "On-Air" cure—costs us $450,000 yearly. But they save Goodyear users millions of dollars yearly. They avoid countless troubles for them.

Lower Prices

On February 1st we made another big reduction. That makes three in two years, totaling 45 per cent. We are giving you, through mammoth production, the best tire value ever known.

Please prove this, for your own sake, by the tire itself. The following Goodyear Service Stations will supply you:

- GOODYEAR SERVICE STATIONS—TIRES IN STOCK. Chas. Bellstrom Vulcanizing Shop. NEARBY TOWNS: Norway Garage, Norway. W. M. Ramsdell, Norway. Grapel Repair Shop, Powers. H. E. Pfeiffer, Rapid River. Morgan Lumber & Cedar Co., Foster City.

some investigation should be made in order to get at the source of the leakage of current that is apparent there. It was disclosed that the average monthly lighting bill was near $14 per month the year round, which the supervisors believed was entirely too high. It was suggested that leakage in circuits inside the jail, or faulty wiring was to blame. Nevertheless, the matter was referred to the building committee for an investigation.

To Publish Proceedings in Pamphlet: A resolution, also introduced by Mr. Mason during the morning session, to have the proceedings of the board published in pamphlet form and a copy sent to every member, was passed after but little discussion.

Will Buy Automobile: Yesterday afternoon, following the discussion on the recommendations presented by Supervisor Mason, the body voted to authorize a committee to purchase an automobile for the use of the sheriff and his officers. There was no restrictions placed on the purchasing committee as to the make, style or size of car to be secured, but, according to statements of the members, it is believed that a touring car of medium price will be purchased. This action was forecasted at the last meeting of the board, when the matter of paying livery bills was found to be a big item. It is believed this expense will now be entirely done away with.

The sale of a lot to the Sisters of St. Francis was also ratified during yesterday afternoon meeting, the price for the plot of ground at the location of the old county hospital being $400. One other bid of $225 was made by a local firm.

An allowance of $100 per year for maintaining a permanent record of the county surveyor's work was given to County Surveyor Marcus McNabb in addition to the regular salary.

The greater interest during the afternoon yesterday was centered in the reading and discussion of a set of suggestions and recommendations prepared and presented to the board by Supervisor C. P. Mason of Gladstone.

Of a lengthy and comprehensive nature, embracing some important changes members of the county board spent the larger share of the afternoon's session in going over the provisions of the paper.

Below is given a resume of the principal features:

Mr. Mason recommends that a regular meeting of the board be held on the first Tuesday following the second Monday of April to consider matters of business that may come before the body at that time. (This was done today)

At the April meeting he would have the following committees appointed:

Committees He Would Desire
Supplies, Officers Accounts, Membership, Equalization, Procedure and committees on Petitions and Legislation, the latter to consist of five members each. The equalization committee would meet at the call of the chairman of committee before the annual meet in October or June and equalize the assessment rolls of the county, and mail a copy of that report to members of the board.

The Membership committee would examine election certificates and appointment to memberships on the board; and do other work.

Procedure committee would make general recommendations to board in improvements in caring for county business and in creating offices or establishment of new functions; making investigations for purposes of board; to draft such recommendations to the legislature as shall express the desire of the board for passage or repeal of laws affecting the administration of public business in Delta county;

Petitions for plats, change of boundaries, franchise grants, submission to electorate of local acts, and other petitions would be cared for by the committee on petitions, who would meet in advance of the regular board sessions and canvas same when informed petitions been presented.

Committee on Supplies
The committee on supplies would purchase all supplies and equipment for county use and would be given authority to make repairs on county buildings such as are not provided for in annual appropriations and not beyond statutory allowance. Would issue requisitions for such work and examine and certify to auditing committee bills for same. The committee would advertise for and open bids and reject same in their discretion. Any county officer would be made an advisory in this regard; the board would be free to call upon them for information. Would meet second Monday of each month. Every officer would be required to prepare and present an estimate of supplies for his work for the year before the annual meeting.

This same committee would keep a permanent inventory of personal property of the county. The purchasing committee would provide stationary, books, periodicals and other printed matter as needed by county.

The Officer's Accounts committee would audit all claims against county for services, except which have been established on salary. Other bills would also be audited by this committee including caring for and feeding prisoners in county jail, sheriff and constable's fees and similar bills.

It would require a monthly report from every officer showing expenses during that period.

Auditing Committee
The auditing committee would be composed of the chairman, of the board, chairmen of the supplies and officer's accounts committees and would handle the county's finances; discuss and provide ways and means of providing money. Would arrange for the audit of the books of the county officers upon completion of terms or at such other times as deemed fit. This committee would publish a statement showing the condition of county's finances in a newspaper of the county and a copy of the paper mailed to each member of the board.

This is in a very brief and incomplete form, the recommendations made by Mr. Mason, and upon which action will probably be taken at the April meeting.
