BERLIN DENIES RUSS SANK GERMAN SHIPS

Pair of British Torpedo Boats Fall Victims to Prowling Underwater Craft of Germany

(By Associated Press.)

London, June 10.—Careful reading between the lines of official despatches of the last twelve hours leads British observers to believe the wearied Russians have succeeded in gaining a breathing space along the north and east fronts. Furthermore, the opposition the Austrian and Germans are meeting declared to be emphasized in the statement that 2500 Austrians were taken prisoners near Przemal.

According to the Russian reports the Austrian forces have not crossed the Dniester river at any place other than at Zuvvana, forty miles south of Lemberg, which position they reached last Sunday. Berlin contradicts this with the statement that General von Linsingen, commander of the German right wing had advanced ten miles farther on and now occupies Stanislaw, an important railroad center.

In the west the French report the usual slow progress with the spirited German counter attacks. The French claim and Germany admits it that the French are in entire possession of Neuville-sous-laumont while only a fraction of the labyrinth is left in their possession.

BRITISH REPORT

London, June 10.—The total number of men to be raised for the British army and navy in the present war, sanctioned by parliament, is 3,200,000.

"This will not be exceeded except by order of parliament," was a statement made in the house this afternoon, thus settling at rest the report that additional forces had been mobilized without the public knowing of it.

Loses Two Boats

London, June 10.—Two torpedo boats of the British navy were torpedoed and sunk by a German submarine. They are the 10 and the 12, which were both sent to the bottom.

But one survivor escaped. The vessels were attacked by the German "untersee boote" at an early hour. This statement was made by the admiralty today.

The British torpedo boats carried a crew of thirty-five men aboard them. The number 10 was of 244 tons displacement and had a speed of 26 knots. She was 166 feet long. The number 12 was a craft of 253 tons displacement and had a speed of 26 knots and was 172 feet in length. Both vessels were built in 1906.

Trawler Sunk by Torpedo

London, June 10.—A news despatch from Mass Luis says the crew of the British trawlers Qui Vive and Edward, sunk by a German submarine, were rescued by a Dutch vessel and landed at Mass Luis.

WILL HAVE NO SERMON

Ishpeming, June 10.—The funeral of Rev. E. P. Bordas, who died early Wednesday morning, were held at 9 o'clock this morning in St. Joseph's church. Rt. Rev. Bishop Els, of Marquette, was present. Rev. H. Buchholz, of Negaunee, served as deacon and Rev. Fr. Jodocy of Marquette, served as sub-deacon. Priests from practically all of the parishes in the diocese were expected to attend.

In accordance with the wish of Fr. Bordas, expressed a few days before he died to his assistant, Rev. Fr. Bleeker, no sermon was preached at the funeral services and the deceased also requested that no flowers be sent. Burial was in the Ishpeming cemetery at the foot of the cross on the priest's lot.

Naval Losses to Britain Are Big, Figures Reveal

OVER SIX THOUSAND MEN LOSE LIVES ON BRITISH BATTLESHIPS SINCE START OF WAR

(By Associated Press.)

London, June 10.—The number of officers and men who have perished in the British navy since the start of the present war is placed at six thousand and twenty-nine, according to a statement made this afternoon to the House of Commons by Naval Minister Balfour.

This set of figures does not include the men who lost their lives when the mine layer, Princess Irene and the battleship Forward were blown up in Sheerness harbor.

"BE MERCIFUL" IS ADVICE OF "NOBODY"

In the epilogue of the dramatic spectacle "Everywoman," which Henry W. Savage will offer here shortly at the Delta, the audience is thus admonished by Nobody, a whimsical character: "Be merciful, be just, be fair, To every woman, everywhere. Her faults are many, Nobody's the blame!"

COMMANDER OF INTERNED CRUISER PRINZ EITEL SAID TAKEN DISGUISED AS A COOK

(By Associated Press.)

Norfolk, Va., June 10.—Captain Thierchens of the German auxiliary cruiser Prinz Eitel Friedrich, interned in the navy yard at Norfolk has recently returned from a leave of absence and is now aboard the Prinz Eitel.

Despatches from a French port stated that the Eitel's commander had been arrested on board an Italian ship disguised as a cook.

AGED MAN ACCUSED BY GRANDDAUGHTER

Vera Hintz Tell Unusual Tale Before Milwaukee Court Yesterday—Eloped With Grandparent

Milwaukee, June 10.—An unusual setting was witnessed in Municipal court Tuesday morning when Fred Risch, 65 years old, charged with a statutory offense against his granddaughter, Vera Hintz, 16 years old, was placed on trial before Judge A. C. Backus.

Seated on the left of the elderly was his daughter, the mother of the girl whom he is accused of having eloped with from their home in Albert Lea, Minn. On his right was William L. Hintz, the father of the girl and his son-in-law.

While both daughter and son-in-law watched the man on trial, the 16 year old girl told her story.

When court adjourned for the morning the girl was being subjected to a vigorous cross examination by the counsel for Risch.

The girl's story led up from the attention paid to her by her grandfather while he was being supported by her parents to the day of the alleged "elopement" when she says she was induced by the man to leave with him and come to Milwaukee on May 10.

GOVERNMENT EMPLOYEES BEGIN SUMMER VACATIONS

Washington, June 10.—The summer vacation season for government clerks is on. Today the vanguard of the 40,000 government employees are their "leaves," as their periods of vacations are popularly called. Each is entitled to 30 days' leave, exclusive of Sundays, and most of them take it during the heated term. The vacation season proper begins June 1, but extends right up to New Year's day. Saturday half holidays are also being viewed with satisfaction, for three months the departments observing the rule of closing at 1 p. m. on Saturday.

Jagow Says Treaty of 1799 Did Not Intend to Prevent Warring Nation Seizing or Stopping Contraband

(By Associated Press.)

Washington, June 10.—The following is the German reply to the American note concerning the sinking of the William P. Frye an American sailing vessel:

"The German government cannot admit that as the American government assumed, the destruction of the sailing vessel, mentioned constitutes a violation of the treaties between Prussia and the United States, made at an earlier date and applicable to the present case, or of the American rights derived therefrom, as the treaty did not intend to prevent any warring nation from stopping the supply to an enemy of contraband. On the contrary in section 13 of the Prussian treaty with America, made July 11, 1799 it is expressly reserved to the party at war the right and privilege of stopping any party carrying contraband.

"It follows then, that if it cannot be accomplished in any other way, the stopping of contraband can be effected.

BRYAN APPEARS AS A 1916 RIVAL FOR JOB

Peace and Dry Policies May Be Used Against Wilson in to Secure Nomination

Washington, D. C. June 10.—Secretary of State Bryan's resignation from the cabinet has precipitated a crisis in the affairs of the Democratic party as well as the nation. Speculation has arisen as to whether Mr. Bryan will become a candidate for the nomination in opposition to President Wilson.

The recent premier of the cabinet immediately became the head of the peace faction in the Democratic party. By his resignation he placed President Wilson at the head of the war faction.

Irrespective of what the immediate future may produce with regard to the relations between the United States and Germany, a tremendous struggle within the Democratic party for control of that organization in the next presidential campaign appears to be certain.

WARDEN BUSY IN MAY

Marquette, Mich., June 10.—Violations of game laws reported to the state game warden's department during May were fewer than during the same month last year and the number of arrests and convictions was greater due to the increased activities of the deputy wardens.

Two hundred and sixteen cases were reported, 168 investigated, 157 convictions secured and only three men acquitted. There were 20 more convictions than in May, 1914. Of the 168 cases investigated, only 17 were for violations of the hunting laws.

Fines totaled $2,100, $500 more than for the same period of last year.

RECALL OF ALDERMEN AT YALE APPROVED

Yale, Mich., June 10.—The special election Monday on the recall of George Gardner as alderman, as an outcome of the recent strife over saloon licenses in this village, resulted in the approval of the recall petition by a vote of 80 to 58. Another election to choose his successor will be held later in the month.

Scandinavian Shipping Hit Hard By War

Twenty-Five Ships Are Torpedoed by German Submarines, Forty Sunk By Mines

(By Associated Press.)

London, June 10.—According to figures prepared at Copenhagen and forwarded to this city by the Exchange Telegraph company, it is shown that the Scandinavian nations have suffered greatly through the European war. The damage to Scandinavian shipping has been large through the torpedoing of twenty-five and the sinking by mines of forty vessels belonging to Norway, Sweden and Denmark.

The figures show that Norway has lost fifteen ships by torpedoes and twelve by striking mines; Sweden, six through the medium of torpedoes and eighteen by the agency of mines; Denmark lost four by torpedoes and ten by mines.

FROSTS DO BIG DAMAGE

Michigan Fruit Crop Damaged Heavily During Month of May.

Lansing, Mich., June 10.—The fruit crop of Michigan received a severe blow from frost in May, according to the monthly crop report of the secretary of state's office. Eighty per cent of the correspondents report serious damage to fruit, and the present condition of various fruits is estimated as follows, as compared with the average: Apples, 67 per cent; pears, 58; peaches, 66; plums, 66; cherries, 70; strawberries, 59. The upper peninsula peach crop condition is estimated at 100 per cent.

The acreage of corn this year is reported as 91; rye, 91; corn, 83; barley, 92; oats, 91; meadows, 89.

The acreage of corn this year is 101 per cent, as compared with last year; of potatoes, 92, and of sugar beets, 104.

TODAY'S ODDEST STORY

Denver, Colo., June 10.—They are going in training here today for the entry of the compulsory water wagon next year. Buttermilk is the favorite beverage at all bars.

But it won't be buttermilk that will have cured the German element in Colorado when prohibition arrives January 1, 1916. "Twill be hats of the English.

Most Colorado breweries, like a good many other industries in the west, are controlled by English capital. German barkeepers here stated today they were delighted to serve buttermilk.

GENERAL COMMITTEE ORGANIZATION BE EFFECTED MONDAY—MEETING CALLED AT CITY HALL

The first meeting to promote the plans for Delta county's first "Good Health Week" is called for Monday evening, June 14, at the City Hall at 8 o'clock.

Everyone is invited to attend this meeting, as a general committee will be formed and plans laid for the event. Dr. H. W. Long, the president will preside and it is expected that the movement will be given an impetus at this meeting that will start it towards a successful conclusion.

Much interest has already been shown by all who have been approached. Pres. Werline, of the Business Men's Association has signified his hearty approval of the idea and pledged his assistance. The D. A. R., represented by Mrs. John M. Millar, the W. C. T. U. by Mrs. Walters, the public schools by Supt. King, the medical societies, the city administration, by Mayor MacKilligan and the Health committee, the Woman's club and all of the churches and the granges are back of the movement. The general public is earnestly urged to take an active part in making this event a success.

The state will go to vast expense to ship and install health exhibits and send noted speakers. It remains for the people of Escanaba and Delta county to show their appreciation by taking an active interest in the preparations, as well as attending the meeting.

Such a well known health expert as Dr. Kellogg of Battle Creek who recently donated $100,000 to help fight tuberculosis, will likely be one of the speakers, Dr. John Burkhardt of Lansing, secretary of the State Board of Health has already promised to be present. Prof. E. D. Rich, the state sanitary engineer will come and will give talks that should prove of practical education to his hearers, along matters of public sanitation. Several of these speakers will be heard and it is certain that Delta county folks have never been privileged to hear so many able speakers in one short week as will be heard "Good Health Week."

A "Better Babies" contest will be a big feature. Music will enrich all of the meetings, one of which will be held in Ludington park. There will not be a dull minute and everyone will be entertained as well as instructed on how to "Live Longer and Better."

PRINTERS OUTING TO BE HELD SUNDAY

Complete arrangements have been made for the big picnic and outing to be held Sunday, June 13, under the auspices of the Escanaba Typo Union, at Washington Island. The steamer Saugatuck will take the crowd to the island and it is believed that with good weather conditions a record attendance will be on hand to spend the day on the pretty bit of land out in Green Bay.

Popular Young People Married at Early Hour

MCARTHY-VANDEWIELE NUPTIALS CELEBRATED AT ST. PATRICK'S CHURCH THIS MORNING

A charming though quiet wedding ceremony was celebrated at St. Patrick's church at 5:30 o'clock when Miss Edythe McCarthy, daughter of Mrs. M. E. McCarthy 410 south Georgia street, became the bride of Mr. William Vandewiele, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Vandewiele, south Georgia street.

Rev. Fr. Feldhaus performed the ceremony that united the two young lives. A sister of the groom, Miss Etta Vandewiele was bridesmaid with George McCarthy, a brother of the bride acting as groomsman. The bride was attractively gowned in a blue traveling suit.

Immediately following the wedding at St. Patrick's church the bridal party, members of the immediate families and friends partook of a delightfully arranged wedding breakfast at the home of the bride's parents.

The young couple left on the early morning Northwestern train for Niagara Falls, Detroit, Chicago and Milwaukee to be gone ten days or two weeks. Upon their return to this city they will be at home to their friends at 402 south Jennie street, where a home has been newly furnished for them.

Both of the contracting parties are prominent Escanaba young people with a large circle of friends. The bride is a former teacher in rural schools, while the groom is assistant accountant at the offices of the C. & N. W. road here.

POPE WILL GIVE HELP TO PRESIDENT WILSON

Tells Jane Addams America Should be Leader in Any Move to Restore Peace.

Rome, June 10.—"I stand ready now or at any future time to co-operate with President Wilson in any move that is destined to bring about European peace," Pope Benedict said today, when giving an audience to Miss Jane Addams of Chicago, and Dr. Aletta Jacobs of Holland, who, as representatives of the women's peace conference, were given an audience by his holiness.

"I realize that the whole world is looking to the vatican to take the initiative in peace, but I believe that the movement must originate in America, which is the greatest neutral power in the world and which up to this time has maintained a high standard of strict neutrality."

QUIZ AT ANNAPOLIS WILL STIR NATION

Yesterday's Testimony Shows Cadets Were in Possession of Information Before Tests Came Off.

Annapolis, Md., June 10.—The public investigation which President Wilson ordered after a secret court had reported that seven midshipmen should be dismissed from the naval academy because they received advance information covering examination papers passed the preliminary stage and got well under way.

As a result of the testimony taken and of evidence which counsel for the accused midshipmen expect to present within a week there is reason to believe that the United States navy will find itself face to face with the greatest scandal in the history of the service.

Today's testimony merely scraped one or two spots on the surface and was accepted as being more suggestive of what may be expected than as a full recital of any phase of the situation.

What Inquiry May Show.
Here are some of the facts which there is excellent reason for believing will be established within two weeks:

That approximately 90 per cent of the men who were graduated last week and entered the navy as ensigns had precisely the same advance information concerning the examinations as the seven men who are now the subjects of investigation.

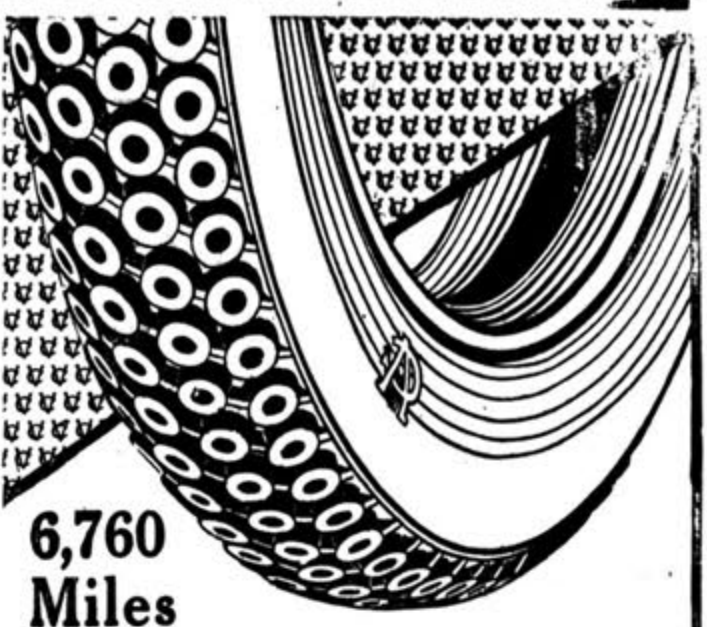

That approximately 80 per cent of the class which should be graduated next year had the same information, and that more than 50 per cent of the other two classes had such information and were prepared to use it when the academy authorities discovered the fact.

That the system of preparing examination papers at the academy has been so loose during the recent years that similar conditions have existed heretofore.

DETROIT SELECTED FOR '16 CONCLAVE, TEMPLARS

Commandery Officers Elected Yesterday—Harvey Advanced to Grand Commander Position

Calumet, June 10.—Detroit was selected as the place for holding the 1916 conclave of the grand commandery of Knights Templar of Michigan. This action and the selection of the new commandery officers for the year were the most important matters of public interest transacted at the business session of the conclave, held at the Masonic Temple in Houghton yesterday afternoon. George W. Harvey of Port Huron was advanced to grand commander, succeeding Gordon R. Campbell of Calumet, and all the others were advanced a step. The only new name on the list is that of L. G. Younglove of Detroit, who was elected grand warden. The grand commandery officers for the ensuing year are as follows:

- Grand commander—George L. Harvey, Port Huron.
- Deputy grand commander—Fred A. Aldrich, Flint.
- Grand generalissimo—Mark Norris, Grand Rapids.
- Grand captain general—Charles H. Patterson, Jackson.
- Grand senior warden—Edmond S. Rankin, Kalamazoo.
- Grand prelate—Rev. Emil Montanus, Saginaw, re-elected.
- Grand treasurer—Charles H. Pomerooy, Saginaw, re-elected.
- Grand recorder—George T. Campbell, Owosso, re-elected.
- Grand junior warden, Harry T. Emerson, Menominee.
- Grand standard bearer—William C. Grobbiser, Sturgis.
- Grand sword bearer—R. Guy Brownson, Lansing.
- Grand warden—Lyle G. Younglove, Detroit.
- Grand captain of the guard—John Fry, Detroit, re-elected.

DIES AT COUNTY FARM YESTERDAY

Mrs. Joseph Beaudry, an aged resident of the city, passed away at the county almshouse yesterday afternoon. A husband survives. Funeral services were held this morning from St. Joseph's church with burial at St. Joseph's cemetery.

"An Old Man at 40"

How often you hear that remark! How many such men there are! And how needless it is!

WRONG FOOD IS THE BIG CAUSE.

When one feels old at forty, the first thing is to correct improper diet. The main fault with the dietary is often a lack of the vital mineral salts in food. Without these mineral elements old age steals on rapidly.

To meet this very condition a food was devised which supplies those mineral elements such as phosphorous, iron, sulphur, etc.

That food is

Grape-Nuts

Made of whole wheat and barley, this delicious food retains all the nutriment of these grains, together with the priceless mineral elements—notably lacking in white flour foods—which the system must have to build and maintain vigor and elasticity of body brain and muscle.

Curiously enough, however, the door of the consulate and the safe had been opened with the keys which my friend had left in my charge. Indeed, the small bunch still remained in the safe door.

In an instant the recollection flashed across my mind that I had felt the keys in my pocket while at dinner on board the Lola. Had I lost them on my homeward drive, or had my pocket been picked?

While we were engaged in putting the scattered papers in order the door rang, and the clerk went to attend to the caller.

In a few moments he returned, saying: "The English yacht left suddenly last night, and the captain of the port has sent to inquire whether you know to what port she is bound."

"Left!" I gasped in amazement. "Why, I thought her engines were stalled!"

A quarter of an hour later I was sitting in the private office of the shrewd, gray-haired functionary who had sent his messenger to me.

"Do you know, signore commendatore," he said, "some mystery surrounds that vessel. She is not the Lola, for yesterday we telegraphed to Lloyd's, in London, and this morning I received a reply that no such yacht appears on their register, and that the name is unknown. The police have also telegraphed to your English police inquiring about the owner, Signore Hornby, with a like result. There is no such place as Woodcroft Park, in Somerset, and no member of Brook's club of the name of Hornby."

I sat staring at the official, too amazed to utter a word. Certainly they had not allowed the grass to grow beneath their feet.

"Unfortunately the telegraphic replies from England are only to hand this morning," he went on, "because just before two o'clock this morning the harbor police, whom I specially ordered to watch the vessel, saw a boat come to the wharf containing a man and woman. The pair were put ashore, and walked away into the town, the woman seeming to walk with considerable difficulty. The boat returned, and an hour after, to the complete surprise of the two detectives, steam was suddenly got up and the yacht turned and went straight out to sea."

"Leaving the man and the woman?"

The yacht should be detained. Yet if the vessel were really one of mystery, as it seemed to be, its owner would no doubt go across to some quiet anchorage on the Algerian coast out of the track of the vessels, and calmly proceed to repaint, rename and disguise his craft so that it would not be recognized in Marseilles, Naples, Smyrna, or any of the ports where private yachts habitually call.

For purposes of their own the police kept the affair out of the papers, and when Frank Hutcheson stepped out of the sleeping car from Paris on to the platform at Pisa a few nights afterwards, I related to him the extraordinary story.

"The scoundrels wanted these, that's evident," he responded, holding up the small, strong leather hand-bag he was carrying, and which contained his feebly-guarded ciphers. "By Jove!" he laughed, "how disappointed they must have been!"

"It may be so," I said, as we entered the midnight train for Leghorn. "But my own theory is that they were searching for some paper or other that you possess."

"What can my papers concern them?" exclaimed the jovial, round-faced consul. "I don't keep bank notes in that safe, you know. We fellows in the service don't roll in gold as our public at home appears to think."

"No. But you may have something in there which might be of value to them. You're often the keeper of valuable documents belonging to Englishmen abroad, you know."

"Certainly. But there's nothing in there just now. No, my dear Gordon, depend upon it that the yacht running ashore was all a blind. They did it so as to be able to get the run of the consulate, secure the ciphers, and sail merrily away with them."

"But the man and the woman who left the yacht an hour before she sailed, and who slipped away into the country somewhere! I wonder who they were? Hornby distinctly told me that he and Chater were alone, and yet there was evidently a lady and a gentleman on board. I guessed there was a woman there, from the way the boudoir and ladies' saloon were arranged, and certainly no man's hand decorated a dinner table as that was decorated."

"Yes. That's decidedly funny," remarked the consul thoughtfully. "They showed a lot of ingenuity."

"Ingenuity! I should think so! The whole affair was most cleverly planned."

"You said something about an armory."

"Yes, there were Maxims stowed away in one of the cabins. They aroused my suspicions."

"They would not have aroused mine," replied my friend. "Yachts carry arms for protection in many cases, especially if they are going to cruise along uncivilized coasts where they must land for water or provisions."

I told him of the torn photograph, which caused him some deep reflection.

"I wonder why the picture had been torn up. Had there been a row on board—a quarrel or something?" "It had been destroyed surreptitiously, I think."

"Pity you didn't pocket the fragments. We could perhaps have discovered from the photographer the identity of the original."

"Ah!" I sighed regretfully. "I never thought of that. I recollect the name of the firm, however."

"I shall have to report to London the whole occurrence, as British subjects are under suspicion," Hutcheson said. "We'll see whether Scotland Yard knows anything about Hornby or Chater. Most probably they do. I'll write a full report in the morning if you will give me minute descriptions of the men, as well as of the captain, Mackintosh."

Next morning the town of Leghorn awoke to find itself gay with bunting, the Italian and English flags flying side by side everywhere, and the consular standard flapping over the consulate in the piazza. In the night the with my old friend Capt. Jack Durnford of the Royal Marines. Each year when the fleet put into Leghorn we were inseparable, for in long years past, at Portsmouth, we had been close friends, and now he was able to pay me annual visits at my Italian home.

He was on duty that morning, therefore could not get ashore till after luncheon.

"I'll dine with you, of course, tonight, old chap," he said. "And you must tell me all the news. We're in here for six days, and I was half a mind to run home."

"Your time's soon up, isn't it?" I remarked, as I lolled back in the easy deck-chair, and gazed away at the white port and its background of purple Apennines.

The dark, good-looking fellow, in his smart summer uniform leaned over the bulwark, and said, with a slight sigh, I thought: "Yes. This is my last trip to Leghorn, I think. I go back in November, and I really shan't be sorry. Three years is a long time to be away from home. You go next week, you say? Lucky devil to be your own master! I only wish I were. Year after year on this deck grows confoundingly wearisome, I can tell you, my dear fellow."

Durnford was a man who had written much on naval affairs, and was recognized as an expert on several branches of the service. The admiralty do not encourage officers to write, but in Durnford's case it was recognized that of naval topics he possessed a knowledge that was of use, and, therefore, he was allowed to write books and to contribute critical articles to the service magazines. He had studied the relative strengths of foreign navies, and by keeping his eyes always open he had, on many occasions, been able to give valuable information to our naval attaches at the embassies.

"I go as soon as you've sailed. I only stayed because I promised to act for Frank," I said. "And, by Jove! a funny thing occurred while I was in charge—a real first-class mystery."

"A mystery—tell me," he exclaimed, suddenly interested.

"Well, a yacht—a pirate yacht, I believe it was—called here."

"A pirate! What do you mean?"

"Well, she was English. Listen, and I'll tell you the whole affair. It'll be something fresh to tell at mess, for I know how you chaps get played out of conversation."

"By Jove, yes! Things slump when we get no mail. But go on—I'm listening," he added, as an orderly came up, saluted, and handed him a paper.

"Well," I said, "let's cross to the other side. I don't want the sentry to overhear."

"As you like—but why such mystery?" he asked, as we walked together to the other side of the spick-and-span quarterdeck of the gigantic battleship.

"You'll understand when I tell you the story." And then, standing together beneath the awning, I related to my friend the whole of the curious circumstances.

"Confoundedly funny!" he remarked, with his dark eyes fixed upon mine. "A mystery, by Jove, it is! What name did the yacht bear?"

"The Lola."

"What!" he gasped, suddenly turning pale. "The Lola? Are you quite sure it was the Lola—L-O-L-A?"

"Absolutely certain," I replied. "But why do you ask? Do you happen to know anything about the craft?"

He paused a moment, and I could see what a strenuous effort he was making to avoid betraying knowledge.

"It's—well—" he said hesitatingly, with a rather sickly smile. "It's a girl's name—a girl I once knew. The name brings back to me certain memories."

"Pleasant ones—I hope."

"No. Bitter ones—very bitter ones," he said in a hard tone, striding across the deck and back again, and I saw in his eyes a strange look, half of anger, half of deep regret.

Was he telling the truth, I wondered? Some tragic romance or other concerning a woman had, I knew, overshadowed his life in the years before we had become acquainted. But the real facts he had never revealed to me. Outwardly he was as merry as the other fellows who officered that huge floating fortress; on board he was a typical smart marine, and on shore he danced and played tennis and flirted just as vigorously as did the others. But a heavy heart beat beneath his uniform.

When he returned to where I stood I saw that his face had changed; it had become drawn and haggard. He more the appearance of a man who had been struck a blow that had staggered him, crushing out all life and hope.

"What's the matter, Jack?" I asked. "Come! Tell me—what ails you?"

"Nothing, my dear old chap," he answered hoarsely. "Really nothing—only a touch of the blues just for a moment," he added, trying hard to smile. "It'll pass."

"What I've just told you about that yacht has upset you. You can't deny it."

He started. His mouth was, I saw, hard set. He knew something concerning that mysterious craft, but would not tell me.

"Why are you silent?" I asked slowly, my eyes fixed upon my friend the officer. "I have told you what I know, and I want to discover the motive of the visit of those men, and the reason they opened Hutcheson's safe."

"I admit that I have certain grave suspicions," he said at last, standing astride with his hands behind his back, his sword trailing on the white deck. "You say that the yacht was called the Lola—painted gray with a black funnel."

"No, dead white, with a yellow funnel."

"Ah! Of course," he remarked, as though to himself. "They would repaint and alter her appearance. But the dining saloon. Was there a long carved oak buffet with a big, heavy cornice with three gilt dolphins in the center—and were there not dolphins (Continued on Page Four)

PAYS FOR HIS "SINFUL ACT"

Egan Swiped Turkey Twenty-seven Years Ago—Sorry Now and Makes Good.

Atkin, Ark.—A. D. Stubbs of Carden Bottom, six miles south of here, received from the post office there a dollar and the following letter of explanation.

"A. D. Stubbs—Dear Friend: Please find enclosed $1 for one turkey I killed of yours twenty-seven years ago in the woods near the mouth of Petit Jean river. This turkey was taken to George Shoemaker's and we cooked it and eat it. I am serving God. Will you please forgive me for this sinful act? L. R. Egan."

The letter was mailed at Kansas City. Mr. Stubbs remembers Egan well, but was not aware of the killing of the turkey.

Mr. Stubbs at once applied the dollar to the cause of foreign missions.

ENRICHING LIFE.

The man who has cultivated his mind has resources unknown to those who let their minds lie idle like fallow fields. Though he finds his habitation remote from the centers of society, he knows no solitude. The rugged mountains, the broad prairie, the spreading expanse of ocean cannot make him lonely. Nature speaks to him in the waving of a blade of grass, the color of a flower, the flight of a bird. These all open up whole histories to him. Beside them, he has in his books the best companionship of all the ages. All of us fall naturally into some philosophy of living. The man of culture deliberates, reasons and gradually forms his philosophy, changing it from time to time as experience teaches him the flaws in his judgment, and always welcoming the change, because culture does not imply a finished perfection, but rather a constant pruning and enriching. He learns to direct his life and not to allow circumstances and surroundings to smother his individuality. He is not discouraged by failures, for he knows that the effort is often more valuable than the end. He finds happiness in work and not attainment, and so reaches every day what too many of us think of as a goal that is always afar off.

The patience of the amateur gardener is deserving of all praise. In the face of cartooning and bantering, of the foolish questioning and the sarcasms of the neighbors, he stimulates the poor clay of his back yard into productivity, bends his back over his plantings, chases dogs, warns off small boys, lays traps for bugs and expresses a contentment with such increases as the earth chooses to give him. There must be some joy and reward in gardening of itself that can carry the amateur gardener over the hillocks of funmaking and the barriers of irritations, such joy and reward as the angler obtains in lieu of fish. The exercise is obtainable in other ways less straining upon unused muscles and good temper. The work might more profitably be employed upon other affairs. And as for the yield in things good to eat, it very often costs much more than the money plunked down upon the grocer's counter. The returns must consist in watching plant life develop out of the unpromising looking seed, bulb and cutting and in feeling that it is one's exertions and care which have brought about this wonderful germination and growth.

In one of the New York dailies there recently appeared an advertisement announcing that "Mr. —, a native American, born in the United States, has been admitted as a partner in our firm." It is an unusual form of announcement in the double stress laid upon the nativity of Mr. —. Evidently American birth has become an asset of commercial value in the East. The firm this gentleman is connected with is engaged in trade with the British West Indies, which rather adds to the significance of the emphasis placed on his simon-pure Americanism. Possibly one of the benefits we will derive from the war is a higher estimation of what it means to be an American, says the Chicago Evening Post. Amid much employment of hyphenation we welcome this as a sign of a healthy reaction.

(Continued from page Three) In gait on the backs of the chairs— an armorial device? "Yes," I cried. "You are right. I remember them! You're surely been on board her!" "The captain, who gave his name to you as Mackintosh, is an undersized American of a rather low-down type?" "I took him for a Scotsman." "Because he put on a Scotch accent," he laughed. truth to me. "You saw no woman on board?" he asked suddenly, looking straight into my eyes. "No. Hornby told me that he and Chater were alone." "And yet an hour after you left a man and a woman came ashore and disappeared! Ah! If we only had a description of that woman it would reveal much to us." "She was young and dark-haired, so the detective says. She had a curious fixed look in her eyes, which attracted him, but she wore a thick motor veil, so that he could not clearly discern her features."

"The police, fools that they are, have allowed them to escape, and they will never be caught now. Ah! you don't know them as I do! They are the cleverest pair in all Europe. And they have the audacity to call their craft the Lola—the Lola, of all names! Gordon, let me be frank and open with you, my dear old fellow. I would tell you everything—everything—if I dared. But I cannot—you understand!" And his final words seemed to choke him.

COLLEGE CREWS GETTING READY

Oarsmen of Many Universities Preparing For Supreme Test.

YALE-HARVARD MATCHED.

Meeting Between Blue and Crimson Will Be Very Interesting Unless All Signs Fail—Poughkeepsie Events Should Result In Great Finish.

All the big college crews are now on the last stretch of their rowing year. With their various dual regattas behind them they have stopped working over two mile courses and now are training for the four mile distances at Poughkeepsie and New London. This training grind will last for a few weeks.

An unprecedented thing has already happened in college rowing. For the first time in many, many years it looks as though this year's intercollegiate champion four mile crew will be the winner at New London instead of Poughkeepsie. There won't be any four mile race between the crews from these rival camps, but Yale and Harvard have already beaten Pennsylvania, Columbia and Cornell over the two mile distance in decisive fashion. Therefore the crew which wins at New London will probably be acclaimed the intercollegiate champion of the year unless Syracuse or Leland Stanford should win in decisive fashion on the Hudson. Neither of these crews has met Yale or Harvard, so a victory for Syracuse or the Californians would leave plenty of room for argument.

Right now the Yale and Harvard crews are apparently very evenly matched, and their meeting this month will attract great attention. The Harvard eight has engaged in two dual regattas. During Easter week the Crimson won easily from the Navy, though this was not considered a great achievement since the Navy hasn't won a race this year. Recently Harvard beat Cornell on Lake Cayuga in a race which stamped Harvard as a great crew. Harvard's margin was about the same as Yale's over the Cornell crew the week before.

Yale has likewise engaged in two races. During Easter week Yale won from Pennsylvania in decisive fashion. That race, though, was rowed in a blizzard, so the followers of the Elis watched their crew to give another demonstration of their prowess before they were willing to become too enthusiastic. The chance came in a three cornered race with Princeton and Cornell on Lake Carnegie. The Tigers had previously won every race in which they had started and had beaten in decisive fashion the Yale, Pennsylvania and Columbia. But Yale gave the Tigers a two lengths beating and won from Cornell by a quarter of a boat length.

The showing of the two crews means that they are very evenly matched and that there won't be much choice between them when they face the starter at New London. A good many rowing critics think that Yale is considerably stronger this year than last in spite of the many veterans who have been lost from the boat. One of the strongest factors in Yale's present strength is the confidence and enthusiasm the men enjoy. They have had enough racing experience this year to convince them that they can win, and Harvard is sure to find Yale a mighty tough opponent.

The defeat of the Cornell crew by both Yale and Harvard on successive Saturdays was foreshadowed by many experts. The results of these two races, however, should not be taken to mean that Cornell won't be a lot stronger at Poughkeepsie. Coach Courtney has made a number of radical changes in his boat within the past couple of weeks, and the promotion of Collier, last year's freshman stroke, to the position of pace maker for the varsity is likely to prove most beneficial. Last year Cornell's freshman stroke was pronounced one of the best in the country, and as good a judge as Vivian Nickalls, the Pennsylvania coach, declared that the Cornell youngster had the making of one of the best stroke oars he had ever seen. The Pennsylvania crew, which made rather a poor showing in its races with Yale and at Princeton, is 25 per cent stronger on account of changes Coach Nickalls has made. The return to his old position at No. 5 of Garvin, the strongest man in last year's shell, and of Marcy, the 1914 stroke, has greatly encouraged the Quakers. Shoemaker, a former stroke oar, is also in this boat, so that the eight is stronger physically than it was a year ago. Coach Nickalls has always maintained that the crew was best at four miles.

JACK JOHNSON ASPIRES TO BE BULLFIGHTER.

Jack Johnson, who is in Paris, now is a rival attraction to soldiers on the boulevards. Asked if he came to go to war, he replied: "Man, for me war is over. I am at peace the first time in several years." His interviewer said, "Anyway, your name goes down in war history, for big German shells are called Jack Johnsons." Jack replied, "Was I not in history before this war?" Asked what he intended to do, he said: "I have been invited to be athletic director for a gentlemen's club in Havana. I might go there and open a cafe as a side line. It certainly is one of the last good towns, but on the way here I stopped in Spain to see bullfights. My goodness, man, I certainly felt I wasted my time at prizefighting. These bullfighters are busy all the time and make more money than world's champions, so maybe I will be a bullfighter." Asked about the Willard fight, Johnson said: "That guy ain't no fighter, but you can't beat him. Why, man, he's got a reach from here way over there." Jack pointed at buildings across the boulevard.

8 to 7, the winning run scoring on an error. As an offset to Harper's effectiveness, however, he gave nine bases on balls and was touched for seven hits. Columbus clobbered its runs and walks, while the Millers with plenty of hits and passes dribbled their counters over the horse plate.

The deal by which Minneapolis secured Harper and Outfielder Rondeau, for whom Washington previously gave five players to the Millers, originally was for Rondeau and another hurler. When this young hurler was sounded, however, he wished to consult his family before deciding whether he would be willing to play in the west. This did not suit President Cantillon, and Harper was sent for. His answer was affirmative provided he could pitch the next day, which he did, with the result unarrated.

SWEDEN PUTS STOP TO SMUGGLING BY IMPOSING FINES

(By Associated Press.) Copenhagen, June 10.—A few heavy fines and imprisonments at the beginning of the war have relieved the government of serious difficulties in preventing the smuggling of contraband. The only important trade in contraband which the authorities failed to stop took place five months ago, when a director of an important corn company was caught shipping two cargoes of corn to Germany and was fined about seven thousand dollars.

The authorities detected the owners of the "Carmen" attempting to send copper to Germany. All connected with the attempt were heavily fined and two of the owners were sentenced to three years at hard labor. Their vessel was confiscated by the state.

There was also a futile attempt of a Swedish firm to send a cargo of Danish rifles to Germany. Those im-

IN THE CRISPNESS OF GAUZE AND TAFFETA.

Peach blow pink taffeta waist having a surplice front and back in which silk figured gauze is inserted. It is further decorated with folds of black satin.

The balance of fashionable favor inevitably leans toward this waist in taffeta combined with gauze which has the floral design in it stitched with silk threads. The effect is very dainty and the expense involved small, especially for the woman who is skillful with her needle. The surplice front has an insert of the gauze piped with plain black satin, and as the taffeta is a delicious peach blow pink the contrast is more than effective. Quaint indeed are the deep cuffs, with their fullness above the elbow taken in with gathers. The model in average size requires 1 1/4 yard 36-inch lining, 3/4 yard gauze or all over lace 27 inches wide and 2 1/4 yards 36-inch taffeta.

Many home dressmakers to save time and trouble use the semi-fitted lawn and organdy linings, which can be bought for a few cents in the department stores. It is easy, however, to make a lining by first taking up the darts in front as indicated, closing the seams and hemming the front. The facing and adjust undercollar; then gather on double small "oo" perforations and 1/4 inch below stitch tapo (about 4 1/2 inches long) under gathers. Adjust as shown in the illustration on underbody sleeve, bringing single large "O" perforations together and stitch along small "o" perforations in fancy sleeve, regulating fullness. Gather lower edge of front and back between double "T" perforations and 2 inches seams and lower edges even. Arrange on lining, under-arm front and back. Bring upper edge of dart to large "O" perforation in front shield and tack. Pleat lower edges of outer-front and back, bringing "T" to corresponding small "o" perforations. Close shoulder seam as notched. Front indicated by large "O" perforation at shoulder seam. Lap back on front under the arm, matching small "o" perforations and stich. Arrange on underbody, bringing large "O" perforation near shoulder edges together and tack. Cross in front and back as illustrated and fasten at small "o" perforation in peplum. Added to the dressy effect of the waist is a detail of cut and finish that weighs the balance of favor still further.

ONTONAGON MAN ADMITS KILLING HENRY PICOTTE

Albert Thompson Confesses to Authorities—Shaken in Body and Mind From Ceaseless Thoughts of Murder.

Menominee, June 10.—"I did it—I killed Picotte. I can't stand it any longer. I am going crazy. I can't sleep. I can't eat. I did it."

This was the incoherent statement of Albert Thompson as he staggered wild-eyed into the sheriff's office at Ontonagon Monday and confessed to the murder of Henry Picotte, an employe of the Spies-Thompson Lumber company.

Slew Man in February.

The slaying, according to Thompson, occurred early on February 15, this year, when Picotte was on his way to work in the lumber camps. He had with him his shotgun and dinner pail when last seen and when found both were lying at his side.

For months the search for the murderer went on, but not a clew of any sort could be found. The body was shipped to Menominee, where it was taken to the home of his sister Mrs. Beyer, living on Dunlap avenue. It was then taken to Wallace in Menominee county, where it was buried.

OLSON-LARSON NUPTIALS TOOK PLACE YESTERDAY

Miss Anna E. Olson, Daughter Mr. and Mrs. Peter Olson Bride Hugo Larson

A pretty wedding was celebrated at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Olson, 223 Elm street, last evening when Miss Anna E. Olson became the bride of Hugo Larson, well known Escanaba young man. Rev. C. A. Lund of the Swedish Lutheran church performed the ceremony. A sister of the bride, Miss Elsie Olson was bridesmaid with Charles Lundstrom groomsmen. A sumptuous wedding collation was served the guests and wedding party following the ceremony. A reception at the home of the bride's parents was also held following the wedding feast.

Better cookies, cake and biscuits, too. All as light, fluffy, tender and delicious as mother used to bake. And just as wholesome. For purer Baking Powder than Calumet cannot be had at any price. Ask your grocer.

DELEGATES ARE BACK FROM HOUGHTON

Escanabans in Attendance at Grand Commandery Gathering at Houghton Report Big Time

Escanaba delegates to the big convocation of the Grand Commandery of Michigan Knights Templars, held at Houghton this week have returned to the city and report a big time while in the copper country. Mr. and Mrs. Theo. Farrel, and Miles Haring of this city have remained over for a few days longer.

One member of the party of Escanabans related an incident of the trip to the copper country of the passengers on the steamer South American which stranded twice on its way through the Soo. He stated that after the vessel arrived at Calumet many of the passengers were so sick that a number were taken to the hospital. The North American, with the Detroit and eastern state commanderies aboard had no mishaps and arrived on schedule time.

Speaking of the great ball, held the evening of Tuesday, having been put off from Monday night owing to late time at which the South American arrived, the Escanaban said that it was a wonderful spectacle. Estimates placed the number of dancers on the floor at 1,000 couples. The rink in which the event was held is half an acre in extent and it was crowded during the event. The grand march was especially impressive, it is said. One of the interesting trips taken by the visitors of the session was that to the stamp mills and mines.

150 PEOPLE IN COMING PLAY OF "EVERYWOMAN"

"Everywoman," the dramatic spectacle which Henry W. Savage will offer here shortly at the Delft theatre, with a company numbering in its various departments over one hundred and fifty people, contains as much drama as the usual dramatic offering, about as much comedy as the usual musical comedy as the usual musical opera as the usual operatic production. To properly interpret the musical score which was written by George Whitefield Chadwick, dean of the New England Conservatory of Music, of Boston, a special symphony orchestra is carried by the company.

ty-eighth Bruce regiment, on the field of Langemarck, in Belgium.

On Tuesday night another missive arrived from Mrs. Sheehan, saying that she had received a post card from Thomas, saying:

"I am a prisoner of war in Germany. I am not wounded, and am very well treated."

HUNGER, NOT RUM, SENT GIRL ON CRIME CAREER

Philadelphia, Pa.—Hunger, and not as the police first stated, her father's craving for liquor, drove 9 year old Mary Doyle to steal cakes from a doorstep and take pennies from children in the street. A pinched, emaciated slip of a girl, Mary sobbed her story to Judge Gorman in Juvenile court.

Recently before Judge Gorman, Mrs. Doyle, the mother, protested weepingly that her husband had been accused unjustly. He is a hard working, steady man, she said, and has been working every day since he was able to get a job.

SIX MILLION ROSES IN GRAND FLORAL REVIEW

Portland, Ore., June 10.—Portland today paid homage to the queen of flowers today when more than 6,000,000 roses were seen in a grand floral review. The occasion was the decorated automobile and vehicle parade, held in connection with the rose festival.

The parade was the greatest of the kind ever held in the country. Hundreds of automobiles and vehicles of all kinds, motorcycles, and members of the Portland fire apparatus, all rose bedecked, produced a beautiful spectacle. It required more than 1,000,000 roses alone to decorate the fire department apparatus.

This afternoon a roller skating marathon in which 500 boys took part delighted the juvenile population. A community sign featuring 4,000 adult voices in classical, sacred and popular music was heard by a huge throng.

WEDS BROTHER'S WIDOW

George Jubain, Former Resident of Escanaba Married in Kansas City

Announcement has been received here of the marriage of George Jubain a former resident of the city, to Mrs. Mollie Jubain, widow of the groom's brother. The marriage took place Tuesday morning at a Kansas City Catholic edifice. The groom is well past middle life, having passed the 50 year mark. Friends of the former Escanaban were surprised to learn of the marriage.

Mr. Jubain is an engineer in the employ of the C. & N. W. road on the Peoria division. The couple will make their future home in South Pekin, Ill. A wide circle of relatives and friends of the couple reside in this city.

WAR ORPHANS ARE BIG PROBLEMS TO THE GERMAN NATION

(By Associated Press.) Berlin, June 10.—The war, with its countless deaths, has aroused in Berlin and other cities heretofore unprecedented interest in orphan children and their rearing, and an increasingly keen desire on the part of childless couples to adopt a waif.

The orphan department of the German headquarters for child care reports that the number of out-and-out adoptions in Berlin mounted from 11 in 1913 to 33 in 1914, and that in the first four months of 1915, 23 have already been completed.

In 1913 about 500 orphans were placed in families, without a legal adoption being consummated. This figure increased to 1,000 in 1914, most of the increase being noted in the months from August to December, or since the beginning of the war. From present indications that record will be broken this year.

Early in August of last year the headquarters sent out an appeal for the care, without pay, of children, and received 70 responses almost at once. It receives, every week, requests for the adoption of "war babies" from childless couples, frequently with the unthinking addition that the "war baby" preferably should be a "two-year-old girl with light hair" or a "three-year-old boy with fine features."

To secure adopted parents of a desirable kind for illegitimate children has always proved a perplexing problem for the society, but there appear now to be an increasing number of people who are willing to overlook the misfortune of the child's birth and do their share in rearing a generation that shall fill the gaps caused by the war.

KISSING BEE AT THE PIER

Armenian Embraced Friends Four Times Over When Taking Leave of Them at San Francisco.

San Francisco.—A Sninanoff, an Armenian, living in Los Angeles for some years, called for Seattle a few days ago on the Governor, where he is to join a number of others and take ship for Vladivostok, from where the party will proceed to the front.

Sninanoff's friends, practically the entire local Armenian colony, were on hand to bid him good-by. Sninanoff kissed all his bewhiskered compatriots again and again, boarded the steamer, and as the grief of parting overwhelmed him, rushed down the gangplank and kissed them all again.

Four times he rushed down the gangplank to implant anew the good-by kiss, much to the entertainment of lookers-on.

Thermophone of Dutch Inventor Transmits Words Clearly—Small as Watch.

London.—A Dutch inventor has invented a simple little instrument which seems to be a decided improvement on the present telephone. The receiver and transmitter take up no more space than an ordinary watch, and the cost is estimated at 30 cents. The "thermophone," as it is called, transmits distinctly, and there is no confusion of vowel sounds, letters or figures. The receiver is so small that it may be placed in the ear.

At a demonstration recently at the University of Utrecht the invention was successfully adapted to wireless telegraphy.

FACULTY LOSES RAGGED GAME 20-13

Playing ragged ball, miffing soft fly balls and failing to at any time show the form displayed in previous games, the faculty squad went down to defeat yesterday afternoon at the hands of the Juniors, 20-13. Runs were scored in spurts of from three to seven at a lick, at times, the contest degenerating into a mere swat-fest at the last. The Sophs will meet the Senior crowd tonight after school in the class series.

WEDDING OCCURED AT ST. ANNE'S CHURCH

LeCaptain-Maga Nuptials Celebrated Tuesday Morning

The marriage of Miss Maline LeCaptain, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Julius LeCaptain to Mr. John Maga was celebrated at St. Anne's church on the morning of Tuesday. A sister of the bride, Miss Lucy LeCaptain was present as bridesmaid and Samuel Brandt supported Mr. Maga as groomsmen. The bride was becomingly gowned in white crepe de chene, and the bridesmaid in white voile. Following a wedding breakfast at the home of the bride's parents the young couple left on a wedding trip of indefinite length to southern Wisconsin points. Their home will be made at Negaunee where the groom is employed.

IRON CROSS FOR MINNEAPOLIS MAN

Minneapolis, Minn., June 10.—Prof. Herman Emil Zoch, formerly of Minneapolis, has just been awarded an iron cross, for his bravery in playing a piano at the front, according to word received here today. Zoch is in the German army, enlisted as a soldier, but his only activities consist of hauling a grand piano on a motor truck and playing ragtime to the soldiers. It was said here today that at times firing ceased on both sides under the magic strains of the professor's piano.

SAGE TEA DARKENS HAIR TO ANY SHADE

Don't Stay Gray! Here's a Simple Recipe That Anybody Can Apply With a Hair Brush.

The use of Sage and Sulphur for restoring faded, gray hair to its natural color dates back to grandmother's time. She used it to keep her hair beautifully dark, glossy and abundant. Whenever her hair fell out or took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect.

But brewing at home is messy and out-of-date. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for a 50 cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," you will get this famous old recipe which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair and is splendid for dandruff, dry, feverish, itchy scalp and itching hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, it becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and abundant.
