Paris, Dec. 6.—Four Austrian monitors are prepared to leave Ruscuk, in Bulgaria on the Danube river to bombard Reno, a Danube port in Bessarabia, where a large Russian army is assembled, says the Bucharest correspondent of the Temps. Information to this effect was received today and in consequence the Roumanian government has decided to close all foreign navigation on that part of the Danube in Roumanian territory.

Teutons Pursue Serbs

NO PEACE FOR GERMANY
London, Dec. 6.—Field Marshal von Hindenburg, in an interview with Paul Goldman, and reported by him, expressed the sentiment that foes of the Teutons do not yet desire peace. "They are not sufficiently battered," he said.

"We must continue to persist in hammering them as they will not admit our successes," he added.
ASKS REFUSAL OF VOTES
Paris, Dec. 6.—M. Venizelos, former premier of Greece has issued a manifesto addressed in the name of the liberal party of his country to the people advising abstention from voting at the coming election. The manifesto was issued Nov. 21 but was prevented from being transmitted by the Greek government and has just arrived by mail.

DEFINES PEACE STAND
Paris, Dec. 6.—France will not make peace until Alsace and Lorraine are won and Belgium and Serbia restored and "German imperialism and Prussian militarism are put beyond the possibility of resurrection," Albert Thomas of the war ministry said yesterday. The declaration of M. Thomas was attracted wide attention as it is the first utterance from a responsible French official source regarding the possibility of peace for that nation.

NO SOLUTION IN BALKANS
London, Dec. 6.—No solution has been reached in the Balkan situation. Russian troops, though long pressed for action on the Roumanian front have not, so far as is known, left that territory.

The Roumanian policy, still wavering invites diplomatic parleyings and is still unsettled. According to reports from Athens both the entente and the Greek governments are holding their respective positions—the entente reiterating their demands and Greece refusing to make concessions inconsistent with her sovereign rights.

SEES SOLIDARITY IN PLANS
The war council of Saturday, regarding the pact of London not to conclude a separate peace and the arrival here of General Poporo, second in command of the Italian army is received here as gratifying signs of an increasing solidarity in the plans of the entente, and it is hoped this will bear fruit in a more energetic Balkan campaign.

SERBS ARE IN FLIGHT
The Bulgarians announce further pursuit of the Serbs in Albania and report the retreat is assuming the characteristics of a precipitate flight along the Beli-Drini river towards Scutari.

Coach Hutto's Protoges Working Out Regularly at School Gym

With a large squad of candidates out for the team, basketball prospects at the Escanaba high school are assuming a rosy aspect. Coach Hutto started the lads on the rudiments of the game and intends carrying out this program for a time until enough familiarity with the new rules is secured to admit of beginning real team work. A fast, light team is the expectation for this season. Last year's squad completed a successful season and it is believed the 1915-16 team will be much better. Several veterans of last year's squad are out again and with some new material in sight a speedy team will represent the Orange and Black during the winter season.

Fire Demon Keeps Department On the Jump all Day Sunday

Three fires within a space of twelve hours is Sunday's record for the work of the fire demon. One of the fires was serious, the other two being of minor nature.

"Some day's work, eh!" "Kinda kept us busy?" Well I should hope so," was the comment today of Fire Chief Meiers concerning the activities of the fire department during the day, yesterday.

Pipe Causes Blaze
The first of Sunday's fires was a small one. A pipe, still hot from recent smoking and with hot coals in it's bowl was laid on a dresser top and forgotten for a time. When the owner of the pipe returned he found the dresser scarf in flames and several handkerchiefs destroyed and the top of the piece of furniture somewhat scorched. This was at 7:05 a. m. and the place was 117 south Campbell street.

U. S. FACES FIGHT OVER RECALL DEMAND; TEUTON EMBASSY ASKS REASONS

COUNT BERNSTORFF MAKES DEMAND TODAY ON STATE DEPARTMENT FOR RECALL REASONS

BOTH MEN TO REMAIN IN U. S. AT PRESENT

ACTION OF EMBASSY A PRECEDENT IN DIPLOMATIC AFFAIRS OF THE KIND, OFFICIALS SAY

(By Associated Press.)
Washington, Dec. 6.—Count von Bernstorff, German ambassador to the United States today presented a communication to the state department asking for a reason for the request for the recall of Capt. Boy-Ed and Capt. Franz von Papen, naval and Military attaches to the embassy. It was stated authoritatively, though not in the communication to the state department, that the embassy would under no circumstances ask for a safe conduct for Von Papen and Boy-Ed, as it believed it incumbent upon the United States to provide for their safe return to Germany and the bringing back of their successors.

Will Deny Other Connections

It also developed that if the developments in the matter connect the men with other activities than the Archibald and Hamburg-American line cases in asking they be withdrawn to Germany, Count von Bernstorff stated that Germany would contest the withdrawal. If these two reasons are all he intimated that there would be no opposition in the withdrawal. The embassy represented that it and its attaches stands before the bar of public opinion and that under such circumstances the embassy will deny it's connection with anything but the Archibald and the federal inquiry cases, the latter just completed in New York.

This statement is regarded by state department officials as being contradictory to diplomatic procedure. In the meantime the two men will remain in the United States until such time as the matter is settled. Both were in Washington today and held conferences with the German ambassador. Under ordinary situations the United States can merely ask for the withdrawal of a representative of a foreign nation when they have stated he has become persona non grata to this government.

SKATERS OUT IN FORCE YESTERDAY

Sunday was a day of fun for many an Escanaba youngster. With the ice on the south shore in fairly good condition even though covered with a thin sprinkling of snow hundreds of the youngsters disported on their shiny steel blades during the afternoon. The ice is not very heavy as yet but seems sufficiently strong to bear the weight of the "kids." With continued cold weather and little snow for a time good skating is assured. The heavy snows of last winter ruined the ice for sport early in the season.

MANDAMUS IS DENIED IN MENOMINEE ACTION

Judge Richard C. Flannigan Hands Adverse Decision to the "Drys"—Expect an Appeal to be Taken

Menominee "drys" were handed a stiff setback Saturday in the decision handed down by Judge R. C. Flannigan of the circuit court of this district in which he denied the appeal of the "drys" for a writ of mandamus to compel the Menominee supervisors to submit the local option question at the spring election. In brief, Judge Flannigan's decision was based upon the fact that he believed there had not been a proper posting of the petitions, according to the affidavits. The question that the board had the right to deny the petitions because the petition did not show on its face whether one or more had been circulated in certain precincts was not decided definitely, Judge Flannigan stating that the disposal of this question was not necessary.

According to the Menominee Herald Leader the hope of the "drys" for submission of the matter at the spring election lays in the appeal that is expected to be made to the highest state court and it's upholding the appeal of the "drys."

(By Associated Press.)
Washington, Dec. 6.—Congress assembled at noon today for what promises to be the greatest history making meeting of all time. The session was brief and devoted entirely to formal resolutions and to the introduction of a few bills and soon after opening adjourned and sent a committee to President Wilson to tell him that congress was in session. The first real work of the session will come Tuesday when President Wilson will read his message to the joint meeting of both houses of congress.

Senator James P. Clark was re-elected today president pro tem and his election was accompanied by cheers from the gallery when he was sworn in. Senator Clark presided after his election as Vice-President Marshall was not in his chair. In his opening speech in the house, Speaker Champ Clark paid a splendid tribute to Republican leader Mann of Illinois.

SUFFRAGE WORKERS ACTIVE
Washington, D. C., Dec. 6.—With the opening of congress today noon, suffrage workers made the capital city the field of their activities in behalf of the Susan B. Anthony suffrage amendment to the constitution; and at 12:30 p. m., a great delegation of suffragists was welcomed in the rotunda of the capitol by the house and senate committees on suffrage, led by Senator Sutherland and Representative Mondell.

At 2 p. m. President Wilson received 300 suffrage leaders in the East room at the White House. The campaign for the Anthony amendment will be planned at the week's session of the Advisory Council and Woman Voters' convention beginning Wednesday.

Today's receptions marked the arrival in Washington of Mrs. Sara Bard Field and Miss Frances Jolliffe, from San Francisco by motor, bearing the 500,000-signature petition asking congress to pass the suffrage amendment. The two were met by representatives from Congressional union headquarters and local suffragists in cavalry, infantry and motor divisions. The procession went to the East steps of the capitol. Senator Sutherland and Representative Mondell there received the petitions and spoke briefly. The two women travelers replied.

BY DETROITER A PET; IS VILLAGER'S CLAIM

And now comes the villagers of Uno, the little collection of habitations on the Delta-Schoolcraft county line, who depose and saith that the hite deer, killed near Manistique by a Detroit hunter, J. E. Miller by name and which exploit was heralded in the state papers with a great deal of gusto, was nothing more nor less than a pet animal, fostered by the residents of the little line village.

The deer, say residents of the village, according to the Manistique papers, came into the village early last spring, a fawn, and that it was soon a regular pet around the town. The first day of the hunting season spelled doom for the albino and "as a consequence Mr. Miller is not very popular with the villagers at present," adds the Pioneer-Record of the lake city.

(By I. K. M.)

Long about this time of the year, childish hopes and longings and fears hold they younger members of the family in their grip. And long about this time of the year, too, the older folks have hopes and fears and longings.

Childish scrawls addressed to St. Nick, care of the post office or the North Pole or wherever their fancies prompt them to address them, and their way into the hands of the postal authorities.

These all important missives which mark an event in their young lives are pathetic and sweet and charming. Their little souls will be complete with happiness, if, as they confide in the all understanding ear of Santa, they can get a new doll or a new buggy or a pair of skates or a dozen and one things.

'Member Those Times

And when the day before the most wonderful day of the year arrives, they hang their stockings up for the they, in perfect confidence and expectancies that they have written for. At length they fall asleep to dream of reindeers and sleighbells and other numerous things which you dreamed of yourself once upon a time.

And at the same time these letters are being written, into the lives of the older folks creeps that feeling that comes only during the month of December each year. That feeling of Peace on Earth Good will to Men. Many of them are happily planning on gifts that will make some youngster happy, be it their own or someone else's.

Many of them, too, are spending many lonely half hours, their hearts filled with longing for some child to do things for.

There are many of this class right here in Escanaba who can make the Christmas day dawn bright and cheery for the youngster, instead of it being a dull gray dawn with nothing but the memory of other Christmases to distinguish the day from any other.

Won't You Help!

Their little stockings hung so confidently the night before and their faces so crestfallen and sad when they discover Santa Claus, on whom they had relied so faithfully has gone off and forgotten all about them. No nuts, no candy or even fruit to brighten their day.

No matter what the day may bring for them is it going to bring to us, we older folk, the feeling that because we have been selfish and have not practiced the "good will toward men" idea, things are not as worth while as they might be.

It is now that we fall short of living life in its fullest simply because we did not realize that this is the season of opportunities when we forget trials and hard things and petty things that don't count in the long run and when we think of the other fellow.

Peace on earth, good will toward men! Of whom are you thinking?

Curative Value in Food?

"Recalling that 90 per cent of disease results from errors in diet, then foods properly prescribed by the physician can justly be said to have curative value."

—Dr. Henry B. Hollen, in The Medical Standard.

One of the errors in the diet of many people is the use of foods robbed of the vital mineral salts (phosphate of potash, etc.) which are absolutely necessary for proper balance of body, brain and nerves. The result is a long list of ills, including nervous prostration, kidney trouble, constipation, rickets in children, and so on.

Twenty years ago a whole wheat and barley food, containing all the nutriment of the grain, including the priceless mineral elements, was devised especially to correct errors in diet. That food is

Grape-Nuts

It fulfills its mission admirably.

Another physician says:
"Nearly half the year my breakfast consists of a dish of Grape-Nuts, one or two eggs, or fruit. I RECOMMEND IT TO MY PATIENTS CONSTANTLY, and invariably with good results."

This wholesome food not only builds sturdy health and strength, but fortifies the system against disease. Ready-to-eat, nourishing, economical, delicious--

THE BULLYING BORLANDS

By BARBARA RHODES.

It irritated Ted Borland's uncle to see that young man so deliberately throwing away a fortune, but, of course, he couldn't see his only nephew marry into the Farday family without making a vigorous protest. The Fardays and the Borlands had wrangled over boundary lines and sundry other matters for a decade, and now that the younger generation showed a disposition to be friendly the old man's wrath was stimulated to frenzy.

"I won't have it!" growled Uncle Zeb.

Ted was talking to Mr. Dodd, the lawyer. His pleasant, drawing voice exasperated Uncle Zeb beyond control.

"Ah, Mr. Dodd!" Ted was saying. "Uncle Zeb wants you to come down to Borlands this afternoon—oh, you can easily make the 2:03 train. Something about changing his will, I believe! I suppose so—thanks—good-by."

"Think you're mighty clever to have him down here, don't you?" quavered Uncle Zeb.

"I thought you wanted him down, Uncle Zeb," returned Ted with a straight look from his brown eyes.

"I didn't believe you were such a fool," grumbled the old man. "How are you going to support that Farday girl?"

"Lue," corrected Ted quietly. "Why, we thought we'd live on the old place with Miss Henrietta, and I'm going to raise chickens. You know I've had considerable luck experimenting on the farm here."

The telephone bell jingled from its corner.

"Answer it, Ted."

Ted's handsome head inclined to the instrument.

"Yes?—Oh, you, darling? I'm coming over presently. Something important? Aunt Henrietta?—Jove, Lue, but that's a blow. Good-by, sweet-heart. Don't grieve, it will come out all right-o."

He hung up the receiver and crossed the room to look down at the little dried-up old man with quizzical eyes.

"I suppose Henrietta Farday objects to having anything as practical as a chicken farm on her estate," sneered Uncle Zeb.

Ted shook his head.

"It isn't that, Uncle Zeb. Miss Henrietta objects out and out to my marrying Lue—says she'll be hanged if her niece marries a bullying Borland. So there you are!"

"And your girl won't chance marrying on your salary?"

"Yes," said Ted proudly; "only she thinks it's her duty to Miss Henrietta to remain with her. Henrietta is not very well, and there is no other relative."

As soon as he was alone Uncle Zeb peered from the window until he saw that Ted's figure had disappeared through the gate. Then the old man hobbled across the room to the telephone and called for a local number.

The deeply masculine voice of Miss Henrietta Farday came in answer.

"This is Zeb Borland," began Uncle Zeb, doubtfully.

"Humph! Bullying Borland!" commented Aunt Henrietta in her most forbidding accents. "I've put my foot down on your nephew's love-making."

"Put your foot down?"

"Yes—both feet! There won't be any bullying Borlands in my family," declared the old lady.

"You can't know Ted very well. He's good enough for any girl in Almos county—or the world, for that matter."

"He isn't good enough for my Luella! I don't know how you can say he isn't a Borland. Why, he's the living image of what you were, Zeb Borland, forty years ago."

"Ted—looks like me—I did? Pahaw, Henrietta, I never was half as good looking as Teddy." Uncle Zeb's voice bore a pleased note.

"You were better looking," contradicted the lady sharply. "I can prove it by that miniature—"

Silence for a moment.

Uncle Zeb smiled into the mouth-piece of the instrument.

"Henrietta Farday—have you kept that picture of me?"

"I keep lots of trash!" came in a stifled tone.

"I've got your picture, Henny, but I don't call it 'trash,'" said Uncle Zeb in an oddly gentle tone. "You want to trade pictures with me?"

A hush—then:

"You better keep the one you got—and I'll keep mine."

"I should be lonesome without it," whispered Uncle Zeb. "I've kept it in my pocket so many years, Henny, I'd miss it. But I suppose you've kept mine in some trash box—along with other trash."

"Zeb Borland, I'm a liar," blazed Henrietta with all the fire of her youth. "I've worn your miniature next to my heart all these years because it's all there was left of—love! Laugh, if you want to."

"Henrietta!" How eager was the old voice now. "It isn't too late to have a little happiness—just us two—and the young folks—why, there's enough room in these two houses for all of us—and for another generation. What say, Henny?"

"Yes," came Henrietta's answer along the line. "There isn't any use contradicting a bullying Borland."

STYLES IN PROSPECT

ALREADY THERE IS DISCUSSION OF SPRING FASHIONS.

Serge Foulard Will Be One of the Most Popular Fabrics—New Cotton Voile That Makes Most Dainty House Gowns.

There are no longer merely two fashion seasons of the year. Each of the two seasons has a midseason. This is well.

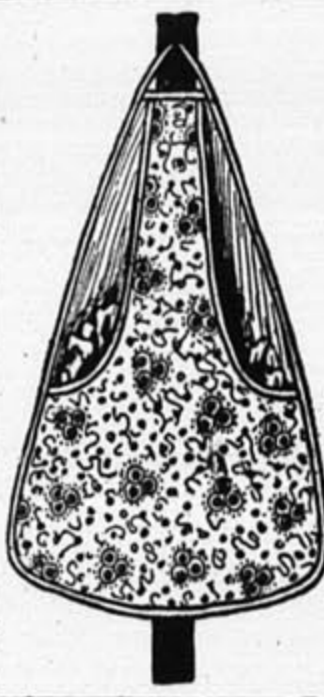

Even now there is much talk concerning the fabrics of spring. It seems like an absurdity, with winter here and the long months to wait before the crocus blooms again. Yet it is not so absurd, either, for in a very short time the holidays will be upon us and the northern fashion birds will wing their way southward with trunks well packed with summer togs.

Serge foulard is one of the new lightweight fabrics, and it is excellent, too, for little frocks to be worn under the heavy coats of fur or velour. The new serge "Trykko" is serge of much grandeur, having a soft, velvety feel that makes it most attractive and rich. Barbeline is a new wool voile, heavier than the ordinary voile, and of stunning shades.

A new cotton voile has little picked-up threads here and there, giving to the fabric a design like scattered ladder rungs. For dainty house gowns it is quite adorable. Two colors combine in many of the new patterns—rose and white, white and mauve and white and black.

A novelty known as "ralebruges" is made of alternating stripes of voile and lace cloth, the cloth formed by leno weave. The effect in two colors is very attractive. Pikella is a new pique, but more supple than the old-fashioned fabric that we know. Sattella is another pique.

GARDEN RESIDENT SAYS ASSAULTS WERE MADE

Tells Facts of Attack Which Were Said to Have Been Imaginings When First Reported

An article, signed AICH. GEE. ESS, and published in the city's weekly paper yesterday purports to give what is said are the true facts regarding the alleged assault upon a Garden young man last week. The writer, who does not sign his full name takes the papers of the county to task for publishing an article about that occurrence which he declares was untrue.

The writer asserts that the young man assaulted was Harvey Fulcher, who while returning to his home at Garden on the evening of the 18th, was knocked down and assaulted by the papers of the county to task for publishing an article about that occurrence which he declares was untrue.

On the evening of the 20th, Charles Hynes of Van's Harbor was on his way home from the village when he was attacked by some man who stepped from behind a fence corner and knocked him down with a heavy weapon. Hynes grappled with the man and the latter drew a knife, according to the Garden writer, and slashed at Hynes repeatedly, cutting his coat in fragments. Hynes finally found his way to Fred Nault's home where a doctor dressed his wounds.

The two attacks coming within so short a time of each other caused the people of the village to become incensed and Deputy Sheriff Olmsted was notified and then the sheriff who made the trip to the village. Dr. Hughes, says the writer of the above statement told him that Hynes WAS NOT under the influence of liquor or had been drinking.

Up to the Scratch.

One of the attractions at the Iowa state fair last year was Beachey, the aviator, sometimes advertised as the "human bird." As he was preparing for one of his flights, a large colored woman in a stiff starched white dress stood outside the race-track fence, about forty yards behind the aeroplane. When the propellers started, and sent back a cloud of dust and pebbles that blinded and pelted the nearest spectators.

After the flight, the colored woman stood looking at her soiled dress, with an expression of regret oddly tinged with pride that she had been the recipient of such distinguished attention.

"What you tink of dat bird mah, Sister Jones?" inquired an acquaintance, who had just edged her way through the crowd.

Sister Jones looked up and smiled broadly.

"Say, woman, dat Beachey am sure some bird! Why, dat man scratched up more dust dan fo'ty chickens in an ash pile!"—Youth's Companion.

Simplicity With Undeniable Style.

struck in the method of fastening the waist.

Fashioned of chiffon poplin and trimmed with collar and cuffs of satin, this would make a charming dress to be worn on all informal occasions. There is a note of novelty about the adjustment which extends across the front in sficu effect, and the belt may be contrasting material to match the collar, if desired.

In medium size the costume requires 5 1/2 yards 36-inch material, with 1 yard of satin for the collar, cuffs and belt. With two exceptions, all of the sections of the dress are cut from an open width of material. The home dress-maker understands, of course, that two open widths are laid together so that the sections will be cut out in duplicate. Two "rights" or two "wrongs," as the sides are popularly called, must be placed together so that both sides will not be alike after the sections are cut.

The back gore is placed into position first. Where it is sloped toward the waist-line there is left a space which accommodates the front of the waist. To the right of this section is placed the front gore of the skirt and opposite the skirt gore is the sleeve.

Now, on the quarter fold of material (so folded that the selvages meet) are laid the back on the lower fold and the collar on the upper fold.

The skirt may be shortened, if desired, by cutting off lower edges of gored on single or double "oo" perforations.

The back of the waist extends over the shoulders to form a yoke effect, and here a piping or bit of fancy heading may be added, if further elaboration is admired. The costume is an ideal foundation for the addition of the little details that go for smartness, though taken just as it is it expresses the acme of chic simplicity.

OUR SANITARY INEFFICIENCY.

Sanitary practices in this country are justly condemned in the last report of the United States public health service on typhoid. The statement that last year 30,000 deaths were recorded and that 400,000 persons were incapacitated shows that there is a substantial basis for the starting of an "educational campaign."

In sinking a shaft there are few things that a miner can encounter which are more unwelcome to him than a deep vein of quicksand. That is what has been struck at a Michigan iron mine. In quicksand the ordinary procedure of timbering down as the excavating is done is impossible.

ASSET ON THE FARM

AUTO OF POSITIVE VALUE TO AGRICULTURIST.

Can Be Put to So Many Uses That It Cannot Be Termed a "Joy Wagon."

That story that has been floating around through several week seasons about farmers mortgaging their land to buy an automobile is probably not based upon a very large foundation of fact, but even if this method of financing the automobile proposition has been resorted to in a good many instances there is no reason for any jumping to the conclusion that the deals in such cases are unwise from a business point of view.

The farmer's automobile is not a joy-ride wagon pure and simple. Often it is a freightage car of week days. The touring car can, by the possession of an extra body, be transformed into a farm wagon. It is a market wagon—a quick delivery van. And then, on Sundays and special days, it turns back into a touring car and takes the whole family on a 30-mile trip more expeditiously than old Dobbin would carry them over a ten-mile journey.

The enterprising farmer who puts money in an automobile is mighty apt to make it a paying investment. Speed counts on the farm as in the town. Owning of an automobile, like living in an attractive farmhouse, puts zest into the farm game. The farmer must live up to the higher ideals. He must contrive to get more out of his land and is likely to use intensified effort in his endeavor to do it.

Auto Widens Perception.

More motor cars make good roads, and more good roads make more motor cars, says the St. Louis Globe-Democrat. As motor vehicles multiply people travel more and cover longer distances in an hour or a day. With such ready and familiar facilities, seeing America first is an idea always in mind, leading to a better comprehension of the resources and opportunities, as well as the beauties of our own country.

An increase of definite knowledge in these respects adds to the development and wealth of Americans, also to their individual and social enjoyment. It is not many years since the bonk of an approaching motor car caused a rush to the windows to see the novel thing in locomotion go by. Now the quarter of a million motor cars in the United States make one of the commonest sights in the streets and along the highways. All this is the creation of little more than a decade.

Microbes That Eat Rubber.

If your motor tires do not wear so well as they should, it may be because microbes are eating them. When perfectly dry commercial rubber is not capable of furnishing nutriment to any form of microbe, but when sufficiently moist it is frequently attacked by certain bacteria or molds which feed on the albuminoids, resins, and sugars it contains. The red, yellow, brown and black spots which often appear on rubber are due to the presence of microbes. At least two varieties of microbe are able to assimilate the hydrocarbon of rubber, and by so doing destroy its value.

Monument Sunk in Gulf of Riga.

The Petrograd correspondent of the Stockholm Svenska Tidning writes: When the evacuation of Riga was begun the Russian government ordered the removal of the monument of Peter the Great from the city. The enormous statue was boxed up, but because of its weight the railroad declined to transport it. It was therefore decided to send it to Petrograd by water. After many difficulties the statue was finally loaded on a transport steamer, but this vessel encountered German torpedo boats and was sunk when it tried to leave the bay. In Riga the loss of the monument has been kept secret, but it is well known here that the Great Peter who was sent to the bottom of the sea has been dubbed "commander of the Russian submarine fleet" by local wits.

New Method of Healing Wounds.

A surgeon who has been at work among wounded Cossacks in the present war reports that ashes, preferably obtained by burning wool or cotton cloth, are excellent for healing wounds. This treatment is said to be particularly effective in wounds inflicted by sabers and bayonets.

GIRL IN A GRAPPLE WITH HOLDUP MAN Seizes Wrist to Prevent Shot at Her Escort.

"She displayed more grit than most men. When the gun was pointing almost directly at her face she grabbed it and gave me a chance to get at the robber."

Frank Knipper, who lives at the Hotel Holland, thus described the bravery of Miss Beatrice Proulx when they were held up.

Miss Proulx escaped with only a severe fright. Knipper has three cuts, two on his face and one on the back of his head, but he has the satisfaction of knowing the robber also is battered.

Miss Proulx and Knipper went to the Fifty-seventh street station of the Illinois Central to meet friends expected on the theater express.

A man wearing a mask sprang out from behind one of the wind shields, pointed a revolver at Miss Proulx and ordered both of them to "shell out."

An instant later, as he swung the revolver toward Knipper, the girl grabbed it, and the fight was on. "I tried to twist his wrist," she said, "and Mr. Knipper jumped at him and hit him in the face. He fell backward, and I think he dropped the revolver. Then Mr. Knipper grappled with him, and the next instant they were rolling over on the platform. The bandit was swearing frightfully.

"I was screaming for help. Mr. Knipper was trying to get the revolver, which the bandit had recovered, and the next thing I knew both of them rolled off the platform to the tracks.

"I saw that they were still fighting desperately, and then I saw the bandit stick the revolver against Mr. Knipper's face. Three times he pulled the trigger, but the revolver was not discharged.

"I started to run along the platform, still screaming for help, and then Mr. Knipper crawled up. The robber had broken away from him and got away."

"Something was wrong with the revolver or I would be dead," said Knipper. "He pulled the trigger three times with the gun pointed at my face and then jammed it against my stomach and tried twice again.

"When he found he couldn't shoot he hit me with the muzzle of the gun.

I only had my fists, and I was nerved with a heavy overcoat, but I cut him open under one eye, anyway. I know, for I saw the blood. He dodged under the railroad platform."—Chicago Tribune.

FIGHT WITH A GAMECOCK.

Scrappy Bird Attacking Farmer Had to Be Knocked Out With Spade.

Benjamin Sherman, a farmer, living near Glen Gardner, N. J., came out second best in a battle with a game rooster.

The farmer early in the morning gathered three dozen eggs in a basket. As he came out of the coop Redney, a game cock with a reputation as a fighter, flew at his face and inflicted a deep gash just under the eye. Sherman was spurred again on the right side of the face, near the mouth.

He attempted to catch the bird, but it sank a spur in his right wrist. In making a swing with the basket of eggs he lost his balance and fell to the ground. The bird then spurred him in the right leg several times.

A farm hand who heard Sherman's cries ran to the poultry yard and knocked the bird over with a spade. Sherman took to his bed.

Skill as Pitcher Saves Him.

Charged by a wounded deer and unable to use his rifle, which had jammed, Clark Griffith, manager of the Washington American League team, saved himself from probable serious injury by his old time skill as a pitcher. Seizing a stone the size of a baseball, he threw and struck the animal on the head, felling it. He then killed it with the butt of his gun.

Oil for Hot Weather.

The lubrication of the automobile as a whole is most important during the hot and dusty season. The heat causes the oil to be very thin and to run off the bearings freely. This necessitates the frequent application of oil. A heavy grade of engine oil is best adapted to the motor during the summer months. This will cause much less trouble from the formation of carbon deposits due to the leakage of oil past the cylinder rings.

FEAR WILSON'S SPIRIT RETURN TO HIS CELL

Inmates of Baraga Jail Are Superstitious—Say Heard Talking in Wilson's Cell

The latest story to come from the Baraga county jail, since the suicide of Jerome Wilson, the big black who shot and killed an officer after he had attacked the Fish family at Powers, is that the prisoners in the jail are superstitious and that they are afraid the spirit of the departed murderer may return and hang around the jail where he killed himself.

The Mining Journal's Copper Country correspondent is authority for the story, and states that "several of the inmates of the Baraga county jail were there at the time of the suicide and the sheriff says a couple of the men are superstitious. They are afraid Wilson's spirit will return and they claim they have heard the man talking in the cell he occupied before his death, 'the sheriff said yesterday.' Wilson drank a cup of disinfectant used in the jail, and which caused his death in great agony. He was held at the Baraga jail on a charge of murder, for the killing of Sam McGregor at Nestoria.

Two Year Old Sees Bed Burning and Toddles Down Stairs to Tell Mother—Damage is Small Rare presence of mind displayed by Jane, the 21-2 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Jacobson, of Wolcott street this afternoon saved the life of the little one as fire consumed the bed in which she was sleeping.

The youngster was put to bed for her nap early in the afternoon and a half hour later as her mother was engaged in the basement, the little one came down and babbled something about "Daddy's coat." When the mother reached the room the bed was in flames.

The fire department was called and extinguished the fire before much damage was done other than to the room in which the fire started. No explanation for the fire can be given other than the child may have found a match and was playing with it.
