FRENZIED MOB RUNS AMUCK IN OHIO CITY—LOOTS, BURNS ENTIRE BUSINESS SECTION

One Person is Dead and One Hundred Injured at Youngstown, Ohio—Stores Looted of Clothing, U. S. Post Office Robbed and Burned By Rioters—Four Additional Companies Of State Troops Rushed to Scene Today.

(By Associated Press) YOUNGSTOWN, OHIO, JAN. 8.—GENERAL SPEAKS HAS RECEIVED AN APPEAL FROM CITIZENS OF STRUTHERS, A VILLAGE ON THE RIVER ACROSS FROM HERE TO SEND HELP AT ONCE AS RIOTS ARE FEARED. THE APPEAL STATES THAT A MOB HAS FORMED AND THE MEN ARE ENGAGED IN SHOOTING EACH OTHER UP IN THE STREETS. GEN. SPEAKS SENT TWO COMPANIES OF MILITIA TO STRUTHERS IN AUTOMOBILES. LED BY MAYOR STOWE, 200 CITIZENS OF THE VILLAGE HAVE ARMED THEMSELVES AND ARE MARCHING ON THE BRIDGE READY TO REPEL THE THREATENED INVASION OF STRUTHERS BY THE RIOTERS. A CHARGE OF FIFTY POUNDS OF DYNAMITE HAS BEEN PLACED BENEATH THE BRIDGE AND A WIRE STRUNG TO IT READY TO SET THE CHARGE OFF THE MINUTE THE MOB STARTS ACROSS. POSTERS TO THIS EFFECT HAVE BEEN PUT UP WARNING ALL TO STAY AWAY FROM THE STRUCTURE DAMAGE TO PROPERTY IN STRUTHERS HAS BEEN THREATENED.

Youngstown, Ohio, Jan. 8.—Fearing a new outbreak of rioting this morning when a crowd of strikers gathered on the hill opposite the Youngstown Sheet and Tube company's plant, Brig. Gen. John Speaks ordered out four Cleveland militia companies to the scene. Two companies marched into the plant to reinforce the guards there while the other two companies patrolled the hills to prevent the mob from organizing. Three hundred office employees were marooned in the plant where they spent the night for safety and to maintain fires. In last night's fire and riots one life at least is known to have been lost and ten blocks of the business section was burned with the loss estimated at a million dollars. Physicians who attended the injured stated today that 100 persons had been hurt. Practically all the business section was burned, including eight of the twenty saloons. Mob Jeered, Fight Starts. The trouble started yesterday afternoon when the men left the tube plant. When they left the doors of the plant they were met by 200 men and women who jeered at them. The mill guard fired over the men's heads and the mob returned the fire. The guards again fired and two women were hit. The crowd of rioters then turned and fired one building, entered a clothing store and cleaned it out. This seemingly maddened the mob and they started fire after fire and looted the stores. Pass Liquor From Hand to Hand. Liquor taken from the fired saloons was passed around from man to man. The police could not control the crowd and the sheriff admitted his inability to cope with the situation. Scenes of the wildest disorder were enacted and the fires mounted higher and higher until Wilson avenue, the city's main thoroughfare, was practically in flames. No Attempt to Halt Fires. There was absolutely no attempt made to stop the progress of the flames or to halt the taking of thousands of dollars worth of goods from stores. The mob went to the postoffice and burned it after first opening the safe and robbing it of its contents. In the streets there were many men and women standing around barrels of liquor from which the heads had been knocked and which was being passed out to everyone. Those on the outside crowded in to get some of the liquor. Rob Clothing Stores. Clothing stores fell prey to the frenzied mob and almost immediately men who entered and secured garments, began exchanging their old clothes for the new apparel. This exchange was made in the streets in full glare of the burning buildings which cast a brilliant light over the whole scene. Later a posse was formed and men could be seen everywhere with their pockets bulging out with loot. In half an hour after the formation of the posse, Wilson street was cleared almost entirely of the mob, but many men and women gathered on the hillsides, and others turned into alleys. These were later rounded up and driven to jail in East Youngstown and by auto to the Youngstown jails. Over 100 Arrested. By two o'clock this morning over 100 men had been rounded up and brought here. The majority of them were armed and many were under the influence of liquor.

RECEPTION WAS HELD FOR JAMES AGAINST "PORK"

Large Number Greet Miss Pierce at First Methodist Church. Hancock Congressman Frank James Set Foot Down on Building Plan. Washington, Jan. 8.—Congressman Frank James set a new precedent, it is believed, when he declared himself against "pork" for his own district and his home town of Hancock, in particular. Further than that, Mr. James took a slap at Senator William Alden Smith by pointing out in his statement, which has been mailed to all newspapers in the twelfth district, the fact that the senator has introduced a bill for construction of a federal building at Hancock, although it is well known there is little or no chance of its passage.

SETS TREE MARKERS ON ICE OF BIG BAY OVER A WEEK AGO

Joe Beauchamp, a liveryman of Nahma, is declared to have placed small spruce or fir trees as markers across the ice of Big Bay de Noc, between Nahma and Garden over a week ago, the ice at that time having been considered safe enough for travel on Big Bay. Ice between Escanaba and Stonington is as yet not heavy enough to bear the weight of horses or rigs but covers the width of the bay opposite here. Two local men, Peter and Omar Beaudoin, crossed from the municipal bath house to the Farmer's dock and found the ice in good condition yesterday. This is the first reported instance of crossing on the ice during the present winter at this point.

(By Associated Press) London, Jan. 8.—The Russian offensive is still occupying the most important place in the news of the war, with the capture of Czartoyak as the latest achievement reported. The Russian claim full possession of the village but the Austrians deny they have advanced any farther than the cemetery. The Austrian forces are apparently fighting desperately in this region in an effort to hold their position as a screen for Kavola and a line between the Austro-German armies in Galicia and thence northward in the region of Pinsk which is threatened with envelopment as a result of the Russian advances. The news regarding Czartoyak must be taken with reserve. A German report dated later than the Russian report claims that most of the lost ground has been retaken. The town may become a second Czernowick which is untenable to either side, apparently. On the west the Germans attacked the Lille-Armentieres railroad line, but according to official British reports have been repulsed. French and British heavy artillery were busy yesterday. CHARTER AMENDMENT READY FOR GOVERNOR

City Council Approves Amendment Providing Waterworks Purchase or Erection.

A reconstructed amendment, gone over carefully to obviate any chance of a reoccurrence of the previous mistake, and whereby the city is given the right to purchase or erect a waterworks system, was brought before members of the city council last night and adopted. The amendment was presented a month ago, but has been laid on the table for a thirty day period as required by law. City Clerk Linden will forward a copy of the amendment to Governor Ferris for his signature and approval. A special election will be held as soon after this as it can be arranged. Citizens voted on the measure a month ago and passed it, but the error in the compiler's number was discovered and it was necessary to go through the preliminary steps again.

The council also heard several other matters. The proposed fire department regulations were referred to the city attorney for his approval before taking final action at the next regular session of the board.

The matter of a complaint against payment of a scavenger tax on local property owned by C. Papineau of Stonington, was introduced by Ald. Smith. It is claimed the lots are vacant and that if rubbish was dumped on them it was done by some one else than the owners. The matter was referred to the finance committee for adjustment.

DISEASE HITS PINE

Blister Rust Threatens Big Economic Loss.

Recent Outbreaks in Eastern States Lead Federal Authorities to Issue Warning—Comes in on Imported Stock.

Washington, D. C.—The alarming character of the white pine blister rust and the economic loss which it threatens in the northeastern and western United States are sharply emphasized by four recent serious outbreaks on pine trees and currant bushes in Massachusetts and New York, says the United States department of agriculture. This disease was introduced on imported white pine nursery stock and first appeared at Geneva, N. Y., in 1906.

In 1909 extensive importations of diseased white pine nursery stock were located and destroyed in New York and other eastern states, and warnings were issued broadcast against further importation of white pine from Europe. In spite of these warnings importation continued even from the particular nursery in Germany which was definitely known to be the main source of disease, until finally in 1912 all such importation was stopped by federal action.

The white pine blister rust affects the eastern white pine, the western white pine, the sugar pine and indeed all of the so-called five-leaf pines, producing cankers on the stems and branches, killing young trees and maiming and disfiguring old ones. It also produces a leaf disease of currant and gooseberry bushes. The fungus causing the disease must live for a part of its life on pine trees and part of its life on currants and gooseberries. The disease cannot spread from one pine tree to another, but must pass first to currant bushes and then back to pine.

In Europe the disease has made the culture of American white pine impracticable in England, Denmark and Holland, and has seriously handicapped its cultivation in Germany. Since the trees which it attacks include those of the most important timber trees of the United States, the loss which this disease will produce if unchecked is very great. Fortunately the disease is not now known to be present west of Buffalo, N. Y., but if it is not checked in the eastern states its ultimate spread to the vast forests of the Rocky mountains and the Pacific coast is certain. The disease now occurs in three localities in New Hampshire, two in Vermont, ten in Massachusetts, two in Connecticut, five in New York, one in Pennsylvania and three in Ontario, Canada.

The disease could be controlled now by the destruction of the diseased white pines or the complete destruction of all currant and gooseberry bushes in the vicinity of infected pine trees. Whether or not this simple action can be accomplished depends upon the legal authority possessed by the various state horticultural inspectors concerned. If the inspector is not armed with authority to destroy either currant bushes or the diseased white pines without the consent of the owner, all efforts at control will be unavailing, as a single person by permitting diseased pines or currants to remain on his place can nullify the work of an entire community.

THUMB PRINT IS FORGED

Indian Merchant Takes Impression
and Uses it to Fabricate Evidence of Debt.

Calcutta, Ind.—The forgery of a blind man's thumb print has just been the subject of protracted litigation in the high court of Madras, for the first time, it is said, in legal history. A merchant asked for judgment against the blind man, supporting his application with a document signed with the alleged thumb print of the debtor.

The latter repudiated the paper, declaring that the plaintiff had traveled in a train with him, and while pretending to massage his fingers had taken his thumb impression and used it for fabricating the document. The court, after protracted hearings, found the blind debtor's story correct and dismissed the merchant's application
for judgment.

ARE WED UNDER WRONG NAME

Couple Go Through Ceremony Second Time When Husband Repents of His Lark.

Lamar, Mo.—An unusual marriage ceremony took place here a few days ago when Mr. and Mrs. Roy McCurdy were married for the second time,
though they never had been divorced.

Four years ago McCurdy came to this section and, for a lark, he says, assumed the name of Roy Roach. Under that name he courted and wedded Rosa Rector, a Lamar girl. A short time ago he admitted that his right name was McCurdy. The young woman's parents insisted that the marriage ceremony be pronounced again and that the right name be used.

Henry Elienski claims that it is not possible to drown a good swimmer,
and to prove the correctness of his theory and to win a bet he swam the icy waters of Hell Gate, New York, handicapped only with the following:
Fifteen feet of heavy iron chain
wound around his feet, steel shackles binding his feet together, a straight-jacket tightly buckled, a heavy canvas
bag pulled up to his neck and fastened and swimming trunks. The illustration shows Elienski standing in the snow ready for the fastening on of his handcuffs.

CHARMING VERSION OF THE RUSSIAN BLOUSE

brodered girle, collar and belt-ends of satin are smart decorative features.

Women of youthful figure will find particular pleasure in wearing this Russian blouse of forest green broadcloth, with a self-girdle trimmed with rope silk and bead embroidery. The front and back are in panel effect, while the sides are pointed. Provision is made for a lower straight edge, however. A collar of heavy satin and streamers of the same material are also attractive features of the costume. In average size, 4 1/2 yards 54-inch material and 3/4 yard 48-inch satin are required for the blouse and skirt.

In order that the cutting may be done with the greatest economy, yet in such a way that the lines of the blouse will be retained, it is well to study the cutting guide carefully. First fold the material, then along the lengthwise fold
place the collar, as shown in the diagram. Opposite the collar, on a lengthwise thread, arrange the front section,
and to the right of the front place the sleeve. The back is laid on a lengthwise fold of material, as is also the belt, but the belt is cut crosswise. Lay the cuff and yoke on a lengthwise thread.

If desired, the front ends of the wide belt may be made of contrasting material from 3/4 inch forward of slot perforations. The small "o" perforations about the neck are for the open neck effect. There are also small "o" perforations along the lower edge of the blouse to determine the shape that may be preferred, both round and pointed outlines being favored.

The silk and bead embroidery adds considerably to the beauty of the blouse
and can be used on serge as well as broadcloth. The model is one of the Pictorial Review Blouse No. 6449. An emblouse has been presented.

FOLD OF 54 INCH MATERIAL WITH NAP Patented April 30, 1907

The monument to the cat that saved Lieutenant Lloyd from perishing from cold, which it is proposed to erect at Newport castle, will not be the only monument commemorating the devotion of a dumb animal. Crouched at the feet of William the Silent on his tomb at Delft lies an exquisitely chiseled effigy of a spaniel. This dog saved his master's life by scratching his face and barking when, in a night attack on the camp before Mons, a band of Spanish soldiers were on the point of entering his tent. He and all his guard were fast asleep, and there was just time for the prince, after the spaniel had roused him, to make his escape through the darkness. "To his dying day," relates Motley, "William ever afterward kept a spaniel of the same race in his bed chamber."

Nickel has become one of the precious metals in Europe. The Germans have been gathering all the nickel coins available in Belgium and in Germany for use in the manufacture of war materials. As a result the federal council of the German empire has passed a bill to coin five-pennig pieces of zinc instead of nickel as heretofore. In Belgium the German governor general has ordered all the 10 to 25 centime coins cast in zinc instead of nickel as heretofore. The zinc coins are not made necessarily legal tender for amounts above five francs. The new coin is cast with an image of a lion surrounded by a laurel wreath on the obverse, with the word Belgium in French and Flemish on the reverse.

How do insects smell? Naturalists are agreed that they are keenly sensitive to certain odors, but they differ widely as to the organs with which they do it. The usual opinion has been that their antennae serve them as do our noses. But Dr. N. E. McInoo of the Washington bureau of entomology points out that those which have no antennae smell equally as well as those which have. He suggests that certain pores at the bases of the wings and legs are their organs of smell, for when these are covered with glue or vaseline they react to perfumes only very slowly.

California convicts are taking correspondence courses from a university there, to qualify them as teachers. If the present style of penology keeps up a convict, after a term in any of our up-to-date prisons, will come out not only a good man, but also a scholar, a gentleman and a general ornament to society, and state prisons will become formidable rivals to colleges and finishing institutions.

MISS BJURSTEDT VS. MRS. BUNDY

Tennis Experts Urge Series Between Women Stars.

HAVE MET THREE TIMES.

In First Match Miss Bjurstedt Won Easily, but in Second and Third Meeting Mrs. Bundy Won Handily. Matches Would Attract.

There are any number of lawn tennis enthusiasts here in the east who will never be satisfied until they see a series of matches on the courts between Mrs. Thomas C. Bundy, the former May Sutton of California, and Miss Molla Bjurstedt of Christiania, Norway, the national lawn tennis champion of 1915.

There was such a meeting between these two great players in California during the last month, and Mrs. Bundy, who formerly held the national and world's championships, was victorious in two out of three matches played on the asphalt courts of the Pacific coast. At the first meeting Miss Bjurstedt won at 10-8, 6-2, and a few days later Mrs. Bundy won by a score of 6-1, 6-1. The third match resulted in a victory for the California girl, who vanquished the Norwegian at 6-1, 1-6, 6-2.

The comparison is interesting. Mrs. Bundy won a total of two matches, four sets and thirty-five games, while Miss Bjurstedt carried off one match, three sets and thirty-two games, figures that show how evenly matched they are.

Mrs. Bundy was not ranked by the national association this year, owing to "insufficient data," and rightly so, it seems, whereas Miss Bjurstedt, who made almost a clean sweep of the country in winning a dozen championships, was ranked at No. 1.

It is eleven years since Miss Sutton was carrying all before her, and after she had retired, as Mrs. Bundy, her name became only a memory of former greatness on the courts. Now championship came and went, but it was not until the furor created by the sensational playing of Miss Bjurstedt, the first foreigner to win the American title, arose that Mrs. Bundy emerged from obscurity and began to appear in California tournaments.

Miss Mary Browne, who won the title in 1912, 1913 and 1914, was another of the great California players who were lured from retirement by the success of the Norwegian girl, but she was forced to lower her colors to Miss Bjurstedt in a series of special matches. Only Mrs. Bundy remained to dispute the new champion's sway, and few believed she could regain her former standing.

Always known as one of the hardest hitters among women lawn tennis players, Mrs. Bundy soon proved that she was fully as strong as ever, either off the ground or overhead, and won all the tournaments in which she appeared. Then the matches with Miss Bjurstedt were arranged, resulting in Mrs. Bundy's victory.

But this does not mean that the former May Sutton is the Norwegian girl's superior at the game. Miss Bjurstedt has undergone an unusually strenuous season on the courts, and the fast, unyielding surface of the asphalt whereon the matches with Mrs. Bundy were played must have proved more or less of a handicap.

It is because of this that many persons in the east are anxious to see the present and the former champion meet on grass courts next season and settle the questions of supremacy once and for all time. And it is not beyond the range of possibility that the two will oppose each other in the next national championship for women in June.

The Greatest Railroad Story Written in a Decade, and by the Man Best Qualified to Produce It

THE GIRL AND THE GAME

A Story of Mountain Railroad Life

By FRANK H. SPEARMAN

Frank Spearman wrote "Whispering Smith," undoubtedly the best railroad serial story ever printed in this country. Good as that was, Mr. Spearman pronounces "The Girl and the Game" a much better piece of work. This story is a remarkable revelation of the subject of railroads and finance, and into it have been woven all the elements of vital interest—love, adventure, intrigue, envy, hate, heroism and villainy. He explains "high society," he reveals social standards of the rich; he lays bare the moral codes of railroad financiers; he outlines the financial trickery of Wall Street—the manipulation of railroad stocks; he portrays the battle of a young girl enmeshed in the web of American business.

This unusual story has been put into motion pictures, and in addition to reading if you can see the hundreds of thrilling incidents pictured on the screen with fearless HELEN HOLMES as the heroine. You will miss the BEST STORY of its kind of a lifetime if you fail to read it in these columns.

A Thrill in Every Paragraph

That is what that most capable of all writers of railroad stories, Frank H. Spearman, has put into his latest and best work.

The Girl and the Game

A Story of Mountain Railroad Life.

It is a story of a young girl's struggle for success in the face of adversity—the revelation of Wall Street's control of America's railroad systems—the explanation of so-called "high society" with its pampered daughters, its financial trickery, its defeats and its victories. Never before has such an interesting subject been presented in a newspaper serial. You can read this remarkable story in these columns, and also see every thrilling incident pictured in movie theaters.

MEN KILL 150 RATTLES

Threshing Crew in Kansas is Kept Busy After the First One is Found.

Wakeeney, Kan.—There are fewer rattlesnakes in Trego county today than there were the middle of the week, as a threshing crew working near this city killed 150 snakes in a few minutes near where they were working recently.

A large rattler was observed by one of the men lying in a low place at the mouth of a hole. He was pulled out and killed and with him six more, and then others.

For more than a half hour the men worked hard killing snakes, and when there were no more in sight tails were counted and 150 had been killed. The largest one measured six feet and four inches and he had an even dozen rattles.

LEFT TO DIE AS TIDE RISES

Boy Lashed to Piling by Burglars in New Jersey is Rescued Just in Time.

Atlantic City, N. J.—Four negro burglars caught at work early the other morning by John Streeper, seventeen, took him to a bridge connecting Venice Park with the westerly side of the city, lashed him fast to the piling and left him to drown or freeze. The tide had risen to his neck when he was rescued by Chief Davis.

He was taken to a hospital where he is recovering. His father started out with a gun loaded with buckshot to hunt the negroes.
