The KITCHEN CABINET

To be a good cook means the knowledge of all fruits, herbs, balms, and spices and of all that is healing and sweet in groves and savory meats—John Ruskin.

SEASONABLE DISHES.

On these cold winter nights when a hot soup is most acceptable, the cheap onion soup is easily made and always appetizing.

Onion Soup.—To four good sized onions, chopped very fine, add two thin slices of bacon; cook slowly until the onions are soft and the bacon a light brown. Add two cupsfuls of cold water and let come to a boil. Mash the onions with a spoon, add to the soup one and a half cupsfuls of rich milk; season well with salt, pepper and a dash of cayenne. Thicken with a tablespoonful of flour mixed with a little milk, cook until the flour has time to be well cooked.

Fruit Roly-Poly.—To two cupsfuls of flour add a quarter of a teaspoonful of salt, four teaspoonfuls of baking powder and a tablespoonful of shortening. Mix with cold water to a consistency to roll out thin. Take a cupful of canned peaches or pineapple, chopped, or any fresh fruit, spread the fruit on the rolled out crust and sprinkle with sugar, roll up as a jelly-roll and put into a deep round pan, well greased with butter. Add a half cupful of sugar with a tablespoonful of butter, cover with boiling water and put into the oven to bake until brown. The boiling water, sugar and butter make a sauce. Serve hot.

Roast Goose With Russian Stuffing.—Singe, draw and wash the goose in strong soda water, rinsing and wiping well. Dredge with flour and stuff with two cupsfuls of tart apples, greenings or baidwins, and one cupful of raisins. This is a stuffing which will be delicious and quite different.

Jellied Prunes.—Cook a third of a pound of prunes until soft; remove the stones and cut the prunes in pieces. Soak half a box of gelatin in a half cupful of cold water and add to a pint of the sirup in which the prunes were cooked. Add a cupful of sugar, a fourth of a cupful of lemon juice and the prunes. Mold and chill. Serve plain or with whipped cream.

Celery cooked until tender and the cream in which it is cooked with butter and flour added to make a white sauce is a vegetable which is always liked.

WASTE IN THE HOUSEHOLD

Buy the Nonbreakable Kind of Utensils and Then See That They Are Well Cared For.

Brooms, scrubbing brushes and soap are wasted needlessly. Brooms should be hung by the handle or rested on the handle. Scrubbing brushes should be put to dry with the bristles down. Soap should be kept in a wire dish to prevent dissolution by the water. Pastry brushes and grease brushes should be washed and rinsed as soon as they are used, and put to dry. Old tablecloths should be cut into squares and hemmed to use over the table or as screens for bread, buns or when cooling cakes. They also make exceedingly nice window or silver cloths. Save the salt and flour bags and use them for greens, lettuce and parsley that are to be put on the ice.

Furnish your kitchen, if you wish to be truly economical, with nonbreakable ware plates in your refrigerator instead of stoneware, granite mixing bowls instead of the old-fashioned yellow earthen bowls and tin cups for measuring purposes.—Good House Keeping Magazine.

Tasty Cutlets. Boil half a pound of macaroni for half an hour in salted water, strain and cut into inch lengths. Have ready half a pound of finely chopped veal. Melt in a small stewpan one ounce of butter and a tablespoonful of flour, add a teaspoonful of milk, pepper and salt, and powdered mace to taste. Cook all together for a few moments, stirring constantly; add the beaten yolk of an egg, with the macaroni and veal. Stir all together and simmer for a few moments. Pour on to a flat buttered dish, and when cold cut into neat cutlets, flour well, dip into egg and breadcrumbs, and fry in fat. Drain well, and serve with a garnish of broiled tomatoes.

Will you please print a story of the life of Luther Burbank, the naturalist?

Luther Burbank, naturalist and the originator of many new fruits and flowers, was born in Lancaster, Mass., March 7, 1849, the son of Samuel W. and Olive (Ross) Burbank. His boyhood was spent on a farm, and his education was acquired at the Lancaster academy. He was always devoted to the study of nature, especially of plant life, in which he made many experiments, and in 1875, when but twenty-six years old, he removed to Santa Rosa, Cal., where he established experimental farms, which he has carried on ever since.

He is the originator of the Burbank potato, numerous rapid growing and edible thornless cactuses, various new varieties of apples and plums, stoneless prunes and a multitude of new peaches, nuts, berries and other valuable trees, flowers, grain, grasses and vegetables. The Carnegie Institute granted him an annual appropriation of $10,000 for five years to insure the undisturbed continuance of his work.

I have an old violin in my possession marked as follows: Antonius Stradivarius, Cremonensis, Faciebat, Anno 1705, the name being in print, but the "05" written in ink. What is the translation of the words and what is the value of the instrument?

The translation is "Anthony Stradivarius, Cremona, manufactured in the year 1705." The value of the instrument will depend upon its tone. There were many instruments made by Stradivarius, but not all of them valuable.

What and where are the Dardanelles?

Dardanelles is a narrow passage, which connects the sea of Marmora with the Aegean sea, and separates Europe from Asia. It is about forty-seven miles long and from three to four miles broad. The name Dardanelles is derived from the ancient city of Dardanus, which formerly occupied the site of the present fortifications at Abydos, on the Asiatic shore, and was founded by Dardanus, the ancestor of Priam and the mythical founder of ancient Troy. The name Dardanelles is also applied to the fortifications that protect the strait at its narrowest point and command the entrance to the sea of Marmora.

THE 'INSIDE' STORY.

ally adding to the volume and intensity of this thought as he and his crusaders traveled from neutral country to neutral country, on the edge of the zone of war, or even in the zone itself.

Whether this plan would have succeeded under favorable circumstances can't be stated, because the peace delegates failed to concentrate on thoughts of peace. The Oscar II's voyage from New York to Christiania was horrible, not so much because of the incessant quarreling as on account of the atmosphere of suspicion and malice after the first day or two out.

Ford Takes to Cabin
Ford speedily took to his cabin and for more than half the trip was hardly seen by any but his closest advisors. He was ill, it was stated. The nature of the illness never was made clear. Several of the correspondents whom the expedition's managing committee was trying to separate from the party did see the patient for a few minutes the night before the Oscar II's arrival at Christiania. It is true that he looked like a sick man then, but his malady seemed rather of the spirit than the body.

Ford moved and spoke like a person in a semi-trance. He seemed almost completely broken. Early in the voyage he declared that squabbling among the peace delegates was a small matter, that disagreements were to be expected in any community, and that when the party landed at Christiania these troubles would quickly disappear. On this night however, his manner suggested that he realized the fundamental weakness of his organization—that he had lost hope.

While Ford admitted that based his early hopes only on faith, Mme. Rosika Schwimmer declared she had written assurances from officials of all the neutral European governments that they would welcome such an effort as the one undertaken by Ford and from men in high positions at the chancelleries of certain of the warring nations "on both sides" that they were at least not unfriendly to the plan.

The second day of the party's stay in Christiania Premier Knudsen of Norway denied the truth of her statement. Numerous cables received in Christiania from Mme. Schwimmer addressed to peace organizations and discussing arrangements for the Ford party's reception and for cooperation in peace work, still lay in the Christiania telegraph office because there were no such organizations to deliver them to. Those who opposed Mme. Schwimmer assert that she had thus tried to deceive Ford concerning the strength of peace sentiment in Scandinavia.

A Comedy of Errors
If the Ford expedition had failed with dignity it would not have been a failure. It would have been the highest spot in the history of altruistic endeavor since the crucifixion. No body can appreciate what actually happened who has not actually been with the expedition from the first.

No peace delegate is bold enough to deny that the expedition has been a succession of errors but a few still are hopeful enough to profess a belief that these errors may yet be retrieved.

At present the expedition is led by Gaston Plantiff, Ford's personal representative, a fat, jolly, red-faced general salesman of automobiles who knows all about Broadway but admits he hasn't the remotest idea of any peace plan's meaning but was left by "the old man" to do his best and means to do it—whatever it is.

"Gets-It" for Corns, SURE as Sunrise!

Any Corn, With "Gets-It" on It, Is an Absolute "Goner!"

Yes, it's the simplest thing in the world to get rid of a corn—when you use "Gets-It," the world's greatest corn-remover. Really, it's almost a pleasure to have corns just to see

"Gets-It" Puts Your Feet in Clover.
The corns come off with "Gets-It." It just loosens the corn from the true flesh, easily, and then makes it come "clean off." 48 hours ends corns for keeps. It makes the use of tape, corn-squeezing bandages, irritating salves, knives, scissors, and razors really look ridiculous. Get rid of those corns quickly, surely, painlessly,—just easily,—with "Gets-It." For warts and bunions, too. It's the 20th century way.

"Gets-It" is sold by all druggists, 25c a bottle, or sent direct by E. Lawrence & Co., Chicago.

ANTIQUITY OF THE HOG.

The two most important and most intimately associated products of Indiana are corn and hogs. A French statistician with a newly sharpened pencil and sufficient leisure once figured out that the product of a single sow with only six young at a time will amount in ten generations to about 6,500,000. Of course, he left hog cholera and other diseases out of the calculation. The Chinese claim to have bred and domesticated the hog 4,000 years before the Christian era. The ancient Egyptians know the hog, and this animal is depicted on their monuments. The use of the meat of the hog was prohibited by the Jews, as it was considered that in hot countries it produced skin diseases, says Indianapolis News. The Moslems under Mohammedan law are also prohibited from using pork. The hog was unknown in America until introduced from Europe by the early navigators. In the South American forests are great droves of wild hogs, the descendants of hogs brought over by the Spaniards. When it is taken into account that the ordinary female swine will produce twice every year, and usually eight to twelve at a birth, one cannot help but wonder that the market price should be as great as it is.

A portable nigger hair is used in building holes in concrete, brick or stone or for removing scales, paint or rust from tubes or plates, has recently been devised which uses a magnetic clutch to obtain the striking action. The apparatus consists of a hollow sleeve about which is the magnet winding; the ends of the sleeve form the poles of the magnet. A loose plunger operates within the sleeve. The center of the sleeves is largely cut away and the plunger normally occupies a position spanning this center opening. By means of a motor the sleeve is reciprocated, thereby throwing the plunger back and forth by means of the magnetic coupling of the two.

 Quibbler—A sort of "second-story man," eh?

Pete says:

"When I fill my pipe with rich, sweet, mellow NIGGER HAIR I know I'm smokin' real tobacco. I don't find any loose, hard stems in this good Long Cut—nothing but long, curly strands of sweet, clean tobacco.

"I keep going all day long with NIGGER HAIR—pipeful after pipeful of it—an' I get more good smokes out of every package of NIGGER HAIR than I ever got out of any other tobacco."

NIGGER HAIR
 Long Cut Tobacco

NIGGER HAIR has been the favorite tobacco of experienced smokers for generations. Careful ageing and blending of mild Burley leaf gives NIGGER HAIR pleasing richness, sweetness and mellowness—cutting it into long, curly shreds makes it slow-burning and cool smoking. The brand owes its name to that distinctive cut.

NEW AUTOMATIC STOP DEVICE, IT IS CLAIMED, CHECKS TRAIN'S SPEED AT ONCE.

Men of the Rail Will Recognize the Simplicity of Its Construction and Method of Working—Electricity is Employed.

It is claimed that a train going 60 miles an hour can be stopped within 2,000 feet by means of an apparatus now being tested on an American railroad. This apparatus is intended to be used in connection with a double-track block system, and automatically sets the brakes and stops the train at the entrance to a block if the block is not clear. The track part of the apparatus consists of a steel ramp 180 feet long supported on the ends of the ties at a distance of 22 inches from the rail. This ramp slopes each way from the center, the center being three inches higher than the ends. Each locomotive operating on this section of the road is equipped with a contact shoe that engages the ramp and is mounted on the lower end of a vertical rod, the whole being supported on the crosshead guides. As the locomotive passes the ramp this shoe raises three inches. The shoe operates a piston and through this a pneumatic mechanism that closes the throttle and sets the brakes if the rear end of the train is not clear.

THE FRENCH HOME

There the Servant Is Like a Member of the Family.

IMPORTANCE OF THE NURSE

She is the Real and Rational Ruler of the Turbulent Children Who, as a General Rule, Are Spoiled by Their Too Indulgent Parents.

The French people have not, so far produced a spiritually servile class. The occupation most dangerous to the soul—that of personal service—has not resulted for the people of France in flunkeyism on the one hand and superior airs on the other.

There is something in the poise and motion of French working girls, in their fearless eyes and vibrant voices, that suggests a fluid and mobile social structure which deepens the impression of rigidity in the life across the channel and beyond the Rhine. French people of the more favored classes are never heard bemoaning the decay of a "proper" servant class. On the contrary, if you speak to them of the striking contrast between the French proletariat and that of other countries—their so natural and gay, the others so humble or so sullen or both—they instantly expand with pride. "Exactly!" they exclaim. "Our brave French people! Just as good as monsieur, as madame, but also no better!"

The status of the French domestic derives in part at least from the weight of responsibility under which she serves. For her mistress is neither a careless housekeeper nor an indifferent mother. It is precisely because the Frenchwoman loves her children so ardently, so romantically, one might say, and because her quick, intelligent grasp of material situations makes her an excellent economist at home that she requires and establishes in the household not a common servant, not a "mother's helper," but a woman of intelligence and character, a woman often young and untried, but with the true ring, who is or soon becomes capable of assuming direct responsibility for the care of the children and the household—a woman who deserves and receives the consideration due to the head of an important department in the management of the family life.

French children are notoriously spoiled. The little monarchs are kept on a pedestal well into the age of moral responsibility. Father, mother, all the older relatives, vie with one another in admiring and indulging them. With this understanding of the term and scope of the child's autocratic reign, one can afford to laugh at turbulent scenes in which he puts to rout every adult in the house except his bonnie. At the mere sight of her the little desperado begins to quiet down. He is in the presence of the only person who has, so far, exercised any rational authority over him, the person before whom he feels the beginnings of shame at doing wrong.

The bonnie is the most important person in the family group, so far as its material well-being is concerned. And morally, spiritually, she is a true member of the family. It is not for nothing trically charged, while if it is electrically charged, magnets are energized that hold the mechanism and prevent it from operating. The control consists of electrical connections so arranged that the rear end of the ramp is charged only when the block is clear. The forward end is always charged, so that trains are not interfered with when backing.—Popular Mechanics.

Novel Railroad Bridge.
 A bridge that is to be built for the Holland government railroad over the Serajoo river in Java has been made complete in the shops in Holland and so carefully has this been done that no field work will be required in erecting the steel structure other than that of connecting the members, says Popular Mechanics. The bridge site is far from any kind of shop facilities, and to make sure that the structure would go together properly it was first erected as carefully as if on its permanent location, in the yards of the manufacturing company in Holland. Following this it was taken down and is to be shipped by steamer to Java. The bridge is of unusual design, consisting of three arched spans of steel connecting with short, straight trusses over the piers. It has a total length of 608 feet 10 inches and weighs 580 tons. It is designed to carry a single track railroad having a gauge of three and one-half feet.

Rush for Locomotives.
 The call for locomotives the present year is very large. American roads for the first ten months of this year ordered 940 and the rate of orders is increasing, indicating that the domestic call will exceed 1,000. The foreign orders for ten months are 1,551. Word has gone out to the railroads that if they will need new equipment they had best reserve space now, as the prospect is the shops will be fully occupied later. Orders have been taken from Cuba, Spain and Greece, and it is expected that other neutral countries that have thought of Germany will send orders to this country.

that the word "bonne" means "good" as well as "nurse."

It may be that the prevailing good relation between masters and servants in France has a very simple explanation—single and yet profound. It may be that it springs at bottom from the warm affections of the people. They cannot live without love and sentiment. Better than any other people they know how to keep alive the romance of friendship, of love and even of that inherently bad relation, master and slave.

The French servant who has no family ties—and often the one who has—throws her whole heart and soul into the family life of her master and mistress.

She must love—she must serve—she must be loved. And the French master and mistress understand. Each one idealizes the sentiments of the other. In a word, the romance of the situation grips them all. French literature is crowded with examples of mistress and servant whose intimacy shows no trace of condescension on the one side or of servility on the others.—J. Frances Cooke in New Republic.

Art at Home.
 Believe me, if we want art to begin at home, as it must, we must clear our houses of troublesome superfluities that are forever in our way, conventional comforts that are not real comforts and do but make work for servants and doctors. If you want a gold rule that will fit everybody this is it: "Have nothing in your houses that you do not know to be useful or believe to be beautiful."—William Morris.

A Precious Mosaic.
 For ages upon ages happiness has been represented as a huge precious stone—impossible to find and which people seek for hopelessly. It is not so. Happiness is a mosaic composed of a thousand little stones, which separately and of themselves have little value, but which united with art form a beautiful design. Mme. de Girardin.

GERMAN STATEMENT

tenegrins in their last stand on Mount Lovcen, the "Gibraltar of the Adriatic," according to a semi-official statement given out here today, describing the Montenegrins' surrender.

Five hundred Italians were among the first to flee when the Austrians charged the heights, said the statement, which gave the first intimation of the presence of Italians in Montenegro.

Hostilities in Montenegro ceased on Jan. 17, according to the statement, Czar Urged Serbs to Fight?

Telegraphing from Budapest the correspondent of the Tagblatt says that according to a Sofia dispatch two letters and one telegram signed by the Russian emperor were found among the archives of the Serbian Crown Prince Alexander which were recently captured by the Bulgarians.

All the documents were dated just before the outbreak of the war.

In the telegram Emperor Nicholas is said to have instructed the Serbians to reject the Austro-Hungarian ultimatum because Russia was ready to support Serbia with force of arms.

In one of the letters the Russian emperor is declared to have pointed out the advantages Serbia would derive in following Russia's orders. His majesty added that Russia's armed power was being held in readiness and he urged Serbia to resist to the last drop of blood.

No Comment in London

London, Jan. 27.—Diplomatic circles in London showed little surprise at the Berlin Tageblatt's publication of the correspondence between the Russian emperor and Crown Prince Alexander of Serbia, but declined to comment until convinced of the authenticity of the letters and telegram.

The Russian embassy stated that the Russian Orange Book embraced all the correspondence of which it had knowledge.

It is pointed out by some of the diplomats that actual events prove that there was no conspiracy between Russia and Serbia, as Serbia gave way completely to the Austrian demands for the dissolution of the Narodni Ochrana, the Serbian political society, and stood out only against the clauses in the Austrian ultimatum which threatened the sovereignty to Serbia.

THE DELFT

James Stevens, the leading baritone with the de Koven Opera Company, which will be seen here in "Robin Hood" at the Delft Sunday night, Jan. 30, was surprised in Seattle last season to find a stranger waiting for him at the stage door. He was greeted with the remark: "I knew you were a hero in real life and now I find you playing one on the stage." The story follows:
Stevens is the proud possessor of a ranch near Medford, Oregon, on which he spends his vacations. One day while prowling through the woods, he was attracted by a shot and the scream of a mountain lion. He hurried in the direction in time to see the wounded beast about to spring upon a hunter, who was vainly snapping his magazine rifle, evidently having neglected to load it to its capacity. As the lion sprang through the air, Stevens brought him down with a well-directed shot, thereby saving the hunter's life.

He proved to be a Mr. Ferris of Sacramento and left immediately for his home. Stevens had not seen him since, until he was found singing Little John in "Robin Hood."
