It promotes efficiency in the same sense as the school-house does, teaching something that everyone ought to know. Knowledge is not spread by books alone. The art of communication assumes many forms. A pageant is a municipal invigorant. Through it a community takes account of itself, comprehends itself more fully, can better build ideas. The pageant is also the

RIFLE HAS RECORD

Famous Relic Now in the National Museum.

Derringer Rifle Used by Davy Crockett and in the Graves-Cilley Duel is Still in Excellent Condition.

Washington, D. C.—Among the thousands of relics in the United States National museum at Washington, there are few objects more replete with historical interest than a certain Derringer rifle, catalogue No. 9,509. This rifle was used by Col. David Crockett of Alamo fame, and was also the weapon fired by Hon. William J. Graves in the duel with Hon. Jonathan Cilley, resulting the death of the latter. It was made about a hundred years ago, and the curator of the division of technology says it is an exceedingly well-made and finely finished gun, being still in excellent condition.

Col. Wright Rives, U. S. A., who has deposited the rifle in the museum, states that it was made for his father, John Cook Rives, by Henry Derringer. John C. Rives was one of the publishers of the Congressional Globe, now the Congressional Record, and knew many congressmen, several of whom he was accustomed to take out for rifle practice to a field, sometimes used for horse racing, near where the corner of Fourteenth street and Park road now intersect. Among them was David Crockett, pioneer, hunter, soldier and congressman from 1827-31, and 1833-35, who later lost his life at the Alamo in the Texas struggle for freedom.

Crockett seemed particularly to like this rifle and often joined the shooting parties to keep himself in practice. The circumstances which led to the fatal duel between Messrs. Graves and Cilley of the house of representatives, in which this rifle figured so conspicuously, were quite unusual and more or less complicated. The report of the investigating committee appointed by the house, covers the story of this duel well; an abstract of it taken from "Notes on Duels and Duelling," by Lorenzo Sabine, follows:

On February 12, 1838, Henry A. Wise of Virginia presented to the house a copy of the New York Courier and Enquirer, charging a member of congress with corruption, and asked for an investigation of the charge. Mr. Wise stated that the author of the article was vouched for by the editor of the paper, and that the house was called upon to defend its honor. Jonathan Cilley, member from Maine, opposed the resolution, and in debate said that if it was the same editor who once made charges against a certain institution, and later received facilities amounting to $52,000 from the same institution, which he then gave his hearty support, he did not think the recent charges were entitled to much credit in an American congress. Mr. Cilley was in order; he was quoting a published house committee report on the subject, but a few days later the editor of the paper, Col. James Watson Webb, addressed a note to him asking if he were the editor referred to, and, if so, demanding an explanation.

This note was directly responsible for the duel between Mr. Cilley and William J. Graves of Kentucky, who undertook its delivery on the floor of the house for his friend, Colonel Webb. Mr. Cilley refused to receive the note, because he chose to be drawn into no controversy with Colonel Webb, stating that by so doing he meant no disrespect to the bearer; but he refused to affirm or deny anything in regard to Colonel Webb's character. Mr. Graves was not satisfied, however, and several notes between them were exchanged, with the result that Mr. Graves finally challenged Mr. Cilley because he would not say whether he nursery of patriotism. Always it encourages a love of home and pride in local history and traditions. The pageant exalts the factors of business, and embarks the record of man's progress from darkness to light.

Has Salutary Influence From the sociological standpoint, the salutary influence of the pageant given a cohesiveness to community life. Humanity is touched at many points. It tends to fuse racial elements. Its influence is toward the center, against all forces tending to pull apart. It cements the sympathies by which communities have advanced from semi-barbaric state to modern civilization and its refined influence.

Likewise, a pageant is a moral agent. It exalts labor and industry, perseverance, self-sacrifice, education and similar virtues. Local pride is stirred; makes the whole neighborhood, for a day at least, spruce up and put on its best behavior. It is a constructive, progressive factor which kindles a new fire on the community hearth. Because it is cosmopolitan, broad and tolerant, it leaves a pleasing glow of pleasure that something has been done worth while and that its helpful influence will last.

Urges Co-Operation Because of the above reasons, the Escanaba Public Schools ask the hearty co-operation of all Escanaba people in the Pageant of Escanaba which will be given near the close of the present school year.

refused the note on the grounds of any personal exception to Colonel Webb as a gentleman and a man of honor.

Naturally Mr. Cilley denied Mr. Graves the right to demand an absolute "yes" or "no" answer, and accepted the challenge.

The duel was scheduled for 3 p. m., on February 24, 1838, and the two parties met near the boundary line of the District, on the Marlborough road. Mr. Cilley fired first, and Mr. Graves a second or two after him, but both missed. Efforts to adjust the matter were futile and the parties resumed their positions and exchanged shots again, also without effect. Still being unable to agree after further argument, they went to their positions the third time. This time they fired very nearly together. Mr. Cilley was shot through the body and expired a few minutes later.

The congressional committee found Mr. Graves guilty of a breach of privileges in the house, but held that Mr. Cilley had remained within his rights. They recommended the expulsion of Mr. Graves from the house, and that the seconds and friends be censured.

(By Samuel G. Dixon) Penna. Health Commissioner. With the flock of wild geese flying northward the patent medicine and home remedy manufacturers seem inspired anew and there follows a wave of spring tonic advertisements.

The tonic which the vast majority of individuals need at this period of the year is fresh air, exercise and simpler diet. Owing to weather conditions many of our activities are restricted in the winter time. There is also a tendency to eat excessively of meat and fatty foods. As a result, when the spring arrives with its warm days, many of us are like a furnace that has been so choked with fuel that it doesn't draw well.

You cannot buy relief from these conditions at a dollar a bottle. Medicine will not make up for over eating, undid exercising. The death rate which almost invariably prevails at this season of the year from pneu-

BIG FIRE BURNS TWO NEW YORK BUILDINGS

Three Alarms Are Turned In—Fifteen Story Building Damaged, But Saved

New York, April 3.—A serious fire broke out in the downtown district early this afternoon. At 2:09 o'clock it had destroyed two five story buildings on Beekman St. occupied by paper concerns and had spread to an old fifteen story sky scraper at the corner of Nassau and Beekman Sts. and was threatening the structure. Three alarms were turned in.

Fire department officials said at 2:30 that the fire was under control and would be confined to the two destroyed buildings, with some damage to the fifteen story building. The damage is estimated at $200,000.

OSBORNE TRIAL TODAY

(By United Press)

White Plains, N. Y.—April 3.—Thomas Mott Osborne, millionaire sociologist and warden-in-charge of Sing Sing penitentiary, is scheduled to be tried in state supreme court here today on an indictment charging him with mismanagement of the prison. Osborne recently was acquitted on the other indictment charging him with perjury. It was alleged he misstated facts concerning the morality of prisoners, while under oath. Osborne's friends say the "gang" is trying to "get" Osborne "because he killed the prison graft and cleaned things up." District Attorney Weeks refutes the statement.

THIS DOG PAYS HIS DEBT

Warns Man Who Rescued Him From Dogcatcher of a Fire in the House.

Lenox, Ia.—Two months ago when the dogcatcher was leading Sport, a homeless black and tan dog, to his death, W. F. Steinkamp, a merchant here, intervened. He paid the tax on Sport and installed the erstwhile orphan dog as a pet of the Steinkamp household.

Early in the morning one day Sport paid the debt. During the night the Steinkamp home caught fire and the flames spread rapidly. A short time after midnight Mr. Steinkamp was awakened by Sport's frantic barking. He shouted to the dog to be quiet, but Sport would not be stilled. Then Mr. Steinkamp arose to see what was wrong.

As he opened his bedroom door a burst of flames and smoke met him. He had scarcely time to save himself and his three small children before the walls of the house crashed in.

Lenox residents are planning to buy Sport a collar with a real hero medal attached.

IS MAROONED OVER MONTH

Farmer, on Island, Had Sack of Flour and Package of Oatmeal, but Went Crazy.

Clayoquot, B. C.—Marooned for 24 days on a small island in the Pacific ocean is the experience of Everett Fitzpatrick, a rancher of Flores island, according to word received here. He left Ahousat, where he had purchased provisions, alone in a canoe, and when near a small uninhabited island he was caught in a squall and his canoe was swamped.

Fitzpatrick managed to save a sack of flour, a package of oatmeal and a few matches. A case of coal oil also was washed ashore. On these provisions he existed for more than a month. Big waves washed over the small island, but by lashing himself to one of the few trees he managed to hold on. He was found by two Psequott Indians in a demented condition.

FISHED LOCOMOTIVE FROM LAKE

The Locomotive Was Valued at $10,000, so the Railroad Officials Figured That it Was Worth While to Recover it From the Bottom of the River. Divers Were Sent Down to Inspect the Engine and Fasten the Wire Cables to it. A Wrecking Crane Soon Lifted the Locomotive on to the Bridge and Placed it Gently on the Rails.

GOOD WORK BY DIVERS

BROUGHT LOCOMOTIVE UP FROM DEEP WATER.

Engine Worth Ten Thousand Dollars Replaced on Rails in Short Time, Little Damaged by its Unusual Bath.

It can be statistically proved that the safest place in the world is in a Pullman car and the most dangerous, your own home.

Only once in a while something goes wrong on the best regulated roads. The locomotive shown in the picture published in Popular Science Monthly and World's Advance, ran off the bridge and plunged into the river at Bay City, Mich.—one of those "once in a while" occasions.

Today all railroads have as part of their equipment cranes, known as "wreckers," and regularly employed in construction work of the heavier kind, such as bridge building and handling turn tables. These cranes are always ready to be rushed to the scene of an accident. Equipped with a set of tools designed to handle derailed or damaged cars and locomotives, they lift an overturned car and place it back on the rails or else carry it to the shops for repairs.

As soon as the accident pictured occurred at Bay City, a wrecking crane was sent for. It was found that the 75-ton locomotive lay in deep water, and that it would be necessary to send divers down to attach the lines. After the divers had inspected the locomotive they came up and selected the tools they desired to use, comprising different kinds of wire rope slings, hooks, eyes, clevises, hoist beams and jacks.

Then they went down and attached the slings and lines to the locomotive. In three hours the submerged locomotive was once more on the rails and very little the worse for the experience. Getting it out of the water so promptly saved it from damage by rust or prolonged contact with the river bottom.—From Popular Science Monthly and World's Advance.

ARMY AMENDMENT IS CARRIED IN SENATE

(By Associated Press)

Washington, April 3.—Senator Cummins' amendment to the army bill to create a national guard section of five officers on the general staff was adopted today by a vote of 35 to 30. It was a defeat for Senator Chamberlain and the military committee, which had rejected the amendment on the ground that it was unsafe to place guardsmen in positions of such high trust. The vote was the first in the Senate on the army bill, and many Democrats supported the amendment. Chamberlain and his colleagues did not attempt to conceal their disappointment.

This Little Movie Favorite Is of the "Golden Aureole"

Lillian Gish, Quaint, Dainty and Piquant, Is Prettiest of the Blondes in Picture World

She Plays Part of the Northern Heroine In "The Birth of a Nation"

MUCH of the tenderly poetic appeal of "The Birth of a Nation" is due to the subtle acting of Miss Lillian Gish in the part of Elsie Stoenman, the Northern heroine. Miss Gish is a little creature of the "golden aureole" blond type, which makes for photographic beauty. She is singularly graceful, and her features never lose their piquancy. Her eyes before the camera are singularly expressive, and her acting conveys sincerity as well as true feminine charm.

Perhaps the most poetical scene of the entire drama is the one in which she and Henry Walthall, as her Southern lover, pour out their hearts to each other through the agency of the ancient symbol of Venus, goddess of romance, the dove. Not daring, at this point in their courtship to kiss each other, they lavish their affections alternately on the nesting bird. Another scene in which Miss Gish displays her exquisite charm is the one in which she plays with a kitten with such grace and caressing meaning that the audience invariably experiences a delightful thrill of sympathy.

Miss Gish is sharply contrasted in "The Birth of a Nation" with the beautiful brunette, Miss Miriam Cooper, who plays the Southern heroine. The little Northern heroine is of Northern birth, just as Miss Cooper is a Southerner, her native State being Ohio. For a time in her early girlhood she and her sister Dorothy, also famous in the moving picture world, lived in Missouri with their mother.
