Some idea of the work of the Delta county chapter can be gained by reference to the report of garments shipped, but a still better idea can be secured by a visit to the various branches and seeing the women work, almost ceaselessly on the garments for the boys "over there."

Five branches to the Delta county chapter have been organized as follows:

Gladstone, Rapid River (including Masonville and Osler), Bark River, Nahma and Wells. A branch will be organized this week at Cornell and another next week at Garden.

"TOO MUCH," SAYS GERMAN NEWSPAPER IN COMMENTING ON ALLIES' DEMANDS

Essen Publication Says Terms as Proposed by Lloyd George Impossible; Trust Might to Win, Paper Says.

TERMS ARE EXORBITANT

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS) Amsterdam, Jan. 8.—Discussing the statement of war aims made Friday by Premier Lloyd George, the Rhenische Westfaelische Zeitung of Essen says:

"When Lloyd George and the British labor demands Alsace-Lorraine for France and the German colonies of Arabia, Syria and Palestine for the English and speak of war indemnities we have to pay, the answer in view of the actual war situation is: 'It is Too Much.'"

The newspaper thinks, however, that the calmer tone in which Lloyd George spoke, is worthy of notice. "He, Lloyd George, too one day may become reasonable," the newspaper says.

Amsterdam, Jan. 8.—King Ludwig of Bavaria is quoted in a Munich dispatch as having said yesterday at a reception in honor of his birthday that the terms of Germany's enemies "were exorbitant." Not an inch of German territory will be given up, he is quoted as saying.

Asserting that Bavaria, like other Germans, were victorious everywhere, he added: "May we succeed in defeating our late enemy, The Americans."

Portugal Buys American Tractors.

Orders have been placed by the Portuguese government for 28 American farm tractors, Uncle Sam's consul general at Lisbon reports. Of the number, 7 are machines of 25 to 50 horsepower and 21 light tractors of 12 to 25 horsepower.

WANTS GREAT ARMY OF NATION'S BOYS

Working Reserve, Organization of Young Men Between Sixteen and Twenty-One, to Aid Uncle Sam.

A drive to enroll 2,000,000 boys in the United States Boys' Working Reserve is in full swing. At the conference of directors of the movement recently reports indicated that the vast majority of high-school boys of America will be enlisted in the registered army of patriotic youths between sixteen and twenty-one years, organized under the department of labor to help Uncle Sam in field and in factory, to win the war.

The government at Washington in making an inventory of possible sources of labor supply has discovered a great war labor reservoir in the shape of boys. There are more than 5,000,000 youths between the ages of sixteen and twenty-one, of whom nearly 2,000,000 either are idle for a substantial part of the year or are employed in some occupation which does not help to win the war.

This is the boy power that the Boys' Working Reserve is mobilizing. Every boy who jumps in and helps do the work of a soldier who has gone to the front has a chance to earn a bronze badge of honor bearing the great seal of the United States, numbered and registered, with his name, in the archives at Washington. The national insignia can be earned in any one of three separate units—agricultural, industrial or vocational training.

Farm training camps each to contain 50 to 100 boys, for intensive instruction in agriculture were recommended to the conference of one state by the committee on national intensive training. It recommends also: "That there shall be established in agricultural colleges or schools courses of training in agriculture, and that in high schools and in other schools where there are boys of sixteen years of age and over, there shall be established like courses to secure a reasonable efficiency among the boys for work upon the farms."

All the schools are to be given a chance to co-operate in every patriotic endeavor of the states and nation.

Pres. Wilson Outlines Terms by Which A Peace Is Possible

(Continued From Page One) arose and cheered loudly. Otherwise the president's address was delivered in a silence, denoting the rapt attention of an audience who realized they were passing through a great quarter of an hour in history.

To German People. To the German people the president gave reassurance that it was not our aim to impair their peaceful greatness.

"We have no jealousy of Germany's greatness," he said, "and there is nothing in her progress to inspire it. We grudge no achievement or distinction of learning or special interests which made her record very bright and envious. We do not wish to injure her legitimate influence or power. We do not wish to fight her either with arms or hostile arrangement of trade if she will associate with us and other peace loving nations in a covenant of justice and law and fair dealing. Neither do we presume to alter her institutions. But it is necessary that we must frankly say and it is necessary as a preliminary to any intelligent dealings with her, to know whom her spokesmen speak for when they speak to us, whether for the Reichstag majority or the military power and the men who created imperial domination."

Plain Statements. The president made it plain at the outset that Germany having again challenged her adversaries to a re-statement of war aims, he understood and resolved to do so with the utmost candor. The British premier, he declared, spoke with admirable candor and spirit for the people of Great Britain.

The voice of the Russian people, prostrated and almost with power shattered, cried for a statement of war aims and he responded with utter simplicity and frankness.
