ENEMY CHECKED FROM MONTELLO TO THE ADRIATIC

Vienna Reports Fossetta Canal Crossed But Rome Says Enemy Advances Have Been Repulsed.

SAYS UKRANIA IN REVOLT

Waters of Piave Wash Away Austrian Bridges; Rheims Attack Dies Down; American Patrols Victorious.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS) Washington, June 20.—The Austrian pressure on the front from Lake Garda to the Adriatic is growing weaker although the fighting is still strenuous along the Piave from Montello to the sea.

Since Sunday the enemy were held in check on the Piave line and no gains were made on the mountain front while the loss in prisoners amounted to 9,000.

Enemy Repulsed. From Capo Sile the Austrians advanced to the Fossetta canal, which parallels the lowlands along the sea coast to Mestre, a suburb of Venice. Vienna claims the canal was crossed at some points southeast of Meolo, but Rome reports that the enemy advances have been repulsed.

Heavy fighting continues on the Montello plateau but the Austrians apparently have not yet gained control of this dominating height, nor have they yet succeeded in their attempt to debouch on the lower Savilla south of Nervesa.

The waters of the Piave have come to the aid of strongly resisting Italians and the British official statement on the fighting says that the river has risen suddenly. The rise has been sufficient to carry away many of the bridges the Austrians have thrown across the stream.

Rheims Front Quiet. The German crown prince has not repeated his attacks against Rheims before which 10,000 of his troops were repulsed with heavy losses in the night attack last Tuesday.

The front is again quiet and the French are maintaining their positions. East of Chateau Thierry American patrols have crossed the Marne in boats and have bested the enemy patrollers in an encounter. In addition to killing a large number of Germans many prisoners were brought back.

The American bombing airplanes have again bombed Comfians, a railway junction midway between Verdun and Metz, dropping 28 bombs.

40,000 Peasants Revolt. The German aggression in the Ukraine is beginning to reap the whirlwind. A revolt on a large scale has broken out in Kiev, the capital, and there is much street fighting. Forty thousand armed peasants have risen and the revolt has spread to Tchernov and the Paltava.

Cannot Avoid Defeat. Paris, June 20.—The splendid resistance of the Italians and their Franco-British allies have led the French to conclude that the Austrians cannot avoid defeat especially as well-directed counter attacks have resulted in the capture of thousands of prisoners and much war material.

With the American Army on the Marne, June 20.—The American troops in this sector attacked the Germans northwest of Chateau Thierry during the night and made an advance of five-eighths of a mile, driving the Germans back from a small pocket on the north side of Belleau wood.

TROOPS IN HIGH SPIRITS, SAYS ITALIAN REPORT

Failure of Austrian Offensive Has Keyed Men to Fighting Pitch; Forget Physical Discomforts.

FIGHTING IS STILL HEAVY

Italian and Austrian Soldiers Witness Silencing of Machine Gun Post by Italian Plane.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS) Italian Headquarters, June 19.—Realization that the Austrian offensive has failed is spurring the Italian troops to a desperate resistance along the Piave. Heavy fighting continued along the Montello plateau and near San Dona di Piave on the south.

The spirit of the Italian troops is at high pitch despite their wounds, the loss of sleep and the constant movements made necessary by the nature of the terrain at several points. As thousands of Italian and Austrian soldiers looked on today an Italian airplane succeeded in bringing the surrender of a machine gun post after the Italian infantry and artillery had failed to subjugate it.

"Thunder Offensive." That the Austrian drive against the Italians is positively a "thunder offensive" has been proved by orders and addresses found upon Austrian prisoners. These were signed by officers ranging from Field Marshal Conrad von Hotzendorf to regimental commanders.

The correspondent has visited groups of hundreds of prisoners, all of whom are thin and weak. They said they had had little food in the last month and spoke with horror of the winter months. A sample of their black bread showed that it was made of rye and straw and potatoes.

MIRACLES ARE PERFORMED IN TAKING CARE OF MEN WOUNDED IN BATTLE

Sheep Has Wooden Leg. Charles Krauter, living near Bucyrus, O., had a lamb get tangled up in a fence and injure its leg. The veterinary told him the leg had to come off. Krauter did not want to lose the lamb, so minus the leg he nursed it back to health and then fixed up a peg leg for it.

Now the lamb has grown to be a sheep and still stumps around on the wooden leg. Occasionally the wooden member becomes loose and falls off, and the sheep then hobbles over to a soft spot and waits until some one comes along to fasten the leg on again.

The wooden leg doesn't interfere with the sheep growing wool, Mr. Krauter says, and wool is wool nowadays.

Proud Record of Marines. As the first battle of the American navy was fought and won by the marines, so, down through the years of the Revolutionary war, we find the marines at the forefront when difficult work was to be done. In fact there were but few expeditions in which they did not figure in more or less strength. Thus Lieutenant Wallingford of the marines died at the head of his men under John Paul Jones in the battle between the Ranger and the Drake; and in the classic fight between the Bon Homme Richard under Paul Jones and the Serapis, the marines lost 49 out of 137 men.

Napoleon as a Cadet. When Napoleon was a young cadet he went on one occasion to witness the ascent of a balloon in the Champ de Mars. He entered, unperceived, the inclosure which contained the balloon, which was then very nearly full and about to ascend, and requested the aeronaut to allow him to enter the car. The request, however, was refused, the reason given being that the feelings of the boy might embarrass the aeronaut. "Though I am young, I fear neither the powers of earth nor of the air!" Bonaparte is reported to have exclaimed. On being requested to retire, the little cadet, enraged at the refusal, drew his sword, and, sitting the balloon in several places, destroyed the apparatus which had been constructed with infinite labor and ingenuity. Such was Napoleon's first and last attempt to ascend in a balloon.

SAYS HOT WATER WASHES POISONS FROM THE LIVER

Everyone should drink hot water with phosphate in it, before breakfast.

To feel as fine as the proverbial fiddle, we must keep the liver washed clean, almost every morning, to prevent its sponge-like pores from clogging with indigestible material, sour bile and poisonous toxins, says a noted physician.

If you get headaches, it's your liver. If you catch cold easily, it's your liver. If you wake up with a bad taste, furred tongue, nasty breath or stomach becomes rank, it's your liver. Sallow skin, muddy complexion, watery eyes all denote liver uncleanness. Your liver is the most important, also the most abused and neglected organ of the body. Few know its function or how to release the dammed-up body waste, bile and toxins. Most folks resort to violent calomel, which is a dangerous, salivating chemical which can only be used occasionally because it accumulates in the tissues, also attacks the bones.

Every man and woman, sick or well, should drink each morning before breakfast, a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it, to wash from the liver and bowels the previous day's indigestible material, thus cleansing, sweetening and freshening the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach.

Limestone phosphate does not restrict the diet like calomel, because it can not salivate, for it is harmless and you can eat anything afterwards. It is inexpensive and almost tasteless, and any pharmacist will sell you a quarter pound, which is sufficient for a demonstration of how hot water and limestone phosphate cleans, stimulates and freshens the liver, keeping you feeling fit day in and day out.

Soldiers Are Classified As to Wounds and Given Prompt Treatment by Army Surgeons.

MANY SOLDIERS SAVED System of Segregation and Cooperation of Doctors Said to Have Produced Great Results.

French Front.—(Correspondence of The Associated Press).—Marvels are being performed by the surgeons attached to the various Entente armies. By exercising their skill they have restored to the fighting strength of the Allied nations each year since the beginning of the war, whole divisions of men who in other wars would have died of their wounds or would have been crippled for life.

The recent gigantic battles, as the result of which more wounded men than ever before have received surgical treatment within a short space of time, have demonstrated the immense strides made not only in surgery but in the methods of removing the wounded from the battle fields and transporting them to hospitals. So effective is the cooperation between surgeons and physicians at the front and those at the hospitals in the rear that an immensely larger proportion of the wounded recover than was the case at the beginning of the war.

Men whose legs or arms have been fractured by shells now are restored to their regiments in a minimum of time. This is due mostly to the fact that they receive prompt antiseptic treatment and surgical attention which prevents blood-poisoning and the stiffening of articulation. Their recovery is rapid in the hospitals behind the lines where they can be treated under comfortable conditions far from the nerve-racking sound of the guns.

Soldiers have been inspired with confidence in the army surgeons in the great battles around Verdun and in the great German offensive which began in March.

Promptness in the treatment of wounded men has been obtained by segregating them in classes according to the nature of their wounds. This was not generally done at the beginning of the war. The plan then in vogue was to erect large hospitals as near the fighting lines as possible, say ten or twelve miles from the front, and to send all cases there for treatment. When big battles occurred these hospitals were over crowded and owing to the delay in operating there were many cases of gangrene, tetanus and other infections that resulted fatally.

The enemy did not hesitate to bombard the hospitals either with the artillery or from airplanes. Sometimes a train-load of wounded men would arrive only to find all the beds occupied and that they must move on to another hospital.

Most of this difficulty now has been overcome. When wounded men reach the first dressing station or field ambulance they are divided into categories. Those slightly wounded are rapidly dressed and sent to convalescent hospitals. Those crippled are sent to cripple depots. Men who have been gassed go to special hospitals and those most dangerously wounded are transferred to hospitals nearby to remain until they recover or die.

Those suffering from severe but not dangerous wounds receive prompt treatment in the advanced ambulances where operations are performed and wounds disinfected before the men are sent to permanent hospitals.

By these divisions of the wounded into classes, it is asserted that great rapidity of surgical intervention is achieved as each specialist deals only with cases needing his kind of skill. Then the patient is removed to the hospital at a distance of not more than a journey of ten or twelve hours; where he receives attention from another specialist working in close cooperation with his colleague in the advanced ambulance.

This system of segregation of wounded and cooperation of doctors is said to have produced marvelous results.

ODIUM ATTACHED TO CARD

Numerous Explanations as to Why the Nine of Diamonds Is Called the Curse of Scotland.

While the nine spot of spades is looked upon as a fatal and vindictive card in the trying of fortunes, it is the nine of diamonds that bears the odium of being called the curse of Scotland. All writers agree on the card, but as to the cause of the stigma attached to it there is a diversity of opinion and it is difficult to decide which of the many theories is correct. One theory is that after the Culloden struggle the duke of Cumberland picked up a nine of diamonds from the floor and wrote on it an order for the death of the insurgents. To clinch this argument, it is declared that the identical card is preserved at Stains castle, Aberdeenshire. Another explanation was that a Scotch member of parliament, a part of whose family arms was the nine of diamonds, once voted for a malt tax for his country. Still another view is that diamonds represent royalty and every ninth king of Scotland having been a tyrant and a curse furnishes the key to the mystery. One writer explains it by stating that the last queen of Scotland taxed her subjects heavily to pay for nine jewels for her own adornment. The "last queen of Scotland" in her own right was poor, pretty Marie Stuart, against whose memory has been tossed the mud of countless accusations by her bitter critics, and she might as well wear the nine of diamonds slander along with the others.

Fought With Owl.

An employee of the Helena Land and Lumber company near Perkins, a short distance north of Escanaba, Mich., had a desperate encounter with a huge owl while walking through the woods late at night.
 His first warning of the attack was when he was struck on the head and his fur cap pulled off. The great claws of the bird next were fastened to his skull and his face.
 After a desperate fight in the dark the man succeeded in securing a good hold on the owl and killed it by dashing its head against a tree. The owl is on exhibition at the camp and is said to be the largest ever killed in that section.

June Export Forbidden.

Rome, June 20.—The exportation of diamonds, rubies, sapphires, pearls, and other precious stones has been prohibited. The reason for this action is that the depreciated value of Italian money has made it possible for dealers in Switzerland, France, or Spain to buy these stones in Italy at the market price in lire and yet get a handsome bargain, really paying for a set of diamonds worth 100,000 lire not more than 60,000 to 70,000 lire. As there has been accumulated in Italy for many centuries past large quantities of valuable stones, many of which since the war have been put on the market by needy owners, the fear has been expressed that Italy has been losing much of this form of her national wealth, through exportations, particularly to Switzerland.

Fight to See Races.

Amsterdam, June 20.—Twenty thousand persons fought their way into the trains to and from the Grunewald race course outside Berlin at the great races on May 9. The newspapers contain long accounts of the scramble for places in the trains and for admission to the race track. Many of those who succeeded in forcing their way through the crowds found their clothing torn and their bodies bruised. The newspapers sharply criticize the railway authorities and the management of the Jockey Club, declaring that as long as the government permits racing, it should see that adequate facilities are provided.

Costs Jump in Norway.

Christiana, June 20.—According to the latest official returns the cost of living in Norway, calculated on statistics from 17 towns and cities, shows an increase since the war of 137 per cent, as compared with 92 per cent in Sweden and 66 per cent in Denmark. Prices are still rising, but more slowly than for some time past, according to the official statement.

EIGHTEEN YEARS ON ISLAND

Experience of Indian Woman Makes That of Robinson Crusoe Appear a Mere Incident.

It would appear that Alexander Selkirk's brief stay on Juan Fernandez Island was trivial, either in the hardships endured or the difficulties overcome, compared with that of a woman on an island opposite the Californian peninsula.

It seems that the Catholic fathers at Santa Barbara were once transporting the natives of the island of St. Nicholas to the mainland. Among them was a mother who discovered that her babe had been left behind. She begged that the vessel might be put back, but the captain refused. She then leaped into the sea to swim ashore, but as a storm prevailed, all on board thought she was drowned.

Eighteen years afterward a company landed on the island. They found traces of life, and after a long search discovered the woman and took her with them. The poor woman never found her babe, but had managed to live in comparative comfort, though very lonely. After her long life in the open, she could not endure the confinement of a house, and soon sickened and died.

When Dog Sought His Master.

There is a story in the American Magazine in which a writer says: "He had come many miles. He had many miles yet to go. From sleeping farmhouses dogs bayed him as he passed, running like a big fox, silent and swift. The road turned and twisted among the hills and small mountains. Ahead in the sky was a glow of coming day. It grew brighter with the passing miles. It drew him on. The distance would have meant little to him, except for the tremendous snow at which he had been traveling. Now his chest was flecked with foam. His tall, carried usually so proudly, followed the curve of his haunches. His overstrained muscles worked mechanically like pistons. His heart pounded his long, lean, red ribs. "Dizzy, almost fainted, he came at last to the top of a hill, and stopped, ears erect. Below him stretched rows of twinkling lights that, all together, made up the glow in the sky. That was the city with the strange building into which they had carried Tommy Earle!"

The Magnetic Compass.

Experiments with magnets known to the scientists 2,500 years ago, which, developed by Doctor Gilbert and Peter Perigrinus, led up to the present-day scientific compass of Kelvin, were shown recently by Prof. J. A. Fleming, professor of electrical engineering, University of London, at the Royal Institute.
 "The earth is a magnet," said the professor, "and every piece of iron that has stood in a vertical position for any length of time is magnetized by the earth. You can try it on your garden railings."
 The hostelry sign, "The Goat and Compass," he said, "does not refer to the mariner's friend, but is a contraction of the saying, "God encompasses us," and the compass takes its name, not from the magnetism which governs its working, but from the circular card which encompasses the needle.

WIDOW BUYS WAR SAVINGS STAMPS

Has Five Brothers in the War and Her Husband Died in Action.

Here is the story of a brave little woman, fired with American patriotism, who mounted F. C. O'Mara's automobile when he was selling War Savings Stamps from his trailer on a downtown corner in Detroit last week, and addressed the crowd in the interests of government financing. This woman had a story to tell. The war has touched her life at many points, and her soul has come through the fire of sacrifice.

She is Mrs. Anna Wright, 70 Montcalm street, Detroit.

"Two years ago," said Mrs. Wright, speaking clearly and distinctly to the curious Saturday night crowd, "I lost my husband. He died in France. I have five brothers over there now, and three of them I have not heard from in four months. As for myself, I too have been in the war lines, doing Red Cross work in a French hospital for eight months. During that time I have been in four Zeppelin raids. My father is 65 years old, and to take care of him, I returned to this country, determined to devote every spare moment of my time to some war activity in this city. That is why I am addressing you tonight. I know that America is at war, many of you do not know that. My message to you is to give me five dollars to buy war stamps. I will give you a receipt for every war stamp that comes to your notice. If you give all, you have done but little. I say it is a wonderful government that will allow its people to invest money at interest in order that the war may be financed. There may come a time when the government will take your money. Hear these things in mind and buy War Savings Stamps today, while Uncle Sam gives you the opportunity. The war is not over yet—and the end is not in sight."

At the close of Mrs. Wright's fervent appeal, the seven stamp vending machines on Mr. O'Mara's War Savings trailer, began to click furiously. In less than forty minutes $60.00 worth of stamps were sold.

Why Ships Are Sunk.

Torpedoed merchant vessels are no longer sunk by extensive damage of the ship structure, in the view of a committee of the British Institution of Naval Architects, but because watertight compartments are not watertight. Plating and riveting are not disturbed over large areas, while bulkheads are not burst in by water pressure. Three causes explain many losses—bulkhead doors too low down to be closed after explosion, flooding of closed compartments through fractured suction pipes, and penetrating of bulkheads by flying rivets and other fragments of steel.

THE THEATRES

AT THE DELFT.

Oscar Hammerstein, responsible for Mary Garden's first appearance in opera in New York, has done his bit toward making her appearance in Goldwyn's "The Splendid Sinner" a success. In many scenes the star plays a violin and plays it well, her musical education having made her proficient. Oscar Hammerstein composed a romance especially for her and called it "The Song of My Heart," dedicated, of course, to Mary Garden. She plays this piece throughout the film drama, and it is a source of regret to Miss Garden and her associates that picture audiences cannot hear as well as see her render it.

The Pathe Weekly screen newspaper shows graphic and thrilling scenes of an allied raid on a German naval base.

W. S. S.

AT THE STRAND.

In "The Coward" at the Strand Friday and Saturday, playgoers will notice in one scene a horse with his rider falling over backward while in full flight crossing a bridge that spans a deep river. The scene is almost unbelievable in its wild daring. It causes an audible gasp of astonishment from the spectators. They ask, "Who is the young man who has done this thing?"

He is Charles Ray, a young actor at the Triangle Studio near Los Angeles, where "The Coward" was staged. Mr. Ray does many other remarkable things in "The Coward." For instance, he gives an absolutely truthful and sincere portrayal of a craven and a weakling in the first part of the story. Then by a marvel of characterization he shows the weakling transformed into a hero by the big opportunity of doing something for the Confederate cause. There follows the wild gallop to carry the news to the Confederate lines, the shooting of the boy unwittingly by his own father and then some thrilling bedside scenes where the wounded youth and his parent meet.

History of Freedom of Speech.

The issue of free speech is really modern, and emerged clearly as a defensible proposition only with Milton's Areopagitica, to be followed by the widely divergent reasoning of Jeremy Taylor and Joseph Glanville, and by Locke's classical first "Letter on Toleration" (1689), which says almost the last word on the matter so far as religious differences are concerned.—James H. Robinson in Atlantic.

PRESIDENT ISSUES W.S.S. PROCLAMATION

THE PRESIDENT BRINGS SOME PERTINENT FACTS TO THE ATTENTION OF MICHIGAN PEOPLE.

NATIONAL WAR SAVINGS DAY IS SET

Michigan's Full Quota of $70,000,000 Must Be Pledged By June 28—The Government's Thrift Plan is Explained.

(The Michigan War Savings Committee urges all clergymen to read this proclamation to their congregations before June 28th.)

"The war is one of nations, not of armies, and all of our one hundred million people must be economically and industrially adjusted to war conditions, if this nation is to play its full part in the conflict. The problem before us is not primarily a financial problem but rather a problem of increased production of war essentials and the saving of the materials and the labor necessary for the support and equipment of our army and navy. Thoughtless expenditure of money for non-essentials uses up the labor of men, the products of the farms, mines and factories and overburdens transportation, all of which must be used to the utmost and at their best for war purposes.

The great results which we seek can be obtained only by the participation of every member of the nation, young and old, in a national concerted thrift movement. I therefore urge that our people everywhere pledge themselves as suggested by the Secretary of the Treasury to the practice of thrift to serve the government to their utmost in increasing production in all fields necessary to the waning of the war to conserve food and fuel and useful materials of every kind to devote their labor only to the most necessary tasks and to buy only those things which are essential to individual health and efficiency and that the people as evidence of their loyalty invest all that they can save in Liberty Bonds and War Savings Stamps. The securities issued by the Treasury Department are so many of them within the reach of "everyone" that the door of opportunity in this matter is wide open to all of us. To practice thrift in peace times is a virtue and brings great benefit to the individual at all times, with the desperate need of the civilized world today for materials and labor with which to end the war the practice of individual thrift is a patriotic duty and a necessity.

"I appeal to all who now own either Liberty Bonds or War Savings Stamps, to continue to practice economy and thrift and to appeal to all who do not own government securities to do likewise and purchase them to the extent of their means. The man who buys government securities transfers the purchasing power of his money to the United States Government until after this war and to that same degree does not buy in competition with the government.

"I earnestly appeal to every man, woman and child to pledge themselves on or before the twenty-eighth of June to save constantly and to buy as regularly as possible the securities of the government and to do this as far as possible through membership in War Savings Societies. The twenty-eighth of June ends this special period of enlistment in the great volunteer army of production and saving here at home. May there be none unenrolled on that day.

Signed: Woodrow Wilson

GETTING READY FOR THE COMING BIG DRIVE

County chairman in the Michigan War Savings Committee are working diligently on their preparations for the stupendous drive that will open shortly and close June 28. The war savings message is to be carried to every man, woman and child in the state, and if there's anyone who is not saving and lending for war purposes, and has not the thrift card or the certificate card to prove it, the salesman will know the reason why. And it will have to be an excellent reason.

DETROIT SCHOOL PUPIL WRITES CLEVER VERSES

"I've never been in a newspaper office before," said the little 10-year-old boy as he handed a piece of paper to the editor of a Detroit daily, but if you like this, print it. The verse appeared in the next edition of the paper as follows:

MAKE LIGHT OF ALL RISKS

British Aviators Think Little of Danger When There is a Chance to Hurt the Enemy.

Lieut. Richard Aveline Mayberry, Lancashire and R. F. C., after attacking two airdromes in succession at very low altitudes and inflicting considerable damage, attacked and dispersed a number of mounted men and then attacked a freight train. He next attacked and shot down a hostile machine at 500 feet, and before returning attacked a passenger train.

Second Lieut. Walbanke A. Pritt, R. F. C., in attacking a hostile airdrome dropped bombs from a very low altitude and attacked and destroyed two enemy machines almost as soon as they had left the ground. A machine gun then opened upon him from the airdrome, which he immediately attacked. Both on his outward and homeward journey he was under very heavy fire. Once he attacked a motorcar and shot one of the occupants from about fifty feet, afterward attacking infantry on the march and inflicting severe casualties upon them.

Second Lieut. Alexander A. N. Pentland, R. F. C., descended to within twenty feet of the ground and fired into eight hostile machines. On his return journey he attacked a train with considerable effect from low altitude. He has always shown fearlessness and devotion to duty in attacking enemy balloons and troops on the ground.

Finland's New Flag.

The Russian revolution will probably result in lengthening the list of the world's flags by several additions. Finland, which, since March, has ceased to be a grand duchy and has declared her independence and status as a republic, has now decided on her national colors. She will have three different standards: the national flag, the flag of the merchant service, and that of the pilot and customs services. The national colors are those which were acclaimed at the time of the revolution, the yellow lion of Finland surrounded by nine white roses on a red ground. The flag of the merchant service will have a yellow perpendicular cross on a red ground and in the top right-hand corner, nine white roses set symmetrically in three rows. The pilot and customs services flag will be the same, except that it will carry the yellow of Finland instead of the white roses.

The Slogan Food Will Win the War

Must Be the Watch-Word of Every Household

That don't necessarily mean that anyone should starve themselves. But it means that we should conserve on food products needed by our Government. It means that we should buy with thought and care, and see that every dollar we spend for food brings in return the best and the most.

The old-fashioned shopping basket will help to solve the problem. Every good housekeeper should personally visit the food stores. Seeing the goods, comparing prices would eliminate all chances. She would then have a chance to choose from not only one store's stock, but from the stocks of every store along the street, getting the choicest items at the lowest possible prices.

Want You to Make a Comparison. Know the Result Will Be in Our Favor Every Time.

History of Platinum Reads Like A Drama

Canada 50. The German invasion of Russia gave the enemy the opportunity of replenishing his stocks of platinum, to the detriment of the Allies. Mining in Russia virtually has ceased now, even if the metal could be shipped out of the country, and the world looks to Columbia for platinum. Suggestions for a government monopoly of platinum have been advanced in the Colombian congress. Whatever action is taken, the fortunes of war will mean wealth for the southern republic.

Spectacular Feat.

One of the most spectacular feats of the war was the concentration of 20,000 ounces of platinum in Russia by a young American mining engineer attached to the embassy there, who recognized the importance of obtaining the metal. Each precious brick, wrapped in a leather cover, was brought half-way across the world to the United States and turned over to the government for use in the manufacture of sulphuric acid, a constituent of explosives, for the manufacture of contact points in electrical apparatus and other uses necessary to war.

Platinum was discovered in what is now Columbia in 1735, by a Spaniard named Don Antonio de Ulloa, who accompanied a French scientific expedition, and his account of it was the first information regarding the metal to be brought to the attention of Europeans. Its resistibility to acids and the difficulty of working it were remarked upon, but it was not considered to be nearly as precious as gold, and was used at times by counterfeiters as a basis for coins. It was not until the middle of the nineteenth century that the demand for platinum for use in chemical laboratories and for electrical uses brought its value up to the point where it ranked as one of the most precious metals.

In the placer mining of gold in Columbia it was formerly thrown away as waste, and when the rise in price made it more valuable than gold the ground on which the waste had been thrown became in its turn a field for mining operations, and even the streets of the principal center of gold refining in Columbia, Quibdo, were torn up and the soil washed for particles of the new treasure. One man tore down his store in order to get at the ground beneath, and found so much platinum that he was enabled to rebuild and make an extra $4,000 for his trouble.

Platinum is recovered principally from the beds of streams, the particles being deposited there through erosion of large rocks, classified geologically as "tertiary conglomerates." The platinum grains are found with gold, the proportion varying from 5 to 50 per cent of platinum. The two metals are recovered by washing the sand and gravel of streams.

The marked rise in the price of platinum in the last two or three years has considerably stimulated mining activities in Columbia, especially on the part of the native miners.

Present imports of Columbian platinum by the United States represents almost the total visible exports of that country.

New Occupations for Wounded Soldiers

Men With Unimpaired Eyesight and Nimble Fingers Trained at Atlantic City of England.

Brighton, England, June 20.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press)—Soldiers who have lost a leg but whose hands and sight are perfect are learning diamond cutting and polishing in this Atlantic City of England. They are employed almost exclusively in an industry new to England and expect before the war is over to compete on a favorable basis with the more highly skilled diamond cutters of Amsterdam and Antwerp, where in pre-war days there was a monopoly of the business. Two large, modern, four-story buildings are being put up which when completed will employ 1,300 discharged soldiers.

Only ex-soldiers with unimpaired eyesight and perfect control of their fingers are taken because everything depends on a man's accuracy of vision and control of his hands. Even with these qualities it takes a man a lifetime to learn the trade.

First the men pass through a training school. When a man is first admitted he is put to work on marbles as he will later do with the real stones. The marbles are first sawn in half, and then ground into shape on a steel disc. This serves to give him some idea of the finished shape of the real diamond, but it is impossible to get the face even approximately correct, owing to the softness of the marble.

Instead of cutting the 58 facets or surfaces found on the finished brilliant, the men cut six planes on the marble, and afterwards grind the base roughly into the shape of the collet or neck. When a man does this skillfully he is given a small diamond to cut, and it is a great day in a man's training when this stage arrives. The feeling that he has a stone worth from $100 to $250 in his possession to cut and polish gives him a sense of responsibility.

While undergoing training the men receive no wages, but they receive a government allowance of about $7 a week. After they have advanced far enough to be entrusted with a diamond they are put on a wage basis of from $10 to $20 a week, depending on their ability. Their training usually occupies a period of from three to six months.
