SHIP 9,000 HEAD SHEEP AND CATTLE

Hagenbarth Decides To Make Experiment in This County.

Seventy-five hundred head of sheep and 1,500 head of cattle will be shipped into Cloverland soon by Frank J. Hagenbarth, premier sheep grower of the country and president of the National Sheep Growers' Association, with headquarters at Salt Lake City.

The sheep and cattle will be sent to grazing lands north of Ralph and will arrive here from the West as soon as arrangements can be made to ship them.

Visits Land Here.
The decision of Mr. Hagenbarth to send some cattle to this country was made following a visit to cut over timber lands near Ralph yesterday. He was accompanied by C. J. Harney, George M. Mashek and C. W. Kates. He plans to leave tonight or tomorrow to return to Salt Lake City, making arrangements to ship the cattle and sheep here after his arrival there.

Whether sheep and cattle will be grazed here permanently by Mr. Hagenbarth will depend on the feasibility of such a plan. By shipping cattle and sheep to the upper peninsula, Mr. Hagenbarth will try an experiment that will, if it proves to be a success, undoubtedly encourage hundreds of other cattlemen and sheep growers of the west to ship cattle and sheep to Cloverland.

Answer Distress Calls.
Distress calls from Montana, Wyoming, Idaho and the Dakotas have been answered by upper peninsula land companies, with the result that 30,000 head of cattle and sheep will arrive in Delta county within the course of the next few days, it was announced yesterday.

"Nearly all of our grazing lands on the Escanaba & Lake Superior railroad have been taken over by migrating ranch owners from the drought stricken west," said a member of a large land concern here today.

The 30,000 cattle and sheep to be shipped here will come from Montana and will be pastured in the vicinity of Ralph.

Double Cattle Total.
Since the migration of western live stock raisers started three years ago, about 40,000 head of cattle and sheep have been brought to the upper peninsula. With the arrival of the last shipment within a few days, the livestock population will have been practically doubled.

Leo C. Harmon, president of the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau, is in the western states now to make arrangements for bringing additional cattle and sheep to this section of the country. He went west following distress calls received by the various development bureaus in Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota. Although federal plans were to bring most of the sheep and cattle to Minnesota, men in this part of the country do not deem it advisable because Minnesota lacks the necessary cut over lands on which the cattle could graze.

England's Strike Of Miners Ended

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS)
London, July 25.—The strike of a quarter of million coal miners which threatened to paralyze many industries settled today.

Miss Ella Jacobs, Miss Anna Jacobs, J. H. Jacobs, Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Gallup and B. G. Burt, of Marquette, arrived in this city this morning to attend the wedding of their brother and friend, Lawrence J. Jacobs, to Miss Marjorie Oliver.

FRIEND HELPS HIM MOVE FURNITURE; ALSO MOVES CHOICE BOTTLES HE HAD.

Marinette, Wis., July 26.—Here's where a friend isn't worth a tinkling of the bell, claims one Marinette man. He had several choice bottles of "perfume" stored away in a chiffonier. The Miller factory fire endangered his home, so friends came in to help him move his furniture. But they moved the bottles of "perfume" also, before he could get them. They are gone, but not forgotten.

Federal Bakery to Have Opening Here Today; Is Novelty

Formal opening of the new Federal bakery, which was delayed for the past several weeks because machinery that was ordered, some time ago failed to arrive, will be held today, it was announced by Eli Lavergne, manager of the institution. The bakery is located at 1212 Ludington street.

The Federal system of baking is a new one that is being introduced through the country and it meets with unqualified success.

The oven, glass fronted, is expected to attract considerable attention today. It is heated by gas and the bread, set in racks, slowly revolves during the baking, thus receiving an even baking on all sides.

White, rye, graham, raisin and sandwich breads, biscuits, rolls, buns, coffee cake and cinnamon rolls will be made. Everything in the building is an appealing white, giving it an attractive appearance.

Mr. Lavergne has secured the services of one of the best bakers in the country who will take charge of the baking here for a period.

St. Martin Says He Is Stoutest, So He Claims Three Bucks

Offering to go on the scales to prove he is more stout than William Ehnerd Elmer St. Martin today called on the president of the American Legion post here for the three dollar cash prize, belated but none the less valued, which should have been given to the stoutest service man in the Fourth of July parade, exclusive of former officers.

While there was considerable skepticism as to whether St. Martin was entitled to the award, it was hinted that St. Martin and Ehnerd had secretly formed a pact whereby there was to be a division of the spoils.

Girl whose Back Was Broken Lives

The condition of Miss Irene Simord, Gladstone girl whose back was broken when a tree fell on her as she was picking berries near Flat Rock, remained the same today and at 4 o'clock hospital attendants reported she was alive and there were no indications that she would not live for several days, at least.

CROATIANS PROCLAIM REPUBLIC

Serbian Striving To Check Revolution of Military.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS)
Paris, July 25.—Rumors of mutiny and other trouble in Jugo-Slavia were denied officially at Labach (Jugo-Slavia), according to dispatches from Labach. The dispatches said that order prevailed throughout the country.

Paris, July 25.—Croatian troops have proclaimed an independent Croatian republic, according to dispatches from Agram, the capital. At several points the Croats are fraternizing with Hungarian soldiers.

Gratz, Styria, July 25.—Violent combats occurred Tuesday evening at Marburg, 36 miles southeast of Gratz, where a large part of the garrison revolted as a result of dissatisfaction over demobilization. Thirty persons were killed and many wounded.

Cries For Separation.
The movement started at a Socialist meeting where speakers advocated the formation of a republic of Jugo-Slavia. Slovenian and Croatian soldiers who were present in considerable numbers cried, "Let us separate from Serbia!"

Paris, July 25.—Dispatches from Agram and Gratz report a serious military revolution in Croatia. The revolution is taking formation of a republic.

Troops are leaving their units, officers are tearing off their insignia and the army is in a state of dissolution.

Support Revolution.
The Serbians are trying to suppress the revolution by the use of troops, both Serbian and Croatian.

The Agram advices do not record any disorder in that city. It states, however, that an independent Croatian republic has been proclaimed by soldiers in several Croatian towns.

ARREST HUNS FOR PLOT IN AUCTION SALE

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS)
Coblenz, July 25.—Sixty Germans from Cologne, Berlin and other cities were arrested here tonight by army intelligence officers in connection with an alleged plot to defraud the government of millions of marks by eliminating competition at auctions of army supplies.

Major George B. Norton, recently returned from overseas duty and with the Army of Occupation until he left for a port of embarkation, was queried by the Mirror today regarding instances similar to those cited in the dispatch above.

He declared that while he was in Coblenz and other cities of Germany the American army sold many supplies to the Germans, particularly horses, but that competition at that time was free and it was clearly evident there was no combine to defraud the sellers.

Rev. Brown Will Not Accept Call

With the announcement that the Rev. George W. Brown, Chicago, former army chaplain who filled the pulpit of the First Presbyterian church here on several occasions, is not going to give consideration to the call extended to him, the pastorate of the church here will remain vacant for several more weeks.

The Rev. George B. Laird, pastor of Norwood Park Presbyterian church, Chicago, will preach at both morning and evening services at the Escanaba edifice Sunday.

The Rev. M. Z. Brown made a favorable impression during his short stay here and many members of the congregation regret that he did not accept the call.

LOUIS DOUGLAS IS SLAIN BY ROBBERS NEAR HOME, FLINT

Former Resident Goes to Rescue of Man Robbed and Is Shot by Highwaymen.

The slaying of Louis H. Douglas, Sr., former resident of this city, is contained in the following dispatch from Flint, Mich., where Mr. Douglas made his home since leaving Escanaba:

One of the most peculiar murder mysteries with which the local authorities have ever had to deal has developed from the shooting of Louis H. Douglas, Sr., 53 years old, a widower living on Russell avenue near Grace Lawn cemetery, late last night.

Four bullet wounds, any of which would have been sufficient to have caused death, were found in the body. There was one through the right eye, one through the neck, one in the shoulder and another in the chest.

Son Informs the Police.
The only information the officers have obtained comes from a son, Louis Douglas, Jr., about 25 years old, who says he found his father's body about two blocks west of their home.

Mrs. Douglas, Sr., is dead and the father and son lived alone. The father was employed by the Buick Motor company as an electrician.

Young Douglas told a report that a young man came to the door of his home about 11 p. m. and said that he had been robbed by two men. Douglas says his father, clad only in his underwear, grabbed a revolver which had not been used for some time and ran from the house. The young man, who claimed to have been held up, seemed to lose interest after the chase was started and went toward the Jenny Wren dance hall, which is in the opposite direction taken by the two men and Mr. Douglas who gave chase, the son says.

Son Followed Father.
The son claims he followed his father, keeping the two men in sight. He claims he heard the report of a revolver and saw a flash. He says he followed the men one block north and one west and then he lost sight of them at a place which looked like a hollow near the intersection of other streets. He also lost track of his father and returned to his home. Not finding his father there, he started on a search of him and found the body one block north and a half block west from Russell street.

Mr. Douglas said he didn't examine his father's body at first but notified some people in a house nearby and they called the police and sheriff's officers.

The authorities worked most of the night on the case.

Douglas' Revolver Found.
The revolver, which the son identifies as the one the dead man grabbed when he started in pursuit, was found near the scene of the shooting.

The instrument is rusty and didn't have any cartridges in it and evidently hadn't been used for some time.

Later it was learned that the investigation made by the sheriff corroborated the story of the son, in every particular except for the description of the young man who called at the Douglas home and claimed he was robbed.

After Mr. Douglas, Jr., had told his story at the sheriff's office he accompanied the sheriff and a deputy to the scene of the shooting. The officers interviewed a man who resides near here. He told the officers that he went out to lock his woodshed the night before and saw two men across the street a little to the north, and just after one said to the other, "Come on fellows, show me the guy," he heard three revolver shots and saw two men start running east to north street and then north.

Woman Heard Men.
The officers also interviewed a woman who lives in a tent on North street. She said she heard the men as they ran around the north side of the tent and then went east. The woman who resides next to the tent told the officers that she saw two men running north and turn east toward the railroad tracks.

"I'll admit that I acted yellow and that I am chicken-hearted" was the remarkable confession made by Carl Knutson, tall, raw-boned fellow, on whose account Louis Douglas, Sr., sacrificed his life Tuesday in attempting to capture two highwaymen who had held up Knutson.

The declaration of Knutson was made in the office of the prosecutor where Knutson had been taken for an examination to learn if he could

REPUBLICAN LEADERS TO DELAY PACT

Colombian Treaty Will Be Acted On First Says Lodge.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS)
Washington, July 25.—Under present plans of Republican leaders the peace treaty will be set aside temporarily for consideration of the treaty between the United States and Colombia, proposing payment to the latter of $25,000,000 for damages arising from American acquisition of the Panama canal.

Chairman Lodge of the senate foreign relations committee said today the Colombian treaty would be taken up by the committee next week with plans for immediate ratification by the senate.

Troops Protected Raids.
Washington, July 25.—President Wilson today advised the senate that the American military expedition in Siberia was there primarily to protect and maintain operation of the Siberian railway and indicated that the expedition would remain as long as such protection was necessary.

Another purpose was to give relief to the Russian people in Siberia by supplying food, clothing and other supplies.

Washington, July 25.—President Wilson does not plan to present the defensive treaty with France to the senate until after he returns from a tour of the country. This statement was made at the White House today.

When the president presents the treaty he will accompany it with an explanatory address to the senate.

Indications today were that the president would start the westward trip about August 10, although this was purely tentative.

The president paid an unexpected visit on Secretary Baker in the state war and navy building, just before noon.

Bombing Plane On Flight to Coast Leaves New York

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS)
Mineola, N. Y., July 25.—Lieut. Col. Hartz, who with a crew of four men is making an 8,000 mile trip around the rim of the country in a bombing plane, left here at 8:25 o'clock this morning on the flight to Augusta, Me.

Col. Hartz arrived here from Washington yesterday on the first leg of the flight.

Dayton, O., July 25.—Capt. R. N. Francis left here at 8:06 o'clock this morning in a bombing plane for New York, from where in a few days he will start on his transcontinental flight to Seattle. He plans to make only one stop on the transcontinental flight, that being North Platte, Neb.

Portland, Me., July 25.—The Martin bombing plane which left Mineola, N. Y., for Augusta, Me. passed over Portland a few minutes before noon, it was flying high and making fast time.

It was officially asserted by the Associated Press today that Lotha A. Smith, Menominee young man who has been in the air service for nearly two years, is pilot of the bombing plane which has started a flight around the rim of the country. Queries today brought a reply in the affirmative.

Arm Fractured and Dislocated, Machine

Paul Maves, 13, Ayer street, suffered a fracture and dislocation of the right arm shortly before noon today when the arm was caught in an extractor machine at the Escanaba Steam Laundry. A physician was called and the youth was taken to the St. Francis hospital.

Miss Helen Brawn has returned from a two weeks vacation trip to Chicago and Milwaukee.

RAIN CHECKS FIRE IN PENINSULA AND AVERTS MUCH LOSS

Most of Fires Confined to areas of Plains; Some Reports Exaggerated.

Rain that fell early this morning and continued this afternoon served to check the majority of forest fires raging in the upper peninsula, according to reports received up to 3 o'clock this afternoon. Most of the fires were confined to areas of plains and except in a few isolated places, no serious damages resulted from the fires.

The L. A. Erickson farm on the South Ford River road suffered no damage from the fire, Mr. Erickson reported today. He visited the farm late yesterday. The fire was confined to cut over timber lands, he said, and had burned close to the Erickson cottage, on the bay shore.

Encounter Much Smoke.
Late Wednesday it was almost impossible to go beyond a distance of ten miles from Escanaba on the Ford River road without encountering thick clouds of smoke that emerged from the timber lands on either side of the road.

Through the efforts of Fire Warden Herman Leisner, the fire fighting was a well organized one in most parts of this county and on the edge of neighboring counties. Garth, Ensign and other small towns were in the path of flames for a while but the rain today is believed to have checked their progress.

Wardens Leisner blames many blueberry pickers for fires started on the plains in various parts of the country. Only a few days ago he offered a reward for the arrest and conviction of parties who started fires.

False Reports Filed.
Considerable feeling has been aroused over false reports to have emanated from the lower peninsula, in which reports of fires here were grossly exaggerated.

Sailor's Father To Arrive Tonight

A. L. Parmelee of Grand Rapids, Mich., father of Clair Parmelee, sailor whose body was found not far from the Peninsular Point lighthouse, will arrive here tonight to take charge of the body. He will return to lower Michigan tomorrow, taking the body to Big Rapids for burial.

Mr. Parmelee wired late yesterday that he would be in the city tonight and requested that all necessary papers to permit transportation of the body through Wisconsin, Illinois and Indiana be made ready so no delay would be occasioned.

Coroner G. C. Bartley viewed the body yesterday and was satisfied that the body is none other than that of the sailor drowned near the Escanaba harbor last April. Measurements taken of the body, as well as the clothing he wore, indicate beyond a doubt that it is the body of Parmelee.

Turns Off Water; Ordinance Violated

In keeping with the city ordinance, Manager L. D. Goddard of the public utilities yesterday turned off the water at several residences of the city. A payment of one dollar must be paid before water turned off will be turned on again. The action was taken because of violations of the sprinkling order.

Danielson Finishes Tasks As Examiner

AVIATORS REFUSE TO FLY TODAY

Demand Lighter and Slower Machines For Work.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS)
New York, July 25.—A strike of aerial mail pilots, the first of its kind in the country, began today, no aviators appearing at Belmont Park to take out the plane with Chicago mail, due to start for Belfontaine, Pa., at 5 o'clock.

The strike follows refusal of the postoffice department to reinstate Pilots Leon Smith and Hamilton Lee, discharged for refusing to take out planes on Tuesday on account of the fog.

The aviators demanded lighter and slower machines as in misty and foggy weather the visibility was so poor as to make high speed dangerous.

Ten Planes Demolished.
The men declared that since July 5 no fewer than 15 accidents have occurred, in which ten planes were demolished and two aviators killed.

Lee, one of the discharged aviators, said today:

"I won't go up in foggy weather in a big machine which travels 100 miles an hour. The smaller ships are all right because they are slower."

"In foggy weather it is often necessary to fly 150 to 250 feet above the ground and a high compression Liberty motor is apt to get hot at a low altitude, causing a forced landing. If I am traveling over a large city such flying is dangerous to people below as well as to me."

Aviators of mail planes at Chicago, Cleveland and Belfontaine will join in the strike, local aviators said. Twenty pilots at Belmont Park, all civilian employees of the postoffice department, are affected by the strike action.

No Aviator Reports.
Cleveland, O., July 25.—No aviators reported at Woodlawn Hills field this morning to take out airplanes with New York mail, scheduled to leave at 10:45 o'clock.

Belfontaine, Pa., July 25.—Up to 10 o'clock this morning, hours after scheduled time for starting, no aviators appeared at the flying field here to take out mail.

Washington, July 25.—Airplanes carrying mail left Washington today for New York despite the strike of pilots, the postoffice department announced this morning.

Washington, July 25.—Mail plane pilots who refused to take the air today because of demands that two discharged pilots be reinstated, have been dismissed from the service, the postoffice department announced.

TOURISTS HERE.

Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Guenther, accompanied by Mrs. Guenther's mother, arrived here this morning for a short stay while touring the upper peninsula. Their home is in Sheboygan, Wis. Mr. Guenther expressed much pleasure in viewing the scenery of the peninsula and declared the roads "couldn't be beaten."

BELGRADE COMES BACK TO LIFE

Serbian Capital Is Slowly Resuming Business.

SHOWS MANY MARKS OF WAR

For Six Years No Hand Has Been Lifted to Complete Pretentious New Buildings Started Before War—For Four Years City Was in Hands of Enemy—Whole City Shows Sense of Dislocation—Systematic Destruction by Austrians.

By MARY HEATON VORSE.

Belgrade is slowly coming back to life. In the streets which were lined with closed shops, every day a new shutter is pulled up. The peasant women come in again as they did before the war to buy cloth and a silk handkerchief with long fringe for their heads.

To the people who have been here from the first, it is a place full of life, a normal town. But if one arrives as a stranger and is ferried across from Semlin in a steamer full of soldiers, peasants and poultry a boat piled mast-high with variegated luggage, Belgrade seems a wounded place.

It sits up on a high promontory. Below it in a great curve sweeps the Sava to pour its waters into those of the Danube on its reach down to the sea. There was never a finer place for an imperial city to place itself with the two great rivers circling more than half way around it and the wide fields and the level valley lands stretched out to the horizon. So wide is the river that when it overflows and floods the meadows one has the impression of overlooking the sea.

But Belgrade was never an imperial city. It wanted to be however and put up big ministries of war and builded itself a palace for its kings. There was perhaps a time when the stucco was new and the paint and ornamentation fresh. When Austria sent across her diplomats to intrigue and there was gaiety in Belgrade it may have given the illusion of a city of the western world. But it gives no such illusion today.

Idle for Six Years.

War showed it up. War swept over the country and for six years nothing has been done. For six years no hand has been lifted to complete the pretentious new hotels which then were being built, to make repairs or to plaster up the spots where shells have cracked the stucco off the walls. For nearly four of those six years Belgrade was in the hands of the enemy. For weeks it was under shell fire. Here and there is a small house with a crushed roof, a building with a wall knocked in and buildings that have no glass in the windows.

Throughout the whole city there is a sense of dislocation. Life is out of joint. The hotels are full and when one finally locates a room it is miles from the place where a meal can be gotten. Water is brought up stingily to one's room in a small enamel picher. The Austrians in leaving destroyed all of the plumbing of Belgrade—destroyed it systematically. They wrenched the pipes and threw cement and bricks into the drains.

And as the plumbing is so in all of the existence—a little out of plumb, slightly askew. All over the city there is a general air of dilapidation as though the people were still dazed and tired from the repeated wars.

What might be called Main street sweeps up through the center of the town with a grand gesture. It passes by the ministry of war, an ostentatious orange colored building, and the guarded palace where the last of the Obrenovich, the king and queen, were stabbed to death by their officers. It is a wide street flanked with cream-colored buildings. On one side it passes two pretentious hotels vaguely oriental in architecture and in color. They never have been finished. War came and put an end to building in Belgrade. The street is well paved and unused car tracks run down it. If Belgrade did not achieve a Parisian air, as it evidently wished to achieve, at least it must have given the illusion before the war, of a French provincial town of magnitude. But now the illusion is vanished. In these buildings, and in this street especially, the people of the Serbian capital merely betrayed themselves. They confessed that they wished to be of the western world. Here was no expression of the national life. They builded in the image of France as much as they knew, but in transit Germany spoiled the purity of the French outline.

Door to the East. However, everywhere are the old buildings of a former generation, little one-story or story-and-a-half stuccoed houses with high pitched red tile roofs. There are rows of them, humble and appealing. One comes upon them even in Main street. At present all of the sights of the streets contradict the idea that the West was always here. Here is the door to the East. Russia has breathed here, and the Orient. It is written in the people's faces. They betray themselves by the music they sing, the colors they wear.

It has been years since the street cars have been running in Belgrade. The only means of getting around, and the distances are great, is on foot.

Once off Main street the roads are paved with sharp, uneven cobbles. Trains of carts rumble slowly through the town from the river to the warehouses, bringing supplies of precious flour or carting back the furniture which the Austrians floated down the river on lighters, but which they were never able to unload.

The oxen are white and have wide branching horns. There is a constant file of them from the steamers on the river bank up the steep hill and from there on down country. They cannot carry much and Serbia needs everything. Women wear dresses literally made of tatters and patch-work. Except for some of the better class peasants in their indestructible clothes, there is no one who is not patched.

The illusion of Paris is further dispated by the droves of hogs that are herded home every evening. They come toward one squealing and grunting, a score at a time; strange looking animals with long curly hair as though a merino sheep had strayed into their family circle at some date.

Red Cross Center.

Ox-carts constitute the principal traffic, but occasionally a motor lorry of one of the various armies, or a cannon of the American Red Cross passes. Belgrade is the Red Cross distributing point for all of northern Serbia. Here are the central warehouses for the Serbian commission. Every day Red Cross workers leave by boat, for remote towns down the Danube or for the interior by ox-cart. The Red Cross is continually broadening its work and helping villages which are famine-stricken when there is plenty not twenty miles away.

In Belgrade itself the American Red Cross has an orphanage, one of the three of all Serbia, for though Serbia's children are fatherless and motherless, there has not been as yet time to make provision for their care. There are also large Red Cross workshops where women make the garments which are later given away. The returning prisoners, groups of whom arrive daily even at this date, are sent to the Red Cross disinfecting station. Fighting typhus has been one of the principal Red Cross tasks in Serbia. If the prisoners and refugees returning through Belgrade are not promptly disinfected they go down into the country and presently a typhus epidemic springs up. It is extremely difficult to make the Serbs understand the necessity of it.

"Why all this fuss?" they ask. "Serbs are not afraid to die!" Here in a nutshell is the philosophy of the East in matters of sanitation. It seems to the average Serb slightly ignoble and decidedly cowardly to pay so much attention to matters of health when the only object is to keep people alive in the world. "Trust in God who knows your appointed day and hour and do not fear death." This is the attitude that the Red Cross must meet.

Belgrade is still under the military. The streets are patrolled by armed soldiers, and when at the request of a Red Cross officer I gave an order to some German prisoners who were moving freight for the Red Cross, an officer came up and told me I must not speak to them, so carefully are things watched.

Soldiers Everywhere.

The streets are full of soldiers, Serbs, French, Czechoslovaks, black men from Madagascar, and occasionally an American, and groups of Englishmen. In a courtyard full of pear trees in bloom, one may see a group of trim English naval officers sitting around at ease, a curious peep into England in this half oriental spot. There are a number of English naval officers in Belgrade, come to patrol the Danube in monitors. There are even a few Italians. As one sees them strolling about watching the Serbian soldiers with their bag packs on their backs or guarding the endless gangs of prisoners being escorted up and down or unloading the freight on the docks, one wonders how long it will be before they can all go home and begin a normal life again.

At the far end of Main street is a market where peasants come in to sell things. The women are small and sturdy and infinitely foreign looking. This is the divide. Here western Europe is left behind. The peasants are dressed in striped home-woven skirts, accordion plaited and looped on each side in panniers, to show their embroidered white linen petticoats. Worked into their purple knitted stockings are great flowers.

They wear short jackets, sometimes of sheepskin, and two handkerchiefs on their heads, one held out from the head by a round wooden ring and falling down the back, and the other over the head. On their feet they wear "ponks," a sort of moccasin, kept on with thongs wound around the ankle. Every bit of their costumes is beautifully ornamented with embroidery. The men are dressed in home-spun wool. Their trousers are wide at the top and they wear their bright colored socks outside of them. The shoes on their feet are like moccasins. Their coats are tight-fitting, very short and braided. They wear Astrakhan cap that finish in a peak. Crowds of them come up from the river and through the newly opened stores. War has been with them so long, the enemy has been here such a time, that only now are they beginning to breathe again. They seem curiously foreign in this town which tries so hard to relate itself to Europe. What do they know about Europe or the war, those peasants? They go on with their faithful lives, sowing and reaping their crops and rearing children.

In nearly every generation invading armies have destroyed the work of these Serbian peasant men and women. The invaders have killed them, trampled their crops and stolen their animals. Yet war is hardly over before they are back again selling their little diminished stores of things and their spring vegetables, dressed in their gorgeous clothes with their silk handkerchiefs hanging magnificently down their backs. War comes, and destruction with it, but still they weave cloth, and still they embroider flowers.

In the Belgrade orphan asylum of the American Red Cross, children play in the yard without attendants, without direction. One very little boy plays a harmonica and the rest dance the kola, the national dance. They dance with grave intentness, one intricate step after another, both boys and girls. These children's parents have been killed in the war. The little ones have been under bombardment. They have lived without food. Who knows what terror has been theirs or what memories? Yet there they play in the spring sunshine, the pale green of young leaves behind them, little children and big ones dancing the kola together.

Men and women die but the customs that make a country survive, the songs of a people do not perish, nor do the patterns which they love. These things live; they form a current which carries with it the life of the people. The Red Cross orphanage and the children dancing the kola to music of their own, in the spring sunshine, is a symbol of the Serbia which suffers, but carries on.

AMERICAN EDITORS TO HOLD SESSIONS IN SEATTLE SOON

Arrive There Thursday, August 14, and Remain Period of Four Days.

Seattle, July 24.—(Correspondence of The Associated Press.)—American editors and publishers, members of the National Editorial Association, are coming to the Pacific northwest next month for their 1919 convention. The newspaper men will not hold all their meetings in one city but will journey from Portland to Tacoma and Seattle and across the Canadian line to Vancouver and Victoria, stopping at each point.

Seattle has completed plans for the entertainment of the visitors. They will arrive here Thursday, August 14, and remain four days. Tacoma is working with Seattle in arranging a program. According to report Portland has set aside $10,000 to spend on the entertainment. The British Columbia cities of Vancouver and Victoria have also appropriated funds for their share of the program.

A special train, to be known as the Victory Special, will carry the editors from city to city. Eastern and middle western delegates will journey west from Winnipeg, Canada, on a special train of the Canadian Pacific railway.

A trip to Mount Rainier will be one of the features of the entertainment planned by Seattle and Tacoma. A banquet is to be given by the Seattle newspapers and a tour of the Puget Sound and Lake Washington has been arranged. Governor Louis F. Hart and Mayor Ole Hanson will speak at one of the business sessions of the convention. While in Victoria the convention will hold a business session in the Parliament building. Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper is to preside.

Officers of the association are Representative Guy U. Hardy, Canyon City, Colo., president; Edward Albright, Gallatin, Tenn., vice president; and H. U. Bailey, Princeton, Ill., Senator G. L. Caswell, Denton, Ia., E. E. Brodie, Oregon City, Ore., and Frank N. Henderson, Little Rock, Ark., members of the executive committee.

Isaac Stephenson Estate Valued at Over 7 Millions

Marinette, July 25.—The inventory of the Stephenson trust, part of the estate of the late Senator Isaac Stephenson, was filed here yesterday.

The valuation as fixed for the trust on May 1, 1917, is $4,483,697.88. The valuation fixed for March 15, 1919, at the time of death is $4,432,666.28, or a decrease of $51,131.60 in the valuation.

The valuation of the estate proper as filed by the appraisers Feb. 7, 1919, is $2,899,375.37. This makes the total value of the entire estate as fixed by the appraisers approximately $7,333,073.25.

The estate some time ago made a tender to cover $150,000 to the state of Wisconsin as payment of its state taxes. Whether this covers the total amount of the state tax will be determined at the hearing. The estate is now preparing to pay its federal inheritance tax which is something over a million dollars.

The principal items of the Stephenson Trust are 27,858 shares of the I. Stephenson Co. of Wells, Mich., valued at $1,394,325; U. S. bonds, $332,885; 20,000 shares of Stephenson Redwood Co., $600,000; 55 promissory notes of I. Stephenson Co., $552,000, and 2,000 shares of the Wells building, Milwaukee, $200,000. The other items are principally bonds varying in amounts from $20,000 to $100,000.

FORD EXPLAINS SON'S EXEMPTION

EDSEL WANTED TO ENLIST, BUT STAYED TO HELP FATHER ON WAR WORK.

TURNED DOWN COMMISSIONS

Refused to Compromise His Decision by Wearing a Uniform While Far Behind the Firing Line in a Factory.

Mt. Clemens, Mich., July 24.—Henry Ford had spent less than two hours on the witness stand testifying in his own behalf when he quit the chair Wednesday, but he did not leave until he had cleared up the point for which everyone has been waiting since the trial opened—the exemption of his son, Edsel Ford, from the selective draft. The questions which led up to the subject were introduced by the Tribune in the last minutes of Mr. Ford's testimony.

"Mr. Ford," said Elliott Stevenson, "your son wanted to go to war, didn't he?"

"Yes, he did," replied Mr. Ford. "He wanted to enlist?"

"Yes sir."

"You were opposed to it?"

"I told him he could do more good where he was."

Mr. Ford's own attorneys then took up the point.

"Did you feel that you needed your son in the war work which your factories were doing?" asked Alfred Lucking.

"Yes, he was a great aid to me."

"He personally was willing to go to war, as stated by Mr. Stevenson?"

"Yes, he wanted to go."

"Mr. Ford, was he offered commissions in the army which would have permitted him to wear a uniform and stay right in the factory?"

"Yes, he declined them."

"Would there have been any difficulty about getting a uniform for Edsel Ford if he had been willing to take it that way?"

"No."

"Do you remember stating that there would be no camouflage about that; that you did not wish him to take a uniform and appear to be in service when he was merely attending to work in the factory?"

"Yes, I said that."

It was the first time that a complete statement of the conditions surrounding the request for the exemption of the young president of the Ford Motor company has been made. Those who had expected a grilling attack on the motives of Henry Ford in opposing his son's desire to enlist were disappointed. Mr. Ford's inclination to shoulder the responsibility and the revelation of the fact that, having taken what he believed to be the correct stand in urging his son to remain at home and supervise the details of the war work being done by the Ford factories, both he and Edsel Ford refused to compromise that decision and hide behind military trapping, completely disarmed the criticism which it had been generally expected would follow the introduction of the subject.

Willing, affable and anxious to answer the questions hurled at him by the Tribune attorneys, Mr. Ford became exceedingly self-conscious and diffident when his own counsel took up the examination. He would not accept the intent of his attorneys to draw from his testimony that which would reveal the full extent of his patriotic work during the war, of his treatment of his employees or of his hope that he might continue to serve humanity more freely in the future.

"I want to forget all about my war work," he said once. "I feel just as the soldiers feel. I don't want to talk about what I have done."

Requests for details which would have cleared up points on which Tribune attorneys dwelt effectively were denied.

"It is all in the record," said Mr. Ford.

The real reason for the purchase by Edsel Ford of the interests of the minority stockholders in the Ford Motor company came out during the morning. Mr. Ford said that last spring he had been so bothered by the opposition of stockholders who wanted him to squeeze the public, the government, the Ford workers and the Ford products for the last possible dollar, that he made up his mind to quit the company, and offered his stock for sale with the intention of organizing a new industry in which he and his son could work out their ideals unhampered. He offered his stock for sale. Edsel Ford, however, secured his father's permission to make an effort to buy out the minority stockholders and succeeded, so that with the control of the company entirely in their own hands they gave up the idea of organizing a new corporation.

THE NUMEROUS GREAT PORTS OF JUGO SLAVIA —WHY ASK FOR FIUME?

[Ed. Note.—This map is an exact reproduction from a map drawn to scale in 1912. Since that time the railroad was completed to Spalato and Trau—it is shown on the map as projected at that time.]

The well known treaty of London leaves to the Jugo Slavs sufficient natural outlets on the Adriatic, comprised in more than a dozen large ports and about 600 miles of coast line. The black arrows on the map indicate the principal ports, and among them we find Metecov, which, with the other two ports of Gravosa and Ragusa furnish the natural passageway between the Adriatic and the Danube (via the valleys of the Narente and the Bosna). The geographical center of the new Jugo Slav nation is at the city of Serajevo. The importance of these Jugo Slav ports is recognized in the treaty of London. Exclusive of Fiume, their commerce in 1912 surpassed fourteen million tons, or more than double that of Marseilles, the great port of Southern France. They are, therefore, quite sufficient for the needs of the Jugo Slavs.

THE MEAT QUESTION.

France suffers from a scarcity of meat and prices are high. Does France sit down and discuss futilely the proposition that something ought to be done about it? Yes, that is exactly what France has done, according to Stephanie Lauzanne, former French high commissioner in the United States, who while here had opportunity to observe Government operation of huge industrial concerns. But Mr. Lauzanne makes some very radical suggestions to the French government. Among other things, he advocates erection of government re-frigerating plants and operation of government refrigerator cars and government ban on meat exportations from any French colony to any country other than France, he says.

There are beef and sheep in abundant in North French-Africa and in Madagascar. France must restrict importation of it to France alone. There must be government packing houses in Morocco, in Algeria, in Madagascar.
There must be storage plants at points of debarkation—in Marseilles, Bordeaux, St. Nazaire; there must be refrigerator cars on French railways; France must do as England and Belgium have done.

Whether France will heed the urg-ings of Mr. Lauzanne it is impossible to say. In the United States we can not restrict our food products to our own people. But we have a great and efficient system of packing and meat distribution; storage houses, refrigerators and the like in private hands, and although there is abundant of meat in the country the public continues to pay higher prices for it.

What to do about this is one of the blindest questions ever before the American people.

Will somebody kindly take those United States Senators to one side and tell them the League of Nations provides for peace and we want a little.

"Clarified councils" is the new dose prescribed by Dr. Wilson. The members of the Senatorial gas squad are a unit in declaring they never felt better, as far as that goes, in their lives.

steamer Lake Foxboro, built at Superior and which passed through the locks here, has reached Stettin, Ger-here. Her crew was largely made up of lake seamen.

GEORGE SISLER PULLS SOME SPARKLERS
AT INITIAL SACK FOR ST. LOUIS BROWNS

One of the Best First Basemen in the Major Leagues.

George Sisler's play at first base furnishes some odd ones often because of the speed with which his mind and body co-ordinate, but a play he pulled in the recent St. Louis-Washington series probably climaxed any stunt he ever pulled. Foster was on first with one down in the eighth inning when Milan smashed a hard bouncer between first and second. Sisler knocked the ball down about 20 feet inside first base with his glove hand and deflected it toward second base. Bronkie was coming over from his position near second to back up a possible play. The ball, bounding from Sisler's glove bounced high into Bronkie's hands.

Sisler did not know that Bronkie had the ball, but his mind told him that if he did then there was a possible chance for a play at first base. Without turning to watch the ball and not knowing where it might be, Sisler dashed to his station, whirled about, and took a quick toss from Bronkie, who himself was no slouch in the performance.

WHY CHILLY WEATHER
BRINGS RHEUMATISM

Says skin pores are closed uric acid remains in blood.

Rheumatism is no respecter of sex, color or rank. If not the most dangerous of human afflictions it is one of the most painful. Those subject to rheumatism should eat less meat dress as warmly as possible, avoid ex-posure and, above all, drink lots of pure water.
Rheumatism is caused by uric acid which is generated in the bowels and absorbed into the blood. It is the function of the kidneys to filter this from the blood and cast it out in urine; the pores of the skin are a means of freeing the blood of its impurity. In damp and chilly, wet weather the skin pores are closed forcing the kidneys to do double work to eliminate this uric acid which accumulates and circulating through the system, eventually settling in the joints and muscles causing stiffness and pain called rheumatism.
At the first twinge of rheumatism from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts; put a tablespoonful in glass of water and drink before breakfast each morning for a week. Jad is said to eliminate uric acid by stimulating the kidneys to normal actions ridding the blood of these impurities.
Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and is used with excellent results by the sands of folks who are subject to the malady. Here you have a pleasant, effervescent lithia-water drink which overcomes uric acid and is beneficial to your kidneys as well.

AT THE DELFT.

Revealing here in a new and unusually captivating characterization, that of a brave, resourceful, high-minded Irish stenographer, Vivian Martin, the beautiful Paramount star, appears in her latest starring vehicle, "Jane Goes A-Wooing" at the Delft theatre today and tomorrow. The picture made an instant and emphatic hit with the audience and every scene of their ripping story was watched with breathless interest.

"Jane Goes A-Wooing" unfolds a story that has great love interest and the whimsical quality that one expects of Miss Martin's pictures. In addition it has more real drama than most of her recent offerings and it should and doubtless will, prove one of her most successful vehicles.

Stock Company to Open Here Monday

The Gifford-Young Stock Company will open their return engagement at the Delft Theatre Monday evening. All the plays to be presented at this time are brand new, and entirely different from those given during the companies weeks engagement here last month. It is a fixed rule of the Gifford-Young Players never to repeat a play, but to give an entire new assortment on each visit to a city. Since leaving here the company have played several weeks in Canada and have also played return engagements in Munising, Marquette and Ishpeming. The personnel of players is the same as during the last engagement here, although the vaudeville stars, Earl Young, John Wolpe, Eloda Sitzer, Howard Stillman, Corinne McDonald and Glen Phillips all have new acts to present next week. The seats for Monday night will be placed on sale early Sunday morning at the Delft.

BASEBALL NOTES

Sam Rice is the leading swat-smith of the Washington club.

The St. Louis Cardinals are beginning to win back the fans.

Some baseball teams seem to think there is plenty of room in the cellar.

Pat Moran surely has his Redland brigade going like real champions.

Fred Thomas is playing a bang-up fielding game for Connie Mack at third base.

There is no getting away from the fact that Dode Paskert has lost some of his speed.

Duffy Lewis is beginning to play the kind of ball that was to be expected of him.

Jimmy Austin has more pep than many a recruit, in spite of his long service in the leagues.

New York is making a real threat for the pennant now and there is a reason for the Yankees' success.

Babe Ruth is among the aristocrats of the batting business, but as a left fielder he's down among the proletariat.

Memphis finally disposed of Joe Slatery by selling him to Tulsa, where he hopes to find the pitching more to his liking.

Percy Haughton, late president of the Boston Braves, is to return to Harvard university in the fall as football coach.

President Martin of the Southern league has dismissed Umpire Schaefer and taken on the veteran Ed Lauzon in his place.

The Memphis club returned Jimmy Corney to the Chicago White Sox with thanks after Jimmy had played a couple of games.

The Yankees are going in for the hit-and-run pretty heavy, and as a result they are scoring more of those they used to leave on the bases.

Cincinnati fans mobbed Umpire Charley Moran the other day. Since it happened after Cincinnati went dry they can't lay it to booze selling at the Cincinnati ball park.

Kid Gleason is quoted as saying that Eddie Cicotte has everything that a pitcher should have. Other clubs will agree and add that he also has something that no pitcher should be allowed to have.

W. A. Harper arrived here this morning from the West to attend the funeral services for his sister, Mrs. Gunder Nygaard. Mr. Harper formerly resided here.

MUST ACT QUICKLY TO SAVE FORESTS

There Has Been Constant Felling of Trees Without Replacement for Years.

Ever since the settlers along the Atlantic seaboard pushed westward through North Carolina, Tennessee and Kentucky; ever since Daniel Boone felled the trees that went into the first log house in the Blue Grass country the smack of the woodman's ax and the crashing down of monarchs of the forest have made an almost ceaseless refrain in these states, endowed by nature with woodlands of an expanse that seemed limitless. The woodmen, however, are nearing the end of the trail. The forests of North Carolina, Tennessee and Kentucky, along with the forests of all other states in the East, are rapidly being exhausted. If the cutting out of the forests goes on as it has gone on, and without any provision for the preservation of part of them or for the growing of new forests, in a surprisingly few years there will be no lumber-producing forests left in the East. This is the statement of officials of the forest service of the United States department of agriculture.

These three states are regarded by forestry service officials as among the most important forested states in the East. They produce great quantities of lumber and other forest products. North Carolina, Tennessee and Kentucky still have great areas of forest lands. The exhaustion of forests in these three states is indicated by official government figures of lumber production for 1899 and 1917—the latest year for which they are available. Other reasons why the forests of Kentucky, Tennessee and North Carolina must be preserved are that the streams traversing them have their origin in the woodlands and depend upon them for their regular flow.

MOBILE GUNS ON COAST

War Department Planning for Better Defense of Washington. War department experts have been making a careful study of the defenses of the Chesapeake bay district and the vicinity of Roanoke, Va., for the purpose of putting into service big guns on railway mounts to supplement the fixed fortifications maintained for the defense of the national capital. A number of heavy howitzers and rifles mounted on railway carriages already are available for the new coast defenses. Other units are under consideration and still others will be brought back from France. These include 14-inch and 16-inch weapons. Coast artillery officers have called a conference of railroad officials whose lines center in Baltimore, Richmond and Wilmington, N. C., regarding the practicability of constructing permanent spurs from the main lines to the coast along Chesapeake bay. Installation of the new batteries for the defense of Washington is said to be the first step in a program to supplement the defenses of both the Atlantic and Pacific coasts with mobile big guns.

FRENCH FILL TRENCHES

Crops of Grains and Vegetables Now Growing on Battlefields. Trenches and the shell-marked landscape of Belgium and northern France have been filled in with land, and this season's crops are growing on the fields where a year ago the allies and Germans were facing each other in battle array, according to Mrs. William Draper of the International Red Cross. Many of the people, said Mrs. Draper, with only a tent or strip of canvas rigged up for a home, have painted vegetable gardens to provide food for this summer and next winter.

Miss Lucille Nolden is seriously ill with pleurisy at her home on South 16th street.

CASE AFTER CASE. Plenty more like this in Escanaba. Scores of Escanaba people can tell you about Doan's Kidney Pills. Many a happy citizen makes a public statement of this experience. Here is a case of it. What better proof of merit can be had than such endorsement? Mrs. C. F. Kimber, 1321 Wells, Ave., says: "Several years ago I was troubled awfully with my back and kidneys, were weak, causing great annoyance. I had frequent dizzy spells, too. I got Doan's Kidney Pills at The Hill Drug Store and they soon cured me of the trouble. Since then, I have always kept this medicine on hand for emergencies." Price 60c at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Kimber had, Foster Milburn Co., Mfgs., Buffalo, N. Y.

Sportsmen Pleased With Closed Season. Delta county sportsmen are well pleased with the action taken by the state game commission in continuing the closed season on partridges this year. They believe the movement will result in a largely increased number of birds in the woods next fall. The birds are increasing in good numbers and by next year it is believed that the peninsula will be stocked again. For a time it looked as if the birds in the upper peninsula would be entirely killed off so scarce were they becoming. Hunters did not do them as much damage as the unfavorable weather. It has been some time since the birds have had such excellent weather for breeding as this year. In the past several years as soon as the eggs were hatched many young ones would be killed off by the cold or rain.

Niagara Comes Here To Make a Cleaning

The Niagara ball club comes here Sunday, all primed to clean up the Escanaba club, especially since Dolly Lawrence has taken over the job of receiving the paper city gang. The Olmsted Colts, however, are getting in regular practice periods and it is believed Niagara will have a hard task on its hands to win. With Jermain pitching and Perrow receiving, Escanaba has a strong combination. Lawrence's only advantage is being familiar with the batting ability of the Escanaba players.

The Glory of Pearls

The lovely coloring and shimmering iridescence give pearls distinctive beauty that becomes both matron and maid. In summer they give the final touch of beauty and smart style to dresses of light material.

La Tusca pearls reproduce nature's coloring, rivaling oriental gems in beauty. They are magnificence without extravagance.

We show necklaces of La Tusca pearls, both uniform and graduated, in all the fashionable lengths. We invite your examination.

He said he went to the Douglas home, which was nearest to the spot where he was held up because he saw an automobile standing in the yard and thought he could get the owner to help him chase the highwaymen.

Knutson was allowed to go after the examination, but promised to give the officers any help he could from now on. "I'm interested in this case now," he said.
