Some of the Raemaer cartoons that England wets are using in the fight to save John Barleycorn's life. Upper right and center drawings were designed especially for Scotland, where people are considered very religious. "The Spy's Return" is sub-captioned, "Moses speaking: 'Well, I thought it was grapes, but I must have been mistaken.'" Lower left shows two British workmen holding up the umbrella of England to protect their beer from Uncle Sam's stars and stripes shower. Lower right has an application to the United States in that in the south it is claimed that negroes, deprived of their booze, are taking to cocaine sniffing.

DETROIT READY FOR HARD YEAR; PLAYERS REPORT

Tigers Start Training in Southern Camp; Few Are Absent.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS)

—MACCI, Ga., March 11.—With but two or three exceptions all men on the Tiger roster were to report at the training camp here this week, and with better weather in prospect Hughie Jennings and Jack Coombs hoped to make up for the slow progress during the first week in the south. Most of the practice sessions have been brief and of a go-as-you-please manner and bonfires were the most popular positions on the lot on several days. Notwithstanding the unfavorable conditions the athletes were all said to be in good shape and Coombs reports that there is not a sore arm in evidence in this army of recruit hurlers.

Only one of the regulars will be tardy in beginning the spring conditioning here, Ira Flaggstead, outfielder, who was to arrive Monday, but Bob Veach and Bernie Boland, was forced to delay his departure from Montague, Mich., by an attack of influenza. It may be two weeks or more before he can report. "Dutch" Leonard has been given permission to pass up the camp and get into shape in California while he devotes the few remaining weeks to personal affairs.

Trainer Coombs is centering his attention on recruit pitchers, several of whom he hopes to round into second string caliber. Claude Jonnard who came from the Nashville Southern Association club showed up well during the first week's practice, but Coombs has expressed no opinion on the merits of any of the youngsters. Two of them came up from the Michigan Ontario league, Bert Glasier from Hamilton and Frank Okrje from London. Others include Jim Roberts from New Orleans and Ernest Allen who played with Springfield, O., in the Central League before going to war.

Two hour morning and afternoon sessions were on the schedule for this week with scrub games comprising most of the work.

Street Address Must Be Placed On Letters

The increasing number of letters without street addresses being received at the post office daily, has led to Postmaster John O'Meara issuing a warning to the business houses of the city, to take more care in addressing their letters. This carelessness often leads to delay in the delivering of importance mail, and the business firms of the city are asked to remedy this condition by seeing that proper street addresses are placed on all their outgoing mail.

Birth of a Second.

Each new second is heralded by a flash of light and the ring of a bell in the factory of an electrical firm in Providence—not to remind the workers that the dire day of doom approaches, but to help them in their work. Often men must count seconds accurately for certain operations while they watch their work closely. This concentrating on two things at one time is very difficult. It is simplified by the new second-announcer. As the pendulum of the clock swings to the right it touches a wire, thus making a contact that causes the light to flash and the bell to ring.—Popular Science Monthly.

CHILE COMPLAINS OF POOR SERVICE FROM THE U. S. A.

Say That Orders Are Not Filled By North Americans.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS)

SANTIAGO, March 11.—Chilean merchants complain of delays in delivery of goods ordered from the United States and that in some cases their orders are not filled by North American manufacturers, because the United States does not use the metric system of measures.

Some Chileans declare that, instead of consulting the wishes and peculiarities of the Chilean market, the American seems inclined to sell only what he has to offer and to impose conditions.

As evidence of this situation the Chilean cite the case of a firm of wholesale dealers who placed in the United States a large order for light summer wear textiles which were needed here in December. They paid 30 per cent on account and after awaiting shipment were advised that it could not be made before the end of January. This cost that firm its summer trade. The Chileans say that no explanations can condone that.

The newspaper paper business is declared to have been completely taken away from the United States by Norwegian competitors because the Americans cannot guarantee deliveries nor prices.

One firm of iron founders placed a big order for material of various quantities and dimensions and two months later received advices that the material could not be shipped as the manufacturers could deliver goods only to approximate metrical measurements.

There is some complaint that there seems to be no system in the North American export business and that the sellers have lost sight of the principle that the buyer is not forced to buy unless he chooses that he has opportunity for choice and will buy where he obtains satisfaction in quality, delivery and credits.

Chile imports about $150,000,000 worth of goods annually and now that the nitrate export trade is booming, there is an active market here for machinery for new enterprises, steel and iron for public works and railroads, iron for private industry, petroleum, textiles, sugar and automobiles.

AT THE DELFT. Has a black cat ever crossed your path? What a terrible sensation followed when it did and for weeks everytime something went wrong at home or there was a business reverse, the poor kitty came in for all the blame. It was back in the Sixteenth Century, according to a learned historian of Rhode Island, that the superstition of the black cat fable was introduced. A clergyman was returning from his church after the Sunday evening sermon and he carried with him the days offering of the congregation. A black cat darted in front of him, without warning, and as the story goes, ten steps later he was felled when a heartless bandit attacked him. The victim was robbed and the assailant fled. And all of this was attributed to the act of the harmless feline. History repeats itself in Douglas Fairbanks' current "Big Four" production, "When the Clouds Roll By," which will be shown at the Delft Theatre today. Doug is not a clergy-

AT THE STRAND.

One of the many interesting features of "The Corsican Brothers," the super photodrama starring Dustin Farnum, at the Strand theatre today, is the comparison that can be made between the fashions of today and those of 1840. In the motion picture version of Dumas' world famous book Miss Winifred Kingston, the eluding lady wears gowns that are exact duplicates of lady's dress of the forties. The costumes were designed from paintings used as covers of that noted fashion magazine Harper's Bazaar and dare precisely the sort of gowns, hats, etc., that the fashionable belle of the olden time used to wear. Miss Kingston's costumes for "The Corsican Brothers" furnished quite an item of expense in the production of the picture. The silk used cost, in one instance, over fifty dollars a yard before it was made up. Wherever this latest starring vehicle of Dustin Farnum's has been shown the comparison between the old fashions and those of the present

PATIENCE AND VISION

Link Patience with Vision, work the two in double harness and they will in the end emerge triumphant from "the crash of systems and the wreck of worlds." Vision and Patience stand as a constant rebuke to those who are in much too great a hurry. Haste makes for waste. That is especially true, as far as the problems arising out of our social relations are concerned. And, in this connection, it would probably be found that social problems never present a national crisis unless there are a great many people who are in a very great hurry to do something or other. Patience and vision are wise. They know that it is not so much by reason of being served as it is by serving that human creatures are brought into normal community relations with their fellows. Therein lies the secret of Community Service as it is now conceived. It is not so much that through Community Service the individual is ministered to as it is that through Community Service the individual ministers to the community. Community Service, organized by Patience and Vision, constitutes an open door. Through that door the individual can pass and be something in and for the community. In order to unite those who may be separated by prejudice, by passion, by misunderstanding, it is only necessary to unite them in a common objective. Those who are working for the same end cannot forever continue working against each other. Community Service has in our time come to stand for both an Organization and for an Idea. As an organization, Community Service has back of it this principle: Community Service is the medium through which the residents of a community get together and truly become members of it, with a consequent real interest in Community well-being, prosperity and stability. Can the thing be done? Not over night, perhaps. Not by day after tomorrow, or even by next month. But, in the end—Patience and Vision both answer for it.
