

NEITHER REPORT OF COMMISSIONS TO BE ADOPTED

President Wilson Will Try to Make Compromise.

Operators And Miners Face Arrest by the Federal Grand Jury.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS)
INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., March 12.—One hundred and twenty five coal operators and miners of Indiana and Pennsylvania today are facing arrest as a result of the indictments returned yesterday by a special federal grand jury here which charged them with a conspiracy to violate the Lever act and the Federal Criminal Code.

No names of those indicted were made public this morning and there will be nothing said as to their identity until they are served with subpoenas. It is known however that more than one half of those indicted are operators and consequently about the same number are miners. The cause of the indictment resulted from the after effects of the actions which brought on the coal strike, that in turn led to an investigation by the special grand jury.

Attempt Compromise.

WASHINGTON, March 12.—An effort to compromise the differences between the majority and minority of the bituminous coal strike commission will be made by President Wilson today it was stated at the White House this morning.

Officials of the administration said that neither the majority or the minority report will be adopted if it is possible to bring the members of the commission to an agreement on the disputed principles—the amount of the wage increase and the conditions and hours of work.

CITY ELECTION TO BE QUIET THIS YEAR; PAPERS ARE FILED

James F. Pryal Is Unopposed For the Office of City Executive.

The political pot will not boil over in Escanaba this year. Nomination and election petitions have been filed with City Clerk Carl E. Anderson by members of the NON-PARTISAN party and apparently, the contest this year will be more like a church social than a city election.

With the retirement of Mayor O. P. Chatfield in April, the major party race is singular, James F. Pryal being the only candidate for the office of city executive.

Carl E. Anderson present city clerk is also a candidate for re-election and likewise is unopposed. Mr. Anderson is a long time office holder in this city having served in several different capacities during his political career.

For city treasurer, James B. Wilkinson is the Non-partisan candidate and like the other aspirants has no opposition for the office.

C. D. McEwen present justice of the peace is again a candidate. He has been in office eight years and will have no opposition at the spring election.

List of Candidates.

The alderman and supervisor candidates with the constables from the respective wards are as follows:

1st ward:
Phil Mayotte, supervisor,
Guy H. Ramsey, Alderman—
2d ward:
Frank H. Atkins
Arthur T. Hoffman
Henry Doughtney, constable
3rd ward:
George Harvey
Zeph Beauchamp
Joseph Perry
4th ward:
Adolph Duplus
Marc Peplin
George Hoover.
5th ward:
Peter N. Peterson.
Charles Grunert.
6th ward:
Dolphus F. Villemur
Edward Jeranstrom
Charles Johnson.
7th ward:
Albert Halverson
Alfred Peltier
Joseph Mileski.

Besides the city officers who will be elected, there will be the presidential preference primary. Each party will have ballots and the electors will have a chance to signify their choice for the presidential nomination.

ECHOES OF BOAT ACCIDENT HEARD IN EVIDENCE HERE

Compensation Claim of Edward White For Death of Foster Son.

While Industrial Commissioner Reeves was in the city this week another action was heard before him. Edward Cripe as applicant appeared before the commission through his attorney Mr. Campbell of Minneapolis asking that the London Guaranty and Accident company, represented by Attorney T. E. Strom compensate him for the loss of his foster son who it is alleged in the declaration was drowned last August when the steamer "Buckley" was entering the harbor at Gladstone.

The history of the case is a peculiar one, many legal and technical questions being involved. Chester Cripe, the foster son of Edward Cripe, was working for the National Transit company. He was employed as a deck hand on the "Buckley". He had lived with his foster parents for many years although no legal adoption papers had even been received by them.

According to the story of the applicant, the son was walking over the poles, which were loaded on the boat, at a late hour in the night. Whether he fell from the boat, was pushed into the water or took his life in some manner himself, is a question to be decided by the industrial commission.

Body is Found.

The body was found eight days after the occurrence. A coroner's Post Mortem brought out the fact that death did not result from drowning because there was not a sufficient amount of water in the lungs to cause death in that manner.

The Post Mortem further proved that death had not come about by foul means as near as can be determined as there were no bodily signs which would indicate it.

At the hearing, witnesses for both sides testified to different stories and the commissioner took the matter under advisement. A decision will be handed down later. Some bitter legal "love taps" ensued during the hearing between Mr. Strom and the Minneapolis counsel.

Suffering Caused From Floods And Wind In Kentucky

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS)
BRONSON, Ky., March 12.—Water loomed as a further menace to life and property today in Penay county where the tornado which hit this place last yesterday afternoon cost at least eleven lives and caused damage, the amount of which can not be estimated until the high water goes down.

Incessant rains which preceded the storm sent all of the streams of the Ozark valley up over their banks and the water continued to rise until the danger became exceedingly acute.

LAND DEALS

Record was made this morning at the Register of Deeds office of a sale between Rev. Alphonse C. Calguard, of Perkins, and Horace D. Gibbs, W. J. Ropin and W. B. Moreau. The property involved is a parcel of land in section 21, near Squaw Creek. The consideration was $50.

Ivor and Mary Wallin have sold five acres of section 36, to Tony Larich. The consideration was $600. The records show that this land was purchased in July, 1919, from John Alfred and Rose Grant, of Seattle.

Victor DeGrande of this city has sold the southwest quarter (southwest quarter of the southwest quarter) of Section 24 to James Youzks, of Woodlawn. The consideration was $250.

She has been prominent in club, suffrage and civic work for years and has been active in the prohibition movement.

PEACE TREATY FIGHT GETTING WORSE DAILY

Senate Leaders Puzzled Over What Action Might Follow.

Investigation of Conduct in War Still Going On in Washington.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS)
(BULLETIN)
WASHINGTON, March 12.—A substitute for the Republican reservation to Article 10 of the peace treaty was introduced in the Senate today by the Republican leader, Senator Lodge, of Massachusetts.

In general, it follows the same form as the draft agreed to a few days ago in the bi-partisan conference. When the resolution was introduced, it was stated that the Republicans had already lined up enough votes to force ratification of it and ratification of the treaty on that basis but that agreement had not yet been reached. The Republican leaders planned to get a vote on the treaty some time today.

It was apparent that there was a failure to unite the colleagues to win the recent vote. Senator Fraeling who revised reservation was weakening the stand taken. He offered the substitute reservation. The irreconcilable forces continued their opposition to the pact and it was indicated that there would be no vote taken before Saturday. It was learned that about thirty had already been lined up to vote for the new draft. Democrats predicted that approximately the same number of their forces would vote for it. It takes sixty-four senators to get the required vote to pass it.

WASHINGTON, March 12.—Nobody can tell what is likely to happen in the senate peace treaty fight now. So many different sides have recently appeared in the fight and the attempt to bring about a settlement through senate leaders endeavoring to negotiate that even the senate leaders themselves are puzzled as to what step should be taken and cannot say what the outcome of the pact will be. The bitter squabble has resulted from the original debate on Article 10 of the league covenant.

Republican leaders consented to several changes in the wording of the reservation yesterday in hopes that they would be able to collect their scattered forces but apparently they have not been successful even by that. A vote on Article 10 is expected to be taken before Saturday.

Williams, aged 90, who died at her home at Sand Bay near Stonington after a few days' illness, will be conducted Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock at Indiantown, with interment in the Indiantown cemetery. Mrs. Williams is survived by her husband, two daughters and three sons.

AMERICAN HEROES WHO DIED WILL BE RETURNED TO U. S.

Bodies of Many Soldier Dead Will Be Taken Here in the Near Future.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS)
WASHINGTON, March 12.—The bodies of 52,000 of the American dead will be returned to the United States while between twenty and twenty-five thousand will be kept there for permanent burial. Secretary Baker made an announcement to that effect this morning.

The secretary, who wrote concerning the resolution, estimated that the cost of burial and change of graves would cost approximately thirty million dollars.

Conjection of the French transport system and the shortage of material with which coffins are manufactured has handicapped the work considerably, the secretary stated.

One hundred and eleven of the bodies have already been sent to this country for burial, it was declared. They came from the region of Archangel and the same number, it is estimated, is there yet. It will be impossible to move them for at least a year, owing to conditions there.

Strong Man Will Let Automobile Go Over Him Tomorrow

F. B. Franks, the world's strongest man is in the city having come over from Gladstone where he is putting on an exhibition of strength in that city. He will be seen at the Coliseum in this city Sunday afternoon and evening. Some of the stunts "pulled off" by the strong man are marvelous and have attracted country wide attention.

Such things as picking up hundreds of pounds of iron; handling car wheels like a child handles play blocks; breaking iron bars over his neck and shoulders and other feats of strength are only a small part of the many portraays given by the giant of power.

Mr. Frank is not an exceptionally large man but possesses unlimited strength in all muscles of his body. He will be seen on Ludington street in front of the Tilbert cafe tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock. At that time he will lie in the street and let any heavy motor car in the city pass over his body.

Two performances will be given at the Coliseum, one in the afternoon and the other in the evening; 3:15 and 9:00 o'clock have been set as the time for the exhibitions. Skating will be held before and after the acts. Ladies are especially invited to attend the performances.

Funerals Postponed Because of Snow On Roads To Cemetery

The funeral of August Nye which was to be held tomorrow has been postponed because of the blocked roads between Rapid River and Gladstone.

The funeral of Mrs. M. Ettenhofer which also was planned for tomorrow has been postponed because of the snowdrifts which have made the roads impassible.

The bodies of the two Brule children, victims of the unfortunate train accident near Little Lake, will be taken to this city Sunday night, according to word received by Undertaker Allo this morning. The remains of both bodies will be held at the establishment until Monday when the funeral will be held if possible.

The funeral of the late Charles Constanthrina who died here this week has likewise been postponed because of the severe winter weather and the poor roads caused by the heavy snow.

The funeral of the late Delman Thompson was held this afternoon. Burial took place at Lakeview cemetery.

POOL HALL OWNER PROSECUTED HERE; PAYS FINE OF $100

Prosecutor Strom Issues Warning to Others in the Townships.

Henry Japla was arrested and arraigned before Justice McEwen this morning charged with operating a pool hall and refreshment parlor at Maple Ridge without a license, or having received permission from the township board.

He was prosecuted under a new statute—the 1919 act—governing such law violations. He was found guilty and fined $100 and costs. They were paid.

The case is of especial interest because of it being possibly the first prosecution in Delta county under the new act. Under the requirement of the law, pool hall operators and refreshment parlor proprietors in the townships must get permission from the township board to operate such places, Japla had not done it.

With the complaint and conviction also came information that the pool hall was, it is alleged, more or less of a public nuisance, was taken here by Sheriff O'Dess and arraigned before the court and confronted with the armed law of Prosecutor T. E. Strom who conducted the case for the state.

The penalty imposed on the Maple Ridge man is not to be confined to this one particular case. It is understood there are other cases of the same condition throughout the county and unless action is taken to remedy them more prosecutions will follow in the near future.

In prosecuting the case, Mr. Strom said: "The town and township people must realize that there are laws governing the operation of such places and that these laws are going to be enforced. The township boards must provide the legal machinery for granting licenses or permits if they so desire."

Local snows and colder tonight with strong northwest to north winds; Saturday generally fair.

A storm of marked intensity in central and Lower Michigan this morning. High pressure predominates in the Rocky Mountain and Plateau regions. Within the last twenty-four hours precipitation occurred in the Mississippi and Ohio Valleys, the Lake region and North Atlantic States, and on the North Pacific coast. A reaction to decidedly colder weather has taken place in all sections, except from the Appalachian Mountains eastward, where it is somewhat warmer.

Local snows and colder weather is indicated for this locality tonight, followed by generally fair weather on Saturday.

Cotterill Sisters Will Tour World

The Herald Leader, Menominee carries the following item of interest concerning the Cotterill Sisters, popular entertainers, who have appeared here on several occasions:

The Misses Cottrill, the popular young musicians, who have been in California most of the winter, write that they expect to leave soon on a trip around the world. They will go from San Francisco to points in Japan and China and then through Europe and back to America. Los Angeles papers have given them considerable publicity. On their way out to the coast they shopped in the larger cities and played before Rotary clubs.

Police On Trail Of Joe Shepherd

Reports today are to the effect that the state police have located a clue which has put them on the trail of Joe Shepherd, who it is alleged gave away the moonshine whiskey which caused the death of two men at the Hillsberg's camp this week. Although the man has not been apprehended as yet, it is believed then police are close on his trail.

CHIEF WITNESS IS SICK AGAIN THIS MORNING

Paul King Unable To Testify in Newberry Case.

Lawyers May Agree Not To Wait For His Cross-Examination Now.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS)
GRAND RAPIDS, March 12.—Paul King, Newberry's 1918 campaign manager made a vain attempt to resume the stand today and proceed with his testimony for the defense in the Newberry election conspiracy trial.

Suffering from a collapse brought on by a nervous breakdown Tuesday he was exhausted after the first five minutes of testimony and was unable to collect his thoughts pertaining to action in the 1918 campaign.

Court was suspended while two physicians attended the witness. He was taken from the court room and immediately ordered to return to bed. It is a question again today whether or not he will be able to resume the stand tomorrow.

After forty five minutes of discussion between the lawyers and the court, the case was adjourned until tomorrow. Whether King will be asked to resume the stand again or if the prosecution will waive the cross-examination and proceed with the rebuttal was not determined today.

McFarlane And Roberts Tied In Race at Coliseum

With both contestants at the Coliseum skating rink was a tie.

On the first few laps McFarlane and Roberts worked side by side, but on the tenth lap Roberts was leading by six feet, when he fell. He quickly regained his feet, however, and finished the fourteenth lap even with McFarlane. The distance was one mile and the time three minutes. John Desmond and Peter C. Dube were the judges.

Before the races McFarlane pleased the large crowd with an exhibition of fancy and trick skating.

Tonight he will stage his exhibition again at nine o'clock and will race against William Egan of this city.

Women Are Taking Political Interest

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS)
CHICAGO, March 12.—Women are going into politics with a very different attitude of mind than the men, Ida M. Gibson of the women's bureau, national Democratic committee, said today after a speaking tour of Indiana and Illinois.

"Women of both parties realize they have a lot to learn," she said, "and they are more open minded than the men."

"They deplore the methods often used by men in politics and are more inclined to be fair. On my trip I spoke to Republican women in Republican clubs and a number of these women told me in spite of their party they were in favor of an open mind at the polls."

"The suffragists aren't the only ones who are going in for politics. In fact many of the women who are assuming leadership in Illinois and Indiana were never connected with the suffrage movement. Politicians will be surprised when they see what a large number of women are taking up their duties as voters."

LaFollette Leaves To Vote On Pact

MADISON, Wis., March 12.—Senator LaFollette left for Washington where he will be present tomorrow to vote on the treaty reservation to Article 10. He will then return and go to Rochester to undergo an operation in that city.

ENID BENNETT

H. Ince Star in Paramount Pictures. Enid Bennett in "What Every Woman Learns" at the Strand Tonight and Tomorrow.

AT THE STRAND.

Enid Bennett, who is coming to the Strand Theatre today in a new picture "What Every Woman Learns," is a great lover of birds and flowers. Surrounding her home is a beautiful garden that contains practically every variety of flower grown in southern California and every tree has its bird house. Canaries, parrots, and other songsters hang in cages around the spacious veranda. Her chief pets, however, are a family of Australian rabbits which a friend presented to her when she was a little girl and which she carefully brought to America with her and lodged in a pen. Miss Bennett herself has often been likened by her acquaintances to a child in her vivaciousness and enthusiasm. In her new picture, "What Every Woman Learns," which is the second picture in the series, she is the exuberant child-wife who becomes sobered through tragedy and learns that a philosophy of joy alone will not enable her to cope with her more serious problems. Milton Sills, Irving Cummings, and Theodore Roberts are included in the cast, and the picture was directed by Fred Niblo.

AT THE DELFT.

No real man ever intentionally sets to work to make a girl cry, for if there's anything he dislikes in life it is that tyranny of tears. Yet that's exactly what Victor Fleming, the director for Douglas Fairbanks did in Doug's next "Big Four" picture, "When the Clouds Roll By," which is to be seen at the Delft theatre today.

Doug wrote the story and in one scene he insisted in his script that the young lady with whom he was in love and who turned him down, was to shed real tears. Kathleen Clifford, said young lady, in the part, couldn't make her tear ducts work the day the picture was to be made, so Director Fleming, when he had her rehearsing on the set deliberately berated her. Finally the temperamental little girl became so worked up and nervous that she broke forth in great heart-rending sobs, and then the fiendish director yelled, "Shoot, Camera," and laughed finally at her because he had secured just what he desired. Despite his success it was days before he had Miss Clifford believing that he was only getting her to play a crying part. He proved his argument eventually when they screened the scene and she realized that the harsh methods had obtained excellent results.

BETS ON NEWBERRY.

MEMONINEE—John J. O'Hara returned this morning from Grand Rapids, Mich., where he was one of the character witnesses for the defense in the Newberry trial. Mr. O'Hara says the consensus of opinion at Grand Rapids is that the government will fail to convict a single man in the case. Bets of twenty-five to one are being offered at Grand Rapids that Senator Newberry and all of the respondents will be acquitted, now that the jury have got the real atmosphere, where there are no grounds whatever, on which to base a conspiracy charge.

The House of Whispers

WILLIAM JOHNSTON

Illustrations by IRWIN MYERS

Copyright by Little, Brown & Co. (Continued From Yesterday)

There was my opportunity. Gorman had utterly refused to credit my story of a secret passage and had ridiculed it. There had been no way that I could prove it, nor was it possible for Gorman to have investigated the walls of the Granddeck, even if he had placed any credence in my story. With my great-uncle it was different. As the occupant of the apartment he would have every right and opportunity to explore and verify my statements. I told him how, while speculating as to the origin of the whispers, I had observed the discrepancy in the measurements of the apartment and had verified my deduction that there was space enough for a passageway big enough for a man to traverse in the wall between the room I had occupied and the long hall. He listened intently as I described the plan of the rooms in detail and nodded his approval.

"And what is more," I added triumphantly, "Barbara Bradford and I had just discovered an opening into it by pushing the wall panel in my room back and then sliding it along. We were inspecting it when we heard the shot in the apartment below. I closed the panel and ran downstairs and have had no opportunity since to investigate, but I am sure the passage is there. I am convinced that it was the sound of voices there that made the whispers. I suspect it was used by whoever left the anonymous notes in the room, and that the person or persons who looted the safes entered and escaped by that means. I would not be surprised if it was not by means of this passageway that the murderer of Miss Lutan escaped, after he had left his revolver in the drawer of my dresser."

"My great-uncle shook his head perplexedly.

"It sounds improbable—too much like a romance. They do not build modern apartment buildings with secret passageways. Space is far too valuable, and besides, all plans have to be filed with the city's bureau of buildings."

"But it's there," I cried desperately. "I saw it. Barbara Bradford saw it."

"Well," he comforted me, "we will soon find out about it. I have many matters to attend to today, but tomorrow I shall go up to the apartment, and if there is such a passageway I shall find it and see where it leads."

"Then you are not staying in the apartment?"

"No, I shall remain at a hotel until my wife returns."

At this juncture a prison attendant approached and informed him that the time of his visit was up. Imperiously my great-uncle waved the man away. Somehow the possession of great wealth carries with it a manner of expecting obedience from every one that generally is successful. The man withdrew, muttering to himself and left us undisturbed.

"Now tell me about the murder," Mr. Gaston directed.

Concisely I stated the facts as I knew them. It was a shock to him to hear that at least two of the trusted attendants at the Granddeck, Wick and the telephone girl, were of the criminal class.

"Tut, tut, tut," he exclaimed. "Just think of it! That's the worst of living in a big city. You never know what sort of people there are about you. I'll call up Mr. Kent, the owner of the building, this afternoon and have him get rid of them at once."

"Please don't," I cried. "Gorman and I are both convinced that Wick and the girl know something about the murder. Don't do anything to let them know that they are under suspicion. So long as they are employed at the Granddeck we know where to lay hands on them when we want them."

"That's so," he admitted. "I'll say nothing for the present. As I won't be living there until after this is cleared up, it can make no difference. But, look here, young man, why doesn't this Bradford girl come forward and clear you of this charge? She was with you at the time. She knows you didn't do it."

"Because I will not permit her to do so," I replied with heat. "I love Barbara Bradford!"

"That's it, is it?" he commented, giving me a quizzical glance from under his bushy white eyebrows.

"I wouldn't for all the world," I continued. "have her mixed up in this. Her sister is to be married tomorrow, and the scandal might stop the wedding; and besides I'm not going to have it known that she was there alone with me that night in my rooms. I've her too well for that. Some day I'm going to ask her to be my wife."

He raised his eyebrows.

"And on what do you expect to marry?" he inquired.

"Of course I have said nothing as yet, I hastened to explain; 'Tee hee hee' he said.

"No," he agreed, "you've nothing to offer her"—and then with a meaningful glance he added a little word that in spite of my predicament made my heart sing with joy and stirred my expectations mightily—"you've nothing to offer her—yet."

"But cheer up," he advised as a parting word of counsel, "I'll get in touch with Gorman and your lawyer as soon as I leave here today, and tomorrow we will find out about that secret passage you think you have discovered."

Computation that I ever had doubted the integrity of his purpose toward me smote as he departed. I tried to think of something to say to express my gratitude to him, to let him know how much I appreciated his coming at once to my aid, but the only thing I could think of slipped from my lips: "I am sorry about the pearls."

"So am I," he answered grimly, and went his way.

One thing now I certainly was sure of—his was not the master-mind that had planned all the criminal deeds, but the mystery of the Granddeck was still as much of a mystery as ever.

JERSEY 'SKEETER' CONSIDERED PEST OF PALESTINE LAND

Zionists Will Make Fight to Rid Place Of Diseased Anopheles.

NEW YORK, March 12.—That same old troublesome Jersey "skeeter", whose more dignified title is the anopheles variety of the malaricarrying mosquito, is responsible for one of the biggest projects under consideration in the Palestine reconstruction program, to be carried out by the Zionist Organization of America.

Three thousand square miles of the most fertile land in Palestine, Zionist experts estimate, now practically useless, because mosquitoes, thriving on its swamps have infested it with malaria, must be made habitable to provide for the increased immigration that will open up as soon as Palestine's political status is determined.

A large share of the $10,000,000 Palestine Restoration Fund, being raised through a national campaign of the Zionist Organization of America, will be devoted to driving the mosquito and its accompanying malaria out of the country through ridding Palestine of its swamp-lands.

In the upper Jordan valley the fruitful regions of Lake Tiberias ad along the southern littoral, vast areas of rich soil have been kept from cultivation and are being used only for herding because of the malaria-carrying mosquito, a report to the Zionist Organization reads. In the littoral stretch between Haifa and Gaza. Known all over the world for its crops of oranges, vegetables, olives, and almonds, it is said that enough rich soil could be salvaged from the mosquito to sustain several thousand families.

BITTER BATTLE TO FEATURE FIGHT FOR COMMITTEEMAN

Charles B. Warren of Detroit Withdraws After Eighth Year.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS)

An interesting contest is in prospect for the position of republican national committeeman from Michigan, to succeed Charles B. Warren, of Detroit, Mr. Warren who has held the post for eight years, withdrew his name from the list. Five candidates have qualified for a place on the primary ballot for this position. They are Former Governor Fred M. Warner, of Farmington; former Mayor Oscar B. Marx, Detroit; Theodore M. Josephine, Adrian; Hal H. Smith, Detroit, and Arthur E. Wood, Detroit.

William F. Connelly, present democratic national committeeman, has no opposition for re-election.

The presidential primary, which because of lack of interest heretofore, came near being abolished by the 1919 legislature, promises this year to attract a heavy vote. Party managers have been devoting much time to emphasizing the opportunity it offers the voters for individual expression of sentiment, and in addition there are local issues to come up in many cities and towns on the same day the primary is held.

Whether the delegation to the national convention can be held in line for the candidate receiving the endorsement of the voters at the April primary, is give party managers some concern. There is no law covering this point and the delegation can if it so chooses, swing to some other candidate after having cast a first vote for the primary endorsee. Chairman Burt D. Cady, of the republican state central committee recently sent out a letter declaring that the state delegation should feel bound to support the voters' choice.

Campaign activities of the primary candidates already are under way. Major General Leonard Wood was first to get into action after the closing of the primary files. Beginning a speaking tour March 1, Attorney General Palmer is expected to be the first of the democratic aspirants to talk in the state. Senators Poindexter and Johnson also have made tentative dates to speak in Michigan about the middle of March.

THE LEAGUE THEORY IN OPERATION.

The whole of President Wilson's argument in favor of the league of nations has been predicated on the proposition that in a "concert of nations" where international difficulties can be thrashed out, and a compromise agreement reached and enforced on recalcitrant states, is furnished a solution for problems that heretofore have been settled by war. The theory of the league has been that decisions reached by a majority of nations must be accepted by a minority in the interests of world peace. Particularly has it been impressed upon us that positions assumed by nations not members of the league must give way in every instance to decisions arrived at by member nations.

Now, let us see how it has worked out in practice. England, France, and Italy have reached an agreement over the disposition of certain territory in Dalmatia. The league of nations is a going concern. Those three nations have subscribed to its principles, and are and will be the most influential in directing its affairs. While the Dalmatian settlement may not be the official act of the league, nevertheless it has been reached by the nations that control the league council, and to all intents and purposes may be accepted as a league of nations mandate. Now comes the President of the United States, and demands that his own decision, arrived at through the advice of nobody else, and representing only the views of a single individual shall be substituted for that of the league members.

In taking that action the President in effect repudiates everything he has said in behalf of the covenant. He assumes the position that control in world affairs shall not pass to any "concert of nations," but that non-member countries, remote from the scene of discussion may set up their own solutions for international disputes and insist that collective decisions of the league shall give way to them. Suppose Italy, France, and the United States had reached an agreement upon the Dalmatian question, and England registered a violent protest. One can imagine the indignation with which Mr. Wilson would have bade Britain yield her isolated position.

Mr. Wilson advances the amazing argument that his changes in the Adriatic settlement must be adopted "if this government is to cooperate in maintaining its terms." Of course there will be no cooperation on the part of the United States in maintaining terms of any nature regarding the Adriatic, but it is to be taken from the President's statement that only those members of the league which vote with the majority are to be expected to participate in enforcing league decisions? If that is the fact it is a most remarkable variation from any interpretation of the covenant heretofore advanced.

The President's action throughout on the Italian-Jugo Slav dispute serves to demonstrate the charge frequently heard during the league debate. He was for the league so long as he thought he could dominate it himself and use it as a vehicle for his own personal glorification. The moment the league is formed and begins to function without his guidance, and contrary to his expressed views, he is ready to repudiate its principles and withdraw from further association with the countries that have become members.

CAR SHORTAGE HURTS AUTO INDUSTRY.

There are few industries in which the car shortage is felt so acutely as in the automobile plants of Michigan. The freight situation there is described as "critical," and it is predicted that many factories will have to shut down unless some measure of relief is found. Since the beginning of the year the railroads have been unable to furnish more than half of the cars needed to carry away the output, and practically every plant is notifying its customers that if they want the cars they will have to come and get them, in other words drive them overland on the town power. Normal storage facilities are limited to but one day's output of the plants, and emergency storage space of every sort has been pressed into service but unless means are found for getting the cars to market production will have to be halted. Federal control of the railroads is directly responsible for the present situation. For more than two years very little attention has been paid to freight car production, with the result that cars have been retired from active service twice as fast as new ones have been built to take their places. With the resumption of private ownership the country will see a rapid return to efficient railroading, a feature of which will be a supply of cars capable of handling the traffic.

LESSONS FROM FEDERAL RESERVE BOARD.

The trade balance in favor of the United States in 1919 was over four billion dollars, but contemplation of that huge sum should not blind our eyes to the significance of certain other figures disclosed in a recent report of the Federal Reserve Board. A number of South American and Far Eastern countries hold balances of trade against this country of over $664,000,000. The British East Indies shares in that total to the extent of $250,000,000; Cuba with $110,000,000; Brazil with $119,000,000; China with over $18,000,000; Japan, $13,000,000; Argentina, $43,000,000; Chile, $29,000,000. The balance in our favor is made up almost exclusively of trade with Europe, where our exports, due to reconstruction demands in the war areas, have far exceeded our imports from those countries. That demand is rapidly being met, and if our production is to continue new markets must be found for American goods. The countries that hold balances of trade against the United States offer fields of commercial expansion that should be developed by our industrial agents to the utmost.

HOOVER WON'T ENTER GEORGIA PRIMARY.

Herbert Hoover won't enter the primary in the State of Georgia declining to declare himself a Democrat before the voters of that State. He says he isn't sure he can perform any real public service by injecting himself into the race. If he needs any advice to assure him, we can tell him that he not only cannot perform any "real public service" by injecting himself into the Presidential race, but that he will be wasting a lot of valuable time for those many British interests.

WHAT A PITY!

Dispatches report that the former Kaiser is also suffering from "uncontrollable rage." But he has no Secretary of State upon whom to vent his anger.

WE'LL BET THERE ISN'T!

What we would like to know is this: Is there anyone in the Wilson official family with whom the President has not quarreled? Break it gently.

NOT BY A LONG SHOT.

Anyway, Mr. Lansing was not as much out of harmony with the President as the President has been out of harmony with the country.

TOO ENGANGLING FOR WOODROW.

President Wilson would now like to retire from some of those entangling alliances, but he may not find it so easy.

Bandits Hold Up Liner On Ocean; Had French Flag

SCUTARI, Albania, March 12.—The steamer Skodra, flying the French flag and carrying American Red Cross supplies for Montenegro, was held up by bandits this week while enroute up the Bofana River, and one of the sailors was wounded.

The ship had just reached a bend in the river when the bandits appeared with machine guns and began to embark a boarding party in small boats. The captain received permission to turn about, in order to secure better anchorage, but when he had fully turned he ordered all steam ahead and set down the river. The bandits immediately opened fire and riddled the sides and upper deck of the ship with machine gun bullets.

RANDOLPH SPEAKS ON LAKE TO OCEAN WATERWAY SYSTEM

Gotham People Criticized By Speaker At Detroit Meeting Thursday.

DETROIT, March 12.—A plea for favorable action by congress on the proposed lakes-to-the-sea deep waterway was made in an address here tonight before the Detroit Read Estate Board by Isham Randolph, consulting engineer of the Panama canal commission and the Chicago Drainage District. The speaker criticized the attitude New York state has taken on the proposal, declaring that state wished to levy tolls on the export commerce of neighboring commonwealths and was actuated by "commercial greed" rather than a desire to cooperate in an undertaking that would prove as great a benefit to industrial and agricultural states in the Great Lakes region as was the Panama canal to the whole world.

Cooperation with Canada in deepening the St. Lawrence, Mr. Randolph declared, was the one logical way to open direct ocean shipping to the immense industrial growth in the central west. The speaker quoted figures purporting to show that water transportation costs but one-eighth of the lowest rates by rail and contrasted these rates with present costs of the water rail route that necessitated breaking bulk at the rail head.

When industry again reaches its stride, Mr. Randolph said, there will be business neither the rail or water routes now in operation can handle. He predicted continued congestion of eastern ports if all American exports were forced to pass through them. The proposed deep waterway, he declared, would be a natural result, a necessity to industrial expansion in the region it was intended to serve. Advancing other arguments in favor of the project, Mr. Randolph recalled the number of lake vessels cut in two and sent through the Welland Canal for deep sea service during the war emergency. There ships, he said, probably never would return to the lakes until they could be brought back without disassembling. With a waterway to the sea, Mr. Randolph said, the Great Lakes region would become one of the great shipbuilding regions in the world, there being no other places where ships could be built in closer contiguity to all the material entering into them.

ABOUT YOUR CAR (JOHN H. KNUTSEN)

One of the bits of advice that strike the eye of every man who runs through the numerous articles on motor care, or who studies an instruction book is this—"Don't tinker." Nearly all of them leave the reader in doubt as to just where proper care leaves off and tinkering begins.

Webster says that the tinkerer is "one skilled in petty mechanical work," but that doesn't exactly fit the present meaning. The trouble with most habitual tinkers is that they aren't skilled at all.

A man may be a lawyer or a doctor or a real-estate agent but if he is a natural mechanic and knows why he grinds his valves and how to do it, and exactly without being accused of tinkering. So a thing that would be tinkering for one man is proper care for another.

It is just about the same with batteries, but there are fewer car owners who are at home in the special field of battery care than in those parts that concern only mechanical knowledge.

So, for practically all owners the line between battery care and battery tinkering is quite sharply drawn. The only safe rule is to put water in regularly to keep the solution at the proper level, and to keep connections tight, but aside from that to let the battery entirely alone.

The Willard Storage Battery Company has service stations equipped to give adequate assistance to the car owner, an dthis leading manufacturer urges owners to take advantage of this service to lengthen the life of the battery.

Sure Death to Corns

"Gets-It" Makes 'Em Lose Their Grip and Lift Off Painlessly.

The first thing "Gets-It" does when it lands on a corn or callus is to snuff out the pain. Then it shrivels the corn or callus and loosens it.

Soon, it is almost ready to fall off. You help it just a little by lifting it off 'twixt thumb and finger. You don't even feel it, because there is no hurt left in it. Millions have proved it the cleanest, surest, safest and most pleasant method. "Gets-It" the never failing, guaranteed money-back corn remover costs but a trifle at any drug store. Mfg. by E. Lawrence & Co., Chicago. Sold in Escanaba, Mich., and recommended as the world's best corn remedy by Hills Drug Co., Ellsworth Drug Co.
