Letters From Hamon to Defendant Not Admitted As Evidence.

Newspaper Story Also Denied
Admission to Records; Defense Rests It's Case.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS)

ARDMORE, Okla., Mar. 16.—The court in the trial of Clara Smith Hamon charged with the murder of Colonel Jake L. Hamon, oil magnate and republican national committeeman from Oklahoma, today ruled inadmissible as evidence a number of letters Colonel Hamon had written to the defendant. Shortly after this testimony was barred, the defense rested its case.

The state began presentation of its rebuttal testimony immediately afterward by introducing Sam Blair a newspaper man who obtained an interview with Clara Hamon at Chihuahua City, Mexico. Blair said he saw Clara Hamon on the night of December 12, 1920 and conferred with her two times later.

Asked whether Clara Smith had made any statement regarding a will made by Colonel Hamon, Blair testified that he had brought up the subject during his interview with the girl in Chihuahua city, and that Clara said she believed there was a will and that it was being kept hidden until after she was tried.

Blair's newspaper story was taken up point by point, Blair testifying that the defendant had said in substance what appeared in the newspaper story.

F. B. Freedling, state attorney general of Oklahoma, in charge of the prosecution, ordered the details in the newspaper story read into the records containing Clara's interview. The defense objected and the court sustained the objection.

Introduction of testimony in the Hamon trial ended at 10:23 o'clock this morning and court was recessed until Thursday to permit the judge to prepare his instructions. The prosecution and defense each will receive two hours for arguments to the jury and if the judge has prepared his charge by tomorrow plies to the jury will be begun immediately, it was said.

LOCAL LEGION PLAN BOXING BOUTS HERE

Local Fans Will Be Glad to Hear That Escanaba May Have Good Cards in Future.

Cloverland post of the American Legion at its regular meeting last night went on record as in favor of fostering the boxing movement in Escanaba and preliminary arrangements are under way for a card to be staged in this city at an early date.

A committee consisting of Herbert Kelly, chairman; Nathan French, Elmer Swanson, Ralph Carroll and Harold McNaughton, was appointed to investigate the proposition and go ahead with formulating details for the card. It is not known yet what boxers the Legion will present on its initial card but the lovers of the boxing game are assured that the first fight will be a real one in every respect. There are a few local boys who are keen to enter the ring and they will be given a good opportunity to show what they are worth. Gladstone has a young boxer over there called Jimmy O'Neill who has won several fights and it is not at all unlikely that he will be among those on the first show.

The Legion's decision to lead the boxing movement in Escanaba comes after months of agitation. There is no man in Escanaba who will say that the city will not support the game and the Legion is willing to do its share of the work if it is assured the support of boxing fans.

The Legion already has applied for a boxing license and is arranging terms with different fighters who are willing to come here and show their wares.

MOONSHINER IN CHAT TELLS OF TRADE PROFITS

Realizes $400 On Original Expenditure of $4.50 for Ingredients of Thirty Gallons.

Rumors galore have been circulated about as to the big profits in the manufacture of moonshine whisky. Of men once poor as the proverbial church mouse now sporting cars and a bank-book. All these rumors seem to be true, judging from a story told by the local moonshiner in incomes.

Some time ago income tax blanks was sent by him to a large who it is known has been employed in the moonshine industry during the dark winter months. The blank was returned, filled out as any other tax form would be, and the man in question said he "Some mistakes were made on the blank which necessitated the presence of the taxman uninvited."

After the mistakes had been gone over and corrected a conversation ensued about the popular subject of making things by the light of the moon. The party in question had been arrested and found guilty at one time of making moon waters with a kick in them.

Discloses Large Profits

During the discussion on his experiences as told of the cost of manufacture and the profits realized, he stated that he made thirty gallons of the moon waters, using the popular materials such as raisins, sugar, and what other things go in to give it the flavor. The party in question had been arrested and found guilty at one time of making moon waters with a kick in them.

C. V. Williams of the United States navy who has been in Escanaba since several weeks awaiting orders to come take command of a ship in the harbor this fall or the work that office entails. The expense of supplies delivered the ship when accepted that he received $100 on the site of forty dollars which originally cost him $100.

Then came the shock that almost made him give up all hopes to come take command of a ship in the harbor this fall or the work that office entails. The expense of supplies delivered the ship when accepted that he received $100 on the site of forty dollars which originally cost him $100.

Some of the pros in this case however were taken up by the time which was imposed but it is seen that previous he had paid off his debts now return.

Savings Bank At St. Joseph's School

THE Escanaba National Bank has installed one of their savings systems at St. Joseph's school for the benefit of the children in that school. The children were quick to grasp the idea and many of them have started to save their pennies nickels and dimes and how many extra employees will have to be employed by the bank in taking care of all these savings accounts has not been estimated by any of the bank officers, but it is easily going to take a whole lot more work in the bank to care for the Thrift Army."

Inquest Develops Fact That Body of Youth Was Killed and Placed On Track.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS)

WARSAW, Ind., March 16.—Developments growing out of a coroner's inquest last night resulted in the arrest of Mrs. Lydia Decker and her son Virgil Decker, charged with the murder of Leroy Lovett of Elkhart. The boy's body was found on the railroad tracks at a crossing Saturday night and it was at first believed that the body was that of Virgil Decker and reported out in the house today. A bill had been struck by the train bill carrying appropriations totaling and instantly killed. Later it was revealed that Foster for National guard armories was also had been killed before through on the reported out in the house late yesterday afternoon.

Decker it is believed was murdered by the Deckers in order to conceal their secret insurance carried by Virgil Decker. Virgil's insurance premiums amounted to approximately $12,000.

Mrs. Decker's street followed very closely that of Clara Smith Hamon with others. She has been offered an enormous sum to write the story of her life, either in event of acquittal or conviction, it was learned today. According to close friends, she will sign a movie contract as soon as her trial ends if she is acquitted. However, first she would go to California with her sister, Mrs. Ven Allen James, of Los Angeles, and take a rest.

Authorities here indicated there would be more arrests made before night.

The investigation disclosed that Leroy had been murdered in some unknown manner and his body placed on the tracks at the railroad crossing to cover up any suspicion of foul play.

It was brought out at the inquest that there had been ill feelings between the two families, but there was no indication that the murder was the culmination of this enmity. It was pointed out that if the body was claimed as that of Virgil Decker the Decker family would have been benefited by the collection of the $12,000 in insurance premiums.

have been working on the books of the prison since February 1. The testimony taken by the legislative committee during the opening session of its hearing Monday also brought out that freight on goods delivered to F. O. B. Marquette in several instances.

Had to Install System

We had to make a set of books and to install a system of bookkeeping for the prison before we could even begin to find out anything concerning the affairs of the institution, Anderson told the investigators.

We had four books which passed as general ledgers, Anderson said, one for the current funds of the prison and one for each of the three shops over all, glove and box factories. None of these have been posted since June 1913, and the cash book kept by West was but half written up. When Anderson asked West why he always was in such shape, the business manager said he had no time to get them in shape and made the excuse that Ward Russell would not permit him sufficient help, the witness testified. West kept all the funds of the prison in two bank accounts. Anderson said one for the prison's industries and the other for the general funds of the institution. The books which West kept showed no cash balance, however, Anderson testified and the only way that any idea could be gained of what money the prison had was by subtracting uncancel checks from the bank statement.

"Laughed" About Shortage

Questioned by Representative Lund as to West's scheme of charging freight to the prison of F. O. B. shipments, Anderson mentioned a shipment of lumber received by the institution from the E. A. Thornton Lumber company.

He said that West issued two checks for the lumber, one made out in favor of the company, and the other payable to "The Thornton Lumber company or bearer," which later was redeposited.

Anderson said that he had discovered nothing in the records of the institution to show what relation West had with the Hercules Overall company, which consisted of James and Holmes of Chicago, but said that an account ledger which he said indicated that West received something in the form of a "take-off" from this concern.

There is no systematic record of inmates in the institution, Anderson said, no entries or discharges were made on the books but the inmates were packed away in the ward with other notations and scraps of paper which form the greater part of the institution's records.

Many of these have been lost or destroyed, Anderson said, and many others were so badly mutilated that nothing could be made of them.

Check's Convicts Accounts

Norman Sackrider, Higgins' assistant, who has been working on the convicts' accounts ever since the auditors were put on the books, said that he would be able within the next two or three days to tell in a pony way what the account was short. He said he has completed the accounts on which nothing had not been done since January, 1913 and was not working on the basis of statements of which no systematic record had been made.

The convicts deposit account represents the money turned over to the officials of the institution, for safe keeping for the prisoners. It contains money earned in bounces and overtime and also money sent in by friends and relatives and inside the institution.

They are permitted to purchase food and other commodities and are issued script in denominations ranging from one cent to $5. This inside currency is used to them and charged against their account.

According to Sackrider, West kept no account of the money drawn by the prisoners and made no records to show what they had on deposit although he settled with each one upon release, taking a receipt in full for whatever he paid them.

The witness told of one case which he had discovered that of a man named Burk, who was sent $75 by a relative. The records kept by West showed that Burk drew but $10 from the $15 while in the institution, and signed a receipt in full for $11 when he left. The $11, representing money earned by him while in prison. What became of the $35 balance on his release, Sackrider said, was not shown. He said there were more than 20 similar cases which he was unable to find.

West has kept no records of the Liberty bonds and war savings stamps purchased by the inmates, Sackrider declared. There is nothing to show what has been deposited and nothing to indicate what has been drawn out. The men were given no receipts for their war securities, and none for their deposits. This fact, the witness said, would make it almost impossible to tell what individual savings deposited by prisoners were.

John L. Cooper, a member of a committee which worked for West was called by the committee as the third witness. He has been in charge of the accounts payable and accounts receivable since last June, he said.

He testified that there were large amounts representing accounts payable to the prison which had not been paid and which West made no effort to collect. They were sums due on shipments of overalls and various gloves manufactured by the institution, he declared.

The Hercules company, he said, still owed the prison $2,000 on an account opened in September, 1913, and on which the last shipment was made in November of this year. The largest outstanding account was that of a Chicago company, of approximately $10,000 the witness testified.

Anderson discussing this feature of the case after the hearing said that they were having great difficulty in recognizing the claims because goods sent them did they make payment.
