SIXTH GRADE

A short time ago the pupils of this grade were asked to complete a story doing it in any way that they pleased. The introductory portion of this story was filled with these words: "She was making it to the sixth grade for when..."

The two stories that follow show the imagination and originality of two of the children:

THE RESCUE OF THE PRINCESS

(Janet Mathis)

A beautiful princess was walking in a forest when she heard a loud roar. In great fear she looked up. There in front of her was an awful lion. Several deep roars told her, even before she had time to see, that she was completely surrounded by the wild beasts.

"Poor little princess! There seemed no way of escape. She was thinking to the earth in terror when a few clouds began to move. When it was over the poor princess was suffering no flow from his bite and called his followers. "Come!" he said. "You know the princess that gave us honey when we nearly starved to death? Yes, we killed the princess. Well, she is now surrounded by wild beasts in the middle of the forest."

The lion hurried to the forest. When the lion saw the bear coming they sought to run because they were wise enough to escape the weapon of the lion.

FIFTH GRADE

Rhymes inspired by the "Clean-Up" campaign

(By Evelyn Degenault)

It's coming, it's coming, boys! The month of May with all its joys. A month for work and not for play. For those who wish to keep this way.

Take out your shoes, rags and hair. And make your grade go and go.

See you see it makes you blue. What you haven't a thing to do.

(By Eugenia Hennes)

Pick up sticks and pick up glass. But don't forget to take the grass. First right here and then right there. Every place and every where.

CLEAN UP WEEK

(By Helen Snyder)

Clean up week is almost here. Take out the tools and sharpen the shears. We ought to do it every year. So things won't be so dead and bare.

(By Gerald Carlson)

Clean up day has come. Get your trim and come. This is not a day for play. This will be a busy day.

(By Joe Coplan)

Clean up week comes in May. That is why we do not play. We must take the rake in hand. And do not go and watch the band.

If you get busy and wash up the yard. You must have it very clean. So not a rat will be seen.

(By Melvin Peterson)

Clean-up day has come. And we shall have a lot of fun. And we shall rake. For everybody's sake. We shall clean up the yard. Even if it does seem hard.

(By Altha Davis)

Help your mother pick up the seams. Wash the dishes and scrub the pans. Help your mother clean the house. Work as fast as a little mouse. Help your mother rake in the wood. Then you'll be so very good.

(By Gertrude Degenault)

This is the week to show your pride. Don't let it go by for a joy-ride. Don't fly a kite. But stick to the right. Don't play ball. But clean the hall. This is a rule. We learned in school.

THE BEST JOKE OF THE SEASON

(By Edna Hodson)

It's a winter day in the summer. The snow is falling fast. A barefoot boy with shoes on. Stood running in the grass.

FOURTH GRADE

THE WORLD'S GREATEST CARD BOARD FARM

(By The Pupils)

We have studied the picture called "The Sower" painted by Jean Francois Millet, which told us about farm life. This picture suggested to Russell Birk the idea of representing a farm on our school table, which we have now completed.

The following materials were used: cardboard, brass paper fasteners, wood, toys and sand. The cardboard was furnished by Gladwin Nelson.

We were divided in groups to make different articles and buildings. Most of the buildings were constructed by the boys while most of the coloring was done by the girls.

The cardboard was used to make the sides and roofs of the buildings and the fasteners were used to hold them together. Very little wood was necessary because we only needed a little for fuel and a little to make the pig's trough.

The main buildings are, shelter shed barn, silo, chicken coop, pig pen, garage, and the house. We have a well for the cattle and a pump for the people, because the water from the barn yard drains into the well which makes it pure for the people. Our farm is displayed at the Delta Insurance Co. play, which is located on the corner of Ludington and 5th streets.

GIRLS CAN WORK

The fourth grade boys and girls had contests to find out who were the best workers.

The Story of Our States

By JONATHAN BRACE
XV.—KENTUCKY

THE KINSHIP OF KENTUCKY AND VIRGINIA is that of parent and child. From Virginia came most of the settlers of the western states, and with them these pioneers brought Virginia institutions and ideals. It was not until 1792 that the first authentic journey was made by a white man into central parts of the region afterwards called Kentucky.

Further explorations showed that this territory held two important attractions for settlers. The first was the great fertility of what was called the Blue Grass region. The so-called Blue Grass, from which this state is nicknamed the "Blue Grass State" is in no wise peculiar to Kentucky.

The second inducement for settlers was the fact that there were no Indians living in this region. It was later found that many parties bands of savages crossed the Ohio from the north, but they were driven off by the early settlers and Clark's expedition into Ohio and Indiana checked their invasions. In fact, the term Kentucky is probably derived from the Iroquois word "Kentucke," meaning "hunting land." Another interpretation is "dark and bloody ground," but this is doubtless incorrect.

The main highways of travel at that time were Daniel Boone's "Wilderness Road" through Cumberland Gap and down the Ohio. Hardy pioneers poured into this new territory in such numbers that in 1792, with the permission of Virginia, Kentucky was admitted to the Union as the fifteenth state with an area of 40,568 square miles. Kentucky has thirteen electoral votes for president. The remarkable physical condition of its population is shown in a report of the volunteers in the Civil war. This gave their average height as nearly an inch taller than the New England troops and with a correspondingly greater depth of chest.

THE TWO MERCHANTS

ACT II
(By Mary VanEffen)

Place: Home of the Dishonest Neighbor.
Time: Several months later than Act I.

Merchant: Sir, I have returned from Europe and I would like to have my money now.

Neighbor: Alas! Your silver is all gone. A rat ate it, even bit I and my dog but what can I do?

Merchant: (Aside) I cannot prove that he has stolen my money and is now lying to me. I will think of a plan to make him return my money.

Neighbor: He does believe me, but I feel as if I should return the money but I won't.

THE TWO MERCHANTS

ACT III
(By Margaret Kehoe)

Place: Home of the Dishonest Merchant.

Time: Several days after Act II.

Merchant: My friend will you please come and dine with me?

Neighbor: Would you please excuse me. You see I am in great trouble.

Merchant: What is the matter?

Neighbor: My only child is lost.

Merchant: I think I can tell you where he is. Some hours ago a screech owl swooped upon him and carried him away to an old ruin.

Neighbor: Nonsense! My child weighed fifty pounds! How could a screech owl carry him away?

Merchant: I cannot tell you how, but I believe there is nothing very wonderful about it. Surely a screech owl could carry a boy weighing but fifty pounds, if a tiny rat can deposit one hundred pounds of silver.

Neighbor: I beg your excuse, but I am the one who stole your silver. I see I have been found out. Please, Oh please excuse me! I shall never do it again. Let us be friends hereafter.

Merchant: Yes, we shall be friends hereafter. I hope you will not try to steal again. I know how I would feel if I saw all that silver in front of me.

After studying quotations the following story was reproduced from many of all the quotations marks being used just as they appear below.

THE MAN AND THE SATYR

(Jerry Daigou)

One stormy night a man was lost in the forest. He walked on and on until he came to a cave. A satyr lived in this cave. The man walked to the entrance of the cave and knocked at the stone door. The satyr came and opened the door. When he saw the man he said: "What do you want?"

The man asked: "May I come in and rest?"

You are "welcome," answered the satyr.

The man entered the cave and sat upon his fingers.

The satyr asked: "Why do you lean upon your fingers?" "To warm them," answered the man.

The satyr left the room and came back bringing some hot soup. He gave it to the man saying: "Here eat this."

The man took a spoonful and blew upon it. The satyr said: "Why do you blow upon your soup? Is it hot or not enough?"

"Indeed it is too hot," answered the man. "I am cooling it."

"Get out of my cave," cried the satyr. "I will not have a man who blows warm and cold with the same breath."

THE FASCISTI

The Italian premier recently received a delegation of Socialists, who complained that the violence of the Fascisti against them had become so great that they feared they would not be able to go to the polls in the approaching national election.

The situation which gave rise to this incident is a remarkable one. The Fascisti are not against strong government but in favor of it, notwithstanding the seemingly revolutionary manner in which they are terrorizing some parts of Italy.

Why are the Fascisti are right in their estimate of the tendency of Italian socialism is debatable, but it is, beyond doubt, that the introduction of the methods of communism to a highly civilized and civilized people would naturally result in violent resistance.

SANTO DOMINGO TO GET ITS CHANCE

The administration in Washington may be attempting something of an experiment in arranging for the withdrawal of the Marines from Santo Domingo but the situation warrants experimental if there is a fair prospect that the people of the Black Republic are in a chastened state of mind and are likely to make an earnest attempt to manage their affairs in a civilized and businesslike way.

This country wants no indefinite overlordship of any small neighbor and where it is obliged to step in, as it was obliged to intervene in Cuba and later in Santo Domingo and Haiti, it ought always to plan on restoring order and creating morale as expeditiously as possible in order that it can depart and leave those it has been helping to work out their own salvation.

It is not expected that if the Marines are withdrawn from Santo Domingo the Dominicans are to be left to their own devices to do as they may see fit and run their territory into the ground again. Plainly it is the intention of Washington to place them on probation, and they will be allowed full freedom of action only if they remain quiet and decent.

For the present, withdrawal from Santo Domingo is not to be followed by any similar withdrawal from Haiti for the conditions there still seem to be too unsettled to warrant any such move, but the American people may feel certain that there will be no exploitation of the country, still held for the benefit of "deerving" party men, nor will it be made a satrapy for any departmental assistant.

The warning issued by the Employment Managers Association to outside labor to remain away from Detroit for the present is founded upon sound policy. Employment is improving in Detroit, but there still are thousands of men there out of work and it would be more folly to pretend otherwise, even though it would be a very pleasant thing to have the outside world suppose that Detroit is booming.

The Atlanta League of Women Voters has elected a committee composed of the eleven ward chairmen of the league and three other women from each ward, with Mrs. Murray Hubbard as chairman. The duty of the committee will be to see that a delegation of women is present at every meeting of the city council for the purpose of reporting the happenings of the council.

Holland has just approved a prohibition law which permits wine having a 22 per cent kick and other drinks having not more than 15 per cent, thereby showing that what is prohibition in one country would blow the lid off in another.

Ten days of prohibition law enforcement in New York has resulted in ten hundred arrests, the confiscation of ten times ten thousand gallons of liquor and, probably, in about ten hundred thousand probed throats.

The Japanese hasten to protest that there is no significance in the general call to the colors of all able-bodied men. Presumably the movement is merely a little spring exercise to warm the blood.

The senate committee on reconstruction estimates the amount of tax exempt securities in the United States at $14,000,000,000. Those who do not own any of them are paying taxes for those who do.

Lenine's refusal to permit the admission of deported American bolsheviks to any of his territories is shrewd. He has learned that an American red turns pale the moment he sees the real thing.

Brady Wins Decision Over Sailor Green

...ed the round with a terrific burst of speed. It seemed as if both men were bent on ending the fight with a knock out in this round. Brady got in the first wallop which landed square on the point of Green's nose and started the flow of blood. Green followed with a powerful left to Brady's face and a right to the chest. Brady sent three short jabs to Green's jaw, then clinched. Round was Brady's by a very slight margin.

Third Round—Green started the round with a right on the Michigan man's jaw. Brady jerked up a left hook and two fast jabs to the point of Green's nose. They clinched. Green sent in several short ones to the body as was the case every time the two clinched. Brady shaded Green.

Fourth Round—Green wanted to finish things up in this round. He came out like a tiger bent on eating his man up. Rights and lefts fell on either side of Brady's jaw with staggering force. They clinched again and Green landed another series of short ones to the body. Willie's round.

Fifth Round—Once more the sailor with the kill'em while you get 'em look on his face jumped to the center of the ring but was stopped short when Brady surprised him by showering a string of his short jabs to the face. Green dropped a good one on Brady's jaw followed by a clinch and a rain of short body blows. Round was even.

Sixth Round—Green chased Brady all over the ring in this round but was met with the Michigan boy's tantalizing jabs to the face at every turn. Green succeeded in landing a hit on Brady's jaw and received a stiff right in return. Brady's round.

Seventh Round—There was a lot of closer foot work all thru this round and the general impression was that it would be an exciting one, but Brady seemed to deliver the goods to the right place. This round was pretty evenly matched.

Eighth Round—Brady came out the ring landing a stiff head blow and an upper cut to the jaw. Green put in a few of his wicked body jabs in this round but Brady landed two good blows for everyone's benefit. Brady's round.

Ninth Round—Green rushed in this round with a barrage of short body blows and received for his pains a stiff blow on the head from the Irish man. Green forced Brady to the ropes several times in this round pinning him down and landing terrific blows at his leisure. Brady did not show in this position long. He scrambled out and landed a stiff right on the chest. Brady followed this up with percent and another right, doing his best around the ring first one was the fastest round of the ten. Brady on the offensive and then the other. It's round by a shade.

Tenth Round—This was a round full of action. Both fighters started with fast footwork on the part of both fighters. Both men landed staggering blows and each missed some good ones that had they landed square might have resulted in either taking the count. Last round a draw.

Semi-Windup The Archie Meisner, West Michigan bout was considered by many just as fast and interesting as the wind-up. Both men seemed to want to end the fight as quickly as possible and rushed the fight from the beginning.

First round—Even. Second round—won by the Michigan boy. Third Round—Won by Meisner. Fourth Round—Meisner Wins easily. Fifth round This was Meisner's round. Sixth round—McCaslin wins easily. Seventh round—Meisner Wins again. Eighth Round—The last round was a draw.

In the Henry King Jimmy McNeil, but the local lad had a big shade in the Gladstone man from the beginning. McNeil's fighting led to the impression that he was playing for King's want and that he would open up on the local boy near the end. He failed to do this however, and instead several powerful attempts to land a hat-trick on King's jaw, but the latter was to fast and dodged prudently every time.

King won the first round. Fourth The Gladstone boy won the fifth and the remainder were even.
