SUSPECTED IN BANK ROBBERY MEN ARE HELD

Lesperance and Yeager Taken in Chippewa Falls Saturday.

Were Returned From There to Green Bay and This Morning Sent to Grandon for a Hearing.

(By Associated Press)
GREEN BAY, Wis., Aug. 23.—Lawrence Lesperance and Colman Yeager, arrested Saturday at Chippewa Falls, charged with being implicated with the robbery of the State bank of Wausau, were taken from here to Grandon, Wis., today. The men were under heavy guard in the Brown county jail last night.

It was said the men would be returned before Judge Wyman of Grandon, where the state will ask that the men be held about bonds of $25,000 each, according to Edward B. Clancy, head agent for the Wisconsin Bankers Association.

Yeager is said last night by the police to have declared that he would prove his innocence, while Lesperance was more silent, merely stating that he had a headache and did not care to talk.

Gladstone Auto Hits a Pole in Escanaba Today; None Injured

An automobile driven by a Gladstone motorist crashed into a trolley pole at the corner of Washington and Ninth streets at 10 o'clock this morning. The woman, with a number of others in the auto, was driving east on Washington street and the car was almost on the street car track instead of at the right of the street.

It seems she had almost passed the corner when she decided to make the turn, intending to go west on Washington street. She was too far toward the center of the street to make the turn properly and she hit the pole and damaged the front end of the auto.

None of the occupants in the car were hurt, although a child, that was riding in the rear seat with the driver, fell out of the car into the gutter below and narrowly escaped serious injury.

The fact that none of the occupants of the Gladstone were hurt in the smashup is a fortunate circumstance. When the Gladstone repair man drove out to the scene the car was found to be in a bad way. The car was damaged with the two front wheels and front end bent four feet up the pole.

It is hoped however that it will not be necessary to keep always on the watch for persons who might want to send in a false alarm.

EQUALIZATION PROBLEM VERY HARD TO SOLVE

State Board Trying to Arrange Schedule of State Values.

It Is Alleged in Many Quarters That Taxes Will Be Reduced When They Complete Work.

LANSING, Mich., Aug. 22.—The state board of equalization is busy trying to straighten out the muddle in which the recent business failure left the question of arriving at a valuation of the state's taxable property. It will probably be several days before the final equalization is announced.

It is alleged here, according to those in close touch with the state tax commission and the equalization board that the total valuation will be reduced, perhaps as much as a billion dollars. The total value for 1921 is not the question of general importance to the citizens which was asserted here at the hearing. The claim is that the equalization is not a matter of state revenue but of the local amount of taxes to be paid by the individual. The only effect will be upon the assessed value and not upon the actual amount of taxes. The university of Michigan and the Michigan Agricultural College. These institutions receive their income on the basis of a mill tax levied on the entire valuation of the state. If the valuation is reduced the amount of state taxes will be decreased.

Another claim that will be advanced in case the total valuation is advanced to the state primary school fund. The money for this fund is derived from the taxes of certain counties. If a higher valuation is placed on the state, the board of equalization may tax rate will naturally be lower. In the total amount of money to be raised by taxes, the state does not vary as much as the valuation. Thus, the tax rate is lowered the rate paid by the utilities will be lowered, while their valuations may not be increased proportionately to the increase of other taxable property. Whatever difference there is in the rate and the valuation of state taxable property and the utilities will be reflected in the primary school fund.

Old Ball Player Says Babe Ruth Is Marvel

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—Amos Rusie, an old-time baseball star more than 20 years ago, set on the sidelines at the Polo grounds during a recent game to watch the Yankees' game. When he was asked to talk about Babe Ruth, he decided to be the greatest thing he has seen.

"I have 14 years when I saw a major league game," Rusie remarked. "The game was held at the Polo grounds. Babe Ruth was the star. He was a heavy hitter, but none of them could hold a candle to him. I refer to Amos Lajoie and Ed Delahanty."

Rusie in the middle when Rusie appeared at the Polo grounds. The cheers and shouting were all for him. The Hoosier Cytherea they called him, for he was considered the greatest right handed pitcher in the game. He dropped from the game in 1902 after trying valiantly for two years to overcome the handicap of an injured arm.

When Rusie left the game he returned to his home in Chicago, Ill., and later went to South Bend, where he worked as a laborer. He is just the 59 years in years and is still in good health. He has continued to play and has made for his own knowledge to them.

That old player, the old manager of the White Sox, recognized him. They were rivals for pitching honors in the old days. "I'm sure glad to see you Amos," smiled Gleason. "I think the old times to see you again." The former old timer returned the greeting and they walked to the White Sox department.

Although Rusie has not witnessed a major league game for so many years he said he had kept up with the game through the newspapers.

"The crowds are greater today than at any time," he said. "It is now a great national institution. The White Sox scandal has not hurt the game much. Judge Landis has offset that black eye."

DISARMAMENT IS IMPOSSIBLE UNLESS THE CHINESE ARE GIVEN SQUARE DEAL AT CONFERENCE

K. E. A. Correspondent Finds War Only Waits On Treatment Accorded Delegates at Washington Conference.

The crux of the disarmament conference rests in China, for there the Pacific problems center. And from China, William Philip Simms, after an exhaustive study of the situation, sends the following dispatch to the Daily Mirror. More articles by Simms will follow shortly.

BY WM. PHILIP SIMMS (Written Expressly for the N. E. A.) STANGHAI, Aug. 22.—The success or failure of President Harding's disarmament conference will be gauged by the treatment accorded China—no more and no less.

What is everywhere in the Orient considered as potentially the most momentous congress in history will come to naught if the presence of Asia be not removed and China given a square deal.

If China receives the treatment in Washington that it has been customarily for the Great Powers to mete out to her, armament merchants and hat holders here may as well proceed to close their shops.

For war is waiting just around the corner.

A Rocky Road If China is to get a square deal from the Powers, it is going to take a considerable wrench of diplomatic machinery.

Mostly diplomats will have to be shuffled into the can with the other complete things, else placed in a minority at the conference. It will have to be understood and precisely stated.

Finally a miracle can the Chinese delegation speak for a united China or a government that truly governs.

If the Powers are going to be stuck with such things, the delegates threaten to become a force and the hope of reduced armaments will go up in a column of hot air.

To the contrary if the Powers set about helping China as wholeheartedly as hitherto they have withholds through, and with the cooperation of the Chinese people themselves, and that no infringement on China's integrity is intended or will be tolerated.

In short as it has been put to me by China, it has been betrayed by the sophisticated Powers; it is now up to the party to take care of the child.

Never Had a Chance And why shouldn't the Powers give China a square deal? A friendly American official exclaimed: "Up to this day the Chinese people have never had a dog's chance in their own country."

All their existence they have been ruled over, and made slaves of, by foreigners. The successors of the Huns, the Mongols, the Tartars, the Manchus—all of them—exploited the peace-loving Chinese during thousands of years. Then the Europeans and the Japanese came along and took over the job. It's the crime of the ages.

That, he concluded indignantly, is something the Washington conference must not forget.

Significant and disquieting questions are already being propounded even by people supposedly friendly to China.

Up to Powers "How can China move to protect her interests at the conference?"

"What kind of delegation can she send to Washington?"

"Will China be able to carry out the decisions of the conference on disarmament?"

"How can China disarm when the country is not united?"

These are some of the questions being asked and demands are being made that China invite the whole world to her conference, that she invite her military, her police, and so forth and so on.

None of these things can be done by the Chinese in time for the Washington conference. China can not make herself over in a few months. The Powers must not expect it.

2,000 Years Overdue Having placed Chinese justice against Chinese custom and tradition, both sides with money and arms having selfishly interfered with China's domestic affairs, having held her up at the point of a sword and forced her to accept other conditions from her, in short, having administered knock-out blows to her and robbed and razed her, some of the Powers would indeed have every reason to demand that China come to the conference with her hands and with life in her hands.

Having contributed to her downfall, the Powers should not be surprised if she demands a united China.

Having saddled upon her a gross

QUAINT CUSTOMS

Strength women and those of "an quiet tongue" in the Sixteenth and Seventeenth centuries were apt to be visited with penalties calculated to injure their pride and hold them up to public ridicule. Whatever "women's rights" were held to be, the husband of such a woman was considered quite within his rights when he devised a "ducking stool," a chair fixed to the end of a tilting board, and placed his wife in it at the edge of the village watering pond where she was ducked.

A substitute for the historic custom was strapping her in a chair and placing her at her own front door, at the entrance to the market place, or at the town gate, but ducking was prevalent all the end of the Seventeenth century and had specific survivors in parts of Great Britain for many years thereafter.

There is a familiar household story about the old woman whose husband ducked her repeatedly for the severe way she scolded him when he failed to clean her room. Finally he was of her that she would never be able to clean with the word "scissors" and she would hold her water until she drowned.

"Scissors, scissors," she taunted with her fading breath and under the went again. When she was all but drowned he drew her to the entrance, and with tears in his eyes demanded: "Milly, wouldn't thee promise I never shall clean with the word 'scissors'?" And unable to speak, she raised her hand and made a cutting motion with her fingers, showing her head swimmingly.

Miss Priss's Chamber has remained in its position at the county clerk's office after a two week vacation.

except war birds and a puppet show, and it would be because some of the Powers invited to Washington to demand that China pay for her losses, order before being treated as an equal.

out of these self-interests it is of course of course that the United States and Great Britain will deal magnanimously with China, instead of not and give her a square deal now over the by about 2,000 years.

At that about, then let them look out!

Plans to Spread Red Propaganda Among Women Announced

(By Associated Press) RIGA, Latvia, Aug. 22—Efforts to spread Communist revolutionary ideas among the women and young people of the world were outlined recently at Moscow at two congresses. The first that of Women Commanders of the World and by second, the Young People's Communist International meeting in connection with the Third International Congress.

At the Women Commanders' conference, in which Clara Zetkin a Communist member of the German Reichstag and Madam Krupshcheva the wife of Lenin, participated in the leadership, work already done along these lines was outlined. Madam Kollantai, one of the leaders of the Russian Bolshevik revolution, told the women's congress that the movement had had very little success in America, where she said, the movement must be developed in the existing trade unions including many thousands of women workers. Along with propaganda of Communist ideas, the conference advocated spreading intelligence on the ideas of both control and other advanced biological theories. According to the Moscow newspapers, great importance was attached to the Young People's Communist International congress. Lenin Trotsky, the War Minister, speaking to this congress said that the largest part of the youth among the workers and peasants took part in the Russian revolution and aided the Red army.

REAL WEALTH CAN ONLY BE PRODUCED BY THE INCREASE IN PRODUCTION IT IS CLAIMED

Most Interesting Argument Is Advanced by Learned Man.

Advance in Prices, Larger Profits and Inflated Values Are All False Values.

CHICAGO, Ill., Aug. 22—Real wealth can be increased only as a result of increased production of raw materials and manufactured goods, and not as a result of increase of either prices, bank credit, or commercial credit, Dr. Walter Lichtenstein of Chicago, told the National Hay Association convention here today.

"As time has gone on and the artificial stimulus of business due to the inflation produced by the war has resulted in a violent reaction, the whole world has been forced to accept the fundamental axiom," continued Dr. Lichtenstein, "it is idle to the inference that of what real wealth is that we have such inquiries as were directed to Mr. George E. Roberts of the National City Bank of New York. One of his correspondents asks, 'where has all the money gone to?' His correspondent simply confused the question of wealth and money or credit, two totally different things. To be sure there has been an increase in general production, and there fore an increase in actual wealth.

In 1913 the total production of wheat, stated in bushels, was 763,000,000, and in 1920 787,000,000. We produced almost 2,500,000,000 bushels of corn in 1913 as against something over 2,000,000,000 bushels in 1920. In 1913 there were produced not quite 11,000,000 hales of cotton, as against 12,500,000 hales in 1920. Of iron there were produced in 1913 about 51,000,000 long tons, as against 56,000,000 long tons in 1920. The production of copper in 1913 amounted to 1,270,000,000 pounds, as against 1,345,000,000 in 1920.

In other words there is no great variation, take it all in all, in the production of our principal raw materials between 1913 and 1920, and if you stop to think about it, why should there be? The production of raw material can increase largely only as the amount of acreage placed under cultivation increases, as new mines are opened up, or, failing this, as the result of mechanical improvements. To some extent increased production depends upon the increase of population, which has not progressed at the usual rate during the war years.

During the war years, the total production of the country stated in money was enormously greater than the increase in actual production. The total production in 1909, stated in pounds was some what over 1,115,000,000,000, this had increased by 1920 to 2,200,000,000,000 pounds, or an increase of about 50 per cent in eleven years. This is a very different matter from the same fact stated in money according to which most of us would be led to believe that the increase of our wealth was almost 100 per cent in the same period. The relative and proportional saving on the cost of our necessities has not increased between 1909 and 1920 to such an extent that our material position of 50 per cent increase could have in the process of 11 years of 100 per cent.

We have allowed ourselves to be misled by the inflation of currency, but when that we have added our property to our wealth, it is really as good as if a man were to find some dollars in his pocket, suddenly to find that it had been devalued so that each dollar in 1909 was not worth as much as a receipt he believed his wealth had increased 100 percent over night. As a matter of fact, if this kind of an ordinance were in fact, it would not apply to all currencies in existence, his so-called fifty dollar would not represent a bit more wealth than his original twenty-five.

Not the Only One

There Are Other Escanaba People Similarly Situated.

Can there be any stronger proof offered than the evidence of Escanaba residents? After you have read the following, quietly answer the question: Nels Dahlen, car inspector, 612 S. 14th St., Escanaba, says: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills and know that they are a remedy of merit. About three years ago my kidneys were in a bad fix and my back became weak and lame, mornings I suffered the pain. There was a sore feeling across my kidneys. Sharp, darting pains, which red me all through the day and when I stooped over it was almost impossible to straighten. I couldn't sit on a seat and always felt tired and weak. My kidneys, too, were in bad shape and the secretions were highly colored and painful in passage. I had heard so much about Doan's Kidney Pills that I decided to give them a trial. I bought a few boxes at Ellsworth's Drug Store and it was remarkable the good they did for me. They fixed me up in a short time." See at all dealers. Foster-McMillan Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.

"I hope that I have made it clear to you what so many business men find difficult to see on accounts of swollen inventories."

"No what are we to do about the future? Liquidation must continue, liquidation not only on the part of the business man, the farmer, manufacturer, and retail merchant, but also on the part of the laborer. I believe that I am correct in saying that the only prices that seem to have been liquidated fall so far as those of our grains and other products of our soil, including prices of live stock. This throws an entirely unusual burden upon the farmer, who is receiving practically no war prices and paying for nearly everything that he needs prices which, while perhaps no longer at the peak, are relatively speaking still much higher than his. We need, then, a campaign of education which will make it clear to the business and laboring man that there can be no hope for better times and general prosperity until liquidation all along the line reaches a kind of common level.

"We must again return to earth and be satisfied with a normal return on our investments and a normal return for our labor. By a normal return I mean perhaps 10 per cent or so upon invested capital, and for the laboring man a wage which will enable him to live somewhat as he did before the war, though the latter may mean that he will be unable to ride in high priced automobiles and probably not be able to wear silk shirts. Under no system of society that the world has ever known, or is likely to know, can all classes of the population indulge in luxurious living. No race has ever developed except under the pressure of stern necessity, and only after which has been able to evade the necessity of earning its living by utilizing the products of vast peoples, has in a comparatively short time, ceased to exist.

TWIGS OF TWO TREES PROVIDE ALPHABET

(By Associated Press) FLINT, Mich. "Pickins" a full alphabet and set of numerical figures on a set of two pine trees, growing in his back yard, was the rather unusual accomplishment recently of James H. Gilmore, 166 Bray avenue. It took Gilmore two weeks to find the twigs to form the necessary letters to form his set. In securing the alphabet, not only was a machine used to form the letters in their natural growth, assuming the shapes displayed. Mr. Gilmore found it necessary to cut off some of the branches to make the various letters more prominent. It is not the first alphabet found in twigs by Gilmore, having collected one when 20 years old. "I had a set," stated Mr. Gilmore, "I had to secure a young and hard for an it." Gilmore was born in the town of Michigan in 1881 and has always lived in this state. For 12 years he has lived in Flint. He is a former shoe salesman, but is now a machinist in a Flint automobile factory.

is not looking after the farmers of the state as the scientific institution representing the farmers should, and that he has not expended the money that he has not sought legislation designed to favor the agricultural interests.

Prof. Friday comes to the college as practically a self-made Michigan man. He partially worked his way through the University. Then he accepted a position as instructor. In a few years he had acquired considerable fame as an economist. His office was widely sought and his reports were widely quoted. During the past year the state has called upon him several times for advice in financial matters. His main reason for refusing to accept the presidency of M. A. C. September 1, when the new school year starts, was because he was engaged in research work for a group of New York bankers, which will keep him in Wisconsin much of the time until the first of the year.

He promises to remedy the conditions of the college which have caused complaint. He also promises to install new ideas and systems which will make the college of great value to the agriculturists of the state. Members of the board and state officials alike agree that he faces a tremendous task.

Bill Will Prohibit Children Under 15 from Entering Church

(By Associated Press) MEMPHIS, Tenn., Aug. 23.—A bill has been introduced in the lower house of the Tennessee Congress prohibiting children under 15 years of age from entering a church. Priests who would permit such entry are to be subject to a fine of $500. A law to this effect is unconstitutional, according to the newspapers quoted here, but in view of the political outlook of the lower house it is asserted the bill probably will be passed.

PROF. FRIDAY TO HAVE HARD TIME WITH NEW WORK

New Head of Agricultural College Will Make Effort to Change Sentiment Toward School.

(By Associated Press) LANSING, Aug. 23.—Prof. Friday who in January will become head of the Michigan Agricultural College, faces one of the most difficult tasks assigned in recent years to the head of any state institution.

For several years past M. A. C. has been accused of being an agricultural college with no other for the farmers of the state. Report, however, of the standing of the school and the effect that the farmers of the state were not satisfied. The attitude of the legislature was clearly defined in its 1921 session, when the same report and media committee approved a proposition and a mill tax amendment only after it had been given tentative assurance by members of the state board of agriculture and by Governor Grosbeck that sweeping changes in the management and control of the college would be made.

When the trouble at M. A. C. started and law suits it really it is considered a question, President Reilly was virtually hoisted into the presidency. In public statements he declared he would rather be a member of the faculty. He has adhered steadily to this original attitude and has been as good as the state administration and members of the board of agriculture to name a successor.

Some of the most prominent complaints recently lodged against the college were that it is devoting too little to the engineering and other courses than it is devoting to agriculture, that it

Irvin Cobb, the well known writer tells a story, which has a moral to it for most of us.
A young man was engaged to a woman of ill repute. He swore that his love was so great that no hood she could ask of him would be ungranted.

The woman, later in the life of the prattling youth, imagined she handed him a stickler when she told the youth, "Then go and bring me your mother's heart." But the foolish youth hastened away.
He killed his mother, cut out her beating heart, and hastened back with the prize. But on the way, so great was his haste that he tripped and fell. And the heart, from where it had fallen into the dust, asked him if a voice filled with the anxiety of love, whether he had had himself.

Could anything better typify mother love than this little tale? Think about it.

SOO RAPIDS IS PATH OF ROCKS; WATER ALL GONE.
Closing of Dam Stops Flow of Water in Less Than an Hour: Once Ships Sailed Through.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Aug. 22—Modern engineering has broken the power of the obdurate Soo rapids, opening to boats and shallow pools a stream which in the days before the Civil War, when a steamship with no fear of hitting bottom.
Completion of the last of the compensating dams above the rapids has been the surface, moss-clad rocks hidden in contact, and it is now possible to send a steamship where in 1842 there was a stream of such rapid current that the sailing ship, under full sail, could not pass.
Completion of the dam, which has been in progress for several years, has been completed and the dam is now open to traffic. The dam is now open to traffic. The dam is now open to traffic. The dam is now open to traffic.
