TROUT SEASON TO CLOSE ON SEPT. 1

Just Five More Days Remain to Get Rainbows, Pike and Bass May Be Caught Later, However.

Just five more days remain for trout fishing on the Escanaba river. The season for all kinds of trout, except Mackinaw and lake trout, ends September 1.

After the charr brook and rainbow trout season, Mackinaw and lake trout may be caught only with hook and line.

It is expected anglers, making small catches so far this summer, will make desperate efforts to land big fish during the last few days of the season.

Fishing will not stop September 1. There are still the bass, which are biting good this season and which are splendidly plentiful, judging from the numerous good catches that have been made. Walleyed pike may be caught until February.

Department Labor Not Certain About Inspection Orders

LANSING, Mich., Aug. 27.—The new state department of labor and industry is soon to ask the administrative board and the attorney general to decide whether it must make complete inspections of the industries of the state every year, as heretofore, or once in two years.

The act creating the new department specified that the commissioner of labor shall submit a biennial report. This is taken by officials of the department to mean that biennial inspection of industrial plants are permitted. The old law, on the other hand, states that inspections shall be made once a year.

Since the new department became operative it has been working with practically half a force of inspectors, and if the administrative board decides biennial inspections may be made the force will not be increased.

At present 511 of the inspectors are busy trying to catch up with the work that piled up during July, when because of the reorganization following the inauguration of the new department, all outside activity ceased.

Officials of Baptist Church to Come Here

Hodson, of Lansing, general director of Baptist work in this state will arrive in Escanaba today and Dr. Stamp will occupy the pulpit of the Baptist church at the morning service tomorrow. On Sunday evening Mr. Hodson will occupy the pulpit of that church.

What Women Talk About
by Mrs. R. J. Adams

FAITH HEALING
In the past few years, an ever increasing herd of nervous and feeble in the various types of drugging leaders whose numbers are constantly increasing in this country. Alas! by the daily operating belief in Christian Science, these unfortunates are now taken from the American people millions of dollars yearly.

Let us see if we are willing our money's worth.

There are certain types of druggers which come under the heading of mental diseases of the nerves, whose only active takes place in the mind, affecting not just the physical body leaving flesh, bone and sinew intact. The illness is mental, the cure can only be of a like nature.

Professors of this type of faith healing may claim to have cured such cases, but they are the regular physicians.

However, there are other types that the body is first to be affected, the largest class by far of all diseases, to which we are subjected are the diseases of the flesh, organic disorders, which affect the body and require all the skill of medicine and surgery to cure them.

If there is some one who is performing the operations, they will not continue to work. But if a vital part of that machine is broken, and it will not run, a specialist is called in and he operates on the machine, repairs the broken part or substitutes a new one.

It is the same with the body. Of organic disturbances, to be relieved, must be treated in the way that has been evolved by hundreds of years of medical practice and experimentation.

For imaginative, neurotic women and men, drugging is a great boon, but if you break your whole life's concentration and hope of going to earth isn't going to mend it. Go to a doctor and have the home set so that it will grow together as it should. It will cost less in pain and money in the end.

After your foot is all bound up and strapped, then you can sit down and say, "My foot hurts now. Do it for me, it's all better." And if you have a strong enough imagination, maybe you'll get yourself to believe it.

EXECUTIONER REVIEWS HIS 33 YEARS OF KILLING

'Kindly' Killer of Condemned Persons at Auburn Prison Has Relics of His Days as Executioner.

(By Associated Press)

HORNELL, N. Y., Aug. 27.—"You think you'd like to have me tell you what I think of the death penalty. Well, I wouldn't. It would be too much for a strong man like me."

A shadow fell over the grave face of the old man of 80, who was helping his white-haired wife prepare breakfast.

He was William C. Patterson, the world's oldest executioner. Only the day before had he come back to his birthplace to end his days, after thirty-three years' service at Auburn prison.

Of those thirty-three years, what memories!

They are memories Patterson is trying to bury.

"The old man, so tender in his assistance to the little old lady, led to the death chair the first murderer in the world to be executed by electricity. The man's name was Keltner, a wife slayer."

It was an event which aroused the press of two continents.

Patterson led to the electric chair Chester, assassin of President McKinley.

A woman, too, looks back through the memories of years, at William Patterson. Her name was Mrs. Mary Farmer and she was the only woman executed in Auburn prison.

"The law must be enforced the same for men and women," said Patterson, whose face implied the unforgettable impression of leading that woman to her death.

"I've done my duty as a state official."

Servant of Law

No one can help feeling the terrible force of it all when a man is sent into life eternally," he murmured.

"But I believe the man I've condemned to their death knew I was only a faithful servant to the law. Some of them were too dumb to read anything, but some of them—"

He stopped at his wife's interruption.

Mrs. Patterson, too, is 80.

"You're right," she said, all finished now.

"The stings of pain you have led to the death chamber?"

Mrs. Farmer was interrupted.

"We are all human," said Patterson, and they say we never can forget our blood."

"Do you think innocent men are ever executed?"

It's a pretty good law of life to mind one's own business. I wasn't engaged as a judge at Auburn.

Grotesque Relics

Patterson has some grotesque memories of his long service of the state.

One of them is a hickory stick which began to collect his murder records when the name and date of the first man to be electrocuted was scrawled upon it.

Since then fifty-four names, each recording the paring of the death penalty by homicide, have been added to the grim register. Fifty-four memories of the condemned upon the 50-year-old executioner, led to the death chamber where he assisted in adjusting the leather mask and the electrodes.

Patterson served three years during the Civil War with Company D, 16th N. Y. infantry, receiving a shattered arm at Chancellorsville.

"But killing enemies of the nation on the battlefield," he says, "was different from killing enemies of society in prison."

In Auburn prison, strange as it may seem, the world's oldest executioner is remembered best for his dutiful, unflinching kindness to the condemned.

FARMERS TAXES TO BE PAID WITH ALL SORTS OF PRODUCE.

Instead of Taking Money, Tax Collectors in Russia Will Collect a Certain Amount of Wheat and Cattle.

By Associated Press. — The problem of financing the government in Russia is being solved in a new way. Instead of taking money, tax collectors in Russia will collect a certain amount of wheat and cattle. This is the first step in a system of tax in kind which is being introduced in Russia. The government is requiring that every farmer should be supplied with wheat, cattle and other necessities to which he is entitled. The amount of grain tax is fixed for every acre of land and is computed according to the area cultivated. This tax is not assessed according to the average crop yield expected in that district.

It has been proposed to arrange a scheme that would permit the owners of a farm to feed themselves with a certain portion of the surplus going to the government. The same proposition is being considered in regard to the collection of the stock tax. Several years ago a law was passed which would require a farmer to turn over a whole animal to the government. A plan has been devised permitting the peasant to agree among themselves as to which one shall hand over a whole animal to the government. When the other peasants butcher, they will pay back the peasant whose pig the government has.

If the pig turned over by the group of peasants should happen to weigh more or less than the weight required, as it is doubtful if it would be, the peasant would receive goods in exchange. If it weighed more, or would pay the difference in butter or milk or eggs if it weighed less. The same plan is being introduced for other animals, such as sheep, pigs, chickens and turkeys. These have been worked out in terms of pork, beef, eggs, wheat, milk, etc., etc. as no money is available, and all that can be done is to permit in the collection of this tax.

In previous years of the Bolshevik regime, there was no tax in kind, the government simply requisitioned the produce to feed the army and the government employees. It is not to be collected in the land districts. Lenin, recently made a number of trips to explain the natural tax to the farmers. On his return to Moscow he wrote in the Pravda that the shrewd peasant nearly always got the better of the tax collector, coming to trade with him manufactured goods for food.

AUTO 'LOSSES' ARE LAID TO OWNERS

Insurance Grafters Are Said to Have Filled Quarry Pool With 100 Cars.

(By Associated Press) CHICAGO, Aug. 27.—A Sunday morning newspaper here, in an article on the filling of a quarry pool in an old quarry for automobiles. These, it is said, are being used by insurance grafters. Reports from both places hint darkly of sinister activities and the maintenance of hundreds of gasoline cars.

GAY AND GLUM

Owners' Big Risk, Claim

"No," said E. E. Hietcher, general manager of one of the biggest auto insurance companies in the country. "We are running as much risk from owners today as we are from thieves. We are tightening down on risks tighter today than ever before." He continued: "There has been the biggest epidemic of stolen cars in our history. Our investigators find that it is the owner's net of cash and bad lines that is partly responsible for this situation. Men who bought cars on time in the prosperous days can not meet payments now. Men who were fresh and paid cash are now in need of money. The used car market is so flooded that they can not sell for as much as their insurance policy calls for. Again, many owners bought at high prices and could not get a new car for the amount of the insurance on the old one."

Confession Obtained

Only last week I traced the disappearance of one car, owned by a responsible business man, and found that he had paid to have it driven into Lake Michigan. He made a full, signed confession to me. This is but one case. This condition is true, I believe, all over the country. Rivers, lakes and both oceans conceal the proscribed demise of hundreds of cars. It was hinted that in order to get automobile insurance in the future, if this thing keeps up, a letter from the insurer an affidavit from the banker and a sworn statement that you will never go near the water, will be necessary to obtain protection on the old family bus.

The United States army in service is planning a system of tunneling covering the entire continent for the use of operators or owners of aircraft. The plan calls for the first of the model airways between Washington, D. C. and Dayton, O., with five main stations, ten subsidiary stations and 20 emergency fields.

According to reports the war department is planning to retain only two of the big cantonments erected at the outbreak of the World War where soldiers of the National hospital were trained. The two cantonments are Camp Dix, New Jersey, and Camp Lewis, Washington.

LANDLORDS ARE LAUGHING AT THE NEW RENT SLOGAN

Biggest Renter in these United States Is Uncle Sam Himself.

BY NORRIS QUINN WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—"Don't be a renter—own your home!" "Don't be a tenant farmer—get a farm of your own!" Loads of propaganda sent out by government departments, notably the Department of Agriculture, tell the citizen how he can save money by buying a farm or home instead of renting it.

Meanwhile the biggest renter in the United States is the United States government. In almost every city, village and hamlet in the United States, and in many places abroad, the government is pouring streams of taxpayer money into landlords' pockets.

No totals kept. No single government agency in Washington knows just much money is being sold out by the government or rent. No one knows how many buildings are rented.

The Department of Agriculture itself is renting scores of substations, experimental stations and inspectors' headquarters.

The Postoffice Department is renting postoffices and postal substations.

The War and Navy Departments maintain rented recruiting stations in every city of importance.

The Department of Labor rents office space in larger cities.

Other confidential renters are the Treasury Department, the Public Health Department and the Bureau of Indian Affairs.

Scattered Out. In New York City where the government owns a federal building, separate government treatment offices are maintained in rented quarters in no less than 20 different buildings.

In every rented building or ten-

Thibetan Temple Shrine On Display

American Museum

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—A Thibetan temple shrine complete in every detail has been placed on temporary exhibition in the American Museum of Natural History and for the first time students of Thibetan culture are enabled to study the influence of Indian and Chinese culture on Thibetan religious art. The shrine has the largest collection of Thibetan religious objects ever assembled, experts say.

Thibetan Temple Shrine On Display

Thibetan carpets, prayer mats, temple guardians, altar vessels, sacred images and banners and the Thibetan holy book which recites the praises of Buddha are included in the exhibit. Most of the collection which was looted from Thibetan temples by a Chinese expedition which penetrated Thibet after the British under Sir Francis Younghusband had left Lhasa in the Forbidden City.

Alexander Scott, a British artist who made his home for 20 years at Darjeeling, India, on the highway to Thibet, owns the greater part of the collection. He had scheduled his way to Thibet and was on familiar terms with Thibetan Lamas and priests be-

When the Chinese came into India to sell their loot, Mr. Scott, with his expert knowledge was able to get possession of the best of it. He was later commissioned by the University Museum of Philadelphia to collect antiquities, especially sculpture of the Indo-Thibetan and Gupta eras.

The central figure is that of Padma (teacher) Sambhava "the Lotus-born," the great guru or saint who became the first teacher of Buddhism in Thibet 800 years ago. Padma Sambhava wears a mitre tipped with a valuable feather. The vulture being the highest tier of the birds, the feather indicates that the doctrine of this saint is the most aspiring and his knowledge the most noble and spiritual. In his right hand he holds a "dorge" or thunderbolt implying divine protection and eternal life.

The Joys of Fall Automobiling

Cannot be expressed in words when it comes to painting a word picture of wondrous nature as it is changing from its summer to the winter garb. Drive out through the great forests and see the variety of colors running riot in the trees that have been kissed by the first frosts.

Picnic out in the dense forest and draw in great quantities of the crisp air that reaches to the very bottom of your lungs and chases away all the germs that are city-bred and city-fed. You can do this easily, not at week-ends, but every afternoon if you own

FAMINE AND ITS CONSEQUENCES

The famine in Russia is rapidly becoming a menace to the whole civilized world. The soviet government admits that there are 10,000,000 people starving, and independent reports indicate that this estimate may almost be trebled without stretching the truth.

Under the ignorant, corrupt and inefficient management of the soviet Russia's railways have been allowed to depreciate to the extent that they are now little more than junk, and before outside help can reach the starving millions, rolling stock and railway supplies of all kinds will be necessary.

The unsettled conditions of Europe, and particularly those countries bordering on Russia, and therefore more directly exposed to the contagion, prevent any effective fight being made against the introduction of disease, and once it reaches the seaports our own shores will be directly menaced.

BOXING AND COMMERCIALISM

If boxing is banned from Michigan as a professional sport its proponents will have only themselves to blame. Governor Groesbeck has turned against it not because of the "brutality" which its thinner-blooded opponents have often ascribed to it, but because of the taint of commercialism which has followed it.

No harder battling has been done anywhere than in the rings of the army and navy units during the late war. No where was "lying down" or ladylike sparring more in disrepute. As a pure and simple sport there is none better for the making of upstanding, quick-thinking, self-reliant men, and the government realized this.

It is to be hoped that the governor will find some way, while banning ultra-commercial boxing, to maintain the present encouragement of the sport, particularly as an amateur game by athletic clubs throughout the state.

CONSIDER THE BEE

Man may be failing in industry, he may be the victim of ineptness in the arranging of his affairs, but not so the bee. That tiny marvel of inexorable efficiency goes his tireless way year in and year out. Times are always good in the apiary; business depression is unknown in the hive.

E. B. Tyrell, a Detroit bee expert and superintendent of the state fair apiary, says this has been an unusually productive year in Michigan hives. He adds that the increased abundance of succulent, golden-rimmed honey is operating to bring the retail prices down.

This is good news in double portion. The sweet treasure of the comb is ampler and cheaper. What Michigan epicure can demand more of this opulent season? To have it would seem enough, but to have it in plentiful measure and at reasonable cost, there is a super-plus of good gifts.

Mr. Tyrell goes on to say that the bee-making industry is growing rapidly in Michigan and that the state, already famed for the quality of its honey, is taking on new importance from the magnitude of its production.

To consider "how the busy bee doth improve each shining hour" in Michigan would be a profitable exercise for many men.

FIRST ON THE PEACE PROGRAM

Press reports are to the effect that peace between the United States and Germany is about to be signed. This is good news as it is another step toward return to normal conditions. Let us hope that it will bring immediate relief from war taxes and other war-time inconveniences and burdens that are distasteful and worse in peace time.

The majority of Americans, however, will be willing to pay war taxes for another month or two if Uncle Sam will take advantage of the signing of the peace pact to get Grover C. Bergdoll. He is reported as fleeing from Prussia because of the fear that the Germans will turn him over to the United States when formal peace comes.

A Syracuse paper heads an article "How to Get a Billion Dollars" but a glance reveals the fact that it is an article on taxation and all interest ceases.

"CHEKA" POWERS IN RUSSIA HAVE BEEN CURTAILED

Power to Arrest Without Warrants and Power to Issue Death Sentences Has Been Stopped.

(By Associated Press)

REVAL, Estonia, Aug. 27.—The powers of the "Cheka," or Extraordinary Committee to Combat Counter-Revolution have recently been curtailed, say Moscow advices from independent sources. These are in some measure corroborated by Bolshevik newspapers. It was the "Cheka," with its powers of arresting without warrants, secret condemnations and death sentences, which ordered and carried out most of the executions during the period of "red terror" in Russia.

Some of the Soviet government officials, considering that the period of civil war and counter-revolution was almost completely ended, favored the abolition of the "Cheka" altogether, it is said. The controversy between those desiring to abolish it and those considering it still necessary is now understood to have been settled by a compromise.

M. Krylenko, a former sailor, the public prosecutor of the revolutionary tribunal, led the fight for abolition, according to newspapers in the Baltic states. Dzerzhinski, president of the "Cheka," opposed him.

The government resolved on a reform of legal procedure, under which the "Cheka's" powers are principally confined to cases of espionage and participation in revolts but without power to pass the death sentence except in localities under martial law. A "supreme tribunal" is to be established. This is to act as the highest legal body, as court of appeals, and also as an institution of supervision, in exercising this supervision, the tribunal must include a representative of the "Cheka."

Theory the revolutionary military tribunals in the army and on the railways are abolished, unless military operations or uprisings render their retention necessary. The functions at present exercised by these courts will be transferred to special departments which are to have the right to pass sentence of death in regions not under martial law.

TWO FLYERS ESCAPE DEATH IN PLANE CRASH

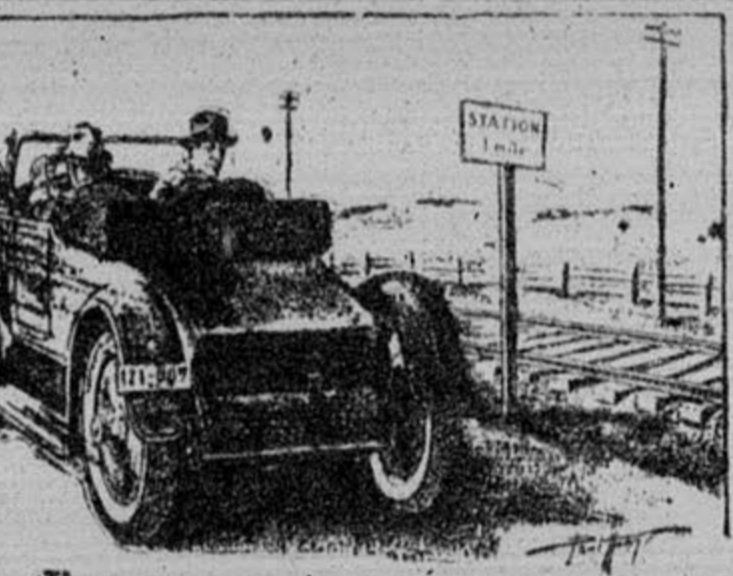

SUPERIOR, Wis.—William Butters, Minneapolis, and George Williams, St. Paul, narrowly escaped death on Thursday when their airplane fell near here and caught fire after striking the ground. Williams was pinned beneath the burning plane, but kicked his way through a wing. The plane was about 75 feet up, returning to the field after engine trouble, when a gust of wind turned the machine over and it crashed to earth. Neither of the occupants was injured.
