

PRESIDENT HARDING AT HELM

"BIG CHIEF" NAMES AIDES TO SETTLE RAILROAD WAGE AND FREIGHT CONTROVERSY

Union Leaders Complete Conference and Leave for Homes Without Apparently Settling Date for the Big Strike.

It is Admitted, However, That All Officials Have Authority to Call Strike Any Time They Think It Is Necessary to Do So.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—President Harding today assumed active leadership in the government's efforts to settle the differences between the railroads and the employees, and designated as the best available agency to meet serious labor complications the public group of the labor board and the members of the United States Commerce Commission.

The president brought together the three public representatives of the wage board and the full membership of the commission in a meeting to consider not only the subject of a nationwide strike, but the whole question of a readjustment of railroad rates and wages.

The three wage board members—Chairman Barton, G. Wallace Hanger and Ben Hooper—came to Washington at the urgent request of President Harding and went with him to the offices of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The president remained in the conference for fifteen minutes, and then returned to the White House, where a statement was issued declaring his work was planned for the general effort of readjustment of the railroad situation.

"The purpose of the meeting," said the White House statement, "was a broad consideration of the possibility of an early adjustment of railroad rates and wages in the expectation that it would contribute to industrial revival."

CHICAGO, Oct. 15.—Railroad Brotherhood chiefs after two weeks of conference with their general chairman and executive committees, wound up their sessions shortly after 7:00 o'clock today without issuing a strike call and with no announcement of their conclusions.

High officers of the brotherhoods prepared to depart for Cleveland tonight where the strike order, if it is issued, will be sent out from general headquarters.

According to unofficial sources, the strike date has been set for October 20th, but none of the Brotherhood leaders would confirm this date. They had no authorization of their membership, however, to order a walk-out whenever they deem it desirable.

Twelve other railroad organization executives were conferring jointly this afternoon, all holding the same qualifications. This action, according to the head of one, will probably coincide with that of larger groups. The end of the conference left the strike situation in abeyance.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 15.—Escapes in a railroad strike have taken a new turn. The Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, which has been the most active of the strike forces, today announced that it would accept the plan of a strike by the other organizations.

One of the 1500 trainmen who have been ordered to strike today, said he had been ordered to do so by the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen.

DON'T TELL DATE

The Brotherhoods have also decided to strike on the 20th of October, but the date will be kept secret until the last possible moment. The Brotherhoods are now in a state of confusion, and it is believed that the date will be kept secret until the last possible moment.

GREATEST STRIKE IN HISTORY

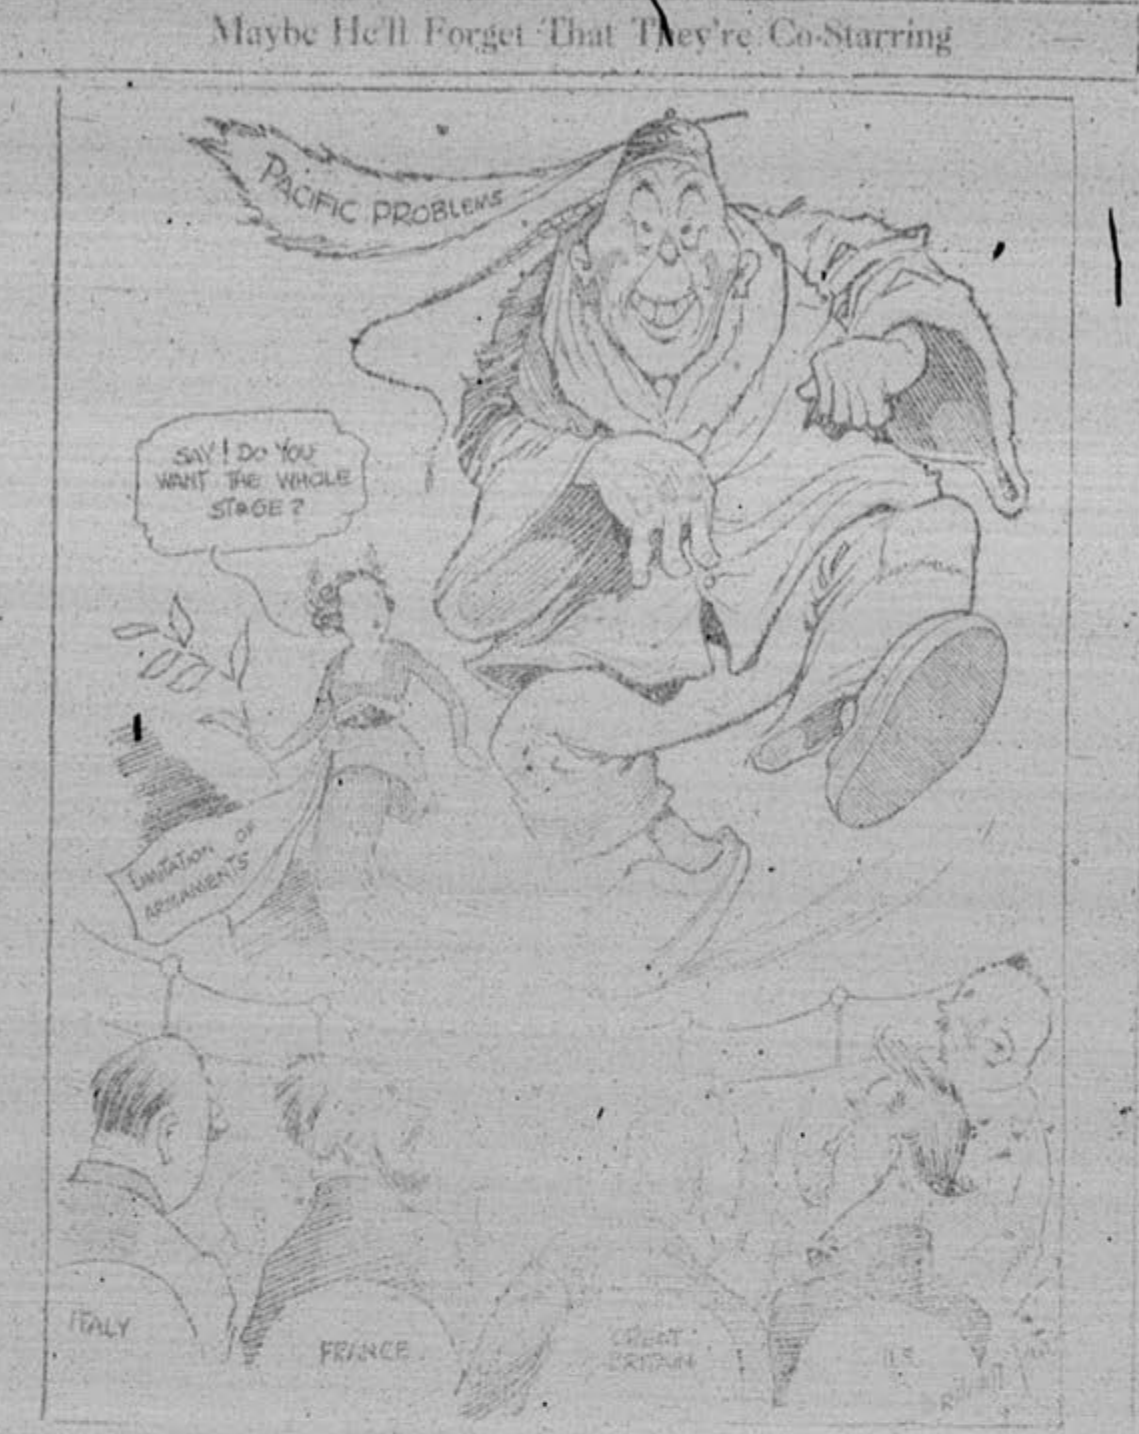

"It will be the greatest strike in history," W. G. Lee, president of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, was quoted as saying when he left the union conference in Philadelphia. "It will be the greatest strike in history, and we are not going into it with our eyes closed. Our home is in order and we are ready. It is all settled."

PRESIDENT GETS BUSY

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—The three representatives of the public on the United States Commerce Commission were summoned to the White House today by President Harding presumably to discuss means of settling the threatened strike of railway employees.

President Harding, after a brief conference with the three public members of the board left the White House with them going in the direction of the building which houses the Interstate Commission.

A Vision of the People's Good

In his issue of September 22, Mr. H. A. Burgess, Editor of the Republic of Bensford, S. D., prints the following editorial:

"The Republic has carried for a long time a series of messages in the form of advertisements, ordered and paid for by the Standard Oil Company (Indiana). There is a notion on the part of many that everything that a corporation does is of a selfish nature, and that there never is a vision of the people's good. These messages have carried an entirely different note, and we believe they are worth reading from week to week. The data this week is very interesting.

The recognition of the sincere effort which the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has put forth through these advertisements to inform the public as to its purposes, policies, and ideals, is gratifying.

In the opinion of the seven Directors of this organization, the business of this Company should be, and be an open book.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is an institution performing an essential service in a highly specialized branch of industry.

This Company is owned by 21,148 individuals, not one of whom owns as much as 10 percent of the capital stock.

The management of this Company centers about seven men, who constitute the Board of Directors. Each one is a specialist in one or more branches of the petroleum industry, and devotes all of his time to the business and affairs of this Company. Not one of the Directors has inherited his job; he has earned it.

Individually, and collectively, the Board of Directors believes that the business in which this Company is engaged is so vital, so important to the commercial and domestic life of all the people of the eleven states it serves, that they have caused to be published this series of advertisements, that the people may know how the business is being conducted.

Further, the 25,000 men and women who make up this organization are putting forth such enthusiastic, painstaking efforts to do a good job for the Company, and, in turn, for the people that the Directors are glad to tell the public what is being done.

Through these advertisements they are giving an account of their trusteeship to the people frequently, as they do to the stockholders annually.

This is the purpose of this campaign of advertisements, on which the publisher of the Bensford Republic has seen fit to comment favorably.

REFUSE TO SURRENDER RELIC

Citizens of Little French Town of Alan Order Lives in Defense of Stone Cow

The famous stone cow of Alan, a little town in the Haute Saone, France, is again the center of a feud between the residents of the village and the Ministry des Beaux Arts in Paris. The Ministry has ordered the cow, which dates back to the 17th century, and which the villagers have fought with gallantry and with all manner of devices to keep the front of the Episcopal palace.

After the war a Parisian antiquary, desiring to acquire the stone cow, purchased the Ministry des Beaux Arts to sell it to him, they believe they sold the cow but all the neighbors that they could gather on Alan failed to see the deal. The purchaser asserts that he will remove it and place it in front of a Parisian mansion. The neighbors of Alan have again armed and this time with modern weapons, for little of the old militia is left from the shells of the German and they intend to protect their relic. There is little left of the relic, but not a shell hit the cow during the war.

Blower Recovers Waste Cement

The breeze which would blow away a pile of waste cement, because of the character of the material entering into the manufacture, so that all large consumers find it necessary to see that their material is not blown away and returned to the vacant place.

Herefore it has been regarded as sufficient to turn the bag inside down and shake it as a means of emptying. But recently it has been found that this method is wasteful in the extreme, and the cement is now recovered by a blower.

By this means from one and one-half to two sacks of cement are recovered per 1,000 sacks cleaned. Two men can clean 2,000 sacks a day, besides sorting, counting and banding them. The cement recovered makes a credit to the cost of handling of about $2.50 a day.

Smoke Injures Galvanized Iron

Galvanized iron has been found by E. German Muesel to be susceptible for coating much exposed to smoke. Sulphur dioxide, though having little effect when dry, causes rapid deterioration in the presence of moisture, and a mixture of sulphur and carbon dioxide is very corrosive, though moist carbon dioxide alone has slight action. The microscope shows in the corroded galvanized iron minute cysts and sulphate containing ferric oxide, due to galvanic action or actual solution of the zinc coating.

Liabilities $123,000 more than assets

The clipping here reproduced is another graphic illustration of how unwise and hazardous it is to place Automobile Insurance with a Mutual, Reciprocal, or Inter-insurer or a Calf Rate Company.

The documentary evidence of the folly of subscribing for insurance in companies of this character is so plain and conclusive that it would seem that prudent people no longer could indulge in the delusive belief that "anywhere" in any company is good insurance. Nothing is further from the truth.

The instance, one of the many hazards, you may expect to see in a day, but the result may not be reached for years hence, and at a time when the insurance company is no longer in existence. Delayed action decisions, these days are not uncommon.

There is also the possibility of companies of this character suspending their policyholders to save a dollar in liquidation. This has been found in many cases, where Mutuals and Reciprocal Exchanges were forced into the hands of a receiver, that they were liable for outstanding liabilities for which adequate reserves had not been carried. The reserves for unadjusted losses very much less than they should have been, with the result that this accumulated liability was thrust upon the policyholders, who were obliged to liquidate it.

Normally this condition frequently does not develop until a Mutual or Reciprocal actually comes into the hands of a receiver.

When taking out insurance, investigate the company, then place it with a reliable agent or broker, capable of recommending the right kind of a policy.

AUTO INSURANCE COMPANIES FAIL

Mutual Casualty and Auto Fire to Be Liquidated by Court Order.

Others Now Investigated

Insurance Department Seeks Court Order for U. S. Mutual Automobile Fire and U. S. Mutual Automobile Casualty.

Justice Wainwright in the Supreme Court today granted the application of state commissioners of Insurance, George S. Phillips, for the liquidation of the Capital National Mutual Automobile Casualty Company and the United States Auto Fire Insurance Company, both under state insolvency laws. It is estimated that the two companies have $123,000 more than their assets. The two companies were organized in 1917 under the law which was enacted at that time to permit the incorporation with only 1,000 shares, when it was that there had to be 100 shareholders in such mutual insurance companies.

Clarence C. Fowler, chief of the liquidation bureau of the State Insurance Department, will have charge of winding up the two companies.

The fire insurance company had $13,400 in assets and $117,900 in liabilities, while the casualty company had $38,371 of assets and $92,213 of liabilities.

"VAMPS" WHO MADE HISTORY

By JAMES C. YOUNG
THE VAMPIRE WITH AN ANGEL'S FACE.

WHEN Catherine of Russia was a servant in an East Prussian inn, early in the eighteenth century a girl named Marie appeared and asked for her help. She was a blonde Swede, named Marie, and told a pathetic story of running away with a young man, who had deserted her when their child was born. She had no money, was weak and haggard. Would Catherine take her in?
