Leviathan Was Not a Whale But a Crocodile - The "Dragons" of the Bible - Did King Solomon Import Elephants From India - What "Fish" Swallowed Jonah - The Unicorn.

BY HENRI BAUER

RECENTLY an article has been published in the "New York Times" which has caused a great deal of interest among the general public. The article is entitled "The Leviathan of the Bible" and is written by a certain "H. H. H." who is identified as a "fisherman" from the "Islands of the Pacific." The article is a sensational and entirely untrue account of the "Leviathan" of the Bible, which is said to be a "dragon" or "sea monster" that lives in the "Islands of the Pacific." The article is a complete fabrication and is intended to deceive the public.

The "Leviathan" of the Bible is a crocodile, and not a whale. The "dragons" of the Bible are also crocodiles. King Solomon imported elephants from India. The "fish" that swallowed Jonah was a large fish, and not a whale. The unicorn is a mythical creature that does not exist.

SEGREGATION FOR BRILLIANT STUDENTS

The new president of Swarthmore College, Dr. Frank Aydelotte, made a proposal in his inaugural address, that is likely to stir some discussion.

Whether this suggestion is desirable or not; if at least the character of the condition of the colleges which President Aydelotte describes cannot be denied.

In the case of such a general situation of things, the educator must be considering more or less seriously to work out a relief and readjustment program.

AN UNEXPECTED TURN

The latest report upon the workings of the immigration law shows some unexpected results. Arriving in heavy numbers from southern Europe and from that region are quarrelsome, and some of them are almost all of the new unskilled labor force.

Whether the turn of events is desirable or not, it is a fact that the immigration law has not worked as planned because of the great inability of labor in these days of rapid transportation.

LENINE AGAIN ADMITS DEFEAT

Lenine has proclaimed still another step in his practical confession of defeat in his practical confession of defeat in his practical confession of defeat.

Everybody with ordinary understanding of the interdependence of the different parts of modern human society must have understood long ago that the bolshevik leader would ultimately come to this pass.

HE NEVER WORRIED

A man died in Milwaukee the other day at the ripe old age of 165. It was said of him that he boasted of the fact that he never worried about anything in his life and gave that as the chief reason for his longevity.

What if every man should set out to attain 100 years and worry about nothing? This world would go to the dogs and go there in haste, it is quite probable.

What would you prefer - 105 years of care-free existence, accomplishing nothing except attainment of those years, or three score and ten with your decent share of worry?

SIMON KENTON, THE AMERICAN MAZEPPA

Second only to the name of Daniel Boone, whose life he only saved by writing his name in the annals of Kentucky.

In 1778 Kenton with two companions went north into Ohio to try upon a tribe at war with the whites.

At the first attack the Indians reached their camp at the point of the arrow.

His friends were shocked. These events later the Indian council gave the name of the tribe.

Kenton was kept captive in the Indian camp until 1779, when he was rescued by a party of American soldiers.

Instead of "Saving" Them We're Going to Sell Them

That is the idea back of this event. It may not be the rule for a store like The Fair Savings Bank to cut prices before even the middle of the season has been reached—before any sign of Winter weather even has showed up. Have no choice. Shipment after shipment been crowding in on us until we are loaded to the sky—twice as many suits as we should have. Warm weather has been the retarding factor, so we must act—Unload.
