

SOCIAL NOTES

SENIOR BALL

Plans for the Senior ball to be given Friday evening, Dec. 16th, are being rapidly brought to a finish. In all respects the affair promises to be an able and well-attended affair.

The scheme of decorations which is known to only a few, has been carefully planned in Escanaba. It is a copy of a design given by a popular fraternity in a southern college and is very attractive and beautiful.

The class president and advisors have taken this opportunity to thank the members of the class who are donating their spare time to working on the ball and without whose help the affair could not be put over. The plan is to have a very successful affair with the proceeds going to the benefit of the school.

C. A. WALSTAD HAS BIRTHDAY Last evening C. A. Walstad was surprised by a number of his friends at the apartment house in Escanaba. He did not have any knowledge of the affair and was taken entirely by surprise. The occasion was a very pleasant and enjoyable one.

IN A TIGHT PLACE

A man was one day hunting in a forest. A terrible storm came up. He looked about for shelter. But there was none. It began to rain in torrents. So he crawled into a hollow log. It fitted snugly.

The rain lasted for hours. The water soaked through the wood. The log began to swell. When the storm was over, the hunter could not get out.

He strained to free himself with all his might. But the log held tight. Exhausted, he gave up. He knew that he would starve to death.

Like a drowning man, he saw his whole life flash before him, especially his mistakes. He suddenly remembered that he had never started a bank account, and that his wife and baby, penniless, would starve.

This thought made him feel so small that he was able to crawl out of the log without difficulty. The Robinsons say.
