Over 10,000 Unemployed Aided by Detroit Mayor and Committee.

(By Associated Press)
DETROIT, Dec. 18.—Approximately 10,000 unemployed men and women in Detroit have been aided in one way or another this afternoon by Mayor James Couzens' committee on unemployment in the city of Detroit.

A large number of the 10,000 have been given permanent jobs, while others have received work by the day or hour and thus much of the suffering here due to the economic situation has been relieved. The work will continue until there no longer are needy hundreds of work in the city.

The Detroit Unemployment Club, following the plan advanced by the National Conference on Unemployment that met in Washington some time ago, and urged that each city in the country take steps to relieve those in need of work.

The local committee of the club has passed a number of important resolutions, each of which aimed with something in relief of unemployment.

One of the chief resolutions was that all city-owned municipal buildings, factories, and other public buildings be opened to unemployed men by authorizing them to repair, paint, and clean up the buildings at their own expense.

Another resolution was that the city should employ a large number of unemployed men to do the work of cleaning up the city streets, and that the city should employ a large number of unemployed men to do the work of cleaning up the city streets.

The committee also passed a resolution that the city should employ a large number of unemployed men to do the work of cleaning up the city streets, and that the city should employ a large number of unemployed men to do the work of cleaning up the city streets.

GERMANY HAS NO SUCH THING AS SLUMS LIKE U. S.

However, Infant Mortality Reaches High Mark in Berlin.

(By Associated Press)
BERLIN, Dec. 18.—Infant mortality which is increasing through Germany principally in cities, has reached a dangerous point, according to a report by the German government.

but built by use of mud, have increased by the thousands in the last few months, the municipalities being accused of negligence of light and air.

While Germany has, properly speaking, no such thing as "slums," the slow rate of construction during the war produced a situation which is a source of concern among the poorer classes.

As a result, houses are required to relieve the congestion in Berlin, and reports from Hamburg say there are 1,000 families with an average of six children in the family, living in one room apartments.

Sanitary inspectors of a number of cities report as many as 10 persons living in a single room, being born, living, eating, sleeping and dying in a space which only even persons could healthfully inhabit.

The mortality among children in these crowded centers has been found to be vastly higher than with the children of peasants, who have the advantage of space for playground, open air, and sunlight. Meanwhile a disinclination to increase the size of apartment buildings is evident among the promoters of the "weather child-free" movement.

It is pointed out that attempts to overcrowd tenement cities there are large tracts of unfilled lands which ought to be devoted to houses for the use of the poor, and who hold the lands for speculative purposes.

DISCUSSION WILL COME UP BEFORE BOARD TUESDAY

Have Railroads Right to Contract Work to Firms Removed From Jurisdiction of Labor Board.

(By Associated Press) CHICAGO, Dec. 18.—The right of railway companies to contract with firms or individuals removed from the jurisdiction of the United States Labor Board will come up for federal investigation when disputes on nine railroads are heard before the board tomorrow. The controversies involve car and locomotive repair work, track and common labor jobs.

The action in each case was brought by employees' organizations, whose members did the work now being done by outside firms under contract. In usual cases, the wages paid by the contracting firm are less than those provided for railway employees, a situation which the unions contend, at least through their men out of work, and removes wage and working regulations from the jurisdiction of the Labor Board.

What is regarded as a typical test case is that of the Federated Shop Crafts against the Erie Railroad, which has leased its repair work on cars and locomotives at Hornell, N.Y., to the Hornell Construction Company. The shop unions contend that wages have been arbitrarily reduced by the construction company below the scale set by the Labor Board.

The Shop Crafts have also brought action against the Chicago Great Western Railroad over the contracting of car repair work at South Park, Minn. The road has notified the shop unions that unless they would agree to establishment of a piece work system of pay, it would be necessary to place the repair work under a contractual basis. Such action was not permissible under the National Agreement, by which the carrier was bound until the recent new shop rules were promulgated by the board, according to the employees' contention. The road, however, declares it is fully within its right to say the question cannot be made a subject of dispute under the Transportation Act.

Nearly a year ago the Indian Harbor Belt Railway contracted with the Burnham Car Company to take over and operate its repair tracks, the railroad company retaining the car inspectors under their supervision. The shop crafts unions now bring objection because wages were reduced and some of the work placed on a piece work basis. The unions also claim that 17 men were dismissed as a result of the contract.

Couch cleaning on the Gulf Coast Lines at Brownsville, Texas, was placed on a contract basis April 1, 1921, to which the unions bring objection. They claim that the workers employed by the contracting company are working ten to fourteen hours for $1.50, less than half of the wage fixed for railroad employees by the Labor Board.

Several cases will also be heard on actions brought by the United Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employees and Railroad Shop Laborers, involving the Colorado & Southern, the Indian Harbor Belt Railway, the St. Louis-San Francisco railroad, and the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul. Jumpers of six pumping stations have been displaced by section men or station agents, who have taken over the work at $12 and $15 a month. The unions claim that this action was a violation of the National Agreement. The St. Louis-San Francisco case also involves jumpers.

Fifty track laborers of the Indiana Harbor Belt were laid off and the work turned over to a Chicago contracting firm according to the specifications of another case. The contracting firm pays the men 35 cents an hour, the employees say, which is less than the rate at which the railroad hired its men.

The St. Paul dispute developed over a single employee at Montgomery, Minn., who had worked as a road power at 45 cents an hour, and who was displaced by a man who contracted for the work at $1.100 a year. The union asks that the former employee be reinstated and paid for all time lost.

Two cases have been brought by the American Federation of Railroad Workers and the International Brotherhood of Firemen and Enginemen. The first case concerns a track man on the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie at Cambridgeville, Pa., and the other involving the contracting of unloading coal from ships on the Great Northern railroad.

SHOULD BE FIXED BY LAW

Now that the deputy warden of Marquette is dead the crime committed by "Gipsy Bob" Harper and his confederates becomes murder, and the state has before it another case of murder committed by men who were already suffering the extreme penalty for murder in this state.

Dr. A. L. Jacoby, of Detroit, suggests that men of the class to which Harper seems to belong should be put away in solitary confinement and forgotten. Punishment of that sort is commonly said to be worse than death, and perhaps it is, but if Michigan is not prepared to inflict the death penalty for murder committed by life prisoners, it might consider this alternative.

It may be said that it is within the power of wardens to inflict that penalty now, and so it is, but it is also the power of one warden to reverse the sentence imposed by his predecessors. What is needed in such cases is the certainty of severe punishment so that persons, both guards and prisoners, within prison walls shall know that they have some shadow of protection against the whims of men like Harper, who has now committed two murders in prison. The punishment ought to be a matter of law and ought to be so certain that the men against whom it is aimed will not suppose that there is the slightest chance for them because just and rightful retribution.

THE SAME OLD TURK

A dispatch to the French newspaper L'clair from the district recently turned over to the Kemalists by the French government opens with the statement, "Already the Kemalists are sending numerous envoys of Christmas through Syria towards us, we know not what place of exile or death." Then follows a recital of numerous facts which indicate that Turkish persecutions of Christians in Cilicia are already underway and indications from Kemal newspaper showing that the Turkish nationalists expect to recruit 50,000 men in the evacuated territory to be used against the Greeks.

There were at the time of the French evacuation about 100,000 Armenians in evacuated regions and 20,000 of the Greek orthodox church, together with another 20,000 of various people, including Turks opposed to the Kemal government. As soon as the evacuation began thousands of these people began to leave the country, selling their homes for anything they could get, abandoning their property and fleeing in terror from what they believed to be the inevitable horrors of Turkish domination.

If there had been no other reason for protecting these people than their natural fear of the Kemalists it would have been reason enough. The dispatch to L'clair indicates that the Turks are now furnishing other and more substantial reasons why the Christians in Cilicia should not have been abandoned.

THE POOL ROOM QUESTION

The poolroom question is stalled for the present in the Detroit council and is not likely to make further progress there, but those who favor stiffer regulations announce that they have not given up the fight. The proposal was to draw a half-mile circle around every church and prohibit pool and billiards within every region so eliminated.

It will not be denied by anybody who knows the facts that the two games thus to be outlawed are the best games of their kind ever devised. They are just as moral as any game of croquet ever played at a Sunday school picnic, and this fact is admitted by those who propose to consign both games to certain parts of the city for the purpose of keeping certain other parts in a better moral state. Their objection goes not to the games themselves, but to the manner in which some men conduct the places in which the games are played.

The proposed law would not make the disorderly poolroom proprietors better. Rather, it would make him and the whole business worse by segregating the poolrooms in districts which are recognized as inferior, and so a perfectly legitimate business would be penalized for the sins of some of the men who engage in it.

This is not a fair proceeding and if any law is to be passed for the purpose of eliminating the objectionable poolroom proprietor it should be aimed at him.

THE TROUBLE IS CHRONIC

Thomas Ewing, former commissioner of patents, addressing an audience of lawyers in New York said that the patent office is now 57,000 cases behind in its work. That number of applications are waiting to be passed upon, and the force supplied to do the work is, according to Mr. Ewing, underpaid and incompetent.

One such complaint might pass unnoticed, but the fact is that just such complaints have been going regularly to congress for years past. The commissioners admit that their work is behind and that their files are wretchedly kept, and that they cannot keep good men for want of money to pay them. Nobody seems to deny this nor does anybody seem to be able to interest congress sufficiently to bring about a change.

But the condition cannot continue forever, and it may be that the claims of the patent office will not be delayed much longer. The work of getting back to "normalcy" after the war is well advanced. The next session of congress will pass a tariff bill and dispose of the bonus question, and after that, perhaps, the members will be able to see the patent office through the opening so made in the legislative jungle.

It is rapidly becoming too late to shop early, but still one may say that it is still early enough to avoid shopping late.

JUST KEPT GROWING

The origins of these antiquated, cumbersome, costly, inefficient pieces of the national machinery that we call the executive departments show how any establishment if well watered with government money will expand and hold together, no matter how conflictive and incongruous its functions. Hardly one of these great business establishments—for that is what they are—was planned. As they are today they just happened.

Take the Department of Agriculture, for example, one of the greatest and most complex and widespread of all the departments. It is in closer touch and more directly affects the greatest number of people in the United States than any other branch of the government with the possible exception of the post office. It began in 1849 with an appropriation of $1,000, taken from the patent funds for the distribution of free seeds and the collection of agricultural statistics by the patent office then a bureau in the State department. Now look at the darning thing. It is all over the place.

The title of the department indicates its most important field of activities, but its functions have been extended to include the whole range of rural industry and some branches of administration only very indirectly related to agricultural interests. For about 60 years subsequent to the legislation the general interests of agriculture were left almost entirely to individual initiative. Federal activity was confined to relatively narrow limits and was merely sporadic. Soon after the national government was organized some attempts were made to establish a bureau of agriculture, but neither the first proposal in 1789 nor a second effort in 1817 was successful.

Shortly after the Revolution, following the example of Benjamin Franklin while in England, an agent of the colony of Pennsylvania during the years 1764 to 1774, American consuls and naval officers began the practice of sending home foreign seeds and cuttings for new crops, and of adding to the introduction into the United States of new breeds of domestic animals. Even such small governmental participation was in the beginning, rather extraordinary.

In 1836 the commissioner of patents, one H. L. Ellsworth began the distribution of considerable quantities of seeds and plants received from government representatives in foreign countries, and three years later through his influence an appropriation of $1,000 was made for the purpose of preparing and distributing seeds of new plants, carrying agricultural investigations and collecting agricultural statistics. This was the historic beginning of the much-talked-about free seed distribution.

By an act of congress in May, 1862, since generally called the organic act, the activities of the government affecting agriculture were placed under a separate and distinct organization known as the Department of Agriculture. In charge of a commissioner of agriculture. It did not rank, however, with the other executive departments, and the commissioner was not entitled to a seat in the President's cabinet. Isaac Newton, chief of the agricultural section in the patent office, was appointed the first commissioner of agriculture. Other officers provided by the organic act included a statistician, a chemist, an entomologist and a superintendent of the propagating garden and experimental farm.

The chronicle was now ready to be broken. In 1869 the Department of Agriculture was elevated to the rank of the other executive departments and its commissioner was made secretary of agriculture with a seat in the President's cabinet. This was in Grover Cleveland's administration. In honor of its new rank a few more functions were taken on.

But that's enough detail. It kept on growing. Beginning with an appropriation of $1,000 and two or three clerks, the department had, in 1910, employees to the number of 12,480, and an appropriation of $12,968,000. Five years later the appropriation had grown to $19,865,832 and the employees to 16,223. The employees in May, 1920, numbered 18,608 and the appropriation given by congress for the fiscal year 1921 was $31,475,364.

The department has increased its cost of living in 82 years from a mere $1,000—that is, $83.35 a month—to more than $31,000,000 a year—$2,622,947.38 every month. That shows as clearly and as sharply as it can be shown how the high cost of government living affects your own cost of living.

We, you and I, paid out of our savings and earnings every cent of that increase from $1,000 a year to more than $31,000,000. It may have been well spent. We probably got a rat for our money, but nobody knows, except in a general way. We have a right to know. It is simply fact-based news on our part not to find out.

DETROIT MEN TO TAKE CHARGE OF ACCUSED YOUTHS

Many Boys Start Their Criminal Career in Small Way, Will Enlighten Environment of Boys.

(By Associated Press)

DETROIT, Mich., Dec. 19.—A "Big Brother" movement in which Catholic men of the city will endeavor to watch over boys and young men who are bent into the courts on misdemeanor charges will be started here January 1 by the Holy Name Society. At the head of the movement will be Arthur L. Barkey, for several years special investigator in charge of the Department of Justice here, and whose experience for the government has brought him into contact with the courts of the city.

A committee of men will be named in each parish of Detroit. Members of this committee, with Mr. Barkey, will assume charge of the cases of youths who run foul of the law and will try to put them back on the right road, as Mr. Barkey expressed it. The work will be done largely by a group of offenders, with the idea of obtaining better opportunities for the boys and young men accused a fresh start.

"Every criminal started his career in a small way," Mr. Barkey said, "if boys who go wrong can be taken in charge by older persons who have their interests at heart, guided by their right paths and made to feel they are not traitors, they will be saved from further downward steps. It is association with older criminals in jails and prisons that in many instances makes criminals of our youths. No law really is of any use if it is not enforced."

"Ordinarily a boy is accused of some light offense. Even a short term in jail and thrown in contact with experienced criminals. The boy usually is told by these older and more hardened men that he is hopeless, that he will never get out of a criminal life. It will be the aim of the Holy Name committee to get such boys out of a square deal of around, and are provided with an opportunity to make good. Personal work by men interested in them, who may be their fathers, brothers, a school teacher, or other, will be the result. Ordinary probation often is resented because such treatment is not applied with a rubber stamp system. The probation officers regularly assigned by law have so many cases that they are unable to give the attention he deserves. It will be far better to have these boys watched over by members of their church, people whom they know will take an interest in their future lives."

Members of the parish committee will be chosen from among the laymen, although priests are to have a part in the program. An effort is to be made to bring the "Little Brothers" into the Holy Name Society.

Detroit Catholics are hopeful the same plan will be put into effect later in all the largest cities of the state. The system is new to Michigan, but already has been proved advantageous in Chicago, Mr. Barkey says.
