MURPHY AND MADER GIVE $75,000 BAIL

LABOR LEADERS GIVEN LIBERTY THIS MORNING

Have Been in Jail for the Last Eleven Days on Bomb Charge.

State Refused to Submit Murder Evidence to Prevent Release on Habeas Corpus Proceedings.

(By Associated Press)

CHICAGO, May 27.—"Big Tim" Murphy and Fred Mader described as the "cats" in what the police term the "labor world" today were released from jail on bonds of $25,000 each. They have been confined in cells for 11 days, after their arrest and indictment for the murder of Police Officer Lawrence Lyons, one of two policemen shot to death on May 9th while investigating bombing, which was believed to be in protest of the Landis Building Trades wage award.

The order was issued by Judge H. B. Miller and ended a litigation of 19 days in which the state heretofore has been successful in frustrating the efforts to release the two.

Habeas Corpus Proceedings

The habeas corpus hearing which was before Judge Miller, lasted two days, the state refusing to present the evidence upon which the men were held saying that to do so would weaken their case when the trial came on.

Judge Miller held that since no evidence against them was presented, he was compelled to exercise his powers to release them on bail.

Murphy and Mader and their friends were arrested when the decision was announced and the bailiff had trouble in stopping the cheering which had started. Mrs. Murphy, the mother of "Big Tim" jumped up on a chair and shouted:

"Hurrah for Ireland!"

"Hurrah for Ireland!" They even kept my Timmy in jail for something he did not do."

Judge Miller's decision was rendered under the Illinois law which provides that in murder cases the judge may order bail if he is convinced that the evidence is of such a nature that he believes the defendant should not be deprived of his liberty pending trial.

The state has never maintained that Murphy and Mader actually bombed the police which killed the policeman, but holds they instigated the crime, and therefore are as guilty as if they had done the actual shooting. It was on this basis that the anarchists were convicted and hanged in Chicago several years ago.

KNIFE APPLIED TO CITY BUDGET FOR THE COMING YEAR

Council Says Escanaba Must Not Spend More Money Than She Derives From Taxation.

Escanaba will not spend more than she takes in during the coming fiscal year. A resolution was established last night by the city commission, which barred all financial problems and other sundry heads of departments from being presented at the meeting to load their old and experience on a cutting down a scarce financial case.

But it isn't going to be easy. Estimated 1922-23 expenses were $200,000. The appropriation for this department Council is proceeding on the idea that the only way a city can stay on solid ground is to spend only such sums as it has to spend. In other words, Escanaba isn't going to spend in excess of her income.

Last year the city budget amounted to $122,557.60; the city spent $10,000 more than that amount. A preliminary budget submitted for this year called for $165,155.35, or $33,000 more than last year.

Stick to Income

But the whole thing shimmers down to the fact that the city isn't going to be permitted to spend more than it will collect and as a result a vital part of every department of city business will have to be conducted on reduced revenue for the next year.

The library fund, originally fixed at $8,500, was cut to $6,800. Last year the library appropriation was $5,000 but $6,500 was spent in running the library for the year.

The original budget for the park department was fixed at $2,100 and that amount was cut to $2,700.

Reorganization Department

As much of the work of the health department, under the new regime will be taken over by the poor department and the street department a substantial cut in the cost of running that department will be made. The police chief will become the poor commissioner and that officer will engage the city physician while the street department will take over the supervision of the garbage collection, leaving the health commissioner only the work of safeguarding the city's health and making analysis of water and milk. The original estimate for the department was fixed at $3,214 and that amount was cut to $2,571.00.

The street department asked for an appropriation of $18,521.00 and that amount was cut to $12,421.00.

The poor department asked for an appropriation of $9,050 and that fund was cut to $7,210.

The fire department asked for $21,111.12 and was cut to $19,141.12.

Water and light funds of $1,900 each were wiped out, it being decided necessary to force the utilities to bear that share of the cost of running the city, to allow the council to force the budget down to the necessary point.

The sewage disposal fund, fixed at $12,000 was cut to $9,500.

The interest and sinking fund was cut from $26,230 to $24,330.

General Fund Cut

The general city fund was cut from $22,081.34 to $16,111.34. That cut was accomplished by charging $2,000 of the city manager's salary to the utilities, eliminating the manager's secretary, reducing the salary of the assistant city clerk to $125 a month and charging $200 of the city attorney's salary to the utilities.

A public hearing on the budget as required by the charter will be held in the council chamber at the city hall on Monday evening and on Wednesday evening the council will meet to formally adopt the appropriation budget.

DOUBLE SHIFT MATRIMONIAL SCHEME FAILS

Lansing Woman Disappears when Neighbors Begin to Investigate.

FLINT, Mich., May 27.—Mrs. Lola Spaver, alleged to have spent her days as the wife of Anthony Spaver, a night police policeman and her days with Henry Rodneck, a day-time factory worker, was arrested in Lansing today on a warrant charging her with bigamy. The woman is being brought back here for arraignment in justice court.

Mrs. Spaver was apprehended after officers learned she had telephoned from Lansing to a friend in Flint. Mrs. Spaver, aged 25 and attractive, disappeared three days ago when she learned the neighbors had become suspicious of her actions and were investigating the alleged "two shift" matrimonial entanglement.

Both Rodneck and Spaver aided the police in seeking the woman. Officers allege that the investigation has shown the woman spent each day at the home of Spaver and after seeing him off to work in the afternoon, went to Rodneck's home and had dinner waiting for him when his day's work at the factory was done.

MICKS STORE AT KIPLING ROBBED THIS MORNING

Goods and Money to the Amount of About $100 Secured by Burglars.

The sheriff's department was called to Kipling early this morning by an announcement of the robbery of the Micks store, general store, by that place about 2:30 o'clock this morning. Sheriff Harvey, Undersheriff Danielson and deputies Bond-hale and Bruce got on the job immediately.

The first development was the recovery of $100 in cash and a quantity of goods in Gladstone last afternoon questioning the suspect proved they could have had nothing to do with the robbery and they were released.

About $50 worth of clothing consisting of shirts, underwear and other articles was missed, while $20 in silver and about $100 in pennies is reported missing. Some of the material was found on the railroad tracks between Kipling and Gladstone, indicating that the robbers had gone in that direction. The matter will be pressed with all possible zeal and it is hoped that the robbers will be apprehended within a short time.

Delay West Trial Due To Illness Of Escanaba Attorney

Today's Marquette Mining Journal says: Attorney S. C. Spencer, defendant's attorney, yesterday afternoon caused a halt until next Wednesday morning in the circuit court trial of Swan A. West, former clerk in the Marquette branch prison, who is charged with embezzlement of state funds.

Court was adjourned after Mr. Spencer had finished arguing a motion requesting Judge Flannigan to direct a verdict of not guilty on the ground that no evidence had been introduced against Mr. West to support the charge of embezzlement. The jury was not in the court room during the argument.

Judge Flannigan has taken the matter under advisement and it is probable that a ruling will be made Wednesday morning.

AGREEMENT ON SHOALS PROJECT IS ANNOUNCED

Details Not Revealed But Plans Follow Terms of Former Offer.

WASHINGTON, May 27.—A proposal for development of the government nitrate power plant at Muscle Shoals, Alabama, was finally agreed upon today by the house military committee after more than three months of investigation and study of the offer made by Henry Ford, the Alabama Power company, Frederick Engstrom and Charles S. Parsons.

While the proposal was held in strictest confidence by the committee with regard to its various provisions relating to the development of the project, it was learned that the Gorgas, Alabama, steam plant was eliminated from the property to be disposed of with Muscle Shoals. The committee plan in other respects follows closely to the terms offered by Henry Ford.

FOUR ARRESTS MADE BY SHERIFF AFTER MOONSHINE RAIDS

New Official Starts Clean-Up of County at Maple Ridge with What is Believed to Be Great Success.

Success.

Sheriff George Harvey is setting to work to clean up the county, which is believed to be a center of "cleaning" out in the county. Yesterday afternoon Mr. Harvey with Undersheriff Danielson and Deputies Bruce and Bond-hale headed for Maple Ridge, four hours later they returned with four arrests and such evidence as is believed will stand in court and secure convictions.

The premises of Herbert England were first searched and two quart cans of moonshine were secured, while three other bottles containing one quart and one-half of "shine" were also secured.

State Bailed. While the England party was being raised Undersheriff Danielson and Deputy Bond-hale went to the home of John Jacka and Harjo. Harjo, where one quart of "shine" was secured. At this place there were about 30 quarts of "shine" and two gallon size bottles of "shine" were also secured. It is believed that the party was made up of the "shine" and other parties.

Jacka and Harjo were arrested last night and this morning 20 other men were held for probable cause in connection with the raid. Under $5000 bail.

Hearing June 2nd. The battle of booze ended at the Jacka-Harjo empire which is believed to be a part of southeast in an early morning. This marks the first raid of 1922 by the sheriff's department in many months. The hearing will be held on June 2nd, under $5000 bail.

WENDELL LUND WINS FIRST IN STATE CONTEST

Escanaba Boy Brings Honor to His City By Brilliance.

Defeats All Comers at Niles, Meeting Where State Oratorical Honors Were Awarded.

For the first time in the history of Escanaba, an Escanaba boy and a product of the Escanaba schools has brought honor to his city and his school by winning the state oratorical contest, an event which is of state-wide importance and which will attract the most favorable notice to this city in all parts of the state.

Wendell Lund, the brilliant student and eloquent young orator, last night faced the best talent that could be turned out by the high school of the state at Niles, Mich., in a contest which will stand out as one of the greatest events of the kind ever held in the state.

Wendell Lund represented the fifth district, which is the entire upper peninsula and he won that right by having triumphed in a sub-district and a district contest. In last night's contest the Escanaba boy won on all points, on thought and composition and on delivery.

His subject was "The Call of the Doubled."

Mr. Lund and John Lemmer, high school coach in oratory, are expected back from Niles this evening, when full details of the victory will be forthcoming.

Meaning every well-wisher of Escanaba is delighted in the fact of the brilliant young son of Rev. and Mrs. V. A. Lund.

RECEPTIONS IN GRADE SCHOOLS GREAT SUCCESS

Pupils and Teachers to Be Congratulated On Event.

The closed reception, which took place in all of the ward buildings of the 217th school afternoon, was a delightful success. The weather was propitious, the patrons turned out in large numbers and the buildings proved to be treasure houses of beautiful and interesting work. The teachers and pupils had arranged a very pleasing display of their written and manual training, domestic art and science, construction work and project results and they made most attractive decorations. The children took charge of their visitors from the time they entered the door until they were ready to leave the room and there was no time left for awkward standing around or not knowing what to do next.

The favors given out ranged from beautiful yellow chrysanthemums, made in the 7th grade down to shiny little flower baskets and book marks constructed by the children of the primary department.

The visitors numbered almost seven hundred and to all appearances enjoyed the occasion as much as the children.

Great credit must be given Miss Olson the art supervisor and all the principals, teachers and children for making the occasion one long to be remembered.

Women Urge Continuance of Fight Against Vice

Representatives of women's organizations totalling 6,000,000 voting members appeared at the semi-annual meeting of the U. S. Interdepartmental Social Hygiene Board in Washington to urge the continuance of this government activity this coming year, at a cost of $225,000.

This past year, it was shown at the meeting, the social hygiene board saved the government $1,118,000. This is figured from the cost of hospital treatment for men who contract diseases through promiscuous sex relations. The cost of these diseases for 1921 is placed at $4,500,000. In 1920 the cost was $5,518,000. In 1919 it was $15,000,000. During the war period it was $72,000,000.

The rates for social disease in the army and navy have been cut from 91 per 1,000 men per year to 62, due to the closing of red light districts near army and navy stations. The rate among the U. S. troops in Europe where vice openly exists, is about 165 per 1,000 men.

About $500,000 of government funds remains to the credit of various universities and State Boards of Health, applicable to the continuance of the fight against social diseases which the nation is waging for the protection of the health of its men in uniform.

The money was appropriated in 1920, for medical and educational research for the treatment of social diseases and their causes, and for the establishment of free medical clinics for patients unable to afford the cost of private treatments and expensive drugs needed for the cure.

Boy Flees the Lash; Now Believed Dead

(By Associated Press) NEW YORK, May 27—Ocean County, N. J., was accused by the disappearance of Henry Schein, 10, son of John Schein, a farmer. It is thought the boy either died from hunger and exposure in the woods or cranberry bogs, was kidnapped by tramps, or is afraid to go home. The boy was kept after school on May 19. His father threatened to whip him and send to a reform school. The boy ran across a field to escape from his father. Henry has not been seen by his family or residents of Taskerton since.

Reconstruction Hospital Saves Injured Workers

DR. CHARLTON WALLACE

Surgeon-in-Chief, the Reconstruction Hospital
WITH almost a million American industrial workers each year injured seriously enough to cause loss of time, laboring people and employers are watching with interest the development of the first hospital wholly devoted to the treatment of industrial disabilities and diseases. This institution—the Reconstruction Hospital, of New York—has treated patients from thirty-three states in the past two years and in the opening quarter of 1922 had patients from ten industrial states. The hospital's objective is to rehabilitate sufferers from industrial injuries and diseases by use of methods successfully developed during the world war.

The Reconstruction Hospital is removing men and restoring them to their occupational class and training them to the earning class, said Dr. Charlton Wallace, the surgeon in chief. "The first hospital in America to be dedicated wholly to the care and after-care of industrial disabilities and diseases, it meets a need which the annual loss in injured workers makes imperative. Full use is being made of the therapeutic advances made during the war. As a result, the Reconstruction Hospital is restoring disabled men to their working ability in from one-third to one-half of the time heretofore required.

LANCOUR IS STILL A CANDIDATE.

I wish to announce to the voters of Delta County that my father, Henry H. Lancour, is still a candidate for the office of Sheriff of Delta County. My father was sentenced to six months in the House of Correction at Detroit, through the jealousy of some of his dear neighbors whose object it was to stop his political campaign. It will not be necessary for him to "conduct his campaign" from the House of Correction as it will be conducted by his many staunch friends in the county, who are familiar with his record, and also the record of the persons who are responsible.

Therefore it will be left to the voters to decide.
Yours truly,
EDFOND H. LANCOUR.

"Let's Make Escanaba A Better City"

OPTIMISTIC ESCANABA.

Escanaba—rich in opportunities; rich in enthusiasm; rich in the possession of an unbounded confidence in the future and her own destiny, stands today upon the threshold of new adventure and a new experience.

She feels the quickening pulsations of a forward movement which has been absent in the years gone by; there is a new psychology in the atmosphere—a feeling that things are going—a sense of progress—the thrill of a victory not only assured, but already partially achieved.

It is the new spirit of Escanaba in the yeasty state, seething and bubbling and constantly moving—the beginning of a new existence.

A few months ago a band of enthusiastic and earnest citizens saw and explained, only partially, a new vision, dreamed a new dream and they inspired other citizens with the spirit of that enthusiasm.

The spirit not only still lives but is growing and spreading into every nook and corner and, even where efforts are made to repel it, some innate force makes it accepted subconsciously. You can't get away from it—we have a new and better Escanaba started on the upgrade and she is toddling right along, without a stumble so far.

And there is a new optimism, a new courage and a new determination apparent in the very earnest and very sincere manner in which the public is cooperating to aid the new city government in its task of giving to Escanaba that place in the sun to which it is so justly entitled and which it so richly deserves.

Business is clearly picking up here as elsewhere and, though it may seem to come slowly, Escanaba is surely beginning to share in the return of greater activity and the quickened pulse of economic life.

Here we are planning a great industrial exhibit, something the value of which cannot be measured in mere dollars and cents. The Chamber of Commerce is planning bigger, better and greater things for Escanaba. Movements are afoot to curtail needless expense in the city government; to secure for Escanaba a more equitable distribution of the taxes paid by railroad property; a big Fourth of July celebration which will be a part of a homecoming week; the possible establishment of a fish hatchery in this vicinity; the offering to the state park commission of several likely sites for state parks; tourists are beginning to arrive, stay for a time and go on to inform others about our new spirit; Wendell Lund, a high school boy, calls favorable attention to his city by winning the state oratorical contest, thereby proving that Escanaba is an intellectual community, and everybody is happy and hopeful and confident that Escanaba is going to experience the best year in her history.

It really is amazing the number of things we have to be grateful for. Rotarians, Kiwanians, Lions, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, business men, laboring men—absolutely everybody—is singing the praises of the new Escanaba spirit and the new Escanaba ambition.

It's the best spirit that has existed in this city in years, and—it's a winning spirit.

Escanaba's new city council is facing financial problems, facing them not in fear and trembling, but with a certain knowledge that the application of business principles will bring us safely through the woods. And they are happy in the performance of that service. There is a song in the hearts of these men as they go about their work. They are enthusiastic but unexcited.

What are wise and necessary cautions are being observed but are not being practiced to the extent that they are likely to become crippling or retarding influences at this time.

It is Escanaba's duty to stand squarely behind the mayor and commissioners and new city manager and city controller and the heads of all departments and give them countenance and the fullest support just so long as they conduct the city's business carefully and in accordance with the letter and spirit of the charter. These men have entered into a moral contract with the city and that contract implies cheerful, helpful cooperation on the part of the public.

It is well that the people are watchful, but they also are morally obligated to be hopeful and helpful as far as they are able. Legitimate and corrective criticism are always in order and where they can be made intelligently their utterance becomes a public duty.

Those who really wish the city well, will not hesitate to roll their sleeves and co-operate. The more difficult the task of running the city may become, the more necessary helpfulness, watchfulness and helpfulness will be.

Each day the new administration is attempting to show by its diligence and care and earnestness that it is justifying the faith placed in it by the people. It is dealing frankly and openly with the people and it is making no attempt to make a good showing through specious statements, where a good showing does not exist in fact. It has taken such tools as came to its hands and has done a most magnificent job of "doing the best it can."

Escanaba is peculiarly fortunate at this time to have placed her interests in the hands of men of such energy and such idealism coupled with such splendid business experience and common sense. The circumstances are exceptional. Good ideas are remarkably tenacious of life and this administration is doing a pioneering work which gives Escanaba every reason for the new optimism, the new enthusiasm and the new spirit of confidence and happiness which we find so abundantly on every hand these days.

May the brightness of Escanaba's future shine forth more brilliantly each day and may the new and joyous spirit of achievement and success convince all scoffers that indeed, here is a new, revived, dynamic, warm-hearted, sincere Escanaba ready to welcome all who deserve that kind of a town and know it when they see it.

THEIR PROSPECTS ARE MURKY.

That the Filipino delegation due in Washington next month will be obliged to go home without having gained its principal object is made fairly certain by the secretary of war, who says: "I am not in favor of granting immediate independence to the Philippines and the President is not." It is true the delegation will have a chance to present its case and make its arguments, but over against these will stand the reports by General Wood and Mr. Forbes, which are strongly against granting the plea of the politicians from Manila, and the latter personages also will find militating against them the well known fact that it was not their original intention to ask complete separation from this country but to express a willingness to accept something less. The mass of the delegates finally took their present attitude because Manuel Quezon balked and refused to come to America unless the remainder of the company receded from its moderate, and relatively reasonable position. Consequently the delegation is open to a suspicion that it is not really convinced of the reasonableness of its own request, and that is enough to discredit any mission.

Twenty amendments to the constitution are now before congress. It has taken us nearly a century and a half to accumulate the nineteen we now have, which indicates our ancestors must have been pretty slow.

Jack Dempsey says he is engaged to be married and there is also a prospect that he will sign up for another fight. The difference between the two contracts depends upon circuit stances.

One reason for thinking that the popularity of the radio has a long time to run is that nobody has yet discovered that it needs reforming.

Frank Vanderlip thinks the Genoa conference was a good deal like a clinic. Yes, with the doctors in violent disagreement at the end.

Move to Eliminate "Useless Jobs" Fails

(By Associated Press) SUPERIOR, Wis., May 27—The proposed elimination of "political figure-heads" among employees of the city, advocated strongly by the advisory council, failed to materialize at the second joint meeting of that body and the city commissioners. An ordinance providing for retention of present city employees and fixing their salaries as high as not higher than last year was adopted by a unanimous vote of the commissioners.

The advisory council also voted in favor of the ordinance.

In some of the remote parts of Switzerland a maid becomes engaged to a man if she accepts from him a bouquet of edelweiss, the idea being that the man has risked his life to obtain the flowers for the woman he loves.

Harding Indorses State Parks Plan

(By Associated Press) WASHINGTON, May 27—President Harding has given his endorsement to the movement for establishment of state parks, in a letter to John Barton Payne, chairman of the conference committee on state parks, it was announced here.

The president's letter was read when the conference opened at Palisades Interstate park, New York. It said:

"I want to assure you and your associates this splendid work of my cordial indorsement of the effort they are putting forth." My understanding is that a wide-spread interest in behalf of the establishment of state parks is rapidly developing, which I think is a matter of congratulation to every state that thus interests itself, and the country as a whole.

Indian Trails Are Examples of Evolution in Highways of Nation, And Are a Credit to Michigan's Wonderful Cloverland—The Upper Peninsula.

(By William K. Gibbs)

When Henry Wadsworth Longfellow immortalized "The Tushing Escanaba," tourists in Delta County, one of the gateway spots of the Upper Peninsula, knew not of the automobile. They traveled by foot or canoe and instead of being tourists they were known better as "intrepid explorers."

Now the stealthy tread of motorized feet has given way to the hum of motor's latest speed creations and instead of wearisome paths of bygone days there are miles upon miles of fine macadam. In fact, so advanced is the county, of which the city of Escanaba is the metropolis, in road construction that it takes more of the state aid fund from the Michigan treasury than any other county in the Wolverine state with the exception of Wayne and Kent, environs respectively of Detroit and Grand Rapids.

Ethnologists differ concerning the meaning of the Indian name "Escanaba," most authorities agreeing upon "flat rock," while others credit "young male quadruped" as being the true definition. More than three score years ago the present I. Stephenson Company lumbering operations had its nucleus at Flat Rock on the Escanaba River—so much for the first definition—and there are quantities of "young male quadrupeds," wild and domestic, here to bear out the second meaning given.

The Focal Point Delta County claims to be the focal point of the section which has taken unto itself the euphonious title of "The Sunny Side of Cloverland." To substitute this reader has only to glance at a map of the Upper Peninsula, particularly the counties of Delta, Marquette, Dickinson and Menominee, and note the course of the rivers. They show that the height of land, or dividing line between Lake Michigan and Lake Superior lies north of the central part of Marquette County. This dividing line is about 1,000 feet above the level of the lakes and the lands to the south of the dividing line sloping to Lake Michigan have a full sun exposure; hence the term, "Sunny Side of Cloverland."

The "rushing Escanaba" is the scene of extensive lumber operations even now, the I. Stephenson Company cutting daily about eight hundred thousand feet of lumber at Escanaba and Wells, the latter a short distance north of Escanaba. Let those who imagine the timber zone from Upper Michigan disabuse their minds, for this company alone, cutting nearly a million feet daily, has a visible supply to last at this rate for twenty years. You can still find the forest primeval here and in many other places in Cloverland.

Fortune in Wood Product As has been said of the parkers, "they utilize everything in the hog but the squeal," so can it be said of the lumbermen here, "they utilize everything but the odor." Great quantities of acetate of lime accumulated at Escanaba prior to the war, for a market was lacking. Then came demand for this product for making ammunition and fortunes were made from this one wood product alone.

I mention the lumbering industry here because the reader will know that where there is lumbering there he can find Nature in her element. When he tours he wants woods, waters and good roads. The woods and waters are plentiful and the roads are all that one could desire. Delta County is a county of great distances. Comparatively narrow east and west, the several deltas stretching down into Lake Michigan like the fingers of a giant's hand, make the shore line long and irregular. Traveling in the environs of Escanaba is comparable to traveling over mountains—you travel many miles to cover a short distance measured as the crow flies.

There are four main gateways to Cloverland, one by the way of the Straits of Mackinaw, one at Ironwood in the extreme western end of the peninsula, one coming into the state near Watermeet, the dividing line between the Menominee and the Gogebic from ranges, and one through Menominee, the most southern point in the Upper Peninsula. Escanaba is more easily reached from the latter gateway. From Menominee there are but two routes, one straight north to Spalding and then east, which is the faster and best road, and another route following the shore of Green Bay, this one being endowed with prettier scenery but showing fewer signs of improvement than the other.

Old Stage Route The Bay road is the old stage route between Escanaba and Green Bay, Wisconsin, and is often referred to as the Peter White road because an early mail carrier and pioneer bearing that name traversed it. Some ten miles south of Escanaba is a fine example of Goldsmith's "Deserted Village," Ford River, once a thriving lumber town and one time home of O. B. Fuller, Michigan State Auditor, when he was a log scaler, as well as Douglas Malloch, the "lumberman poet," is now but a memory. Not only are the buildings that once made up the town deserted, but many of them are being torn down and removed.

A few miles beyond Ford River on the Bay road is a unique little picnic spot that exists under the handicap name of Misery Bay. There is nothing indicative of misery there, in fact, there is every indication that the nature-loving tourist or vacationist could while away a pleasant day or week without suffering any of the pangs of that was within reach of your time, or your purse—I am speaking now to those readers who live in the Middle West and that part of the "country which Noo Yawkers and Bostoners like to call "out west," meaning west of Pittsburgh—Cloverland calls with insistency. If you do not heed the call, yours is the loss.

annual. The bay took its name from an Indian named Joe Misery, long since passed on to the "happy hunting ground," but the name, like Indian legend and tradition, lives on. I make this explanation because when you get to Escanaba someone is likely to suggest that you drive down to Misery Bay and if you know nothing about it but the name you are likely to get no thrill out of contemplating a visit to a point so handicapped by name. It's worth the fifteen miles just to drive the last three hundred yards over a cedar bark and pine needle carpeted road that leads a serpentine course between the main highway and the bay itself.

Ideal Touring Conditions Temperature is less extreme at Escanaba than in most localities lying in this latitude. There is little, if any, excessive heat which insures the tourist of ideal touring conditions—warm days and cool nights. Being on the Sunny Side of Cloverland, Escanaba offers lake bathing earlier and later than at any other point on Lake Michigan. The city maintains municipal beaches and furnishes suits to those who wish them. That the tourist may be amply cared for if he wishes to camp, the south end of the lake front park has been set aside for camping, motels and conveniences placed for cooking and sanitation. All the city asks is that you leave the grounds in as good condition as you find them.

A limited number of cottages can be had and hotel and garage accommodations are ample. Both the Delta and New Ludington hotels have adequate accommodations. As an industrial city and shipping point Escanaba ranks high. Five million tons of iron ore—Escanaba's annual shipment—is a quantity difficult to visualize, but a view of the main north ore docks helps to broaden one's vision. Five million tons expressed in terms familiar to every motorist on the road would mean the combined weight of enough Ford cars, allowing ten feet for each car, to make a continuous line 15,783 miles in length, or more than three-hits of the distance around the earth at the equator. Manufactured products include chemicals, tar products, building paper and lumber. Some of the ore coming into Escanaba from Menominee and Marquette ranges is smelted here, but the major part goes out in its raw form to various lake ports, about twenty per cent finding its way to Canadian ports.

County Is Active. Delta County is active when it comes to new road construction and road maintenance. The Bay road along Bay de Noc and Green Bay to the southward will be improved before another year, most of the Delta County section being in good condition at present. The parcel system similar to that common in England and other European countries is to be instituted generally in 1919 or early in 1920 and is to be found considerably at present.

Rich farming areas make up a large part of Delta County. From early spring to late autumn the fragrance of clover which abounds in profusion and from which Cloverland takes its name, fills the tourist with all the power of the poppy sans ill effects. No need to go to Maine or the Rockies in search of the primeval forest, the schools of speckled trout, partridge, deer and all kinds of wild game. No need to search out "down East" highways for quality such as the car owner admires and desires. Cloverland abounds in the highest quality of all these and Escanaba and the country tributary to it offers a fine example of what practically every point in the interior of the Peninsula has to offer.

Golf Club Extends Welcome If you have golf clubs along you need not hesitate to use the Escanaba Golf Links for both the course and the club are open to the tourist. In topography Delta County is not so much unlike Lower Michigan or Indiana, but gently undulating roads lend enchantment to the scenic resources of this rich entrance to the Cloverland country as a whole.

Occasionally one sees great herds of cattle or sheep and might wonder if they had been magically transported to the western plains. No, you are still in Delta County, but western grazing is giving way to Cloverland. Stock grazers from the west are shipping in thousands of cattle and sheep for here the seasons are longer, the winters less severe and there is the added advantage of plenty of water. These same creeks and rivers and inland lakes, which teem with fish waiting for the disciples ofzaak Walton, offer watering facilities for stock raisers such as never were found west of the Missouri River.

Seeing Is Believing Miles upon miles of continuously good roads—highways that are second to none in the country, stretch through long areas of virgin timber, through fine farming communities and along the beautiful irregular shores of Lake Michigan and the two bays—de Noc and Green—awaiting you. Too little is known of Upper Michigan and the fine system of highways and really wonderfully appealing scenery. Don't get the idea that Cloverland is a name taken to appeal to your visionary thoughts of Utopia. You who have read volumes on Colorado, the Berkshires, the White Mountains and the Maine woods, worn holes in the railway literature looking at some beauty spot miles and miles away and wished there was some place like it near home that was within reach of your time, or your purse—I am speaking now to those readers who live in the Middle West and that part of the "country which Noo Yawkers and Bostoners like to call "out west," meaning west of Pittsburgh—Cloverland calls with insistency. If you do not heed the call, yours is the loss.
