AND THUS BE A GOOD CITIZEN.

The distinction between the citizen who is an asset to his community and one who is not, lies in the fact that the former always keeps in mind that there are other people in the world besides himself.

This social consciousness or intelligence is manifested in such little things that we are often inclined to overlook their importance. To the individual it may be of little importance where he throws his waste-paper or rubbish; but in a large community it is a step forward when citizens deposit this waste in receptacles supplied for that purpose. It means that we have acquired the habit of thinking about others.

Time was when ever the most thoughtful among us might with easy conscience leave littered with paper the remains of an outdoor meal the little spot we had selected for our outing. We gave little thought to those coming after us, who but for the refuse we left, might consider this an ideal place for a day's camp. We left our paper plates and napkins and orange and banana peeling to make ugly what had been before our coming an inviting place.

An ever-increasing number of such campers, however, has changed our point of view. The increasing popularity of such a pastime has made it necessary for us to give some heed to the welfare of those who follow after us. Where there were once but a dozen of such campers there are today thousands of them; and quite naturally as a result of these changed conditions the citizen who is a credit to his community is now aware of certain more recently acquired obligations he owes to his fellowmen.

From numerous motorist camps throughout the state comes assurance that the number of "good" campers is growing. "It is today," said an official of one of these camps recently, "quite the natural thing for most of these tourists to remember that such camps and, indeed, all woodland spots suitable for camping, are to be kept in order as if they were our own property. You don't see the wanton destruction of property and the carelessness today that you could have seen anywhere by the roadside years ago."

Encouraging news this! But think of what would happen if we could get this same interest centered on the most obvious duty of all citizens—an active participation in selecting for his community its most desirable representatives for public office. We camp two weeks a year; but what do we do—or fail to do—in the selecting of proper public officials who slip in throughout the entire term of office of the gentry who slip in while we are asleep.

The next thing for the "good" camper to do is to become a good voter.

DEAD LAWS.

The town of Piqua started in a few weeks ago to enforce all of the Sunday laws that could be dug out of the Ohio statutes. There was to be no gainful work on Sunday and no play either. The good old Puritan Sabbath was to descend upon the town and those who would not respect the day were to be forced into an appearance of respect.

The first Sunday after the plan came into full operation church attendance fell off while the crowd at the ball game, held outside of the city limits, was unusually large. The empty pews were accounted for by the fact that the street car lines had been shut down by the mayor. The baseball fans, it will be noted, were not so easily discouraged.

Doubtless the mayor of Piqua could make a strong defense of his policy. He has the law on his side. The statutes upon which he relies have never been repealed by the legislature. Practically, however, they have been repudiated by the people and repealed by lapse and disuse is not unknown to the law itself. Michigan carried a statute on its books for years which declared tightrope walking to be a disorderly act but never enforced it, and in older eastern states many laws of the stricter Puritan period simply died without formal repeal. It would be best, of course, to make a definite end of laws that are practically dead, but it is better to leave dead statutes in peace than to try to enforce them.

"EXPECT THE UNEXPECTED."

"Use your horn; that's what it's there for," is the advice of an experienced driver to motorists in an effort to prevent automobile accidents. He urges them not to steal up from behind without some signal of this kind. They are to use it whenever the slightest occasion demands it.

But they should also be urged to use their heads, and what is supposed to be in them. They should give evidence also of some consideration for the rights of others on the road; they should keep in mind that public highways are not private lanes, and that someone is always likely to drive into their path from some side street or road.

There are many things which motorists must keep in mind if automobile accidents are to be averted. In the speech of the motorist there ought to be no such word as "unexpected." The unexpected is the very thing they ought to expect. It ought to be as clear as day and as inevitable as winter's snow to all of us that driving a motor car is no child's play; it ought to be done only by painstaking and responsible persons, able and willing always to give them most serious attention to the business in hand.

Maybe if the father of that man who wanted to raise a little spending money by selling the family tomb had anticipated his son's thrifty plan he would have had himself crated and sealed up in an inexpensive jug.

Representative Fitzgerald, who flew 500 miles in order to attend the opening session of congress set a good example to the other members. They should all come down to earth on arriving in Washington.

DELTA COUNTY MAY GET RELIEF FROM A HIGH TAX RATE

Committee Returns From Lansing With Much Encouragement and Hopefulness.

T. M. Johnson and Tomal Strom have returned from Lansing, where they with Helmer Bruce, all representing the Delta County Board of Supervisors have been in consultation for several days with the state board of taxation. Mr. Bruce remained on the job to expedite such some additional matters by which Delta county may expect a reduction in valuation. Messrs. Strom and Johnson were highly encouraged by the reception they received and the sincere manner in which their suggestions and explanations of local conditions were taken. For instance, it is believed that the valuation of Delta county for next year will be reduced approximately $10,000,000.

The fact that Escanaba was unjustly taxed by reason of not receiving the tax due from railroad property located here as well as at Gladstone is one of the equalization board and its attitude was such that the local men feel that Delta county can reasonably look for some relief in the future.

One hundred and fifty men commuted near Grand Rapids to harl storage areas at train full of strike-breakers. The seriousness of this act may not be realized, until you reflect that the supply of fresh eggs were selling to motorists along the road on Sunday will be depleted for some time to come.

INTRODUCING A SMART MODEL

A style that plays up the possibilities of the straight and slender figure is this frock in caramel brown charmeuse satin trimmed with old gold Georgette, which is used for the vestee and lining of the skirt drapery. A standing collar finishes the V-shaped neck, though the oval or square neckline, with collar may be substituted, if preferred. Medium size requires 4 1/4 yards 40-inch charmeuse and 3 1/2 yard of 40-inch Georgette.

Pictorial Review Dress No. 9294. Sizes 34 to 46 inches bust. Price, 35 cents.

Alex Wilson of Bark River and Rufus Spaulding of Garden. The other officers were elected for terms of one year only.

The financial report for the year was submitted by Secretary Patterson and approved by the local delegates present. The report showed a very good balance on hand with which to begin the year's work and reflected well the quality of the executive talent at the head of the organization and the manner in which the bureau's affairs have been administered during the twelve months past.

Plans for the bureau's participation in the Northern State Fair were also outlined and indicate that an unusually good representation in display material and demonstration work will be shown.

Cuban Politics Has a Lighter Side to Game

(By Associated Press)

HAVANA, Cuba, Aug. 23.—Credit is given President Alfredo Zayas for the only humorous side-light that has marked the recent reform upheaval in the Cuban administration, in which the disposal of public funds has figured to a considerable degree.

Asked by a personal friend how he replied to certain pertinent questions regarding Cuban affairs asked by the special American representative, Major General E. H. Crowder, the president is quoted as saying: "Oh I have adopted the principle embodied in the XYZ method of teaching language." Pressed for further explanation, he added: "For example, if I am asked 'Have you your brother's umbrella?' I reply, 'No, but I have my grandmother's goloshes'."

RED PEPPER FOR COLDS IN CHEST

Ease your tight, aching chest. Stop the pain. Break up the congestion. Feel a bad cold loosen-up in just a short time.

"Red Pepper Rub" is the cold remedy that brings quickest relief. It cannot hurt you and it certainly seems to end the tightness and drive the congestion and soreness right out.

Nothing has such concentrated, penetrating heat as red peppers, and when heat penetrates right down into colds, congestion, aching muscles and sore stiff joints, relief comes at once.

The moment you apply Red Pepper Rub you feel the tingling heat. In three minutes the congested spot is warmed through and through. When

SALTS IF KIDNEYS OR BLADDER BOTHER

Harmless to flush Kidneys and neutralize irritating acids—Splendid for system.

Kidney and Bladder weakness result from uric acid, says a noted authority. The kidneys filter this acid from the blood and pass it on to the bladder, where it often remains to irritate and inflame, causing a burning, scalding sensation, or setting up an irritation at the neck of the bladder, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night. The sufferer is in constant dread, the water passes sometimes with a scalding sensation and is very profuse; again there is difficulty in avoiding it.

Bladder weakness, most folks call it, because they can't control urination. While it is extremely annoying and sometimes very painful, this is really one of the most simple ailments to overcome. Get about four ounces of Jad Salts, from your pharmacist and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast, continue this for two or three days. This will neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation to the bladder and urinary organs which then act normally again.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used by thousands of folks who are subject to urinary disorders caused by uric acid irritation. Jad Salts is splendid for kidneys and causes no bad effects whatever.

Here you have a pleasant, effervescent lithia-water drink which quickly relieves bladder trouble.

Cripple Drops His Crutches and Runs From Near Death

(By Associated Press)

PARIS Aug. 23.—A miracle for which Lourdes, in some quarters, is given credit, is reported from Macon.

A pilgrim train bound for Lourdes was waiting in the station at Dijon and several pilgrims had crossed the tracks to the refreshment room when the whistle called them back. Among them was a paralyzed man who could only move with difficulty even with the aid of two crutches. As he was between the rails on his way back an express train was seen to be entering the station. A cry of horror went up from those who say his dangerous position, but the man who had hobbled half way across with his crutches now put them under him arm and ran for safety, escaping what seemed certain death.

One of the features at the picnic of the Kent County farm bureau at Lowell on August 17 was a hay pitching contest, and another was a contest in bundle throwing. There were followed by the popular game of throwing fried chicken and pie with accuracy and speed at a small hole in the fence.

A woodpecker, perched on top of a summer cottage near Monroe, arouses the family at 6:15 every morning by his tapping, thus serving as an alarm clock—though we fancy father may climb out some lazy Sunday morning and turn him off with a shot gun.

Metalized Ribbons and Feathers Important Note in New Fall Hats

THE coming fall will give a pretty wide choice in hats for the fashionable one, ranging from the very wide picture hat to the small Persian turban.

In between, there is the pike—narrow at the back and fanning out generously at the sides and front—and the tri-corner.

The large hat is usually edged with a soft fold of unripped material, about two inches in width, the rest of the trim being stiff. The crown is fitted, and the trimming, to be up to the last minute, should be of some metalized ribbon, or feather fancy.

The metal touch on any hat makes it a hat of the new order.

A large hat of Lyons velvet is shown in the photo above. It has a crown covered with metalized ostrich, the ostrich cascading down the back in an effective manner. It is the newest sort of hat, and was therefore chosen to be worn by Leatrice Joy, Paramount player, in "Manslaughter," Cecil B. DeMille's latest photo drama. It is all in gray and she wears it with her gray velvet, chinchilla-trimmed gown.

In the sketch at the upper right, a Persian turban is shown with the latest manner of using paradise or acigrettes. The feathers are placed downward, forming a rich and soft tassel that can hardly fail to be flattering to the complexion. Sometimes they do this leavlends a fancy dress air to the mode that is too bizarre to please the average woman.

The tri-corner shapes are enchanting. Pardon the adjective, but it's really appropriate here, for these new tri-corners are replicas of the old Venetian things worn centuries ago; and somehow, modern as they are, they have an old-time look about them that is fascinating. They have falls of lace gathered around the headsize (when they are designed for evening wear), but in the daytime they are seen with no other trimming but a small cockade slapped up against the side of the crown. Extremely smart for the serge suit, or the more elaborate tail-

GROWING CROPS NEED RAIN NOW IN THREE STATES

Weather Conditions Claimed a Trifle Unfavorable in Michigan, Illinois and Indiana.

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 23—Weather conditions have been rather unfavorable for crops in Michigan, Illinois and Indiana during the last two weeks according to the bi-monthly report covering the three states compiled by George C. Bryant, agricultural statistician for Indiana.

All growing crops in the three states need rain. The soil is too hard for effective fall plowing.

Small grain threshing is nearing completion in all sections, mostly under favorable conditions. Unsatisfactory yields generally were reported and the quantity is hardly up to the average. The movement of grains is fairly liberal but retarded in some places by lack of cars.

Cool weather has retarded development of corn to some extent. The crop is beginning to show a decline in the southern areas and is badly in need of rain in most places. Clinch lags have done a little damage in Illinois and Indiana. Late plantings are very doubtful from grain standpoints.

The hay harvest is completed. Yields generally have been heavy and crops put away under favorable conditions. The clover seed acreage is much increased over last year and hilling is now in progress with yields above average in most places. Pastures are of little feed value at this time.

White Potatoes declined materially in many places because of drought. Sweets are good generally but need rain. Other truck crops continued above average but are beginning to show need of rain. Factories are preparing for a heavy season. Shipments exceed last year. Michigan mean crop generally good.

The tree fruits all are good. The peach movement is very heavy where early varieties are being harvested. Cantaloupes and watermelons are of excellent quality but the yield is being cut by drought. The movement is large from southern sections.

Some hog cholera is reported, otherwise live stock is in good condition.

The farm labor supply is equal to the demand.

There can be no more convincing evidence of Republic merit than the fact that so many users buy Republic trucks year after year, with no apparent thought of even considering any other make.
