SINGLE COPIES, FIVE CENTS

90 TO 95 MAY BE DEAD IN MINE HORROR

FIVE BODIES ARE RECOVERED WHILE FAMILIES HUDDLE ABOUT MINE MOUTH IN MUTE HORROR

Spangler, Pa., Nov. 6—A terrific explosion somewhere in the workings of the Reilly mine, of the Reilly Coal company here, at 7:30 o'clock this morning, has probably killed or injured many of the 90 to 95 men who had gone down in the mine to work scarcely half an hour before.

Superintendent Flannigan at once organized a rescue party from employes in the vicinity and entered the mine. The extent of the explosion has not yet been determined, but at the offices of the company it was stated that the conditions are "pretty bad."

Most of the men who went to work this morning are married and the news of the explosion brought their wives and children to the shaft mouth where they gathered in dumb horror.

The first rescue party to enter the mine after the explosion this morning, reported at noon today that they had found three bodies and that they feared that some, if not all of the men in the mine, are dead.

FIND THREE BODIES
The rescue party entered the mine under the direction of Superintendent Flannigan and had proceeded to the third level of the shaft of the main entry when they came upon the bodies of the dead miners. They were huddled about the bodies and the party was back for further investigation. A search party was sent out after their second trip into the mine to see if they could find any information.

A second rescue party immediately went into the workings, with rescue covers composed of hundreds of men who were gathered at the shaft. Shortly after the second rescue party returned, word was received that the rescue party from Pittsburgh would arrive early this afternoon.

Mute With Horror
Several groups of silent workers upon the children huddled together in silence to the mouth of the shaft and mutually awaited a gleam of hope from the shaft, which was blown in the face of the earth in search for the bit and father. A straggling line of men, falling but the words, many of them have looked upon their attention in the weather.

After the first rescue party reported the extent of the explosion toward the company's office. Expecting that some information would be made, the rescue party immediately conferred with the company officials regarding the mine in which they had found the bodies. One of the rescuers said that he thought a fourth body had been found.

Used Open Lamps
Later, the rescuers brought two more bodies and two men, who were badly injured, to the surface. The Reilly mine was regarded as a mine in which the miners worked with open lamps. The explosion was so terrific that the machines in the power house were blown from their foundations. Four men, who had been in the mine, but who reported great difficulty in getting power towards the shaft where the mine body of miners were trapped.

The movement of ore in 1922 was the smallest in many years.

LEMIRE RESENTS TACTICS OF THE FERRIS BOOSTERS

Says the Progressive Voters League Seems to Be Democratic Organization.

Dr. W. A. Lemire, chairman of the Republican county committee for Delta county, has issued an open statement to the press in which he says that the Progressive Voters League is a Democratic organization.

County Chairman Lemire's statement follows:
I have an article in your paper regarding the Progressive Voters League endorsing Ex-Governor Ferris. It would have been better in keeping with the facts if you had said, 'Democracy endorse Ferris.'

This is the last statement I will issue before election day and I wish to reiterate that the real issue of this campaign is which party has done more for labor and the people of the United States as a whole. A Samuel Haysford pointed out in an address here recently before the Republican administration entered into office there were thousands of men and the side-tracks of every railroad of the nation were filled with empty, idle railroad cars.

Mirror's Friends Asked to Aid in Bettered Service

In order adequately to take care of the increased circulation which has come to the Mirror in the past few months, it is necessary to have a time limit within which to call for news matter for publication in the paper of that day.

Limited press facilities make it necessary to get to press at 4 o'clock. The bulk of the telegraph and news papers comes after the noon hour and takes machine capacity to handle it.

So if our many friends who please to send us news and who know well as it during the forenoon, it will make for better service and will be greatly appreciated. We want to accommodate, but there are many matters sent in which could much better be handled in the morning.

Unless expressly indicated to the contrary, no responsibility is assumed for the loss of any material which is not received by the office before 11 a. m.

TURKS INVITE TROUBLE WITH THE ALLIES

Demand Withdrawal of Troops From Constantinople.

Forbid American or Allied Sailors to Land at Kemal-ist Ports Except by Permission.

Constantinople, Turkey, Nov. 6. The Turkish nationalists after overthrowing the Sultan's government and declaring him heretic of all his civil powers are now seeking fresh conquests in a manner which may bring about trouble with the allies.

Last night, after taking over the control of Constantinople, the nationalists demanded the withdrawal of the allied troops from the city and "sacred mosques" that allied American sailors would not be permitted to land from their warships at Kemal-ist ports, except by special permission of the Ankara government.

Along with its demand for the departure of allied troops, the Turkish nationalists demanded the cessation of allied control of the Turkish railways in Europe and Asia, which they still consider imperially allied territory, to be handed over to the Ankara government immediately.

MUSIC MEMORY CONTEST

Brief Sketch of Life and Description of the More Notable Compositions of the World's Greatest Composers.

Following is the first of the series of brief biographies of famous musical composers and their compositions, for the information of those who will participate in the Music Memory Contest which starts today and ends November 20.

The matter was prepared by Miss Margaret Dunn, supervisor of music in the public schools.

BACH (1685-1750)

The first selection in chronological order of the twenty-four to be studied is the "Air for G. String," by Johann Sebastian Bach, a German composer who wrote during the first half of the eighteenth century. Bach is called "The Father of Modern Music" for he did more than any other musician or composer to advance that art. His boyhood home was the little town of Eisenach, Germany, near the famous Wartburg Castle, where the old German Minnesingers held singing contests.

Little Johann Sebastian or, in English, John, was taught by his father to play the violin. Upon his father's death he lived with a brother who taught him to play the clavichord, the forerunner of the piano. He also learned to perform on the organ and he acquired great skill in composing, but only after great trials and hardships which in later years resulted in his blindness.

Soon Bach became known as the greatest organist of his time and he wrote many works for his favorite instrument, as well as many instruction books for the piano, in which he introduced the present mode of fingering. For a time the composer conducted the court orchestra of a German prince. In this position he wrote many orchestra pieces called suites, which contained some of the quaint, old dances like gavottes, allemandes and minuettes of that period.

In one of these suites is found the famous "Air for G. String." But most of Father Bach's life was devoted to music for the Lutheran church service, and his wonderful Passion Music and Christmas Oratorios are heard even now in the great Bach Festivals held in Germany and at Bethlehem, Pennsylvania, in America.

Bach was married twice and had twenty children, one of whom, Karl Philipp Emanuel Bach, was a great composer. Many of our best critics believe Johann Bach to be the greatest musician that ever lived.

Tickets for the Cardin-Leurance Concert to be given at the High School tomorrow evening under the auspices of the Escanaba Woman's Club, are finding a ready sale and it is anticipated that the attendance will be much larger than was at first thought possible.

Another piece of good news received by the club women is the fact that a vocalist is to be present with the vocal orchestra. This fact had not been generally known until yesterday.

The following notice gives some impression of what may be expected in a vocal line: "In Miss Gladys Goeding, soprano we offer another artist who will make an instantaneous bid for popularity with audiences. A remarkable voice of clarity and sweetness, and yet surprising range and power, is her valuable contribution to this program of distinctive artistry. She will use some of Mr. Leurance's own compositions, notably his famous Waters of Minnetonka, Where the Sad Waters Flow, and The Bird and the Babe."

The orchestra has the personal endorsement of Mr. Leurance, who is loved by all the musicians himself with special reference to their ability to render Indian music as it is understood by the composer.

BATTLEGROUND OF NATION POLITICS IN BUCKEYE STATE

Action of Ohio in Tuesday's Election Will Indicate the Strength of President.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 6.—One of the hardest fought political struggles in its history is being staged in President Harding's home state of Ohio, where both Republicans and Democrats have made the president's administration an issue with both parties claiming success.

Ohio voters have been urged by the Republicans to uphold the work of President Harding's administration. Accomplishments of the national administration have been recounted by both native and imported campaigners virtually every member of the president's cabinet having visited Ohio for the Republicans.

The Democrats have concentrated on the Republican national and state administrations. The Democratic campaign has been conducted almost entirely by home talent, but these home speakers have made a campaign equal to the Republican effort.

Look for Reversal.

The result is that, despite a plural vote of approximately 400,000 for Mr. Harding in Ohio two years ago, the Democrats are making large claims for the success of the entire Democratic ticket in Ohio at the election on November 7th. W. W. Durbin, Democratic campaign manager, said he believed the Democratic majority would reach 200,000. He said that polls conducted by Cincinnati and Columbus newspapers showed the Democrats would have a big lead. He pointed out that these same polls two years ago indicated an overwhelming victory for the Republicans.

William H. Miller, the Republican campaign manager, insisted that the entire Republican ticket in Ohio would be successful, but he refused to indicate by what margin.

We are busy getting out the Republican vote, and believe that it will be out," he said. "I do not believe that any Republican votes will switch to the Democratic column. We are depending upon the Republican vote."

Democratic Chairman Durbin pointed to the list of cabinet members and other out-of-state speakers who have been sent into Ohio by the Republicans as indicating, in his opinion, that the Republicans are worried about the result in Ohio.

Heavy Artillery. Among such Republican campaign speakers have been Secretaries Danahy, Hoover, Hughes, Davis, Daulton, Wallace, and Postmaster General Work of President Harding's cabinet, and Senators Edge of New Jersey, Ex-Senator Beveridge of Indiana, Governor Morrow of Kentucky, and Rep. Rayner, federal prohibition commissioner.

In a speech at Middletown, Ohio, in support of the Republican candidates, Senator Edge declared that the verdict of the voters in Ohio, should settle for all time any question of President Harding's capable handling of the grave responsibilities placed upon his shoulders. Ohio is on trial.

He added that party leaders who formerly said "Look to Maine," now say "Look to Ohio."

In addition to the speakers from other states, Colonel Carnot A.

Thompson of Cleveland, the Republican nominee for governor, and Congressman Simon D. Fess, the Republican nominee for senator, have stumped the state from one end to the other. Governor Harry L. Davis also has taken the stump for the Republican ticket, although he is not a candidate for re-election.

On the Democratic side, Allee Pomerehne, the Democratic candidate for re-election to the senate, and A. Victor Donahey, the Democratic nominee for governor, have born the brunt of the campaigning, although former Governor James M. Cox of Dayton, who was the Democratic nominee for president against Mr. Harding two years ago, has also taken the stump.

Both parties are paying particular attention to the election of Ohio's congressional delegation of twenty-two now solidly Republican.

ESCANABA DEFEATS IRON RIVER 18-0 IN FAST CONTEST

Best Crowd of Season Sees Locals Run Away With Up-state Opponent's Sunday.

The hardest they could the locals they talk to the year on local football days today, about the local football victory of Escanaba over Iron River aggregation in the city 18 to 0.

Kenneth's city eleven, considered showed a worked improvement in the game both in defense and offense, and fans are confident that local will collect the upper position.

In the first quarter, Escanaba received the ball and after an awkward punt shot a 100 yard pass to the left of the Iron River aggregation. Escanaba had the ball on their own 10 yard line. After a ten minute play, Turner, ran ahead and caught a pass over the end line, setting the first six yards of the field. On the next play, when Escanaba attempted to kick and get the ball back, the kicker was down in the local field, setting the score 6-0.

The first part of the second quarter was much the same as the first and with consistent line play and good runs Escanaba had the ball on the 22 yard line when Thompson caught an exceptional long pass and went over for 5 points. Schwelbach kicked in kick end.

In Danger Once. In the third quarter O'Brien, in a narrow end, had a touchback was scored. In the same period also was the only time that Escanaba ever kicked on its own 10 yard line. Lyle made two exceptionally long end runs down the field before the locals realized that Iron River had the ball on their 35 yard line. However, in attempting to throw a forward pass the ball was fumbled over the Escanaba line, thus advancing the ball to the 25 yard line in Escanaba's possession. From there on the ball was in safe territory.

In the fourth, O'Brien took the ball down the field 20 yards on an end run and Klien helped by a spectacular catch of a 20 yard pass and Escanaba was in place for a play kick which Schwelbach succeeded in kicking, bringing the score to 18.

Honors Evenly Divided.

Nothing more spectacular was done by the back field than by the line yesterday, each doing their share of the work and doing it well. Andrews, O'Brien and Schwelbach played in their usual form while the whole line held like a stone wall during the first supported play by Henderson, Casey, Speers, Turner, Thompson and Klien.

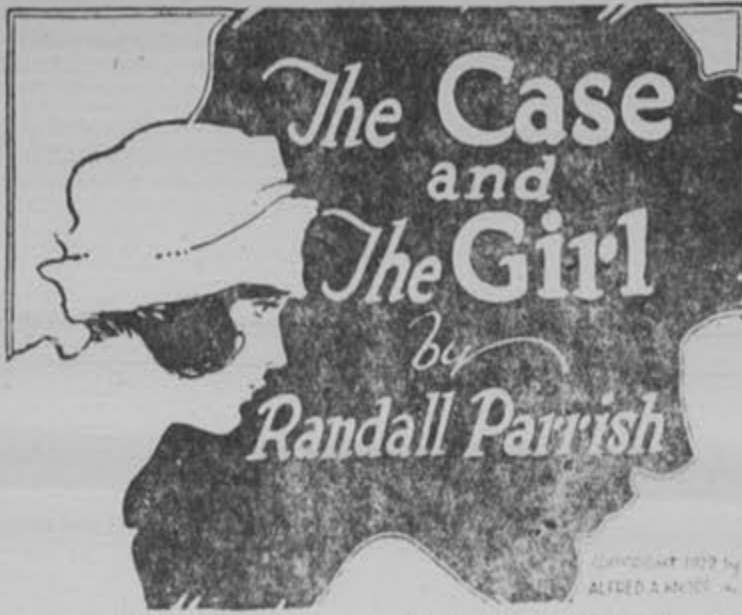

In defeating Iron River, Escanaba has another feather to add to the already large collection, and more than ever does the indicator point to an upper peninsula championship for the locals.

THEY DON'T WANT A MEDIATOR.

In his Boston address, Secretary Hughes explained the attitude of the administration toward European affairs by pointing out that this country is, and always has been, ready to help whenever an opportunity presents itself, but he declared that the fundamental and pressing problems in Europe are political problems involving national hopes and fears, deep-seated convictions as to national safety and opportunity, national ambitions in some cases long cherished and in others recently awakened, and national policies which have become fastidiously among the people. For these reasons, the secretary said, the solution of Europe's problems lies in the self-determined action of independent states and there is no reason why the United States should interfere away its influence by becoming a partisan of either party in such controversies, much less make the fatal mistake of attempting to become a dictator.

Commenting on that position the New York Evening Post remarks: "One might argue that there is a possible role for us in European affairs which is neither that of partisan nor dictator. The United States might be the mediator in Europe." So it might, but the secretary's point manifestly is that Europe is not looking for mediators. Three national forces, convictions, policies and ambitions of which he speaks are the controlling factors in every international difference and the outsider who enters the controversy will be without power to remove them, while any leaning toward one side or the other will invite the enmity of the less favored party. In that situation a mediator accomplishes nothing beneficial but does impair our future usefulness, both by his failures and by the ill will he incites.

Possibly some of the problems now troubling Europe ultimately will present themselves in a form which admits of settlement either by arbitration or through the friendly counsel of outsiders. In such a situation there is no reason to suppose the United States would refuse to act.

WISE KING VICTOR.

Perhaps the press of the city of Rome was not acting altogether as a free agent when it quitted in praising King Victor Emmanuel for the "firm way" in which he handled the Fascist crisis. Nevertheless Victor deserves a great deal of credit for he showed a willful courage in turning his back on the mob and his come out with added prestige, from amid dangers in which many a ruler might have lost his crown.

And though the compliment may sound oddly in our ears, we think the monarch of Rome made a good point when it remarked: "The sovereignty of the house of Savoy have abdicated in the past for the safety of the mother country. The present king would have abdicated rather than that a single drop of blood should be shed in civil war."

That is to say, King Victor would have abdicated rather than pursue the country in a civil war because of any personal pride or position or individual bias. We do not interpret the Roman paper to mean that he would have quite in the face of a threat against the national life of well being, because Victor is a man of proved courage and patriotism and he is no deserter in the face of life.

What the Italian king did do, was to live up to a high conception of his duty as a servant of the nation, who is not his head because the people want him to be there. Consequently he acted quite logically and consistently, and he also used good judgment when he refused to declare martial law at the instance of the outgoing Fascist cabinet, and received the meager Fascist leaders as the real spokesmen for the people, as the events show they are.

THEY LIKE MICHIGAN.

One evidence that Michigan is a good state to live in appears from the recently published figures comparing immigration into the various states with emigration from the same state during the first half of the year. In that period New York, Ohio and Pennsylvania lost more than 80 per cent of their immigration through emigration. Massachusetts, Illinois and New Jersey lost about half of what they made, while Michigan lost less than one third and made the highest proportional gain of any of the leading states. The rapid recovery of the state from economic depression and the relative freedom of Michigan from labor trouble may have had something to do with the tendency of immigrants to stay here after they arrive.

The two Wellesley girls who quit the college because they did not like the rule forbidding the smoking of cigarettes and did not intend to live up to that rule, did the only proper thing. It was more honorable for them to quit than to smoke on the sly while pretending to obey the rules of the place.

The funniest thing of all is the indignation of those Democrats who are horribly indignant because the Harding administration has not been able to correct all the evils which originated while the Wilson administration was in power.

An editorial in the Davenport Democrat is headed "Fighting Stegomyia with Puerellidae." It sounds as though two Greeks were running for office out in that country.

Speaking biologically, George Harvey's theory about souls is that they are a sex limited inheritance. The women have none but pass them on to their sons.

Among many others who have cause to be thankful for a pleasant October, there are the various coal commissions.

We cannot help wondering whether W. J. Bryan is making the Darwinian theory an issue in his present campaigning.

The lighthouse tender here, who is expected to make one more trip before navigating classes, is a man of proven courage and patriotism and he is no deserter in the face of life.

Randall Parrish

THIS author is noted for his smashing effects and his vigorous, stand-up-and-fight character. A hero who cannot hate and who, on the other hand, is not tender and lovable in his peaceful moments, has no place in a Randall Parrish story.

He is one of the most popular writers of stirring fiction in the country and one of the most industrious. For about a quarter of a century he has been turning out books with great regularity and the public is always ready to receive them. His best-told tales are those of the West and those which center about mysteries and amateur detectives. Of the latter class is "The Case and The Girl," which we have secured and will offer to readers of this publication in serial form.

TUESDAY ELECTION MOST SPIRITED IN ANY "OFF YEAR"

Michigan Voters Face Task of Deciding Many Important Questions Tomorrow.

(By Associated Press) OCTOBER 29.—When Michigan voters go to the polls tomorrow they will face the task of deciding one of the most spirited "off year" campaigns in a United States' history. The election will be a full day of state elective officers, including at least 50 new members of the lower representatives and 15 state senators, and approving or rejecting three proposed constitutional amendments, one of which, if passed, would give the state the power to fix an income tax. In addition to the state and national issues to be voted upon, the county officers and local issues will be open for debate.

Indications are that the vote will be comparatively heavy for a non-protectionist vote. Three years ago, in an off year, the vote for sovereignty of these states 1921-22. Two years ago, in a presidential year, it was 1,011,579. And the election of two years ago, however, women have been given the vote, and this will increase the vote in some extent. It is expected that the state officers will be elected in the usual manner, but that there will be some unusual results, particularly in the case of the county officers, which will be decided by the voters.

Protectionists as a whole are expected to vote for the protectionist party, but they will receive their vote, and possibly a considerable one. The vote and the protectionist party are expected to be a heavy vote. The vote for the protectionist party is expected to be a heavy vote. ZION'S COMING TUESDAY.

H. C. Zion of Escanaba Boy Scout executive of that city, will speak at the annual rally of all the Boy Scouts of Gladstone in the High School gymnasium Tuesday night, the program to start promptly at 8 o'clock.

As Mr. Zion will leave Delta county next week for Evansville, Ind., to engage in Scout work, Tuesday night probably will be the last opportunity Gladstone will have of hearing the Scout executive.

All troops will meet at their own headquarters at 7 o'clock and proceed in a body to the High school, assembling there at 7:30 sharp. A short parade then will be held, headed by the Scout band and drum corps, the Scouts returning to the building at 9 o'clock for the program.

B. R. T. AUXILIARY CHANGE.

Instead of the usual party announced for Monday night, being held in Wassa hall, the party will be held in the "Eagle" hall, according to an announcement made last night by the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen which is sponsoring the fest.

Gladstone fire fighting apparatus will soon be restored as the result of a bid by the fire and water board at which a contract for a one and one-half ton Republic truck was awarded to the Escanaba Motor Company at a bid of $2,230. The most costly boiler was the Wolverine-Delta Motor Company of Escanaba.

Should the streets of the city be impassible for the truck during the winter, it will be hired at the rate of $1.00 a day for such periods as the present term will be sold.

This change is to be made without additional tax burden on the people.

SCOUT RALLY SUCCESS.

Entertaining to a high degree, was the program carried out in the basement of All Saints' Catholic church Friday night by all the Girl Scout troops of the city with their parents and friends as guests. The program as announced was carried out with but few exceptions. Both the collections and foot-race contests were omitted, owing to the lateness of the hour at that juncture of the program, the Scouts adhering to their rule of all Scouts being home by 9 p. m.

PPRE-ELECTION CALM.

Although once practically all over but the shouting, as one politician put it last night, election of Gladstone in common with those through out the state will be expected to go to the polls next Tuesday morning and designate their choice for the various state and county offices.

The excitement that preceded the general primaries last September 12, the electioneering and all that goes with a heated political campaign are lacking, as the results of the forth coming election are practically known as far as Gladstone and the county at large are concerned. All the doubt arising from the campaign was practically cleared away at the primary.

ROAD GRADING NEWS.

Work of grading the six and one-half mile stretch of road between Rock and Lathrop is progressing nicely. The firm of Martell and Stephenson of Gladstone, which has the contract, will not be able to finish the work, however, this fall. Next spring the road will be macadamized.

ROCK SCHOOL PROGRESSES.

Work is progressing nicely on the West Rock school, and if the weather remains favorable, the brick work will be completed inside of the next few days. When finished the school, it is said, will be the best two room school building in Delta county.

ANNUAL MOTOR PILGRIMAGE TO SOUTH STARTS

All Sorts and Conditions of "Flivvers" Already On the Road.

(By Associated Press)

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Nov. 6.—Somebody in Maine or Minnesota discovered a few years ago that he could load his family into the family flivver and drive to Florida for the winter at an expense about equal to the railroad fare for one person.

Now motor cars, from the quiet running sedan to the rattling, banging flivver with frying pans, lanterns, coffee-pots, buckets and other utensils attached all over them from radiators to spare tire racks, descend upon Florida in droves bearing the vanguard of the thousands of tourists who motor to the peninsula in the fall from all parts of the nation.

The movement is not expected to be in full swing before the middle of November, but for weeks they have been trickling through the gateways and by October 15 it was estimated that during the day light hours one tourist car was crossing the border over the three main highways every fifteen minutes. Some of the vehicles include contraptions never before seen on four wheels. One favored by many of the travelers is a chassis with a one room house upon it, equipped with everything from stationary wash basin to rocking chairs. The flivver with camping equip-

The flivver with camping equipment suspended from every possible part of the car to which a bit of wire or cord can be attached, is the most common long distance traveler. A "hay burner" lantern, one of the variety usually seen about farm-houses, may be attached to the radiator cap. Under the car may be swinging two or three water buckets, each filled with cooking utensils or other articles. A frying pan may be attached to a door handle and the running boards usually are weighted down with baggage and the inevitable small tent that may be erected within a few minutes when the tourist finds a likely place to stop for the night. Every city and town in Florida along the motor routes within the last few years has established a camp site, and in the case of those on the outskirts of the larger places, are equipped with electric lights, water mains and sewerage. Every camp now is under the supervision of the State Board of Health and one sanitary engineer devotes his entire time during the winter to the inspection of them.

SAYS CIVILIZATION PROSPERS ONLY AS BUSINESS SUCCEEDS

President of Rotary International Declares Business Is Foundation of All.

CHICAGO, Ill., Nov. 4.—Men may fail, but business must succeed or the fabric of modern civilization falls, declared Raymond M. Haven, of Kansas City, Mo., president of the Rotary International, speaking before Illinois Rotary Clubs here today.

"Art, science, education, religion, religion itself, the humanities, flourish by the generous hand of modern business," he declared. "But every one thing in life which is sustained, in money, is hyperactive, if the source of the money is corrupt."

"A demand for a code of honor, a business code, characterized of men who felt a natural craving to make their transaction harmonious with their social ethics as citizens, neighbors, friends, churchmen, fathers. To these men the cynical doctrine expressed in the phrase, 'business is business' was an offense and a humiliation."

"There is honorable profit and there is dishonorable profit, just as every virtue may be distorted into evil results. Worship may become fanaticism; patriotism may be twisted into snobbish localism; loyalty may be perverted into intolerance."

"Every human phase runs to extremes and the so-called successful man of great wealth, who does not know what to do with it, has yielded rich material to playwrights and novelists. But it is misleading to call a man successful simply because he has great wealth. He is successful in getting rich, that is all."

"The more brains and skill required for business success, the better. What was the evil influence of the war business on trade? Wasn't it a loss of business of spirit, as much as a breakdown of cost control and quality of standards, until contracts became scraps of paper?"

"The business world is beating back and will be better for the lessons. Salesmanship must be based on telling the truth. Low costs must be the result of better thinking and doing. The rewards of industry, the exchange and distribution of the products of the soil, greater knowledge, higher standards of living—name what you will—business is the sustaining force."

Michigan Climate Is Subject of Book Being Sent Out

LANSING, Nov. 4.—Climate of Michigan, the third of a series of publications by the state department of agriculture, is ready for distribution upon application to the department here. The author, Dewey A. Seeley, section director of the United States Weather Bureau at East Lansing, deals with the relationship of climate to agriculture, the factors controlling climate, the temperature, precipitation, cloudiness, wind velocity and direction, and humidity of Michigan.

In the summary Mr. Seeley says of the Michigan climate:

"On the whole the climate of Michigan is not extreme in temperature, either in summer or winter. The rainfall is sufficient for most crops, the greater portion of the year's supply falling during the growing season; the cloudiness is greater in winter and less in summer than in regions remote from the Great Lakes; the

As evidence of the increase of interest in golf in this city, many new members were admitted to the club.

Campaign Planned To Improve Dairy Herds of Michigan

MARQUETTE, Mich., Nov. 4.—A campaign intended to improve the state of dairying and dairy cattle throughout the Upper Michigan Peninsula and to restore infant mortality by eliminating the sources of tubercular milk, has been started by Dr. F. K. Hanson, assistant state veterinarian, who has established headquarters here.

Dr. Hanson, in a statement, declared he believed that with cooperation of those interested with which the program deals, there should result within the next few years a saving of many thousands of dollars to the farmers and dairymen of Upper Michigan. He said this could be brought about by purchase of healthy stock, thus eliminating the necessity of destroying animals for an indemnity required by state law.

STRONG APPEAL IN SERVICES HERE SUNDAY

Presbyterian Organ Recital and Book Review Most Instructive.

Despite the inclement weather of last evening which came as a disappointment to many, a large audience which nearly filled the auditorium, attended the concert and book review which were the main features of the service Sunday night at the First Presbyterian church.

The address of the evening consisted of a review of Ernest Poole's book, entitled "Millions." It is a story of a young woman from a provincial community who, finding herself the prospective heiress to millions, is faced with the question, "What would I do with it?"

Concluding the story, the Rev. Mr. Stayer said that the author challenges each of us to take our own measure by asking ourselves the questions: "What is our standard of values? money or man? We folks, as a general thing, are more interested in what one is or in what one has."

Turning the attention from the book which reads "I want money that drive us mad, but the spirit of dreams within us" and "I want only money that I want a larger life," Mr. Stayer said:

"I wonder if this isn't the explanation of that thing we call 'the best of gold,' the explanation of the spirit that drives men and women in '22 to seek for riches, and many of whom are found in the sands of the desert. In the soul of every man the eternal God has planted the spirit of dreams, and because the standards of the world are what they are, men want money for what money can do, what money can bring to pass. What men all want is a better life and we think the way to get it is to get all the money we can. Some day we shall learn the truth that a man's life does not consist in the abundance of things he possesseth and the truth shall set us free."

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Bring Back Color and Lustre to Hair

That beautiful, even shade of dark, glossy hair can only be had by brewing a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray or streaked, just an application of two of Sage and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundredfold.

Don't bother to prepare the mixture; you can get this famous old recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients at a small cost, all ready for use. It is called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound. This can always be depended upon to bring back the natural color and lustre of your hair.

Everybody uses "Wyeth's" Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair has disappeared, and after another application it becomes beautifully dark and appears glossy and lustrous.
