FOREST FIRES HAVE BECOME MENACING

RAGING NOW IN THE VICINITY OF HURLEY, WIS.

Collins Lumber Co. Men
Fighting to Save Big Log Pile.

Situation Becoming Grave in Minnesota While minor
Blazes Have Started
in Delta County.

Hurley, Wis., May 29.—Forest fires are raging on a front of two miles in the vicinity of Upson, which is about 14 miles west of here. Through the efforts of the entire community, which turned out to assist in fighting the fire, several thousand feet of logs were saved. The fire is largely confined to slashings and cut-over lands.

The Collins lumber company has three million feet of logs on their sawmills and every woodsmen in that vicinity has been called in to protect them if possible. The latest report stated that the fire had surrounded the landing and that Camp 33 of the forest-lumber company had been burned east of Upson on Long Lake, which is the heart of the summer resort region. Fire is also reported to be raging and in the gorge region there appears to be no let up. Forest rangers say that the only thing that can save much valuable timber is a torrential rain storm.

Hope for Deluge.

ST. PAUL, May 29.—More than five hundred men including forest rangers were battling with the forest fires to day in Northern Minnesota with the knowledge that the only measure of completely putting out the fires will be rain which has been forecast for tonight or tomorrow.

Reports from the state forester indicate that the situation is becoming serious with scores of fires in a district throughout the western and northern portion of the state. Some of the fires are on cut-over land in the iron range district where are between 25 and 30 miles covering an area between Fair Lake and Vermilion.

The most threatening blazes are in the vicinity of Pine Rapids and in the State parks and more than a hundred men are busy trying to keep the fire under control.

In Delta County.

Deputy fire and game warden Herman Lester was called from his home in this city early this morning to reports that tourist fires were gaining dangerous headway in the vicinity of Rapid River and north and west of Gladstone. Mr. Lester left early and probably will be gone several days in helping others battle the fires, unless heavy downpour occurs to check them. Although these areas are not regarded as being serious in the generally accepted sense of the word, they are of sufficient size and numbers to cause much trouble and might menace valuable property if not controlled.

POLICE NET

WHITFIELD

Chicago Police Hear
Criminal Is in That City Now.

(By the Associated Press)

CHICAGO, May 29.—A police net was spread over South Chicago early today in the search for John Whittfield, the alleged murderer of a Cleve-land policeman. Whittfield has eluded the police of three states.

Fresh impetus was given the chase today with the report by a rooming house keeper on the south side that Whitfield had spent the night at her house, following his escape. A suit case containing letters proving his identity was left by him at the rooming house and the suit case and contents are now in the hands of the police.

The police believe from reports that Whitfield was seen here Sunday, that the fugitive will remain in this city in obscurity until the chase has become cold.

DR. VICTOR F. RYAN'S FUNERAL TO BE HELD TOMORROW MORNING

Body Arrives This Morning
From Santa Fe, New Mexico, Accompanied by Relatives.

The body of Dr. Victor F. Ryan, who passed away in Santa Fe, New Mexico, last Wednesday, arrived here this morning accompanied by the members of the family who had gone to Santa Fe last week.

Dr. Victor F. Ryan was born in Escanaba. He attended the local public schools and was graduated with the class of 1911, of which he was president. He then entered the Detroit Medical college and was graduated in 1915. After receiving his degree he interned at Providence hospital of Detroit for one year. He then became house physician at the Hotel Statler and after acting in this capacity for a year, he accepted a position as assistant physician and surgeon for the Dodge Motor Company.

In 1917 he enlisted in the Medical Corps and was commissioned an officer. He went overseas with the 30th division. While serving in France he contracted pleuro-pneumonia, from which he did not entirely recover before rejoining his division.

After his discharge from the army he returned to Detroit, where he resumed his connections with the Dodge Company. His skill and knowledge of surgery was recognized and he was made chief of the medical staff, a position which was considered by medical men as a remarkable one for a young man his age.

A year and a half ago he was compelled to resign his position on account of failing health. After traveling through the southwest, he located in Santa Fe, with the hope of regaining his health. He improved steadily and every hope was entertained for his ultimate recovery. It was a shocking surprise last Wednesday morning, when his family was notified that Dr. Ryan had unexpectedly suffered a heart attack and might not rally. In hope that some of his family would reach him before he succumbed, his sister, Mrs. Marcia L. Prass of South Bend, Ind., was notified to leave immediately for Santa Fe. She was followed from here by her sisters, Josephine and Catherine Ryan of this city, and John A. Ryan of Iron Mountain. It was not to be their good fortune as Mrs. Prass, the first to arrive, found that Dr. Ryan had passed away several hours before.

Funeral services will be held at St. Patrick's church Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock. Solemn requiem high mass will be offered by Rev. W. N. Wilhelmy as celebrant, assisted by Rev. R. G. Jacques and Rev. A. C. Plissier. The funeral will be in charge of the local post of the American Legion. The local members of the Delta County Medical Society will act as honorary escort.

The active pall-bearers will be former service men representing the Legion, as follows: Dr. J. A. Walsh, Dr.

H. J. Defnet, Messrs. Guy Sullivan,

Gerald Cleary, John Lemmer, Louis A. Hoyle, Dr. Louis Gross and Jacob Blinn.

Dr. Ryan's death is a great loss, not only to his family, but to his profession wherein he had already attained an eminent position. He was held in highest regard by the entire community and his rapid rise was a source of gratification to all who participated in the service.

FORMER CONGRESSMAN SUED FOR $100,000 BY WIFE

COLUMBUS, O., May 29.—Suit for $100,000 has just been filed against John J. Lentz, former congressman and president of the American Insurance Union in Common Pleas court here by his former wife, Mrs. Alta Ford Lentz, of Chicago, for alleged malicious prosecution. Mrs. Lentz recently was committed for three days on an affidavit filed by Lentz charging contempt of court.

Mrs. Lentz, the affidavit charged, was in contempt because she had not returned John J. Lentz, Jr., their five-year-old son, to within the jurisdiction of local courts as provided in the divorce decree granted Lentz.

Each parent was to have the child six months each year.

BURSTING TIRE WRECKS MAIL PLANE PILOT HURT

BRYAN, O., May 29.—A tire blow-out just as the aerial plane from Cleveland was landing here, wrecked the machine and seriously injured the pilot, Arthur Smith.

The tire bursting as the machine came to earth, tilted the plane one wing catching the ground, and turned the ship completely over with its 700 pounds of mail, pinning the aviator under it.

Smith was taken to a hospital where it was found his back was seriously strained, and that he had sustained internal injuries.

The plane is said to be a total loss.

CASE CAUGHT IN WEEDS ARE KILLED WITH CLUBS

DETROIT, Mich., May 29.—A constant load of fishing is yielding good results in Pine Martello, which is recent rains to a mile greater than known for 20 years. Lakes are tangled in the weeds. On banks along this river, many clubs are used by men and boys to make shallow water and enable them to swim the fish. One small club can be recognized as the day of game fish, feeding on young trout.

As the result of the World War, 1,000 German children were left partially orphaned. There are 58,000 orphans listed.

Well-known druggists say everybody uses Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied—it's so easy to use, too. You simply dampen a comb or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two it is restored to its natural color and looks glossy, soft and beautiful.

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, sometimes get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally; else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region begin drinking lots of water. Also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grape and lemon juice, combined with lithium and it is intended to flush clogged kidneys and help stimulate them to activity. It also helps neutralize the acids in the urine so they no longer irritate, thus helping to relieve bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink which everybody should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean.

A well-known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in trying to correct kidney trouble while it is only trouble. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

JUDGE AND TOURIST CRASH IN DUST CLOUD

(By the Associated Press) REED-CITY, Mich., May 29.—Blinded by a dust cloud from a road scraper, Circuit Judge Frank Emerick, of Alpena, drove directly into a car driven by George W. Cook, of Detroit, who was also attempting to pass the scraper. Although the two cars became locked together so tightly that a truck had to be used to separate them, no one was hurt seriously. Cook was driving alone, but the judge had members of his family with him. The accident occurred at Ashton, seven miles north of here.

WASHINGTON HEIRS GAIN BY LAND SALE

Satan was on the horns of a dilemma. One horn was the end of provisions containing a couple of thousand dollars' worth of stuff, the other horn was the old wreck that might contain nothing.

To hang on here was useless, for Cark would hang on, too. Even if Cark went away, he would be sure to come back to hunt.

He sat with his back to the bulk-warks, chewing and thinking. Then, heedless whether he was seen or not from the Juan Bongo, he rase to his feet and leaned with his back against the rail. He had come to a decision. Jude, watching him, said nothing, and Ratcliffe waited without a word.

It was to Ratcliffe that Satan spoke first.

"Look here!" said Satan. "You're standing out of this aren't you?"

"Which—the wreck business?"

"Yep. You're not keen upon putting money into it and havin' a share?"

"Oh, no. If you wanted me to I'd be glad enough; but if you'd rather I stood out I'll do so. I'm not keen about money, anyway; only I'd like to see the fun."

"You'll see fun enough," said Satan. "I'm goin' to drap Cark in. First of all, if I don't, hell keep hancin' round here and salt the cache; second, hell work the job for us with his crew. We've got to get help, and isn't he as good as another? If there's no stuff there, hell have all his work for nothing. If he hadn't sighted us here, hell have tried Little Pine Island, which is lonesomer than this place. You see, he's got it in his noddle, as far as I can make out, that Pap lifted the stuff and cached it, and Pine Island or here would have been the likeliest places. He reckoned when we put out of Hayman this time we were out to lift it for good. Well, hell'll do the liftin' if it's to be done. Come on, I'm going over to see him right off. Jude, you stick here and clean up them shalopes."

He got into the dinghy, followed by Ratcliffe, and they pushed off.

Sellers was hanging over the rail as they came alongside. "Hello, Satan!" he cried. "Thought you was dead."

"Cark on board?" asked Satan without wasting time on explanations. "He's down below," said Sellers, reciting the attitude of the other. "Who's your friend?"

"Oh, just a gentleman that's come along for a cruise," said Satan. "So you've found me."

"Seems so," said Sellers; "but the up and come about."

Satan tied the painter to a channel plate and got over the side followed by Ratcliffe.

From the fo'c'sle came the muffled drumming of a guitar. It was Ratcliffe's first experience with a Spaniard. He followed Satan, who followed Sellers down a steep companionway and then into a cabin where a great shaft of sunlight from the skylight above struck down through a haze of cigarette smoke.

The place was panelled with bird's-eye maple; the seats were upholstered in thick-ribbed silk, worn and stained; the carpet was of the best, but threadbare in spots and burnt with cigar droppings; the metal fittings far too good for a trading schooner of the Juan type.

Everywhere lay evidence of splendor that had seen better days.

All these fittings had, in fact, been torn out of a yacht bought by Carquinez for an old song, and at the end of the saloon table, going over some papers with a cigarette in his mouth, sat Carquinez himself, a figure to give one pause.

The whole of the left side of this gentleman's face was covered by a green patch. It was said that he had no left side to his face, that it had been eaten away by disease, and that, were he to unveil himself, the sight would frighten the beholder. However that may have been, what remained visible was enough to frighten any honest man with eyes to behold the nose of a vulture above the peaked chin of a money changer.

"Hello, Cark!" said Satan.

"Come in," said Cark. "What'll you have?"

"Oh, I don't know," said Satan. "Something soft will suit us, and hong."

Carquinez raised a bird-skill voice. "Antonio!"

"Si Signor," came a response from outside, and on the voice a dusky form at the cabin door.

"Bring me two Zin and Zinzeibers for these two gentlemen, please."

"No gin!" cried Satan, Ratcliffe concurring. "Ginger beer will do."

"Zinzeibers," said Carquinez.

It was nearly all that he said at this interview, the trusty Sellers doing the talking.

Said Sellers to Satan, "Well, it's funny us hittin' on you like this, darned funny! We'd been down to Akitia looking up a location Cark was keen about, and comin' back I shifted the helm, seen' you lying here and not recognizin' the old Sarah. I thought it was Gundayman's boat."

Said Satan, taking up the drink just presented by Antonio. "Here's our respects to you both. Thought I was Gundayman, did you? Well, I spotted you on sight. Didn't want to see you, neither. Let's cut pretendin' and play on the square—are you willin'?"

"None better."

"Well, I'll just make ends out. You and Cark here have been after me pretty near since her fall; reason why, that wreck, Pap told Cark of."

"What was that?"

"I could let's cut pretendin' and play fair," said Satan steadily.

Cark scolded. "Old raised his fingers in derision, and Sellers cut in:

"Yes, well, that fair. There was talk of a wreck between yourself and us, and I'm not denying we had an eye afte'r it. You see I'm even and honest with you. How's about?"

"I'm comin' to you about," said Satan.

"The point is you and Cark bein' between you have got it in your heads that you only to follow me, find out where she'd located, and claim damages for not tellin'." Well, you see, I'm even. You may follow me till the last. In my rots to pieces and you'll never know, not if I don't want you to know, not that there?"

"Clear as day," said Sellers.

"Then, here's somethin' else. What's that wreck is what she's talkin' about. It's more than one man's lot to shift the hoochie and hamb. It's Prog to have help, and if we can't recruit a crew, just as soon have you two in the show as anyone else."

"Now you're talkin'," said Sellers.

"See that I don't believe you if I do. I doot me over the business; you had chance," continued Satan. "You would, sure, but—no, see. I've got the weather gauge of you bairns; that I do of you, and that's more'n I'd have with strangers."

"Says who?" said Sellers.

"Well, then," said Satan, "We've got that far, and it comes to terms. What's your share to be for helpin' to recover the stuff and damage that is in the stuff?"

"Sep's a dollar out of every ton that we make," said Sellers promptly.

"There's," he scolded, "you can't do that alone, or you'd want to have done it. It's popular that there's the making of it you're too much if you try that job on yourselves. See, there's not an other man in the world could do it but Cark, and even he wouldn't take the stuff into Hayman here—it'll have to be landed back of the island, north of Santiago. Lord knows what he'll have to pay?"

Satan cogitated for a moment. "Sep's a meetin'," said he at last. "We'll set on big money. Anything more?"

"No, that's all," said Sellers.

Carmelita nodded, suppressed, and lighting another cigarette leaned back in his chair.

"And what's this gentleman doing in the business?" asked Sellers, referring to Ratcliffe.

"He's standin' out," said Satan. "He's just on a cruise with us."

"Yes, I'm standin' out," said Ratcliffe. "I'm in it only for the fun of the thing, though I'm willing to help."

"Well, I reckon you'll have fun enough," said Sellers. "We've got feel of the customs, or if some other hoodlum comes pokin' along while we're salving. You're British, aren't you?"

"I am."

"I thought so. Come out for a sprout?"

"You may put it like that."

"It didn't set your gears?"

"Bartellie. My father was Bartellie the Carpenter. Holt & Bartellie."

"I'd do the same," said sellers. "You're not wanting for meat, I hope."

"Well, this cuts me. It doles out what it takes, and I think."

Carquinez, "I've got a few things to say to you, but I'll wait until after dinner."

"I'm not eatin' now," said sellers.

VOLUMINOUS BUT INCONSEQUENTIAL.

The National Industrial Council finds that somewhere from 50,000 to 60,000 bills were introduced in the legislatures of forty-three states during recent sessions. The exact figure is not available because the returns are not all in, and for the same reason the council's estimate of 12,000 new laws is given out as subject to revision. It is possible that there were more, and it is certain there were too many.

However, a critical examination of the whole output will show that a very large proportion of the new laws were of little significance. Changes in game laws, in administrative methods or organizations, innumerable small amendments to laws already in force, acts affecting local affairs or details of court practice, and many similar subjects take up immense amounts of time in state legislatures, but have little to do with anybody's prosperity, happiness or rights. In fact, fundamental laws in the states do not generally change much as a result of the feverish activity of lawmakers.

This conclusion will be verified in any man's observation, and is supported by the findings of the Industrial Council as to those subjects in which it is particularly interested. Little was done by the legislatures to regulate hours, wages, employment or other conditions affecting industry. No state has seen fit to follow the example of Kansas in regulating strikes. Radical legislation in North Dakota finds no response in any other state. Socialism makes no legislative headway.

The principal effect of the prodigious multiplication of laws in this country is to be uselessness of the alterations they make, and the fact that the enactment of innumerable badly considered statutes keeps the law forever unsettled. If there were no deliberation and fewer laws, governors would not be so busy swinging the veto axe, and legislatures would not be compelled to waste so much time undoing what other legislatures did.

THE BEST POLICY.

It is reported that the mass of the students at Ann Arbor are considerably chagrined over the notoriety arising as a result of the faculty investigation of drunkenness on senior "swing out day." And they have a right to feel unhappy! But this natural feeling ought not to blind the members of the student body as a whole to the necessity for the investigation now going on, nor to the healthfulness of the publicity that attends it.

Only a very small proportion of the young people at the university are guilty of lapses from good behavior. The general conduct of the undergraduates is admirable and rather exceptional, and no real disgrace attaches to those who are not guilty. Nor does the reputation of the university suffer among people who remember that a mixed body of young people necessarily attend so cosmopolitan and democratic an institution, and that some "black sheep" will edge their way in.

Indeed the rigid care which the president and faculty are taking to preserve high standards and make all the world confident that nothing shady or doubtful is to be allowed to go unrebuked or unchecked, ought to have a tendency to increase the confidence of parents in the University of Michigan when they set about considering where they shall send their boys and girls for a collegiate education. They will know that nothing that festers is being wilfully covered up. And the very fact that a young man or young woman is a member of the Ann Arbor student body in good standing, is almost a certificate of character. Incidentally, as a result of the rigorous weeding out of dross among the freshmen which has been instituted, it also is an indication of a reasonable degree of scholarship.

NOT BLUFFED.

The Swiss government has shown its usual capacity for resisting stampede and bull-dozening tactics by declining to entertain the claims made by Tchitchevitch, bolshevist foreign minister, in the not of protest that personage sent to Berne after the killing of Vorovsky.

If as reported, Switzerland intends to take the position that Vorovsky had no official standing at Lausanne because Russia was an uninvited guest at the international conference there, it will stand on firm ground.

The soviet crowd was not only uninvited, it was for the most part unwelcome; and was present at Lausanne for the purpose of forcing an entrance to the conference chamber and declaring itself in on the deliberations.

The Swiss government was not under special obligation to protect the members of the junta from violence any more than the United States is under special obligation to protect from violence the emissaries of Lenin who from time to time have come to America and have established "embassies," and have self-styled themselves official representatives of Moscow.

In the United States it has become necessary to expel these red gugs. Switzerland does not seem to be faced with a similar duty to itself, because the bolshevist emissaries there are not apparently charged with the job of attempting to undermine the government of the country, but are engaged in a more general and less tangible piece of nefariousness. But otherwise the parallel holds good.

Bathing beauties in Chicago are to be allowed to go as far as they like in the matter of costumes as long as they go into the water at the same time.

What a pity those Chinese bandits cannot be transferred to a field where they could be used in rounding up Turks and bolsheviki.

It is one marked peculiarity of Mr. Bryan's career, that if he is not steering a steam roller he is likely to be under one.

Those people who are worrying because business is going ahead too fast, have no complaint about the straw hat trade.

PRISON PROBE HITS SENSATION

New and Startling Revelations Are Promised at Jersey Institution.

(By the Associated Press)

TRENTON, N. J., May 29.—Charges even more startling than those revealed at the last meeting of the committee at the prison, the investigation of the New Jersey state prison, are expected at the second meeting of the committee at the prison. The investigation is being conducted by the joint sub-committees of the state board of institutions and agencies and the board of prison managers. Commissioners of institutions and Agencies Burdette G. Lewis will aid in the questioning of witnesses.

It has developed that Governor Silzer has been taking a hand in the prison controversy and wants the members of the two boards to dispose of the allegations concerning conditions at the institution, either by finding that they are true or exaggerated.

Trouble Brewing.

Serious trouble has been brewing at the prison ever since last August when the notorious "peach riot" took place.

Vincent Murray, a British subject, serving a sentence of from three to seven years for atrocious assault, related a long tale of alleged mistreatment which he claims he suffered in August, 1922, when called to testify at the last meeting of the investigation.

Connected also with the investigation are the charges which have resulted in the suspension of Chief Deputy James E. Kersey and Center Keeper Joseph M. Chesney, of Trenton, for alleged dereliction of duty at the time of the disturbances at the prison last summer.

Murray told during his testimony at the last meeting of the investigation committee of his having been thrown in the isolation cell, under wing six, which was in total darkness, had a bad odor and was in a dirty condition.

Beating Is Charged.

During this time he said he had nothing but slices of bread and was beaten by Paul McLaughlin, a deputy, and "cuffed up," as he termed it, for a total of 54 hours in this cell.

The Paul McLaughlin, who the prisoner contend was his arch persecutor, has since left the prison employ. Murray charged that this deputy assaulted him with blackjack and gun; that while he was undergoing this harsh treatment he was sent before the prison board of managers, with bloodstained shirt, patched face and arm swollen from an improperly adjusted hand-cuff.

Governor Silzer surprised the officials of the New Jersey prison today by making an unannounced visit to the institution, accompanied by Burdette G. Lewis, commissioner institution and agencies.

"Grand Old Man of Methodism" will be 100 Next Friday

FLINT, May 29.—Rev. Seth Reed, "grand old man of Michigan Methodism," will be 100 years old Friday, and that day is likely to stand out as the most important, to him, of his entire life.

For the occasion will see not only the church he served for more than half a century, but virtually the entire official and business life of Flint turning out to do him honor.

Dr. Reed, a notable figure in the religious life of the state, will be the guest of honor at a banquet to be served at noon on that day. In the afternoon prominent Methodists of the state will stage a meeting honoring his birthday and giving recognition of his services in behalf of the church. In the evening Mr. Reed will be the guest of honor at a Chamber of Commerce function.

Plans are being made for some sort of a pageant in which the venerable former pastor and circuit rider would be the leading figure.

10,000 TOILERS BUY STANDARD OIL STOCK

Indiana Employees Bid Fair to Be Majority Holders.

(By the Associated Press)

CHICAGO, May 28.—Three years hence the employees of the Standard Oil Company Indiana will be the largest single group of stockholders collectively, and will own more stock than any other individual or collective group of stockholders of the company, if the employees patronize the stock purchasing plan in the next three years as they have in the last two. This announcement was made today by the company in commenting on the result of the plan during the two years of its existence.

The announcement says that of the 27,000 stockholders, 10,000 are now employees and have purchased stock under the plan, which provides that for every dollar an employee puts up for the purchase of stock the company will add 50 cents to the employee's cost in the purchase, providing, however, that no employee can purchase more than an amount equal to 20 percent of his salary.

As soon as an amount sufficient to buy one share of stock is reached the purchase is made and dividends are paid to the employee. At the end of five years all of the stock purchased in this manner is delivered to the employee.

A few concrete examples of how this plan works are interesting. Two years ago an office boy earning $50 a month contributed $16 of this monthly wage to purchasing stock. Today he has nine shares and with the small cash balance of $12.50 he has to his credit $75. His net profit is $340.

Another employee whose salary is $500 a month put in $100 to the purchase of stock. He has now 81 shares, which has a total value of $3,111. His net profit for the two years is $3,561.

FRIDAY JOINS

NEW SCHOOL

Board Accepts His Resignation Despite Governor's Plea for His Retention.

LANSING, Mich., May 28.—Michigan Agricultural College is again without a president. Dr. David Friday, the third head of the institution to be forced out in the last eight years, submitted his resignation to the State Board of Agriculture Friday and it was accepted.

The resignation will take effect June 1, which means that Dr. Friday will not have stayed through one school year, and that the members of the senior class which graduated with him last fall will receive their diplomas from an acting president. His tenure of office has been eleven months. He announced immediately that he has accepted a professorship in the New School of Social Research in New York City.

There was no doubt about the outcome of the meeting. The members of the board came pledged to demand Dr. Friday's resignation. They had prepared an elaborate statement to send to the public if Dr. Friday refused to resign.

"Impossible to Stay." Just before the meeting began Dr. Friday received an offer from Alvin Johnson, chairman of the executive committee of the New School for Social Research, organized with a large amount for research into American social and political problems. After wishing that Dr. Friday would wait his turn, Mr. Johnson said, "I hope that after doing what you will announce to the nation are through with a job in which a man has to fight for the right to do honest work and that you have found a profession with us. We need you and are ready to take you on your terms. What we should like most is that you come to New York and give us your full time, except of course, for writing. We could pay $600 for two lectures a week."

Denies the persistent urging of the faculty, students and alumni of the college, and despite the desire of many friends, it will be utterly impossible, after the events of the few weeks, for me and the board to work together to the advantage of the college," Dr. Friday said in a brief statement issued after his resignation. "Since this is the situation I am convinced that the best course is to postpone my resignation."

The meeting was not without dramatic interest. Just prior to its opening Governor Grosscheck arrived from the capital seeking to interview Dr. Friday not to present his resignation. In a few words to the board the governor advised the board not to accept the resignation if it were offered, and not to request it.

Dean A. R. Shaw, who served as interim president before the arrival of Dr. Friday, is expected to be appointed acting president until the board can obtain another president. Before Dr. Friday took the chair, Dean F. S. Kedzie had been president from 1915 to 1921. He was forced out in 1921 for a Kedzie's administration. A. L. Shaffer had served his resignation having been forced in 1915.

Governer for Friday.

Just before the meeting Governor Grosscheck over the telephone urged Dr. Friday not to present his resignation. In a few words to the board the governor advised the board not to accept the resignation if it were offered, and not to request it.

FLINT, Mich., May 29.—That there is immediate danger of a collapse of the stairway at Central High school, where 2,000 pupils were warned to avoid crowding in case of a fire drill signal, was the opinion of several engineers representing the State Safety Department to the Board of Education Thursday. The engineers, however, said that the precaution of bracing the stairway of the building should be taken.

MARINETTE BRINGS FAST TEAM HERE FOR WEDNESDAY'S GAME

Krasnick and Jab Murray as Well as Many Other Old
Heads With Visitors.

Marinette and Escanaba will furnish the baseball card at South Park tomorrow afternoon and it is anticipated that if the weather be fair a monster crowd will go out to see the rapidly improving local bunch in action against what is virtually the major portion of last year's strong Menominee team.

Marinette will bring Krasnick, who on several occasions took Escanaba's cork under last year. And "Jab" Murray will be seen with the visitors behind the plate. Marinette will also bring Lechner, Denzell and McDonald.

While a tough game is looked for, the locals feel they have the best to bring a victory. Eddie Schwartz, who went like a house afire for eight innings last Sunday, will start on the hill for the locals and it will be a matter for much joy at the part of local fans to know that Tommy Deleite is coming back in time to get into next Sunday's game with Marquette on the local lot. Marquette is one of the toughest nits in the upper peninsula, and Foster Perritt is going to use everything he has to show the visitors they are up against a sure enough ball team.

A great game is promised for tomorrow and a hot tilt is confidently looked for on Sunday.

Operatives Now Concerning Themselves With Affairs.

BENTON HARBOR, Mich., May 29.—Rumors that the federal government plans to investigate the House of David colony here are given partial substantiation by the presence in this city of operatives of the department of justice. The agents are examining the mail and obtaining the names of possible witnesses and seeking information about cult marriages and divorces.

The agents, it is said, were sent here by William J. Burns, chief of the bureau of investigation of the department of justice. One of the matters under investigation, it is reported, is the fact that Benjamin Purnell, on several occasions is alleged to have been accompanied to Chicago by girls from the colony.

Benton Harbor—Former Senator William Alden Smith of Grand Rapids will be the speaker here Memorial Day at the dedication of the Gold Star Memorial tablet to be placed on the Robbins' Memorial dock.

THE ESCANABA DAILY MIRROR

SOME CITIZENS ARE TAKING ADVANTAGE OF CITY KINDNESS

Not Giving Fullest Co-operation in Trying to Make Escanaba More Attractive.

Four mammoth truck loads of trash each day for the last six weeks and still going strong, pretty accurately describes the condition of the city clean-up which is in progress now. The city administration is highly gratified in some respects, and in some others, the condition is not so gratifying.

For instance, it is fine and dandy to get out all your old trash and pile it in the alley. The truck then comes along and removes it, leaving the alley spick and span as it should be—and as it should then be kept.

However, it is found that while there is co-operation in getting trash out for this first trip, many housekeepers continue to ransack their premises for further rubbish and the alley is again littered up within a day or two after the wagons have passed. This is all wrong, Alonso.

Wants Co-operation.

The city wants co-operation 100 per cent, not only a part of the way. The city wants to make this clean up a permanent proposition. Once cleaned, the alleys ought to be kept clean and that obligation rests upon the citizens. Throwing out more rubbish, quack grass, etc., after the truck has passed, isn't cooperating.

It was pointed out at the city hall today that an alley is a public highway which is quite as important as a city street and it should not be littered up any more than a street in front of a residence. As a matter of fact, if it were so desired, citizens can be prosecuted for creating a nuisance in an alley just the same as on any street. Keeping a ship-shape, neat and span, wholesome healthful city is a matter of absolute cooperation between citizens and the administration.

City Doing Its Share.

The administration is doing its part and is merely asking for a little sensible help and forthright on the part of residents. It should be a matter of pride to any resident to keep his premises tidied up both in front and rear—one is as important as the other. But the administration feels that in some cases its kindness and forbearance have been taken advantage of by carelessness or thoughtless citizens, who, it is believed, will be glad to co-operate more fully once their attention is called to it.

If Escanaba is ever to make and maintain a reputation for being one of the cleanest, most attractive, most wholesome cities in this part of the country, it can come only through cooperation on the part of citizens. Burn Rubbish.

This is not alone the sentiment of this newspaper, but finds its inspiration in opinions expressed by city officials and the health department, all trying to make a brighter, happier, more inviting Escanaba.

Turn rubbish that should not be gathered up by the city.

Think it over.

Nathan Frenn
Badly Bruised
In Cellar Fall

Nathan Frenn is making a nice recovery from an accident which he sustained Sunday evening at Frenn's cafe, when he walked into an open cellar way and fell to the bottom, sustaining severe bruises and sprains to his shoulder and knee. He had opened the door in the floor leading to the cellar and before closing it had been called to wait on some trade. During the period he was busy he forgot about the open door and walked backward into the opening.

OBITUARY

JAMES BEITZER.

Very largely attended funeral services were held at St. Joseph's church at 9 o'clock this morning for Little James Beitzer, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Beitzer, Jr., who was asphyxiated Saturday afternoon by gas escaping from a valve which had become accidentally opened by some of the children in the family. It is believed.

Rev. Fr. Bertrand was the celebrant of the high mass and many sympathetic neighbors and friends attended the service. The Beitzer home was filled with beautiful flowers sent by friends in token of their sympathy. Burial was made in Lakeview cemetery in the family lot.

THE WEATHER

For Escanaba and Vicinity—Fair tonight and probably Wednesday; not much change in temperature; moderate winds, mostly easterly.

Millions use greaseless, stainless "Hair-Groom" because it does not show on the hair. It is absorbed by the scalp, therefore the hair remains so soft and pliable and so natural that no one can possibly tell you used it. Not sticky or smelly.

SHERIFF NAMES TWO OFFICERS TO EXPAND FORCE

Henry Breault and Earl Bourdais Will Be New Motor-cycle Cops in County.

Sheriff Carney today announced the appointment of Henry Breault as county motorcycle cop and Earl Bourdais as night man at the jail and motorcycle.

The sheriff is negotiating for a police model Harley-Davidson motorcycle with a rated speed of 90 miles an hour:

It is the sheriff's intention to keep Breault on the country roads, out in the townships most of the time and his duty will largely be that of a traffic officer. He will wear his star outside and in plain view and there will be no attempt to do any gamboosing—he is going to be a traffic officer and see that the road rules are enforced.

Breault is a young man who served through the war, saw service overseas and is an Escanaba boy who formerly lived in Garden Bay. He is thoroughly familiar with the country roads and the county in general, and Sheriff Carney believes he has made a splendid selection.

Officer Bourdais will be at the jail at nights and subject to call out on all occasions. He has been in the county's service for the past seven years and has much valuable police experience to his credit.

Now Filling Up
Old Camp Custer

BATTLE CREEK, May 29.—Camp Custer, scene of training activities for Michigan and Wisconsin troops during the World War, and now the training ground for thousands of troops every summer, is beginning to take on the appearance of an armed camp. A few training units now are at the reservation, in addition to the government troops permanently established there, and plans are going forward rapidly for the reception of additional troops to arrive during the spring and summer.

The camp is looking forward eagerly to the promised visit of General Pershing in August. Announcement of the forthcoming visit on the part of the commander of America's armies was made by Brigadier General Mosely, commandant of the camp. General Mosely said he had received a personal letter from General Pershing announcing that he will come here during August.

Plans for the summer training period, to cover four months, call for the troops from Fort Brady and Fort Wayne to begin target practice June 1. The next few days will be devoted to putting the range in order.
