

PRESIDENT'S BODY SPEEDING EASTWARD

THOUSANDS GATHER ALONG THE ROUTE AND STAND IN REVERENT SILENCE AS TRAIN IS PASSING Widow of Nation's First Citizen Reads in Bowed Heads and Respectful Homage of Crowds Lining Tracks, the Message of a Nation's Sorrow for One of Its Greatest Sons.

On Board the Funeral Train, Aug. 4.—The sorrow in the hearts of the American people over the death of their leader today, was exemplified by silence along the railroad line when the special train bearing the body of Warren G. Harding traversed western California and the wide reaches of Nevada.

With bowed heads they stood, sometimes in crowds of hundreds and sometimes only a score, and again a single person stood with bowed head. None were too poor or none too rich, none too mighty nor none too humble to pay their mark of respect to the memory of President Harding.

They were conscious only of showing their sorrow, but to those on the funeral train they typified the American people as a whole.

Deep Sorrow Evident.

Filled with their sorrow, the bare-headed people felt the utmost sympathy for the grave woman who rode with her dead in the last car of the train. While the passing train gave these people no chance to express their sympathy in words, Mrs. Harding read it in their faces and it gave her strength in her hour of sorrow, but was also a constant reminder of her great loss.

Mrs. Harding continued to bear up well under the strain and was still as determined as she was on Thursday evening that she would not break down. While she sought some sleep, the silent groups along the way—marked the passage of the train. After San Francisco had paid its last respects, other towns along the route prepared to pay theirs.

Thousands Along Tracks.

Thousands stood along the track at attention as the train passed slowly through some of the cities. All was quiet on the train during the night. There was only the grinding of the car wheels as the train passed on its way. The only movement was the hourly change of the guard of honor beside the flag-draped coffin in the last car.

Hourly two soldiers—a sailor and a marine—made their way quietly through the train to the last car and soon afterward the guard they relieved made its way back.

Chicago to Pause.

CHICAGO, Aug. 4.—When the last rites are performed over the body of President Harding at Marion, Ohio, on August 10, all business, all traffic and all industry in Chicago will be stopped and the city will be bowed in silent prayer.

A floral wreath emblematic of the city's tribute to the deceased executive will be placed on the funeral train as it passes through here on the way to Washington on Monday afternoon.

Speeding Eastward.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 4.—The presidential train passed through Carson, Nevada, at 7:25 this morning, the Southern Pacific company here were notified.

"Bud" explained that he was hurrying back to Gladstone in order to get in the game and help the home team win. But even Judge Glaser's love for the national pastime did not permit him to overlook the offense and "Bud" had to come across.

Doctors Explain Cause of Death of the President

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 4.—Drs. Ray L. Wilbur and Charles M. Cooper, who were the local physicians called into consultation by Brigadier General Sawyer when President Harding's illness was first announced here, have issued a statement giving their joint conclusions of the causes which resulted in the death of Mr. Harding. The statement follows:

"We have been asked by President Harding's personal physicians before they left San Francisco to put on record our impressions of the president's physical condition as it affected his last illness and sudden death. As already indicated in the bulletin, the heart was enlarged and probably the blood vessels which carry to it its nutriment, thickened, for his history shows that previously he had original manifestations and that during his illness the respiratory center was insufficiently and, furthermore, he had suffered from nocturnal dyspnea and a Cheyne-Stokes type of respiration, yet, as often happens in such cases, he had full confidence in his bodily strength, his mind remained most alert, and his judgment unimpaired.

"At 4:59 p. m. prior to his sudden death, he seemed to Mrs. Harding and to us that the fight was won and that, with sufficient rest and the carrying out of a definite medical program, this illustrious man, in fair physical health and in full mental vigor, could be preserved for this our country."

On that day Mr. Harding's body is to be buried at Marion, Ohio. The proclamation was signed at 11:35 a. m. It was brought to the president's hotel suite by J. Butler Wright, third assistant secretary of state, and then was returned to the state department for the signature of Secretary Hughes.

President Coolidge let it be known that the personnel of the Harding administration would continue in office indefinitely and that he could see no reason for any present change, nor the interruption of any negotiations now being carried out with foreign governments by President Harding's appointees.

At his first conference with newspaper men, however, the president declined to discuss administration policies. He said that he would not comment on the possibilities of an extra session of congress.

HARDING DEATH WILL CONFUSE G. O. P. PLANS

Hot Fight for Nomination Will Probably Result; Harding's Renomination Was Practically Assured.

(By the Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—President Harding's death throws new confusion and excitement into the political situation within the republican party which undoubtedly will have far-reaching reflections in the national convention of next year.

It probably will turn what many expected to be merely a ratification to a contest for the republican presidential nomination with the stalwart conservative forces aligned on one side and the forces represented by special leaders as Senators Johnson of California, Borah of Idaho, and LaFollette of Wisconsin, on the other.

Since the renomination of President Harding without any substantial contest seemed assured one of the men regarded as a likely rival for the nomination confessed to a colleague that he found himself without an issue. The president's pronouncement for entry into the world court of international justice, however, altered the situation.

"A Thankless Job."
During the last few weeks there has come definite information that all was not going to be as clear sailing as had been expected in the republican national convention and that there might be a contest after all.

There were days of discouragement in the first months of President Harding's term, and on many occasions he expressed to close friends his wonderment why anyone should seek the office of president with its trials and tribulations and the "thanks of the job."

In one moment of disgust and discouragement, Mr. Harding said to a close political friend who was a dark horse in the convention of 1920, "Do you want this job next time? If you do it's yours as far as I am concerned, I'll be for you."

But his friends urged him to put discouragement aside and carry on. Mrs. Harding also always urged him to put away thoughts of stepping down and not being a candidate for the renomination.

Coolidge Makes No Compromises Once He's "Set"

(By the Associated Press)
LANCASTER, Pa., Aug. 4.—After well drilled had worked nearly a year without success, Christopher Herr, with the aid of a peach bough, has located water on the Millersville school grounds. The expert driller penetrated the earth to a depth of 550 feet without striking water.

After Herr had made his calculations, the driller was moved 200 feet from the original hole, and at the depth of 59 feet, a flow of 250 gallons to the minute was discovered.
Mr. Herr laughingly denied that it was necessary to use words or to accomplish successfully the trick of finding water with the aid of a peach bough. "Neither do I smell the water," declared Mr. Herr. "I have located many wells by my method in all sections of the country. There is no mystery about the plan. Simply cut a tender forked bough of a peach tree and balance each prong between the hands, point the base toward your body, and then move over the ground. The base of the bough will point downward when you pass over water holes."

Grocer Routs Burglar with Pies and Pickles

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—A slapstick comedy that wasn't recorded by a movie camera, which might be entitled, "Pies, Pickles and Guns," was enacted last night in the store of Casero Lucchesi, with the grocer and a bold Negro highwayman in the stellar roles.

The initial scene portrayed Lucchesi pouring into the cash register at the day's receipts. From the corner of one eye he caught a glimpse of the robber creeping toward him. He registered consternation.

"Gimme the dough," the highwayman demanded, cocking a six-shooter and aiming at the grocer's face. "And keep that mouth shut or I'll put you to sleep."

Lucchesi's terror faded out, and if the film camera had been trained on him it would have photographed one grocer with extreme nerve. "I don't give anything away, that's not my business," answered the grocer boldly, as he seized a juicy pickle and hurled it at the highwayman.

ber retreated out of the door, firing a good-bye shot, which went wild. Headquarters Detectives Kelly and Scrivener and police of the eighth precinct were detailed to trail the highwayman.

ESKY WILL PLAY FORDS TOMORROW

Locals Will Travel to Iron Mountain in Attempt to Break Losing Jinx.

Determined to break the streak of hard luck which has been hitting the local team for the past few weeks, Escanaba will go to Iron Mountain tomorrow ready to put up one of the gamest fights of the season.

Al Perrow again will receive for Smith, who is to take the mound. Mile Welch will hold first, while Nelson, Olmstead, Tommy Desilets and Lantz will form the rest of the infield. In the outfield, Manager Olmstead has the pick of Malone, Kern, Rohda, or Klein, all of which are fast and speedy men. Besides these new faces still another will appear in the lineup tomorrow, "Bill" Ranguette, who has been showing up well, as a young moundsman in local circles for the past few years, will go along as the extra hurler. Much is expected from this youngster.

Iron Mountain's Ford aggregation has been winning the majority of its games this season, but is not thought equal to Escanaba, and the local nine is confident that they will prove that fact tomorrow.

"My future husband," she said, "is an eastern capitalist. He will be here in September, and then we shall announce our engagement. No, I do not wish to tell his name now."

"Mother and I are going to buy a home somewhere in Hollywood Hills. I have a couple of offers for pictures, and expect to go back to work in a few weeks."

NEW SUGAR BEET
VARIETY IS BEING DEVELOPED NOW

Is Supposed to Contain Greater
Sugar Content Than Older
Style Product.

EAST LANSING, Mich., Aug. 4.—Production of a variety of sugar beets that will produce a greater tonnage per acre, with if possible, an increase in the sugar content, is the task set by E. E. Down, research assistant in charge of sugar beet work at M. A. C. The government plant at Blissfield was joined with the one here last spring and the work of the two organizations is going forward with the cooperation of the plant breeders of the agricultural college.

Most of the seed planted in Michigan comes from outside sources, the planters not desiring to raise their own seed when the commercial producers supply seed at a low cost. It is the belief of Mr. Down and his associates, however, that it will be possible to follow the improvements made in some other Michigan products and produce a variety of sugar beets that will be essentially adapted to Michigan conditions, and that having done this, the large part of the Michigan beet seed of necessity will be grown in this state and under conditions that will enable the growers of the state to control the purity of the seed.

Development of a strain of sugar beets will take twice as long as would the development of grain or hay crops. The latter may be planted and made to produce seed in a single year. In producing a strain of sugar beets, however, it is necessary to raise the beets the first year and replant them the second year. It is in the second season that the seed is produced.

From the beets grown the first year the breeders select the individual beets that from their characteristics seem best adapted to increase tonnage and sugar content. These "mother" beets must be stored for a year before being replanted in the spring.

Possibly a thousand beets may be grown the first year and from the number only one may be considered fit to become a "mother plant." From the seed of the "mother plant," possibly a few will carry the qualities desired. Perhaps none of the plants grown from this seed will be acceptable to the breeder. Thus the work of the plant breeder is one of infinite detail and selection, and of waiting to see if his selection is borne out to the third and fourth generations.

The local beet sugar experiment plant has 15 acres for work, divided into many small plots where different strains are being developed. It may be Mr. Down's intent, that the ideal for Michigan will be obtained by cross-pollination at flowering time, or it may spring from the natural selection of the "survival of the fittest." The selection, however, in plant breeding being at the hand of man and not in a way of extermination.

SKIDS IN DITCH
AND BLAMES MAN WHO HELPS HIM

MARQUETTE, Aug. 4.—The man who drives an automobile forty miles an hour on the Big Bay road and finds his car in the ditch when he tries to pass another without cutting down his speed, is deserving of little consideration or assistance. And he is not likely to get much from Herbert E. Perkins, county treasurer and manager of the Huron Mountain club.

Mr. Perkins drives the Big Bay road almost every day and insists that serious accidents will result unless speeding is discontinued on that curved, hilly and narrow driveway. Recently, while enroute to Big Bay, Mr. Perkins sighted a car coming toward him at a rapid rate, which he judged to be at least "forty." The other car approached Perkins on a curve near Stewart's camp and the county treasurer steered his car to the extreme right edge of the road. The other driver, maintaining his speed, tried to pass Perkins on the turn, but his car skidded and swerved off the road into soft muck.

Perkins did not believe he was responsible for what had occurred, but was willing to help the other man. He hooked a long chain onto the ditched car and was ready to pull it back on the road, when three other men arrived in another car and offered their assistance. They asked the man whose car was ditched to explain how it happened and he said Mr. Perkins "crowded him off." Perkins heard him.

"Unless you retract that statement," said the treasurer, "I will take this chain off your car and you can get it out of the ditch as best you can." The man quickly admitted he had lied.

Clean Kidneys
By Drinking
Lots of Water

Take Salts to Flush Kidneys if Bladder Bothers or Back Hurts

Eating too much rich food may produce kidney trouble in some form, says a well-known authority, because the acids created excite the kidneys. Then they become overworked, get sluggish, clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region, rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.

The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, begin drinking lots of good water and also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity; also to neutralize the acids in the system so that they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder disorders.

Jad Salts can not injure anyone; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to help clear the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus often avoiding serious kidney disorders. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

FAIRS TO STRESS
EDUCATION, FARMS

Upper Peninsula Circuit Dates
Announced; Marked Progress Indicated.

Favorable progress is being reported from the various counties throughout the peninsula on plans for annual county fairs, and there is every indication that the fairs this year will show a decided improvement.

There is a general tendency to lay more stress on education and to introduce something of practical benefit to farmers. This tendency is no doubt the outgrowth of an energetic campaign, under joint auspices of the extension division of the Michigan Agriculture college and the Upper Peninsula Development bureau looking to the betterment of agricultural conditions generally throughout the peninsula, with particular emphasis on dairying.

From almost every farming district of the peninsula there is reported an increased interest in development of the dairying industry. New creameries are springing up; pure-bred stock is being substituted for "scrubs" and the enthusiast has reached a number of banking institutions in upper Michigan that are backing the purchase of pure-bred dairy stock.

A schedule of fairs in the peninsula follows:

- Alger county, Chatham, September 19-22
Chippewa county, Sault Ste. Marie, September 10-14
Chippewa-Mackinac, Pickford, September 17-19
Cloverland Farmers' Fair, Stephenson, September 12-15

BE PRETTY! TURN
GRAY HAIR DARK
Try Grandmother's Old Favorite
Recipe of Sage Tea
and Sulphur

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is messy and troublesome. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this famous old recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, at a small cost.

Don't stay gray! Try it! No one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy and attractive.

TOURIST POURING
MONEY INTO STATE

Michigan's Attractions Profitable Asset; Spend Millions in Cash.

DETROIT, Aug. 4. Due in part to its natural attractions as a summer resort, and to the immense amount which the state has expended for improved highways, Michigan rapidly is becoming one of the most popular states in the Union, with tourists from other localities who spend their vacation journeying on the road.

Literally thousands of cars enter Michigan each week during July and August, through the southern gateways. Nearly half as many, according to estimates by the Detroit Automobile club, stream in through the eastern entrances at Detroit and Port Huron. The scenic plates of Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Pennsylvania and New York have become so familiar a sight on the trunk line highways as to cause no comment. Added to the army of Michigan-owned cars, they comprise a fleet which, during the summer months, is bringing a flood of gold not only to the cities along the trunk line highways, but also to the great resort region reaching to Mackinac City and across the straits into the upper peninsula a region which is literally flooded with summer visitors. Millions of Dollars.

Many of these tourists stop regularly at the excellent hotels which their patronage, has helped to establish and maintain. Thousands of them pause at tourists' camps, which exist in the state parks and city suburbs. These camping tourists rely on the region through which they pass for their supplies, dividing their custom between the merchant and the farmer. Millions of dollars are being brought into the state this year by those who come to travel, to camp, to fish or to otherwise enjoy the Michigan summer climate, and each tourist returns to his home to spread among his friends the gospel of a vacation in Michigan.

Meeting Competition. In securing this "army of cash distributors, Michigan, is as Thomas P. Henry, president of the American Automobile association, and a director of the Detroit Automobile club, points out, meeting and beating, to a degree the competitive invitations of many other regions, notably Canada and Wisconsin.

"Our sister commonwealth to the westward is a worthy and an experienced rival," declares Mr. Henry. "She was ahead of us in cultivating tourists attention, and is still ahead of us in the number who accept her hospitality. But Michigan is making immense strides and this year has several record centers which may rival the 1922 record of the little Wisconsin community at the entrance to the famous "Dells" region, which last year sold to tourists more than $1,000,000 worth of supplies and service."

DRUGGISTS
RECOMMEND
Dr. A.W. Chase's
Medicines

The druggist is the one family friend and adviser in whom everybody has implicit confidence. No druggist who values his reputation in his neighborhood will recommend any proprietary medicine unless he is absolutely sure it has outstanding merit. It would be business suicide for him to sell and endorse an inferior article. That's why we take great pride in presenting below the sincere opinions of a few of the many thousands of druggists who are now selling and recommending Dr. A. W. Chase's Medicines:

The Vancouver Drug Co., Ltd., Victoria, B. C., writes: "Dr. Chase's Medicines are always in demand, and there are many repeat orders. I have in a residence—Dr. Chase's Medicines are reliable."

Mr. T. T. Beattie, Druggist, 452 Bronson Ave., Ottawa, Ont., writes: "I always recommend Dr. Chase's Medicines with perfect confidence, as I receive continual evidence that they are splendid result-producers. In particular I have found Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills very efficacious. They are among the very best staple sellers and the handling of these goods is highly satisfactory."

Mr. Frank Hyde, Druggist, Woodstock, Ont., writes: "Among our best selling proprietary medicines, Dr. Chase's have a foremost place. They are necessary in every drug store, so 'permanence' is the demand for them."

Mr. A. P. Chow, Druggist, Kingston, Ont., writes: "Dr. Chase's Medicines have for many years had a steady sale and give good results and satisfaction."

Mr. E. G. Moxon, Druggist, Truro, N. S., writes: "For a considerable length of time Dr. Chase's preparations have been one of our staple lines of merchandise. Our patrons feel they have the best and most satisfactory. We consider them among the leading sellers and we wish to always keep them for sale."

Mr. C. A. McQuarrie, Druggist, Truro, N. S., writes: "We have known Chase's Medicines from childhood. Their sales were great then, but greater now, and Chase's goods are among the fastest selling lines. The motto, 'Chase's Goods are Good' seems to be applied throughout their entire line."

Mr. W. D. Mitchell, Druggist, Prince Albert, Sask., writes: "We have handled Dr. Chase's Medicines for a considerable number of years, and find them one of the most satisfactory staple lines, and among the best sellers. They are easy to sell, and we feel that having made a sale of Dr. Chase's Medicines, we have gained a satisfied customer."

Mr. A. E. DuBois, Druggist, Sherbrooke, Que., writes: "I have handled Dr. Chase's lines of medicines for years, and I find that, as proprietary medicines, this line is one of the ones—not THE one—that gives the most general satisfaction to my customers."

Mr. O. J. Gill, Druggist, Ingersoll, Ont., writes: "Dr. Chase's Medicines have a steady sale with us the year round, and we have always found them to be very reliable medicines."

A MILLION A WEEK.

A survey of the industry made by a New York bank indicates that this country now spends about a million dollars a week for chewing gum and that the habit is still growing. Some philosopher of facts and habits ought to tell the world how it came about. Within the memory of middle-aged people the chewing gum industry was in its infancy and depended upon native products for raw material.

Its beginnings need investigation, but it is safe to guess that it grew from a spontaneous tendency on the part of the American pioneer to chew the gum of black spruce. Maybe somebody tried it as a substitute for chewing tobacco. Perhaps it was only another aspect of the habit of chewing a straw which is attributed to contemplative farmers.

However that may be, somebody saw commercial possibilities in spruce gum and little rolls of that substance appeared on the market. They were dusted with some white substance—was it sugar?—to keep them from sticking to the wrapper and although their taste was anything but seductive the latent passion for chewing which appears to be an innate American characteristic found what it had been looking for.

Various substitutes were tried, one of them being ordinary paraffin which was known to gum-chewing children as white gum and in due course "chamber gum" arrived. That is the gum which under many names and bearing many flavors now monopolizes the market.

So far as the meager authorities show this habit is absolutely native in its growth and is confined almost altogether to the United States and Canada though a small export business has grown up and even South and Central America, which now furnish all of the raw material, are getting some of it back as chewing gum.

Whether this peculiarly American habit is destined to take hold of other nations as it has this remains to be seen, but certainly the business cannot be promoted among other peoples by any convincing argument bearing upon its utility. People are urged in advertisements to chew gum for the improvement of their digestion or to clean their teeth, but the fact is that they chew it because they like to and care nothing about the reasons. If the business is to be boomed abroad, foreigners must be brought under the influence of a similar mysterious but seductive attraction and when they are, nothing can stop the triumphant advance of American gum.

MR. JOHNSON'S THREAT.

William E. Johnson, who for some reason that has not been explained, was named "Pussyfoot" by the British public, has just given out an interview in London which seems to need explanation. He was talking to a correspondent about those Scotch seafaring men who have been making a pretty good thing for several years past out of illegal American trade in Scotch whisky. Bootleggers on the Clyde, he said, are not the only people engaged in smuggling drink into America, but he warned them that bootlegging is going to be a very dangerous pastime and said further, "If they are prepared to risk their lives in the pursuit of the traffic I am not the man to stop them from going to an early grave."

One would like to know the basis of this alarming threat. Under the existing law smuggling is not a capital offense. Are marine bootleggers to be classed as pirates and hanged from the yardarm after the manner of those brave days when buccaneering flourished on the seven seas?

If that is the program it would seem that Mr. Johnson would have done better to talk it over first with the American people before issuing his ultimatum in London. They might decide that a country which tolerates extensive violation of the liquor law at home would not be justified in visiting sudden death upon foreigners who do nothing more than follow an American example.

Speaking more directly and literally Mr. Johnson has been talking nonsense. Liquor smuggling by sea is a serious evil, but it is one that can be handled under the rules of civilized law and any intimation from a prominent American that this country intends to resort to the methods of medieval ferocity for the enforcement of laws relating to the importation of goods that are legally merchantable almost everywhere in the world only intensifies the irritation which the prohibition law has created throughout a large part of Europe.

That California college president who says that 96,000,000 people in the United States are inferior is undoubtedly right. In fact, everybody in the United States is inferior to the one man who is superior to all of the rest.

The London Evening News says that Europe is now getting all of its notions of America from the films. If that is true what avails all of the books written about us by traveling Englishmen?

A recent survey indicates that the motor industry is the most successful among American industries in the prevention of accidents, but the figures do not apply to motors after they reach the street.

The president of the United Lutheran church says that the American girl is at the lowest ebb in her history, but curiously enough the American boy is just as crazy about her as he ever was.

A Kentucky man claims to have a hen that cackled for sixty hours without intermission. She was probably trying to give an imitation of a senate filibuster.

Mr. Wilson's inability to agree with a secretary of state was well known and it now appears that the infirmity extends to a secretary who writes ex before his title.

The Turkish government has signed an order for $1,760,000 worth of American agricultural implements. They must have all the guns they need.

FULL STOP LAW MAKES TROUBLE BUT IT WORKS

Officials Enforce the Spirit Rather Than the Letter of the Law.

(By the Associated Press) DETROIT, Aug. 3.—Detroit automobilists as well as those who are traveling through the city are wavering at corners since the inauguration of an ordinance requiring all drivers to come to a full stop at boulevard intersections. The text of the law requires that the machine be brought to a "complete stop."

Although the law has been in operation only a little more than a month two judicial decisions have been given defining what is a complete stop. Judge Harry B. Keenan has ruled that a complete stop means that the wheels of the vehicle become stationary at some time before crossing any boulevard named in the stop ordinance.

Judge Edward J. Jeffries, in hearing traffic cases, recently ruled that a complete stop means merely the slowing down and putting of the vehicle under control of the driver in such a way as to make it possible to come to a complete stop if necessary. This interpretation, according to the judge, is an effort to get the spirit of the law, not the actual wording.

The Detroit Corporation Counsel has ruled with Judge Keenan that the law means a stop to such an extent that the wheels of the vehicle do not move.

With these two interpretations of the new ordinance drivers of motor vehicles are able to approach a boulevard intersection, slow down and take a chance on having their case sent to the right judge, or come to a complete stop and be able to face any judge if any question is raised regarding observance of the traffic rules.

The new ordinance, coupled with the word "STOP" painted in two foot letters on the pavement at all boulevard intersections, has decreased traffic accidents to a large extent, in the opinion of police officials. A similar ordinance has been in effect in Chicago for several years, where police say it is effective in regulating traffic and preventing accidents.

FILMS OF U. S. ARE PUZZLE TO EUROPE

Scandals and Violence Vividly Portrayed in Pictures Seen Abroad.

(By the Associated Press)

LONDON.—Europeans entertain curious notions about life in the United States. Many of them get their impressions from American moving pictures, which feature train robberies, bank hold-ups, social scandals, shooting affrays, exciting automobile episodes, and other equally sensational things.

From personal observation of American films in British cinemas, says a writer in the London Evening News, "we reach the conclusion that America is a large country entirely surrounded by sin and sentiment."

Idea of Inhabitants.

"It is inhabited in the east by unscrupulous, but enormously successful, business men, who devote their nights to squandering in cabarets their ill-gotten gains of the day before."

"In the west the bad men rob stage-coaches and banks, shoot sheriffs and their partners in crime, and spend a good deal of time rolling on the ground in attempts to gouge each other's eyes out.

"The north is peopled by bearded second-rate, who go there to escape from the law, to steal mining claims, and to menace lonely girls snowbound in log cabins. The south is notable for mules and half-breeds. The last-named are no particular vice. They are just bad."

Rich Women of East.

"The rich women of the east are notable for the scantiness of their costume, their uncharitable attitude towards other women, and for their remarkable bedrooms. These are of enormous size, elaborately decorated, have at least one telephone, and an easy way of access for heroines and ingress for heroes."

"Sometimes the villain uses one of these entrances, and then the heroine throws a lamp at him and rings up the hero, who was lying awake waiting for the call."

"He dashes around in pajamas and an automobile to her rescue just in time to wake up the household and be covered with suspicion."

West and South. "In the west and the south very little work is done. The man of town hangs around the store all day long in case they are wanted for a fight, and the women gossip over gates so as to be ready to run into the road and welcome home the blood-stained hero."

"America must be an awfully interesting place to live in; only few of us invertebrate Britons could stand the strain of such an exciting life. It isn't so much the amount of work the Americans do as the suddenness with which they do things, that must tell on them in time."

"Fortunes are made and homes ruined in America on the screen in less time than the average Englishman takes to eat his breakfast."

It has been proposed in France to restore the Cross of the Legion of Honor upon tens of thousands of World War cripples who are 100 per cent incapacitated, blind, paralyzed, victims of gas or men whose shattered bodies cannot live more than two or three years.

FORD REFUSES TO ENTER RACE

Declares He's Not a Candidate for Anything; Can't Imagine Accepting.

Henry Ford is not a candidate for the Presidency, according to an interview with him published in the current issue of Collier's.

The interviewer, who spent several days in Dearborn in as many daily conversations with the automobile maker on the general topic of the latter's presidential intentions and what the country needs at the present time in the way of legislation and governmental change, declares that Ford spoke frankly and with obvious sincerity upon all phases of the political situation. The interview, which is by Charles W. Wood, says in part:

Calts Ford Mysterious.
"Henry Ford is mysterious because he knows some things which the rest of us don't know, but he has been wanting to tell us and it was we who wouldn't let him. We have been sticking him in the headlines instead. We have been asking trick questions and demanding a 'Yes' or a 'No.'"

Today, at any rate, Henry Ford is interested in politics. Not as a politician is interested, but as a scientist. Politics, no matter what one may think of it, is a force to be reckoned with. Henry Ford has been trying to learn what it's all about.

Preliminary to a discussion of his own intentions, the interview quotes Mr. Ford on some general phases of the political situation. Said he:

"Special privileges are a handicap to anybody. You can't do business successfully if you've got them, or if you spend any time trying to get them. The tariff isn't a craft; it's a nuisance."

"The people think they want to run the government, when they don't know how. They even think it's a sacred duty to vote, when they haven't got a glimmer of an idea what they are voting for. They may even think they are running the government, but they are not. They are all yanking at it here and there, but they aren't running it; and the more they yank the more it won't run."

Sees Too Much Waste.
Declaring there "is a lot of waste in government and a foolish lot of overhead," the automobile man declared the necessity of having 48 separate state governments with officials and bureaus and departments and considering such a system as too sacred to be changed.

"Government keeps up establishing bureaus to account for the money it spends establishing bureaus," he said. "Efficient service demands that we get rid of things that have outlived their usefulness. If the government does not do this, the government will go down, that's all. If America doesn't do this, America will go down."

The words "Jew" and international financier" are synonymous in Mr. Ford's vocabulary, according to the Collier's interviewer. "When the Jews take hold of anything, it goes down. It was a common observation in the interview. 'The Jews are ordained by God to clean up the things that are ready to disappear, and the Jew financiers are not building anything. They wait until things begin to decay; then they get into them.'"

"You probably think the labor unions were organized by labor," says the interviewer, "but they were not. They were organized by these Jew financiers. The labor union is a great thing to interrupt work. It speeds up the loafing. It is a great thing for the Jew to have on hand when he comes around to get his clutches on an industry."

Mildly Praises Harding.
"I have no fault to find with Harding," the interviewer quotes Ford. "Maybe it's not time to do anything yet. If that's the case, the best man for the job is the man who can be depended upon not to do anything. Evolution is on the job. Harding blocked the soldiers' bonus, and congress blocked the ship subsidy. Altogether, things are happening about right, and you've got to give them both credit for it."

The actual Ford "platform," as the Collier's writer quotes it, discusses eight topics. Of our international relations, it advises that we get acquainted with the rest of the world and with ourselves, when we will find that our relative interests do not conflict. It decries the "narrow nationalism" of both Europe and this country. The tariff is called a joke, and the ship subsidy is referred to as a plan to give a bonus for incapacity.

The soldier's bonus is called an insult to the service man, who should, if untried by wounds or weakness to hold his own, be at once made fit by all the resources of modern science. Troubles of the farmer will disappear with simplification of production and distribution. Government ownership and operation of railroads, continuance of prohibition, and the insurance of world peace by giving service, complete the list.

"All that America needs is the freest possible play of American energy. President Harding is doing as well as can be expected, and congress has not yet marred the designs of the universe," he concludes.

Not a Candidate.
"I am not a candidate for anything. I can't imagine myself today accepting any nomination. Of course, I can't say, and no intelligent man can say, what I will do tomorrow. I haven't a political mind, and I don't see any sense in my attempting political leadership. I know, if the people don't, the presidency is not my kind of a job. It is as silly to talk of drafting me as it is to try to make me volunteer. I've got my kind of a job now. Watch the D. T. & W. for a few years. We're going to make a real railroad out of that, and show the country what kind of a transportation system it might have."

"MILLIONAIRE" SUICIDE IS NOT YET IDENTIFIED

Cincinnati Officials Still Awaiting Verifying Reports.

Cincinnati, Aug. 4.—Police Tuesday awaited reports, which would verify the identity of a man, who is believed to have left two mysterious letters on central bridge before leaping to death in the Ohio river.

"Although I have been known throughout the west as Eddie Miller, my correct name is Lester Gallagher, and at one time I was worth $18,000,000," one of the letters said.

The letters, found near a man's cap and shirt, bequeathed valuable land at Maxville, Kansas, and Oakland, Cal., to "Laura Ebel" in Hutchinson, Kansas.

The writer said he owned a $12,000 bungalow in Oakland, Cal. A suitcase, containing papers verifying his statements, could be found at T. E. Callahan's place in Maxville, a letter said.

Running, Guiding Liners By Shore Power Is Foreseen

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—A prediction that within the next century ocean liners would be propelled and directed by electricity from power houses on shore, was made Wednesday by G. F. Farnum, chief engineer of the Vacuum Oil Company in Italy, before sailing for Genoa, on the Columbian. Mr. Farnum, who has experimented with marine motive power, declared that all steamers would pass from coal to oil, and added:

"There is no danger of oil deposits being exhausted for another 100 years and when that time comes, we will find on vessels being propelled and directed by electrical currents from land stations. The recent experiments of France and Germany in directing the movements of airplanes by electric currents illustrates the principles which eventually will propel vessels and land machinery."

"The biggest thing, however, confronting science is the development of power and water. In a quart of guaranteed by 30 tons of coal," or, if released, to replace the power guaranteed by 700 tons of coal."

30-ACRE STATE PARK ADDED TO U. P. GROUP

MARGARET, Mich., Aug. 4.—A new state park of 30 acres of wooded land lying along the west shore of Lake Geogebic had been added to the group of state owned parks stretching across the Upper Peninsula. The park at Lake Geogebic was donated to the commonwealth on provision that it would take steps to improve the land and build a highway in from No. 12, known here as the Cloverland Trail. The 30-acre tract is near the border of Ontonagon county and an effort is being made to persuade the Ontonagon supervisors to build another highway connecting the park with the north end of Lake Geogebic, around which runs Michigan trunk highway No. 18.

'A MILE OF ROAD A DAY IN 1924'

Is Governor's Highway Construction Slogan Since Prisoners Made Good.

(By the Associated Press)
LANSING, Mich., Aug. 4.—"Prison labor on the state highways has proved an unqualified success," Fred A. Perry, secretary of the state administrative board, declared today.

Financially, in speed and in quality of work, the prison camps during the first month of their existence compared more than favorably with the gangs put on the roads by private contractors, reports to Perry indicate.

Governor Alex. J. Groesbeck has been so pleased with the reports from the several camps that he has adopted a program of "A Mile of Highway a Day" for 1924. The present private contractor average is only slightly more than a mile a week.

Honor to Be Chosen.
Under the system of choosing men for this work adopted by the governor, to be picked for it is an honor. Only the prisoners with the best records are accepted and they are practically certain of paroles if they live up to the rules of the camps.

They are paid $1 a day for their work, to be turned over to them in a lump sum when they have completed their terms.

In two of the camps in Genesee county, the prisoners have adopted a voluntary honor system, promising concerted action if they learn of any projected attempt to break the semi-parole under which the camps are run.

Developments this month at the camps have made it a practical certainty that more than 50 per cent of the highway work done in the state next year will be by the state highway department engineers directing prison camps, state officials at the capital believe.

Labor Cost Low.
"The labor costs with prisoners making up the construction gangs, are only about 30 per cent of those facing private contractors," Perry said.

There are now four prison camps in the state with about 150 men employed in road building.
