MARION BECOMES ABOODE OF SILENCE

THOUSANDS OF VISITORS PAY LAST TRIBUTE OF RESPECT TO THE LATE PRESIDENT HARDING

Little Home City of President Thronged With the Great From Every State in Union to See Ivy-Grown Doors of Vault Close Upon Form of Beloved Executive.

MARION, Ohio, Aug. 10.—The slow moving throngs crowded the streets of Marion today in the last public honors Warren G. Harding will know before the doors of the ivy-grown vault close upon him. It seems that not alone Ohio, but every surrounding state from which Marion could be reached before the end, had sent legions to pass beside the bier or to stand silent as the dead president was carried to his rest.

Hundreds upon hundreds came to join the gathering every hour; came faster than the slow movement past the bier could absorb them. Crowds came from special trains shooting into Marion from all directions. Motor cars came rolling in over every road, bringing added scores to join the silent company gathered reverently where so short a time ago, thousands entered in noisy acclaim to the man who had risen to the highest honor paid by the people.

On every side street hundreds of cars were parked in almost endless rows. A haze dimmed the sunlight in the morning hours but it was a bright day for all that. The town had the quiet of a Sunday and little loitering groups about the homes could be seen talking quietly.

Hundreds of other visitors and citizens walked along the winding drive through the City of Silence, pausing in front of the little green vault that was soon to become the end of the journey of a greatly beloved man.

Home Opened Early.

The Harding home was opened again to the public at 8 o'clock this morning, two hours before the time set for the public, assembled in a long, silent line, began to move. A number of artillery troops were on duty to keep the line in order. By the time the line started to move, it had lengthened to more than fifteen blocks.

Thousands, de-pairing of opportunity to see their president for the last time, made a solemn pilgrimage to the home where his body lay. They went on the opposite side of the street and, finally reaching the spot directly opposite the house, stood for a moment with bowed heads and then were forced to move on, that others might take their places to pay their respects and a last farewell.

The long line, standing from six to eight abreast extending down well into the business section, was most orderly. It was broken for a few minutes early in the day to permit employees of the Marion Star, with whom the president had labored in building up the paper, to take a farewell look at their old employer.

By special request of Mrs. Harding the line was also broken to permit relatives of Mr. Harding to view the body for the last time.

Last Vigil.

After her last night of vigil near the casket of her husband which rested in the little home of Dr. George T. Harding, Mrs. Harding continued her watchful attention there and was still brave and calm. None of the marks of respect to the late president escaped in her early hours.

Steadfastly Mrs. Harding has kept her grief in quietude and has declined with profound thanks every offer from friends to assist her in many of the matters requiring her attention. Apparently she was struggling along with an effort not to give worries to others, even though they were willing to share her burdens.

The South Loved Him.

ATLANTA, Ga., Aug. 10.—The South today bowed a farewell salute to a Gentleman of the North. Down below that imaginary line of historic fame the Southland stood by in heightened sorrow and in silent reverence as Warren Harding reached home again—to stay.

Albert Oakman, who fired a bullet into his brain Tuesday night, was still alive at St. Francis' hospital this afternoon, but was growing gradually weaker. Hope for his life was practically been abandoned and it is said that it is only a matter of hours until he succumbs.

SILENCE!

Nation Pays Tribute to Dead Chief Executive as Body Is Consigned to Earth in Old Home Town in Ohio This Afternoon.

(By the Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—The nation will pay the tribute of silence to Warren G. Harding as his body is entombed today at Marion. From border to border every wheel of the federal government, practically every branch of industry and commerce will stand still.

Theatres and other amusement places will be closed, base ball games and other events of sports will be deferred. As recommended by President Coolidge, in his proclamation officially announcing the death of the president, the day will be one of mourning and of prayer. Thousands upon thousands will gather in their places of worship, for services, church bells will toll their mournful message of a beloved chieftain laid to his last rest.

Traffic on all the railroads will come to a halt at the hour of interment, trains coming to a stop wherever they may be and remaining motionless from two to five minutes. Work in railroad shops will cease for a similar length of time, telegraph and telephone companies will close their wires for from one to three minutes.

THREE GREAT AMERICANS IN MARION TODAY

(By the Associated Press)

MARION, Aug. 10.—Throwing aside the cares of business, manufacture and invention for a brief while, Thomas A. Edison, Henry Ford and Henry Firestone are enjoying a camping and outing trip over several states.

The party came to Marion to attend the funeral of the late president. Mr. Harding was a member of the party two years ago. Just where the Ford party will go has not been definitely decided. The first stop tonight will be at the birthplace of Mr. Edison at Milan, Ohio. The party will remain there until, as Mr. Ford said, "the spirit moves them," when they will go on to Dearborn, to the home of Mr. Ford.

From Detroit their route will likely be through northern Michigan and Wisconsin, but no definite schedule has been arranged. Mr. Ford said that where the party will go, how long they will stay and when they are to return, is in the hands of the commander-in-chief, Mr. Edison.

A Tribute to Warren G. Harding

(By H. F. Ulsh)

Warren G. Harding, around the world today countless thousands of pens tipped with eloquence, driven by skill and directed with an erudition which we can never hope to attain, are flowing forth the ink of love and admiration calculated to impress indelibly upon the human mind, something of the grandeur of your character and your life. All over this broad land which less than three years ago acclaimed you as its leader, golden voices are raised in song and praise and through it all runs that peculiar timbre which is fostered by respect and a stunned sense of great loss. Many and various and eloquent and divinely uplifting, will be the tributes paid you, but never a one more sincere, more truly from the heart, more humbly aware of the fact of its own weakness, than that which we here attempt to pay you today—not because you were a President of the United States, but because the great heart of you, by reason of your presidency, will continue to palpitate throughout the nation, long after the tears of the nation have dried and the trainloads of flowers which today will be as a blanket over your still form, will have withered and their perfume vanished.

The Daily Mirror today wishes to add its humble tribute, poorly expressed perhaps, but deeply sensed, to what the world is saying of Warren G. Harding, the man Warren Harding, the citizen, and "W. G."—the boss.

We want to pay tribute to the simplicity and earnestness which carried you successfully through those trying first years of your business career; to the habitual cheerfulness of spirit which characterized your work, laden with the narrowness and pettiness in a hundred ways which come to the lot of the man running a struggling newspaper in a small town. But you grew, and thrived and waxed in wisdom and grew broader of vision despite the trials and difficulties which, as we recall, were nothing short of persecution. And through it all you wore that calm mental attitude which was the greatest assurance of a divine confidence in the rightness of squareness.

It matters not what history may say about you—the men and women and children who knew and loved and revered you know, that regardless of every other consideration, Warren Harding could always be depended upon to do the things of the heart—the human things—the things which, in the final analysis, spell life in its fullest sense. Whatever you set your hand to, you did cheerfully, calmly and in fullest measure.

Never will your true weight and merit come to the knowledge of the nation except sporadically—but Marion, Ohio—particularly that Marion of 8,000 to 15,000 population—will ever cherish the truest appreciation of you as a man. Your participation in the joy and sadness and progress of your fellows and your town, will ever stand forth as a beacon light in the hearts of your closest friends at home and scattered throughout the nation which you loved.

We know that today the blackest grief obtains in the hearts of those who knew, not Harding the President, but Harding the fellow-citizen; Harding the neighbor; Harding, the friend; and Harding, the "old man," as the boss is ever known in newspaper life.

We cannot escape the feeling that you were gifted with prophetic vision when, in robust health, you mentioned shortly before your inauguration that you felt you would never come out of the presidency alive.

And yet, how bravely you gave yourself to the stupendous tasks involved, knowingly taking up the burden which some divine instinct within you said was to be fatal. How unfalteringly you functioned none but those who know you best, will ever know. And today a veiled

ESCANABA PAYS TRIBUTE TO THE LATE PRESIDENT

Simple But Solemn Services Conducted in Ludington Park.

Life and Works of America's Foremost Citizen Eulogized by Eloquent Speakers This Afternoon.

Memorial services marked by that simplicity which would best have suited the unostentatious nature of President Harding, were conducted in beautiful Ludington Park this afternoon at 3 o'clock; the time at which solemn services for the dead chieftain were conducted in his home town of Marion, Ohio.

Every store, every place of business, every industry ceased activity promptly at noon today. There was a hushed silence over the business section, broken only by the grinding of street car wheels and singing of auto tires over the heated asphalt, as parties of citizens were convened to and near the park to contribute the respect of their presence to the simple ceremony there.

Elks in Charge.

The services were in charge of the Escanaba Lodge of Elks, but all civic and fraternal and religious organizations were invited, and did attend. There was no national, religious or fraternal significance about the ceremony. It was a memorial service for the President of the United States, in which all citizens were requested to join.

Scattered through the crowd were many members of the Legion Post, some in uniform, but all attending as individuals. Boy Scouts were in the gathering, most of them in uniform, having hastened from Garth, where they broke camp this morning.

All city and county offices were closed at noon; flags were continued at half-mast, the post office was closed and several trains in the local yards were stopped for several minutes, in tribute to the memory of him who was so lately hailed as "Mr. President."

Services Are Simple.

The park services were intensely real, but extremely simple. Rev. Raymond Jacques of St. Anne's Catholic church pronounced a brief benediction. The elating quavering, the audience sang into "America," followed by an eloquent tribute to the late president by Judd Yolland. Rev. Fred Daniel then in the most eloquent terms, by masterful oratory and with the utmost reverence paid such a tribute of love and respect and loyalty to the president, that many an eye was dimmed by tears. Hymns were contributed by the Elks Quartette, and Mrs. George P. Casey, sang with peculiar feeling and sympathy, a vocal number.

The meeting closed with the singing of a hymn by the audience and with softened and sorrowing spirits the audience dissolved, leaving a feeling that an atmosphere of great sacredness hovered over the park.

INDUSTRY IN STATE QUIET FOR THE DAY

Many Institutions Honor Dead President by Closing.

DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 10.—All Michigan industry, agriculture and virtually every other activity was suspended for the day or closed during the hours set apart in memory of the former president.

Also countless memorial services were held, priests, ministers and rabbis joining in tributes to the executive. The state was officially represented at the Marion exercises by Governor Groesbeck and a group of other state officials.

Teachers Start to Write Exams Early

100,000 TOURISTS ARE EXPECTED IN UPPER PENINSULA!

Present Rate Indicates That
This Year will be Heaviest in State's History.

If the present rate of tourist travel maintains through August and September, there is every indication that approximately one hundred thousand tourists will have visited the Upper Peninsula of Michigan, by the close of the ensuing season. That is the prediction of G. E. Bishop, secretary-manager of the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau, after a recent trip through the eastern section of Cleveland.

"We have made repeated inquiries from those actually in contact with the tourists to Cleveland this year, and in every case, we have been told that the rate of tourist travel through the various communities of the peninsula this season is from fifty to a hundred per cent greater than that of 1922," declared Mr. Bishop. "The same situation maintains in the correspondence reaching this office, for we are daily receiving additional inquiries for information concerning touring routes, etc., through the Upper Peninsula of Michigan."

"In our daily contact with the tourist, too, we find that the Upper Peninsula of Michigan is coming to be looked upon as one of the most desirable tourist objectives throughout the country. In fact, it seems that the Upper Peninsula of Michigan represents a sort of last stand for the vacationist, for this region, with its lakes and streams, its acres of forest, and its fresh, invigorating breezes, is becoming more and more popular, and we have every reason to believe that this year's traffic will far surpass any previous record."

According to reports received from those in charge of the various camp sites throughout the peninsula, there is also a considerable increase in the population at these places. Many of the tourists in the various camp sites come prepared to stay a week or ten days, at one site, and cases are known where some tourists spend their entire vacation at a favorably located free camp site.

Practically every state in the Union is represented in the foreign licenses which have appeared throughout Cleveland this year. In addition, a number of Canadian cars have made their way over the border into upper Michigan, along the route of the Dixie Highway through the "Soo."

"We believe that the tourist trade has come to be recognized as an established and flourishing industry for the Upper Peninsula of Michigan," declared Mr. Bishop, in commenting upon the increased tourist travel. "And we feel that we cannot do too much at this time to create a favorable impression among the thousands of visitors, so that not only they, but their friends, will be back again during the succeeding years. We are endeavoring, through our sixty or more information bureaus throughout the peninsula, to give every possible service and assistance to the tourist, concerning accommodations, routes, etc. All of the bureaus report a lively trade, and reports thus far received from these institutions are to the effect that the tourist travel this year should approximate from ninety to one hundred thousand."

Detroit Interested in Beautifying the City

DETROIT, Aug. 10.—Official Detroit has an eye to the future in the matter of city beautification and arbitrarily is taking steps that will mean an abundance of shade trees here in the years to come.

In recent years considerable street widening work has been carried on here and thousands of shade trees have been sacrificed in this operation, it being necessary to cut many of the stately maples, elms and other trees that have grown from the time that the white men first came, along what now are the city's highways.

At the behest of the Detroit Board of Commerce, Edward Heckel, commissioner of parks and boulevards, has issued an order requiring that whenever such a tree is cut another must be planted on the property between the sidewalk and the new curb line. The city provides the tree and does the planting, assessing the property owner $10 for each tree planted. The city guarantees growth; however, and if within the course of a few years the tree dies, another is planted with out cost.

According to city officials each tree on a piece of city property here increases the value of the property at least $100, thereby giving the property owner a profit of at least 900 per cent on the investment he is compelled to make.

The city also is considering the advisability of planting young trees on property in newly developed subdivisions and assessing the $10 fee against the owners for each tree provided. In a few instances such a course already has been followed and it is stated reliably that the practice is likely to become general.

In Holland it is the custom for the church doors to be locked during the sermon, so that nobody can interrupt by going in or out.

Legislators Invited to National Guard Camp

GRAYLING, Mich., Aug. 10.—Members of the Michigan legislature will be welcome at the National Guard camp here, Colonel John S. Berney, adjutant general, announces. The guard leader would like to see every legislator at the camp some time during the period of study the state troops now are indulging in.

General Pershing recently asked all the members of congress to as far as possible visit the guard encampments in their states to see what was being done, Colonel Berney said. "It is just as important that the state legislature know of the work being done within our own state in the training of the citizen soldiers." Members of the legislature will be welcomed at all times, especially between August 8 and 18, when all the troops of the state are in camp.

REPORT ON STATE POLICE IS 'RUMOR'

Little Weight Is Given to Supposed Ouster Movement.

State officials in close touch with the administration are not alarmed at the recent rumor that a movement is on foot to abolish the state police or to limit the activities of that organization to almost nothing.

It is pointed out that in 1919 a determined effort to abolish the police organization was made in the legislature and it wound up in a woeful failure. Again in 1921 a bill to that effect was offered and received no respectable support. Again in the 1922 regular session a similar bill or two were introduced. They were just introduced and that was all. They never even got out of committee.

In view of the showing the state department of public safety has made since it began to function in 1921, it is generally conceded that this new state department is the most constructive thing to the credit of the check administration.

Cost is Reduced.

The public safety department, including the state police, costs a little more than $360,000 for the last fiscal year which ended June 30. For the year which ended June 30, 1920, the last under the old system of separate state departments, now consolidated into the one, they all collective cost more than $550,000.

The public safety department took over the oil inspection work, which used to cost $50,000 a year; also the minor enforcement work formerly done by the old food and drug department, which cost at least $150,000 a year; the state fire marshal's department, which includes theater and public building inspections and a vast amount of other state-wide inspection work. The state boxing commission and other minor activities in addition to the large amount of law enforcement work by the state police.

GO NO FARTHER

The Evidence Is at Your Door.

Escanaba proof is what you want and the statement of this highly respected resident will banish all doubt:

Henry Zegers, 625 S. 16th St., Escanaba, says: "Generally in the morning, I had quite a time of it with my back. There was a pain across my kidneys which seemed to hold me down when I attempted to get up from bed. I was bothered a great deal when I bent because sharp catches took me in my back. It was hard to do my work and lack of sleep had me so tired and weak I didn't feel like myself at all. My kidneys were in a bad shape and I had to get up two or three times during the night to pass the secretions which burned in passage and contained sediment. I heard Doctor Kidney Pills recommended and bought a supply at the West End Drug Store. They fixed me up in good shape."

8 Percent of Aggies Once Club Workers

EAST LANSING, Aug. 10.—Eight per cent of the students of the Michigan Agricultural College at some former time have been members of a boy or girl's club in some of the many activities in which the young of the day have become interested in the past decade. This fact was disclosed by R. A. Turner, state leader of boys' and girls' club work, when he sent a questionnaire to learn if the work they did in clubs interested the young stars in gaining a better education in the things they studied in past as members of the clubs.

Take all questionnaires, Mr. Turner failed to receive back all he sent, 612 of 1,255 being answered. While the result was indefinite for the general body, Mr. Turner expects to try again, sending a list of questions to the older group of boys and girls who were members of the clubs this year.

According to city officials each tree on a piece of city property here increases the value of the property at least $100, thereby giving the property owner a profit of at least 900 per cent on the investment he is compelled to make.

The city also is considering the advisability of planting young trees on property in newly developed subdivisions and assessing the $10 fee against the owners for each tree provided. ## POTATO TOUR TO BE FEATURE OF STATE COLLEGE

Would Encourage Potato Raising as Profitable Cash Crop in Upper Peninsula.

A "potato tour," arranged under the auspices of the Michigan Agricultural College, and designed to encourage potato raising as a profitable cash crop for the Upper Peninsula of Michigan, is now in progress in Dickinson, Menominee and Delta counties.

J. W. Weston, potato expert of the Michigan Agricultural College, is directly in charge of the tour, and about twenty automobiles containing farmers and others interested in the work are included in the tour.

Professor Dennis of the dairy department of the Michigan Agricultural College, will also emphasize the value of better dairying as a profitable branch of agriculture in the Upper Peninsula of Michigan. Lectures on both phases of agriculture will be given by the extension workers at each place visited along the line. G. E. Bishop, secretary-manager of the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau, will accompany the tour, and will talk at the noon-day meetings, which are a feature of each day's program.

The tour started from Iron Mountain Tuesday of this week and will terminate in Delta county. Most of the cars included in the tour will then continue north to Chatham, arriving there in time for the last day's program of demonstrations.

Clark L. Brody, secretary manager of the Michigan State Farm Bureau, will also speak at the noonday meetings, and will be present at the farmers' round-up at Chatham.

Among the communities to be visited by the tour are Iron Mountain, Niagara, Norway, Vulcan, Lorain, Waukesha, Foster City, Felch, Metropolitan, Randville and Sagola.

LEGION TO FORM "LOOKOUT" BODY TO AID KIDDIES

Pride Often Results in Concealing True Conditions.

The American Legion, in its investigation of needy families of deceased and disabled service men, has discovered that the most deserving cases are often those that are the less known. Those whose brave spirits are concealing their poverty, while struggling desperately against heavy odds to keep the wolf from the door.

It often happens that when a Legion Post or Auxiliary Unit has reason to believe that a poor woman is finding it very difficult to keep her little family together, and to provide for them food and clothing, that the brave woman meets all inquiries with a smile, assuring the visitors that she is getting on very nicely. And it is only by patience and tact that the tragic story is finally disclosed.

The present plan of procedure is for every Legion Post and Auxiliary Unit to constitute themselves "lookout committees" to report at once to the American Legion Children's Bazaar any cases where there is reason to believe that help is needed. In this way assistance is being rendered to those worthy cases who are too proud or courageous to cry for charity or to seek outside assistance. Thus the great work of relief inaugurated and carried on by the American Legion and the Legion's Auxiliary, is being gradually extended and the determination is strong to push this work until every needy case is relieved.

Director, Boys' Work.

Widow Is Blamed For Love Wreck

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 10.—In a supplemental divorce complaint filed by Mrs. Georgia Bayne Jost, wife of Frank Haliburton Jost, president and general manager of the Pacific Coast Syrup company, blames the breaking up of her home upon Mrs. Myrtle H. Marriott, widow of an Oakland physician.

Mrs. Jost says her husband became infatuated with Mrs. Marriott ten years ago and that he has been paying all of Mrs. Marriott's living expenses since 1916. She avers that they have made trips together and that on one occasion they registered at a hotel as man and wife.

She further declares that her husband has been introduced on numerous occasions to friends of Mrs. Marriott as a widower who was the sole support of a feeble old father and who therefore could not get married, but that he would make Mrs. Marriott his wife as soon as he had freed himself from his family obligation.

Mrs. Marriott's name was first brought into the Jost divorce case when counsel for Mrs. Jost secured an order recently to have her deposition taken jointly with that of Jost. At that time both denied that they were more than platonic friends.

MUST USE OR LOSE.

William M. Hughes, former premier of Australia, went down to hard pan when he expressed a belief that some day the surplus population of Japan may knock at the door of his country seeking relief from the "starvation that has compelled them to flee from their own island empire" and asserted that if this does happen, "Australia can hardly bid them be gone if she lacks people."

Indeed if the day Mr. Hughes conjures up arrives, it will be not only unfair, it will be impractical as a permanent policy for Australia to do the dog-in-the-manger act. The time when any people or government could pre-empt a large tract of desirable country and keep it indefinitely vacant is gone. The population of the globe is increasing too rapidly and world consciousness is growing too fast to permit anything of that sort.

For a time a British navy or perhaps even an Australian navy might be competent to hold back an influx from Asia, but, in the end, the only way to maintain a white Australia will be to pre-empt it physically as well as politically, as Mr. Hughes advises when he says it behoves his country to redouble her efforts to fill vacant spaces with men and women of the white race.

There is, however, serious doubt whether that can be done. So far, the southern reaches of the continent alone have proven attractive to Caucasians, who huddle over there only sparsely. The remainder, and by far the greater part of Australia is practically vacant and much of it, lying close to the equator, is plainly more hospitable to people of dark hue than it is to people of light pigmentation. It is a question whether in dreaming of a white Australia the people who now compose the commonwealth are not dreaming of something against which nature itself has erected a barrier.

A GOOD MARK FOR NEW YORK CITY.

New York City is such a sinkhole of municipal extravagance and corruption in the general mind that its showing in the census bureau's series of statistics on governmental finances is almost startling, for New York makes an unexpectedly favorable report in this category.

Its cost of government is, of course, not low, that being altogether impossible in these days of free spending by people individually and in mass, but relatively the nation's metropolis ranks well down in the list of profligates. Almost a dozen other cities that have reported thus far have shown a higher total in the per capita cost of government item, which serves as a basis for comparing large and small municipalities, while if the common supposition were correct New York would be in a class by itself. Further, New York keeps within its income, the report shows, and unhappily as much cannot be said for the very large majority of American communities nowadays, for nearly all of them are obliged to report that they have spent more than they have received.

But the best of all that New York reports in its return to the census bureau is that it is actually reducing its indebtedness, the per capita debt being more than $4 lower in 1922 than it was in 1918. This is a very rare exhibit by American cities, it must be admitted. In the 80 or 90 that have thus far reported to the Washington government only half a dozen have been able to take credit for a lower indebtedness than they had five years ago.

THE ENCOURAGING SIDE OF IT.

Grain dealers who have carefully examined the wheat situation the world over now report that they fail to find reason for the pessimistic views recently broadcasted as to heavy supplies and ruinous prices. They find supplies and prospects not far from normal and see no reason for depression to any important extent below the present level of values. The market is just now probably at its most bearish period, with heavy receipts, an increasing visible supply and foreigners waiting for these conditions to put prices to a more favorable level before purchasing.

Values have not suffered in the last ten days although much carefully prepared propaganda has gone abroad to help weaken confidence in holders of wheat. The market has withstood the first wave of winter wheat selling very nicely. Hedging sales have been absorbed and there is no appearance of distress over burdensome supplies. Millers are taking the new winter wheat freely and are greatly pleased with its quality. The most discouraging feature continues to be lack of foreign buying, but there is no reason why Europe should not come in soon as a purchaser and absorb a great deal of the surplus.

DOLES AND SPUDS.

In England there are hundreds of thousands of people out of employment and the government is paying "doles" to the idle, yet thousands of tons of potatoes are rotting because Englishmen are buying potatoes produced in continental Europe, where they can be bought cheaply because of the abnormal rate of exchange. What a commentary upon the economic policies of Great Britain. They send money out of the country to buy foreign potatoes while their own farmers are going bankrupt, and yet they pay weekly doles to idlers who could as well be employed planting, cultivating and digging potatoes. We can go to England to learn how not to do some things.

A Boston preacher who made an investigating tour along the bathing beaches near that city told his congregation that it was like a trip through hell. If that is literally true a whole lot of sinners will never mend their ways.

Prohibition agents in Georgia have been instructed not to fire on automobiles except in defense of their lives. A good many ordinary pedestrians would be content to abide by that rule.

The gross profit on the first voyage of the Leviathan is reported to have been $379,000. That trial trip evidently is not counted as a voyage.

MAKE FIRST DRAFT OF PORT MEASURE

Detroit Attorneys Leading the Campaign for Bill's Approval.

DETROIT, Aug. 10.—The first draft of a bill to be submitted to the state legislature that would set up the machinery for creation of port districts in various parts of the state has been finished by a committee of prominent Detroit attorneys headed by Merlin Wiley, former attorney general of Michigan.

If a special session of the legislature is called by the governor this year, and if the governor includes the port district subject in his call, the bill, after being revised slightly, will be presented to the legislators, it is announced by Mr. Wiley.

Under the provisions of this proposed measure, cities, counties or districts would be able to raise funds within their own limits for the betterment of wharfing and harbor facilities. It is said by local shipping men that Michigan is far behind other lake states in the matter of harbor development and the proposed bill, according to its authors, is designed to remedy this condition.

General in Scope.

The bill is general in scope and is applicable to the entire state. It provides that supervisors of any county may submit to the voters at a regular or special election the question of forming a port district. To bring about action on the part of the supervisors it is necessary to obtain the signatures of ten per cent of the number of qualified voters in the district who voted for governor at the preceding general election.

When the question of forming a port district comes to a vote, under the terms of Mr. Wiley's bill, it is necessary that a majority vote in favor of it to make it a law. In this way, Mr. Wiley points out, it is up to the voters in each unit of the state to decide for themselves if they desire harbor betterments. The entire cost of improvements will be met by taxpayers within the district where the betterments are made. The voters at the statewide spring election made it possible for the legislature to pass an enabling act when they adopted the so-called port district amendment to the state constitution.

Will Start Work.

If the legislature sets up the necessary machinery this year it is probable that actual work of improving harbors will be started in several Michigan cities, including Detroit, before the end of 1924, according to best information here. Ninety days after the supervisors act is the time required to bring the question to a vote in any district. In the case of Detroit it would be possible to submit the question to Detroit voters at least by the spring of 1924, and in the event of a favorable vote the work of improving the harbor here could be started immediately. This, of course, is contingent upon a special session of the legislature. If the legislature does not meet it will be necessary to let the question hang fire until the regular session of the body in 1925.

Shipping men here and others interested in the development of Michigan as a maritime state are not concealing the fact that they are hopeful the way may be paved for the work of starting harbor development as soon as possible.

MAY REQUEST
TROOPS DOWN IN ILLINOIS

Strike at Hillsboro Results in Serious Shootings Affrays.

(By the Associated Press)

HILLSBORO, Ill., Aug. 10.—One man was shot and seriously wounded and three deputy sheriffs were badly beaten in a fight between deputy sheriffs and strikers of the American Zinc Company near the entrance to the plant early this morning. Officials announced they would request the governor to send troops if the situation did not improve by this evening.

M. A. C. Eleven to Play Most Games On Hostile Fields

EAST LANSING, Aug. 10.—Traveling will be the avocation of the Michigan Agricultural College football team during the 1923 season. Five different times in eight weeks the squad taking instructions from Coach Ralph Young will enjoy journeys to foreign fields to meet some well known teams. Three times only will they remain at home to be hosts to squads from other schools.

The first trip will take the team to Stagg Field, Chicago, where the Aggies will be called upon to stop the rushes of John Thomas and one or two other fullbacks who alternate in the Maroon back field. The second game, to be played here, also is against an Illinois entry, Lake Forest being the opponent.

Wisconsin is third on the list, the game being played at Madison. The two teams met last in 1920, the Aggies holding up well for two quarters, then yielding before the assaults of Rollie Williams, who at that time was beginning to show the flashes of speed and form that have carried him to stardom.

Albion at East Lansing, the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor and Ohio Wesleyan at Delaware are the next games on the schedule. Creighton University of Omaha follows on November 10 and the game probably will serve as the attraction at formal dedication of the new stadium and the annual home coming celebration. The final game will be with the University of Detroit at Detroit.

Present plans call for playing all the games in the new stadium. The Aggie schedule for the year follows: Sept. 29, Chicago; Oct. 6, Lake Forest at East Lansing; Oct. 13, Wisconsin at Madison; Oct. 20, Algonquin at East Lansing; Oct. 27, Michigan at Ann Arbor; Nov. 3, Ohio Wesleyan at Delaware; Ohio; Nov. 10, Creighton at East Lansing; Nov. 17, U. of D., at Detroit.

HOW HISTORY REPEATS ITSELF

The burial of the late President Harding is the first presidential funeral since the death of President McKinley, 23 years ago. The above photo shows the body of President McKinley lying in state in the City Hall at Canton, Ohio.

WHERE THE LATE PRESIDENT WILL REST

Harding's Body Rested on Bier Used for Lincoln

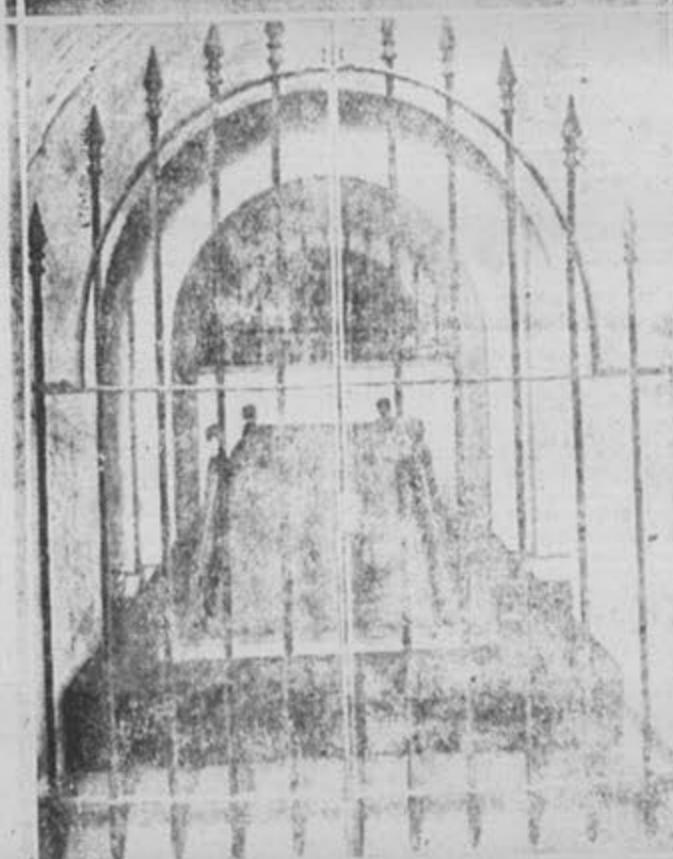

Photo shows the bier, in a crypt of the Capitol which was originally built as a tomb for George Washington, which was set up in the Rotunda of the Capitol to hold the body of Warren G. Harding. Beginning with President Lincoln, it has held the bodies of three Presidents of the United States who have died in office.

Landis and C. B. Warren Accept Ironwood's Invitation.

IRONWOOD, Mich., Aug. 16.—With suggestion from the state department of the American Legion to make hotel reservations for a number of prominent men, it became definitely known that Judge Kenneth M. Landis, Chas. H. Warren of Detroit, former ambassador to Japan, and E. J. Evers, national head of the "10 and X" organization, will be guests of Michigan at the state convention here August 27 and 28.

The state department and Ironwood post are awaiting definite word from Theodore Roosevelt, assistant secretary of the Navy, Eddie Rickenbacker, ace of the Army fliers during the World war, and General John J. 'HARDING TRAIL'
URGED AS NAME FOR AUTO ROUTE

Aurora Club to Propose Cannonball Highway as Memorial.

AURORA, Ill., Aug. 16.—A suggestion, made by James Lino, secretary of the Aurora Automobile Club, that the name of the Cannonball-trail, connecting Chicago and Los Angeles, be changed to Harding highway, has met with favor in this section of Illinois.

Behind the suggestion was the thought that the late president was nominated for the presidency at a republican convention in Chicago, the eastern terminus of the trail, and that he died in California, where the highway ends.

George Faxon of Plano, Ill., president of the Cannonball Trail Association, will be asked to have the association take action at its next meeting.

MOTOR BUS SPEED
TO BE REGULATED

Rate Will Be Less Than 35 Miles an Hour, Belief.

Excessive speed by passenger motor busses is going to result very soon in an order by the Michigan Public Utilities Commission, which will fix the maximum rate of speed for these common carriers below the present legal limit of thirty-five miles an hour, according to a statement from the commission's office in Lansing.

"Complaints of reckless driving and excessive speed are simply pouring into this office," said the statement. "Drivers of motor busses must obey the law and stay within the thirty-five mile limit or vigorous prosecutions will follow. Eventually an order will be promulgated within the authority of the commission as to regulations for common carriers which will reduce the maximum speed considerably under thirty-five miles an hour."

State police are engaged in making investigations of complaints as to reckless driving and speeding and in some of these instances action will be taken by the commission as soon as the reports are made. In a few instances permits are now being held up for motor bus operators pending the final outcome of such investigations on complaints filed against the applicants for reckless operation on the highways.

Another regulation, which is now being prepared and will be issued soon, will arbitrarily prohibit more than one passenger or person riding in the same seat with the driver. Some of the complaints set forth that the safe operation of the motor bus has been endangered by the crowded condition under which the driver was operating the car.

NEW HOME AND IS VERY MUCH PLEASED

Attendance Breaks Records and Indicates Deeper Interest in Legion Affairs in Future.

A record attendance turned out last night when Cloverland Post of the American Legion held its first meeting in its new quarters at 605 Ludington street.

The new club rooms, with gymnasium apparatus, and the more commodious accommodations met with the full approval of those who had inspected them for the first time and it is indicated that a greater interest will be manifested in Legion affairs than heretofore.

Answers to questionnaires recently sent out were read, and as they were numerous and various, all could not be read. However, they are to be bound and placed in the club rooms for the perusal of interested members.

The financial report shows the post to be in good conditions and another addition was made to the building fund, which now totals $1,500.

The hat was passed for contributions to the Legion Children's Benefit at Otter Lake, and $25 was secured. This was added to the $65.25 already contributed and nearly finishes up the local post's quota. A dance will be given shortly to complete that fund.

Commander J. J. Welch was authorized to name a committee of three to constitute a house committee and prepare rules and regulations governing the new club rooms. Nick Pavlow was named as delegate to the convention of Upper Peninsula posts to be held in Ironwood at the same time as the state convention, late this month.

Coffee and "hot dogs" furnished the luncheon feature and the meeting was regarded as one of the most successful and enthusiastic held in months.

SOCIETY

Yeomen Dance.

The Delta Homestead No. 128, American Yeomen held a most successful dancing party at Terrace Inn, Wednesday evening when a large number of people were entertained by the members of the order.

Van's Peppy Syncopators furnished the musical program for the occasion and the number of encores given each number was sufficient proof that the music was just what the dancers wanted.

The weather was ideal and the members of the committee received many compliments on the manner in which they entertained their guests.

ENSIGN STORE

ROBBED OF A

SMALL AMOUNT

Matson Brothers' store at Ensign was robbed Wednesday night of watches, small jewelry and a revolver of the value of about $40. Entrance was gained through a side window and it seems evidence shows, the officials say, that the robbers wore gloves in order to leave no finger prints. Suspicion rests on talent native to that section, as it appeared the thieves were familiar with all of the surroundings.

Morwenstow, a village of Cornwall, Indies, is a rectory, every chimney of which is an exact replica of the steeple of one of the favorite churches and cathedrals of the person who built it.

It. Here 12 barrels of mash were found and about five gallons of moonshine. This still was found about 7 o'clock Thursday night.

Watch All Night.

The party was split and the watch was kept up until about 2 o'clock this afternoon, without anyone appearing, when the officers decided that it was useless to watch longer. They took samples of the mash and the moonshine, and destroyed the stills, mash, all equipment and a number of bags of corn flakes which apparently were meant to be used in the making of more mash.

The first still measured about six feet long, three and one-half feet high and was about four feet wide. It had a capacity of approximately 125 gallons of mash and was nearly full when the officers arrived.

The second still was about three feet long, three and one-half feet high and wide. It was estimated that with the three leads from this one, the product would be between 15 and 20 gallons a day. The second and smaller still was set upon iron work and had a long iron box stove under it, which was bringing right merrily when the officers suddenly and unexpectedly stumbled upon it.

In all, about 95 gallons of moonshine and about 1600 gallons of mash were destroyed by the officers.

It is considered the biggest haul ever made in Delta county and is believed to be one of the largest stills ever found in the state. Whether arrests will follow, naturally hinges upon a number of things, principal among which, is the fixing of life boats from the craft

DRY LAW POSSIBLE ISSUE IN MICHIGAN

Statement of Couzens Brings Question to Fore in State.

DETROIT, Aug. 10.—Only the decision of Senator James Couzens will determine next year whether the main issue will be left to the voters of Michigan in 1924, according to opinion among political leaders and local dry advocates. Action of the latter already is in the field.

Second Couzens declared his endorsement of the Volstead act, but for education of the public in view of its history. He holds no brief, however, for it, as it is legitimate opinion is not necessarily in error.

The declaration resulted in a conference between the senator and his chief political ally, Andrel Schanck, the committee's chairman, on the question of what to do if either to assert or sustain the national law, which is considered dry, or, by having its own candidate enter the race as indicated in present articles.

dry leaders claim that prohibition cannot be stronger in Michigan in 1924 than it was in 1918, when an amendment to the state constitution placing a dry law in the column for adoption was voted down 253,478 to 284,475. We present counter with the assertion that the rapid growth of industrial communities has forced up an immense volume of votes favoring repeal of the dry laws. The drys claim that the farmer communities and the labor comittee, previously dry, will stay dry. The wets reply that a few progs in Detroit or the other industrial centers will poll more votes than can be obtained in the state's 83 non-counties, and that if Senator Couzens decides to run he will sweep Detroit and other manufacturing communities.

Loren D. Dickinson, former lieutenant-governor and an active dry worker, issued a warning to his forces that this issue must be met in the primary.

(By the Associated Press)
GRAND RAPIDS, Aug. 10.—Grief of his mother, Mrs. Caroline Gemo, who last week attempted suicide when her son, William, 13 years old, was sentenced by Superior Judge L. D. Verdin to the state industrial school, won liberty for the boy when the court set aside the former sentence and placed young Gemo on a year's probation. The boy admitted theft of $20 from a grocery store.
