JAPAN THREATENED WITH UPRISING NOW

LAST MINUTE MESSAGE SAYS KOREANS HAVE STARTED FIGHT

Fighting Goes On in the Streets of Capital City.
Gradually Loss of Life Among Foreigners Being Checked Up; Many Found to Be Living.

Moscow, Russia, Sept. 6.—Telegrams today from Harbin and Peking say that the Korean revolutionary element of Japan are taking advantage of the catastrophe and have started armed uprising in Tokio, where there is fighting in the streets.

IWAKI, Japan, Sept. 6.—(Radio Corporation to America to A. P.)—Colonel Samuel Reber, of New York, and William C. Crane, Jr., language officers of the American embassy, and Mrs. Crane—all previously reported missing in Tokyo—were reported safe, it was learned today.

Condition Unspeakable.
A courier returning today from Tokio described the disaster there as "unspeakable." The city, he said, was three-quarters burned. On ponds in the parks, he found charred unidentified bodies floating about like fishes. In a certain area all buildings have been reduced to ashes except iron frames and brick pillars. The charred frames of street cars and automobiles clog the streets and sufferers are gathered in public squares and parks, lying under sheets and upon mats, living on the scanty food supplied by the authorities.

OSAKA, Sept. 6.—All money in the bank of Japan vaults was saved from destruction by the fire which followed the earthquake and tidal wave, it became known here today.

Seven Million Are Hit.
A recapitulation of the earthquake and fire today showed Yokohama as the center of an area extending north and south about 100 miles and east and west 140 miles. This area included 33 counties and five large cities inhabited by 7,000,000 people who were caught in the disaster.

It is estimated that about 70 per cent of the cities and towns in the stricken area were destroyed. Yokohama according to reports received here was totally destroyed and only about one-fourth of Tokio remains.

Prince, Princess Dead.
PEKING, Sept. 6.—Prince Hirohito, of the House of Kwacho, was killed in a train tunnel during a cave-in caused by the earthquake, according to dispatches received here. It is also reported that Dowager Princess Kaya was burned to death and that Princess Horokok Kanin was crushed to death in the family villa. It was stated that Prince Kashi is missing.

Consul Reports Deaths.
WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—Consul Dickover, at Kobe, reported to the state department, in a message received here last night, that Bess and Richard Mendell, of Cleveland, and Elizabeth Dodson, of Kingston, North Carolina, were among the Americans killed in the Japanese earthquake.

Hospital Patients Burn.
SHANGHAI, Sept. 6.—An eastern news agency reports that 800 patients in the Imperial University hospital at Tokio were burned to death and that the Imperial palace had been opened to refugees.

The report says that some large buildings escaped damage, including the department of justice, navy, supreme court and house of representative buildings and the Tokio prefectural office and Imperial hotel.

Wells Young Man Loses Finger in Sausage Machine

Orville King, of Wells, lost a portion of the middle finger of his left hand yesterday afternoon while at work in the butcher shop of the L. Stephenson company. He was working about the machine used in making sausage when the accident happened. He was brought to Escanaba where surgical attention was given him.

MUSCLE SHOALS AGAIN SOUGHT BY HENRY FORD

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—Negotiations were resumed today between the government and Henry Ford on the latter's offer to acquire the Muscle Shoals power plant and nitrate property. Accompanied by his son, Edsel Ford, and one of his engineers, Mr. Ford came to Washington to confer with Secretary Weeks and later with President Coolidge regarding the project.

WORK ON 10TH STREET TO BE MORE DELAYED

Contractor Claims He Cannot Complete Job On Time.

Offering as an excuse that machinery he had ordered could not be delivered in time to complete his contract for paving Tenth street, John Rolse last night advised the council to give the contract to some other street building firm or else come back at the bonding company. He said, however, that he would not like to see the bonding company become the losers.

He said the contract could be sublet to the Bridges Asphalt Company who were ready to start right in and rush things to completion. After a long discussion of the matter it was decided to ascertain if the bonding company now securing the city in the Rolse contract would be willing to assume the same responsibility with the other firm and if they are willing to stand behind the other concern the work will be started at once.

The council did not feel that they wanted to report to the bonding company that Mr. Rolse had not fulfilled his contract, but it was most important that the city did not relinquish any rights in the matter. Until the bonding company is heard from nothing definite can be decided.

GIRL SCOUTS ARE ARRANGING PLANS FOR FALL WORK

The Delta County Girl Scout committee met at the home of the chairman, Mrs. J. P. Bushong of Gladstone, Wednesday afternoon. The organization of the committee was completed by the adoption of a constitution.

A schedule of work was planned for the coming year, and the director's time apportioned among the several towns.

Camp business was closed and each town paid their first quarterly installment into the county treasury.

Mrs. Bushong reported a favorable interview with Miss Loretta O'Connor of Minneapolis, who will come to assume charge of the Girl Scout work in Delta county the first of October.

A rally day for all the Girl Scouts in the county was planned for Saturday, Oct. 6th.

With the meeting of the County Girl Scout troop leaders Monday evening, September 10th, in the library at Escanaba, the Girl Scout program will be well started on its third year of work.

The first project to be undertaken by the girls this fall will be their work at the County Fair grounds, caring for babies and little children.

Upham, Back From Europe, Says United States Could Settle Reparation Question

CHICAGO, Ill., Sept. 6.—American intervention with a firm hand to break the deadlock between France and Germany on reparations was advocated by Fred W. Upham, treasurer of the Republican National Committee, today.

He expressed the belief that congress should give President Coolidge authority to appoint a commission of American business men to determine quickly what reparation the Germans should pay.

"It is largely a business proposition," he said, "and could be settled by business men."

Mr. Upham, before going to Europe, where he spent three months, was asked by President Harding to give him his impressions upon the European situation. The president died before he returned. Mr. Upham will go to Washington next week and expects to see President Coolidge at that time.

CROSS COUNTRY TOURING IS FOR THOSE WHO CAN MEET ALL CONTINGENCIES SAYS NEWELL

Adaptability is the first requisite of the trans-continental auto tourist. He must be a mechanic, a bridge-builder, a carpenter, an alpinist, a hunter and fisher, and if need be a doctor and a voracious. He must be prepared to eat anything or nothing at all; to sleep in sand, dust, mud, shalo, or alkali. He must accept precisely the worst kind of weather for what traversing. He must take hardship over particular country he may be as routine and expect occasional danger. But, when everything is considered, his life is the healthiest and probably the happiest available in the desiccated year of 1923.

Qualified to Talk.
The foregoing represents the opinion of J. T. Newell, H. F. Wilson and H. T. Williamson, who spent yesterday in Escanaba as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard DeVoto, at the home of Mrs. DeVoto's parents, on the last leg of an automobile tour which has taken them nearly forty thousand miles in the last five months.

In the course of this trip, which is the third of the three young men have undertaken in the last eighteen months, they have visited all parts of the country except the Atlantic states. Leaving Chicago early in April they went to Mississippi and then there proceeded west and south going to northern Mexico and California before branching off the standard routes to explore little-known trails in the Rocky Mountains and American desert.

In five months they have had more than a fair share of adventures. Rattlesnake in Car.
"Perhaps the quickest acting we did," said Mr. Newell, "was in Wyoming, in the famous Green River cut, when our car ran over a diamond back rattlesnake and threw him against the side of the cut, whence he rebounded into the front seat. We have never accurately estimated the time it took us to unload. Mr. Williamson shot the diamond back's head off from the vantage of six inches of Lincoln Highway dust. Unfortunately, he also shot the ignition switch off, and it took us three hours, in the Wyoming sun, to make repairs."

Helps Farmer.
In Jackson's Hole, once the refuge of western train robbers but now a rich and peaceful ranching country, the party helped to save one rancher's harvest, when the thresher broke down, by jacking up the rear wheels of the Stutz touring car and running a belt from the wheels to the thresher, in southwestern Idaho, they joined a sheriff's posse and were instrumental in recapturing two convicts who had escaped from the state penitentiary after cutting the throat of a guard. In Utah they were once called upon in California helped to dig graves for a witness a marriage ceremony, and the victims of an influenza epidemic in a remote valley.

Pests—Two Kinds.
"Pests," Mr. Newell continued, "are of two kinds—insect and human. Hypo, sulphur and citronella will generally take care of the insect variety. (Continued on Page Six)

GREEK FLEET RETIRES FROM AEGEAN SEAS

Ordered into Gulf of Volo to Avoid Any Trouble.

Italians Are Reported to Have Occupied More Greek Islands; Greeks Capture Assassins.

(By the Associated Press)
ATHENS, Greece, Sept. 6.—The Greek fleet has received orders to retire to the Gulf of Volo, to avoid contact with the Italian fleet, it is learned on good authority today.

The Gulf of Volo, an arm of the Aegean Sea, is on the eastern side of the Greek peninsula and 50 miles north of Athens.

Occupy Islands.
LONDON, Sept. 6.—A Central News dispatch from Rome says that reports are current there that Italian forces have occupied the islands of Myra, Myra and Mathraki, northwest of Corfu.

Greeks Get Busy.
MILAN, Italy, Sept. 6.—The Popolo Italia, organ of Premier Mussolini, has received a dispatch from Trieste saying that telegrams from various sources confirm the news that the Greek government is on the track of the assassins of the Italian mission.

Many suspects have been arrested at Janini and also along the Greco-Albanian frontier and among them are two of the assassins. The authorities are hunting the others and hope shortly to arrest them.

OPERATORS AND MINERS DO NOT ADVANCE TODAY

Morning Meeting Is Complete Failure, Is Said; Later Meeting Was Called for Afternoon.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Sept. 6.—Anthracite mine operators and officials of the miners' union today resumed their conferences with Governor Pinchot in a discussion of possible terms of settlement of the differences which caused the suspension of operations in the hard coal fields on September 1. The meeting adjourned at 12:50 o'clock and until 2:30 this afternoon. Leaders on both sides reported that the original situation has changed but little.

There were many objections raised by the members of the council when it was brought out by Comptroller Rose that milk tests had not been made in the city for some time and that furthermore nothing was seemingly being done to start these tests.

Be Liberal With Poor.
Councilman Hainman says the city is mighty tight with the poor and declared he for one, believed the poor of this city ought to be taken care of in a manner befitting the size of the town. He said that too much red tape surrounded the poor department and that many poor people, people badly in need of food, would go without rather than be subjected to the humiliation of passing through the ordeal of trying to get city aid. He based his argument on the fact that the poor bills for the month of August only amounted to $549.31.

Other Reports.
Reports of the two police justices were received, showing that Judge C. B. McEwen had handled 14 cases and collected $188 in fines and fees and that Judge Emil Glaser had handled 20 cases, collecting $718 during the month of August. The fire department showed eight calls answered and $650 worth of damage done by fires in the month.

Manager Harris reported that budget control figures showed that the city was well within the amount allotted for expenditures thus far in the year, a few accounts being overdrawn, but the majority showing healthy balances.

Miss Della Angers of Port Huron has arrived in Escanaba and will teach in the local commercial college this coming year.

Millions Needed in Prohibition Law Enforcement

(By the Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—Appropriation of ten million dollars for federal work in enforcing prohibition next year, an increase of one million dollars over last year, was requested at the department bureau by Prohibition Commissioner Haynes.

An increase of $2,000,000 was asked additional for enforcing the narcotics laws. Both requests are now before the budget office.

MILWAUKEE ELKS VISIT ESCANABA LAST EVENING

Chauncey Yockey Gets Royal Welcome in His Home City.

Large Crowd Was Out to Hear Band and Listen to Eloquent Speakers.

The night of Wednesday, Sept. 5, 1923, will go down in the history of the local lodge of Elks as one of the happiest and most enjoyable occasions and will for many a day occupy a prominent place in the memories of the members, as they recall the many happy incidents of the evening and the rare enjoyment which the visit of the Milwaukee lodge of Elks brought into the lives not only of members of the Elks lodge but to the thousands of citizens of Escanaba who were the fortunate participants in the exercises of welcoming back to his home city, the scenes of his boyhood days and innumerable everlasting friendships, Chauncey Yockey, Exalted Ruler of the Milwaukee lodge of Elks, and also the 271 members of the Milwaukee lodge and their wives and daughters.

The excursion boat carrying the party was scheduled to arrive at 6 o'clock and at that hour large crowds of people had gathered on Ludington street to await its arrival. The word was then passed about that the boat had been delayed in getting away from Marquette and would not reach Escanaba before 9 o'clock. The crowd grew larger as the stated hour of the arrival of the boat drew near and it is estimated that over 5,000 people were gathered along Ludington street and at the dock when the party arrived. It was a long wait in the chill night air, but the post-natural crowd was entertained by the "Rube" band, composed of former members of the Escanaba band, with musical selections as well as other features of entertainment.

A mighty cheer went up from the crowd as the lights on the palatial steamer Missouri were seen in the distance entering the bay.

The proper landing having been made the original program outlined was started, despite the fact that it was more than three hours after the scheduled time.

Parade Is Formed.
Headed by the Milwaukee band, which was followed by the local organization of "Rubes," approximately 4,000 people lined up on foot and in cars for the march up Ludington to Fourteenth street, thence to Ludington Park, where the hands consolidated and rendered a number of selections. All along the line of march Escanaba's favorite son of the evening was obliged to respond to the friendly greeting "Hello, Chauncey!" and on numerous occasions more insistent ones ventured out into the line of march and indulged in a hearty handshake and most cordial greeting with the friend of boyhood days.

J. E. Byrne, a past Exalted Ruler of the local lodge, extended a most cordial, eloquent and hearty welcome to the visitors and to Chauncey Yockey, the Escanaba boy, who had headed such a distinguished and representative crowd of Milwaukee citizens of this visit to his home town. Due to the lateness of the hour Mr. Byrne curtailed his remarks considerably, but predicted Mr. Yockey's election as Grand Exalted Ruler of the Elks of the nation.

Recalls Boyhood.
Mr. Yockey was greeted most heartily as he arose a host which seemed to vibrate with his sentiment, as indicated by the cheering.

EXPECT MONEY WILL BE SENT IN THIS WEEK

Directors Feel that This Would Be Fairest Way.

Sum Needed for Japanese Relief From Delta County Is Too Small to Require Drive.

"Escanaba will surely do her share to ease the suffering of her sister nation, Japan, in her great hour of need," said Mayor Judson at a meeting of the board of directors of the Escanaba Chapter of the American Red Cross, held at noon today.

After discussing ways and means of raising Delta county's share of $12,500 for stricken Japan, a resolution was offered by Dr. C. M. Cuthbert and seconded by W. R. Smith that a committee consult Chairman C. W. Kates of the Delta County Board of Supervisors as to the most equitable way of raising the money.

It was the unanimous opinion of the members of the Red Cross board at the meeting that the most equitable way of procuring the fund was to obtain it from the board of Supervisors and have the citizens of Delta county stand their share. When Mr. Kates was approached on this matter he declined to answer for the action of the board of supervisors, but agreed that it was the fairest way to get the money. The matter will be taken before the finance and auditing committee of the board of supervisors who will meet tomorrow afternoon.

The American Red Cross will raise $125,000 in Michigan and the telegram which came to Mayor Judson last night asked for "cash quickly." It is thought probable that Escanaba's share of the fund will be sent this week.

Those present at the meeting at which Mayor Judson presided were, W. R. Smith, Rev. A. I. E. Ross, Dr. C. M. Cuthbert, J. E. Byrne, C. W. Woolpert, L. G. Sady, Mrs. Ivan G. English, Mrs. J. B. Wilkinson and Mrs. M. J. Ryan.

Money Coming In.
WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—While the American Red Cross moves forward to practical relief measures for the Japanese sufferers, indications today were that the appeal for a $5,000,000 relief fund to be administered by the organization was meeting generous and quick responses throughout the nation. No figures could be obtained of the amounts contributed through local Red Cross chapters, but the flow of contributions continuing to reach headquarters here raises hopes of early realization of the amount sought.

New York Raises $500,000.
NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—More than half a million dollars of Japanese relief fund was raised yesterday in a short time as John D. Rockefeller, Jr., and the Laura Spellman Rockefeller Foundation, each gave $100,000. Scores of other subscriptions ranged from $5,000 to $50,000.

Cannot Locate Frank Sheedlo

In spite of all efforts by telephone and telegraph, Frank Sheedlo could not be located up to late this afternoon, by his mother and other members of the family, who wished to inform him of the death of his brother, Ernest Sheedlo, who was killed in an automobile accident in Detroit Saturday night.

About two weeks ago Frank was in Green Bay and at that time said he was going to Milwaukee. Since then no word has been received from him. There is some fear on the part of the family that he may have met with an accident. They have the accident theory on the fact that all the daily newspapers published an account of the accident which was sent out by The Associated Press, and which he should have seen under ordinary circumstances.

DETROIT AUTO CLUB URGES MORE CAMPS

Water, Good Toilets, Grassy Land Are the Leading Essentials.

(By the Associated Press)

DETROIT, Sept. 6.—For more than two months, normal traffic on the trunk highways of Michigan has been dodging tent poles, camp trailers, happy homes on trusty trucks, and all the other detail of a season in which the outdoor motorist-camper has flourished in the Peninsular Commonwealth as never before.

More than at thousand cars daily are estimated to have entered or left Detroit, during this period, carrying camp equipment. A large share of them visited the Detroit Automobile Club, in quest of information.

"Where Can I Camp?"

One of the most frequent inquiries concerns the various free camping spots in Michigan—a question of which Manager Edmund S. Matheson of the Club's Touring Bureau has developed an answer always in accord with a fixed general policy.

There are, perhaps, 200 designated free camp sites in Michigan, estimates Mr. Matheson. "Some are delightful places in which to pitch a tent. Others are merely adjuncts to stores, gasoline stations or even alleged soft drink parlors, and lack both attractiveness and equipment."

The club lists about 20 of these sites as available for use in direct- in motorists. There are camps which our own people have inspected and used.

Most of these camps are located in the various state parks which, during Governor Grousebeck's administration, have been organized and equipped for this very purpose. Several others are maintained by private parties. Still others are established by the towns and villages as a bit for tourist business.

To these approved camps we have sent literally thousands of cars during the summer.

In our plans we insist on but four essentials for a satisfactory camp—good water, wood, toilet, and plenty of grass. When the location is on a stream or lake, the camp is that much more attractive, but we don't insist on that. Many alleged camp sites we find to be destitute of all four of these essentials.

"For next season we hope to be able to recommend about 100 approved camp sites. We will gladly use all authentic information regarding those in existence, and will be similarly ready to advise regarding establishment and maintenance."

"The camping tourist is worth cultivating. Michigan can improve her position as a tourist state by taking better care of him."

Move to End Female Mine Labor in India

SIMLA, India.—The question of the advisability of prohibiting the employment of women in mines have again been taken up by the government of India. At present about one-third of the mine workers in India are women. Since 1912 women have been excluded from mines in England; in 1901 an attempt was made to prohibit them from Indian mines. This effort failed on account of violent opposition on the part of employers. Expression was given to the fear that if steps were taken to prevent women relatives of men workers from going below the latter would themselves refuse to work in mines.

The department of industries and labor of the central government has sent a letter to each of the provincial governments, asking for advice, with regard to possible legislation against the employment of women in mines.

"Since 1901," says this letter, "mining conditions have undergone a considerable change. Indian mining is no longer in its infancy; the mines are deeper, and the risk of danger is accentuated. There is a steadily increasing body of public opinion which strongly deprecates the continued employment of women in mines."

Opposition to this proposed reform has already been started by the British imperialist press in India. It is argued that conditions of employment in Indian mines are fundamentally different from those in western countries, and that Indian mine labor works in family gangs, women assisting their relatives and helping to swell their earnings.

THE DISASTER IN JAPAN.

Far from being exaggerated the first reports of the terrible earthquake in Japan seem only to have given the slightest glimpse of the horror. Recent dispatches from Manila speak of other shocks causing further loss of life and a tidal wave sweeping out of existence the sea coast town of Orawara with all its inhabitants.

It is a disaster without parallel in modern history, and its effects will be felt in Japan for a generation at least. The dead will have to be buried immediately if a pestilence is to be avoided, and for any nation to dispose of over 100,000 bodies is no slight task. Food and shelter will have to be provided for the survivors if additional thousands of them are not to perish, and food is a scarce commodity in the little island kingdom.

Japan will have to depend for a time upon the charity of the civilized nations to maintain life in probably very much more than a million people who have lost their homes and all their earthly possessions. It is gratifying to think that American warships were among the first to rush under forced draught to the help of the stricken nation. Warships of other nations are also on the way but the aid that they can render will do not more than tide over the survivors for a few days.

Here is a situation that calls for the exercise of private charity, and there is no country in the world that is in a better position to contribute it than the United States. Asia is put to it to maintain her teeming millions and Europe is hopelessly bankrupt, almost from one end to the other. The greater part of the burden will have to be borne by the American people, and we should undertake it willingly and cheerfully.

Militarists on both sides of the Pacific have been for years prophesying war between Japan and the United States, but a prompt and liberal response to the cry for help will do infinitely more than anything else to remove the bitter feeling engendered by these war prophecies. It will prove to the world that the assertion so freely made in some quarters that we are a nation of dollar chasers is far from the truth, and to the Japanese that the great heart of America throbs with sympathy for them in their hour of greatest trial.

CONGRESS FIRST.

One who is described as an "authorized spokesman" for the President has outlined for the Washington correspondents what Mr. Coolidge thinks about a number of interesting questions. One bit of information contained in this statement is to the effect that President Coolidge will not enter into any public discussion or recommendations which he intends to make to congress, because he thinks that congress itself is entitled to the first information given out on subjects of that kind. For that reason, it is said the President has already declined to discuss tax reduction for the benefit of the press and general public.

This attitude has not always been taken by other presidents. There is a contrary theory which holds that a president who wishes to drive any measure through congress should begin by building up a body of public opinion on his side. Presidents do not do that sort of thing directly and personally except through formal statements and set speeches, but some of them have been adepts in indirect methods for getting their views of affairs into print and impressed on the public mind by less dignified means.

This is a method which has sometimes been effective; but it tends to put the president and congress in opposition. If the president backs his policies by propaganda before he goes to congress with them, the merely human congressmen is likely to feel that somebody is trying to drive him, and propaganda on one side breeds propaganda on the other.

But if the president takes congress into his confidence first of all, he makes a reasonable and courteous bid for friendly consideration. He emphasizes the partnership of the two branches in law-making, and the freshness of his views when they first appear in the annual message gives them a compelling claim to attention.

To a president like Colonel Roosevelt, who was master in the part of publicity, the quiet methods to be tried by President Coolidge would have seemed too tame, too much like pussy-footing, but there is no reason for supposing that a man who keeps his own counsel is either dull or ineffective. Silence and strength may go together.

A TOO INCLUSIVE LAW.

The discovery that the state traffic law is so framed that it establishes through right-of-way streets in the heart of cities having their own traffic regulations is causing more or less anxious consideration, but if common sense is used the logic of facts will prevail against the somewhat too inclusive nature of the state law.

A route designated as a state trunk line may be so important in the state at large as to give it a superior character over the greater part of its length, but in passing through a large city it may suffer a complete change demanding an entirely different treatment under the traffic laws. What that treatment should be is manifestly a matter for local authority to determine in the interest of local convenience and safety.

Now that Mexico has been recognized the tangible evidences of international friendship will soon consist of something more than permits issued to American archeologists allowing them to dig for Aztec relics.

The internal revenue bureau announces that this country smoked more than 5,800,000,000 cigarettes in July. Only the German mark can beat that record.

For a sightless thing the blind pig is singularly handy at dodging the arm of the law.

OFFICIAL WASHINGTON REGARDS RECOGNITION OF MEXICO AS A CONFORMITY TO POLICY OF U. S.

Diplomatic Relations Broken Too Long a Period.

Revolutions in Country Made It Impossible for United States to Form New Embassy.

(By the Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6. Recognition of the government of President Obregon is regarded here as in line with the American policy, stated through successive administrations, of giving disinterested help to a friendly country so long as the rights of Americans are properly safeguarded. The announced aim of the Washington government has been directed consistently to such a course, although often with difficulty, because of outrages upon the persons and properties of American nationals in Mexico, and of discouraging international cooperation incident to a condition of revolution and civil war running over more than a decade.

The questions arising under this policy have been among the most delicate with which the United States has had to deal, and have involved military patrols along the border, naval and military expeditions into Mexico, embargoes upon the exportation of munitions, and a succession of international conferences touching indirectly on the broad question of relations with Latin America in general.

Recently the principal question at issue has had to do with the interpretation of Article 27 in the Mexican constitution of 1917, now satisfactorily adjusted through a definite understanding of its retroactive features reached in the recent Mexico City conversations.

This question was regarded as of primary importance by the administration of President Wilson, and later the Harding administration suggested to Mexico City a treaty of amity and commerce as a means to a definite understanding. The treaty plan, however, proved unsatisfactory to President Obregon, and in time the adjustment was reached through conversations, the American government making clear that it was interested in the substance rather than the form of the accommodation.

Begins in 1910.

The story of the present cycle of American-Mexican relations has its real beginning in the outbreak in 1910 of the military revolution led by Francisco I. Madero against the long established regime of President Porfirio Diaz. A policy of non-interference was adopted by President Taft, who soon mobilized units of the regular army on the border to guarantee neutrality and protect American interests. Therefore extra troops were stationed there in greater or less force until 1919, by which time the general situation had eased considerably.

Because of sporadic revolutionary movements which arose almost immediately upon Madero's entrance into Mexico City and election to the presidency a definition of American policy in the matter of recognition did not develop until the early part of President Wilson's first term. By this time Madero had resigned, been imprisoned and assassinated, and his chief military officer, General Huerta, who had gone over to the revolutionists, had assumed the presidency.

President Wilson demanded as a condition of recognition a real election under due constitutional authority, with the elimination of Huerta as a candidate. This was refused, and President Wilson announced his historic policy of "watchful waiting." Disagreement with this policy resulted in the recall of Henry Lane Wilson, who had been appointed ambassador to Mexico by President Taft, and President Wilson resorted to the use of personal agents in seeking a solution of the difficulties, but these missions resulted in few tangible developments.

American Marines Seized.

It was during the Huerta regime that American marines in 1914 were seized at Tampico by a Mexican army officer, and although released with an apology, a salute to the flag was demanded by Rear Admiral Mayo. It was refused, and President Wilson ordered the American naval forces to seize Vera Cruz in order to prevent the landing of a cargo of arms by the German steamer Ypiranga. The order had been carried out and war seemed imminent when the services of Argentina, Brazil and Chile were accepted as mediators. A conference was held at Niagara Falls, N. Y., but was without much practical effect because of the rapidly changing situation in Mexico.

Huerta's power was rapidly disintegrating as a result of the attitude of the United States and military victories of the constitutionists in the north led by General Carranza, then governor of Coahuila. Carranza had proclaimed himself in a state of revolt, and had been joined by several of Madero's former generals, including Francisco Villa, Obregon and Pablo Gonzalez.

Huerta Flees From Mexico.

Huerta fled the country in July, 1914, and Carranza, entering Mexico City, assumed the executive power. Although factional differences at once developed, after varying fortunes Carranza was given de facto recognition by the United States in the fall of 1915, and de jure recognition after he had been elected president for four years under the constitution framed by a constituent assembly in 1917.

The refusal of Villa to support Carranza because of the latter's failure to hold an immediate constitutional election resulted in a state of guerrilla warfare in northern Mexico accompanied by serious consequences on the American side of the border. The raid on Columbus, N. M., by Villa was followed by a National Guard mobilization, and the dispatch into Mexico of the expedition headed by General Pershing in what proved to be a fruitless search for Villa.

The condition in the north was finally accentuated in the spring of 1920 by a revolt of governors headed by Adolfo de la Obregon in Sonora, who objected to a plan for the arrest of General Obregon after the latter had announced his candidacy for the presidency in opposition to Ignacio Bonillas, favored by Carranza as his successor. The movement developed such proportions that Carranza fled the capital and sought refuge in the mountains of Hidalgo, where he was slain by Indian soldiers.

De la Huerta was proclaimed provisional president and confirmed in office by congress, which then convoked an election. As a result General Obregon was elected for a four year term and assumed office Dec. 1, 1920. He established a military command of the situation regarded here as satisfactory, and irritations for the United States greatly diminished.

Many nations recognized Huerta and several, including a number in Latin America, have recognized Obregon. Others, however, notably Great Britain, preferred to await action by the United States.

One of the few log cabin school houses in the United States has been opened in the Black Forest in Colorado. Eight pupils attend the school.

Schools Are Blamed For Labor Chaos

(By the Associated Press) KALAMAZOO, Sept. 6.—The American public school is to blame for the industrial problem of the day, according to the Labor Day address here of Rev. M. L. Fox, pastor of the First Methodist church and president of the Kalamazoo Ministerial Alliance.

"Industry today is an armed camp because youth are graduated from the public schools with wit, sharp-tongued and hands trained without any corresponding training of heart," said Rev. Mr. Fox.

"The settlement of the labor problem is a hard, arduous, new kind of men. When employers and employees will exercise themselves to show a conscience void of offense toward God and man the sun of a new day will be rising in the industrial world," he said.

"Fifty per cent of the public school teachers of the day are absolutely indifferent to the church and its work," he charged. "Twenty-five per cent are merely positively religious. Fifteen per cent attend church infrequently. Only seven per cent attend the Christian church. It is time to insist that head training is not the sole, but the best preparation for American citizenship."

Two Members of Stick-up Gang in Detroit Confess to Police; There Were Six Others.

(By the Associated Press) DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 6.—One murder, two oil station holdups and the theft of 29 autos has been cleared up, though the confession Monday of two members of a gang of eight, including two women, who have been terrorizing the city for six months, murdered Floyd Johnson.

The murder was that of Floyd Johnson, 27 years old, 528 Harper avenue, an oil station attendant at Harper avenue and East Grand boulevard, who was shot by thugs the morning of August 28 and died the next day.

Harris Breaks Down. George Harris, who has been under arrest since Thursday night, when he and his partner, Jack Downey, were captured by police after a pistol battle when it is claimed, they attempted to steal a car, broke down Monday.

The confession came while Harris was being questioned by Detectives Frank Dethoff and Arthur Lavitzke, who arrested the pair as they drove away with the auto.

Downey is the one who shot Johnson, Harris is said to have told them. "We stuck up the place and Johnson tried to get through the door as we were leaving. Downey thought he was going after a gun and fired once."

The two detectives called members of the homicide squad who went to Receiving hospital where Downey is said to have admitted the slaying.

In addition the pair are said to have confessed to the theft of thirty autos and named four other members of their gang who immediately were placed under arrest. They gave their names as Charles Nelson, 19 years old; Thomas Wallace, 19 years old; and James Downey, 20 years old. The latter says he is a brother of Jack. They are held for investigation.

Two Women Held. Beatrice Downey, 19 years old, who says she is the wife of Jack Downey, and Gladys McKeasle, 20 years old, who were arrested Thursday, are said to be the two women members of the gang. Downey and Harris deny they participated in any of their automobile thefts. They are held for investigation.

The one other oil station hold up in which the pair admit participating was on the morning of August 27 when they stuck up a place at Stinson and Cass avenues. They obtained $594 here once.

NEW FORDS SHOW CHANGES TOWARD GREATER COMFORT

Larger Radiator Will Also Prove Beneficial; More Room in Front Seats of All Models.

The first of the new type of Ford cars which recently arrived in the city are now on display at the show room of Portman Motor Company, local Ford dealer.

The higher radiator, now standard in all Ford types, has brought a general improvement throughout the entire line and the new radiator apron blending with similar apron effects on the fenders gives the front of the cars a highly finished appearance.

The touring car shows a decided improvement, having a more streamline effect. It is lower in appearance, a feature adding much to the attractiveness of the slanting windshield and one-man top.

The Ford runabout is likewise much improved and looks more sturdy.

The coupe is entirely new in body design and construction. There is a trim exterior appearance, more comfortable seating arrangement and greater luggage carrying capacity. From the dash there is a graceful sweep in the hood to the radiator. The doors are wide and heavily framed. A larger compartment at the rear gives increased room for luggage and the new type rear fender is more secure. Ventilation in the hood and a visor over the windshield add to the exterior appearance, effecting a high quality aspect.

Interior arrangement is most convenient and the upholstery is choice. The seat is deeply cushioned and the cushions are divided, making it easy for filling the gasoline tank which is under the seat. A small recess shelf at the rear of the seat is handy for small parcels. The door windows are equipped with revolving type window regulators permitting any desired ventilation. Doors are provided with locks.

The higher radiator has greatly enhanced the beauty of the Ford four-door sedan. This car, highly popular since its introduction a year ago, because of its low, graceful lines, now presents a more sturdy appearance.

Another feature, coming as the result of the change made in the front of the car, including larger coil radiator and hood, is that occupants of the front seat are afforded more space, thus insuring added riding comfort.

Many other little improvements and refinements are noticeable including revolving type window regulators for all door windows and a dome light for illuminating the interior.

Pythians Open Season.

Members of the Escanaba lodge of Knights of Pythias participated in a most enjoyable social session at the Pythian temple last night when the work of the year for the order was inaugurated. The season's opening meeting was largely attended and the enthusiasm shown by the members indicated that an eminently busy year lies ahead for the order in the city. Following a brief business session, a social program was opened and was thoroughly enjoyed by the members. Refreshments were served at the conclusion of the program.

Cross Country Touring for those Well Equipped

(Continued from Page One.) but no drug known to science, nothing in fact short of Mr. Cobb's will take care of the human body. It varies from the bug who steals your venetian blinds and makes you feel like the State, to the ubiquitous and almost pestiferous rural sportsman. It is proposing another amendment to the Constitution, I should say, to speed cops and all kind of justices of the peace to subvert the tests before taking office, on their intelligence and one, if possible, the honesty.

No Great Dangers.

"Danger? We haven't been in acute danger since we got safely out of Chicago boulevard traffic. We went through a bridge in Texas, and lost a spare tire off the rear end when a landslide just missed us in Colorado. And Mr. Wilson did venture to talk back to a justice of the peace in western Nebraska, who happened also to be the undertaker, postmaster, store keeper and barber of the town. But nothing abnormally unsafe. If you keep your head when driving and your tongue when in court, you'll get by. And it's really safer to drive at sixty than at twenty-five.

Mormons Are Generous.

"If our experience is sound, the people in Nebraska are the sincerest and the most generous people in the country. Heaven help the man who asks a Nebraskan to do him a favor. He'll have to pay five dollars for a gallon of emergency gas or a meal on sourdough biscuits and will probably find, an hour later, that the Nebraskan liked the Stutz wrenches too well to let them get by him. But a Mormon will give you his last ounce of flour and he'll give the chance, and will throw in a free conversion to boot."

Mr. Newell began his touring career as a race-driver on the country circuits, driving a machine which he had practically built himself. He says that touring is less exciting but considerably more satisfying than dirt-track driving. "At that," he added, "when I get on a stretch of Michigan highway, I sometimes forget that no body is trying to pass me."

The party left for Gladstone last night. From there they will turn southward to Chicago, where they will rest and refit, preparatory to a trip to the Canadian Rockies in October, after grizzlies.

Many Have Lunch At High School

Yesterday was the first time the students in the local high school were able to avail themselves of the service offered at the new cafeteria. According to Principal Cheney 93 students bought lunches and 40 brought lunches from home. This number is highly satisfactory for the opening day and as school settles down to regular work it is thought that the cafeteria will be patronized to a greater extent. The new department is on the first floor of the school and is decorated and outfitted so it is pleasing to the eye and is very complete. The manner of serving the lunch is the same as in any self-serve lunch counter.

Milwaukee Elks Visit Escanaba Last Night

He referred most feelingly to his happy boyhood days in this city, mentioning many of the old friends with whom he had grown into young manhood, upon many laughs by relating incidents of his boyhood days here and closed by stating that no matter where a man might be, that place only was home to him, where he had known the happiness of boyhood, spent his father and mother lay in their last peaceful sleep and it was a matter of deep regret to him that they could not be present, on this occasion to see what a real, what a splendidly cordial and hearty reception he was being accorded a party of which he was a modest member.

Mr. Kelly referred to his old friend, Charles Gagnon, who had been one of the first to greet him along the line of march and told about the old ice palace which Mr. Gagnon used to conduct when Yockey was a boy. His talk was very happy and infectious and in conclusion he said he wished that it might be possible to have every person on board the Missouri and finish the journey to Milwaukee, where he might be permitted to manifest his appreciation of this very splendid welcome which had been extended by the people of this city.

Eloquent Address.

Frank Fawcett, a well known and popular attorney of Milwaukee, was introduced by Mr. Yockey and made one of the most forceful and eloquent addresses ever heard here within the short time permitted him because of the late arrival of the boat here. He said a most glowing compliment to Chauncey Yockey, explained his rise to prominence and popularity in the city of Milwaukee and told how the local boy had grown in the love and esteem of the people of that city to such an extent that it was much more than possible that he would be elected the next mayor of that city.

He pointed out the obligations of Elksdom and its relation to civic consciousness, explaining that in the prin-

... of the order, found all of the principles which make for right living, happiness, a gentle sympathy for the afflicted and an ability to sacrifice in time of need to and the relief of sad suffering. He appealed most eloquently for a stamping out of any slight tendency to create dissension in this manner on racial or religious lines and drew hearty applause.

Throughout his talk, Mr. Kelly expressed his sympathy for the Elks and his success as a leader of men, as a director of thought in the city and a citizen, for right the American in every sense of the word.

Eloquent "Pat" Kelly.

Mr. Kelly's address was permitted to bear the name of Elk secretaries of this country. Mr. Kelly, who has been secretary of the Milwaukee lodge longer than any other member in a similar position in the nation, again it was that fate had taken an unkindly turn, the delay at Menominee, the trouble in getting around the red light out in the bay, or whatever it was that caused the deflection in the program, for Escanabans would have liked intensely to have had the pleasure of listening to this eloquent and extremely interesting gentleman from Milwaukee for several hours instead of the few short minutes allotted to him on the program, owing to the lateness of the hour.

Mr. Kelly expressed the thanks of the Milwaukee lodge to the city of Escanaba for the royal welcome extended, complimented the city upon its wonderful "white way," which he said was the most beautiful of any he had ever beheld, even in cities of over 100,000 population, and launched into a most eloquent and touching tribute to the worth of Chauncey Yockey as a man. He referred with the deepest feeling to his friendship for the parents of the man whom Escanaba was honoring so highly by sending out such a wonderful representation of citizens, and in closing his address produced two beautiful floral wreaths to be placed upon the graves of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Yockey. It had been intended to place these wreaths on the graves during the afternoon, but the late arrival of the boat made this impossible and they were turned over to the local committee to be placed today.

Mr. Kelly spoke with the deepest sincerity of what Elksdom stands for; how it broadens men and makes them better citizens, husbands and fathers and sons, and drove home a plea that the business men of this city get behind the local organization and make it a strong and vital organization in the civic life of the community.

Hold Boat For Concert.

It was then nearly eleven o'clock but the great crowd which had congregated in Ludington Park to listen to the program had been so highly and pleasantly entertained, showed no signs of dispersing. The siren on the awaiting boat belled out a warning blast. However, Mr. Yockey took the situation in hand, moved, ascended and unanimously carried a motion that the boat remain until 11:30 and that the band regale the big crowd with music until that time.

A final half hour was then spent in listening to several very choice selections from the band and it was nearly midnight when the crowd finally dispersed and the Milwaukee party returned aboard the Missouri for the last lap of the cruise back to their home city.

Visiting Elks were present from many of the surrounding towns to take part in the celebration and enjoyment of the evening.

HUNDRED CARS EXPECTED TO ATTEND FAIR

It was estimated today by Herman Gessner, who has been more or less responsible for promoting the local pilgrimage to the Alger county fair at Chatham, that at least 100 automobiles, loaded with Escanaba people, will drive there tomorrow to attend the annual county fair.

The cars will leave around 10 o'clock, but this is not compulsory, for you can leave earlier if you want to, but it is urged that the hour selected for the gathering of the automobiles along Ludington street is about as late as one should leave.

Alger county officials are preparing a great day for their Escanaba visitors and anticipate a record breaking attendance. It has been stated that their fair this year is very attractive and offers many new attractions in the way of free acts and clean shows.
