"SIEGE OF EDDYVILLE" NEARING THE

THOUSANDS OF SHOTS POURED INTO PRISON

Thought Two Men Either Dead or Wounded This Noon.

Prison Guards and State Troops Reinforced by Company of Regulars With Machine Guns.

(By the Associated Press)

Eddyville, Ky., Oct. 5. (135 P. M.)—Rattle of musketry and the roar of machine guns were easily audible shortly before noon today, coming from within the walls of the prison, where it was decided to resume firing on the administration building.

Those who were watching with field glasses said they could see two forms lying on the floor of the dining hall, that might be wounded or dead men. No sign of the third was detected. Thirty soldiers from the 149th Infantry arrived here today to assist the prison and military authorities in controlling the prison.

Enters Third Day.

EDDYVILLE, Ky., Oct. 5.—"The Siege of Eddyville" entered its third day today.

Their hands red with the life blood of three prison guards, Monte Walters, Lawrence Griffith and Harry Felland, convict murderers, still held out behind the brick walls of the mess hall.

For more than two days and three nights the three gunmen have held the improvised fortress in spite of the combined efforts of prison guards, a troop of national guard machine gunners and volunteer citizens, rifle experts, who have been trying to dislodge them since their sensational break for liberty, which resulted in the death of three guards.

At Least One Alive.

Having automatic pistols, the three men started their dash for liberty by shooting to death one guard and in a running fight wounding two others so seriously that they later died. Opinion was expressed in some quarters last night that the desperadoes had been killed or seriously wounded. It was proved, however, that at least one still was able to walk when a figure was seen to emerge from the mess hall, and when met with a rain of bullets from the watching guards, go back into the dark interior of the building.

Might Hide in Oven.

Persons familiar with the interior of the building explained that it would have been possible for the men to have taken refuge in the kitchens, where they might have crawled in the big oven and escaped the bullets by which the building has been riddled.

It was announced early today following a conference between the warden and the officers of the machine gun troops, that it was expected the end of the siege would come some time today. What plans had been made by them to dislodge the men was not divulged.

Like Rats in a Trap.

Realizing that the three men are caught like rats in a trap and will eventually be forced to surrender, Warden John Chilton still refuses to sacrifice the lives of any more of his men in a mass attack. At the same time, the convict trio has an advantage in that it controls the kitchen and provisions therein, while their entwined cellmates are on short rations.

The walls and doors of the mess hall are riddled with bullets, but a great bulwark of tables and chairs makes quick penetration a matter of much difficulty. No one of the three convicts has actually been seen during the last 26 hours.

Calls from Warden Chilton and Capt. B. A. Bedford of the National Guard machine gun company, have failed to elicit any reply from inside. Both officials, however, believe it likely that the mutineers are still alive and are conserving their ammunition for a last death struggle when their fortress is stormed.

Lights Flood Battle Darkness.

With the coming of darkness last night, lights were again turned on

Did Not Tell Wife She Was to Die Soon

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—Charles H. Webb, husband of Mrs. Lydia George Webb, who died "mysteriously" last week at Rye, N. Y., in an interview with newspaper men denied heatedly that he had told his wife she had only 30 days to live.

"I swear on ten Bibles I did not," he said.

Did Dr. Myers tell you any of his suspicions before Mrs. Webb's death?" he was asked.

"The doctor's communications to me were written notes," Webb said. "I have saved them all and I am going to have photographic copies made of them."

WOMEN PARADE DENOUNCING GREAT BRITAIN

Reception to Lloyd George Broken Up by Police.

Banners Read, "British Bootleggers Are Flooding America With British Booze."

(By the Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—Police reserves today broke up a parade of middle-aged women carrying banners denouncing Great Britain outside the city hall, where a crowd of several thousand persons had gathered to greet former Premier Lloyd George.

More than twenty women carried the banners, some of which read: "Don't Let England Pull the Wool Over Your Eyes," and "British Bootleggers Are Flooding America With Booze."

Young people," said Mr. Ettenhofer, "need a little bit of fun play before bedtime; but they are going to make it sleepy and get in the house by 8 o'clock or get in trouble."

The police action has been receiving considerable attention as darkness started very early in the evening. Boys are shouting, gabbing, and just keeping them over. Others are throwing stones at houses and in some cases, breaking windows and the like. We'll make an effort to put an end to all sorts of mischief. Boys and girls under 16 years of age, however, the police said after 8 o'clock, according to the police department, and they are going to make a drive with this end in view.

DAD DOESN'T KNOW WHICH CHILD'S HURT

STEVENS POINT.—When Jerry Neely, 10, was summoned to an accident scene where one of his children, triplets, had been struck down by an automobile, he could not name the child because of its close resemblance to the others.

It was necessary to call in Mr. Fowles, superintendent of the detective office here, said today G. L. Edey, "King Benjamin" Purnell, of the House of David colony at Michigan City, at North Ryerson, a small town near here.

No instruments in the investigation against Purnell was said to have been received at police headquarters.

QUAKE CUTS OFF LIGHTS IN TOKIO

LONDON.—A severe earthquake shock was felt in Tokio early this morning, according to a dispatch from Tokio.

Many residents were driven from their homes and the electric lights were cut off. The tremors were felt as far as Osaka.

The building so that the couple might not escape during the night. The prison is built like a castle of gray stone and brick. The mess hall where the prisoners are incarcerated is a two-story building in the center of the prison yard. The bombardment is being carried on from vantage points in the prison yard, not only by militiamen and guards, but by expert marksmen who have locked in from adjacent communities.

The other prisoners are following the progress of the battle with interest, but thus far have been peaceful. They are not expected to make any further trouble, although forced to submit on holome sausage and other emergency rations.

The death list went to three Thursday when E. B. Mattingly and William Gilbert, wounded guards, died. W. P. Gilligan, the fourth, is not expected to live.

ATTEMPTS MADE TO ROB HOMES DURING NIGHT

Extra Police Will Be Pressed into Service at Once.

Boys Found On Streets After 8 O'clock Will Be Picked Up and Taken to the Station.

Acting Chief of Police Ettenhofer says he is going to clamp the lid right down tight on boys and girls under 16 years of age who are caught loitering upon the streets after eight o'clock at night. Not that he believes these younger folks are to blame for some of the robberies that have recently taken place, but because he wants to provide an easier means of keeping a check on the ones between 16 and up.

Last night the police were called up twice and each time from the same locality, by householders who said someone had been trying to gain entrance to their premises. One call came from South Eighth street and the other one from South Ninth street but one block south of where the first call came from and the calls were close together. In fact they were within ten feet apart. Evidently the person was approached away from one place and tried right over to the next one.

Given Cut Prices on Love and Still He Will Not Pay

RHINELANDER, Wis., Oct. 5.—The question has been raised here as to whether 12 good men and true constitute a better authority as to the value of a woman's affections than the woman's own husband.

Edward Walsh, a summer resort owner at Anoka, valued his wife's affection at $5,000 and sued Robert Johnson, a guide, for that amount, charging that Johnson had alienated the said affections. The 12 good men and so forth conceded that the affections were alienated, but set the valuation at only a fifth of the figure named by the husband, awarding him $1,000.

Johnson, however, furnishes a third angle to the argument, denouncing at the thought of parting with 1,000 hard-earned shekels for whatever portions of the affections of Mrs. Walsh that happened to stray his way. He would not go so far, probably, as to say they were worthless, but prefers to say he didn't get them, and has signified his intentions of carrying the case to the state supreme court.

The other prisoners are following the progress of the battle with interest, but thus far have been peaceful. They are not expected to make any further trouble, although forced to submit on holome sausage and other emergency rations.

Special Walton Deputies Are Being Disarmed by Tulsa Regular Police Forces.

(By the Associated Press)

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 5.—It is indicated in well-informed quarters to-day that a call for a meeting of the lower house of the state legislature was in progress and that it would probably meet soon, summoning that body for impeachment proceedings against the governor on October 17th. It was indicated that the call would not be halted pending the action brought by the governor to prevent the state election board from certifying the election to the secretary of state.

Lawrence Lillard, state attorney and former political friend of the governor, declared it is not too early for the returns from an imminent election to be certified to the secretary of state in order to make the provisions of the matter voted upon operative.

He arrested the law provided the question must be conclusively settled at an election and that thereafter the measure becomes effective.

Tulsa Disarms Deputies.

TULSA, Okla., Oct. 5.—With both the sheriff's office and the police department freed from further military supervision and the protection of the special commissioners which Sheriff Bob Sanford issued to 1,500 deputies in anticipation of results of Tuesday's election, the local police today continue their campaign of arming and disarming of special Walton deputies.

"From now on, the police have instructions to arrest every man found carrying arms under Walton commission," stated Chief of Police Ross Moran.

The military court of inquiry was planning to re-examine of witnesses in alleged shotgun cases. One case is set for hearing in civil court Saturday and another for Monday. The military authorities announced their intention to continue examinations with renewed vigor. There are now fewer than thirty officers and men of the national guard in Tulsa.

PARKING LIGHTS MUST BE USED ON SIDE STREETS

Autoists Are Becoming Careless about Protecting Their Cars; Arrests Will Be Made.

While the police do not insist that parking lights, both front and rear be used on Lindbergh street, which is brightly lighted, they are planning to make a drive against the practice of leaving cars on the residence streets unprotected by proper lights.

This is not only dangerous for the persons owning the car, but makes driving equally dangerous. Many parked cars are covered with dust and can hardly be distinguished from the color of the road. A night or two ago a car was badly damaged while standing at the curb with no lights on and the owner would like to find out who ran into his car, but even if he did there would be no redress for he did not have his own car protected by lights as is provided by the vehicle laws.

The newspapers have been asked to warn the public for a few days and then the police department is going to get busy and the nice little tag on every car found parked and unlighted on any street but Lindbergh.

SIXTY-FIVE CENT DOLLARS.

The value of the American dollar is said in a news item based on a report by the department of labor to be only 60 cents as compared with its value in 1913. That, of course, is only a striking way of putting the fact that prices are considerably higher now than they were ten years ago. A more detailed statement of what the facts are is to be found in the Survey of Current Business which is issued by the department of commerce. The index number showing the cost of living for June, the last month available, stands at 169.7, which means that living costs were then 69.7 per cent above the 1913 average. It is safe to assume that they are not far from that now.

That may be called 60 per cent in round numbers and it does, indeed, make a considerable dent in the American dollar. Putting it another way the dollar which would buy the whole of an article ten years ago will buy less than three-fifths of that article now.

However, things have adjusted themselves satisfactorily to that state of affairs as far as the great majority of people are concerned, for they are getting more dollars now than they did in 1913. The higher prices certainly bring more money to those who charge them, and the same with those who studies the subject of wages, and that the cost of living has not ruined him. That is to say, the cost of living has been so adjusted that the total amount paid for necessities in the states, Wisconsin and New York, for example, is now 60 per cent above the total for 1913, and that the average cost for the cost of living in 1913 for the two states was 60 per cent above the earnings of labor in 1913 in New York and Wisconsin.

It is true that the adjustment is not complete as it is desirable. The figures concerning income parts of the country, from nations and budgets, are not two, but for the country at large the 60 cent dollar is nothing to worry about at present.

A MESS TO BE CLEANED UP.

If one were looking for a place to live in the city of Washington he would naturally look for a place where a quarter of the population consists of Negroes. The population consists largely of colored citizens who are ignorant of local politics and little cared in the national politics.

But it appears that Washington is making a move for the country to be held responsible for her actions. This inference rests upon the fact that the Negroes have notified the president of their desire to co-operate with his negroes in the service of the Negroes of his force. Cases of bribery and corruption have been made in support of the action taken by the negroes. The president's commission replies that the negroes are nothing more than the usual thing in his department and that he will take up the usual way of his own correspondence with the negroes regarding entirely the police problem.

Whatever the merits of the negroes may be, it is evident that the machinery we have implemented in Washington is badly out of gear, and since Washington is the capital of this great country and stands in a sense for the honor and dignity of the nation, the situation would appear to call for summary correction.

WHAT SUPER-POWER MEANS.

Governors of states interested in larger electric power production, such as the great Colorado river project affecting irrigation and electrification in five states are to add a conference.

Electricity, entirely under public regulation, costs less today than in 1914. Super-power, the next extension in our central station principle, will further cheapen it. A million new users were won last year.

Our electrical investment is over five billions and owned by nearly two-million people, who put in last year $750,000,000 more. The splendid plan of super-power, now in part realized in sections of the South, the Pacific Coast, and the Middle West, will mean still more billions for power stations and transmission lines.

Dividends and interests on these billions must be paid, to keep money flowing into the new system. But super-power will more than pay its way in cheaper current and new services for home, farm, and factory. Engineering obstacles have been overcome, but not the political and legal obstacles. State laws must be harmonized and bettered to clear the way.

CONTINUITY IN ADVERTISING.

Some Eastern railway executives are publishing financial statements over their names as railroad presidents.

Public utilities advertise more intelligently and more continuously and as a result people buy their securities and the values of gas, electric light, power and traction properties are becoming prosperous.

There must be continuity in publicity. Keeping the public informed is a continuous job, as many move away or die and new ones take their places. In dealing with the public, use language the public can understand.

Railroads and public utilities cannot expect to advertise in flush times and live on the memory of it when they are hard up. They can't expect to advertise when they are in trouble, or about to kick the bucket and expect to get anything in that direction.

The Italians have evacuated Corfu, but the League of Nations did not make them do it. The agency was an institution known as the British fleet.

The perpetual object of cogitation, denunciation, commendation, agitation, elimination and acquisition in the United States today is booze.

RUTH'S PITCHING OUTDID BATTING IN WORLD SERIES

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—George Herman Ruth, known to fans simply as "the Babe," the outstanding star of the major leagues this season, whose art and all-round ability contributed largely to the winning of the third pennant by the Yankees, played his last championship game with the Baltimore International League club

April 22, 1914.
Baltimore played Buffalo that day Ruth pitched, allowing six hits, passing four men and striking out four. Baltimore won, 6 to 0. Baltimore's second player was Ned Bell, the first major league player to make an unassisted triple play. Bell had made his triple killing five years before while playing with Cleveland in the Western Red Sox.

Ruth made his first appearance in the majors on July 11, 1914, with the Boston Red Sox, as a pitcher. He earned seven innings against Cleveland, being taken out so that Ruth could pitch for him. The Red Sox won, 1 to 0, Ruth getting credit for the victory. He struck out one man and passed none.

The 1914 series between the Red Sox and the Brooklyn Superbas was Ruth's first championship experience. He defeated Brooklyn, 2 to 1, in 11 innings on October 8, holding the Dodgers' runnel for the last 12 minutes.

In the 1915 series between the Red Sox and Chicago Cubs, Ruth won two games. On September 5 he turned back the Cubs without a loss, 1 to 0, and his endless "curing" of the world's series was increased to 22. Four days later he again defeated the Cubs, 3 to 2. The brace of Chicago runs came in the eighth as that Ruth increased his runless inning record to 23.

Ruth's all-round ability as pitcher, batsman, fielder and manager and his unique extraordinary fast draw has put the top of the star list, and in 1920 he became a member of the New York American League club. In his last season with Boston he had 31 home runs. In his first season in New York he showed his bat into 51 homers, a new all-time mark, and in the following year increased this record to 60.

First Year Men Better Than in Many Past Years

GERMANS AGAIN WILLING TO DRINK FRENCH WINES

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Oct. 5.—Michigan's first year men this year are better physical specimens than the group of a year ago, in the opinion of physicians and their associates who made the examinations. While they have not topped the cards showing the health records of those with physical defects, the physicians agree that some very good specimens of mankind are included in the present class.

This is due, according to Dr. George R. Herrmann, to whom each man really reported, in some cases to better physical care before reaching college. A surprisingly small number of cases of bad tonsils was found, Herrmann said, and the number of cases of organic heart trouble was still compared with last year's figures. Some cases of eyesight needing correction were discovered and there were a few cases of defective hearing. There were also the usual number of cases of teeth that needed attention.

SWEDEN SPENDS $30,000,000 IN CONSTRUCTIVE RELIEF WORK

STOCKHOLM, Oct. 4.—The balancing of accounts at the end of the worst period of unemployment which Sweden has ever weathered shows the following debit and credit: a total public outlay of $30,000,000 to provide work for the jobless; about 1,500 miles of new and improved roads, many new bridges, new telephones, forty-six new athletic fields, new aviation fields, new barracks, extensive forest improvements, and reforestation and opening up of large new tracts of arable land.

This information is the result of statements made by two leading Stockholm newspapers on the occasion of reporting the lowest amount of unemployment during two and a half years, the figures now being only 20,000 as against 163,000 in February, 1922. Practically all of the large funds expended have been for constructive relief work, while steadily decreasing sums have been set aside for direct subvention. At present only about 150 persons are receiving unemployment doles.

PRIES CLAIM TO FAME WAS THRASHING THE KAISER

LONDON, Oct. 5.—The death occurred here recently of Alfred Russel Pries, and passed almost unnoticed, where it was worthy of special notice, for it succeeded in accomplishing what thousands of Americans have failed to do, that could not be done by the boy who latter became Germany's most successful schoolboy.

It happened about a year ago when Wilhelm was the school prince and was visiting Braunschweig, an English school, with his father. Wilhelm, then 12, had just moved to England, and was spending his summer holidays with his father. He was a schoolboy, but was excepted to the throng of his royal rights. Young Pries took off his coat and began to thrash the royal youth so successfully that he had administered a blow, one and several cuts and beats before the tutor succeeded in quieting the hostilities.

HIDES HIS "HOOTCH" UNDER SETTING HENS

BRECKENRIDGE, Tex., Oct. 5.—Whether Phil Dawson had in mind a shortcut to the venerable egg-nog, or whether he had hopes of raising a little flock of half-pint, today is baffling police who found a quart of "hootch" nestled under each chicken in his henhouse. Nevertheless, Phil is charged with the possession of intoxicating liquors.

Kufahl's statement followed an earlier statement by Mrs. Schauder in which she declared a "certain person" had controlled her actions as a master mind and had prompted her to take her husband's life, even preparing the death drink, and by the same influence, caused her attempt on the lives of her children.

WARREN G. HARDING
ENTERS OHIO STATE

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 5.—The long line of students before the registrar's office at Ohio State university was held up for several minutes yesterday while officials rubbed their eyes and stared at an enrollment card bearing the name "Warren G. Harding."

The card had been presented by a nephew and namesake of the late editor-president, who, apparently desiring to follow in the footsteps of his distinguished uncle, entered the college of commerce and journalism.

Young Warren G. is a son of Dr. George T. Harding, Jr., of Worthington, O.

HARVEY SEES BRIGHT FUTURE FOR IRELAND

LONDON, Oct. 5.—Ambassador Harvey is most optimistic about the future of the Irish Free State. He declares it will be one of the brightest spots in Europe in the next five years, making the greatest strides.

During the talk between the ambassador and President William T. Cosgrove, the latter assured Colonel Harvey that Ireland has almost reached a normal condition and that the government has decided to put its own house in order before asking outside aid in the shape of loans.

OPERA IN BUENOS AIRES LACKS PUBLIC SUPPORT

(By the Associated Press)

BUENOS AIRES, S. A., Oct. 5.—This city possesses one of the finest opera houses in the world, the Colon. Of recent years the attendance has decreased steadily until today the management is confronted with serious financial difficulties.

Various arguments have been advanced to account for this condition—the local business depression and a change in the public taste since the war—but the most popular answer is that the United States is making opera too expensive for the rest of the world.

America attracts the best artists with high salaries, and even in the summer time, it is alleged, famous singers make much money from concert tours and working for phonographs.

graph companies. Hence they have no inclination to come to South America.

WINDOWS CRASH UNDER BARGAIN RUSH; FOUR HURT

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—Five thousand women bent on bargains caused a riot Thursday in front of a women's garment store on East 14th street, that tied up traffic for several minutes and resulted in four being cut by broken glass when the 5,000 in attempting to get from places, broke the store's show windows. It took police reserves several minutes to clear the premises and permit ambulances to attend the injured. Three were sent home after treatment; the fourth was taken to the hospital.
