"WHERE'S THERE'S A WILL."
Judge Tuttle, of the United States district court, seems to be having little trouble in lining ways for dealing effectively with litigants against the eighteenth amendment. The judge has set the Hamtramck man, who thought he could play horse with the court, to the house of correction for a year and has fined a thousand dollars, and though the recipient of these penalties appears to a higher tribunal if he wishes, it is not likely that he is being over-enthusiastic or defiant.

The judge also expresses a belief that within a week he will be able to dispose of thirty more "beer saloon" cases effectively, convincing breakers of the prohibition law that the United States government can close them up and make Joseph Carey rejoice.

We have a feeling of confidence that Judge Tuttle knows what he is doing and will make good his program. Yet the reports of proceedings in the federal building do not indicate that the court is being more than use statutes and rules of evidence in a common sense, constructive way, as those instruments are generally employed in the administration of justice. The court is not attempting on any special crusade. It is not becoming excited, it is simply performing its duty with accustomed vigor and regularity, without terror and without fear or favor.

What Judge Tuttle is doing and the attitude he maintains is commendable to a consideration of certain timorous or unsympathetic members of the community in Detroit whose rulings in dry cases sometimes have been anything but an encouragement and support of officials attempting the enforcement of the prohibition law. And who, in more than one instance, have made unkind remarks, and have handed down decisions affecting guilt or innocence, or rather following the lead of every claim, that have been genuinely amazing. If the judges will use a little of the vigor and common sense that Judge Tuttle is showing, one of the big obstacles in the way of enforcement of prohibition in the city of Detroit will disappear.

INTERNATIONAL FRAUD.

The United States is a favorite hunting ground for people desiring large sums of money to be used in relieving the distress of Spanish refugees and anybody with an eye to business can get up a profitable family association with the object of recovering ancient estates now represented by unclaimed funds in the Bank of England. Money going abroad for such purposes makes a considerable item in the invisible balance of trade that Mr. Hoover tries so hard to estimate, and he will never strike the true figure unless he writes down against the outgoing cash, the amounts paid by foreigners for academic degrees issued by mythical American universities. One of these institutions that look so large on paper and fade to nothing when they are investigated has just turned up in Washington. The dispatches say that it did a large foreign business in diplomas.

On the other side, the newspapers and law officers issue warning against having anything to do with these American frauds, but all in vain. The value which most European countries set upon honors and titles makes the offer of Ph. D. a lure that many vain Europeans cannot resist and they "fall" for the claims of the American sharper who offers to decorate them with a string of letters.

There is no occasion for wasting sympathy on the people who allow themselves to be gulled in this way. They may even get their money's worth while the deception lasts, and they may be thanked, at least on this side, for demonstrating that the American tool is no larger tool than his old-world brother.

AN EXAMPLE TO ALL EUROPE.

The fifth anniversary recently of the peaceful and unambitious establishment in Prague of the Czechoslovak Republic still found this new small nation the most useful of the positive accomplishments of the World War. What is more, the fifth anniversary of the birth of this new nation in Europe found the nation an actual island of safety functioning perfectly. The Republic of the Czechoslovaks has become an influence for peace and economic stability and normality in troubled continental Europe and while the majority of its near neighbors is enjoying comparative prosperity and national and international peace.

Let it not be supposed that this haven of peace, prosperity and busy thrift just happened nor that it was a "result" solely of the war. The Czechoslovak national movement was hatched a century ago. The World War only provided the opportunity for right to conquer dissipated might. Neither is it to be supposed that this European republic is the culmination of a century of patriotic propaganda and organization or of open revolt against the ruling power. Quite to the contrary, it is the fruits of a century of education, loyalty and world competition in commerce and industry. The "island of safety" of the Czechoslovaks has already been of immeasurable service to the world and credit for the establishment of the "island" still rests with the Czechoslovaks before and after it is finally decided "who won the war."

That astronomer who has measured the heat of stars thousands of millions of miles away might possibly take the temperature of an apartment house owned by a stingy landlord and run by a lazy janitor.

Colleges when in need of a million or so have to work hard to get it, but a prizelight or a horse race will gather in as much in an afternoon, though not from the same source.

"DRY SPONGE" BEGINNING TO GET SOAKED UP

Governor Groesbeck Is Getting Action Over State.

Few Officials Expect the Drive Is Going to Result in Shutting Off All Liquor.

(By the Associated Press)
LANSING, Mich., Nov. 12. Governor Groesbeck's "dry" sponge already has begun to soak up some of the driest liquor of the state outside of Detroit. Enforcement officials generally throughout the state have expressed enthusiasm for the anti-liquor program and have set the machinery of their offices in motion to punish the law violators and eliminate the traffic. Some sections of the state, however, have taken no action in the governor's plan, which though directed primarily at the inland sale of alcoholic beverages in Detroit and Wayne county, is intended to apply to the entire state as well. The plan calls for the concerted action of state, county, city and federal officials, with the state financing the enforcement in those sections where conditions are believed to be beyond the power of local officials to handle them out of their own funds.

Few officials have expressed the opinion that the drive will result in the immediate shutting off of the liquor supply. Wood from Houghton is that Mayor Robert D. Shield has pledged the strongest support of the governor's program. Mayor Shield, however, does not believe there will be an immediate curtailment of liquor selling necessitated. "It is in the very nature of things going to take a reasonable time before the eighteenth amendment will be necessarily observed," he is quoted as saying.

Coast Guard Working.
The long arm of the Coast Guard, always being out by its steamers operating between Canadian and American shores, according to Lieutenant Commander G. C. Alexander of Detroit, expresses no great concern in the Great Lakes, following the return from an inspection of the guard station at Eagle Harbor, where the system, however, is quite in force. Alexander said that any vessel which does not carry a license will be given a full inspection of its papers and if found unable to make their way, the vessel will be taken to a safe harbor.

Boats Too Slow.
The average speed of the Lake going coast guard boats, he said, is ten miles an hour. The speed boats of the run runners will make thirty miles an hour, because of this vast difference in the speeds of the coast guard and the coast runners, the coast guard is able to maintain rendezvous at isolated spots, virtually without danger of detection or capture.

In the matter of maneuvering, however, the coast guard men, because of their expert knowledge of the waters, are so much better than the runners that frequently, that frequently important captures are made when the runners are led into traps from which they are unable to escape.

Public Nuisance Act.
In some sections of the lower peninsula enforcement officers are not invoking the public nuisance act, which has been chosen as the principal weapon to be used in driving liquor law violators from Detroit. The public nuisance act gives authority, under certain conditions, for the court to "padlock" for one year houses classed as disorderly or where persistent violations of the law are committed.

Prosecutor Carr of Calhoun county believes there is no need of invoking this act in fighting liquor forces in that county. "There are ample means of stopping liquor law violations through the regular channels of the courts," he said, "without having recourse to padlocking. We have found these the quickest and most successful methods of fighting these cases."

Many enforcement officers are awaiting their cue from Attorney General Andrew B. Dougherty, who is directing the liquor fight in Wayne county.

Are you going? Where? Why, to the Charity Ball, of course. Every one will be there! HARRY JACKSON IS CAPABLE OFFICIAL AND IS SELF MADE

Fourteen Years Ago He Was Walking a Beat on Detroit Streets, But Advanced Rapidly.

DETROIT, Nov. 12. Harry H. Jackson, the new head of the Michigan Department of Public Safety, of which the Michigan State Police is the largest single unit, was walking a patrolman's beat in Detroit fourteen years ago. He has risen from policeman to sergeant, later to lieutenant and finally to director of traffic and public safety of the Detroit Police Department. He was appointed to the state position made vacant by the resignation of Col. Roy C. Vandercook; after Governor Groesbeck had looked over the state for a man best adapted to the task of perfecting the state police organization.

Commissioner Jackson has been a specialist in traffic for 12 years. Some of the modern methods of handling traffic congestion in the large cities of the country were originated by him. He worked out the stop and go system at street intersections, and was under his direction that the first traffic tower was built in Detroit. The latest triumph of his division of the police department was the synchronizing by vehicular control in downtown Detroit by means of signals flashed simultaneously by an electric device. Under this system all traffic for many blocks is directed from one tower, speeding the movement of vehicles and lessening danger of accidents.

A recent accomplishment of the police division under his direction was the opening of a school for drivers of motorcars and trucks, to provide instruction in traffic ordinances to persons applying for drivers' licenses.

Commissioner Jackson bears a reputation of being conservative. He is inclined to consider all proposed changes thoroughly, and from every angle before making general shifts in policy. He has made it clear he will go slow and be sure of his ground before making any radical changes in the state police force.

RICKEY DISCOVERED BOTTOMLEY DURING TALK TO STUDENTS

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—Branch Rickey, manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, has been "joshed" about his Sunday School and Chautauqua speeches, but he has had the last laugh on his friendly critics because it was through one of those speaking dates that he obtained Jim Bottomley, his star first baseman. Bottomley's rise to fame is one of the most dramatic in baseball history, for he was discarded as a failure and sold for $1,000, only to come back, bring a purchase price equivalent of $30,000, and prove his worth by finishing third among National League batmen in 1923. Back in the spring of 1919 Rickey went to Nakomis, Illinois, to talk to the high school. The principal of that school decided that Rickey was just the man to preside over the future destinies of Jim Bottomley, his student, and star ball player, so he haunted and harassed Rickey until the St. Louis Cardinal chief agreed to give the kid a trial with his club. The rest of the story about Bottomley reads like romance. For a while he had as much hard luck as Job. Rickey sent him to Mitchell, North Dakota, for seasoning. He made progress, and the next year was farmed out to Sioux City in the Eastern League. The Western seemed to be too fast for the big league rookie; anyway, he did not shine very brightly among the Sioux, so he was sent down to Houston in the Texas League the next year, which was in 1921.

He hurt his leg in an early season game in Texas, and the injury became infected. He played through the year under this handicap and it affected his fielding. His batting fell off to a point where it became a byword and a reproach—Bottomley, with his big eagle strings, hitting only .227 in the minors. So St. Louis tried to peddle him out to the Texans. They would not give $1,200 for him, so, in desperation, Rickey sold his Illinois High School wonder to Syracuse in the International for about $1,000. And Bottomley, the failure with the feeble batting average, started the 1922 season with a well leg and a game heart. He knocked the International fences down. His fielding was phenomenal. In the meantime Jacques Fournier, the hard hitting veteran first sacker for St. Louis, had gone into a batting slump. Bottomley was bought back again from Syracuse for $15,000 and some players and succeeded Fournier. He hit better than .300 the rest of the season and played good enough ball to attract the attention of the critics over the circuit. During the 1923 season Bottomley was among the first five hitters most of the time. He finished third with an unofficial mark of .371, behind Rogers Hornsby and Zach Wheat.

Bottomley worked in the mines in his home town and later became a machinist. He is a natural hitler. His gifts are a good eye and a strong constitution. He cultivated his courage and coolness.

FLINGS AT FOLLY

Where did the author of "If Winter Comes" get that "if"? Just possibly, the New Jersey dog that bit 35 people is an epicure. Men are gradually coming into their own. In Chicago one has been awarded alimony. The bobbed hair fad will end, apparently, when the bobbed hair fadists are ready to end it. There is a great deal of talk about "the open road," but for the most part it is closed for repairs. Moonshine is liquid sunstroke. June brides are being introduced to the furnace. The reckless driver is never late at his funeral. The world is trying to exist on half parley and half work. Even if we do have a hard winter, bricklayers should worry. What makes the Thanksgiving dinner so expensive is its relativity. The incoming express never stalls at the crossing. The refrain, "Another little drink wouldn't do us any harm," is no longer true, if it ever was. American women, according to a biologist, are becoming ugly, but that may be only an early forenoon opinion. President Coolidge's motto is: "Work, not words." A motto like that ought to work. When the train is coming, the driver who tries to beat it over the crossing is going. It's a double tragedy when the football player breaks the arm he used in writing to Dad. Fashion decrees that men's trousers should be worn longer. It sounds like the return of the old-fashioned patch feeties are budding. Too much attention to the pinstrip doesn't help the sheepskin. A famous movie team say they are still in love. What a thriller! A Colorado judge refused to punish a man found guilty of having two wives—any more. When some persons reach the turn of the road they consider it an opportunity to rest. To the children, winter means good clothing; to Dad it means hard sledding. It will require a long platform next year to park every idea of the dissenters. The man who gives up the fight at 50 probably had the same feeling at 40, or 30, or 20. The author of "Home, Sweet Home" had the good fortune to write it before the movies and the motor car came in.

A. & J. DE GRAND COMPANY

MANY 'MAYORS' HOLD QUASI OFFICIAL SWAY IN CITY OF NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—To the stranger and the uninitiated, New York, the metropolis, has only one mayor, John F. Hylan, but to those intimately acquainted with the highways and byways there are many more who, notwithstanding the informality of their choice, rule and hold title fully as strongly as the city's chief executive. There exists almost every kind of title on the East Side from mayor down to "clerk," and from "duke" to the most fledgling of princelings. Not only do the "mayors" hold title in themselves, but the personality of some of these quasi rulers has been so strong that the fame and the glamor surrounding their names have been transmitted to their descendants. So, for instance, did Erwin Steingut, "mayor of Second Avenue," come into the title which gives him social leadership in that section where he reigns. Most of the city's "mayors" and "nobility," however, are the first possessors of their titles. Among the best known of these is "Stitch" McCarthy, "mayor of Grand Street," whose real name is said to be Rosenthal. His pool room "kingdom" at Grand and Forsyth streets has been one of the landmarks of the East Side for a generation. McCarthy has numbered among his friends men who have risen to fame and fortune, including the late President Theodore Roosevelt and his son, Colonel Roosevelt. His claim for distinction is a double one, for not only is he "mayor of Grand Street," but he also is one of the two founders of the Grand Street Boys' Association, which now numbers on its rolls 1,500 men including judges, lawyers, senators and others of even greater distinction. Fifth Avenue's smartest clubs are no more exclusive and rigid in entrance requirements than this unique organization. One is ineligible unless born or "brought up" on the East Side below Fourteenth street and sometimes not even then. Uncle Nathan Viedicker, mayor of Eldridge street, who numbers many city and state members of the judiciary among his friends, has been "re-elected" to his position for the last twenty-one years. He recently sailed for Europe and among the host of friends who saw him off were three city magistrates, two judges, a banker and a wealthy manufacturer. A mention of "mayors" is incomplete unless the city's "nobility" is accounted for and in this connection the "Duke" of Essex street looks at the forefront. Joe Levy, whose dual estate for years has been the Essex Market Court, both old and new, probably is the leader in the city's princely ranks. Among others whose history is embellished with East Side glory is Max Berger, "mayor of Avenue C." The East Side also has its poet laureate, but the title, as many East Side ones are apt to be, is in doubt. There are two on whom others would thrust it "Doc" Morris Marx, who with "Stitch" McCarthy originated the Grand Street Boys' Association, and Joe Levenson.

Optimism Plus Confidence Plus Work Equals Prosperity

A "Boost Your Neighbor" Campaign in Escanaba is now running in the columns of The Daily Mirror.

Once the local resident realizes where his interests lie, one need not speculate as to the results of this campaign. However, it is up to the individual firms to keep the public acquainted with their line of goods and service they are prepared to render by giving it the necessary publicity.

In other words, let us get better acquainted in our business and personal relations and above all else, Mr. Citizen, KNOW YOUR CITY.

"The idea is an excellent one," said one of our prominent citizens the other day. "The campaign will bring the attention of the community to the many advantages to be found in patronizing our own merchants. The campaign is principally designed to acquaint the people of Escanaba with the buying possibilities in their own community.

"Money is a medium of exchange—you cannot wear it—you cannot eat it—but it cannot be used as a medium of exchange unless you keep it here.

"Some people work for a living—others invest their savings wisely and permit their money to work for them. In every business enterprise, capital and labor are the prime necessities. Capital supplies the tools, machinery and equipment and works just the same as labor.

"If you felt like working, would you prefer to work in your own yard, or would you go into your neighbor's yard to work? Most assuredly, you would work where you would receive the benefits. Then why should you send your money away to work for the advancement of some other part of the town?

"All we have to do is to trace the dollar bill in Escanaba. When it is spent here, it goes to the merchant, and he in turn uses it for the rent and other expenditures, and the landlord in turn spends it with the grocery man, the butcher, the druggist, and so on.

"If Escanaba people could travel with a dollar bill for one week and see the number of hands through which it passed they would never hesitate in doing all their buying at home. The merchants need this support and above all, the community benefits by it. Such a liberal educational campaign will have a far-reaching effect and make the community better and greater for it."

Have Kidneys Examined By Your Doctor

Take Salts to Wash Kidneys if Back Pains You or Bladder Bothers

Flush your kidneys by drinking a quart of water each day, also take salts occasionally, says a noted authority, who tells us that too much rich food forms acids which almost paralyze the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken, then you may suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sour, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night. To help neutralize these irritating acids, to help cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's urinous waste, get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days, and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys; also to neutralize acids in the system so they no longer irritate, thus often relieving kidney weakness. Jad Salts is inexpensive, can be taken with or without a prescription, and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink. It all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

Michigan, My Michigan," fell to with a hearty appetite.
The after-dinner program began with a patriotic selection from the Manistique band. The songs of the Harmony Four Quartette, composed of Messrs. Degnan, Dwyer, Degnan and Hinn, were so enthusiastically received that they were obliged to sing six or seven numbers before the program could be continued.
The Rev. F. A. Seiffert, state chaplain of the American Legion, responded to the toastmaster with the toast, "Our Country," in which he paid a forceful and glowing tribute to the symbol of the American nation, our flag. He recalled the first Armistice Day and showed how America had become a better and finer nation since that event five years ago. His message carried a sincere conviction that had a marked effect on his audience.
Girl Scout Executive Miss O'Connor, a former war nurse, was introduced and spoke a few words in response to her introduction.
"We have heard a great deal since the signing of the Armistice of Bolshevism, I. W. Wism, Ku Klux Klanism and what-not kind of "ism," but the real need of America today is patriotism," were the words with which Michigan's American Legion Vice-Commander, Mr. Herbert, of Manistique, drove home his earnest plea for a keener realization of each man's obligation to the community, state and nation so that by the same determination with which the Hun was driven back in 1918, the American might make his country a finer nation. This is essential so that the lives of those who lie in France today might not have been shed in vain.
The singing by the entire assembly of "The Star Spangled Banner" and one minute of silent prayer for the dead comrades overseas, completed the most successful and inspiring Armistice Day banquet Escanaba has ever witnessed.
No small part of the success of this event is due to the members of the Auxiliary for the excellent dinner which they provided and in appreciation of their efforts a rising vote of thanks was given them by the entire body present.

APPROVE CHARTER FOR JACKSON BANK OF THE "BIG FOUR"
Charles Chaison Returns From Important Meeting at Lansing; Other Banks May Start.
Charles Chaison has just returned from a meeting of the State Board of Appeal which was held at Lansing on November 7th, when steps were taken to organize a bank at Jackson, Michigan. Mr. Chaison stated today that other Brotherhood banks will be started in this state in the course of the year.
In commenting on the meeting, the Lansing State Journal says: "The city of Jackson has just been granted another bank by the state appeal board. The new financial institution will be known as the Farmers' and Workingmen's Savings Bank, organized under a state banking law and subject to state supervision. It will start with a capital of $100,000 and a $25,000 surplus.
This new bank, which has been organized and is backed by the Big Four railway brotherhoods in Michigan, won its grant for a charter after a contest with Hugh McPherson, state banking commissioner. The contesting body refused a charter on the grounds that Jackson now has five banks and does not afford a field for the sixth one.
Then the organizers appealed to the state appeal board, which consists of the governor, the attorney general and the secretary of state. After a hearing of the matter this board last Wednesday afternoon granted the charter. Governor Grosbeck said that action was taken on the showing made before the board that the city of Jackson has not had a new bank for the past 12 years or more, and during that time has increased in population about 15,000.
While the name of the bank would indicate that the farmers' and workingmen's bank was intended to be organized exclusively by the railroad men and will be an industrial bank for their benefit and accommodation.
Samuel H. Rhoads, former city attorney of Lansing and attorney for all the railway men's organizations in the state, handled the matter for the organizers of the new bank.

PATTISON'S MEN FINISH SEASON WITH A VICTORY
Undeclared Champs of U. P. Capt. Thompson Satisfied With Work of His Teammates.
For the second time this year defeating the strong Manistique football squad, the locals yesterday walked away with a hard-fought victory, 6-0.
At the outset it seemed that the locals were in for an awful trimming, Manistique snatching the field almost at will. Three times in the first half the visitors carried the ball to the local's fifteen yard line and three times Thompson's men held a state wall and the ball went over, and was pointed out of danger. The locals scored early in the third quarter when a pass to Capt. Thompson carried the ball to Manistique's thirty-five yard line, another one to "Briarcliff" Smith, followed by a brilliant run, brought it to Manistique's one-yard line. Smith went over but put one foot over the boundary line and Referee Flannigan put the ball on the one yard line with first down for Escanaba. Dawson took it over for a touchdown and talked at the kick.
Moyers was the star for the visitors, thus and again getting a pass and starting off for the local's rank, but never quite made it owing to the wonderful secondary defense the Pattison had built. Quick was crippled and his condition was a devoted hat-dance to his teammates.
Smith, Chaison and Thompson were the outstanding stars in the match for the locals. The five was good from end to end and the backfield was doing business both on the offense and defense all the time. "Briarcliff" Smith is perhaps the outstanding star of the team for the season. He has a perfectly nothing of football when he is wanted for the team and in it's quiet moments develops into one of the best groundsmen and defensive men on the team. His kicking was very accurate and his spirit of fight and his team was a success and a big one and over again in a decisive way.
The team was a success and a big one and over again in a decisive way. The team was a success and a big one and over again in a decisive way.

ESCANABA AND ARMISTICE DAY
Aside from the war with Spain, the European War is the first great struggle in which Escanaba has played a part—for at the time of the Civil War there was only one log hut where this city stands today.
As we celebrate the victory of 1918, let us rejoice that Escanaba had a share in upholding the Nation's high traditions, and honor the sons and daughters of our community who helped make victory possible!

Germany Striving for Markets in Turkey
CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 12. (The daily mail) Germany is striving for the Turkish market with German merchandise. With an all sea route from her ports, and unimpeded by the restrictions of the overland shipping through European states, she is getting ready to begin her post-war position here.
German merchants, commercial travelers, exporters and importers are already here in considerable numbers. German and Austrian goods are being sent to show in the shops, and for the first time since the World War German goods are heard of in the streets.
During the occupation no national or enemy state was permitted in Turkey without an international system, something almost impossible to obtain. Now Turkey is encouraging the Germans to come, and it is reported that a great influx of them is expected this winter. They will largely take the place of the exiled Greeks and Armenians.

WATCH COAST FOR RUM-LADEN SHIPS
Three Vesse's Carrying Whiskey Sail From Nassau, Bahama Islands.
(By the Associated Press)
NEW YORK, Nov. 12. Police of the marine division tonight were keeping a close watch for three British steamships, laden with 20,000 cases of whiskey valued at $500,000, which left Nassau, Bahama Islands for "ports unknown."
Word of the sailing of the suspected rum runners came simultaneously with the announcement that Police Commissioner Euriicht is cooperating with the American consul at Nassau to stem the flow of whiskey, gin and other liquors from the Bahamas into the United States. A close check is being made by the police commissioner, it was said, on liquor sales, the boats loading liquor and names of buyers.
In furtherance of the war against smugglers, a fleet of fast motor boats is being specially constructed for the police department.
FISKE O'HARA HERE NEXT.
Fiske O'Hara will be with us again on Monday, when he plays his annual engagement at the Delta theatre in his latest success, "Jack of Hearts." De Witt Newing, the author, has written an ingenious and extremely interesting play, a play that has seldom been surpassed as a study of character and temperament, all drawn with real fidelity to life. It is a play for grown-ups which the young folk will enjoy and has freely demonstrated that it has an appeal to young and old, rich and poor. Its scenes are in Ireland and in the famous Greenwich Village section of New York City. As Jack Murname in the play of Mr. O'Hara, makes a very delightful hero and you are sure to like him very much. His houses are everywhere filled to capacity, but then Fiske is a show in himself and whatever he does, he satisfies his public. In a number of new songs he meets with his usual success.
Social at High School!
There will be a social gathering at the Escanaba high school for the parents of the eighth grade pupils of the Franklin school. The invitations were sent out the latter part of last week. A lunch will be served and the big drawing card for the evening will be Mr. Munson, president of the Northern State Normal at Marquette. A great number of parents are expected to attend.
