

'HARD JOBS' ARE EASY, AND EASY JOBS ARE HARD

That's what One Writer Sends in to Win Prize in Contest.

And Our Second Story Today Will Please the Traveling Men If They Read It in Its Entirety.

HARD JOBS ARE EASY

The shortest letter we have received in the Daily Mirror "Hardest Job" contest was received yesterday afternoon and there is a lot of truth in it, too. The letter says:

The Escanaba Daily Mirror—

"Allow me, please, to express my self on the Hardest Job.

"The Hardest Job is the easiest job, providing you like it, and the Easiest Job is the Hardest Job, if you don't like it!"

The Traveling Salesman.

"With a wink of indignation upon my brow I take my pen in hand to right the wrongs which have been committed against one of our most honorable professions. Ever since I was a budding youth in knickerbockers I have seen the injustice which has lowered this occupation to the depths of jobism, and it is this thought that guides my pen. My burning indignation has been fanned to the fires of wrath by a recent experience, and I have become so inflamed that I must write, and write right now.

"On attaining the august age of five, I participated in the greatest event of my life when my mother led me kindly but firmly into the clutches of my first teacher. At that time (not including teachers) I associated with actors, with cabmen and policemen they were all carnivorous cannibals. One of the terrors of my childhood was the ever imminent danger of falling into the hands of those South Sea gentlemen.

"A salesman was a kind of monster with characteristics which seemed to me almost human. His one aim was to break into houses, for what reason I didn't know, because I never saw one get any farther than a broom stick or a bull dog would allow him. Daily occurrence showed me that force was necessary to get rid of him, that any handy implement would serve that purpose satisfactorily.

"That attitude, strange as it may seem, has been shown by every five-year-old youngster with whom I have come in contact. And after boiling the proposition down to its very essence I believe I have found a reason for this feeling. The fantastic childish conceptions of the children reflect the injustice and ingratitude of older people.

"Being of the age when I am still embarrassed about wearing my first long trousers, I have not yet associated with my fellow men, young enough to become hardened and seasoned to the cruelties and injustices of the world. I still have compassion, when upon hearing a rap on the front door my mother says, 'Tell that peddler to get out! We don't want anything!'

"And so, when I open the door to admit a deluge of cold air and hot words from a peppery salesman, I must turn readily aside to shed a tear while I do my mother's bidding. Many times my heart would almost break with grief to see the look of disappointment on the young fellow's face as he turns to leave with that 'thank you but I would like to have sold you something' air.

"Already I have seen a vicious young bull pup held himself to the calf of a book vendor's leg. Already I have seen four feet of hard, maple broom handle, descend with a sickening thud upon a patient, stove-hanger salesman's cranium. Many an ardent salesman has been rudely interrupted in the middle of a crashing crescendo by an impolite slam of the front door. And these are but a few of the reasons why traveling salesmen must carry a stout heart and a bottle of bromine as a part of stock in trade.

"The situation has reached such a stage that the poor salesman is down on his back and hollering for help, yet the buying public stands harshly by to prod him in the ribs whenever he gets tired of yelling.

"Day in and day out he trudges steadily, persistently, from cottage bungalow, from mansion to shack, with goods that the world cannot afford to be without. Is he received joyously? Is he received with outstretched arms, as is fitting to one who possesses an invaluable, new stove polish, or the very latest, price less cork puller? No. His reception is a locked door, or an indolent maid, far below him in mental make-up who glares at him as he retreats in orderly confusion.

"Very few people delight in the fact that they are descendants of the Troglodytes' nigger, yet when they resort to violence to expel a salesman they admit their barbaric ancestry. I am not opposed to Mr. Bryan, so it is with reluctance that I hold on this missing link in the chain of evolution. Even with this crushing evidence it is hard to believe that we are all overgrown monkeys. Many of the firm antagonists to Darwin's theory prove hundreds of times a year that their lineage extends to those barbaric ancestors. They are as inconsistent as a sixteen-year-old girl, or would inconsistency personified be better?

"There are two ways to handle a situation—mentally and physically; by using the head or by using the foot. To handle a situation mentally a person must have a certain degree of education. To handle a situation physically a person needs only a heavy right foot and an objective.

"A person would seek to cope with a salesman by his mentality if he could. If he resorts to force he admits that his mental furnishings are not quite adequate.

"Now, there's Mrs. Tim Rafferty across the street who prides herself on the fact that she is able to dispose of a salesman within two minutes, four and one-half seconds (her present record) by means of her trusty rolling pin. She would not boast again to Mrs. John Brown across the back yard fence, if she realized that every time her rolling pin found a victim she admitted that she was not often in a position to 'boos'.

"I have my cards face up on the table. Shall we continue to persecute the pale, emaciated salesman? Shall we let this backyard barrage of broom sticks and rolling pins and bull pups to continue? Is this an age of barbarism? I have played my trump card. 'Take it or leave it.'"

"SPECIALIST"—

"In Ready-to-Wear for Women and Misses"

If we have a physical disorder that becomes chronic, we go to a man who specializes in our particular trouble—not to a general doctor.

Women of discretion feel exactly the same way about their clothes!

Their desire to be able to buy clothes to make them look their individual best of exclusive material and design is the cause of this "Shop."

I only buy from manufacturers that produce their own original designs, and every garment that comes into this part of the state is confined to me, and likewise to you. Materials, linings and trimmings are always of the best—and when it comes to fittings in either Coats or Dresses, I positively correctly fit more people in becoming garments than any other store selling ready-to-wear that are not fortunate enough to be agents for the same lines I carry.

My overhead is so small in comparison with larger concerns that I am able to sell "Really Exclusive Models" just as reasonable as other firms mark garments of much less distinction.

REMEMBER—I SPECIALIZE IN COATS, SUITS AND DRESSES.

A wonderful assortment of Easter Creations for your approval now on display. We invite you to come in and see these beautiful garments and try them on, without any obligation to buy.

FEDERATION OF WOMEN WILL BE IN LOS ANGELES

Great National Problems to Be Discussed at the June Conference.

Prominent Club Women From All Over the United States Will Assemble for Ten Day Session.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., April 11 (United Press)—Who Shall Inhabit the United States? and What Shall Be Done? will be two of the outstanding problems of this country that will be presented for discussion before urbanized women during the biennial convention of the General Federation of Women's Clubs to be held here June 2-11.

While the program has been made out only in outline, finalization and authorization and international relations will be given considerable places.

Oswald Ryan, executive director of the company's Secretary of Labor, who oversees, will be a speaker on the relative position in charge of the Federal Food and Drug Administration, and Deputy Attorney General.

Miss Mabel M. Williams, secretary of the State, who will be a speaker on the subject of the Federal Food and Drug Administration, and Deputy Attorney General.

closure that will result in a more drastic stand of organized women in the matter of prohibition and prohibition enforcement officers.

In this connection, Ingeborg B. Oakley of Philadelphia, chairman of the division of civil service, is expected to introduce a resolution having the 2,500,000 women of the federation demand that all law enforcement officers be placed under civil service.

She is expected to make further charges that many of the so-called enforcement officers are now in the pay of the liquor interests.

In addition to the legislative program of the biennial convention, a day each will be given to discussion of various problems of education, public welfare, the arts, American citizenship and foreign relations.

Mrs. John D. Sherman of Edinburg, Pa., candidate for president of the General Federation to succeed Mrs. Thomas G. Weller is chairman of education. On this program to be given June 9, 200,000 education problems and the pressing need of a new system of education in the United States will be discussed.

Other educational topics will be presented by Mrs. M. J. C. Bradford, Denver, Colo., chairman of the American Education Association, and Mrs. M. J. C. Bradford, Denver, Colo., chairman of the American Education Association, and Mrs. M. J. C. Bradford, Denver, Colo., chairman of the American Education Association.

Harding Men in Ohio Come to Support of President Coolidge

COLUMBUS, Ohio, April 11 (AP)—If President Coolidge is victorious in Ohio in obtaining pledged delegates at the April 29 primaries, he will have behind his candidacy in this state virtually the same organization that helped Mr. Harding to victory in 1920.

With few exceptions, it is the Harding home-state forces that constitute the Coolidge pre-convention organization.

Heading the Coolidge list of candidates for delegates at large to the Cleveland convention is the name of the most faithful of all "Harding men," ex-Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty.

Next is the name of the man whose thundering speech at the Chicago convention of 1920 placed the Ohioan in the lists for the nomination, U. S. Senator Frank B. Willis.

Another candidate for delegate-at-large under the Coolidge banner is Mrs. James Gordon Bartons of Canton, Ohio, associate member for Ohio of the Republican national committee who, as far as ten years back was talking of her friend Warren G. Harding for the presidency.

Col. William Cooper, Professor of the Cincinnati law school, candidate from the state for delegate-at-large, is the only one of the list who was not at the convention. Harding man four years ago. He was one of the most prominent backers of the candidate, General Leonard Wood.

The Coolidge list of delegates at large is completed by U. S. Senator Peter J. Hill of Ohio, Charles E. Hatch of Akron, former congressman and Mrs. David Ford of Youngstown.

Among the Coolidge contingent in the Buckeye state, Mr. Harding's old friends and neighbors, Hoke Ross of Marion and two-time candidates for delegates to the convention in 1920, are included with the names of "Harding" men and women and the organization it leads.

The Lord of Thunder Gate

By Sidney Herschel Small

Illustrations by IRWIN MYERS

Copyright by The Bobbe Merrill Co. Perhaps Alberta loved Uncle Jim's money. Perhaps this girl would do the same. And she was already his wife! and he'd never know. If he could trap her into an admission that if he, Kayama, were but white . . . it was worth a chance. Why not risk it?

Blindly he faced her.

"O'Hana, if the august Lord of the Thunder Gate, to whom you are married, were a man of your own land, would you—it sounded hapless to him, and not what he wished to say—"Would you love him?"

"I could not say. I do not know you, Kayama San." Then, in a flutter, "Do not ask me such questions, please."

"You will know me better. Then I shall ask again."

"Yes, Kayama San," she said in a small voice. He was kind to her. Why not be equally kind? "I . . . like you," she added.

"That is well. You?" He paced about the room, to prostrate himself in the sacred Kalamono corner.

"What do you say to your god?" Ellen asked curiously.

"There may be fighting," Wells repeated for her with relish. "I ask for strength. We may go far, O'Hana. The son of my father has an explanation to make, and a debt to pay. Yes, there may be fighting."

"There May Be Fighting," Wells Repeated for Her With Relish.

He flung his arm toward the grinning, evil-smiling Thunder Gate. He felt that he was theatrical, but held steadily to his mode of speech. Lord, how he wanted to tell some one, preferably some one with such glorious hair, and sweet eyes.

"I may go across the sea," he explained to Kaminari, the god. "Accompany me, that my arm find strength." He would have added "and my heart, love," according to the formula, but, walking the proverbial seven times, he bowed rapidly out of the room.

Ellen's first thought was mission-ary, possibly inborn. If Kayama took her back to America, what would people say? The import of his words appalled her now for the first time. She feared it if he went; here there was a quiet garden, a kind, kindly man. If only her husband were . . . she was crimson again. What would she change this for?

Ellen heard his voice in the halls, giving curt orders; unexpected instructions, for she heard incredulous hisses of surprise. Kayama-San was informing his household that it was possible that their lord would journey to far lands, and they must be prepared for it, if he so decided.

Wells went to his room. He felt that he had been overhasty, impetuous, permitting his desires to overrule his judgment. To leave was no simple matter; there would be many details to attend to. It would all take time. And time was more precious now than ever. Each swish of the moving branch against the panel of his room brought Kayama. Kayama had wanted Ellen before. If he, Wells, the impostor, were discovered, the household would be certain to curry favor with their master and lord by repeating that which Ellen had sensed they knew; that Wells kept apart from his wife, the red-haired woman.

What was it that the Eleventh Book said? Dimly he remembered it. That there is—yes, that was it—no perfume to the blossom which Man has sown? Was this a fact? Would Kayama believe it? Suppose he, Robert Wells, carried it out? He was the girl's husband. He wasn't, at least, adherent to her. Wouldn't she, later, forgive him freely when he explained why he had acted so?

ENGLAND'S PROBLEM WILL BE THE DEFENSE OF LONDON IF ANOTHER WAR SHOULD BE ON.

Big City Would Have Force of 600 First Line Planes for Defense.

Air Forces of the Empire to Be Concentrated at Home, Says United Press Correspondent.

By CLARENCE DU BOISE (United Press Staff Correspondent)

CHAPTER II. LONDON, April 11 (United Press)—England's air plans for the next war are "purely defensive," it is authoritatively declared.

"But," you are told, "of course, a certain amount of offense must enter into any scheme of defense."

The same statement, in effect, could be made of the air plans of every great power. Some admit preparations of offense against another, but each is making a "certain amount" of offensive preparation, as an essential ingredient of its "purely defensive" program.

That "certain amount" of offensive air strength, actual and proposed, is the unknown quantity in each air ministry of the big powers. A handful of men in each capital know the full details of their country's future air program and are trying to out-guess other handfuls of men in the air offices of other capitals.

Protection of London.

The fundamental of England's air defense plans for the next war is the protection of London. Those whose job it is to dope out the movements of the next war figure that the first attempt of any major enemy will be to destroy London from the air—and they know full well that if that is so the enemy will have won the war.

So England's new air policy is to concentrate her flying force at home to have available on her coasts and immediately around London air fleets sufficiently powerful to destroy or drive away hostile aerial forces of any power or probable combination of powers.

When the new home air defense program is completed, by 1928 or 1929, England will have about fifty-two squadrons, or approximately 600 first-line aircraft, most of which will be kept on home defense stations.

The present home-defense air force is about ten squadrons, or 120 planes. The bulk of the present total air force is not at home, but is split between India, Mesopotamia, the Near East generally, and on service with the navy. Under the new plan considerable of these forces will be brought home, in addition to the building of new craft and training of new men, to be done during the next four or five years.

Recruit Air Forces.

When this program is completed there will be an increase of only about 10,000 men over the present force. In other words, the machine-power will be increased much more than the man-power. But most of these men will be actual flyers, for the ground work will be relegated to civilians as much as possible under the new plan.

Furthermore, there will be an increasingly large reserve of flying men trained in civilian schools or by the government or under the militia system, and available at any time for war service.

Elaborate ground-defense plans for London are also being prepared, anti-aircraft guns, fog-producers and what not. But the armament is disposed not to accept these defenses as any guarantee of protection. The next war, they say, will be an air war, and just that, and to stop enemy planes you must go into the air yourself and meet 'em there, and not stay on the ground shooting up at 'em.

Hobo Hen Found On Texas Engine

COMMERCE, Texas (United Press)—A new kind of train-riding hobo has been reported to Cotton Belt headquarters, according to F. W. Harrison, train inspector of this division.

Harrison's report resulted from an inspection of an engine of a Fort Worth-Commerce passenger train made when the usual band of train-metzing natives gathered around the engine instead of the passenger coaches when the train arrived here.

On the pilot, undisturbed by the on-lookers but apparently restless on account of the delay in her sight-seeing tour, Harrison found a domineering hen settled comfortably. The chicken pie was good, Harrison said.

$15,000 BOSTON SWINDLE SUSPECT UNDER ARREST

CHARLOTTE, Mich. Mrs. Blanch Paul, alleged to be a member of a gang which defrauded Victor A. Searles, of Boston, out of $15,000, is under arrest here for Boston authorities.

John F. Mitchell, inspector from the Boston police department, trailed the woman here, where she was found at the home of relatives, and has asked for extradition. Mrs. Paul has retained an attorney to oppose extradition on the grounds of ill health. A hearing has been set for May 14.

BROADCASTING PLAYS SUCCESS BUT EXPENSIVE

Theatrical Men Claim It Costs Them Many Patrons Who Sit at Home and Hear Play.

DETROIT, April 11.—Broadcasting of parts of theatrical productions has been tried by local stations with marked success, according to reports of radio fans throughout this and adjoining states.

The first act of a musical show recently was broadcast from the stage by the use of special apparatus installed by WWS (Detroit Free Press), while the broadcasting from New York last week of the entire performance of a musical comedy, at the Knickerbocker theater was plainly heard by many fans.

Broadcasting of professional stage productions is a most questionable theatrical medium, many of whom hold that the production loses much of its box office effect after it has been put on the air. It is less expensive to sit at home and hear a performance than to go to the theater, they point out. Some few producers, however, have taken the stand that direct broadcasting is good advertising, when the play appeals to the radio audience and brings added box office patronage.

Columbia U Refuses to Oust Negro Lodger

NEW YORK.—The attempt on the part of the Furman hall committee at Columbia university to bring about the dismissal of Frederick W. Wells, negro law student residing in Furman hall, failed Monday when the residence halls committee, composed of university authorities, met and rejected the request.

Don Herbert E. Hawkes of Columbia college presided over the meeting which refused to ask Wells to move.

"This request has been received," he said, "but it has been refused. That ends it. There will be no further action taken for we have dropped the matter."

Legal Padlock Ruling Awaited in Michigan

IRON MOUNTAIN, Mich.—Judge Flannigan of the circuit court recommended that the six legal padlock suits pending hearing here be continued until a decision has been returned by the state supreme court on the constitutionality of the state abatement act. There is a test pending before the state tribunal which probably will be decided during the April session, the court was advised.

Only five of 28 cases on the criminal calendar scheduled for the April term will be tried during this term of court. Ten men and women, charged with liquor violations, pleaded guilty. Oliver Campbell, charged with impersonating a federal officer, also pleaded guilty.

Plans Own Funeral Then Ends His Life

KALAMAZOO, Mich., April 11.—After completing preparations for his own funeral and writing a note with instructions concerning the disposition of his body, Fred Cole, 47-year-old, ended his life in his shack near here Saturday night. His body was found Sunday night by John Mitchell, a friend. On a table beside the body were his funeral clothes, in which a note asked that he be buried. A family album with a note addressed to each member also was found, but none explained the cause of his act. Cole was married, but had been separated from his wife.

GO NO FARTHER

The Evidence Is at Your Door. Escanaba proof is what you want and the statement of this highly respected resident will banish all doubt: Henry Zeigler, 625 South 16th St., Escanaba, says: "Generally in the morning, I had quite a time of it with my back. There was a pain across my kidneys which seemed to hold me down when I attempted to get up from the bed. I was bothered a great deal when I bent because sharp catches took me in my back. It was hard to do my work and lack of sleep had me so tired and weak I didn't feel like myself at all. My kidneys were in a bad shape and I had to get up two or three times during the night to pass the secretions which burned in passage and contained sediment. I heard Doan's Pills recommended and bought a supply at the West End Drug Store. They fixed me up in good shape."

A COMMERCIAL FERTILIZER FOR YOUR LAWNS

Agricultural College Tells How to Get Rid of the Famous Dandelions in an Easy Manner.

EAST LANSING, Mich., April 11.—It is possible to eliminate dandelions and plantain from the lawns, declared Dr. M. M. McCool of the Michigan Agricultural College, by feeding the lawn with ammonium sulphate as a fertilizer. The sulphate may be used to eliminate weeds where the lawn is made up of bent grass, red top or regrass.

Dr. McCool exploded the old idea that it is necessary to use barnyard waste, with its obnoxious litter, on lawns. Commercial fertilizer produces far better results, he declared. It should be applied in the spring, with the best results in general coming from the application of two pounds of nitrate of soda per square rod. The sulphate supplies the nitrogen needed for vigorous growth.

New lawns should be rolled, Dr. McCool said, and should be soaked thoroughly. He said it is better to lay the hose on the ground and let the water run than to sprinkle, the latter form not being effective.

GERMANY FIGHTING WORLD WAR OVER AGAIN, SAYS GROOT

This Is the Third of a Series of Articles Having to Do With Country's Politics.

By CARL D. GROOT
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
CHAPTER III

BERLIN, April 11 (United Press).—The war is being fought all over again in the campaign for the Reichstag elections of May 1.

The Nationalists and Folkists have trotted out effectively their favorite little themes, "die Schuldlage" ("The Guilt Lie"), and "die Dolchstoß Legende" (the dagger-stab legend) as campaign propaganda.

"Die Schuldlage," perhaps the top ic nearest the heart of the Nationalist, concerns itself with combating the claim that Germany alone was guilty for the war. Can the Nationalist get this idea across then he can peacefully proceed to tear up the Treaty of Versailles (to him he saves to do anyhow, sooner or later).

The Socialist and other Republican masters of post-war Germany are being attacked fearfully for not having averted this lie before the world long ago now. Many folks will vote Nationalist as a result of this phase of the campaign.

But even deadlier in its political effects is the "Dolchstoß Legende."

The Socialists, to say the Nationalists, stabbed the front in the back—back in 1918 (at least in a manner of speaking).

More explicitly, the Marxists, backed by the Semites, are damned for the revolution. They are accused of undermining the army and causing the revolt and revolution which led eventually to the formation of the republic, after the great monarchist, Wilhelm II., had fled "bei Nacht und Nebel" to the serene seclusion of Doorn, Holland.

Socialist leader Scheidemann and others have often enough shown that the great hero Ludendorff demanded an armistice back in 1918 for the simple reason that his armies were rapidly crumbling and because they were beaten.

This fact is down in black and white in the government's archives.

But the Nationalists still have back with the original version about stabbing the front in the back. Their public is so naive, to put it mildly, that it fails to heed the documentary evidence of Ludendorff's guilt on the stoppage of the war.

(End Chapter III.)

Broke Into Jail; Got Five Years

COALGATE, Okla., (United Press).—Five years in the state penitentiary for breaking into jail was the penalty imposed upon Tommy Wilson. Wilson was discharged from jail after serving a term for disturbing the peace. A few nights later he appeared at the jail to renew acquaintances, but found the door locked. Securing a ladder, Wilson pried several logs off a cell window and invited his friends to escape. They declined and told the jailer. Wilson pleaded guilty.

BOYS FIRING AT TARGET KILL FARMER ON PORCH

BAY CITY, Mich., April 11. Lawrence Dworek, an Arcene county farmer, died at a hospital here from a rifle wound received while he was standing on the porch of his brother-in-law's home. An investigation showed that the shot was fired by boys who were shooting at a target 40 rods away. Two boys are being held by the sheriff.

PRIDE IN APPEARANCE

"Pride in Appearance"
A Nation-wide Movement

There are few men who are not proud of their homes. A home is one of the things the world judges a man's social standing by, and as a consequence he wants it to be as good as he can make it. It is not merely a place to live, but one to which he is glad to invite his friends, where he may entertain them comfortably and be proud to do so.

Likewise there are few men who do not insist that their wives or daughters be well dressed—that their appearance be a credit to them.

Today there is sweeping throughout the country the "Pride in Appearance" Movement. It is a movement for better clothes for men, a movement for correct dress. It has been brought about by the attitude of men themselves, who are everywhere paying more attention to correct appearance, and who are insisting on finer things. Everywhere men are coming to know more about clothes, and are becoming more careful in their buying. They insist that a suit of clothes should do more than wear well. They insist also that it be correct, smart, well tailored and well cut. This movement is also evidenced by the attitude of manufacturers, who realize that they must offer better values and are doing so. It is not limited to one city or section of the country, but extends throughout the nation.

This movement means that men have realized the importance of clothes in everyday life, and are giving them the attention they deserve. Today no man cares to be incorrectly dressed, but on the contrary he takes pride in correct appearance. "Pride in Appearance" means that men have realized that clothes are a large factor in their impression upon other people, and that a man's appearance is a matter which will repay his most careful attention. It gives correct dress to himself for the address and self-confidence it gives him. He owes correct dress to his family because it gives them as much pride in his appearance as he takes in theirs. He owes it to his position, because clothes that are either conspicuous or ill-fitting are no help to business, but on the contrary are frequently a detriment.

In short, "Pride in Appearance" is sweeping the country because men everywhere have realized that no man can run the risk of seeming poorly dressed, but that his clothes, like his home, serve as a standard by which the world at large judges him and measures his standing.

Better Styles, Bigger Assortments, Greater Values

THESE ARE OUR PART IN THE "PRIDE IN APPEARANCE" MOVEMENT

Men in every city are realizing more than ever before the importance of good dress. That's the meaning of the "Pride in Appearance" Movement, which is sweeping the country.

Knowing our own city as we do, we realized months ago what the demand on us would be at the Easter Season. We prepared. We combed the markets of the country—we secured the co-operation of manufacturers, we made certain that we would have not only the largest assortments and the best styles we have ever shown—but the greatest values as well.

They're ready for you now. Wonderful shirts, the finest of hosiery, colorful neckwear, smart hats; and an immense assortment of Society Brand Clothes, the best in America. A great many of them are the loose, easy styles that's the thing today—broad shouldered coats, straight, wide trousers, the most comfortable and the best looking clothes men have ever worn.

All this is our part in the "Pride in Appearance" movement; it's the biggest thing we have ever done; we want you to see it.

"Home of Quality Clothing and Shoes"

HATS

There are two styles of hats that are particularly good this season; the careless effect with the brim turned down, and the well rolled brim on a full, sturdy shape. We have both, in a wonderful assortment of the season's smartest shades.

$5.00 to $7.00

SHIRTS

There's nothing better looking this season than the colored shirt with starched collar to match. You can wear them, too, with a white collar. The soft shirt, with collar attached, however, is popular and perfectly correct. We have both in a rich variety of shades and patterns—everything in smart shirts.

$1.75 to $10.00

NECKWEAR

Foulards are going to be as popular as last year; the bright patterns in endless and colorful variety, both four-in-hands and bows. Knitted ties, too, of course they will always be good—also French Silks, English Silks, Austrian Silks, Swiss Silks. They're all here.

$1.00 to $2.50

HOSIERY

Following the lead of neckwear, hosiery is more colorful this season; well dressed men are going in for smart effects to harmonize with suit, tie and shirt. We have a splendid assortment of plain shades and unusual patterns, along with the standard colors.

TOY FAIR IN CHICAGO WAS GREAT SHOW

Edward Erickson, Jr. Spent Several Days Looking Over Exhibit.

Nearly Every Manufacturer of Toys in the World Was Represented at Big Fair.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Erickson have returned from Chicago, where they went to attend the toy fair which is being held in Chicago for several days for the benefit of toy buyers who are flocking to Chicago from all parts of the country. To give an idea of the size and number of exhibits, it is only necessary to state that nine floors of the big Morrison hotel are devoted to the display of toys.

Each manufacturer used from one to six rooms for his own display and buyers, both wholesale and retail, went to the different rooms and placed their orders for the Christmas trade.

For many years Germany was alone in holding a toy fair. German toy exporters sent representatives to this country to display the line in five or six of the big shopping centers, but when the war came on and the money was no longer in a position to manufacture toys, other manufacturers got into the business and today the United States is making a better line of toys than any other country on the face of the earth.

Germany had a large exhibit at Chicago, but the German toys today are not much different than they were twenty-five years ago. They are not durable compared to the American made products and while cheap, do not appeal to the American child who wants the best in toys.

Inside Stuff For the Easter Bride

By HEDDA HOYT
How doth the busy Easter bride improve all days but Sundays? She fits each hour from shop to shop.

A purchasing her uncles' NEW YORK, April 11 (United Press) When a girl says, "This is so sudden," to her swan's proposal, it's because she thinks he's giving her pretty short notice for buying her trousseau. Most follows these days expect a girl to be ready for the altar a month or two after the proposal of marriage. In olden days, two or three years was the usual time allotted for filling the camphor hope chest. Girls today don't bother about hope chests. They hop for a proposal, and when they land one they hop in a taxi and make the shops.

The old theory about wearing "something old, something new, something borrowed and something blue" doesn't get hold in these days. "Something new" is the only idea that gets across.

This spring offers a glorious selection of new lingerie for the Easter bride. Lingerie sets, including vest, stockings, nightgowns and negligee, are among the newest of the new. Materials for these vary according to one's taste, from practical crepe de chamois, satins and jersey silks to chiffons, ruffles and georgettes. Lace is the trim preferred for bridal lingerie, and the variety ranges from rose point to valenciennes. Tinted lace, trimming white materials is new and not edging is used considerably. Monograms are not being used on lingerie very much this year, as the bride chooses to forget the initials of her maiden name as soon as possible.

Bride's Lingerie. White, of course, is the bride's color. She may add pastel-lined rose-buds or colored embroidered net by way of trimming, but her garments, then, elvish should be white. Tiny silver rose-buds and leaves are a novel trim that is being sponsored on many bridal models. A lovely negligee of white neckline and armholes bordered in silver leaves. From each under-arm comes a wide panel of silver lace, which extends the entire length of the gown. A sash of narrow turquoise velvet ribbon ties about the low waist-line.

Slips of crepe de chene and other materials are made on Princess lines, without suggestion of waistline or fullness over the hips. A flounce of lace or pleated chiffon is sometimes added below the knee.

Nighties. Vests, step-ins, envelopes and bloomers have not altered greatly as to line, although nightgowns which, by the way, are preferable to pajamas for the trousseau come in an assortment of new models.

One of the newest gown ideas is the lace flounce, which begins below the knee. The lace may be repeated in yoke effect at the neck and as a ruffle finish about the armhole. The bertha effect formed by a ruffle of wide lace about the rounding neckline is lovely for the youthful bride. The lace usually extends well over the shoulder. Rounded necklines, finished with lace yokes or with net edging, are more youthful than ribbon shoulder-strap effects.

Bride's Corset. A few years ago the young girl welcomed her first boned corset as a sign of maturity. Today, however, the boned corset is a style fit only for the fat and aged. The bride's corset is a boned affair of white satin combined with silk elastic garters over the hips, and in the center back. For the very slender person the corset-brassiere combination is designed. These are straight-lined and are made of heavy satin, with elastic in the rear and over the hips. The side fastening is preferred in these models. Step-in corsets are also popular with the slender figure. They are made very much like the corset-brassiere, except that they are made almost entirely of elastic. A model which gives a little more support to the figure buttons in front and laces in back. Two soft bones in front and two in the rear are used on these models. Garters of shirred, white satin attach in front and on the sides.

1,500 DETROIT WOMEN JOIN BOBBED HAIR RANKS DAILY

DETROIT—Barbers and hair dressers' scissors are bobbing the tresses of Detroit women and girls at the rate of nearly 1,500 a day, according to Rudolph Zabel, president of the newly-organized Detroit and Michigan Hair-Dressers' Association. A pre-Easter rush is on in Detroit, it is explained, and many department stores and beauty parlors have augmented their regular forces with additional barbers and hairdressers.

The stampede is due to the new Easter bonnets, as hats this year are so constructed as to sit comfortably only on a head with a minimum of hair.

"It looks as if the bobbing craze were here to stay for a while," Mr. Zabel said, "and it now behooves our organization to encourage rather than discourage it. When bobbed hair becomes too prevalent when the maid dresses her hair like her mistress—then, if not before, the fad will come to an abrupt end."

As a result of the hair-cutting craze, the controversy between barbers and hairdressers has become tense. Barbers are claiming that cutting hair is not within the province of hairdressers, and the hairdressers, on the other hand, think that in this country a girl can get her hair bobbed wherever she pleases.

And so the "beauty shop" proprietors want a test case. "I never wanted to be arrested before in my life, but now I am willing," one said, "but no one seems to want to prosecute me. I shall continue cutting hair until I am forced to quit."

A meeting of the hairdressers' association will be held tonight, and a lawyer will be the chief speaker. The hairdressers want to know the law, and they are determined to have the test case, they say.

CHARLES GASSNER CALLOWED HIS MASTER'S DICE.

BERLIN, April 11—Operating on an ailing bull dog, a Berlin veterinary found in its stomach a set of dice, the property of its student owner. From a dashboard that rattled strangely when it ran, the same veterinary removed an iron ball and a big stone. Both patients recovered.

Society

Priscilla Sewing Circle.

The Priscilla Sewing Circle of the Norwegian Danish Lutheran church will meet this evening at the home of Miss Olga Hansen, 1011 Sixth avenue, south.

A Pantry Sale will be conducted Saturday by members of the First M. E. church at Peterson's Flower Shop, corner of Ludington and Tenth streets, the sale opening at 10:30 o'clock. The patronage of the public will be appreciated.

Pie Eating Contest.

A large crowd of skaters attended the skating program at the Cobo Roller Rink last night at which time a Pie Eating contest was staged and Edward Gourd was awarded first prize as the champion pie eater and Tony Plath, second.

This feature will be repeated to-morrow afternoon for the children.

OF A PERSONAL NATURE

Mrs. F. Bergman, who has been visiting for the past two weeks with relatives in this city, left for her home in Detroit yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Beaton and Mrs. Joseph Bruner of Spalding returned to Escanaba this morning. They left late in the afternoon for their homes.

Mrs. John Lane and daughter, Gladys, of Schafer, were Escanaba callers yesterday.

Fred Albright and daughter, Lola, of Wells, returned from Oregon, where they spent the winter months. Mrs. William Ramspeck spent yesterday in Wilson visiting with relatives.

OBITUARY

JEAN FILLION. The funeral service for the little 16-months old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Fillion was held this afternoon from St. Anne's church, a large number of friends attending to sympathize with the young parents in the loss of their first child. The Fillion home was filled with flowers today and a large number of friends and acquaintances called at the home to personally extend their sympathy.

Row Settled, Lansing Gets G. A. R. Meeting

LANSING, Mich., April 11.—With the appointment by Mayor Alfred H. Dougherty of a new committee of business men to provide the necessary funds, definite announcement has been made that the state convention of the G. A. R. and other veterans' organizations would be held in Lansing in June.

Considerable controversy was aroused over the meeting when it was first cancelled by the local chairman to appropriate $3,500 for entertainment. Other officials repudiated the cancellation later.

The council was notified that representatives of the veterans had met in Detroit and decided to hold the convention as scheduled in Lansing, and they did not care how the money was raised so long as it was forthcoming.
