Just Between Ourselves

WHY AMERICA EXCELS.

Americans are often criticized for their love of pleasure and lack of thrift with time any money. It is often charged that we spend too much time in the theatre, the dance hall, the motor car, the stadium and other resorts of pastime. The pleasure-loving Frenchmen believe we are coming around to their way of taking life. The dull English and the sober-sided at home remember the decline and fall of the Roman empire, but most of us know that none of them sees us aright.

The word "pastime" was derived from the phrase "pass the time." A usual definition of the contraction is some expedient to keep time from lagging. This is not, however, the definition which can be applied to the pastimes of the mass of Americans.

It is never more obvious than in the spring that Americans love sports and pleasures for something more than a desire to play and to be spendthrift with time. That something is the recognition of the need of a stock of fresh air, recreation and exercise to restore us to perfect health after the rigors of winter and to prepare our bodies and minds for the tasks of the next winter. The average American plays not for surcease from work but for strength for work. There are no peoples on the globe who work as industriously and vigorously as Americans and so there are none requiring as much recreation.

The two weeks' vacation is a national trait of the United States and as such tells the story of a nation which works 50 weeks out of the year and plays two. During the 50 weeks of labor the more mature play golf for exercise, not pleasure; the middle-aged motor, swim, ride and hunt for not pleasure alone but to store up new energy for more work; the young swim, play tennis, hike, dance and motor, perhaps with pleasure as the lone objective, but nevertheless assimilating the sturdiness and health of the out-of-doors. That the American is as systematic and regular in his recreation as he is in his work explains in great part his seemingly inexhaustible capacity for work.

Americans do not place pleasure before business but to the contrary make business of their pleasure.

OLD STUFF.

The very best method of keeping the teeth and mouth clean, according to Dr. James Ewing, Professor of Pathology at Cornell University Medical College, is to give them daily scrubbings with ordinary soap and water, gargle the suds and repeat the process until the mouth feels clean, he advises.

The estimable doctor was antipated in his excellent recipe by the mothers of a generation ago. The method of using soap and water, not, indeed, for mere physical cleanliness, but to purge the system of those gravities which came generally under the classification of "bad words," was widely known when the doctor was still in knee pants.

So far as using soap suds as a dentifrice goes, we hardly feel qualified to speak. But as a cleanser of the soul and mouth at once, as the quickest means of bringing about repentance for the base, the vulgar or the blasphemous words of youth it has no equal. It is not recalled that ever a boy who had his mouth washed out with soap voluntarily gargled the suds until he felt clean in body and spirit. That refinement of the method it was left to Dr. Ewing to suggest.

HEROINES ARE OLDER NOW.

Age is slowly creeping upon the heroines of romantic love, but seems to be doing it in the characteristic way age has with woman, very slowly. For the age of the heroine has advanced in more than 50 years only from 17 to 28.

Twenty-eight is now the average age for a heroine of a love-story, the fact having been established by the examination of more than 27,000 scenarios submitted in a recent contest. Whereas, in 1870, so the judges declare, it was 17.

There is another peculiarity about the age of the heroine. In the scenarios submitted by women writers and these were 60 per cent of the entire number—the age of the heroine averaged about five years more than the age of the heroine created by the man writer. Women will see nothing strange in this but will take it as a proof of the efficiency of the beauty parlor, whose secrets every woman knows, but which are intended for the deception of men.

But age is creeping upon the woman politician also, although she will probably not consider it a serious matter. For although a woman becomes a voter at 21, it is the woman of 35 who is going to decide the elections. So says Mrs. Maud Wood Park, president of the League of Women Voters, who says 35 is the age of the woman whose influence is to be felt in politics.

COOLIDGE WILL RENEW ACTION

Thaw Tries for Freedom After Seven Years

13 YEAR OLD SON ALLOWED TO INTERVENE

Guardians of His Estate Oppose His Action in Trying to Clear Lunacy Charge.

Mother's Love Is Back of Effort to Gain His Freedom for Man.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., April 14.—Russell William Thaw, claiming to be the 13-year-old son of Harry K. Thaw, was today allowed to intervene in the Thaw insanity proceedings, which began in Common Pleas court today. The intervention was made through the boy's guardian.

Judge John Monaghan, in permitting the boy to intervene, announced he could do so, not through his mother but through a guardian. John Hogan, one of the members of the counsel for Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, was then appointed as the boy's guardian.

The entrance of Harry K. Thaw into the court room was most impressive. Clad in black, his portly form and gray hair gave him the appearance of a prosperous professional man. There was much dignity in his carriage and after sitting for a short time in the section reserved for lawyers, he moved to the seats provided for spectators.

Harry K. Thaw, slayer of Stanford White, secured his liberty as the result of proceedings instituted in this city, where Thaw is confined, it will be a triumph of mother love.

Thaw, since 1917, has been an inmate of the Pennsylvania Hospital for Mental and Nervous Diseases, known popularly as "Kirksbrides." It is a private institution and a branch of the Pennsylvania hospital of this city. It receives state and is authorized to take state patients by commitment, where private funds are available for care and maintenance. This commitment is not due to the offense of Thaw against Frederick Gump, Jr., of Kansas City, then a boy, in a New York hotel.

Thaw claims, or his mother (Mrs. Mary Thaw) claims for him, through Thaw's attorney, Judge John M. Patterson of Philadelphia, that Thaw's seven years' treatment in the Philadelphia asylum has restored him to sanity and that he can now be released without menace to public safety.

When it was first announced by Judge Patterson that the release of Thaw would be sought, Mrs. Thaw was quoted in the newspapers as being against a hearing of the case. Later, however, when the actual filing was made of the petition, Mrs. Thaw stated that she had opposed prosecution of her son's appeal for liberty, until the civil suit of Gump against her son had been disposed of. The Thaw family appear confident that with the Gump case settled, insofar as the financial end is concerned, there will be no danger of a prosecution in the New York courts. Gump is said to be in San Francisco and out of reach of the New York courts if he declines to come east, as he is expected to.

Mrs. Thaw, the mother, in Pittsburgh, stated that $25,000 had been paid in full settlement of the Gump civil claim.

However, District Attorney J. H. Blanton of New York has declared that if Thaw is declared sane by a Philadelphia jury, New York courts would proceed to press the indictment charging him with assault on Gump. The indictment was returned Jan. 11, 1917, but Thaw's commitment to the Pennsylvania hospital prevented his trial.

"If Thaw is declared sane and is released, we will proceed as with any other indictment," said Blanton. "The offense charged is an extraditable one. I can take no notice of the reported settlement of the civil suit, my duty being to press prosecution of the indictment."

However, if the Gump case has been settled to the financial satisfaction of the Gump family, it is not believed that Thaw can be convicted in New York City. In previous hearings, Evelyn Nesbit (Continued on Page 3, Col. 2)

Rotarians Visit Sanitarium And Hear Dr. Towey

The members of the Rotary club drove to Powers today and after having dinner at the sanitarium, were given a talk by Dr. Towey, who is in charge of the work the sanitarium is doing and what it aims to do in the future. The trip was enjoyed by the members who declared that the dinner was most enjoyable, and the talk by Dr. Towey most instructive. There were about thirty in the party.

COUZENS TAKEN TO BALTIMORE BY HIS DOCTOR

Michigan Senator Will Be Inmate of John Hopkins Hospital.

Condition Is Not Serious and Operation May Be Delayed Until Some Later Date.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—Senator James Couzens of Michigan, who has been suffering from bladder and intestinal trouble, was removed to the John Hopkins hospital at Baltimore today for further observation.

Whether an early operation will be performed will be decided by the physicians after the patient has been in the hospital for a few hours. Senator Couzens spent a very comfortable night, was the statement from his office this morning. His pulse and temperature were normal and his physicians considered him well enough this morning to take him to the Baltimore hospital.

It was stated that his condition is undoubtedly a recurrence of an old gall bladder infection for which he was operated on three years ago. Whether an operation will be performed soon or deferred until some time later will be decided upon by the surgeons today or tomorrow.

MINERS CARRY STINNES' BODY TO CREMATORY

No Flowers, No Fuss, and Little Demonstration Marke Rites.

Financial Wizard of Germany Carried to Crematory from His Villa by Old Employes.

BERLIN, Germany, April 14.—Coal miners of the Ruhr, today carried the body of Hugo Stinnes, the late German industrial leader, from his private villa in Gressowald to the crematory, to the accompaniment of melodies played by their own band.

Simplicity marked the funeral services for the magnate. There were no floral tributes visible and the official flag of the Stinnes-Merchaut Marine was the only insignia on the plain oak casket. Even the ordinary mourning bunting was discarded in the interior decorations, and the chapel at the crematory was converted into a bower of blossoming plants.

NO NEWS FROM "MAID OF FRANCE" REPORTED LOST NORFOLK, Va., April 14.—Mystery still enshrouds the British schooner "Maid of France" found for Wilmington, N. C., from Barbados, and reported lost off the North Carolina coast. Agents at Wilmington say that at this time of the year all ships in from West Indian waters are delayed.

DENVER, Colo., April 14.—Striking a packing box and bounding like a rubber ball onto a concrete floor, the 20-month-old son of Mrs. N. A. Ipar sustained only a slight scratch when he fell five stories down an elevator shaft in a local furniture store.

Iron Mountain Mayor Facing Slander Suit

IRON MOUNTAIN—Mayor Walter A. Hense was arrested Saturday afternoon on charges of criminal slander preferred by Attorney E. J. Dundon, who charges that Hense accused him of having perjured himself in swearing to an affidavit in a libel suit brought by Hense against John Andrews, defeated candidate for mayor.

The alleged slanderous assertions were said by Dundon to have been made in the office of the probate judge April 19.

Mayor Hense pleaded not guilty to the charges when arraigned in justice court. He waived preliminary examination and was released without bail. The offense with which he is charged carries a maximum penalty of $100 fine or three months' imprisonment, or both.

FARMERS BRING TROUBLES HERE FOR SETTLEMENT

Small Matter of Straying Cattle Alleged to Have Been Original Cause.

Assault and Battery Case Resulting After Other Troubles Bring About Today's Climax.

Justice C. D. McKen has been holding court today in the city hall, his regular quarters not being large enough to accommodate the number of witnesses and spectators attracted by the case brought against E. Richer of Bark River, by C. Charbonneau of the same peaceful little village.

According to the testimony it was related that Charbonneau and Richer had adjoining farms and for some time had been the best of friends until it is alleged Charbonneau demanded that Richer do something to keep his cattle at home and not allow them to trespass in the Charbonneau garden.

It was alleged that Richer did not like the way in which his neighbor treated him and that he went to the Charbonneau home and got some tools belonging to him which he had loaned to Charbonneau and then declared all diplomatic relations were off.

Charbonneau charges that thereafter Richer persecuted him, which statement is denied by Richer. Charbonneau alleges that Richer made remarks about him and jibed at him when others were present and when he met him alone.

One Sunday in February, it is alleged, Charbonneau went to his church and as his neighbor was passing down the aisle to his seat, he, Charbonneau, turned to a companion seated near and asked, "How do you like to see the devil in church?"

Whether Richer heard the remark then or later was not brought out in court, but after church the two men came to blows with the result, it is said, that Charbonneau was given a severe beating by his enemy. It was necessary to have medical attention, it was brought out and now the case which has been on all the morning and most of the afternoon, is still being heard.

Anthracite Mine Strike Forces a Number to Quit

POTTSVILLE, Pa., April 14.—A strike of 7,500 mine workers involving 14 anthracite collieries of the Lehigh Coal and Navigation Company was called today in protest against eleven men being sent home, when the gangway in which they were working was flooded with salt water.

LOCOMOTIVE KILLS HURLEY GIRL

HURLEY, Wis.—Bessie Glasna, 10, was struck and killed by a North Western switch engine here Saturday morning when she crossed the tracks. She was going on an errand for her mother and when a freight train passed, did not see the switch engine coming from the opposite direction.

SENTENCE SIX MORE SHINERS IN U. S. COURT

Jury Disagreed in Zink Case from Rapid River Saturday.

Another Gladstone Man Gets Four Months in Detroit House of Correction; Woman Sentenced.

MARQUETTE—Six liquor law violators, one of them a woman, were sentenced in federal court, by Judge Sessions Saturday afternoon. Indictments returned against four persons for alleged bootlegging were dismissed and nolle prosequi orders entered at the request of E. J. Bowman, district attorney.

The jury in the trial of Charles Zink, of Rapid River, indicted on a charge of violating the liquor law, disagreed after several hours' deliberation. It is probable that the case will be tried again this week. Zink's was the fifth case to go to trial since the opening of the term and the first in which the jury did not convict.

Sentences imposed Saturday included the following:

Dominick Chemello, of Crystal Falls, six months in the Detroit House of Correction and $500 fine. If the fine is not paid he will have to serve three additional months. He pleaded guilty to possession and manufacture of moonshine.

Jack Autli, of Baraga county, four months and 10 days in the Marquette county jail. Autli has been confined in the Marquette county jail since December 5, 1923, and the court ordered that his sentence begin on that date. He will be released tomorrow.

Sam Bennett, of Newberry, six months in the Detroit House of Correction.

Arthur Young, of Gladstone, three months in the Detroit House of Correction.

Nelson Parker, of Sault Ste. Marie, six months in the Detroit House of Correction. Parker is a railroad porter and was indicted for smuggling Scotch whisky across the border from Canada.

Mrs. Mary Artley, of Gladstone, four months in the Detroit House of Correction. Mrs. Artley's husband recently completed a sentence in Detroit for selling moonshine.

The following cases were nolle prossed: Lee Owens, South Shore railroad porter, indicted for violation of the liquor law. The district attorney reported that there was not enough evidence to warrant further action in the case.

Fred Hill, Crystal Falls, case transferred to circuit court, where he pleaded guilty and paid a fine.

Joseph Callairi, Caspian, case transferred to circuit court.

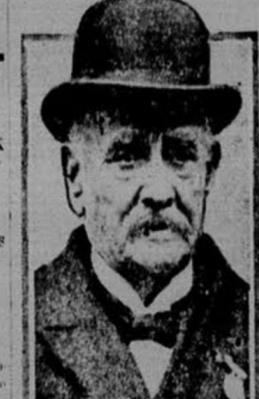

Jaak Maljua, Caspian, case transferred to circuit court.

The grand jury finished its work Saturday morning and made its final report. It has been in session since Tuesday and had returned more than 70 indictments.

Admits Forging Schwab's Name To Large Note

NEW YORK, April 14.—Mrs. Myrtle Bowman Hayes pleaded guilty in general sessions court today to a charge of attempted forgery, for endorsing the name of Charles M. Schwab to a $25,000 note. Her trial was to have been resumed today.

VETERAN LIFE SAVED, 85, TO GET LEGION OF HONOR AFTER SIXTEENTH RESCUE

Louis Descombes, despite his 85 years, recently rescued a woman who was drowning in the River Seine in Paris. She was the sixteenth person he had saved from drowning. He will be awarded the Legion of Honor, the highest award of the French government.

ARMY FLIERS IN LONG FLIGHT ON TOWARD ORIENT

Air Men Did Not Stop at Cordova in Last Flight as Was Scheduled for Sunday.

SEWARD, Alaska, April 14.—Two thousand nine hundred miles traveled out of the 27,000 in the circuit of the globe, the four planes of the U. S. army were expected to leave here some time today for Uktuk, a long trading station 65 miles to the west on the Alaskan peninsula.

SEWARD, Alaska, April 14.—Completing without mishap a journey of approximately 150 miles from Sitka, Alaska, where they departed at 9:30 a. m., Pacific coast time, four United States army airplanes, on a flight around the globe, arrived here shortly after 5 o'clock this afternoon.

Flying at an altitude of about 5,000 feet, the four air craft were first sighted here at 5:07 p. m. The Boston was the first to land, followed in quick succession by the Chicago, the Seattle and the New Orleans.

Major Frederick L. Martin, flight commander, stated that the airman had encountered in today's trip the hardest flying they have so far experienced.

In coming straight to Seward from Sitka, the squadron omitted a scheduled stop at Cordova. Major Martin had said before leaving Sitka this morning that the flight would be continued through to Seward if weather conditions permitted.

Ore Carrier Is Trying to Force Way into Harbor

The ore carrier "Harvest" is trying to force her way into the harbor today. She was held by a large vessel of some kind which she could not break through the ice. It is the "Harvest" it is not unlikely that she will be in port some time during the night.

Ford Is Asked to Answer Several More Questions

WASHINGTON, April 14.—The Senate committee today directed Chairman Norris to request Henry Ford to appear in person or through an authorized agent during the hearings on Muscle Shoals and explain some features of the bill. The committee also agreed to extend the hearings until April 27th, to permit Ford to appear in person at the hearings at the Muscle Shoals.

MELLON ALSO IS FIRM IN STAND AGAINST BOTHER

Says Senate Wants to Obstruct and Not Construct by Its Efforts.

Opposition to Hency as Prosecutor Seems to Have More Than Legal Rights Back of It.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—The administration is preparing to renew with increased vigor its counter action against the fight on Secretary Mellon in the senate.

President Coolidge conferred at length today with the treasury secretary and with Senator Watson of Indiana, one of the administration senate leaders, and the chairman of the special committee which is investigating the internal revenue bureau. It was indicated that Senator Watson would make another speech in the senate, probably tomorrow, setting forth in greater detail the arguments for discontinuing the inquiry.

The impression was given in administration circles that the opposition to the employment of Mr. Heney lay much deeper than the technical legal ground set forth by the president in his message asking that the fight against such steps would be continued regardless of democratic proposals to make Mr. Heney's retention legal by a formal senate resolution.

There appeared to be a complete agreement today that Mr. Heney would not be removed by Mr. Coolidge and Secretary Mellon as a proof that the inquiry was actuated by obstructive and not constructive motives. The president and his advisers appear convinced that if Mr. Heney is permitted to direct the course of the investigation, it will amount to nothing less than a war to the knife between Mr. Mellon and the elements of his party, represented by the movement of Senator Couzens and Governor Pinchot.

Mr. Mellon reiterated that he will not take responsibility for the breaking down of the treasury efficiency by investigations of the recent record breaking kind.

Bohr's Kittens Will "Meow" in Wisconsin City

W. C. Bohr, who for a number of years has been in the employ of the Sheehy's Leather Goods store, has resigned his position in this city and gone to Appleton, Wis., where he will make his home in the future. Mr. Bohr was the founder of the boys' band and afterward the musical organization known as Bohr's Kittens.

The position in Appleton to which Mr. Bohr goes is with a company specializing in automobile trimming and the making of automobile tops. His friends will join in wishing him success in his new field.

GREAT SUMS ARE SPENT ANNUALLY FOR RECREATION

Play Grounds Are Declared to Be Good Investment.

Reduces Street Accidents and Fewer Young Folks Are Brought Before Juvenile Judge.

NEW YORK, April 14 (AP.)—More than $11,000,000 was spent for public recreation last year by cities in the United States and Canada, according to the Playground and Recreation Association of America which has just compiled the returns from a questionnaire on community play. This sum is more than twice the amount spent for the same purpose ten years ago.

In a total of 680 cities reporting community recreation leadership, 650 conduct 6,591 playgrounds and recreation centers under paid leaders. In 1908, when Theodore Roosevelt and others organized the association, only 41 cities had playgrounds and recreation centers with paid leaders.

Approximately 1,200,000 was the reported daily average of children and adults at the summer playgrounds of the country in 1923. This figure is four times greater than the 1913 attendance.

The reason for the steadily increasing expenditure for recreation at a time when municipalities are bent on economy, the association states, is that playgrounds and recreation are recognized as a good investment. Delinquency and crime rates are reduced. Chief of Police Condon of Leominster, Mass., says that delinquency cases in Leominster averaged 51 a year prior to the organization of Community Service, the local recreation agency. Since its coming, the number decreased to 23 in 1923.

In Utica, N. Y., Anna D. Bayland, chief probation officer, attributed to the efficiency of playgrounds the fact that not a single child was put on probation during the month of July in the children's court. Judge C. Perry of Miami, Florida, gave credit to the supervised play program for the fact that while previously he had had 20 or 25 cases of delinquency in his court in a month, in the six months after the playgrounds opened, he had only five cases. Topeka, Kansas, found that truancy decreased 50% when playgrounds were installed near the schools. Defiance, Ohio, Centralia, Illinois, and other cities reported the practical elimination of mischief and property destruction by boys at Halloween due to the organized community celebration of the city recreation committee. Many other cities reported decreases in delinquency, attributed by judges, probation officers and others directly to organized play.

Reports from some of the cities showed that playgrounds had been effective in reducing street accidents to children at play. An example of this was found last summer at Lewiston, Maine, where city-wide recreational activities were shared in by 118,000 persons, mainly children. Not one death or drowning of a child at play was reported during the summer.

The many other activities reported by cities included the use of athletic lodge tests, community singing, block parties, dramatics, music memory contests, holiday celebration, industrial athletics, winter sports, organized hiking, horseshoe tournaments, marble tournaments, and art activities.

TOYS FOR BOYS IN STATE HOME IS ASKED FOR

Woman's Club Is Making Drive for Next Two Weeks in Escanaba.

Toys Are to Be Sent to State Homes for Boys Between the Ages of Eight and Fourteen.

The Escanaba Woman's Club has been asked to take the responsibility of collecting and shipping toys, games and books to the state home in Michigan for boys between the ages of 8 and 14.

Every family has on hand toys that have been outgrown, books that have been read and reread, puzzles that are no longer a puzzle, game that are no longer interesting. All these things will give pleasure to the youngster in various homes about the state.

Anything of the nature mentioned may be left at the Carnegie library and at the end of two weeks, the shipment will be made by the women to the homes for boys. Every boy or girl ought to have something to play with. Life is dull in the home with no toys, books or games and the state does not supply them. Make these state homes more homelike by ridding your own home of its surplus toys, books and games.

Air Mail Pilots, Who Must Fly in All Kinds of Weather, Learn How To Use Tricky Parachute

Orders were issued recently that all pilots of the Air Mail Service must learn to use parachutes. Unlike other aviators, they cannot pick and choose their weather and at any time may be forced to land or even leap from their planes to save their lives. This photograph, taken at Mincola, L. I., shows Pilot Whalen helping to adjust a parachute on Pilot Johnson just before they went up to take a lesson in the safe way to jump.

TRAINING CAMP PROVES IT HAS BEEN SUCCESS

Boys Who Once Enroll Always Go Back to Complete Course.

Military Training Is Essentially American, Declares Colonel Laurence of United States Army.

Col. Wm. J. Laurence is one of the most active workers in plans for maintaining the military efficiency of the United States. He just recently returned from Washington in the interests of a bill to provide a state rifle range in the vicinity of Detroit. He unqualifiedly endorses the Citizens' Military Training Camp movement.

"The plan of military training is essentially American," says Col. Laurence. "We have never maintained a large and burdensome standing army in peace times, but it has always been a matter of pride to an American that our boys and men have eagerly availed themselves of proper opportunity in the national defense. And, without boasting, it may be said that the men so trained have invariably given a good account of themselves, when the need has arisen."

"The world knows and will long remember the heroic conduct of the millionaires of our National Guard in the World War; in many cases, circumstances obliged them to go almost directly into action, with comparative little opportunity for training for the immediate work in hand; but many of the officers and sergeants of the enlisted men had the advantage of camp training in their individual states, and the State Guardsmen could be relied upon."

"Advantages of the Citizens' Military Training Camps are fundamental; the training is such that no red-blooded American can fail to absorb three basic principles of patriotism and service that make him a better man and a better citizen. The course of week laid down begins at the beginning and progresses in an orderly manner, along definite lines; the young man is taught to respect himself, his superior officers and the laws of his country; he sees for himself what properly directed operation brings about; he learns the advantages of discipline for himself and others. And he completes his first camp with the feeling that he has been at least initiated into the great brotherhood of military men that brotherhood that has existed ever since man first bore weapons in a common cause."

"The solution of the problem of the national defense is safe in the hands of the American soldier, trained in the ideals of Americanism; and the training camps are doing a most important work in keeping these ideals high."

Michigan's Training Camp opens at Battle Creek August 1 and continues until August 20. Young men between the ages of 17 and 21 are eligible for a month's training at the expense of the government. There is no obligation as to future service in the army; all that is required is that candidates shall be in good physical condition and present satisfactory evidence of good moral character.

Full information about the camp may be obtained by communicating with Capt. J. G. Stevenson, executive secretary to C. S. Mott, Civilian Aide for Michigan, General Motors Building, Detroit.

'Uncle Joe' Entertains Friends at Luncheon

DANVILLE, Ill., April 14 (United Press)—"Uncle Joe" Cannon, former Speaker of the House of Representatives, now living a life of retirement in his Illinois home here, may be averse to making any striking statements regarding the Teapot Dome scandal, but he shows no aversion to entertaining a humble member of the press, "Hobo" in his Danville home with a recreation of tales of his days in Washington.

"Mr. Cannon is taking lunch in his library with a friend, the Cannon bar, he informed Mr. E. A. [name], a daughter, when the latter inquired of him to inform her father that lunch was ready. The daughter peeped in the library door and saw, across the table from her venerable statesman-father, a tramp sitting gingerly on one edge of his chair eating a sumptuous luncheon with his knife and drinking his coffee from out of his snifter."

"Uncle Joe" was talking of the old days in Washington, when he sandwiched in between his strenuous days as republican chief, evening sessions of poker with his friends. From the table there gazed upon the demagogue, the scene William Howard Taft, Henry Cabot Lodge, Warren G. Harding, William McKinley, Benjamin Harrison and Ambassador Jassgrand, all friends in their day of the "Grand Old Man of Danville."

"Luncheon completed, 'Uncle Joe' handed the tramp one of his choice cigars and turned on the switch to his radio set, from whence there emerged the strains of an Eastern oratorio.

"Taint any wonder that guy was in congress, a long," quizzed the tramp as he left the Cannon home. "He's a regular guy at there ever since one. They don't make 'em that way any more."

GORDON HATS FIVE DOLLARS

SLEMP'S FRIENDS ENGAGE ROOMS TO PROVIDE FOR HIM

In Checking Over Reservations the Republican Convention It Is Found He Had Eight Reservations.

CLEVELAND, April 14 (AP.)—At eight hotel reservations offices during the republican national convention here were made for C. Russell Slemple by friends wishing to insure his being taken care of, according to James L. E. Lappo, secretary of the local convention committee. Duplicate reservations are discovered continually in checking arrangements for quarters, said Mr. Lappo. He estimated that at least 50 had been arranged thus far. Frequently the reservations are sought without the knowledge of the man for whom they are asked.

"There is only one place I can possibly sleep," wrote Senator Frank Willis of Ohio, when asked if he desired all of three reservations made for him.

Four reservations were reported for Senator A. D. Cummings of Iowa. As rapidly as possible the duplications are being eliminated, Mr. Slemple and Senator Cummings have been assigned to the Cleveland, and Senator Willis to the Hollenden.

WILL ASK CHURCH TO OUTLAW WARS AT BIG MEETING

Members of the Presbyterian Church Will Be 'Conscientious Objectors' in the Event of New War.

MADISON, Wis., April 14 (United Press)—Members of the Presbyterian church will be made "conscientious objectors," in event of a future war, if a resolution prepared by pastors here is accepted by the general assembly of the church at Grand Rapids, Mich., May 15.

"The church cannot justify any participation in war on the part of her various organizations or members, or justify the use of her pulpits, presses and buildings for war propaganda," a part of the proposed resolution says.

Eleven members of the Madison Presbytery, covering a considerable portion of the state, signed the proposed edict. They argue that since war is morally wrong, it cannot be justified by the church on any pretext.

"Many of the men in our churches who bravely supported the last war and have come to see the fearful devastation of that war, the millions killed and maimed, the era of reckless extravagance and the debauchery have now come to such a changed mind they are ready to take a personal stand against war," the resolution says. "The time has come for the whole church to do likewise."

"Whatever useful purpose war may have served in the past in establishing freedom and overthrowing wrong, the character of war has been changed by modern conditions. It now becomes an agency of disintegration so terrible that it has ceased to be of any use and, if continued, will mean the end of civilization."

"War is no longer a combat between armies of professional soldiers under careful rules, but is rather a grim life and death struggle between peoples, wherein little children, women and the aged are no longer exempt. All the cherished material and cultural resources of civilization are mobilized and devastated."

In addition to outlawing war on the part of Presbyterians, the churchmen propose to "direct educational agencies of the church to prepare literature and set apart at least one day a year for definite instruction of children and all members in accordance with this declaration."

Efforts will be made also to get other denominations of the Protestant church to adopt similar edicts, the Wisconsin ministers announce.

As Others See Us

IN its issue of March 5, the Gazette, of Hutchinson, Kansas, says: "THE BRIGHT SIDE"

The Standard Oil Company gets into print often but never on account of trouble with its employees. Arthur Brisbane says the company is the best managed business organization in the world.

The entire oil business has been singularly free from labor troubles which have beset many of the other major industries. Reasons for this can be found in the fact of the rapid growth of the industry, the payments of relatively high wages and the shifting of producing and refining centers.

The oil companies, however, have not been content to allow harmony to rest entirely with conditions. Efforts have been made, in the Standard and other companies, to obtain the greatest harmony possible among the workers. The Standard of Indiana was a pioneer in fostering a policy granting employees, through their elected representatives, a voice in settlement of all questions affecting their welfare, as to wages, hours of labor and working conditions.

How the plan is working is expressed by Colonel Robert W. Stewart, chairman of the board of directors, who says:

"The greatest thing needed in American industry today is a better understanding between employees and management. The day of intolerant and drastic methods by either the leaders of capital or labor is past. Each needs the other, and the policy of establishing good-will, peace and understanding have been established between the management and employees of our company."

"For five years we have worked together in mutual esteem and trust. For the board of directors, I say to you that while the problems presented by the situation in the oil industry today are stupendous, we face them with a greater confidence because we feel that we have back of us the whole-hearted support of every man and woman in the Standard Oil Company (Indiana)."

The oil business has its virtues as well as its foibles, if conducted properly."

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has been relatively free from labor troubles because justice, equity and fairness are fundamental to the organization.

Without loyalty, earnestness and complete harmony in its organization of 27,000 men and women, this Company would be unable to render to the thirty million people of the Middle West, the comprehensive service which they now enjoy and which is so essential to their commercial and domestic life.

CHAPTER I.—In a low drifting place in the Japanese town of Miyazaki, disconsolate son of the wealthy Asahi Lord of the Thunder Gate, hosts of a girl he is to purchase with said stolen from his father. Following a fight in the house, a drunken white man, speaking perfect Japanese, is left unconscious. Kiyama, dreading his father's anger, sees a way of escape. He changes clothes with the unconscious white man (to whom he bears a remarkable resemblance), taking a note in the garment's pocket, and goes to shelter and money if he will impersonate him (Kiyama) for a time. Leaving Kiyama in bed and with the white man as Kiyama is taken, unconscious, to the house of Asahi. His name is Robert White.

CHAPTER II.—Wells (who was born and passed his childhood in Japan) awakes bewildered, but to familiar scenes in Asahi's house. Asahi, almost sightless from age, does not perceive the deception. He had determined his unworthy son should be put to death, but Wells' department lesson was to think a reformation is possible. Asahi dies that day. Wells finds Kiyama's note, and understands it means a ransom for a bargain he has made to buy a girl.

CHAPTER III.—Wells passes the girl, to all appearances, though the price is more than he can pay. She tells him she is a white girl, and begs him to marry her.

CHAPTER IV.—The narrative goes back to Wells' youth, and shows the life of a misadventurer in Japan. His father sends the boy to America, to be educated.

She threw the gown away. Robert to pleasant eyes. "But what day Ray would always defer to her. She could take him for, instinctively she glanced about the house, the room, which soon would be her own. Williams was coming back. How would Sanderson greet him?

"Uncle Sandy, will you be glad to see Ray?" she said.

"Yes," he said without emphasis. "The very lack of emphasis emboldened her.

"I like Ray," she ventured. "Very much."

"He's well enough," Sanderson appeared uninterested.

"All of the men of the office say he's steady and responsible. I heard Mr. Gardner remark that the reports from the Orient were the greatest and most accurate he'd ever seen."

"A clerk could do that," abstractedly.

"If Bob had spent his evenings, as Ray did, in making the reports, he wouldn't have had time for . . . courting."

"It may have been that Bob was . . . tired from the day's work. That's his first big job, Bertie."

She felt it unwise to argue the point. There were other affairs to be settled.

"Perhaps"—very softly and even of tone—"perhaps Bob found one of the girls that he liked? When he was in college, Bob . . . well, he did like the girls."

"Never heard of it."

"Why, everybody knows that."

"Did they? I didn't."

"Ray knew it. So did I."

"Did you?"

If he would only disagree, positively. She felt that continuation along such a line would never do. It placed her in an uncomfortable position. Yet she must persist to the logical outcome. She knew her point of ultimatum and intended reaching it.

"Uncle Sandy?"

"Um."

"She lowered her voice.

"You know I don't even . . . remember my mother . . ."

"Yes, Alberta?" less gravely.

"A girl must talk to some one. And you've been like my own daddy."

"I've tried to be." He looked up at her, his face less stern.

"When we found out what Bob had done . . . It almost . . . broke my heart . . . She was carried away in her part, and did it well.

"And mine. And mine, Alberta. He was like my own son. Such a good lad."

She must twain this string again.

"He thought only . . . of himself," she said, and possibly believed it.

"Bob must have forgotten," Sanderson agreed snolly. "Forgotten that we were all watching him, and trusting. But that is like a boy. Carried away, he must have been. Williams should have anchored him fast."

"But, Uncle Sandy, can't you see Bob and that imperious manner of his? Perhaps Ray couldn't. I know he couldn't, Bob was headstrong. He always was. You've said so yourself."

"That's his fault in life, but those who are headstrong in religion are called . . . godly men."

"I thought . . . I thought, Uncle Sandy, that some day Bob . . . Bob and I might . . . although of course he didn't know it . . . You know what I mean, dear?"

"He'll come back. Sadder, Steeper. 'Tis his lesson, Alberta." He reached for her hand and stroked it reassuringly.

"I could never forget. I'd always fear that it might happen again! A woman," sorrowfully, "is that way."

"Yes, dear," after he had not a saver. "She wants some one she can trust. Some one"—Alberta had read this, but said it as her own—"some one she can lean on in trouble. Some one who has always been a dear friend, whom she knows well, and does not need to fear."

"Like Bob?" Oh, Sanderson! not to see whether you are floating.

Alberta dropped her eyes. "I thought so . . . once . . . until he learned . . . can't you see what he's done?"

"Forgive him, child. Those who love . . ."

He was no match for her now with his pleading. For he felt that if Bob were gone for good, he must keep Alberta by him . . . but Bob wasn't gone. He couldn't be. If the boy had wanted Alberta, he'd never said a word of it to his uncle. There were plenty of girls anyhow, if Bob returned . . . what he wanted was his Bob back again.

"I thought I loved him. If I had, or if I had told him that I did, I'd never let this interfere. You know that, dear. If I'd promised, it wouldn't be the same. But now, oh, Uncle Sandy, you know the trouble I've had. How lonely I've been, dear, until you took me, I . . . I want some one to look after me, always, for years and years and years. Forever. And"—the words torrented forth now—"I've known Ray for so long . . . and he's so good, and so steady . . . and I've loved him . . . If only I had a mother to talk to! He's asked me to marry him . . . and . . . I do love him, Uncle Sandy, but I'm afraid . . ."

His first thought was how far this would be from his innocently made plans.

"If you love him, why . . . I'd not say you may, Alberta. There's sorrow enough in this house."

"But he's so far to go . . . before . . . you always said that people should marry young . . . and if Bob comes back, it would be easier, for him if I were married."

Sanderson roared. "It would, it would indeed."

DEMOCRATIC NOMINEE STILL VERY MUCH ON LAP OF THE GODS

McAdoo a "Front Runner," But Martin Believes Combination Will Be Strong Enough to Beat Him; Then Anyone May Win.

By LAWRENCE MARTIN (United Press Staff Correspondent)

(CHAPTER II)

WASHINGTON, April 11.—(United Press.) For the republicans, Coolidge is a practical certainty, but for the democrats, approaching their national convention, there is nothing but uncertainty. Who will it be?

At about 10 o'clock the obdurate "front runner" . . . but who will be the dark horse who will pass him in the stretch? Will anybody pass him? And who are the "dark horses" of the party?

Who is showing signs of revision and his friends are digging out the famous "slush fund" speeches of 1920, wherein he charged that the republicans were "buying" the presidency, and that corruption would rule in Harding's case. The Cox attitude is somewhat "I told you so." Now, Mr. Cox's business is the time to put on his man who has directed what was a losing and a losing.

There's Rosten and Smith, and Daniels and John W. Davis, and even Mr. Bryan. Senator Walsh, upon that if no progressive democrat is put up, he may have to run himself. But we will be the good boys.

It is to be noted that the party led by Mr. Bryan, Senator Walsh, upon that if no progressive democrat is put up, he may have to run himself. But we will be the good boys.

Coal Mining Is the "Hardest Job" Says Contestant

Miner of various kinds seems to be popular with the contestants in the "Hardest Job" contest now running in The Daily Mirror. Very good reasons are told in the following letter, as to why the job is hard.

Coal mining, to my knowledge is the hardest job. It is filled with many dangers and new ones are arising every minute.

The disadvantages of coal mining are: It soils the body and clothes beyond recognition. We risk our lives by going down the mine shafts, through the use of dynamite and other explosives. Our lives are risked minutely by rays, we are smothered by the gas. Our health is harmed by the lack of fresh air in which to breathe. It is injurious to the eyesight by the constant working with artificial light. Trying to find our way in the dark, by using acetylene and other various drills which give off a strong, bright light. It is injurious to our hearing through pounding, digging and blast.

The constant working underground makes us unaccustomed to the weather conditions on the surface and this injures our general health and power of resisting diseases. The duties it brings upon us are that we must work in the dark or with artificial light, which we miners consider "hard." We must use picks and hammers to wield the heavy mining tools as picks, axes, drills, etc.

People often wonder why miners complain of being so extremely tired. We miners have reason to complain, because the work taxes our physical strength, it breaks up our health, we are very often caught by these millions of dangerous caverns which have been dynamited. We risk our lives to mine coal for the people of our country, we risk our lives to mine coal for our immense railroad systems, we also risk our lives to mine coal for our passenger ships and freight ships. And then, some, in fact thousands of people, are not satisfied. What else can we do? We are doing everything a human being can do. Are some of our other citizens going to stand by and let the other dissatisfied citizens run us down? I ask you, why not let them take the miners' place for even one day, as I have, and see their point of view? When they come home after that one day's work, see if they don't agree with me that "coal mining is the hardest job."

Citizens of the United States, isn't there something that can be done to lessen the miners' work? Can't some of our brightest men get together and think of some way to make the miners' work lighter and easier? Come, each one and all, and investigate this deep, grave matter and see what we can do for our faithful working men.

Milwaukee Paper Gaining Rapidly Over Peninsula

Whether it is because Upper Michigan people like to read "Brownie's" road stories and join his motor club or whether it is just because the paper itself seems to fill the bill, will have to be guessed out by the circulation managers themselves, who are in this territory for the Milwaukee Journal. Whatever may be the reason, the Milwaukee paper is gaining friends in Michigan, despite the efforts of competitors. It probably owes its popularity to the great number of small items covering every field of activity in northern Michigan and Wisconsin. It costs the motorist one dollar to join the Journal Touring club and the maps and information given to each member is worth about four or five times that to print.

Whatever may be the reason, the Milwaukee paper is gaining friends in Michigan, despite the efforts of competitors. It probably owes its popularity to the great number of small items covering every field of activity in northern Michigan and Wisconsin. It costs the motorist one dollar to join the Journal Touring club and the maps and information given to each member is worth about four or five times that to print.

PRIDE IN APPEARANCE

You met us more than half way!

You Have Made Our "Pride in Appearance" Event One Long to Be Remembered

The men of this city have certainly responded to our "Pride in Appearance" Event—they met us more than half way—but they haven't cleaned us out by any means!

Long ago we determined that if we were going to do this thing at all we would do it in a big way. We went the limit to get an assortment of men's wear that would really meet the utmost demands of the men of this city. Today those assortments are still immense—an endless variety of smart hats, colorful neckwear, distinguished shirts, fine hosiery. Remarkable values, too—leading manufacturers have co-operated to make this event the success it is.

Our selection of Society Brand Clothes is a story all by itself; a wonderful array of new easy fitting models in the smart fabrics of the season, powder blues, grays, plain shades, stripes and checks. You must see them.

SAGE TEA DANDY TO DARKEN HAIR

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Bring Back Color and Lustre to Hair

You can turn gray, faded hair beautifully dark and lustrous almost overnight if you get a bottle of "Wyllie's Sage and Sulphur Compound" at any drug store. Millions of bottles of this old famous Sage Tea Recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, are sold annually, say well-known druggists here, because it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that no one can tell it has been applied.

Those whose hair is turning gray or becoming faded have a surprise awaiting them, because after one or two applications the gray hair vanishes and your locks become luxuriantly dark and beautiful.

This is the age of youth. Gray-haired, unattractive folks aren't wanted around, so get busy with Wyllie's Sage and Sulphur Compound today and you'll be delighted with your dark, lustrous hair and your youthful appearance within a few days.

FARREL PICKS YANKS IN AMERICAN

By HENRY L. FARRELL

(United Press Sports Editor)
NEW YORK, April 14. (United Press) As soon as the New York Yankees fall apart, a critic aptly and wisely sized up the American League last winter some other strong club can step out with a chance of winning the pennant.

There is nothing to indicate at the current writing that the world's champions are even crumbling, let alone falling apart. There is a slight chance that one or, at the worst, two of the star pitchers might go wrong, but there would be sufficient strength left to carry through a team that is very capable on the offense.

For the reason that the Yankees are just as good, if not a little better, than they were last year and that their most powerful opposition has not been correspondingly improved, there is no cause to believe that Miller Huggins will not be the first manager to attain the fame and the record of winning four pennants in consecutive years.

Realizing that the strength of the challenging teams is more than usually balanced and that there are the possibilities for some great surprises that cannot be figured or anticipated, the following is offered as a prediction of how the teams will stand when the race is ended.

- NEW YORK YANKEES
- CLEVELAND INDIANS
- PHILADELPHIA ATHLETICS
- DETROIT TIGERS
- WASHINGTON SENATORS
- BOSTON RED SOX
- ST. LOUIS BROWNS
- CHICAGO WHITE SOX

The Yankees are picked to win the pennant again because they have a fine offensive and defensive team, a powerful hitting and a good fielding team and the best pitching staff in the league. They should have more confidence than they had last year before they had won a world's series and they are too experienced and too balanced to be in danger of getting enlarged skulls and taking it too easy.

It was not until last fall that the club found itself and it is sure to be improved by the feeling that it was good enough to beat in the world's series what had been held up as one of the finest teams in baseball.

The Cleveland Indians were nosed out of second place last fall by the late rush of the Detroit Tigers after they had did what running up there could be said to have been done to the Yankees throughout the hottest part of the pennant race.

With George Batters on first base and with improved work that should be expected from several young pitchers, the Indians should finish in second place and, if the Yankees crash, they are the logical club to step into the pennant.

Connie Mack made a great sport with the Philadelphia Athletics until July. The team had been inspired, it seemed, by the brilliant work of Matthews, a young outfielder. When he went bad, the team went with him. Mack has two very promising outfielders in Strand and Simmons, who ought to speed up and add punch to the team, and he has in Lushop, a second baseman who promises to make the infield.

If there is to be a dark horse, it might be the Athletics and if there is to be a terrible bust, it will be the Athletics.

Because no improvement has been made in the club, because it is weak at second base, threatening at shortstop and none too heavy with pitching, the Detroit Tigers are picked for fourth place, although they finished second last season.

Ty Cobb admitted, during the winter, that his pennant hopes depended upon a second baseman. So far he has failed to get a new one. If Bishop makes good with the Athletics, Cobb may get Dykes from Connie Mack, but it may be too late when he gets him.

Washington finished fourth last season but Donnie Hush lost his job because he would not follow Griffith's orders, and for that reason the team will not do as well. Harris is too young to boss a veteran club and keep up on his own work.

Bobby Quinn and Lee Fohl, the same pair that put the St. Louis Browns on the map, are now in charge of affairs at Boston. They have completely reorganized the club and they now have material no worse than what they made over so well in St. Louis. The Red Sox are a formidable team and, in such competent hands, it is not too much to expect that Quinn and Fohl will do something in one year. There is a chance, and a good one, that they can displace Washington and finish fifth.

St. Louis Browns are losing their hopes on the slim chance that their new manager, George Sisler, will be able to play first base as he did two years ago, before he had to retire with bad eyes. Sisler had made a game effort to come back, but it is understood from the most reliable sources that he cannot possibly play longer than June if that long.

Without Sisler, the Browns are only a ball club, and not a very good one at that.

The White Sox would have had a better chance to get along if Frank Chance could have handled the team from the start. Certainly Johnny Evers is a competent baseball man, but the club looks upon him as an outsider and there is a faction against him.

The real condition of the White Sox was made apparent when Evers, in desperation, was forced to try to make a pitcherout of Bob Falk, a great outfielder.

By every known means of arriving at a conclusion in baseball, it looks as if the "plague" New Yorkites is to spoil one-half of the series for a large portion of the baseball populace.

EDDIE ROMMELL GETTING READY TO HELP ATHLETICS FINISH BETTER THAN LAST

Rommell, the Philadelphia American League club's star pitcher and considered one of the best moundmen in the game, is shown here working hard at the Athletics' spring training camp at Montgomery, Ala. Much is expected of him when Connie Mack's rejuvenated White Sox starts the 1924 season.

Hugh Beath Is Married; Word Received Here

Word has been received in this city of the marriage at Gary, Indiana, of Hugh H. Beath, son of Mrs. George Beath of this city, and Miss Margaret Rust of that city. The wedding took place last Thursday and was a surprise to all the friends of the young couple.

The groom is very well known to the young set in Escanaba and has a fine position with the Western Motor Company as assistant manager. On his way to the press of business Mr. and Mrs. Beath will not take a wedding trip until the summer vacation period and will then come to this city, it is understood.

REDS IN NATIONAL, SAYS FARRELL

By HENRY L. FARRELL

(United Press Sports Editor)
NEW YORK (United Press) No baseball club has ever won the National League pennant four times in consecutive years. That may be a superstition, but it is not a sensible reason why John McGraw should not believe that record this year with the New York Giants.

The best ground upon which to base a prediction that the Giants will fail to win the National League championship this year is that they are not good enough, and for that reason we predict that the "scourge of New Yorkites" will be removed from at least one-half of the world's series.

By considering what the eight National League clubs were at the close of the 1923 season, what has happened to them since the close of the season and what they showed in their training, we are willing to take the blame for predicting that the eight teams will finish the season in this order:

- CINCINNATI REDS
- NEW YORK GIANTS
- PITTSBURGH PIRATES
- CHICAGO CUBS
- ST. LOUIS CARDINALS
- BOSTON BRAVES
- BROOKLYN ROBBINS
- PHILADELPHIA PHILS

Fats as was manifested in the death of Pat Moran, removed the Cincinnati Reds from the position of almost sure winner to one of a slightly doubtful condition.

If Pat Moran could have led the Reds through the 1924 pennant race the Giants could not have stopped them. Moran passed on to Jack Hendricks, a good baseball man, the same hand that he would have played, but Hendricks may not be able to play it as skillfully, not because he doesn't know how, but because he may have trouble handling the cards.

If the players on the Reds would rather have had one of their own members named to lead the club instead of a minor league manager who had been hired as a coach? If they felt any dislike against their manager and allow it to influence their play, the Reds may not win the pennant.

However, the Giants seem to be in a mood to blow up completely that it seems possible that the Reds should go through on momentum and instinct on the turns without a hand to shift the gears or handle the wheel.

The Reds have a fine outfield, which includes a satisfied Roush, who will be playing ball from the first day of the season and he is a ball player.

In Bill Terry he has a substitute for Kelly, but he has no reliable substitutes for Groh or Jackson.

The Pittsburgh Pirates, with the exception of Wright, a young shortstop, are the same as they were last year and they should finish in the same position because they weren't desperately in need of a shortstop. The Chicago Cubs see the same as they were last season and they should finish in fourth place.

If the Pirates and the Cubs should finish higher than third and fourth, it will be because the Giants drop down to fourth place or into the second division, and that is not at all impossible.

Among the teams that finished in the second division last season, only the Boston Braves have been improved. If the Braves had not had the misfortune to lose a good third baseman when Tony Boeckel was killed in an automobile accident, the club might have finished higher, but it looks hardly better than sixth place, although it has a chance to beat the Cardinals, who are just as drab and dull as they were last year.

Brooklyn and Philadelphia are safely placed in the hole.

The Giants, of course, have McGraw, but much of the gray matter seemed to have been taken out of that "Master Mind" stuff last fall, and it was shown that McGraw cannot go on forever getting everything out of nothing.

Matt's Car Laundry

You don't have to take my word regarding my work any more. This Car Laundry is established—and it only took a couple of weeks to do it. We can now point with pride to many cars we have SIMONIZED and refer you to the owners.

Simonizing is something you ought to know about if you want to save the finish on your car. Once Simonized, you can brush mud, dust or other dirt off with a rag. You will never have to resort to the laborious washing that is so hard.

And considering the results the price is very low and most reasonable. Bring around your car and have it cleaned and oiled.

BOND ISSUE IS POPULAR; HALF ARE SOLD TODAY

Residents of Escanaba Glad to Invest Their Money in City Bonds.

It Is Expected They Will All Be Taken Up Within the Next Three or Four Days.

The advertisement in The Mirror Saturday night for the sale of approximately $34,000 worth of municipal street bonds brought a ready response from residents. This morning more than half the issue was spoken for within two hours after the city hall opened for business.

During the afternoon several other people spoke for the bonds also, and it is safe to say that the entire issue will be sold before Saturday. This expresses the confidence local people have in their city. The money being borrowed is for building a street and this fact alone adds much to the attractiveness of the loan for good streets make a good town.

WELLS SHINGLE MILL STARTS A RECORD SEASON

Number of Cedar Logs on Hand Assures Full Operation for the Summer.

It Was Stated That the Cut Would Not Be Completed Until Well into Fall.

The shingle mill of the L. Stephenson Company, Trustees, at Wells, started this morning after having been closed since last October, and, according to the officials, it will continue in operation until well into the fall.

Cedar logs have been coming in to Wells in large quantities and have been placed in readiness for the opening of the shingle mill, and indications are that more shingles will be made at Wells during the summer than have been made for a number of years.

The opening of the shingle mill will require a considerable force of men, who will have assured work for many months.

Shingle Follows the Bob

By HEDDA HOYT

Fashion Editor of United Press (Written for United Press) NEW YORK, April 12 (United Press)—The Parisians decided early in the winter that hair should be long and sleek and drawn tightly behind the ears if one was to be "chic." "Eyes," wrote a Parisian connoisseur of feminine beauty, "are not the Parisian's only claim to beauty. The shell-pink ear is quite as fascinating as the eye."

American girls are often rather slow about accepting the Parisian verdict on beauty. They will accept their silhouette, their hats and their shoes without a moment's hesitation, but when it comes to accepting their ears, their darkened eyelids, their curls or their hair-dress! Gracious! That is something to ponder over!

The American girls were quite willing to give their Parisian sisters an "eye" for an "eye," but when it came to giving them an "ear" for an "ear" well, that was a different matter. And as for long, sleek hair! Never! "The bob is dead! Vive la longue hair!" shouted the Parisian.

But the Americans refused to believe that the bob was dead, or if it was dead, they refused to let the dead rest. They clipped and cut and curled and permanently waved in spite of the bob's demise.

And now, as spring approaches, the Parisians are reversing their opinions. Not only are they returning to the bob, but to the mannish hair-cut the shingle. And the Americans are agreeing with them unanimously! The shingle is the thing! The last word! Le Derniere Mot!

All Getting a Shingle.

Everyone from grandma down to the baby is getting a shingle. Grandma realized that the Pitt Island effects of previous seasons were not for her, but the close-cropped shingle is a different matter.

And, strange to say, this is the first time that the bob has ever actually approached its doom since coming into style. People have been saying for years that short hair was going out, but it didn't go out. I came in with a bang! A real bang of the forehead! But the very propound derance with which it has entered the fashion world might mark its doom. Overpopularity might hasten its demise. At any rate, we won't write the obituaries of the bob until the time for obituaries are due. The bob is the liveliest thing alive today. Everybody is cutting, clipping, cutting. Families have enough clipped hair about the house to start a hair watch-chain factory. The second-hand man is knocking at our doors, asking: "Any old clothes, shoes, hats?" And the scissors sharpen cries, "Scissors to grind?" whenever he sees a woman on the street. Bob-haired bandits are the latest menace about New York, and the police peer under every woman's hat, seeking for the bold, bad, bobbed bandit.

Conforming with the present beltless mode for gowns, the spring's costume slip has no waistline marking whatsoever. Straight slips, made on chemise lines, of materials such as rayon, crepe satin and crepe de chene, are among the newest undergarments. Those designed to be worn under the sheer summer frock have a panel extending down the back which is made of a double fold of the material so as to be shadow-proof. Since this double panel extends the full length of the slip, it prevents perspiration across the shoulders from soiling the frock.

The hosiery color chart has more tones and shades of tones than a climatic scale. The latest shade to spring up over night on the avenue is called "gravel." This color leads over off-nude shades and peach color. The following colors are those endorsed by the better-gowned women of New York: gravel, shell, black, buck, sunset, reindeer, caramel, castor, acorn, suede, silver and medium gray. Tones that are too pink are seldom seen on the well-groomed woman.

Ocean green is the latest shade for spring undergarments. All undergarments are returning to the vogue for lace or net. Plain hemstitched finishes are not being shown among the newer garments to any extent. Laces used on many garments are rarely tinted. Filet, baby Irish lace and net are trims most often used.

TO DARKEN HAIR APPLY SAGE TEA

Look Young! Bring Back Its Natural Color, Gloss and Attractiveness

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea with sulphur added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Just a few applications will prove a revelation if your hair is fading, streaked or gray. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get a bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound at any drug store all ready for use. This is the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients.

While wispy, gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge of soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant.

IF SKIN BREAKS OUT AND ITCHES APPLY SULPHUR

Just the moment you apply Mentho-Sulphur to an itching, burning or broken out skin, the itching stops and healing begins, says a noted skin specialist. This sulphur preparation, made into a pleasant cold cream, gives such a quick relief, even to hery eczema, that nothing has ever been found to take its place.

Because of its germ-destroying properties, it quickly subdues the itching, cools the irritation and heals the eczema right up, leaving a clear, smooth skin in place of ugly eruptions, rash, pimples or roughness.

You do not have to wait for improvement. It quickly shows. You can get a little jar of Rowles Mentho-Sulphur at any drug store.

Camphor & Hydrastis Fine for Sore Eyes

It is surprising how QUICK eye inflammation is helped by camphor, hydrastis, witchhazel, etc., as mixed in Lavoptik eye wash. One lady whose eyes were weak and watery for three years was helped AT ONCE. Another case of red, inflamed eyes was also benefited. One small bottle Lavoptik usually helps ANY CASE of weak or inflamed eyes. Aluminum cup FREE. Kilworth's Drug Store. Completely changed her story, until of late. The girl is in a serious condition.
