

FIVE POWERS WILL CONSIDER NAVY CUT

COMPROMISE NECESSARY ON TARIFF BILL

GIVE-TAKE PROGRAM MUST BE WORKED OUT

BY DAVID LAWLENCE (Copyright 1929, by the Escanaba Press) Washington, Oct. 15—Just what will be done...

Leaders on both sides now concede that the tariff measure cannot possibly be gotten out of the way during the special session...

Sometimes there is an expediting of legislation when it is least expected and the senate can get into action if it so desires almost overnight...

Out of Control. Until now there has been little disposition on the part of administration leaders to concede that the situation has passed out of their control...

A conference of leaders has been called to determine the course of action. The sponsor of the whole situation will be an agreement on the part of the regular republicans to give consideration to a revised bill...

No Urgent Demand. The administration will then be in the position of attempting to get the democratic and insurgent republican coalition to accept as much of the original Smoot-Hawley bill as possible...

There is no urgent demand from any quarter for the passage of the tariff bill except the desire to keep the measure from complicating the administration program.

BADIUM LADY DETROIT GUEST

Madame Curie Arrives to Attend Edison Jubilee Oct. 21

New York, Oct. 15 (AP)—Timidly, gazing about her in wonder, a little old lady in black came slowly down the gangplank from the liner Ile De France here today.

The bustling, chattering crowds on the pier fell silent as her frail figure appeared on the deck above them.

"It's Madame Curie," the whisper went round. Her steps carefully guided by Ambassador Charles Gates Dawes, who had arrived on the same steamship, and by Owen D. Young, who had come down to meet her...

She had come to honor her fellow scientist, Thomas A. Edison, and will attend a dinner to be given in celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of his invention of the incandescent light in Detroit Oct. 21.

Investigate Luxury Crack Train Fares

Washington, Oct. 15 (AP)—Extra fares paid by train passengers for luxuries are to be investigated by the interstate commerce commission.

Conceding that the practice of railroads in charging rates in addition to those for train and Pullman tickets on their crack trains is in violation of the interstate commerce act, the commission announced today it would conduct an inquiry on its own initiative.

Millions Pledged by Organized Labor To Unionize the South

Toronto, Ont., Oct. 15 (AP)—Organized labor's forces and funds were pledged today to a campaign for unionizing the south, by unanimous action of the annual convention of the American Federation of Labor. Delegates were moved to their decision by a series of appeals relating to the situation of textile mill workers particularly in Tennessee and North Carolina...

Formally, the resolution presented by the United Textile Workers and adopted declared it impossible for "any single union to carry on the task," cited the "cold blooded shooting down of our members by sheriffs at Marion, N. C." as a challenge to the entire American labor movement, and asked the federation to set up a special committee of craft union executives to formulate policy and finance a general organization campaign.

Thomas W. McMahon, president of the textile workers, speaking on the resolution asserted the whole south was in readiness for such proceedings, and Francis Gorman, one of its vice presidents, declared that strikers killed last week at Marion "died that the union might live."

Andrew Furuseth, president of the seaman's union, asserted the federation had to proceed because "low wages in the south are being used to depress your wage scales in the north."

Joseph Burke, head of the paper workers, offered $1,000 in behalf of his organization, and William Canavan, of the theatrical mechanics, promptly moved that the federation pledge $1,000,000, or 35 cents per member, "as the beginning."

Dr. Worth Tippy, representing the Federal Council of Churches, filed with the convention a statement of sympathy with the intended campaign in behalf of that body.

Fail to Squelch Confession Record

Jackson, Mich., Oct. 15 (AP)—Defense attorneys today failed in their efforts to keep from the record of the trial here of J. Howard Shorney, son of the Rev. J. D. Shorney of Fairbury, Ill., charged with the murder of his wife, Shorney's alleged confession to the slaying.

Judge John Simpson ruled that the confession might be introduced and the question of whether it was a voluntary one or obtained under duress as defense attorneys claimed, be left to the jury. The state probably will introduce the document tomorrow.

MIAMI FLOOD PEAK PASSES

Miami, Fla., Oct. 15 (AP)—Hialeah and Country Club estates, Miami suburbs flooded during recent days by waters draining through canals and the Miami river from the rain-soaked Everglades, have felt the peak of the flood, officials here said tonight.

Officials said "the worst is over" from the viewpoint of high water but indicated that there is no way of knowing how soon the crowded river and canals will be able to carry away the waters from the flooded wastes of the inner country.

The residents of most of the homes in Hialeah and Country Club estates, and of virtually all homes west of Hialeah, were being cared for tonight by relief organizations.

Sidetrack Tariff For Farm Board

Washington, Oct. 15 (AP)—An effort to sidetrack the tariff bill long enough for the senate to act on the report of the agriculture committee recommending confirmation of the nominations of the federal farm board members will be made in the senate tomorrow by Senator McNary, of Oregon, chairman of the committee.

Indications tonight were that objection would be made to taking up the nominations at this time if it were apparent that several days were to be devoted to the matter.

Thaw beat her and bit her during a struggle in his West 75th street apartment January 1, 1927, Marcia Eastardus night club hostess, testified today as the first witness in the re-trial in her $100,000 suit against Thaw. RADIO MERGER CREATES STIR IN WASHINGTON

JUSTICE DEPT IS ASKED TO INVESTIGATE

Washington, Oct. 15 (AP)—While congressional circles looked upon the affiliation of General Motors Corporation and the Radio Corporation of America as outside the jurisdiction of congress, the Radio Protective association asked the department of justice today to investigate the merger.

Chairman Couzens of the senate interstate commerce committee and Senator Dill, Democrat, Washington, did not believe congress had any control over the consolidation.

The Radio Protective association made its appeal "in the name of Independent Radio Industry," contending that the merger violated the anti-Sherman law.

"It adds five billion dollar radio trusts more than a billion dollars of resources of Dupont General Motors interests," it said. "When alliance of General Motors with United States Steel Corporation was announced a year ago congress demanded investigation and that merger was dropped. The present combination is far more flagrant violation of anti-trust laws."

The request was made in a telegram sent to Attorney General Mitchell by Oswald F. Schuette, executive secretary of the association, from Chicago.

AIR TOURISTS AT ST. LOUIS

Lambert, St. Louis Field, St. Louis, Oct. 15 (AP)—Twenty-five of the 27 airplanes competing for $20,000 in prizes and the Edsel Ford trophy for reliable flying strooped into the airport here today, completing a 261 mile hop from Louisville, Ky. Both missing fliers were St. Louisans, Forest O'Brine and J. L. MaGrady, with O'Brine down 17 miles west of Louisville and MaGrady landed 15 miles west of Salem, Illinois.

O'Brine, who recently set a world's record for sustained flight, with Dale Jackson in the St. Louis Robin, called for spare parts when his motor overheated. A new cylinder was sent from St. Louis and O'Brine was expected here tomorrow. MaGrady's trouble was not learned. One of the other fliers circled his plane but MaGrady waved him on. He had not communicated with the local airport tonight.

FACE PROBLEM OF LAW LAXITY

Washington, Oct. 15 (AP)—The law enforcement commission has decided to face squarely the problem presented by lawlessness of government officers in enforcing prohibition and other laws, and announced today the appointment of two additional experts to make an inquiry to that end. They are Professor Zechariah Chafee of the Harvard Law School, and Walter N. Pollak of New York City. A lawyer, Pollak served as special assistant to the attorney general in the prosecution of Nicky Armetstein for bond thefts.

Pollak left New York tonight for a conference with Chafee at Cambridge, Mass., and the commission said they would be busy tomorrow "blocking out the inquiry which has been assigned to them."

Various committees of the commission will be at work on other phases here at the same time. The entire group will not meet again until Thursday.

Washington, Oct. 15 (AP)—Dr. Edwin E. Slosson, 64, director of science service, died at his home here tonight of heart disease after an illness of a month.

Dr. Slosson was born at Albany, Kansas, and was educated at the University of Kansas. Later he was affiliated with the University of Wyoming and the Columbia School of Journalism, but the last nine years of his life were spent here. He was the author of numerous scientific books.

Kansas City, Oct. 15 (AP)—Mrs. Myrtle Bennett today was bound over to the criminal court for trial on a charge of first degree murder for the slaying of her husband, John G. Bennett, wealthy salesman, following a quarrel over a bridge game.

Released yesterday on bond of $50,000, Mrs. Bennett was re-arrested today. Her attorney announced he would seek to have the criminal court approve a new bond.

HOGAN CALLS HEFLIN LIAR

Washington, Oct. 15 (AP)—The defense of Albert B. Fall to charges that he accepted a bribe of $103,000 while secretary of the interior was commenced in the District of Columbia supreme court today after the government had introduced testimony showing that Harry F. Sinclair had turned over to Fall's cattle company a total of $268,500, subsequent to receiving the Teapot Dome oil lease.

Fall is charged with accepting the bribe from Edward L. Doheny six months prior to awarding to the oil man's company the contract to construct oil storage tanks at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, and a lease on the Elk Hills naval oil reserve in California. He will seek to prove through Doheny that the money was a loan.

Introduction of the Sinclair testimony was regarded as a blow to the defense. It was the first time a connected story of both leases has been placed before a jury, and showed Fall's interests received a total of $269,000 in 1921 and 1922 from Sinclair and Doheny. A jury which heard only about the Doheny sum acquitted Fall and Doheny of conspiracy, while another jury which heard only about the Sinclair sum found Sinclair not guilty with conspiracy with Fall.

The defense today built the ground work of its effort to show Fall had little to do with the awarding of the Elk Hills lease and nothing to do with inserting the preferential clause in the Pearl Harbor contract, giving the Pan American company preference to Elk Hills leases.

Fall Faked Illness. Soon after the court had ruled the government could introduce testimony of Fall's negotiations with Sinclair as showing his intent, Frank Hogan, chief defense counsel, called the court's attention to articles printed in Washington papers concerning remarks made on the floor of the senate yesterday about the Fall trial. He

PREMIER BIDS STATES ADIEU

Niagara Falls, N. Y., Oct. 15 (AP)—"Farewell, America, Hall Canada," were the dual messages today of Ramsay MacDonald, Great Britain's prime minister, as he passed from the one country into the other.

There was little formality to the crossing of the international line, represented by a narrow painted white strip in the middle of the Falls view bridge which towers 195 feet above the Niagara river meadows below the falls.

Mayor Charles F. Schwazy of Niagara Falls, Ont., and members of the Ontario park commission gave the British statesman a simple welcome before escorting him to Queen Victoria park, where luncheon was served before the MacDonald party boarded a special train on the Canadian National railway for Toronto, Ottawa, Montreal and Quebec.

In a farewell message to the American people, Mr. MacDonald said he left them "rich with the proof that while the Atlantic divides, the cause of peace unites us." He added that this was the message from the American people which he was taking back home with him.

HYDROGEN GAS TRAPS 4 MEN

Deaths Follow Dearborn Pumping Station Accident

Detroit, Oct. 15 (AP)—Trapped at the bottom of a 50-foot well near an excavation for a new branch pumping station at Dearborn, two workmen were killed by hydrogen sulphide gas this afternoon, two others who went down to rescue them were overcome and are expected to live.

The dead are: Tony Scarlino, 39, and Cipriani Francisco, 26. The two in the hospital are John R. Scheel, an inspector for the Detroit water board, and Carl M. Nacker, a host operator.

Scarlino, wearing a gas mask, was working at the bottom of the well attempting to cut pipes from which the gas was escaping. After about an hour he came to the surface and collapsed, falling back into the well. Francisco put on the mask and went down to rescue Scarlino but he too was overcome. When he failed to return the other two men descended. Persons on the surface could see the four bodies but were unable to reach them because of the gas fumes.

SOVIETS TAKE CHINESE TOWN

Tokyo, Oct. 15 (AP)—Controversy between Russia and China over the Chinese Eastern Railway situation in Manchuria is reported to have entered a new phase with the striking of one of the heaviest blows that the Soviet forces have yet delivered in the Quasi-war on the Manchurian frontier.

Chinese official dispatches received here report that Soviet land and water forces struck Sunday night and Monday morning at the confluence of the Amur and Sungari rivers along the Manchurian frontier.

Reports agree that a Russian force estimated at 800 men crossed the Amur river Sunday night under the cover of artillery and occupied the tow of Linkiang-shien on Chinese territory. There have been no reports of Russian withdrawal and it was therefore thought possible that the attack differed from previous border raids when no attempt was made to hold hostile territory.

The controversy between Russia and China in Manchuria grew out of the ousting of Russian officials of the Chinese Eastern Railway by the Manchurian government. The Chinese asserted they had taken this action because the Russian officials were using their posts in the dissemination of Communist propaganda.

PUT BILL OVER TO DECEMBER

Opposing Senate Factions Agree On No Agreement

BY HAROLD OLIVER (Ass'd Press Staff Writer) Washington, Oct. 15 (AP)—Negotiations between contending factions looking to an understanding to speed up senate action on the tariff bill halted abruptly today after the Republican independent opposition group decided that no agreement was necessary.

All sides agreed there was no use attempting further conferences, so the tariff bill apparently is destined to final settlement in the regular session beginning in December.

As if sensing the failure of the group conference, the senate put on speed today and disposed of six amendments to the bill, but along came other developments to threaten further delay in reaching the rate sections.

ACCEPT BIDS FROM LONDON FOR JANUARY

TOKYO, PARIS, ROME FORWARD THEIR REPLIES

London, Oct. 15 (AP)—Unofficial acceptance by all countries of the invitation issued by Great Britain for a conference looking toward naval limitation to be held in London in January had been received tonight. The fact that the initial difficulty in arranging for the conference had been thus quickly surmounted gave general satisfaction here and great hopes were expressed that some of the inevitable difficulties in reaching even a partial agreement may be smoothed away before the conference actually assembles.

Officially Pleasé. Washington, Oct. 15 (AP)—Active preparations for the five-power naval conference in London in January are expected by American officials to begin this week in the capitals of the interested governments.

The developments in Tokyo, Paris and Rome looking toward the participation of each of the powers invited by Great Britain to the conference were watched closely by American officials. The text of the Italian reply, the first acceptance to be forwarded to London since that of the United States last week, was received at both the state department and the Italian embassy. It will not be made public here, however, until after publication in London.

While there has been no official announcement here, all indications point to Secretary Stimson as the official to head the United States group.

Study System to Develop Airmail, Merchant Marine

Washington, Oct. 15 (AP)—A study of how the letting of mail contracts can aid the development of a merchant marine and a national airplane system has been undertaken by the administration.

The problem has been submitted by President Hoover to the air branches of the postoffice, commerce, war, and navy departments.

The president is interested in finding out if it will be possible to determine certain national routes with a view to strengthening them for passenger service by support from the postoffice department.

A greatly similar situation is considered by administration officials to apply to the merchant marine.

President Hoover believes that if a definite rate structure can be laid down the air mail will be greatly facilitated.

Circus Elephant Goes Mad, Doomed To Death, But How

Corpus Christi, Texas, Oct. 15 (AP)—Isolated from the crowds he had been so accustomed of seeing, Black Diamond, nine-ton circus elephant, today remained trussed in his death cell—a circus freight car—awaiting a spell of madness to subside that he might be taken out and executed.

The massive elephant's execution was ordered after he caught Mrs. Eva Donahoe of Kerens, Texas, in his trunk as Corsicana, Texas, Saturday and whipped her to death after injuring a former trainer.

Owners of the beast today refused an offer of the Corpus Christi Chamber of Commerce to defray expenses in having Black Diamond executed in what they advanced as the most humane way possible, that of drowning.

The chamber's plan was to have the animal's car switched to the wharves, to tie 30 tons of lead to his feet and to have two tugs drag him into the bay.

Circus officials feared the beast had not come out from under his jungle madness sufficiently to permit trainers and attendants to unchain him. They said it was possible that Black Diamond would be executed while the circus is showing at Kenedy, 90 miles north of here.

gram in the December session. If the bill could get into conference by Dec. 1, it could of course be under consideration by a conference committee in December and January without interfering with the regular calendar of either house.

Nearly every senator who comes from a state which happens to be concerned with tariff duties will want to express his opinion and make a record before his constituency. Much of the speaking-remains to be done and that is why nobody is willing to predict whether a tariff bill can actually be enacted before the first of next year.

learned, he said, they might have reached the jury, but the court assured him they had not.

Hogan referred to a speech by Senator Heflin in which the Senator charged Fall was feigning illness.

"Aside from being an obvious tissue of lies, the remarks were of the most poisonous and deliberate character," shouted Hogan. "I say they were a tissue of lies, because the basis of them known to your honor and to government counsel, and to all men in this case, to be utterly unfounded, unless four doctors of the highest reputation in this community, selected by the court, decided this court."

Hogan asserted the remarks were made with "brutal frankness" and proclaimed to be "for the purpose, with the intent in the hope they might influence this case."

TRIBUTE PAID TO METZELAER

Was Considered One of Most Valuable Fish Experts

The death of Dr. Jan Metzelaer has suddenly removed from the field one of the most valuable fish experts this state has ever known and although he had been actively connected with the department of conservation but six years, his investigations and experiments with fish during that time have proved of incalculable value to the state in the past and will be still more highly appreciated in the future.

This was the tribute paid by Fred A. Westerman, head of the fish division of the department of conservation to the man who lost his life while in the active performance of his duties, a week ago.

Dr. Metzelaer joined the department of conservation in 1923, coming from Holland where he had been head of that nation's fisheries. Besides being active in departmental fish affairs he was also custodian of the fishes in the University of Michigan museum, and made his home at Ann Arbor.

His first specialized work for the department was in cooperation with Carl L. Hubbs of Ann Arbor, in a survey of the Au Sable river. Then Dr. Metzelaer took up a task that had been practically abandoned for 30 years, a survey of Michigan's streams and lakes. Dr. Metzelaer organized this work and carried it on actively for the six years he was employed by the state.

Study of food habits of Michigan fish by Dr. Metzelaer resulted in two bulletins that are considered highly authoritative. Dr. Metzelaer had also just completed a detailed report of smelt in Crystal Lake following an intensive investigation.

One of the studies of Dr. Metzelaer, but known to the public, was the trout tagging operations that he began in 1923. Dr. Metzelaer succeeded in tagging several thousand brown, brook, and rainbow trout and important results are just now being compiled.

Surveys of several of Michigan's most important inland lakes to determine their fish content and other data relative to fish were carried on by Dr. Metzelaer. Houghton and Gogebic Lakes were investigated and Dr. Metzelaer was at Grand Lake in Presque Isle county, starting such a survey there when he was drowned.

The small boat from which he was laying nets overturned in heavy sea. G. McCrimmon, who was with Dr. Metzelaer, succeeded in holding to the boat for four hours until help arrived. Dr. Metzelaer although a reputed good swimmer, was carried down by the rough water.

HEADLIGHTING.

THERE CAN BE NO DOUBT that the state conservation department is in dead earnest in its effort to break up the practice of headlighting deer in the Upper Peninsula. Arrests made and confiscation proceedings started during the last few days indicate clearly that the department is on the job and there is every reason to believe that it will stick to it as long as it is necessary to clean up a nasty situation.

For the violators who have been nabbed and whose automobiles and weapons have been confiscated there can be no atom of sympathy. They knew the law and they knew what the penalty would be if they were caught. They decided to take a chance and they guessed wrong. Their tactics and actions prove that they have not the slightest claim to the title, "sportsman."

The true sportsmen of the peninsula are backing, in every way possible, this campaign of the conservation department. Those who really have the interests of conservation at heart, and who wish to see the wild life of the territory preserved so that law-abiding citizens may have an opportunity to enjoy it, will lend a hand whenever the opportunity is offered to swat an outlaw hunter.

Neither the state, nor the organized sportsmen, nor the great army of unorganized conservationists are ready to turn the woods and the waters and the wild life of the district over to the poachers. The fight is still on. It should continue indefinitely because it seeks to preserve something that is worth preserving.

TEMPERANCE EDUCATION.

THE SUPERINTENDENT of the Michigan Anti-Saloon League, addressing an Escanaba audience Sunday, advocated the carrying out of a nation-wide campaign of scientific temperance education, designed to point out the physical, mental and economic effects of the use of alcohol. "The truth must be told about alcohol," he said. "It is a toxic poison. The fact is that in this day of efficiency standards, mass production, safety devices and extreme social and intellectual demands, alcohol simply does not fit in. It belongs to a slower and a lower age."

There is no doubt that prohibitionists, battling for anti-liquor legislation, permitted the cause of temperance education to fall by the wayside, in spite of the fact that it was upon decades of teaching and preaching the evils of over-indulgence in alcoholic stimulants that the whole moral cause was built. No great moral problem ever has been solved by legislation alone. There must be something more than the mere fact of a law's existence on the statute books to make it effective.

In scientific temperance education lies the future of prohibition. Education answers the question "Why?" and there will be no lasting solution of the problem until the people have been convinced of the "why" of the dry laws.

A GREAT BALL CLUB.

THE PHILADELPHIA Athletics lived up to the most enthusiastic expectations of their admirers by defeating the Cubs four games to one in the world series. The Athletics displayed all of the ability that had been claimed for them but what was even more impressive, they exhibited a brand of courage which never has been surpassed on any big league diamond. The dramatic manner in which they fought back to ride over seemingly insurmountable barriers in the fourth and fifth games was striking proof of their highly-tuned fighting qualities.

Perhaps their veteran manager, Connie Mack, is the real reason. The 67-year-old pilot, for the last 15 years, has been fighting to build a ball club that could win another world pennant for him. No manager has done more "shopping around" for material, or tried out more combinations, or give more youngsters a chance, or taken a last chance on more slipping veterans than has Mack. The result for years was merely to arouse the amused smiles of the baseball public. They thought the old man was all through.

Finally he succeeded in rounding up his present ball club. This season made a most impressive chapter in American League and world series history.

Those who have followed the career of the white-haired Philadelphia leader through the years of his battle to regain the supremacy his club once held, are thrilled and enormously gratified by his success.

WORTH STUDYING.

THE AUTOMOBILE law that went into effect in Wisconsin last May is considered superior to the compulsory insurance law of Massachusetts for various reasons, and it will bear watching by other states, including Michigan.

Under the Wisconsin law no driver of an automobile is compelled to have insurance. However, if through negligence he causes injury to another person and a judgment is obtained against him in court, he must pay the judgment or lose his license to drive.

The Wisconsin law puts insurance companies in the position where they can refuse to insure a man who is a menace as a driver. Obviously if a driver cannot meet a judgment, because he does not have insurance and his license to drive is revoked, he is no longer a menace on the highways.

UNCLE SAM, FURRIER.

FIFTY YEARS ago sealskin coat, when women having $500 or $600 lying around loose could get one that costs $1,200 to $1,500 now. At that time there were not many who could afford them. That was the time when the Alaska seal was murdered by all and sundry, the males, females and young. The seal neared extinction, a few years later, and then Uncle Sam stepped in and said he would do all the killing in the future. Under careful conservation for more than 30 years, the herd has grown from 30,000 to 40,000 to nearly a million, and Chief Warden Bower says that 40,000 skins will be taken before this season closes, more than for any year in over 40. Uncle Sam not only kills the seals, but tans, dyes and prepares the fur for market. He gets a good wholesale price, and the money goes into the United States treasury.

Dartmouth's football team is claiming national leadership in total points scored this season but the Eastern statisticians have not yet heard about Rock high school.

A New York husband complains that his wife telephoned him 204 times in one day. Even then he probably forgot to take home whatever it was she wanted.

Four Big-10 football teams have no captains this year, presumably because the lowest rank a football player can hold in the Big 10 is that of lieutenant colonel.

The cost of football is too heavy, complains an eastern college president. We have no objection if he wants to reduce the price of tickets.

AMUSEMENTS

AT THE DELFT.

That students learn more things in college than football is demonstrated in "Words and Music," a campus musical revue, which will be today's feature at the Delft Theatre. It is a Fox Movietone all talking, singing, dancing picture.

"Words and Music" has a love story revolving about a competition staged at Darnell College for the best musical comedy number produced by a student. Lois Moran, making her debut as a singer and dancer on the audible screen, plays the lead. David Percy, who won his spurs as a Fox Movietone performer in "Fox Movietone Follies" and "The Black Watch," plays opposite her. Tom Patricola, Broadway's most famous eccentric dancer, plays a role and stars in a "hot" dance number.

The story is fast and entertaining from the outset. There are eight songs—every one of them a hit. James Tilling, veteran Fox director, directed the story and Frank Merlyn, Broadway producer, staged the dialog.

AT THE STRAND.

Alfred L. Werker, who directed "Blue Skies," coming to the Strand today, produced by Fox Films, loves children, a fact that mothers of the 100 or more youngsters used in making the picture, discovered the first day on the set.

One enthusiastic parent started trouble for Werker when, at the end of the day's work, she lifted her offspring to the level of Werker's face and instructed the child to "kiss Mr. Werker good night." Other mothers, not to be outdone, followed suit and soon there was a line of considerable length waiting to pass in osculatory review. On the following day, however, Werker made different arrangements.

When the mothers lined up the kiddies for the good night kiss, he announced he had adopted the plan of President Hoover, who, during his recent campaign, declared he would shake hands with the babies but wouldn't kiss them.

U. P. Maccabees To Meet in Escanaba On October 17th

Escanaba Hive L. O. T. M. will be hostess to the members of the Cleveland Association Ladies of the Maccabees which will convene in this city Thursday October 17. The Assistant State Commander Frances E. Burns of Detroit, and District Deputy Ida M. Scott of Manistique, will come to this city for the meeting which will open at the North Star hall, Thursday forenoon at ten o'clock. A luncheon will be served at noon at the home of Mrs. Fred Johnson, 1318 South First avenue, and the afternoon session will be held at the North Star hall at 2:30 o'clock.

It is hoped that all Maccabees of this city and surrounding places will make an effort to attend this meeting. Representatives from lives at Ishpeming, Manistique, Hermantown, Iron River, Gladstone, Spaulding and others will attend.

A special invitation has been extended to the members of the Rebekah lodges who are also Maccabees to attend the Cleveland association meeting while they are in this city.

The committee in charge hopes to make this meeting the biggest meeting of its kind ever held in the peninsula.

THE FINEST ORNAMENT. I still insist—while women are inclined to favor this or that—There's nothing like a cookie jar To ornament a house or flat. Mahogany and polychrome Are not what make a house or home. It's just a jar, through thick or thin, That always has some cookies in.

Some favor vases, silver ones. To candlesticks some women cling. But ask their husbands and their sons: They'll say about the finest thing Is just to follow that old plan And have within the reach of man A jar upon a certain shelf Where anyone can help himself.

A house can be a house without. A sort of home a sort of way. But really there should be about A jar of cookies, as I say. A jar you needn't look to find, And old stone jar—you know the kind— One friend at least a fellow's met Who never failed a fellow yet.

ANNUAL ROAD REPORT MADE

$38,000 to Be Levied for New Construction in County

A sum of $37,400.49 for county road maintenance and $38,000 for highway construction, making a total of $75,400.49, makes up the budget of the Delta county road commission for the ensuing year.

The road construction projects for the ensuing year are: Garden road, $5,000; Oiler road, $15,000; Boney Falls road, $5,000; Ford River Switch road, $6,000; Bark River road, $2,000; and Cornell road, $4,000.

Commissioner's Report
The following report was submitted to the board of supervisors by the Delta road commission Monday:

"The Rock-Oiler road has been cleared, grubbed, ditched and graded for about four miles, new culverts installed and considerable partial grading done on the remainder.

"One mile of new location of the Boney Falls road has been constructed, new culverts put in and considerable patching of the worst portions throughout its length.

"The relocation of a portion of the Danforth road made necessary by the change in the fairgrounds was graded and surfaced on a line of North Fourteenth Street, extended west to the old road.

"The Gladstone-Carroll's corner road was completed last fall after the October meeting, as was also the resurfacing of the peninsula and portage roads.

"Snow Removal Heavy
All county roads have had continuous maintenance and have been on the average in satisfactory condition. Last winter was again a severe one and the snow removal was very heavy, but the roads were open so nearly 100 per cent that we think the traveling public was satisfied. In this connection, we find it necessary to add at least two more heavy truck plow units, as the older ones are worn out and are no longer suitable for this work.

"Our new quarters at the Tannery building have proved to be all that we hope for, and we are now able to take care of all equipment in much better shape than we were ever able to before. We feel that this was one of the best investments we have ever made.

New Construction
"Trunk line maintenance is getting better every year. We put in for the state ten miles of road and resurfaced two miles more of the old macadam and the improvement has been very marked. We are now putting in additional gravel on U. S. 41, north of Rapid River.

"Our plans call for an additional ten miles of road next year which will practically take care of all the rough macadam, and with the new construction now under way, our trunk lines should be in very good condition.

"Regarding future trunk line construction, the Escanaba-Gladstone section, including the new bridge and three grade separations, should all be completed by the middle of next summer. The work on U. S. 2 from Hyde to Powers is all under way, the grade will be all finished next year and we hope a considerable part of the paving."

13 Criminal Cases In Menominee Court

Menominee — With 13 criminal cases on the calendar and the probability that nearly all of them will be tried and with a dozen other jury cases, a dozen divorces and several other chances coming up, indications are that the October term of circuit court, which convened at the Menominee court house Monday, will require the greater part of two weeks to complete.

The criminal calendar includes a varied list of charges, including manslaughter, rape, assault and battery, embezzlement, theft of automobile, negligent homicide, second offense drunken driving, carrying concealed weapons, chicken stealing, larceny and non-support.

State vs. Iner Berg, city, rape. Case has been pending for several terms of court, due to inability to get Wisconsin witnesses to testify.

State vs. Walter Kell, Wilson, assault and battery. Complaining witness in action as Axel Bouty, town clerk of Spalding.

State vs. Rudolph Steloff, city, embezzlement. Midwest Commercial Credit corporation is the complainant. The case involves the alleged failure of defendant to account for funds amounting to between $4,000 and $5,000 received for automobiles held the paper.

State vs. Magnus Johnson, now of Milwaukee, non-support. Case probably will be dismissed as Johnson's wife divorced him and married again.

State vs. Ray Parrette, Cedarville, non-support. May be continued as defendant is declared to be supporting his family now.

State vs. William Bauschek, Powers, manslaughter. Bauschek will be arraigned for the alleged killing of Louis Treaden with a blow of his fist on the Duke farm near Powers where both were employed as farm hands. Bauschek is said to admit the facts of the encounter with Treaden, but if they constitute manslaughter is to be determined.

State vs. Victor Revall, Daggott, non-support. Revall disappeared for seven years abandoning his family but was apprehended on the seven-year-old warrant at Ashland, Wis.

State vs. Irving Beyer, city, driving away an automobile without authority from the owner. Beyer is alleged to have taken and wrecked the Lincoln sedan of Postmaster E. W. LeRoy of Marinette, after it had been stolen by "Sonny" Beavals, who later was placed on probation in juvenile court.

State vs. Walter Winter, Stephenson, negligent homicide. Winter was the driver of the car which struck the automobile in which Miss Edwina Hall of Daggott was killed a week ago last Saturday night.

State vs. Jacob Laundree, Wallace, second offense drunken driving, carrying a jail sentence of one year maximum.

State vs. Tom Diachuk, Milwaukee, larceny of lumber.

State vs. Tom Diachuk, carrying concealed weapons.

State vs. Tom Diachuk and Edward Lee Curtis, Milwaukee negro, larceny of chickens in Wisconsin and transporting them into Michigan.

Diachuk and Curtis are alleged to have been members of the Milwaukee chicken thief gang operating in northern Wisconsin and upper Michigan. The pair were arrested in an old wood camp near Carney where they had a chicken yard.

Improvements in Telephone Service

EVERY effort of the Michigan Bell Telephone Company is being made toward constantly improving telephone service with the result that:

1. During 1928, operating errors were materially reduced.
2. The average time for handling calls to out-of-town points has been reduced.
3. The great majority of all Long Distance calls are handled while the calling party "holds the line."
4. Clearness of voice transmission, over both local and long distance lines, is improving continually.

This company always will endeavor to provide for Michigan a more efficient telephone service and one more and more free from imperfections and delay.

Our policy—"To continue to furnish the best possible telephone service at the lowest cost consistent with financial safety".

Bushack Pleads Not Guilty; O'Hara Appointed Defender

William Bushack, Powers, a blow from whose fist is alleged to have killed Louis Treador, Powers, on the Dulak Farm near Powers, Sunday, July 29, pleaded not guilty at the October term of Circuit Court in Menominee Monday. Atty. John O'Hara was appointed to defend him. Bushack and Treador quarreled at the farm of Mrs. Dulak Sunday, July 29, while she was attending church at Spaulding. Treador died that night and Bushack disappeared. Police officers hunted for him in Iron county after he had taken a bus to that city. He had not heard of the death of Treador until a C. and N. W. conductor told him of it when he boarded a train for Watersmeet at Iron River. He immediately gave himself up to the officers in Iron county and has been awaiting trial in Menominee county jail since that time.

Public Reception at Coliseum Hall Is Attended by Large Crowd

JEWELS GIVEN TO REBEKAHS

Grand Ball and I. W. C. Banquet Are Today's Features

The public reception, which was attended by 1500 persons, and the impressive ceremony, at which about fifty women were awarded the Decoration of Chivalry, were the outstanding events on yesterday's program of the annual convention of the Grand Lodge of the I. O. O. F. and the Rebekah Assembly of Michigan.

Morning and afternoon sessions will be held by both lodges today, climaxed by the grand ball at the Coliseum in the evening in honor of Mollie E. Crowe, assembly president, and Henry S. Sweeney, grand master of the I. O. O. F. The Escanaba Municipal band will give a street concert in the early part of the evening.

Three Cities Want Meet
Flint, Owosso and Battle Creek are making a bid for next year's convention, but announcement of the selection will not be made until Thursday. The officers of both lodges for the ensuing year will also be announced on the closing day of the meeting.

A special event on this evening's program is the Isers, Waters and Comers banquet to be held at the Delta hotel at 8:15 o'clock. About a hundred and twenty-five persons will attend, including past and present Grand Lodge and Rebekah officers.

Grand Master Henry S. Sweeney of Detroit will be the toastmaster. Introductions will be made by Mollie E. Crowe, assembly president. Addresses will be delivered by Herbert A. Thompson, past grand master of the Michigan Grand Lodge and past grand sire of the Odd Fellows of the World; and Mrs. Jessie Thompson, past president of the Rebekah Assembly of Michigan and also past president of the Association of Rebekah Assemblies. Judge Herman P. Dehnke of Harrisville, grand herald, and Dorothy Reiser, Wayne, Assembly outside guardian, are scheduled to make brief remarks.

Toasts will also be given by L. P. Sutcliffe, grand warden of the Michigan Encampment; Major General T. Calver Crowe, department commander of the Patriarche Militant, and Minnie McRitchie, president of the Ladies Auxiliary to the Patriarche Militant. The group singing will be led by Etta Smith, assembly secretary, and Thomas Dow, grand marshal. A solo will be sung by Jessie Weage, assembly vice president.

Coliseum Packed
The Coliseum was packed for the public reception held in the afternoon. John P. Norton acted as toastmaster. Addresses of welcome were delivered by Councilman George G. Genlesse, due to the absence of Mayor William H. Needham, George N. Harter and C. H. Griddle of Hermansville. In making the response in behalf of their respective organizations, Henry S. Sweeney, grand master, and Mollie E. Crowe, Assembly president, expressed their appreciation for the hospitality shown by the people of Escanaba for the cooperation in arranging for the convention. Both officers told of the history and growth of the I. O. O. F. and the Rebekah lodges, defining the principles of each order and reviewing the wonderful humanitarian work being done by them.

It was announced that Fred A. Rogers, Lansing, grand secretary, and Fred A. Cutler, Ionia, grand treasurer, were unable to attend the convention because of illness. This is the 5th time Secretary Rogers has missed attending a Grand Lodge session in 36 years. Miles Gray of Lansing was announced as acting secretary, due to Mr. Rogers' absence. Present and past officers of both lodges were introduced to the audience by C. H. Griddle, Hermansville, past grand master. Matt Petersen, Escanaba, who was chairman in charge of the local plans for the convention, and Secretary H. P. Lindsay of the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce, who gave much assistance in the work, were also presented.

A tremendous ovation was accorded Britt Hall, Escanaba singer, who sang several solo numbers at the public reception. He was accompanied by M. J. Lang at the piano.

Decorations of Chivalry
The ceremony of the Decoration of Chivalry authorized by the Sovereign Grand Lodge and conducted by the department commander of the Patriarche Militant I. O. O. F., assisted by the Caupons, a staff of officers, and lady assistants which was held at the Coliseum last evening at 8 o'clock was very impressive. In this ceremony a jewel is bestowed upon the Sisters of the Rebekah Degree, recommended through the Rebekah Lodge of Canton, because of meritorious efforts in the fraternal and benevolent field of Odd Fellowship, her labors for humanity, purity of action and general loveliness of character. The jewel is not presented indiscriminately to anyone wishing to possess it, but strictly as a reward of merit.

During the intermission Miss Lydia Olson of this city sang a solo. The ceremony was in charge of Dorothy M. Reiser of Wayne, who is the Assembly guardian. The following women were honored at the reception: Rose Anderson, Margaret E. Baird, Escanaba; Nellie Anderson, Elizabeth Bussy, Christina Clem, Ida Kivel, Marie Harrington, Mabel Oke, Port Huron; Rowena Asam Mayme Auten, Jeanette Beaudin, Mary A. Brush, Florence Dunlap, Alberta W. Docking, Lulu Eves, Gertrude Gerhart, Mary Kenny, Alice Johnson, May McKinney, M. A. Meeks, Leola McKinnon, M. A. M. McDermid, Clara T. HEALTH

In his easily readable book on "The Care of the Skin and Hair," Dr. William Allen Pusey speaks briefly of the hygiene of shaving and of the barber shop. It is practically impossible to be really hygienic in a barber shop. Everyone ought to have his individual comb and brush, razor and soap. He ought to be sure that the barber washes his hands thoroughly with soap and water before each customer. He ought to be sure that the razor and brush are dipped into antiseptic solutions at regular intervals.

Every cut and abrasion on the skin ought to be treated with an antiseptic solution and pimples or other sources of pus should be wiped with hydrogen peroxide solution or alcohol before and after shaving. Instead of this, the barber shop is likely to use witch hazel as an antiseptic, which is so weak that it will not prevent infections. The barber is likely to touch bleeding places with a styptic pencil which is likely to be moved on from one wound to another.

Most barbers use a common brush and comb, clipper and dusting brush and very few barbers indeed wash the hands thoroughly before each new customer; hence it is not surprising that there are fairly frequent cases of infections of the skin sustained in barber shops and that infections are passed on from one person to another.

It is really remarkable that there is not much more infection than is actually the case. This is, no doubt, due to the fact that the human being has tremendous possibilities in his body for resisting infection.

The winter season will soon be upon us. Already the chilling blasts of fall roughen the hands and cheeks of the visitor to football games.

Chapping does not usually occur in warm weather, because the skin secretes sufficient oily materials from perspiration to keep the skin well greased and oiled. When skin gets dry it chaps. When skin gets chapped and moistened with water, blood and serum ooze through the cracks and crusts form.

Obviously, the method of preventing chapping of the skin is to keep the skin protected by suitable oils, to wash the skin only with non-irritating substances, and to dry the skin thoroughly after washing. The only way to escape the dry air and wind is to wear gloves on the hands and to keep the skin protected by other methods.

Women usually accomplish this by liberal use of creams and powders. Men are usually not so much troubled, because they have tougher skin.

If the chapping is very severe and painful, it is probably wise for women to wear gloves invariably and to wear a light veil to break the force of the wind and to hold in the moisture.

Conservation Dept Offers Movies of Wild Life Scenes

Walter Hastings, photographer for the department of conservation, will not be available for lecture work through the state this fall or during the coming winter or spring, according to Director George R. Hogarth.

Substituting for Mr. Hastings, a film loan service will be inaugurated through which organizations and clubs will be furnished with wild life and scenic motion pictures. This service will be ready about November 1. After that time any organizations wanting these films should write to the Division of Education for a folder which will describe the pictures and will enclose a schedule when the pictures will be available.

A large volume of assembly work on new motion pictures will require Mr. Hastings to be in Lansing until next spring, Director Hogarth said, making it necessary to discontinue lecture work. Hundreds of requests have been received annually from all parts of the state for Mr. Hastings' illustrated lectures. Last year it was physically possible to fill only about 50 per cent of these requests. It is anticipated that the loan service will enable the department to fill all requests.

CHAPTER I

THE boxes that came for Helen Page always caused excitement at Miss Spann's School for Girls.

Miss Spann's girls were smart and up-to-date and quite often their own clothes bore the label of a Fifth Avenue shop. But few of them possessed even a single garment with a Paris label in it.

All the clothes that came for Helen were Paris originals. Helen did not know, so she could not explain, that her guardian had them brought over by a friend who made frequent trips abroad—a friend he had never allowed Helen to meet.

As a matter of fact she had met none of his friends. But this friend had perfect taste and Helen's clothes were the envy of her schoolmates.

Just now they were engaged—all who could crowd into her room—in helping her open the two large packages that had come that afternoon.

Helen was less interested in the new things than in the coming visit of her guardian himself. She was thrilling happily to the thought of it. For Leonard Brent was more to Helen than just a guardian in the common sense of the word. She had given him the adoration of an untouched heart, without question of the manner in which he might guard the gift.

Of his guardianship of herself Helen had no complaint. It was lonely sometimes when the other girls, all but one or two, were away at home for holidays and the summer vacation, but there was always Leno's next visit to look forward to.

"Oh, Helen, just look at this dinner dress!" one of the girls cried, holding up a periwinkle blue chiffon creation. "Don't you love it?"

Helen took it and rushed over to the mirror in the closet door. "I'll wear it tonight," she exclaimed, holding it up before her, judging its lines.

"You ought to take that V out of the back," one of the girls remarked as Helen held the dress off and studied it. Helen shook her head. "Leno wouldn't like it," she said.

"Don't you ever get tired of living up to his freak ideas?" someone asked her. "It must be a strain."

HELEN smiled. She had been through this before. That her guardian was strict and old-fashioned about her rearing and education everyone knew. But Helen delighted in pleasing him and so did not mind having her modernism limited in a measure.

"Of course Helen can get away with the role of Miss Simplicity because she's descended from Helen of Troy," another girl put in sarcastically. "But I'll bet old guardian could go blow a whale if she needed a beauty treatment."

The flush on Helen's cheek belied the words. Someone laughed.

"That old guy's a whole course of beauty treatments in himself," the girl who had laughed declared. "Watch our Helen glow. No facial could do so much for her."

Helen whirled upon the speaker. "Old guy!" she repeated belligerently. "Leno isn't old. Not more than 35 anyway."

"Absolutely decrepit," the other girl returned.

"Don't be silly, Agatha," she was admonished by still another girl. "Mr. Brent is the most distinguished looking man who comes here."

"The most distinguished man in New York, I'd say," put in the girl who had suggested making the dinner dress more décolleté. "When Helen and I went down to town last Saturday we saw him at the Ritz . . ."

"At the Ritz! Shallimar Morris, you never had enough money to lunch at the Ritz!"

"Why be a goose?" Shallimar retorted undisturbed. "Of course not. We went there to see what's being worn. Mr. Brent came in . . ."

"Did he take you to lunch?"

"He was with a date," Shallimar explained patiently.

All the girls were interested, for Helen's guardian was a topic of unending interest in their conversations.

"Bet she was dressed like Queen Mary and had the manners of a Victorian Dutchess."

"Not at all," Shallimar hastened to assure them. Then she turned to Helen. "Shall I describe her?" she asked.

Helen shrugged. "What's the use?" she said. "Just because Leno thinks there isn't anything funny about teaching a girl to be a lady they imagine he's a dodo."

"Oh, don't be a meany Helen. Go on, Shallie."

"Well, I just wish you'd seen her for yourselves," Shallimar began uncertainly. "She was smart as could be and not a bit stiff."

"Did he introduce you?"

"No . . ." Shallimar's glance sought Helen's. The latter hastily turned away. "No, we decided he wouldn't have any use for a couple of school girls just then," Shallimar went on, flushing a trifle under her suntan powder.

"You don't mean to say you passed up a chance to meet one of Leno's lady friends!"

HELEN spoke up sharply. "You needn't call him Leno just because I do," she said.

The girls laughed. "Oh, we wouldn't think of getting familiar to his face, if that's worrying you," one of them said. "We wouldn't want him to think we aren't proper companions for you. He might take you away from us and put you in a more fashionable school."

"Yes, you know I've wondered, Helen, how he happened to place you here at Spann's," the girl Agatha admitted with youthful frankness. "The Ritz, and French originals! He could do better by you in the way of schools. If my dad could afford it I'd be at Elmalcan. It's exclusive. All the girls come from six-car families at the very least."

"I'm quite happy here," Helen declared. "And now will you all get out please? I want to try on some of these things and dress for dinner."

"I wonder you don't put Shallimar out too," one among them grumbled as they departed. "She has eyes the same as we have, Miss Prim."

Helen laughed. She could afford to be good-natured. Tonight she would dine with Leno at the inn—and dance with him.

Shallimar helped to clear the beds of boxes and tissue paper. She was Helen's roommate and quite used to removing things to make sitting room.

But on this occasion she wore a slight frown. Not that she minded having her portion of the room overrun with Helen's belongings. She was thinking of Helen herself, wonderdering if she wasn't a bit of a fool to fall so hard for her guardian's ideas. There was that woman they had seen him with in town, for instance. She certainly looked as though she knew her way about; not at all the sort of person that Mr. Brent seemed bent on making of Helen. Shallimar didn't think it was fair.

And then there was the way Helen had acted on that occasion. Afraid to intrude, Shallimar thought. And Helen hadn't explained why she had drawn back abruptly as he passed with his unknown companion. But Shallimar knew she was aware of the queerness of her act for since the trifling episode Helen had been reluctant to speak of it.

HELEN observed the frown on Shallimar's darkly beautiful features and a bit of her elation over the news that Brent was coming vanished. She hated to be a mystery to her roommate. Shallimar had confided her intimate affairs unstinted and Helen felt guilty over withholding her own secrets.

Secrets! With her life itself just one long secret how could she confide anything? The thought had troubled her through many wakeful hours.

But she could see that Shallimar was seriously disapproving of her now. Often the dark granddaughter of a Spanish dancer had warned her that she would lose her individuality if she tried to remake herself in an outmoded mold.

Impulsively she decided to explain her reason for not making for me to meet any of his friends or acquaintances and I know he wouldn't want it to happen by accident.

Shallimar scoffed. "Afraid they will contaminate you probably. But that's going to be pleasant for you when you leave school, isn't it? Who are you going to know? What are you going to do? He won't be able to create a set of Priscillas and Prudences just for you to associate with."

"He says we're going to travel," Helen explained.

"And show the world one American girl who is natural and unspoiled. I see. So that is what you are being groomed for."

"I don't know, Shallie. Maybe it's just that Leno believes girls ought to be natural and unspoiled."

Shallimar laughed again. "After the lady we saw him with you can't pretend that he prefers unspoiled girls for himself."

Helen flushed darkly red. Shallimar had found the chink in her armor, either by accident or design. This woman they spoke of was not the first sophisticated, modish female that Helen had seen in Leonard Brent's company.

Once on paying him an unexpected visit she had found him entertaining a charming friend whom he had hurriedly sent away—afterward scolding Helen for her surprise.

And Helen had not been blind to the fact that his choice of friends among the gentler sex was quite decidedly for the women of today. Why, then did he want her to be so different?

Helen's hands trembled as Brent took them in his own and kissed their fingertips.

ing her presence in the Ritz known to her guardian. She put down the stocking box in which she was putting away her new hosiery and came over to sit on Shallimar's bed.

"You think I have the makeup of a mouse, don't you, or that I believe children should be neither seen nor heard?" she began half-teasingly. But under the light tone she adopted there was a hint of appeal for tolerance from her friend.

"Oh, if you want to efface yourself that's your business," Shallimar answered; "provided you really want to."

Helen spoke softly. "I do, when Leno wishes it," she admitted.

Shallimar gave her a straight, quick look that Helen found made her uncomfortable.

"Yes," she went on, reading Shallimar's thought. "I'd do anything for him."

"Are you jealous of him?"

Helen started and reddened. "Of course not," she said quickly.

Shallimar laughed. "You don't mind his being with a knockout like that woman we saw and yet you're so crazy about him that you have to tingle with delight over obeying his slightest wish. Something's wrong with the picture, Helen. But tell me, has he forbidden you to speak to him in public?" She ended tauntingly but Helen was invulnerable to the jibe. Delicate sarcasms, and broad, were favorite weapons of the girls at verbal grips with each other.

"That's what I want to tell you about, Shallie dear," she said quietly and Shallimar was instantly disarmed. She opened her eyes a little wider and then narrowed them in anticipation. Was Helen actually going to open up?

"There's a reason, but I don't know what it is, why Leno wants me to grow up to be what he calls a lady. Please don't laugh. You know there is a difference between girls who take refinement and good form seriously and those who don't."

"What if there is?" Shallimar interjected impatiently. "Is that any reason why you have to give up even a dab of rouge along with cigarets?"

A TENDER smile wreathed Helen's lips before she answered. "Maybe Leno does carry it a bit far," she agreed, "but what I wanted to tell you was that he has never ar-

Helen's heart sank anew at every repetition of the question. For the answer was always the same. Leonard—Leno—did not regard her as she regarded him. He might not be in her mind, too aged for her fancy to weave a love dream about him, but it was her great fear that he regarded her as a child.

"Don't be a goose," Shallimar exclaimed sharply. "Be yourself, Helen. Cut out the ingenuity. You're 18, you know. I don't approve at all of your falling for Mr. Brent, but if you want to get anywhere with him you won't allow yourself to be a football for his notions. Not while you have proof that his personal taste is contrary to all he is making of you."

Helen answered with a half sob. "Sometimes I think I'm just naturally uninspired," she said, fishing a fresh handkerchief out of a box.

SHALLIMAR rushed over and put an arm about her. "No, you're not, honey. Don't you see? No one but a person with a lot of character could do what you're doing. And that's why I think it's a shame that you should try to be anything but yourself. It just happens that Mr. Brent wants you to be a throwback. If you thought he liked modern youth as it's sometimes pictured to make a story or a sermon you'd flame to high heaven to please him."

Helen wiped her eyes and blinked back the rest of her tears. It was pretty hard being the ward of a man you were in love with—a man who had loads of fascinating women friends—and to know that you were just a . . . a sort of experiment with him; but hard or not Helen hated tears. They were too much in keeping with the character being thrust upon her.

"Well, anyway," Shallimar said cheerfully, "he doesn't dress you in hoops and bustles. I can't quite get his idea. An old-fashioned girl in the latest word in clothes."

"I don't get it either," Helen confessed. "But I'm grateful for the lovely things he sends me. I'd hate to look funny."

"As you would if he wanted you to," Shallimar sniffed. "I hope I never fall in love if this is what it does to a girl. But honestly, Helen, I don't think you're in love with him, really. He's got you hypnotized, that's all."

Helen was pinning her thick yellow hair up on her head preparatory to taking a shower bath. She smiled at her reflection in the mirror. How little Shallimar knew about the grand passion her great brown eyes said to those in the glass. She pitied Shallimar. For no matter how much it hurt to be in love it was an experience not to be missed.

And it made having a new dress ever so much more exciting. "Shall I wear silver slippers or the blue moire?" she asked, facing about and forgetting that her dearly beloved Leno would very likely remain unstirred by any choice she made among the things in her plentiful wardrobe.

"Wear the blue—silver's overdue," Shallimar advised. "And here's a bar of that soap Aunt Cecilia sent from Hungary. You'll love the odor. It's lasting but that won't matter since your barber won't permit you to use perfume."

"HE DOESN'T object to a delicate scent," Helen corrected as she took the cake of clear green soap and disappeared into the hall. She ran down to the bathroom but, early as it was, she found all the tubs and showers in use and had to wait 10 minutes for her turn. The girls were forever upsetting the bathing order established for them by the house rules committee. It did no good to grumble even if you had to hurry back to your room and content yourself with a sponge bath, aided by a rubdown with cologne. The facilities for luxurious living at Miss Spann's were limited. Still, the school had a reputation for worthiness that kept its enrollment full and things went on as they were.

When Helen returned to don her crepe de chine dancing set and the periwinkle dress she was aglow with well being and happy anticipation.

Shallimar stood by and offered well meant suggestions that were entirely ignored. No, not even a hint of lipstick, and certainly no eye shadow. Helen was firm.

"Not that you need it," Shallimar cajoled, "but there isn't a woman born who can't be made more beautiful. And you want to look beautiful, don't you?"

Helen consented to having her slightly water-shined nose powdered and she allowed Shallimar to arrange her heavy hair in a way that permitted one adorable little ear to invite a caress, but that was as far in modern allurements as she would go.

Finally Shallimar announced herself satisfied. Helen gave her a swift hug. "It's funny about you," she said impulsively. "You hate to see me going out with Leno, I know you do, and yet you do all you can to make me devastating to him. Why is it, I wonder?"

Shallimar shrugged. "I suppose it's because when two women aren't after the same man they are allies against all men."

"I hope I can do as much for you some day," Helen acknowledged. "Which wrap shall I wear? I want to be downstairs when Leno comes."

"You don't want to lose a minute before asking him about last Saturday, do you?" Shallimar teased.

"No, I wouldn't dare do that," Helen told her; "but there's something he has promised to do for me. I'm anxious to remind him of it."

She was in the closet now, running her finely modeled hands over the row of wraps that hung there behind a cretonne curtain. She seemed uncertain of her choice. Her mind was not on the wraps. She came out with a black and white one. Shallimar gasped. "Helen, not that! With blue slippers?"

Helen regarded it. "It would be a bad combination, wouldn't it?" She threw it on the bed and turned back to the closet. This time she selected a gray velvet.

THE nod of approval Leonard Brent gave her a few minutes later rewarded her for her exercise of taste.

Helen's hands trembled as Brent took them in his own and kissed their fingertips. It was not a serious gesture; but it delighted the girl whose love of romance, and love of love itself, had settled upon this handsome, worldly man.

As he bent his head and looked at her from dark eyes that turned up slightly at the outer corners, following the line of his satanic eyebrows, her heart pounded alarmingly.

She could not fathom that look, part mocking, part triumphant, part amused. But Leonard Brent could not be wholly laughing at her. Oh yes, she was aware that he knew of her feeling for him. There was something in his glance that made it possible to endure his knowing; something not altogether of mockery and amusement.

"You're looking lovelier than ever," Brent said to her and the words were uttered warmly.

Helen longed to say that he too was looking very well had she not felt it would be too artless to compliment him. He might want her to be simple, but not a simpleton.

But she allowed her eyes to feast upon him and Brent understood her as though she had spoken. He permitted no hint of his understanding to show in his manner. A long and varied experience with women had accustomed him to their admiration.

Helen's feet seemed scarcely to touch the flagstone walk as they made their way out to Brent's car, a long, narrow convertible. Tonight it was open and Helen had an instant of regret that she was not to sit in the delicious intimacy it afforded when closed. But the feel of a soft breeze, warm with the promise of summer, brought a surge of pleasure that held no place for regret.

It was a short drive to the inn—a drive in May-scented twilight. Helen's thoughts were tuned to the sheer delight of the wind in her face, the lift of her hair about her face, the racing hope that sped with her.

At the inn, before they left the car, she turned to her companion, her lips apart and her eyes seeking his. "Leno," she said softly, wistfully, "tonight you will do what you promised?"

"Tonight?" Brent repeated.

"I can't wait any longer," Helen urged. "You must tell me. You promised, when I finished school. That will be soon. I've tried to be patient, but you've no idea what it means not to know anything about yourself except your name. And I'm not even sure of that."

Brent's lips took on a cross determination. He spoke sharply. "Don't be a nuisance and spoil our evening, Helen. I'll tell you everything as I promised, when you graduate."

Helen sat very still, facing her disappointment. Brent put an arm about her. "There is one thing I want to know," he said, "before I tell you who you are."

Pair Bound Over To Circuit Court For Stealing Car

Arraigned on a charge of auto theft before Justice of the Peace W. G. Stephens, Mark Roman and Patrick Foley of Mueller township pleaded guilty and were bound over to circuit court. Bond was set at $1,000, which they were unable to furnish and they were committed to the county jail to await trial at the next term of court.

The theft occurred Sunday evening when a coupe belonging to E. T. Lundstrom was taken from its parking place. Sheriff Hewitt was notified and after a search found the car, damaged and abandoned on U. S. 2, east of here. It had been run dry of oil, the motor burned and a tire rim ruined.

Following tips Sheriff Hewitt finally located the men at Seal Choke, where they were working on the Inland Steel project for contractors Merritt Chauman and Scott, placed them under arrest and brought them to this city.

DRIVER HITS PARKED CAR ON NINTH STREET

Sedan Owned by William Green Badly Damaged

A Star sedan, property of William Green, was badly damaged when George Belangie, 630 Voorhies avenue, smashed into it a few minutes after it had been parked on North Ninth street near the Jones residence.

The impact of the car driven by Belangie sent the car down the street, smashing it up against the steps of the Buckeye boarding house.

The Belangie car was badly damaged but the driver and his two companions escaped injury. Inquiry at the Belangie home revealed the fact that the young man had taken the car without permission.

He disappeared shortly after the accident and has not been heard from since.

A warrant has been issued for his arrest and he will be taken into custody to answer charges of failing to stop after an accident, as soon as he is found.

Mr. Green who had parked the car, had left it just a minute before the crash, and fortunately there was no one in it at the time.

FINE ADDRESS AT ROTARY

Rev. H. W. Colenso Speaks On International Goodwill

An interesting feature of the program given Monday evening at the Gladstone Rotary club dinner and social, observing Ladies' night, was a fine talk on "The Sixth Object of Rotary," given by Rev. H. W. Colenso, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal Memorial church.

Introducing his subject, Rev. Mr. Colenso repeated the Six Object of Rotary—"The advancement of understanding, goodwill and international peace through a world fellowship of business and professional men united in the Rotary ideal of service," describing it as the culmination of all other objectives.

"As a rule," the speaker said, "Americans are not international-minded. They do not understand the conflicts which have existed for so long among other peoples of the earth. They are concerned with today's business and tomorrow's development and take little time to study the past."

"So many of us are realists and it is sometimes dangerous to be a realist in that his chief ingredient is cynicism and cynicism has no logical sequence except assassination and suicide."

"It was the realist who spoke when the words 'We have killed all night and have caught nothing,' were uttered and let down your nets. Realism dabbles in detail and is bound by the narrow confines of experience. Idealism seeks effects and ends and is always breathlessly awaiting a miracle."

"And out of the idealism of Rotary has emerged an influence which has clutched the imagination of the world—a growing consciousness that we must understand each other."

Rev. Mr. Colenso, developing this theme, spoke of the need of a kindly spirit in interpretation of facts which are necessary in that knowledge is the first element in international friendship.

"Knowledge, of itself, is not enough," he explained, "we must have the right attitude of mind and we must not keep our minds closed to the good qualities of other nations."

"International friendship is perhaps one of the last acquired virtues of mankind, a fact that is lamentable because international friendship leads to international peace."

"Let us dwell upon the similarities and not so much upon the dissimilarities between nations," he continued, "we may have different languages but our ideas are not so widely divergent. We all believe more or less in treaties for the outlawing of gas in war."

Detroit, Oct. 14 (AP)—A three-quarter million dollar breach of promise suit ended abruptly here this afternoon less than three hours after a jury had been sworn in and opening arguments started. Counsel for both plaintiff and defendant requested suspension of the case to permit a settlement out of court.

The suit, brought by Miss Bertha Cleavenger for $750,000 against John H. Castle, Detroit real estate dealer, alleged the latter had promised her to wed and then had suddenly married another woman. The plaintiff said the first knowledge she had of the marriage was a newspaper announcement seen the day after she and Castle had been together.

Attorneys for both sides declined to reveal the basis on which the settlement would be affected but it was understood Miss Cleavenger would receive in excess of 100,000. Definite terms of the settlement will be made next week at which time Judge S. Homer Ferguson will be asked to dismiss the case.

Detroit Revamps; Heilmann Sold To Cincinnati

VETERAN ON TIGER STAFF TOP HITTER

Recruits Will Fill Vacancies in "Bucky" Harris Shakeup

Detroit, Sept. 15 (AP)—The rumored shake-up in the ranks of the Detroit Tigers appeared to have commenced today with announcement of G. F. Navis that Harry Heilmann, veteran Detroit outfielder, had been sold to the Cincinnati Reds, all clubs in the American League agreeing to waive on his services.

Heilmann's purchase, which was effective today, brings to a close more than a decade of service with the Detroit club. The veteran was brought here from the Pacific Coast League. Heilmann has been among the leading hitters in the American League.

Rice, Shea Going

Early in September rumors of an impending shakeup in the Tiger camp began to appear. "Bucky" Harris was reported laying plans to rebuild the club from the ground up. Heilmann was mentioned among those slated to go. Other players who may be sold, released, or traded, include Harry Rice, Merwyn Shea, Johnny Prudhomme and Ed Phillips, according to followers of the club.

The vacancies thus created in the Tiger camp probably will be filled by a flock of recruits who have been getting their rough corners worn off in some of the minor leagues.

Heilmann came to the Detroit club from Portland, Ore., in 1914. He was returned to San Francisco and played with that club under an optional agreement until 1915, after which he came back to Detroit, playing regularly ever since with the exception of 1918 when he was in the navy. He was the oldest Tiger in point of service. His batting average topped the league list in 1921, 1923, 1925 and 1927.

REDS HAVE SHAKEUP

Cincinnati, Oct. 15 (AP)—The first step to rebuild the Cincinnati Reds for the 1930 pennant race was taken today by Sidney Well, the club's new president, who announced Dan Howley, recent St. Louis Browns manager, would pilot the team next year, and that Harry Heilmann, hard-hitting Detroit outfielder, had been purchased outright from the Tigers.

Howley succeeds Jack Hendricks, leader of the Reds since 1924. He has had three years managerial experience in the major leagues, all with the Browns. His team finished fourth in the American League this year while the Reds landed in seventh position.

Mack Wanted Heilmann

Well secured the controlling stock of the Reds less than a month ago and immediately announced he would make the club more of a factor in next year's flag chase. He said he would trade all but three of the present roster, if necessary, to improve the team. The

Cub Fans Receive Their Money Back

Chicago, Oct. 15 (AP)—Refunding of the money for the sixth-game tickets to the world's series will start Thursday at the Boulevard Bridge Bank, Wrigley building, Chicago. William L. Vecek, president of the vanquished Cubs, announced today.

The original plan provided for the refunding to start tomorrow, but the Cub management arranged for the refunds to be made in cash at the bank to ticket holders who appear in person.

Those wishing their refunds by mail should address their tickets to the world series teller, at the Boulevard Bridge Bank, and refund will be made by cashier's check.

Approximately $210,000 will be refunded to holders of the sixth-game tickets.

Dempsey Will Put On Another Card At Chicago, Oct. 30

Chicago, Oct. 15 (AP)—Jack Dempsey was granted permission by the state athletic commission today to stage his second boxing venture at the Coliseum, Oct. 30. The former world's heavyweight champion plans a card of heavyweight bouts.

Three were Captain Hugh Critz, second baseman; Lucas, pitcher, and Evar Swanson, first rookie outfielder.

Aquisition of Heilmann, former leading batter of the American League, was made, Well said, at Howley's suggestion.

Well said Connie Mack, leader of the new world's champions, wanted to add Heilmann to his array of sluggers but finally waived on him. Well completed the deal today over long distance telephone. The purchase price was not announced.

IRON MOUNTAIN NEXT ON CARD

Eskymos Will Travel Away From Home This Week

Coach Puckewitz' Eskymos will travel to Iron Mountain this week to play their first game of the year away from home. For many of the wearers of the orange and black jerseys, it will be their first encounter on foreign soil.

The Puckmen were given a much needed rest Monday evening and no practice session was held but the grind was resumed last in earnest last evening and the task of developing the boys for the Iron Mountain game will constitute a week of arduous scrimmages.

There is no feeling of disheartenment in the local camp as a result of their defeat at the hands of the Maroons last Saturday; on the contrary, the spirit displayed is one of determination to avenge the setback. The local high school athletic teams have a distinctive record of always coming back strong after a defeat.

The Thunemmen displayed remarkable strength last week by playing the powerful Stambaugh team to a scoreless tie. In their first game of the season with Iron River, they made a comeback in the final minute of play after trailing 6-0 for almost the entire game and finally emerged with a 6-6 tie.

The session last evening was devoted to a summary of the errors made against Menominee and a review of what might be expected against Iron Mountain. A tight defense will be worked out this week in preparation for the Thunemmen.

SERIES OVER, PLAYERS TURN TO COIN SPLIT

Philadelphia, Oct. 15 (AP)—The calm that follows the storm today lay over Shibe park where the tumultuous crowd of yesterday in turn groaned at or cheered the changing fortunes of the Cubs and Athletics.

Connie Mack, the leader of the new world's champions, went to Atlantic City to rest up and some of the players visited the ball park to gather up personal belongings before going home for the winter.

It was made known that each of the players entitled to a full share of the world's series money will receive $5,521.50. The players recently agreed upon those who should be rewarded outside of those entitled to full shares.

It was voted to split the money into 25th parts. Twenty-four players received full shares. The 25th was split. Seventy-five per cent went to Oesle Orwell, who played with the A's through the worst of the season only to be sent to Milwaukee in exchange for Le Bourveau, who was awarded the other 25 per cent. It was announced that Orwell would receive a full share, the club management making up the other 25 per cent.

Full shares were awarded to Coaches Kid Gleason and Earl Mack, the latter Connie's son, and Trainer Doc Ebling.

Jimmy Cronin, utility infielder, and George Burns, substitute first baseman, who joined the team after the schedule had been underway, both received full shares.

Eddie Collins, captain of the Athletics, George Earnshaw and Bing Miller are planning a hunting trip with Joe Bush, former Mack pitcher, and Sam Jones, of Washington. They will go to Fredericton, New Brunswick, Canada. Bing Miller will make a flying visit to his home in Vinton, Iowa, before taking the hunting trip.

Howard Ehmke, hero of the opening game of the series, and Mickey Cochrane, star catcher, are considering several offers to become the battery for independent teams in games around this part of the country before it becomes too cold for baseball.

Al Simmons and Jimmy Fox are going to barnstorm following the banquet for the team Thursday night.

Fox and Simmons are to play in Milwaukee Sunday, and then will work their way westward to the coast where they will continue to play until the time limit on barnstorming expires. A few weeks from now.

47-POUNDER IS COLLEGE FRESHMAN

The smallest freshman ever to enroll in the University of Illinois, and perhaps at any American college, is George P. Brown, above. He weighs only 47 pounds and stands exactly 48 1/2 inches high. Of course, he isn't going out for Bob Zuppke's football team, even though Lou Gordon, giant Illinois tackle, seems to have made a deal with him, as Lou is shown above with George in his arms. However, little George P. Brown was a cheer leader while in high school at Mattoon, Ill., and he may rate a similar post at Illinois.

Athletics Loom as Best Bet For Season Of 1930

BY BRIAN BELL (Associated Press Sports Writer)

New York, Oct. 15 (AP)—A massive White Elephant will cast a dark shadow over the American league during the off-season for baseball. The Athletics, securely placed in the front line trenches, will be difficult to dislodge.

Connie Mack, standing alone as the sole fourth tier offender against National league clubs in world's series, probably will remain the directing head of the playing forces for a least three seasons. He then will be 70 years of age.

His present great machine should hold together for several years. The world's champions offer a well balanced combination, the enthusiasm of youth being tempered by the experience of veterans.

Boley May Go
Mr. Mack's first change among his regulars may be at shortstop. Jack Boley had a trouble with his arm last year and was an uncertainty until the 1929 season was well on its way. The heir apparent to the shortstop throne, however, already is in court. Ernie McNair, who joined the team from Knoxville, just before the season closed, may be ready to pick up Boley's glove when he casts it aside.

Quinn and Ehmke probably will not go much farther on the baseball journey. But the other stars of the pitching staff are in the prime of the Athletic lives and Bill Shores and Bill Breckinridge are more youngsters, waiting for their chance.

Stars All Young
Bing Miller is the oldest outfielder but he will not have to retire yet awhile. Mule Haas and Al Simmons are the same age, 26, and should be factors in the Mackian offensive for many years.

Six months before another baseball season is scheduled to start, no serious threat appears against the hard of Mack. The once invincible New York Yankees must be rebuilt and it is unlikely that they will be able to challenge next year.

Cleveland is up and coming but the Indians are not yet a good ball club. Leaving their situation much the same as that confronting the Yankees. The St. Louis Browns, Washington Senators and Detroit Tigers cannot reasonably expect to be transformed into championship contenders overnight. The Six, White and Red, face even more necessary reconstruction.

Two More Pennants?
If the 67 year old Mack can get in two or three more world's series before he retires from the turbulent bench to the calm of an executive office, he may leave a mark for baseball generations yet unborn to attack.

The wise old man is a better insurance risk today than he was one week ago. According to his own statement Saturday's game, when his "boys" came from behind to score ten runs in an inning, increased his life by at least five years. The even more remarkable climax of the deciding game Monday must have tacked another ten years to his prospective longevity.

If his expectancy of life was increased 15 years in the series just closed, he may go on managing the team indefinitely.

The Athletics' manager crossed the world throughout the world's series. He may do the same in prolonging his reign in baseball.

NORWAY WILL INVADE ROCK

Little Giants Will Get First Real Test Next Saturday

Rock, Oct. 15 (By Special Correspondent)—The Rock high school football team will have its first real test of strength Saturday when the Norway high school aggregation invades the local football field.

The Norway team, which already has impressive victories over Crystal Falls and Vulcan, is the first team of any strength in the upper peninsula that has been willing to book games with Coach Weingartner's Little Giants. The game already played by the locals were against smaller schools and second string elevens of the larger schools.

The local eleven has victories over Barga Parochials, Niagara Gooman, Wis., Escanaba Reserves and St. Joseph (Escanaba) Reserves. On these five teams, they have amassed a total of 386 points to a lone touchdown in the closing minutes of play by the Goodman aggregation.

The St. Joseph Reserves were clearly outweighed and outclassed Saturday in the first part of the game by the regulars, as Coach Weingartner used all of his men who will constitute next year's team, in the last half of the game. The quarters were also shortened.

In an effort to have the team in the best of trim for the Norway fray, Coach Weingartner drove his proteges in a very hard practice Monday afternoon. Feeling that the team hadn't worked hard enough in Saturday's game to warrant an afternoon of limbering up, Coach Weingartner decided to do his heavy scrimmage work early in the week to permit injuries to heal should any occur.

Williams, of Escanaba, will referee and Bartel, of Escanaba, will umpire. The head linesman will be named later.

RACE RESULTS

BY ORLO L. ROBERTSON (Associated Press Sports Writer)

New York, Oct. 15 (AP)—With the best of the Rancocas stable thoroughbreds on the ailing list, the three-year-old Donnan has stepped into the gap to uphold the colors of Harry F. Sinclair.

Coming from behind today in the Magorhy purse at Laurel, the consistent son of Donnacora whipped a classy field of three-year-olds at six furlongs for his third successive victory. Incidentally Donnan has been out of the money only twice this year.

Running second to the Rancocas sprinter was Kopeck from the Mount Royal stable while a length and a half back trailed Port Harlem, the classy filly owned by Martin Finn.

Following the burning of a five-hundred-year-old farmhouse at Chilton, England, recently John H. Garrett has been arrested, charged with arson.

Cubs in Gloomy Procession Wind Their Way Home

Chicago, Oct. 15 (AP)—Gloom and heartsick, Joe McCarthy and his vanquished Cub warriors came home from their unsuccessful world series battles today. Five hundred faithful met and cheered them but somehow failed to make them forget.

Except for the courageous banter of Kiki Cuyler and Guy Bush, the team acted like a funeral procession. Hack Wilson and Gabby Hartnett wept shamelessly and the others, Manager McCarthy included, acted like bad boys who had been whipped and were remorseful.

Even owner William Wrigley, Jr., who had his heart set on a world's championship this year, was unable to conceal his sorrow even though he did tell the homecoming greeters that next year would be different.

Hack Pathetic
"Don't worry boys," Wrigley told the fans and his players. "Let's try to forget now. What is done is done. We'll come back next year and then it will be some other team's turn to feel the way we do now if any team can feel that way."

Hack Wilson, who lost a fly ball in the sun during the disastrous seventh inning Athletic rally in the fourth game, was a pathetic figure. The big fellow forced his way out of a crowd of admirers with tears streaming down his face.

"Let me alone now, fellows," he said as he choked and sobbed. "I haven't anything to say except that I am heartbroken and that we did get some awful breaks."

No Vaudeville Booking
"The best team didn't win," McCarthy said. "The best manager won. I'm proud of my boys. Never has any team fought harder than they did."

First baseman Charley Grimm and Cliff Heathcote, utility outfielder, caused some merriment and some more sympathy when they confessed their contract to stage a vaudeville act had been cancelled.

"We were going to play and sing a song," Charlie grieved. "It was 'I'm flying high but I've got a feeling I'm falling.' The booking agent thought we'd get hissed off the stage with that and I guess we would."

With that the Cubs went to Wrigley field, checked in their togs, drew their pay checks for several October games and scattered here and there.

Owner Wrigley and President William Vecek refused to discuss reports they were attempting to buy Pitcher Dazzy Vance from Brooklyn and Third Baseman Whitney of Philadelphia.

Can't Fool This One

PREPARES FOR JUG ENCOUNTER

Captain of First Alger Team to Grab Cup to See Game

The St. Joseph warriors will battle Munising here this week in the annual clash for the Little Brown Jug which is now in possession of the Alger county aggregation.

Coach Brunelle has been stressing a pass defense this week in preparation for Munising. His proteges showed up exceptionally weak in that department last Saturday.

Mileski and Legault are still out of practice with sprained ligaments but it is believed they will be able to get back into the harness the latter part of the week.

The originator of the Little Brown Jug feature, Joe Artwee, captain of the first Munising team to capture the traditional trophy will be here this Saturday to witness the annual clash.

Designs Landing Field For Use In Trans-Ocean Hops

Cambridge, Md., Oct. 15 (AP)—A model of the Armstrong Seadrome which the inventor, Edward R. Armstrong, hopes will make trans-Atlantic air lines possible through 400-mile hops, was launched in the Chesapeake bay today for a series of tests which are hoped will prove the invention's seaworthiness.

Tests on the model, one thirty-second of the size the inventor hopes to use in the ocean, will, he said, furnish data which will enable engineers to compute to within five per cent the strain which will be exerted on the larger seadrome.

Plans for the regular size floating landing field call for a forty-room hotel, repair shops and hangars for the planes. It will be 1200 feet long and 200 feet wide at each end, widening to 400 feet in the middle. It is to rise 80 feet above water level, with 170 feet below the water line. Held by a fifteen-ton anchor, it will weigh, when in position, 35,000 pounds, supported by 32 buoy-like legs.
